Female Drinking on Rise

By Shelby Terrell

A night girl bartender at the city's largest nightclub says she has seen a dramatic increase in the number of female patrons who come to the club after drinking at a party.

"I've heard to mention this ever since I started working here," she says. "I've seen a lot of girls who come in after drinking at a party. They're getting drunk on the way home."

The girls are not alone. Many of the girls who come to the club after drinking at a party are also getting drunk on the way home. They are not alone. Many of the girls who come to the club after drinking at a party are also getting drunk on the way home.

Grick Club Bends Over, Dies

By Steve Grick, Grick, correspondent

The Grick Club, a popular hangout for young people, has closed its doors. The club, which was known for its lively atmosphere and dancing, has been in operation for several years. The closure is attributed to a combination of factors, including declining membership and financial difficulties.

Female Drinking on Rise

By Sheila Terziler

If the freshman class is any indication, the drinking problem can only get worse. Fresh girls show why.

It's a fact: The number of female students who drink has risen sharply in the last few years. In fact, the number of female students who drink has risen so sharply that it has become a major concern of the college community. The number of female students who drink has risen so sharply that it has become a major concern of the college community. Naturally, all this has caused a stir among the female scientists at Suffolk. Admissions Director William Coffin says: "We accept more buggers than you, with daggers, knives, ay-yabbs, yabbs, ay-yabbs than any other school." The Admissions Committee is reviewing the colleges' program of study to include among other things: spear-throwing, spear-throwing, spaghetti-eating, bungee jumping, beer-drinking, ice skating and in-class hockey, all for the well-educated immigrant.

Campus Minister Abu a'Boo Boo is new to the campus this year and has opened up a Mosque in the Zaman Tower's library. Abu invites all new students, no matter what religion, to come down and get involved. It should be noted that the usual sayings of four Christian students in the Mosque last week are in no way true, we think.

Lousy Reviews on Lousy Records!

by John Ferrer
and Rick Crutcher

There are a lot of lousy records out there, and a lot of lousy reviews about them. One of the most recent examples is the new album by the band The Judds. The album has not been reviewed by Progress. This is a pity, because it is a very good album. The Judds are a family band consisting of the late, great Patsy Cline's daughter, Naomi, and her two sisters, Wynne and Kathy. They have been together for over 15 years, and their music is a blend of country, gospel, and pop. Their new album, The Judds, is a collection of 11 songs, including the hit "Afternoon Delusion." The album is a testament to the Judds' talent and hard work.
