the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 13.5 million (1990-2000) (ONS 2001).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the health care needs of the elderly population. The Department of Health (2000) has set out a strategy for the NHS to meet the needs of the elderly population. This strategy is based on the following principles:

- To ensure that the NHS is able to meet the needs of the elderly population.
- To ensure that the NHS is able to provide a high quality of care to the elderly population.
- To ensure that the NHS is able to provide a range of services to the elderly population.

The NHS is currently facing a number of challenges in order to meet these principles:

- A growing elderly population.
- A growing number of people with long-term conditions.
- A growing number of people with mental health problems.
- A growing number of people with physical disabilities.

FOREWORD

With the sincere hope of bringing a worthy souvenir of significant days at Suffolk University to its many loyal students, the Staff has devoted many hours of hard work.

We feel that your satisfaction with this volume is our compensation, and with this thought the Staff presents to you the—1957 Beacon.

“The Beacon” in years to come will bring back memories of apprenticeship in preparation for life . . . Suffolk means much more to us as Seniors than it did as Freshmen—yes, more than a mere Candlelight, a bright and ceaseless beacon with wider beams for tomorrow.

Yearbook Editor

Russell Mahony

DEDICATION

As we, the Class of 1957, bring to a close our four memorable and rewarding years at Suffolk University, we look back to semesters filled with lasting memories. Never to be forgotten are the dances we sponsored, the parties at which we gathered, the plays we viewed and took part in, and the banquets we enjoyed. Neither will we forget the day to day routine of lectures, term papers, and examinations, which, although not as exciting, are as deeply planted in our minds.

We entered Suffolk each with individual educational goals. We were always guided and often enlightened by warm, unselfish educators, who devoted time and effort to establish with us a firm attachment. These men and women consistently displayed patience and perseverance in the performance of important duties often undervalued and unappreciated at the time of their undertaking.

It is with this in mind that the members of the Senior Class dedicate our "1957 BEACON" with great admiration and sincere appreciation to the Faculty at Suffolk University.

... Our President

MESSAGE TO THE SENIORS

You Seniors, Class of 1957, have been active, participating members of the Suffolk Family for the past four years, and during this time you have formed many friendships that will endure for a long time. Among the many friendships thus formed, you will find that there are three or four that are particularly close and will endure for a long, long time. Now, three or four very close "bonds of friendship" may seem to indicate that you have failed in your personal relations with your fellow classmates. On the contrary, it proves that you have been very successful in revealing your true nature to your fellow students to the extent that they have found much good in you and want to share in that which is good.

The memory of these close associations will provide substance for many pleasant recollections of events and situations which developed while you were together in the University.

Soon you will become Alumni of Suffolk and will want to take part in the activities of the General Alumni Association. The gatherings of the Alumni will provide the medium conducive to the retelling of stories about your student days that have amused you over the years and you may want to recall events that influenced your lives.

You will be surprised how warm, wise and reassuring these remembrances of informal talks with your professors, the administrative officers and fellow students can be. Many times they give new meaning to life.

I have stressed the importance of belonging to the Memory Group—Alumni Association. As time goes on, you will realize that the value of your Suffolk friendships will actually outweigh the value of the "textbook learning." Always remember that as you go, so goes the Suffolk Family and as the Suffolk Family goes, so go you.

So I say sincerely, farewell Class of 1957 and fare-you-well.

... OUR DEAN

To my friends, the Seniors of 1956:

One of the happiest, yet at the same time one of the most regretful, of the privileges of your Dean is to wish you well upon your graduation. Perhaps some of you will remember having heard or read somewhere the old Roman words that combine greeting and goodbye, "Ave atque vale," Hail and Farewell. Far away and antique as this phrase may appear, it was full of warmth and dignity.

It is in the same friendly spirit that I send you this message as you close your college career. You will carry with you from Suffolk a great variety of experiences. Not only have you schooled yourselves in useful skills, in knowledge of science and of our social, economic, political, and philosophical institutions, but you all have experienced friendships which will remain vivid and valued in the years ahead. All of these treasured results of your college days have, there is no doubt, matured and aided you to acquire a sure foundation upon which to build successful lives. To accomplish this is the whole purpose for which the interlocking college activities (curricular and extracurricular) have been arranged. You can face your future with confidence.

And so I greet you and wish you well as you start your real adventure.

semester produced so many class dances it would be virtually impossible to list all in either the past or present tense and keep timeliness in our paper.

With patience and cooperation we will back any class dance solidly. And when club officers show they want their clubs publicized (and it might be mentioned that some of the clubs are virtually mythical) the Journal will be glad to accommodate.

Dr. Edward G. Hartmann, Director of the Library, expressed his appreciation upon receiving this gift, and was most pleased to accept the books which will immediately be added to the 22,000 volumes contained in the Library.

The following law books were listed as new acquisitions: one set of Weigmore—"On Evidence" United States Code, Massachusetts Digest, United States Superior Court Digest, Superior Court Reporter, and Federal Rules and Decisions.

In the meantime we will continue to salute and support 100 per cent the few groups still active in the school and their untiring workers.

Why not let the "Spirit of '60" overshadow our past performance and the present performance of all classes and

SUFFOLK'S NATIONAL CHAMP

During the class of 1957's four years at Suffolk a champion was produced in the person of Joseph Saponaro, Jr., who as a 17-year-old freshman won the NCAA Pocket Billiard Championship in Michigan in 1956.

Saponaro, whose father is a graduate of Suffolk and also competed in the national pocket billiards tournament, gave Suffolk its first national sports champion and brought nationwide sports attention to the University.

In his competition in the national tourney, the diminutive cue wizard upset the defending champion from Southern Illinois, and became the youngest competitor to win the crown.

Now a Sophomore, young Saponaro should easily add to his laurels before graduating from Suffolk.
