The Test

The test of a man is the fight that he makes,
The grit that he daily shows;
The way he stands on his feet and takes
Fate's numerous bumps and blows.
A coward can smile when there's naught to fear,
When nothing his progress bars;
But it takes a man to stand up and cheer
While some other fellow stars.

It isn't the victory after all,
But the fight that a brother makes;
The man who, driven against the wall,
Still stands erect and takes
The blows of fate with his head held high,
Bleeding and bruised and pale,
Is the man who'll win in the by an by,
For he isn't afraid to fail.

It's the bumps that jar, and the jolts you get,
And the shocks your courage stands:
The hour of sorrow and vain regret,
For the prize that escaped your hands,
That test your mettle and prove your worth;
It isn't the blows you deal
But the blows you take on this good old earth,
That shows if your stuff is real.

Dean's Message

To the Class of 1949:

My appreciation of your Class, and my satisfaction with its performance may best be understood when I tell you that you have been measured in terms of the Objectives of the Law School.

Requested recently to state those Objectives, the Faculty adopted the following statement of them:

"To train young men to enable them to become competent practising lawyers. In more detail, to aid them to become familiar with the history, spirit and fundamental principles of the common law; to train them so far as possible in the techniques of the profession, having in mind the limitations of time and the greater importance to them of the foundations of the law; to aid them to think, - to think logically and legally - to develop a legal mind; to impress upon them that they seek to become officers of the court and a part of the administration of justice, owing due fidelity as well to the court as to their clients; to arouse a zeal and enthusiasm for justice; to quicken an understanding of the American system of constitutional, republican form of government; to stimulate a realization of the responsibilities of educated men, especially men educated in the law, to preserve and protect our American ideals of liberty and freedom."

Viewed in the light of that statement, you are reasonably well equipped in the knowledge of the fundamental principles and the spirit of the law. You have been conscientious and industrious students of the law. You have apprehended the significance of the art of analysis and of legal thinking. The foundations of your structure of learning, through your own efforts and guided by the Faculty, have been well laid.

What you have thus far accomplished holds the promise of what you can do and assures you of success in your chosen profession, - the success of creditable performance of all the obligations of a lawyer. I wish for you that success. I have confidence that you can win it. You have set the course. Pursuit of it will bring you the desired rewards.

Francis L. Simpson

Dedication

FRANK L. SIMPSON

Dean and Professor of Law

A.B., LL.B., LL.M., J.D.

Frank L. Simpson became Dean of Suffolk Law School in 1941, bringing with him over forty years of rich and varied legal experience as teacher, author and lawyer. His philosophy on legal education has made Suffolk Law School one of the most outstanding legal institutions in the country.

Although advanced in years, the Dean's power of labor and love for "teaching law in the grand manner" is inexhaustible and carries with it a certain inspirational quality.

In dedicating our Yearbook to Dean Simpson, we, the Class of 1949 honor a man who has made jurisprudence his debtor.

TO THE CLASS OF 1949:

In publishing this first post-war yearbook, the students of the Suffolk University Law School, Class of 1949, are entitled to great praise.

Your class, numbering so many veterans, has proved its worth and qualities of courage, fortitude and loyalty. Representing every creed, race, and political opinion, you are truly tried and true Americans. You are now about to enter what, to my mind at least, is the noblest of all the professions—the Law. You start your careers with an unusual share of maturity, proved capacity for responsibility and well disciplined and trained minds. Your University is proud to place its seal of approval upon you. As a class, you are following in the footsteps of thousands of other Suffolk Law graduates who by their reputation, ability and learning have blazed a trail for you. You, in your turn, have the opportunity to reach even higher standards in the law and thus add greater luster to the crown of the Suffolk Law School.

If you will continue to combine common sense and common honesty with uncommon industry your future as leaders at the Bar and on the Bench is assured.

As the President of Suffolk University, I salute you individually with pride and satisfaction in your past record at the University and with complete confidence in your future.

The justified faith of A'ma Mater is and always will be with you!

Walter M. Burse.

President

For almost twenty years, he was Editor of the "Law Journal" published by the Law Society of Massachusetts. Without hope of remuneration or monetary reward, he gave unstintingly of his time and effort to the creation of a law journal for the sheer love of doing the work and to advance the ideals of the Society.

His life to us is a lesson of industry, energy and self-denial; its results will reach far down the tides of time, long after the memory of him and his labors shall have passed away from the traditions of men. His life may best be epitomized in the language of the psalmist who, in the Twenty-Fourth Psalm, described those such as Professor Cinamon and spoke of their reward in these words - "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? Or who shall stand in his holy place? He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully. He shall receive the blessing from the Lord, and righteousness from the God of his Salvation."

Professor Joseph H. Cinamon died in harness on January 2, 1948. His words faltered, but his spirit was as unflinching as ever. It was this spirit that made him a great teacher and an outstanding practitioner. He was born to the profession. From humble beginnings he rose to a position of eminence and respect in the law, yet he was ever modest and self-depreciating to a fault.

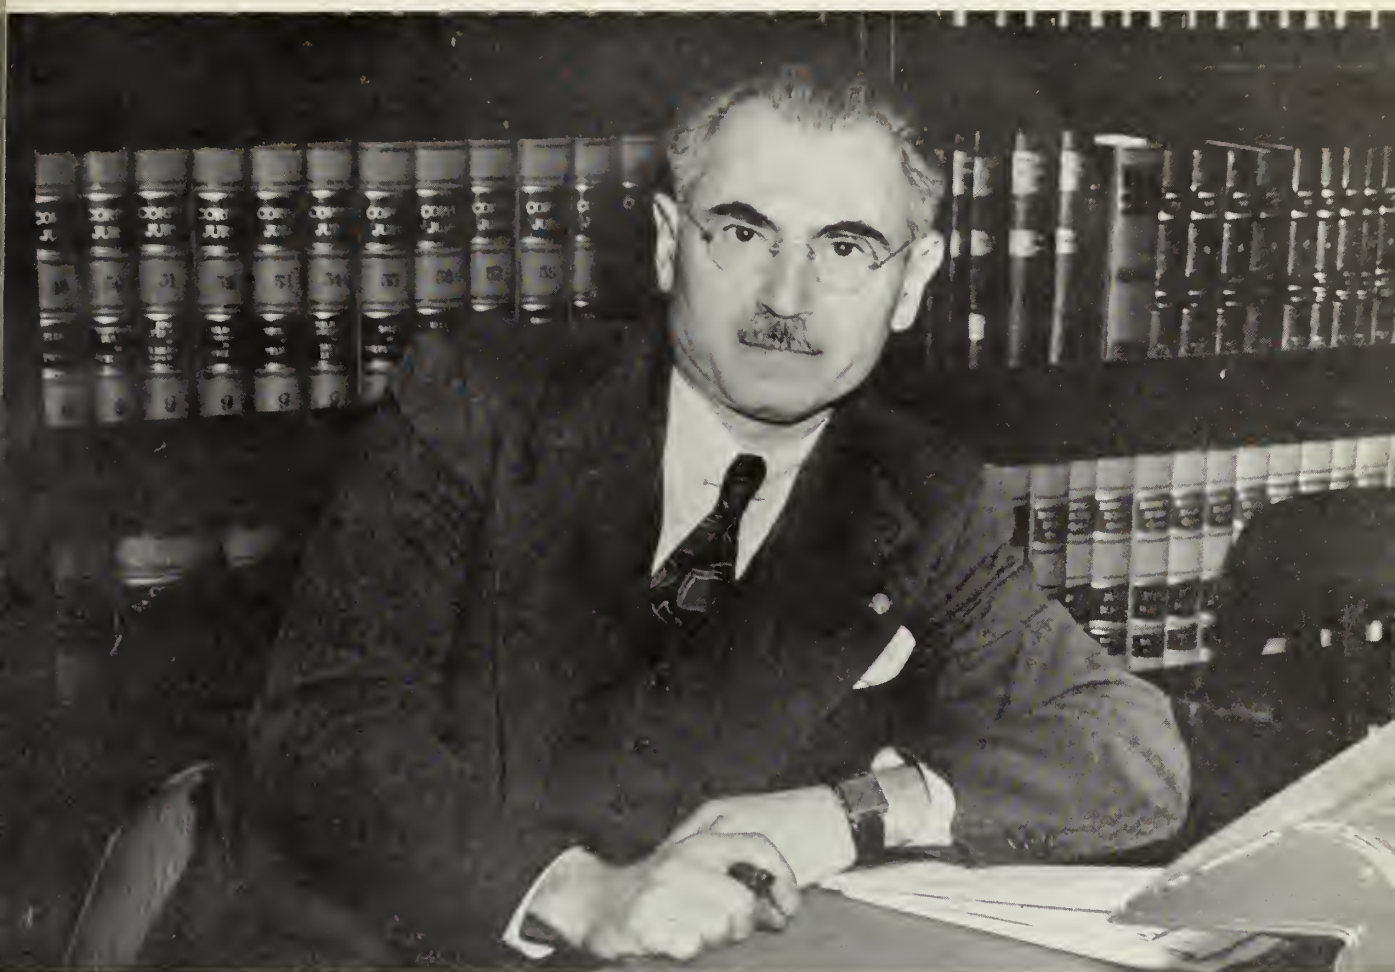

His lectures on the law of agency reflected a mind unsurpassed for clear and analytic thinking and purity of style. He possessed the rare faculty of being able to temper the academic principles with his many years of practical experience at the bar.

In Memoriam

---

Amid the labors and duties of his professional life, he found time to give himself up to communal affairs with the same zeal and sincerity of purpose that characterized his personality in the field of law. He was singularly honored by the Jewish War Veterans of this Commonwealth, who elected him to its highest office, that of Commander. It is little wonder, then, that this man took more than a usual interest in his students.

"We Are Life Tenants"

A consideration of the elemental law of life tenants emphasizes the parallel between the obligations of lawyers and those of life tenants generally.

The relation of the life tenant to a remainderman is frequently termed that of a trustee. The life tenant is a trustee in the sense that he cannot dispose of the estate to the injury of the remainderman, but he differs from the trustee in that he may use the property for his benefit. He may take the rents, the income and the profits. He may take reasonable estovers—that is, wood for fences and fuel. He is entitled to emblements, meaning the crops planted by him.

The life tenant has no right to commit waste. He is not permitted to do any act which results in permanent injury to the inheritance. The removal or destruction of buildings is waste. He cannot escape responsibility by permitting trespass or waste by others. He is required to make ordinary repairs to preserve the property.

The life tenant cannot alien or encumber the reversion. He is not permitted to give it away. Though not required to, he may improve, strengthen and beautify the inheritance for his own enjoyment and for those who follow him.

In a broad sense, all of us who inhabit the earth are life tenants. We come, and when we go we take nothing with us.

As all of this is true of people generally, it is especially true of us in the legal profession. We are not founders. We entered a profession which had been long established and which was rich in history and traditions. We have taken it as our inheritance from those who have gone before. They were life tenants. We are life tenants too. To no one belongs the fee.

The rents and the profits; the estovers and emblements; the sunshine and happiness appertaining to the inheritance are ours as a matter of well settled law, but obligations go with enjoyment. We are trustees for others. The rights of remaindermen must not be disregarded. We should commit no waste, and permit none. Trespassers should be repulsed. The edifice should at all times be kept repaired.

The Office of the Dean

Here is Suffolk Law School's genial and efficient Office Staff. Seated at her desk in the foreground is stenographer Miss Mollie Smith, of Peabody, wearing her usual pleasant smile. Standing with portfolio is Recorder Miss Amelia Liponis, of Brockton, whose cheerful willingness to assist inquiring students has been a source of gratification. In the background sits Attorney Haviland Mayo Sutton, who is Assistant Secretary of the Law School, and ever ready to be of assistance when the occasion arises. Although not included in the above photo, the Yearbook would be incomplete without giving honorable mention to Miss Mary Francis Pray, Secretary of the Law School. Miss Pray has been associated with Suffolk Law School for many years and her competency is only exceeded by her charming and accommodating disposition.

Faculty

The Faculty of Suffolk University School of Law has done an admirable job in preparing and equipping us for the tasks which lie ahead. Through their mature wisdom and experience, they have pointed the way in which we who earnestly aspire to a better world may contribute in some measure by virtue of our chosen profession.

They have made possible our "finest hour" which is near at hand. Their teachings have made a profound impress upon us, not only in the study of the law, but in shaping our lives and aims. In moulding our legal perspectives they were never unmindful of the necessity of introducing control in our experience.

If the rich rewards of human history should fall to our number, they shall be shared with a noble benefactor - The Faculty of Suffolk University School of Law.

THOMAS J. ALLEN

Entered Suffolk University from Marshall College in West Virginia. Tom is a photography and radio fan, and has participated in many sports numbering among his favorites, tennis, football and baseball. A personable young man, he should meet with every success.

A veteran of the Army Air Force.

WESLEY C. ARCHER

"Wes" came to the law school from Suffolk University. Always an outstanding member of his class, "Wes" should be very successful when he enters active practice upon graduation.

JAMES R. BAKKER

Came to Suffolk University from Putnam, Connecticut and then entered the law school. Scholarship and mastery of the spoken word are two of his dominant characteristics. A fine golfer, he was a member of the University golf team. Jim has the best regards of all those with whom he was associated for every success after graduation.

A veteran of U. S. Army
Dean's List, 1-2-3
Yearbook Committee

HARRIET D. BERMAN

Miss Berman has had the responsibility of presenting the woman's viewpoint in the field of law and, needless to say, her efforts were gratified with success. Her charming and lady-like qualities will place her in good stead in future years and have served to remind us that women have a place in the legal profession. Miss Berman completed her pre-legal training at Boston University.

JOSEPH J. BOLDUC

Received his A.B. from The Citadel, one of the finest military schools in the country. Quiet refinement marks him in all he undertakes. A fine student he should go far in the legal profession.

A veteran of the U. S. Army

SALVATORE JOHN CANINO

"Johnny" started out to become a Country Doctor but changed horses in the middle of one of Wakefield's streams and decided to give himself up to jurisprudence. In so doing, the stature of the legal profession will be strengthened. His approach to the law was masterly and his grades rarely went beyond the first letter in the alphabet. Everyone regards him affectionately and treasures his friendship. Before opening up the law books, he attended Middlesex University and Suffolk University. John plans to do graduate work and enter into the active practice of the law.

A veteran of the U. S. Army
Dean's List, 1-2-3

MICHAEL CAPPIELLO

Mike received his A.B. from Union College and then made his way back to Boston to attend our law school. We are fortunate in being able to list him among the members of our class as he is a gentleman and scholar.

DANIEL W. CARNEY

Our Class Secretary, figured prominently in school activities and was always a good source of rich humor among his many friends. "Dan" is ambitious, alert and alive with well-directed energy and is well suited for the legal profession. During the war, he served with the Navy in the Pacific Theater. Looking at the record, it would appear that he has very definite political aspirations along with practising before the bar.

Yearbook Committee

JAMES M. CARNEY

One of the Boston College delegation in the graduating class. He is interested in real estate and has an astute sense of business. Always ready with a smile and handshake, Jim should do well after graduation.

JOSEPH FRANCIS CASEY

"Joe" entered Law School after completing his pre-legal at Suffolk University, and over these years has made many friends, all of whom enjoy his keen sense of humor and good disposition. What little spare time Joe has, is devoted to his favorite hobbies, photography and music.

BARTLETT W. CHANDLER

Has made a host of friends in his three years at Suffolk Law School and his keen wit should make him many more. In appearance, attitude, and learning, Bart could well be called a typical law student. We are certain that his success will be in keeping with his manner.

JOHN CIOL

Received his pre-legal education at Suffolk. Straightforward, yet reserved is the proper description of John. Always a fine student. Wishes to enter government service upon graduation. Wherever he goes, the best wishes of the class of '49 will go with him.

A veteran of the Navy Air Force
Yearbook Committee

ARTHUR G. COFFEY

"Art" is one of Suffolk's keenest law students and possesses those qualities that make for a real person. An ideal family man. He is married and has two lovely children. Completed his pre-legal training at Suffolk University in the same grand style that marked his law school days.

A veteran of the Army Air Force

Dean's List, 1-2-3

Yearbook Committee

WALTER R. COLBY

Received his pre-legal training at Suffolk University. He is an avid fisherman and bowler. The possessor of a subtle sense of humor, he has the ability to break the tension which often comes over a group in a discussion be it in politics, law, or ladies.

A veteran of the U. S. Navy

DONALD A. COLE, JR.

"Don" is one of the most traveled members of our class having attended Northeastern, Cornell, and Muhlenberg. He was one of the finest scholastic football players in this area in his high school days. Don's personality and studiousness should be great assets in furthering his legal career.

A veteran of the U. S. Navy
Dean's List, 1-2-3
Yearbook Committee

JAMES I. CONSTANTINE

Received his A.A. from Suffolk University. Jim has worked hard and diligently in his study of the law and as a result has the feeling of personal satisfaction that comes with a task well done.

A veteran of the U. S. Navy
Dean's List, 1-2-3
Yearbook Committee

NICHOLAS C. CROSSEN

Spent his undergraduate days at Tufts and Northeastern. Nick is one of the most popular members of the class and an avid participant in all the activities of the law school. Serious and earnest. He will be a credit to the legal profession.

A veteran of the Army Air Force
Dean's List, 1, 3

ALBERT F. CURRAN

With singular unanimity, "Al" Curran was voted the most handsome student of the Class of 1949. In addition to being President of the Bachelor's Club, "Al" was elected to the Vice-presidency of the Class. An ardent sports fan. His chief interest, apart from law, lies with the gridiron. We understand he played football in high school days and was a great asset to his team. "Al" pre-legaled at Suffolk University.

A veteran of the Army Air Force
Dean's List, 1
Yearbook Committee

EDWARD K. DALY, JR.

"Ed's" constant and efficient application of effort combined with his natural genius for the law, resulted in his achieving the highest academic standing in the Class. This coveted distinction could not have been bestowed upon a finer person for "Ed" has all the traits and characteristics that make for an exemplary lawyer and gentleman. We are proud to have enjoyed his association. He prelegaled at Suffolk University before entering Suffolk Law School.

A veteran of the U. S. Army
Dean's List, 1-2-3

ALFONSO M. D'APUZZO

"Aldap" possesses the happy faculty of being able to take things in stride and render himself unmindful of the pressures of the day. Yet "Aldap" was always there when the situation demanded his presence, and not without a few priceless witticisms or amusing caricatures. His stories of the war and his tales thereof were always welcome additions to a party. He is vitally interested in sportdom having actively participated in bygone days. "Aldap" plans to practice law in his home town—Medford.

A veteran of the Army Air Force
Yearbook Committee

PETER C. DiTOMMASO

Came to Suffolk from Norwich University in Vermont. Is a quiet fellow and an ardent Philatelist, music lover, and bowler. He has a contagious personality and is a fine conversationalist.

A veteran of the U. S. Army

DANIEL J. DONAVAN

"Big Dan" is a popular and familiar figure about these hallowed walls of legal learning. His influence and presence are always keenly felt. He was a fine student of the law and doubtlessly will be an equally fine lawyer one of these days. "Dan's" sport is football having played for Danvers High and Great Lakes when the latter defeated Notre Dame. "Dan" is strictly Navy having done a four-year stretch down Pacific way. He received his A.A. degree from Suffolk University in the field of Business Administration.

A veteran of the U. S. Navy

LEO J. DOOLEY

Has a rare sense of humor combined with a spontaneous wit that always supplied us with an abundance of laughs. Preparatory to entering law school, Leo attended Suffolk University where he received his A.A. degree. Leo is an eligible bachelor.

A veteran of the U. S. Navy
Yearbook Committee
Dean's List, 1

JOHN E. DOYLE, JR.

Was extremely popular among his classmates because of his even disposition and sincere consideration for the interests of others. John was quite a busy man during his law school days between acting as a Deputy Clerk of Suffolk's Court, building a house in Stoughton, and putting the time in the books. He attended Suffolk University, North Carolina State, and Tufts Engineering School, the latter two while in uniform. Plans to practice law in Stoughton and raise a family.

MARK J. GALLAGHER

Comes to us from the United States Naval Academy where he received his B.S. degree. Mark was always active in various class discussions concerning the law. A fine student and a true gentleman, Mark will always be listed among the successful graduates of our class.

A veteran of the U. S. Navy
Dean's List, 1-2-3

VERNON FLETCHER

Quiet and unassuming. Likeable Vern does not make a pretentious showing of his knowledge of the law. His manner has obtained for him a host of friends at Suffolk.

THOMAS G. GOODWIN

Came to law school after a long and illustrious career in the advertising world. He is the only member of the graduating class who served as an officer in both World Wars. His pertinent comment on important matters was always appreciated by his younger and less experienced classmates. Tom is a holder of an A.B. and A.M. from Harvard.

A veteran of the Army Air Force
Dean's List, 1-2-3

JOHN H. GREEN

A good student and jovial fellow, John's best attribute is his ability to narrate a good story much to the pleasure of his many friends. John is planning to make Marblehead proud of his accomplishments by reaching new heights in the legal field.

LAWRENCE P. HEMINGWAY

Another of the members of the graduating class who received all of his legal and pre-legal education here at Suffolk University. Larry has a very keen sense of humor, one that almost belies his innate studiousness. He is a very popular fellow with his classmates and should go far in his chosen profession.

STEPHEN S. JEWETT

"Steve" shared honors with "Sully" Sullivan as our selection for "All-American-Boy", a distinction well-deserved. He is one of the outstanding scholars of the Class and has succeeded admirably in blending his legal capacities with outside interests, weather permitting. If we had a "Ski Club", "Steve" would be unanimously elected President and all meetings would be held on the slopes of New Hampshire. He was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1940 and Amos Tuck School in 1941. Received his A.B. and M.C.S. degrees. "Steve" loves to fly, a habit which he picked up while in the service. Upon graduation, he plans to return to Laconia, New Hampshire where his father is a prominent attorney.

A veteran of the Navy Air Force
Dean's List, 1-2-3

ROBERT J. M. JUSSAUME

Received his Associate in Arts from Suffolk University before entering the law school. Bob numbers swimming, music, and writing among his extra curricular activities. His cooperative attitude and pleasing manner should do much to aid him in the attainment of the ultimate success which should be his.

A veteran of the Army Air Force
Dean's List, 1-2-3
Yearbook Committee

PHILIP C. KEEFE

One of the many members of the class who has made the trek from Mt. St. James to Suffolk Law School. Phil has his B.S. from Holy Cross. He is vitally interested in politics, athletics and sleeping. He plans to return to his home town of Dover, New Hampshire and enter upon the active practice of law after graduation.

A veteran of the Marine Corps
Yearbook Committee

STEPHEN KEEFE

"Steve's" fast and scintillating repartee won him the honor of being the "Class Wit." For three years, he has kept us well-sutured with his humorous quips and antics and at times, when they were most needed and least expected. Besides having a keen interest in law, "Steve's" extra-curricular activities find him playing an important part in the Army Air Force Reserve program. He did undergraduate work at Northeastern and Suffolk Universities before matriculating to Suffolk Law School.

A veteran of the Army Air Force
Yearbook Committee

JOHN B. KILLILEA

John attended Suffolk University as well as Schrienerham University in England. Always a leader in his class, he will certainly be an asset to the profession.

A veteran of the U. S. Army

ROBERT M. LAIRD

Studied at Cambridge Junior College and Boston University. Has an Associate in Arts. Subtle wit and a very good nature, are two of Bob's finest assets. Bob says he is working hard so that someday he will be a retired millionaire. We hope he makes the goal he has set for himself.

A veteran of the Navy Air Force

SOLOMON I. LAPIN

Another Suffolk University Alumnus. Bill is an ardent gin rummy player and was a fine high school trackman at Boston English. His ambition is to be a successful practitioner.

MANUEL S. LATO

"Manny" or "Lato", as his confreres call him, is a regular and singularly happy person with a sense of humor that is contagious to all who have the good fortune of coming in contact with him. "Lato" hails from "Ross" Rossi's bailiwick in Dorchester. He gathered up his prelegal training at Northeastern University. Good luck to a good fellow.

FRANCIS MacKAY

Another Suffolk trained collegian in the graduating class. Mac is an outdoor man and lists hunting as his number one hobby. Has a pleasing personality and always makes a good impression upon those with whom he comes in contact. He should be a fine attorney.

JOHN T. McKEIL

Better known to his host of friends as "Mac". Has a promising future awaiting him in the field of law and in so predicting, we are using his winning personality and natural adaptability to the law as a criterion. He is an ardent sports fan and enjoys burying himself between the covers of a good book, legal or otherwise. Received his prelegal training at Boston College.

A veteran of the U. S. Army
Yearbook Committee

THOMAS C. MENTON

One of the most serious and civic-minded members of the class. As a matter of fact, Tom lists politics as his favorite hobby. Success cannot escape the grasp of anyone with such a conscientious point of view.

A veteran of the Navy Air Force
Dean's List, 1

SAM MICKELSON

A graduate of Bryant College in Providence, Rhode Island where he received his B.S.B.A. Sam was with an accounting firm before entering Law School. A fine student, he will do well with the combination of accounting and the law to help him on his road to success.

ARTHUR A. MONTUORI

"Monty" always carries a friendly air and an incomparable zeal which made for a congenial atmosphere wherever he happened to be. These sterling qualities account for his large retinue of friends, who will always want to know him. Is married and has a little daughter. Received his prelegal background at Suffolk University receiving his A.A. degree.

A veteran of the Navy Air Force

SHEPPARD C. MANIFF

Is held in the highest esteem by all those with whom he has been associated. Shep is a fine student of the law and is keenly interested in world affairs. These two attributes auger well for his future.

A veteran of the U. S. Army

AMERICO MATERA

Another of the Northeastern luminaries in our midst. "Matty" is a fine golfer and was a high school baseball player at East Boston High. He hopes to enter the J.A.G. office after graduation.

A veteran of the Army Air Force

JOHN OHANESIAN

Studied at Suffolk University before entering law school. The reading of history and listening to music are two methods of relaxation for Hank. The pecuniary security to which Hank looks is assured if his diligence in law school is an indication.

JAMES A. PATTEN

Attended the University of Massachusetts before his sojourn at the law school. Pat is an excellent conversationalist and a welcome addition to any discussion group. The possessor of a fine personality. He should go far in the practice of law and has the best wishes of all his fellow students.

WILLIAM S. PIDGEON

Voted the most popular student of the Class, President "Bill" Pidgeon occupies a very special niche in the minds of all of his classmates as a good law student, a regular fellow, and a hard worker. "Bill" received his prelegal at the University where he received his A.A. degree. His hobbies are music (tours the Cape with his Sax) and art.

A veteran of the U. S. Army
Dean's List, 1-2-3
Yearbook Committee

THOMAS REARDON

A resident of the University City, Tom shows evidence of an educational environment. Always willing to do more than his share, he is bound to be a success in the years to come.

ROBERT W. REECE

Came to us by way of Westbrook, Maine, and Boston University. His quiet and unassuming manner has won Bob a legion of friends at the law school. Being diligent and very sincere, he should do well in any branch of the profession he enters.

A veteran of the Marine Corps
Yearbook Committee

JOHN A. ROSSI

"Ross" is one of Suffolk Law School's most eligible bachelors and the reason, according to Johnny Canino, is that he spends all of his time studying the law. Has made countless friends over his three years in law school because of his amiable personality and selfless spirit. An excellent student of the law, "Ross" received his prelegal training at Suffolk University. His future plans are to engage in the active practice of the law.

A veteran of the Army Air Force
Dean's List, 1-2-3

GEORGE ROSENBERG

Was a collegian at Suffolk before deciding to embark upon the law as a career. A fine seaman, George is a member of the Community Sailing Association and many other sailing clubs. Intends to enter upon the active practice of the law after graduation.

A veteran of the U. S. Army
Dean's List, 1

HARRISON D. RUST

"C. J." is one of the distinguished representatives from "vacationland", York Beach, Maine. Best known for his almost limitless reservoir of information on various and sundry matters ranging from an obsolete writ used by the medieval pleaders to the intellectual fashions of our day. To know him is to link with his personality, good fellowship for which there is no substitute.

Dean's List, 1
Veteran of U. S. Navy

GEORGE STRAIT

An ardent and able student of the law and possessed a flair for raising "nice questions". George was well-liked because of his genial disposition and genuine make-up. He attended Howard University, Washington, D. C., before coming to Suffolk Law School. Hobbies are horseback riding and bowling. He was a track star in his undergraduate days. Upon graduation, George intends to do graduate work in the field of International Law coupled with an active practice.

HAROLD SULLIVAN

"Sully" has the distinction of sharing honors with Steve Jewett as our choice for "All-American-Boy". "Sully's" unobtrusive manner and kindly smile has won him many admirers and close friends. He got himself married during his last year in law school and thus disqualified himself as a Trustee of the Bachelor's Club, which was Mrs. Sullivan's gain and the Club's loss. "Sully" attended Holy Cross College and State University of Iowa before entering Suffolk Law School.

A veteran of the Navy Air Force
Dean's List, 1
Yearbook Committee

GEORGE THIBEAULT

A top-notch student, George is destined to make his mark in the Law. Never too busy to lend a helping hand. Is well-liked by all who have had the good fortune to make his acquaintance.

A veteran of the U. S. Navy
Dean's List, 1-2-3

IRVING M. TISNER

Prepared for the study of law at Northeastern and Clemson College. An ardent sports fan and lists that as his favorite hobby. Retiring and conservative, Irving should make a fine practitioner in the law.

A veteran of the U. S. Army
Dean's List, 1-2-3

ANTHONY N. TOMASIELLO

Another of the Holy Cross contingent. Received his B.A. at that famed institution. Tony was a member of the football squad in his undergraduate days at the Cross. Quiet and unassuming. Tony has always been very popular among his associates. Devoted to his alma mater, Tony always had good and valid reason for any loss suffered by any Holy Cross team.

NICHOLAS J. VERGADOS

Attended Suffolk University in his undergraduate days. Nick is a fine debater which should stand him in good stead as a trial lawyer. He should reach his goal of a competent and prosperous attorney.

A veteran of the Army Air Force

JOHN A. WHITE

His youthful countenance belies the fact that he had already received his B.S. from Massachusetts Institute of Technology before coming to Suffolk. Besides delving into the fine points of the law, Johnny's next best interest is to skim the snow-covered hills of New Hampshire.

Dean's List, 1-2-3

JOSEPH T. WOOD

Spent his prelegal days at Albright College in Pennsylvania. Joe's hobbies include chess, mah-jong, and the study of Russian. Has a keen sense of humor and a jolly spirit. Is popular with all his fellow students. Upon graduation, he intends to either enter the active practice of law, or the government service.

SAMUEL ZAHAROFF

"Sam" will long be remembered for distinguishing himself in scholarly achievement coupled with a stick-to-itiveness that was without parallel. Always ready to share his special abilities with his classmates, "Sam's" friends are legion. While devoted to the law, "Sam" always found time to lend himself to school activities, in which he played a prominent part. Before coming to law school, he served with the U. S. Naval Air Force as a Flight Engineer. "Sam" plans to do graduate work along with conducting an active law practice.

Court Work

Introduction to Court Work

Perhaps one of the most significant and valuable courses in Suffolk Law School's curriculum in giving the student a well balanced and integrated legal education, is its Court Work. This required course was established with view to affording the student the widest possible experience in practice, pleading and evidence, and in the belief that the law student should begin his practical experience in the law school and not encounter it for the first time after he has passed the Bar examination and been admitted to the Bar.

The court system consists of four courts, a Supreme Court, a Superior Court, a Probate Court, and a District Court. Members of the Faculty supplemented by Judges of the Massachusetts Courts sit as Judges. The jurisdiction of these courts is based upon that of the like courts of Massachusetts.

Practice in these courts is conducted strictly in accordance with the laws, statutes and rules of Courts of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts,—the aim being to teach practice, pleading and evidence by experience in the courts, thus supplementing class exercises in these subjects. The court work also purposes to give the student a working knowledge of court address and develop in him a sense of professional responsibility.

Each student in his Senior year is required to act as counsel in at least two cases,—in one as counsel for the plaintiff, and in another as counsel for the defendant. Students draw their own writs and other process, have them served by the school sheriff and return them to the clerk's office as required by the statutes and rules of court of the Commonwealth. Each counsel draws and files his own pleadings, and other papers at or within the times fixed by law. Failure to do so entails the consequences which would follow such failure in actual litigation. Counsel for the parties act independently of each other in the preparation of pleadings and of the case for trial. Cases must be heard when reached on the lists, unless reasons are presented adequate to satisfy the court to grant postponement.

The student is encouraged to make his experience as extensive as possible by filing, when proper, demurrers, motions to dismiss, pleas, special answers, interrogatories, affidavits of no cause of action or of no defence, motions for directed verdicts, requests for instructions, motions for new trials, appeals, bills of exception and reports. Actual trials are held before juries impanelled from the student body, or in jury waived sessions.

Law sessions of the courts are held for interlocutory matters; and in all respects, the effort is to approximate as nearly as possible the experience which the young lawyer will have in his first years at the Bar, whether practicing by himself or as a junior in the office of an older attorney.

In the exercise of its appellate powers, Suffolk Law School's Supreme Judicial Court is pictured above sitting as a body "in banc," while Attorney Warren Burrell, Clerk of Court, is seated below. (Left to right) Professor John F. O'Brien, Professor Raymond T. Parke, Dean Frank L. Simpson as Chief Justice, Professor Donald R. Simpson and Professor Guy V. Slade.

In Banc

The same formality and dignity which characterizes the courts of the Commonwealth is practised in Suffolk Law School's court system. In this scene, the school sheriff is harkening the court to order. Says he: "Hear ye! Hear ye! All persons having anything to do before the honorable the Justices of the Superior Court, give your attention, draw near and you shall be heard. God save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts!"

The trial is about to get underway, but not before the Clerk of Court, Attorney Warren P. Burrell, swears in the witnesses—attractive Miss Beatrice Butler and future barrister Alfred A. Dobrosielski. This is a jury waived session with Professor Guy V. Slade as Presiding Judge.

Sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, Miss Beatrice Butler, the plaintiff, is now on the witness stand and is narrating what appears to be a convincing story, and one which has apparently touched off His Honor's sense of humor. Counsel for the defendant, James E. Morrison of Belmont, is resting his head on his hand, doubtlessly reflecting on how well the pretty witness is minimizing her counsel's risk of non-persuasion. Of one thing we are certain, that is, Miss Butler is not being declared a hostile witness.

Bill Pidgeon tells an interested jury just why they should return a verdict for his client.

Arthur G. Coffey handing documentary evidence to acting Clerk of Court, Albert Curran, to be marked and identified as an Exhibit, while opposing counsel, Malcolm G. Heggie, and presiding Judge Guy V. Slade, look on.

Dean Frank L. Simpson, sitting as a single justice of Suffolk Law School's Supreme Judicial Court. Attorney Charles B. Garabedian, Clerk of Court, is shown handing a document to the court.

Dan Carney testified he didn't remember, but Counsellor Shep Maniff is successfully refreshing Dan's recollection. This is a jury trial session with Professor Raymond T. Parke presiding.

"I pray Your Honor's judgment," says Wes Archer in this scene to presiding judge Professor Donald R. Simpson. Counsellor John McKeil is quite anxious to get that document (letter written by Al Curran) into the evidence, but Wes declares that it is irrelevant, immaterial and incompetent. Witness Al Curran is breathing heavily for fear his affectionate billet-doux will find its way into the record, and the world will then know!

Professor Donald Simpson charging the jury while student counsellors take notes. No stone is left unturned in Suffolk Law School's program to prepare and equip the law student for actual practice.

Three exacting, but interesting years, made this scene possible. In future years we will look back on these days as golden ones to be cherished and not to be forgotten. However, the inn that shelters for the night is not journey's end.

Student Life

An integral part of Suffolk Law School's program of legal training and method of instruction, is its Seminar, which is conducted by the Dean and various members of the Faculty. The primary objective of Seminar is to give the student an intensive and thorough training in analysis and diagnosis of facts; to ascertain the legal questions involved, and to determine what legal principles must be sustained to establish a cause of action or a defence.

The work is based upon problems taken from actual decisions of the courts. Seminar convenes twice each week and is open to second and third year students. The exercise is Socratic and informal and approximates the conference between the senior and junior lawyer in the office. The initial ten minutes of the hour is devoted to studying the factual situation in the problem, and then the remainder of the period is devoted to a legal analysis of the problem without reference to the problem sheet.

Pictured above is Dean Simpson conducting Seminar with a group of Seniors. That the good Dean has a genuine sense of humor is amply evidenced in this candid photo, which finds him chuckling along with his students.

Seminar

---

Dean Simpson conducting his Seminar, which not infrequently is a stimulating setting for some brilliant open-field running, but the learned Dean always gives the boys their ball back at the end of the hour.

Designed to develop the student's power of analysis and condition his mind to the legal approach, the course is more than the ordinary classroom exercise. It is a sort of legal "proving ground" in keeping with one of the Dean's favorite expressions: "You can't test a car going down hill!"

Professor Edward F. Flynn lectures on the law of Evidence in Suffolk's spacious Auditorium which is equipped with a modern amplification system.

The venerable and learned Professor Parke is conducting Seminar, and by the looks of things he is teaching the law in characteristic manner.

Professor Donald R. Simpson lectures on Equity Jurisprudence.

This "ten-minute-break" between Evidence and Conflict of Laws classes finds Manny Lato making a passionate plea to his colleagues that there ought to be more exceptions to the "hearsay rule."

The cameraman caught Phil Keefe of Dover, N. H., in his shirtsleeves without the aid of his fellow countryman, Steve Jewett of Laconia, trying to explain to John McKeil the court's rationale in the celebrated New Hampshire "Muskrat case." Looking on, but not taking notes are: (Left to right) Bob Laird, Phil and Mac, Steve Keefe and Medford's own "Aldap" D'Apuzzo.

Art Coffey has examined this Bulletin Board with meticulous care for three straight years—morning, noon and night. Without promise of immunity or reward, Art has finally confessed—, "The wife said, 'get a job in the legal field, Honey, you'll catch pneumonia on that ice wagon'."

Joe Casey (standing at left) is deliberating on the advisability of purchasing a book which he is in the process of examining. Nick Vergados, at his right, is placing his personal imprimatur on the potential sale. We later learned that Joe made the purchase of this book, the title of which was, "A Clarification of the Differences Between the Medieval Doctrine of Disseisin and the Present Day Doctrine of Adverse Possession" authored by Larry Heminway.

The University Library occupies the major portion of the third floor of the University Building. The main reading room is beautifully lighted and has electrically operated ventilators. There is a total stack capacity of forty-five thousand volumes. Each department is receiving regularly important accessions of the latest works in its field.

The Law Section of the Library has been greatly enlarged and augmented during the past year. The stacks contain state reports for the forty-eight states, in addition to all the leading standard text and reference books, and a well selected collection of law reviews and periodicals from the leading legal institutions of America.

Thus, the Law School is able to offer one of the most modern and complete Law Libraries in this section of the country, coupled with an atmosphere conducive to concentrated study.

"The Book Store"—It's hard to tell just what is occurring or has occurred. In any event, Harold Sullivan is beaming and John Ciol and Joe Casey are looking on with approval. Nick Vergados and Wes Archer and fellow students are on the other side of the counter in readiness to confer with spokesman Sullivan.

A Back Row Gander at the Professors

By Anonymous

Before I actually begin this exposé I should like to impress upon the readers, especially the professors, the fact that the following paragraphs have been developed entirely from the imagination and any resemblance to a living professor (assuming that life does exist in those bodies) has been the result of deliberate premeditation with an abundance of malice aforethought. Naturally, I have my reasons for conveying the idea that this article was written in fun. In the first place, my conscience would be wounded if any professor should be offended; and most important, to me at least, I have a gnawing desire to graduate this June.

The professors fall into many distinct classes only a few of which will be mentioned here—namely: “The Acrobats,” “Student’s Delight,” “Word Worms,” and the “Story Tellers”!

Needless to say, the title “Story Tellers” is self explanatory. Of course, it is very interesting to learn how Professor Gluck won his first case, but then again we are not examined on the facts of Gluck’s first case. I may say in behalf of those professors that they all seem to have some sort of a moral attached to their stories—of course you may have to think about the story several months before arriving at the moral; but nevertheless, sooner or later you can think of something to justify the time wasted in class. Possibly, it is a result of what we might call a “Big Night” the night before the lecture, and after all, who wants to strain his mentality over legal problems with a size eight head, when he only wears a size seven hat. However, many students also find themselves in a “half-baked” condition in the morning and even if the professor did talk about law he would just be interrupting the student’s rest period. Nevertheless, we do feel that story telling is for the nursery. ‘Nuff said, I’m already flunking in half my subjects.

The “Student’s Delight” is a very popular fellow. He is the professor that starts a lecture by saying: “This law is very easy. I could explain it to you in ten minutes, but then, it would be so easy that you wouldn’t retain it. Therefore, I shall make it as difficult as possible and we’ll spend at least two lectures on this point!” This delights the student no end. He immediately makes a notation to send the professor a box of candy the next day—arsenic included. Of course, by the time we finish covering that particular legal point we really do know it—that I must admit. The mere fact that we took two hours instead of ten minutes is immaterial—or is it?

“Word Worms” are very similar to book worms. These gentlemen have one purpose in life—to impress upon you the fact that they have assimilated the complete works written by Mrs. Webster’s little boy Noah. The first lecture by these verbose gentlemen is certainly very impressive. In fact most students are so impressed that they dash right out and purchase a brand new dictionary. I think we owe a vote of thanks to these professors for inspiring us to acquire such a useful book. I understand that many of these books are handy in propping up beds when one of the legs break. The professors of course, feel that they are doing us a service by exposing us to the finer things in the dictionary. This is true, but must it be so much like a burnt steak—overdone that is.

The “Acrobats” are an intensely interesting group, and time passes very quickly in their classes. This group is divided into the chair tilters and the edge walkers. The chair tilters have a knack of tilting their chair over backwards with their knees just hooked under the table. After assuming this position the usual procedure is to lock their hands behind their head, give forth with a few luxurious yawns and proceed to lecture. Some of them have developed this trick so well that they can rock back and forth just as if they were in a rocking chair. Needless to say an extra long tilt backward creates a great deal of speculation among the students, or possibly I should say wishful thinking. The edge walkers have also learned the art of keeping the student’s attention. They will look up in the air and walk right along the edge of the stage—and they talk at the same time. This is really interesting. All we need is just one wrong step and we’d certainly have a time for ourselves. Of course, if a moment arises when the professor doesn’t have everyone’s complete attention all he has to do is take a particularly daring step over the edge of the platform and an expectant hush comes over the class. It certainly is a dirty trick—two years and not one miss. It appears that one of my fondest desires will not come true before graduation.

Prophecy

Boston, Massachusetts

May 30, 1959.

Dear Bill,

It was quite a surprise to hear from you after all these years and I will endeavor to supply you with the information that you want in regard to what all the boys from the class at Suffolk are doing now—almost ten years after graduation.

As you have no doubt read, Dan Carney is mayor of Boston, having taken over when James M. Curley retired. Jim Bakker has recently become Dean of Portia Law School and hired Elihu Pearlman as his secretary. Dan Donovan was elected to the board of Selectmen of Middleton. Al Curran is on the road most of the time as the business manager of the Boston Red Sox, but I see him occasionally at "Stiriti's Bar and Grille" where I work as a singing waiter. Gus and I often talk over Dawe vs. Morris over a short beer when business is slow. Harold Sullivan is teaching Bills and Notes and doubling in brass over there as the Physical Education Instructor, assisted by "Tiger" Bracciale. Al D'Apuzzo was recently appointed the director out at Cushing General Hospital, since Governor Coffey decided that he might as well make use of all the time that Al spent there. John T. McKeil, president of the McKeil Mutual Insurance Co., has just completed a merger with American Mutual and owes the success of the deal to the firm of Canino, Montouri, Crossen and Rossi. You must remember John Ohanesian and his interest in the abilities of the various nags to run the mile and a sixteenth in winning time. Well, he is running a tip service now with offices all over New England, and has taken on Nick Vergados and John Ciol to help him with the handicapping.

Steve Jewett is promoting the ski meets all over southern New Hampshire, having received the franchise for helping the democratic nominee, Phil Keefe, win the gubernatorial election. The firm of Zarahoff and Thibeault has been in the news recently due to their efforts in making the Board of Bar Examiners tighten up on the requirements for admission. Joe Casey is still making fifteen thousand a year putting together the Restatement of Contracts with John Killilea and Leo Lyons giving able assistance. Larry Hemingway is now the chief custodian of the Suffolk Building and Wes Archer gave up his practice to take over the Boston Law Book Company. You remember what an easy going fellow Ed Daly used to be, now he is a judge up at Traffic Court and he nicked Tom Allen, Frank McKay and Shep Maniff the other morning for twenty-five dollars each when they tried to remind him that they went to school with him—just for overtime parking. Frank Melville is starring in a radio mystery thriller called "The Bloodshot Eye Caper" and is managed by an old friend John Marra. George Strait is now in charge of the Social Law Library at the court house and has occasion to meet many of the fellows from time to time that I don't see very often here. He told me the other day that Al Gibeau, Mark Gallagher and John Edgerly have gone into Real Property Law in a big way and no title passes up around Lowell or Lawrence that they don't handle. Walt Colby has just published his first book called "Colby on The Rule Against Perpetuities" which I understand Suffolk has authorized as the proper text for the course. Dean Simpson is rewriting Massachusetts Law with the help of Jim Ingalls, Paul Healey and Bill Kelly. I worked as a Christmas temporary on the Post Office last year and due to the fact that Jim Constantine is the Assistant Postmaster, I had a good position—sorting mail. I guess you have read that Leo Dooley is the featured vocalist at Hurley's Log Cabin, he has gone a long way since he worked here with me. Tom Goodwin finally went back into the Army and is in the Judge Advocate's Office of this area.

I haven't been able to contact many more of the fellows that suffered through those long years with us, but I will try to get more information for you later. Meanwhile, I will let all the fellows know that I have heard from you, and give them your best regards. I think that it is fine that you have been placed in charge of the library out there at Leavenworth, but it is no more than I expected of you. Keep up the good work and the good conduct.

Best of luck,

Steve.

*Along side Conda's, without a lawn
Clear in the cool September morn,*

*The clustered spires of Suffolk stand
Grey-walled by the State House and*

*Round about it workers sweep
While into class, late students creep*

*And to the professor but nod
Not disturbing the lecture on fraud.*

*On that pleasant morn of early fall,
When Wood marched over the State House wall,*

*Over the steps, winding down,
Bag and lunch, into Suffolk town.*

*Forty rumors about men with bars,
Forty rumors about soldiers and tars*

*Were heard in the morning wind: the sun
Of noon looked down, and saw but one.*

*Up rose old Jim Bakker, then
Bowed with notebook, pencil and pen,*

*Bravest of all in Suffolk town
He took up the rumor the men laughed down.*

*He told sad Wood not to fret
And said that one heart was loyal yet.*

*But up the stairs came the rebel tread
Daniel John Donovan running ahead.*

*"Halt"—his musty followers stood fast.
"Fire"—out blazed the trifle-blast.*

*It shivered the freshmen, who teeth did gnash,
It stunned the sophomores, who heard the crash.*

*The rumor fell from a broken laugh.
Then, Bakker snatched Dan's silken scarf.*

*"Shoot if you must this old bald head
But spare your classmate's rumor," he said.*

*A shade of sadness, a blush of shame
Over the face of the leader came.*

*The hundred-proof spirit within him stirred
To listen to the well-spoken word.*

*"Who touches a hair on you balding head
Dies intestate! March on," he said.*

*All day long through Derne Street
Sounded the tread of students' feet.*

*All day long the free rumor tossed
And even to the Capitol crossed.*

*Ever its torn facts rose and fell
On the royal "Winds" that loved it well,*

*And Beacon Hill's discerning light
Shone over it, whether wrong or right.*

*Jim Bakker's work is o'er
And the rebel rides on his raids no more,*

*Honor to Jim—and let a tear
Fall, for his sake, in Carney's beer.*

—THE OBSERVER.

In a profession where unbounded trust is necessarily imposed, there is nothing surprising that fools should neglect it in their idleness and tricksters abuse it in their knavery, but it is the more to the honor of those, and I will vouch for many, who unite integrity with skill and attention, and walk honorably upright where there are so many pitfalls and stumbling blocks for those of a different character. To such men their fellow citizens may safely entrust the care of protecting their patrimonial rights and their country the more sacred charge of her laws and privileges.
