October Fourth, 1909.

Dear Mama,—

My address is established. You see I was so awfully homesick for a couple of days between the time the novelty wore off and the getting used to everything that I didn't seem to belong but now I am really a part of William Smith College and think it the greatest institution on earth. I can only give you an imperfect idea of how lovely it is. I only wish I could share it with you.

Your letter came this morning and I was never so glad to get anything in my life for when I wrote the last letter, I wanted you to tell me to come home right away and the day after it was sent I was afraid you would; like the man that was sea-sick and was afraid he would die the first day and afraid he wouldn't the<sup>2</sup> second. Your letter just set me at rest for you are getting on all right without me and now I enjoy every minute here, the girls are so pleasant and sociable I like the work now that I am fairly started.

I am going to see
about my gym start today.
Perhaps later the flannel bloomers will be best. My clothes are fine for the present. Maybe later I might like another evening dress, just a simple one but light colored.

The Biology is all right after getting used to it. At any rate it is better than blowing yourself up in Chemistry

I am glad you are getting on so well in the way of house-cleaning. It is you that must have all the pleasure you can for I am having it all the time now.

I don't know whether you met Isabel long or not. She is dark and looks quite a lot like Reba but they are the direct opposites in manner. Isabel is very earnest but very pleasant. I like her ever so much. They say her sister is fair and just as easy going as she is conscientious and that she rather annoys Isabel with her frivolity. Isabel also has three little brothers. I can't tell you about all the girls at once for it would fill a book, but think all I'll have to say when I get home.

Elsie is never than you would think. I like her ever so much. She is not at all selfish; we each use the table when we want it which is seldom at the same time. As to her having selected, I got the best of it, for I appreciate the position of my bed as the nights get cooler and we keep the windows open and the cheffoniers holds most the most. All the girls from last year have the cheffoniers and the new girls that room with them the dressers.

Friday night we had a spread, that is the Sophomores did and we were all there. We get lots to eat both at meal times and in between and we are always hungry. Two of my boxes are gone. We even eat between classes at the Hall sometimes. Saturday afternoon we all went down-town, at least most of us and to the Sythia Spring. It is a sulphur water and the odor isn't very pleasant but it is the prettiest fountain and lovely and cool and smooth to drink. It is in a little house and is a pretty spot in the midst of the busy part of town.

at night Mrs. Hussey arranged a "heart" party. Hearts in lots of fun and we progressed. Mr. Spartus and Mr. Dean, the first the physical training director who is a good teacher and doesn't let us do too much, and the other one of the professors, called after the reception, I mean made their party calls. They played too and after we danced some and two of the girls made fudge in chafing-dishes. We had a splendid time.

Yesterday I went to the Presbyterians church with the Presbyterians in the morning and to chapel in the evening. I like the chapel service. I think the two seats in the transept would be nice for you. When we came home, we were all up in Isabel's room and helped her eat a box of Hugel's, that a boy had sent her.

Now it is time for gym and I must get ready. It seems as if I never finish saying things but this will do for this time. With lots of love Gladys.
