Southeast Porch — first floor

Motto: "You're in Style When you're Wearing
A Smile." Reporter, E. Sides

Are you coming to the circus? No? Then take it from me you are missing a wonderful time for it isn't every day that such a marvelous performance is given. Every girl has her individual act from the leading of the band to the filling of hot air balloons. The latter job was awarded Miss Lincks as she is an expert.

Our circus offers untold amusement to the adult and the child alike. You may travel miles but nowhere will you find Miss Burgess' superior when it comes to acrobatic ears. How they can wiggle! This is a famous art that now, alas, has become rare and we recommend Miss Sambera as the highest exponent of this ever intriguing act.

Then there is the renowned pair, Mr. O. Smith and Mr. Sides, the tallest and shortest persons in the san. We challenge you to show their equal.

Now, a circus is not a circus without a clown or two. Let me introduce Mr. Ward and Mr. Ball. Their antics are the keystone of the whole show, that is in connection with the band. The band, although small being limited to Messers. Jeffrey, Carter, Strickland and Edington can produce more noise on that wonderful instrument of modern times, the chewing gum, than any other in the san. What they lack in harmony they make up in artistic interpretation.

The great success of this world-known circus is due in great part to the genius of that imposing and majestic figure, the ring master, Mr. Smith. Buy your tickets early and avoid the rush.

Mr. Sides wanted to know the quickest cure for tuberculosis and Mr. D. Smith the hospital nuisance, answered the question for him. However, in order to save the doctor trouble in answering I might say that the quickest cure for t. h. is to insert your head in a bucket of cold water three times and take it out twice.

EAST PORCH

Motto: Laugh and Grow Fat.
Reporter, Mabel Brown.

We welcome Mrs. Combs to our porch so make yourself at home and enjoy the outdoors. The best season of the year is here. Grasp the opportunity that is yours and keep that appetite and you'll soon return home well and happy.

We certainly do miss Ma and Audrey but glad they are able to put their feet on firm foundation again. Would you believe it—they took half the noise with them. We wonder if Ma has made any preparations toward manufacturing the paste and if Audrey has put up the peanut stand yet.

After Mabel had mimiced several different animals Mrs. Combs said, "What will we do when Mabel goes to the Pavillion?" Ruth said, "Oh Well, we'll get another animal in her place."

Misses Beatrice and Mildred McDonald of Talihina visited the East Porch girls recently.

MEN'S COTTAGES

Mr. Sid Willis returned to his home in Kingston April first. We were sorry to see him leave but are glad he has recovered and is able to be home again.

Mr. Fern Moyer who recently came over from the hospital has left the sanatorium.

We miss Messers. P. E. Chambers and Henry Ineichen who were moved to the hospital and hope they are improving rapidly. In their places we welcome Messers. Joe (Josephine) Schaskell and Bob (Roberta) Parker from the Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Leigh and Mrs. Henry Hearne of Van Buren, Arkansas, visited Henry Hearne March 19.

"Count yourself again, you ain't so many."

"Stick a thermometer in your lips, sweetie, you ain't so hot."
