

SUFFOLK JOURNAL

VOL. 12 NO. 3

BOSTON, MASS.

DECEMBER, 1955

WHO'S WHO NAMES 15 S. U. SENIORS

Rams Surge, Win Opener

"Teamwork" Beats MIT In First Thriller

by LOU CONNELLY

Springing the biggest upset in the University's sports history, Suffolk's Rams launched their 1955-56 basketball season with crashing success as they thumped highly-favored MIT 71-57 at the Tech Field House.

Outmanned, outreached, and outfield goalied, the Rams were never outplayed in staging the New England hoop season's first surprise.

Leading throughout, the Rams held off an MIT threat midway through the last half that cut the Suffolk margin to 4-40 and roared away to a large lead.

Teamplay Won
The victory was described as towards as "strictly a team effort" as pacesetter Art Meliace (19), Eddy Moore (15), George Doucet (11), Roger Alley (11), and freshman Paul White (11) all hit the double digit column.

Surrendering several inches in height, the Rams nevertheless completely dominated the backboards with spindly Eddy Moore and the graceful Archie Meliace hogging rebounds from their larger rival.

Continued on Page Four

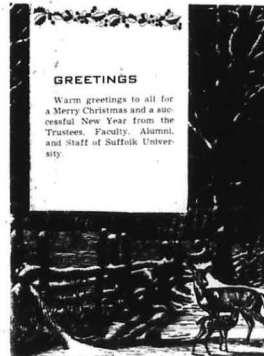

N. E. Life Lauds C. B. A. Student

Michael T. Breen, CBA '55, has already gained distinction on a nationwide basis.

Breen recently completed an intensive two-week course of training with the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company. The course covered the latest developments in the application of life insurance to estate and family protection problems.

The distinction is that he was the only man from the home office who participated in the program. The other 20 men represented agencies from New Hampshire to Hawaii. These men qualified on the basis of their outstanding field records.

The official title of the course is the Career Underwriters' Training School, according to Ann Hengst of New England Life.

GREETINGS

Warm greetings to all for a Merry Christmas and a successful New Year from the Trustees, Faculty, Alumni and Staff of Suffolk University.

Business Grad Tests Slated

The Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business, required for entrance by a number of graduate business schools or divisions throughout the country, will be offered on three dates during the coming year, according to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test. During 1955, many students took the test in partial satisfaction of admission requirements of graduate business schools which prescribed it. Among these institutions are the graduate business schools or divisions of the following universities:

Carnegie Institute of Technology	Seton Hall University
Columbia University	Syracuse University
Columbia University	University of Chicago
Harvard University	University of Michigan
Massachusetts Institute of Technology	University of Pennsylvania
Northwestern University	Washington University
Rutgers University	(St. Louis)

A candidate must make separate application for admission to each business school of his choice and should inquire of each whether it wishes him to take the Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business and when. Since many business schools select their entering classes in the spring preceding their entrance, candidates for admission to the 1956 classes are advised to offer the February test, if possible.

The tests will be administered on February 2, April 14, and August 18 in 1956. Applications and fees must be filed with the Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey, at least two weeks before the testing date desired in order to allow ETS time to complete the necessary testing arrangements.

The Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business is not designed to test specific knowledge in specialized academic subjects. Normal undergraduate training should provide sufficient general knowledge to answer the test questions. Sample questions and information regarding registration for and administration of the test are given in a Bulletin of Information.

COLLEGE DIRECTORY LISTS TOP STUDENTS

Six girls are among the fifteen seniors who will be listed in the 1955-56 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

The "Who's Who" book is the official annual directory of distinguished students selected from over 600 colleges and universities throughout America.

Prof. John V. Calburn, Director of Student Affairs, approved the nominations, which were submitted by the Suffolk University's Who's Who Committee.

The Committee was composed of seniors Allen K. Fischer, Dick Jones, and Barbara Tomoshunas. Juniors on the committee were Lou Connelly and Tom Dolan.

"Who's Who" is designed to render the following services:
1. As a goal to inspire greater effort in those who may not otherwise perform to the best of their ability.

2. As a reminder that time must be used intelligently to bring the best results from college experience.

3. As a means of compensation for outstanding effort and achievement.

4. As a standard of measurement for students comparable to other recognized scholastic and service organizations.

After careful consideration as to scholastic and extra-curricular contributions, the following seniors were named:
Marie Beatrice, A.B., 25 Avalon St., Revere.

Peter Beatrice, A.B., 183 Gladstone St., East Boston.
Norman Bligh, A.B., 222 Roslindale Ave., Roslindale.
Carmelina Carnicelli, B.S., 48 Payne St., Quincy.

Thomas DeCunry, A.B., 30 Spring Park Ave., Boston.
Virginia Degatta, B.S., 54 Russwin Rd., New Britain, Conn.
Joseph Edra, B.S. in B.A., 60 Newbury St., Somerville.

Gonnie Fainello, B.S. in B.A., 25 Albion St., Methuen.
Philip Fullano, A.B., 187 Chapman St., Watertown.
Raymond Johnson, B.S. in B.A., 5 Watens St., Boston.

Stephen Jaha, A.B., 113 Cambridge St., Lawrence.
Joseph Letoury, B.S., 229 Broadway, Boston.
Barbara Tomoshunas, A.B., 189 River St., Waltham.
Marie Whalen, A.B., 234 Mountain Ave., Arlington.

Each of the new "Who's Who" members will receive a certificate from the organization.
On Recognition Day, which will be held next May, Suffolk University will formally present the certificates.
In addition to its educational prestige, "Who's Who" sponsors a student placement bureau.

PSYCH HEAD HELPS SOLVE PROBLEM

In addition to his regular duties as Guidance Director and head of the psychology department, Dr. Leo Lieberman has an important job.

He treats alcoholics. One of his major activities as Consulting Psychologist for the Boston Committee on Alcoholism is aiding in the group's weekly program on Consultation, Guidance, and Group Therapy concerning problem drinkers.

Directing the Committee's program on problem drinkers is Dr. David Lantieri, psychiatric lecturer at Tufts Medical School, and like Dr. Lieberman, a staff member of the N.E. Medical Center.

Governor Approves
Gov. Christian A. Tamm gave his whole-hearted approval to the work of the committee at a recent conference. The governor's approval was based on the organization's record of achievement and their message.

The "Boston Committee on Alcoholism is organized to help any human being in trouble with alcohol without charge or obligation."

The weekly meeting, which Dr. Lieberman helps direct voluntarily is held at the Committee's offices, 419 Boylston St., every Tuesday at 7:15 p.m.

Many of the drinkers attending these meetings are referred to the Committee by their personnel managers, foremen, company doctors or union leaders, after considerable absenteeism, accidents, sinking morale or lowered efficiency.

Equal Treatment
Several of the firms whose employees attend these meetings pay for the help their workers receive; others do not. "But," says Dr. Lieberman, "all workers are treated with the same quality of understanding and guidance techniques."

Program Growing
"Because the sessions have been overflowing the committee has been forced to expand."

Continued on Page Four

THE SUFFOLK JOURNAL

Editor-in-Chief
Dick Jones

Associate Editor
Allen K. Fischer

Business Manager
Jordan Ring

Merton Silver, Assistant

Sports Editor
Lou Connelly

Assistant Sports Editor
Harry Speed

Reporting Staff

Jim List, Francis X. Durham, William Oja, Alan Campbell, Dick Booker, Annie Young, Marian Stone, Barbara Tamashunas, Geraldine Kelley, Phil Iuliano, Andrew Courtn, Jr., William F. Rowland, Phyllis Klein, Spencer Cookman, Robert C. Shingoff.

Official monthly publication published by and for the students of Suffolk University. Editorial and Advertising office in the Suffolk University building, 29 Derris Street, Boston 14, Mass.

Subscription Price $1.00 PER YEAR SINGLE COPY 10c

EDITORIALS

All-Americans All

If we are true Americans, we are concerned not only with our own great country, but also with the rest of the world. Americans have always represented the ultimate in the Plan of man.

True, we have our share of shabby riddle rousers, but they are not representative Americans. They are weak.

Americans, as all peoples, love freedom. Unlike other peoples, Americans have fought for and won a type of freedom which must have been divinely planned. Many nations, centuries older than America, are still fighting for the freedom we represent.

Five years after the "war to end all wars," World War II, American boys found themselves fighting for their Korean brothers in a fight for freedom. Thousands of modern knights died for that principle — Freedom.

The results of the last fight might not be clear, but a principle was won. The principle that ALL men shall have the right to exist in a free world, uninhibited and not influenced by any silent monster.

America has become the smiling, good-natured "big brother" of the world. When he sees his "little brothers" being stepped on, he does the family thing — he first tries to gently break it up. If the first try doesn't succeed, he tries again — only harder.

As Americans, we are all a part of these tries to relieve our oppressed brethren. If diplomacy doesn't solve a problem, a war usually will. We can fight like no others in the world — if we want to. But that isn't the American way to solve world problems.

The Communist ogre simmering the world today must be stopped. We don't know the average age of this type of ogre, so we can't say gently, "Let it peter itself out."

Our freedom-loving brothers throughout the world are watching us. They are as vigilant in watching us as we are in trying to stamp down the ogre. Their internal problems are dwarfed by their concern for us.

As a likable "big brother," we can't let them down.

1955-56 BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

DECEMBER	FEBRUARY
1 MIT	2 Stonehill
3 Brandeis	8 Northeastern
5 Boston College	10 Gordon College
7 Boston University	15 Lowell Tech
9 Boston Teachers	17 Open Date
13 Gordon College	21 Merrimack
15 Stonehill	23 Open Date
JANUARY	28 Boston Teachers
5 Merrimack
11 St. Anselm's
14 Worcester Tech
17 Open Date

* Home games at the Cambridge YMCA. All other games away

THE SUFFOLK VARSITY CLUB
"Support Your School"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(All letters submitted to the editor for publication must be signed.)

Near Editor:

Christmas December 1955. There is nothing startling about this statement. Christmas happens every year at this time. The spirit of giving, the extra friendly feeling, the renewed feelings of good will among nations are all certain to be voiced at this time.

Why can't we practice the Christmas spirit 365 days a year?

Everybody has a good word to say about everybody else during the Christmas season. Communist dominated countries and the free world exchange Christmas greetings temporarily forgetting their differences.

Relatives, sometimes miles apart geographically, bring their families together and exchange gifts, good feelings, and the Christmas spirit.

Neighbors, forgetting the broken window by Junior or the fence that was built on the wrong side of the line wish each other Merry Christmas and success for the coming new season.

Homes, town squares, stores, streets become aglow with Christmas decorations. Beautiful music is heard all the way from exclusive LaSalleburg Square to tiny hamlets such as Truro on Cape Cod.

Everywhere the world seems friendly but what happens after Christmas?

Communist nations, the free world, relatives, families, neighbors are at each other's throats again. Old feuds are renewed. Old and new threats are made.

Homes, town squares, stores, streets lose their Christmas decorations and resume an ordinary everyday look.

The only music that is heard is the sound of a collision between a truck loaded with empty milk cans and a truck loaded with chickens on their way to the market.

The world becomes an horrible mess.

So how about the Christmas spirit 365 days in a year? The world would be a lot better.

Alan Campbell

Dear Editor:

In the October issue of the Suffolk Journal you stated that I said, "Juba emphasized that the society, Phi Beta Chi, is not limited to students of these departments, Physics, Biology, and Chemistry, and invites all Science students to participate in its activities."

I should like to bring to your attention that Phi Beta Chi is limited only to students of the natural and physical sciences. Furthermore, it is limited to honor students and students are elected into membership or considered for membership only after they have completed the first semester of their Junior year and have obtained honor grades.

This fraternity is in the process of offering a prize which will be given to a student in

"Legal" Cases Battled In Weekly Moot Court

By ANDREW COBURN, JR.

It is an interesting experience to witness Suffolk law students receiving their legal training not only in theory but in practical experience, namely, moot court sessions. Any Thursday at 2 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. during the first semester, you may attend a session of the Law School's Moot Court in room 26, under the supervision of Professor Walter F. Lewis, a very able trial lawyer of the Massachusetts Bar.

Realistic Air
Here you will hear two attorneys try a case before a presiding judge, a clerk, specific and spectators. The equipment and procedure is quite similar to what you would find in the Suffolk County Courthouse. One attorney acts as plaintiff's attorney and the other serves as defendant's counsel in a criminal or a civil action.

If you arrive at the start, you will hear each one make an opening statement of what he has to prove. Witnesses will be called on the stand to testify to the facts of the case. Frequently you will hear cross-examination of the opponent's witnesses. Small, often opposing counsel objecting to the admission of testimony as an violation of some rule of evidence in the course called Evidence. The judge must rule on each such point as well as render a decision at the end of the case. Each counsel will give a closing argument to the court or jury.

Experience Gained
From observing this activity you will realize that this is what is called a trial court, and that the purpose is to give each senior a practical laboratory in which to gain experience before his admission to the bar. The seniors prepare all court papers used in the case. Following the forms used in the Massachusetts courts in this way, the court serves also as a laboratory for the Law School's course called Practice and Procedure.

Cases Vary
You may enjoy the spirited presentation of an automobile injury suit, or an exciting contest of a will, or an excellent defense in a criminal prosecution.

For the law seniors, however, the most valuable part of the experience begins after the decision. Then the class listens attentively to the kindly but competent suggestions of the trial judge, Professor Lewis.

Judge Decides
Professor Lewis explains the errors made and the proper application of the rules involved. He listens to the many questions asked, and answers them courteously. He frequently makes a point clear in a humorous anecdote from one of the hundreds of courtroom sessions he has attended.

Dr. Hartmann reminds us the library functions to serve all students, and when a member of the library staff requests silence, it is for the benefit of those engaged in serious study.

A free manual which explains the functions and regulations of the library is available at the circulating desk. Methods of locating specific books are among interesting data included in the manual.

Students Work
Details of the student clerks are varied. Their main job is to maintain the circulation desk. Other duties include returning books to the stacks, and once a year, cleaning every book in the library.

Student workers are on duty every day and night, except on Saturday, when the library closes at five o'clock.

Thank you very much for bringing this to the attention of the student body.
Steve Juba,
President, Beta Chapter,
Phi Beta Chi
(You're welcome—Ed.)

Library Asks Silent Rule

By FRANCIS X. DURHAM

As "caretaker" for over 12,000 books, the Director of Libraries is ably assisted by two full time librarians and five student clerks.

Dr. Edward G. Hartmann, the director, is aided by Miss Patricia Brown and Mrs. Patricia Lane, who supervise student clerks. Miss Patricia Lane, who supervises student clerks, does not help in handling the library's more than 21,000 volumes and over 20,000 college department books.

More Books
First year law students Norman High, Phil Iuliano and Jim Regan, working with Jack McCreary and Joe Blanche of the university, complete the staff.

Increased circulation has meant increased enrollment of books and increased activity in the library. Although pleased with the students' interest, the library staff has confronted a minor problem.

The problem is that of trying to keep the library quiet for studying. Increased circulation of books has, for some reason, meant increased talking. Forgetful students, though often their hushed whispers or quiet talking and disturb diligent students and generally upset the study session.

Dr. Hartmann reminds us the library functions to serve all students, and when a member of the library staff requests silence, it is for the benefit of those engaged in serious study.

A free manual which explains the functions and regulations of the library is available at the circulating desk. Methods of locating specific books are among interesting data included in the manual.

Students Work
Details of the student clerks are varied. Their main job is to maintain the circulation desk. Other duties include returning books to the stacks, and once a year, cleaning every book in the library.

Student workers are on duty every day and night, except on Saturday, when the library closes at five o'clock.

Thank you very much for bringing this to the attention of the student body.
Steve Juba,
President, Beta Chapter,
Phi Beta Chi
(You're welcome—Ed.)

by LOU CONNELLEY, Sports Editor

It's still only in the talking stage but don't discount the possibility of pay-as-you-see television becoming a reality in the near future.

For months the public has read about the chances of televised baseball stepping into the token bracket, charging for entertainment.

The latest bit of news concerning the idea has the Federal Communications Commission ready to make the momentous decision after the 1956 baseball season. At least concerning baseball and sports in general.

If the plan went through it would mean that the television viewer would have his television set equipped with the pay-as-you-see charge. New sets would, in all probability, come with the gadget already installed.

Representatives of the film industry, television, and sports world have discussed the pros and cons of the subject—some showing a distaste for the proposition, others highly in favor of it.

Pros and Cons

Estimates of 50 cents to a dollar have been given as the charge for watching one ball game, extravaganza, movie, or such. At the end of a certain period, a service man would collect the toll from the coin box.

Let's suppose this toll television goes through. What will happen? To this writer, it might show an interesting paradox. Some of the boys who are dollar-conscious might say, "To blazes with them, I'll go without!"

Others, maybe a bit penurious, but still reticent in complying with the FCC, might group together in one home and chip in for the tab.

Of course there will be folks who will have the money, won't mind paying for the commodity and will buy their entertainment at any cost.

Bars Happy

Actually, the men who will be cooling coyly will be the gent who runs the neighborhood pub. Imagine the disharmony in the home when the man of the household decides he'll venture to the basket of Sals to watch the fight or game. The little

All-Americans All STUDENT GETS DICKENS (A Sort Of Christmas Story)

by DICK JONES

Rosseforp sat behind his cluttered desk in the cold faculty room, scanning mid term exams. As the lights went on he jerked himself up and stared glassily at a Tolman form approaching him. He couldn't believe his eyes so he removed his glasses and blinked in astonishment.

"What are you doing here?" demanded Rosseforp, who was now fully awake. "I told you I wouldn't have your mid term grade for you until after the vacation."

"I know, Professor Rosseforp, and then I want to get ready for tomorrow's footloose with my Audubon society. There's a strike, black-billed Cuckacany in the Blue Hills and I'm going to camp there tonight. I think I know where I'll find him in the morning."

"Fine the window before you go," Rosseforp stammered, walking toward the window, thinking of spending another night with the Common reindeers, the kind of multi-toned bells swept with the cold air. The music began the church supplies store. "Silent Night," "Silent Night" was heard above the noisy trills of the ordinary State House speakers.

"What's that noise?" asked Professor Rosseforp. "Silent Night," a Christmas hymn, replied Redlog.

"I haven't heard it played that well since I attended the University of Bologna," said the professor, as he wiped his eyes and asked Redlog to keep the window open.

"It's not you, Redlog, it's the music," he explained.

As Professor Rosseforp sat comfortably back in his chair, Redlog stood amidst at the right of his professor with teary eyes, listening to the series of Christmas hymns.

After a full fifteen minutes, Professor Rosseforp wiped his eyes and looked straight ahead.

"You still here?" "The sorry sir, but I was thinking."

"How, and of what?" asked the nose compassed professor.

"I have an Audubon bird whistle at home, and if you don't mind I'll like to go with you looking for that black-billed Cuckacany tomorrow."

Professor Rosseforp looked straight into Redlog's eyes. "I thought your parents were keeping you out of the house. How can you get your bird whistle if that's true?"

"Professor, if you could come grade?" "All right, Redlog, I had just completed my fourth reading on your exam, anyway. Let's go bird-watching. I'll carry your exam book along and give it to your parents, myself."

Mr. and Mrs. Redlog were pleased at the professor's presence, and they talked lovingly of their son, who was upstairs taking a bath in Soltax. Professor Rosseforp accepted their offer to spend Christmas with them.

"Your son and I are still going to spend tonight camping in the Blue Hills, as you have agreed, and immediately after

S. U. GERMAN CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

Election of officers and a Christmas party are the latest interesting items to come from the German Club.

After a program of modern, popular German music, which was enthusiastically received, officers were elected on November 30th in the Dean's Office.

Dr. Stanley M. Vogel, Associate Professor of German and English, and club advisor, held a Christmas Party for the group at his Mt. Vernon street apartment.

The club plans to meet once a week on alternating Mondays and Wednesdays at 2 p.m. in the Dean's Office.

Officers elected were:

- CHAIRMAN: Sheldon Gold
- Treasurer: Richard Kimes
- Secretary: Harold McLeod
- Leon Moore
- ANNIE YOUNG
- ANNIE YOUNG offers the following holiday greetings: Leo, Stein Herz, in Freude singen, Won die Weinachtsgaben klingen Glock und Sargenimmerdar bringe Dir die Neue Jahr.

Is The S. U. Alumni Association Still Functioning ? YES! Look Here Next Issue

we have spotted the black-billed Cuckacany, we will return for your kind hospitality," said the professor, as young Redlog entered the room wearing fresh clothes, carrying a sleeping bag and smelling of Soltax.

As professor and student strode from the house, toward the bus stop, Mr. Redlog yelled, "Professor, my son's mid term grade!"

"Oh, wait a minute, Redlog, I'll dash back and give the exam book to your dad."

"Thank you, professor," said Mr. Redlog, as he watched the two figures race for an approaching bus.

Mr. Redlog brought his wife another sedative in the early morning, while miles away a professor and his student sat on the cold hard ground, also unable to sleep.

"I can't believe it, a D for his grade," sobbed Mrs. Redlog to her taut faced husband who mumbled something about 'he should be back'.

Happy Holidays from Book Clearing House, Inc. 423 Boylston Street, Boston CO 6-1600 — KE 6-3263 "Sell your textbooks to us before time diminishes their value"

INSIDE S. U.

By MARIAN STONE & BARBARA TAMOSHUNAS

We want to start off by wishing you all a very Merry Christmas and a happy Happy New Year. Santa isn't the only man with a bag. Many of our Suffolk boys are helping him by working in various post offices during the Christmas rush.

Speaking of Santa Claus, he will visit S.U. this Thursday afternoon, Dec. 15, under the auspices of the Education Club. Faculty members have been invited to bring their children for a visit with Santa in the person of Mrs. George in the President's Office. Santa will distribute gifts to the children.

Mrs. Marie M. Strain, instructor in Education, told us there will be story-telling, skits, suitable decorations, and refreshments to make the day a memorable one for everybody.

Psych Party

President Robert J. Munce was host at the Psychology Club's annual Christmas party held last Thursday night in the President's Office. Psych Club presy Dick LeMay said the success of the party was attributable to renewed interest in the popular club.

What did you think of the recent freshman dance posters? We thought they were very attractive. The best in years.

Also Also

Since Pat Brown graduated, the girls' Alos Club seems to have gone out of existence. What say girls, should we reorganize?

The Girls' Lounge is about to have a face lifting job. When the new furniture and drapes are installed, you won't recognize the place. We'll have to invite you boys in for a housewarming when the lounge is fixed up. Alice Shea and Helen Aronson, those gracious hostesses, will be there to greet you all as they're more familiar with the lounge than most of the girls.

W.A.S.U. Plans

W.A.S.U. is making big plans for their annual Christmas party. It's to be held in the President's office on Thursday, December 15 from 11:00 on. Santa Claus is going to drop in for a visit. The party is open to all that means you, boys! after 11:00. By the way, anyone interested in dishwashing, please apply. How about it Bob Stewart, Joe Chasing, and Charles McKenny?

Seniors Dance

The Seniors' Thanksgiving dance at the Parker House on November 23 was as always, a huge success. Ginny DeGuffo, Suffolk's "Miss Nightingale," sang one of Sigmund Romberg's melodies from The Student Prince. It was quite entertaining. We quizzed a few students to get their reactions to the dance:

Robert Doby, Jr.: "I spent most of my time having an intellectual discussion with the cop. We talked about our Thanksgiving turkey." Norman King: "I thought all the girls looked beautiful in their dresses." Tom Dolan: "I thought the crowd was a very friendly one and everyone seemed to be enjoying himself."

TIMES HAVE CHANGED FOR veteran Marine combat photographer Henry McMahon. The 31 year old Cambridge resident is currently attending evening classes as he "wells out" his 4th year of service.

(A feature story of McMahon's recent activities will appear in the next Journal.)

Dr. Lieberman

Continued from Page One
Lieberman's four offices, it is evident that they are adopting toward recovery and regaining normal happy lives, both on the job and at home.

It is obvious that the Boston Committee on Alcoholism, which has led 600 alcoholics toward recovery in the past ten years, is a vital community service unit. It depends almost entirely upon public financial support.

The psychological evaluation and treatment procedures directed by Dr. Lieberman have been used to train some of Suffolk's advanced Psychology students at the clinic.

As a result of this training one S.U. graduate received a scholarship to study alcoholism at Yale University. Another obtained a psychological technician's job with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Suffolk's top athletic triumph, and it was not an overstatement. Disparaged by the MIT club prior to the game, the Aggroes boys, on the Charles' combedrewed a "warmup game", the surprising Rams gave Law its biggest sports thrill at Suffolk.

"This game was it," said a happy Law after the game. "It will definitely mean a lot in the school's athletic life from now on."

Strictly a team effort was the word all right, and an effort that should lead to future wins for wins Alley, Meliace, White, Moore, Doucet, Harbanti, Fish and Hunt. The boys who staged the stunning upset, all have a couple of more years hoop eligibility at the school and have given only a brief demonstration of what might happen to Suffolk in the basketball ranks.

LEGALLY SPEAKING

By PHIL IULIANO

Six law students are among Suffolk's full and part-time staff, administering to the needs of all students. The prettiest, Catherine Talley, is Registrar at the Law school, and number one student with the night division, class of '57.

In the library, Norman King, '58, has been working in the bookstore for many semesters. Phil Iuliano, and Jim Regan, all with the class of this year, D demurred, and after it was overruled filed a general answer.

Recently the West Publishing Co sent a guest lecturer to Suffolk. The theme, How to Find the Law, was methodically covered by Mr. Chapman, the lecturer. Those who attended, especially the first year students, received additional first-hand knowledge of the different legal agents, reporter systems, encyclopedias, and the like. Such knowledge is a fundamental part of the scholastic life of both students and lawyers.

Obviously, regarding Jack at the library are Miss Judah and Jean Hesdon, top student with the evening class of '56. The young ladies can be found most any evening and every Saturday.

A memo to students who are taking Wigs. Keep away from the library. It depends almost on G.A.'s book not all of it is wrong.

At the recent commonwealth breakfast sponsored by the Cardinal Newman club of Suffolk, the law school was represented by Mario Guggis, Phil Iuliano, Joe Letourney, and Bill Paparella. Here is prima facie evidence that law students are human and will support functions of the university.

The Wig or Wigs Society, ably led by George Dix, and vice Jack Chisholm, announced a fund raising raffle for the purpose of enlarging the Wigs' library. The prizes which include a U.S. Savings bond will be awarded on Dec. 15 about Dec. 15th.

Second year pre-legal and law students are invited to participate in Wig activities. Former president Harry S. Popson tells us only male students can join at present.

A University honor student last year, Angelo Palmieri is now studying law at a health accredited school. Unable to stay away from his old haunts, Angelo still does most of his studying at the Suffolk library.

The new beagle and I didn't see eye to eye concerning the school's stress on law on a national scope and Suffolk's stress on Mass law.

The lowlands of Grove Street have been the scene of many an apartment pronom for our out of towners. At least one of six problems has been solved and undoubtedly it's a job original, but referring of course

The senior class is witnessing quite a scholastic battle in Horowitz v. Johnson. I conclude D will not be top student in the graduating class. To D demurred, and after it was overruled filed a general answer. The case evolves around the few percentage points separating the litigants. As it stands now, the case will go to the SJC in June. Two of personally like to see both parties defaulted by reason of a percentage tie.

Recently the West Publishing Co sent a guest lecturer to Suffolk. The theme, How to Find the Law, was methodically covered by Mr. Chapman, the lecturer. Those who attended, especially the first year students, received additional first-hand knowledge of the different legal agents, reporter systems, encyclopedias, and the like. Such knowledge is a fundamental part of the scholastic life of both students and lawyers.

Obviously, regarding Jack at the library are Miss Judah and Jean Hesdon, top student with the evening class of '56. The young ladies can be found most any evening and every Saturday.

A memo to students who are taking Wigs. Keep away from the library. It depends almost on G.A.'s book not all of it is wrong.

At the recent commonwealth breakfast sponsored by the Cardinal Newman club of Suffolk, the law school was represented by Mario Guggis, Phil Iuliano, Joe Letourney, and Bill Paparella. Here is prima facie evidence that law students are human and will support functions of the university.

The Wig or Wigs Society, ably led by George Dix, and vice Jack Chisholm, announced a fund raising raffle for the purpose of enlarging the Wigs' library. The prizes which include a U.S. Savings bond will be awarded on Dec. 15 about Dec. 15th.

Second year pre-legal and law students are invited to participate in Wig activities. Former president Harry S. Popson tells us only male students can join at present.

A University honor student last year, Angelo Palmieri is now studying law at a health accredited school. Unable to stay away from his old haunts, Angelo still does most of his studying at the Suffolk library.

The new beagle and I didn't see eye to eye concerning the school's stress on law on a national scope and Suffolk's stress on Mass law.

The lowlands of Grove Street have been the scene of many an apartment pronom for our out of towners. At least one of six problems has been solved and undoubtedly it's a job original, but referring of course

Roger Alley, Rams player who scored 11 points against MIT, missed serious injury in a near-accident the morning following S.U.'s game at MIT. Alley was riding to school with Junior Theresa Reilly when a train forced them off the Lynn Marsh Parkway. Both were slightly shaken up

CHARLES LANDY, '57, announced his resignation to Miss Thomas Lissombe of Lynnfield. Miss Lissombe is a graduate of Boston University and a third grade teacher in the Lynnfield school system. A summer wedding is planned.

CHARLES LANDY, '57, announced his resignation to Miss Thomas Lissombe of Lynnfield. Miss Lissombe is a graduate of Boston University and a third grade teacher in the Lynnfield school system. A summer wedding is planned.