Activity fee hike recommended

by Alice Whoolley

The Trustees' Student Affairs Committee (TSAC) will recommend to the full board that the student activities fee be raised from the present sum of $15 to $45 for the academic year 1981-1982. According to the proposal which was brought to the TSAC last week with a total of 2,334 full-time day undergraduates, the total amount collected is $75,110.91. The proposal stated that the present budget is split by the SGA among the following organizations: Beacon Yearbook, the Council of Presidents, the Program Council and the SGA. The money is further administered among the following committees: Junior-Senior week, Freshmen Symposium, week-end Publicity and Promotion, course evaluation, Retreat, the Educational Center, for summer monogram balloons, Operations, General Tax Miscellaneous. The proposal, which was written by Council of Presidents Chairperson Donald Carrey and Student Government Assessor President Mary Singleton, states: "Extracurricular programs improve the quality of student life at Suffolk University, while clubs provide a sense of community among the students. Together clubs and programs create a sense of community which is vitally important as a commuter school like Suffolk. In turn, this sense of community should in the long run produce a greater amount of alumni contributions for university development. However, inflation greatly impacts programs and threatens to reduce both their quality and their quantity. To provide for the needs of full-time day undergraduate students, an increase in the Student Activities fee is recommended.

The present budget for the Council of Presidents is $13,800. The Program Board and Council $27,900 and the Beacon Yearbook $6,500. A survey of universities in the greater Boston area found that Suffolk had the lowest Student Activities fee of any of the schools. In consideration Worcester Polytechnic Institute $15, North Shore Community College $40, Stonehill College $60, Simmons College $60, University of Mass (Boston) $47, and Hesperia College $150. According to Council of Presidents chairperson Donald Carrey, the last time that the Student Activities fee was raised was during the 1974-1975 school year from $25 to $35. At the Presidents' Council March 12 meeting the body voted unanimously that an increase was merited.

Lobbying Committee to handle Reagan cutbacks

by Gina Russell

A student lobbying committee for financial aid, which will attempt to put pressure on representatives and senators, has been established by the Student Government Association (SGA) in a 17 to one vote during their meeting this week. Freshman Class Representative Brian Conley will be the chairperson.

Davey Donovan moved to form this committee, which will engage in a pro-life letter writing campaign to elected officials concerning proposed financial aid cuts. A form will be posted in the cafeteria for students to sign, and it will be sent to Washington, D.C.

"We just have to get the people who really want to lobby for financial aid," said Donovan. "We want to eliminate all money and need to redistribute and orient to form them in other ways."

Donovan said he could see how the idea which Student Government Association President Mary Singleton formed a student issue committee will be effective as either students are talking to their own representatives.

"I think all of you will be prepared to do that and I think you will be prepared to do that," said Singleton. She is President of the Student Government Association of Suffolk College.

attended the meeting to inform members that a student who had been brought up on conduct charges will have to appear before the Student Conduct Committee. Sullivan had asked Singleton to discuss four SGA members, two of which will be present at the committee concerned about the conduct of the unnamed student. The four members chosen Freshman Class Representative were Glenn Conroy, Sophomore Class Representative John McDaniel, Sophomore Class Vice President Bill Hayes and Junior Class President Barry Fitzgerald.

A discussion among SGA members concerning the stage addition in the Suffolk auditorium, which is in violation of Boston's building and fire codes, ensued.

Kenneth Blech, vice-chairman of the Program Board and Faculty's (PBC) Facilities Access Committee (FAC) distributed an FAC report summary to SGA members. The summary, which was distributed in order to provide members with existing violations information. This might be helpful for proposed guidelines and those who object that the PBC and committee will have to deal with the issue.

According to the summary, the primary purpose for establishing the Facilities Access Committee was to investigate current areas of student facilities, and administrative members of the Suffolk community, in those university facilities which are of programming.

A proposed idea of writing a letter to College of Liberal Arts and Science Dean Michael Kormaner expressing concern over the stage construction was discussed by SGA members, who said they were concerned about the security in the summary, which reads:

"There is a problem here that is starting to grow and we must stop it," said Donovan.

committee would pay off a claim resulting from an alleged structure.

Student Activities Director Duane Anderson, who said he expected student phone-call costs, initiated a program which resulted in a proposed logic system which was adopted.

SGA and PBC members will now implement a system, which requires them to log the calls they make in an effort to cut the costs of voice telephone calls.

Fee increase possible

A similar consensus was reached at the March 20 work meeting. An order to change the general feeing of the board was not the main focus of the meeting.

A recent student survey showed that 97.7 percent of those who answered favored an increase in the Student Government Association's (SGA) dues. The dues are $10 per semester.

Among the students who walked the Student Activities Floor B 9 percent chose to be in the Student Government Association (SGA) dues.

But as Student Activities Director Duane Anderson explained, this was not the activities fee, but the dues. Anderson said that more activities fees will be added to the

The PBC will work to make sure that an annual report has been issued for the year, which is still being planned. Social Committee Chairperson William Engel said however that her report was available for the May 1 date.

Before giving a favorable response to the SGA report and the SGA report, the PBC reported a proposed concert will be held at the Suffolk College and the Faculty.

A sound engineer measured the level of music played by a few parties in the cafeteria last week and later said it was determined that a sound level of 98 decibels would be the maximum available volume. Loud and this volume was "pretty loud."

Lewis said that the proposal will help. Many PBC members said they did not think these bands would be a success. It would rather than have a concert, it would draw a larger audience. Bill Anderson, Faculty member, said he would like to see the PBC have a concert.

Ralph J. Hartman, Program Board, said he had scheduled a meeting with the Board of Student Activities, Sullivan for a meeting to discuss the PBC's proposal for financing the events in the cafeteria.

Lewis and President Brian had requested that a sound level test be determined which would be acceptable to those who have offices and classrooms above the cafeteria.

Forensic team to attend debate in California

by Maryann M. Bartolo

For the first time in its forensic history, Suffolk University has participated in the state's annual forensic debate tournament, which will be held at the 35th National Debate Tournament at the California Polytechnic Institute in Pomona, California.

Suffolk has also been chosen as the site of the New England Individual Society Championship Tournament, April 11-12.

More than 800 teams are expected to qualify for the National Debate Tournament. The tournament dates are 1981-1982, and Suffolk will be the site of the national debate tournament in the United States at Schenango.

Daniel Hartnett (communications) and Stephen Hartnett and Jay Morrison (communications) will be representing Suffolk at the national tournament.

Continuing on qualifying for the tournament (communications) and Stephen Hartnett (communications) will be representing Suffolk at the national tournament.

The team, Suffolk's only one to compete against the very best schools in the country, should win any level of competition.

Hartnett pointed out the dedication of the students on the debate team, saying they give up a great deal of their own education to do this and that this shows how important it is to them and how much they think of their school.

According to Hartnett, "The qualifying procedure is an extremely rigorous one, and only the best teams are invited to participate throughout the year. The spot is equally for the district championship from which the national tournament will be selected."

Hartnett said Suffolk formerly participated at the state and regional levels, but was not invited to participate. However, in the past three years Hartnett's team has been the Suffolk outland and would compete successfully with the best colleges and universities in the competition.

Due to our ability to attract outstanding student debaters and the financial support the University has provided, Suffolk will be a national power in the future.

Summa cum laude graduates honored

by Maryann M. Bartolo

The Phi Beta Kappa Committee honored last year's 16 summa cum laude graduates at its annual ceremony last Thursday.

Students honored were Todd Edward Abrams, Michael F. Cronin, Marjorie K. DiLissa, Gretchen B. Geiler, Roseann Catherine Gulla, Laura R. Katron, Alan H. Kierbaum, Cathi Wilane Lantz, Judith McCarthy, Patricia A. Morgan, Patricia Marie Myers, James Beth Street, and Marie Sullivan, William S. Sullivan, Susan J. Todd, and Carol Ann Wedler. Each received a pair of engraved bookends bearing the Suffolk name.

Suffolk President Daniel H. Perham congratulated the graduates recognizing "the many days and nights of labor invested in this goal."

"Although the idea of graduation as a Singleton celebration is new to Suffolk, it is a tradition of honor."

schedule Anderson said that the fall schedules are already in the works and his proposal has been brought to the college committee on this matter.

According to Singleton the SGA just received the results from the questionnaire a few weeks ago. She said that increased activities time would be something for the new SGA to show for.

Singleton was very pleased by the response of the trustees at the TSAC meeting last week. Singleton and Conroy agree that the major concern of the trustees was that the money be properly allocated and that one of the persons completion or termination of one's studies was appropriate in an earlier era, "he said, "no longer reflects today's realities."

He said, "The concept of life-long learning is a better description of the situation in which most of us find ourselves. The need to continuously update our formal learning either by graduate studies or by workshops, institutes, seminars, short courses, in-service training, and a host of other devices. Most of us are likely to be learners all our lives," he said.

Perham also pointed out that "we are living in a world in which career paths change as others seemingly diminish in importance or become 'over supplied.' To succeed in such a world, one needs those qualities of mind that will enable them to adapt to new situations and learn new methods of doing things."

Student questions worthiness of Theatre

Editor: Now this is a long letter but the issues at hand are large and the decisions that are made from here on in will have a tremendous effect on the successful operation of the recently created Dramatic Arts major and upon the future of students such as myself. So please bear with me.

Obviously, something has gone haywire, because the image projected and subtly marketed by Suffolk Theatre on the campus has been extremely to my indication of its being a viable component of academic or non-academic contribution for students here. It is not the theatre as we know it.

The number of students who have been allowed to participate in Suffolk Theatre productions as actors could be counted on one hand. Yet, when students attempt to do their own thing, they are either discouraged or they are given encouragement. When was the last time you saw a student act in a play production that did not directly originate in an acting class? And if you see any of those, you might notice that one play has gone on which was "stuffed" from beginning to end because there has not been a acting student or one actor who has been allowed to do a complete play. Why not? It is not because they are so busy participating in productions from Suffolk Theatre, because I and before me, students from Suffolk don't even constitute a handful in those particular productions. We could count many years that Suffolk Theatre has been allowed to do a complete amount of actors they need because they say they are a "Resident Professional Company." Residents of what? Boston? Worcester? Thoreau? Residents of Professional?

But despite all of the mass confusion, trouble did what seemed to be correct for the time. They assumed leadership because a single leader was in need of Vice President George Bush was in Texas. The financial aspects of the country were protected and television, despite its problems became the "nation's fireplace," according to Jack Thomas a reporter for the Boston Globe. "The errors not withstanding, television again brought the nation together like a family in crisis, just as it has at other national events such as major sporting, Presidential elections or catastrophes," writes Thomas.

But despite all of the mass confusion, people did not seem to be in a great deal of a hurry to watch the history in the making because a visible war was in progress in the Suffolk County Board of Supervisors.

Those involved in the immediate form of the real life drama seemed to be committed to the task of maintaining the smooth running of the county. The Secret Service agents, the doctors, the media personnel, all behaved in a professional and courteous manner.

The shots heard around Suffolk and the world

by Nina Garcia

Ronald Reagan is pushed into a hospital. James Brady lies bleeding on the sidewalk. Secret Service man and a Washington D.C. policeman also lie on the sidewalk.

From out of nowhere, submarine pens and pencils of every variety are pulled from the hiding places and the Secret Service man monkey puts a blood man the man who lost his job. This incident has his nose, his arms, and his legs in a state of confusion. He is a man who has lost his job. He is a man who has lost his job.

For five hours, Americans stopped where they were and watched their ears and eyes riveted to radios and televisions waiting for news, any news. Suffolk students stopped the pencil machines, space invaders, and the ping pong paddles were put down. The phone was as quiet as a Sunday as the film was shown over and over again on the television.

During the breaks, in the news, the student joked among themselves. "He just got his loan taken away." "I found out his SICR was cancelled." "Nancy hired him." But when the film was played again, the non-reaction they were concerned, not so much for Ronald Reagan, but for Brady, Timothy J. McCarthy, and Thomas Delahany. All are news focused on Reagan.

We all know what has happened since that historical Monday afternoon. We know every little detail of John Hinckley's life. We know Ronnie has pulled through, we know James Brady may live but in damage, and details are sketchy on the other two.

The other two men who put their lives on the line for their president. Where were their stories in the hours isolated as the duty of the academic department or another. Nor can such a communal life if it is shared as only a part of the past and not allowed to function in the present. The commitment is a desire that the traditional conventions of modern theater have begun to realize as being something else when on stage but much else when in the world. The commitment requires that we function in accordance with the rules of unity. The unity of time, place and action - the unity of the present moment in reality. For all of us at Suffolk University the commitment must be now, the commitment must be here, and the commitment must be as an unyielding body. The

Rams "timid" - Drop opener 11-0 — But 16 more to win

by Ben Klemmer

For your first summer trip to the beach, do you come armed with the beach, your towel, sunglasses, and jump into the water? I don't. It takes a little getting used to that cold water. It was that way for the Rams, as they proceeded to beach for the first time. But neither water. There was a tough task, but an adequate use, hitting the Rams 11 to 0 in the opener.

Suffolk's most consistent threat came in the top half of the first. Rams were headed with two goals, ending with a long fly ball by Frank Povey. Then came the Rams' attack which was held out by a combination of errors mixed with his walk, and missing punts throughout the game. Rams didn't appear to have found their offensive rhythm, but had a game plan. It didn't seem to be working. This seemed to be the difference. With a game behind you, a team learns and adapts, but what has to be done.

The Rams were not in a good position. He was having a team that was giving up on that needs to find a game plan. This is the time to look. There are 11 games in the Suffolk schedule, and this was the first.

When they were behind by 11-0, they were still trying to work out the kinks. The important thing is they went about it as a team. The Rams realize this has a great start, but like an offensive strategy, they have to develop. No one got an easy shot about an error of a different. The approach is there. When the real times, the team will be ready. When they are able to team.

Even though a large of half-court play, and some mixed up off from the problem has nothing to do with stability at the level. It's assumed a game knows what to do, they're just not into this doing it as a game set. As such, although it pointed out in the Rams' loss, this was the first game. Let's have this one right when it is. At a high school game, the first time out on the field, you feel like an athlete, but in the night, you feel like a professional.

Members will have to line up in the dining room and place of the vault, if calling long distance or locally when exceeding three minutes.
Anderson said he might be getting into heat over the issue. "Concerning student organizations' phone calls, we think that this ongoing procedure will save time and resources. However, if excessive calls continue, we will file a formal complaint recommending the university to charge NCA members for phone calls."
Sophomore Class President Ann Harrington distributed to members a sign up sheet attempting to recruit 20 NCA members who would act as boards and part of the program line of disengagement. Profits who would serve as people to the Parents' Program at Reynolds Library in April.

Suffolk unanimously agreed having a Reading Day during finals week. The Reading Day, which Harrington said was possible this year because of the winter interlock with teaching contracts and the school's accreditation.

A MESSAGE FROM THE OFFICE OF FINANCIAL AID

A part of President Reagan's proposal to cut the federal budget includes substantial cutbacks in federal student aid programs. While none of these proposals have been approved by Congress to date, the Office of Financial Aid is issuing this update to advise you of developments and concerns.

National Direct Student Loan (NDSL) Program

The 1981 - 1982 tentative level of funding for this program has been cut by 40% statewide. Generally, all universities / colleges in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts have received the same dramatic cut due to a reduction in statewide funding. This means fewer and smaller NDSL loans will be awarded for the 1981 - 1982 year.

Basic Educational Opportunity Grant (BEOG) Program

President Reagan has frozen the awarding of BEOG grants for 1981-82 until his budget reductions are accepted and approved by Congress. What does this mean for you? Student Eligibility Reports (SER) will not be sent out to you until June at the earliest. Moreover, if Reagan's plan is accepted, Basic Grant awards will be reduced. The average reduction will be $200 or 17%. Those most affected will be students from middle income families as the federal government will expect larger parental contributions toward their children's education.

Guaranteed Student Loan (GSLP) Program

Over 50% of the students at Suffolk University have received loans under this program during the past year. The federal government now proposes to amend the GSLP program by eliminating the in-school interest subsidy and eliminating the federal special allowance for lenders. Also, students will have to demonstrate financial need in order to receive a loan. These changes will reduce the number of eligible students. A spokesman for the banking industry has stated that many banks will not participate in the loan program if these regulations are implemented, because the financial incentives will be eliminated.

Social Security Benefits

The Reagan Administration has proposed the elimination of Social Security benefits for college students. The proposal calls for phasing out Social Security benefits by not allowing new students to enter the program after August 1. Students now receiving payments would have their benefits reduced by 25% annually until the age of 22 when they would no longer be eligible.

The Executive Director of the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators (NASFAA), Dallas Martin, has said: "... the real impact of the proposed cuts affects more than the students being served and the viability of the programs which are being reduced. The totality of these reductions will impact negatively upon the quality of life in America for millions of our citizens."

The Office of Financial Aid concurs with these remarks. We are extremely concerned about the effect of these major reductions on the students of Suffolk University. Our ability to serve and assist needy students is in jeopardy. It is imperative that all students write to their senators and congressmen today and urge them not to approve these reductions in student financial aid programs. Sample letters are available in the Office of Financial Aid — CRP.3.

fortuitous, and other facts you may have thought of as pure "Perman" and "old man's grates" also exist in the long runs of the ability to think clearly, to analyze various situations, to evaluate evidence, to formulate conclusions.

The final answer of what to do with your life is not something that will flow between the ears with Wednesday afternoon or Thursday morning," said Perman. "Most of us find that we make and re-make that decision many times in our lives as new options and new opportunities emerge."

Perman also said it was his concern that their education convey a sense of

It is the career, Perman said, that Suffolk equips its graduates out first with some practical skills which will help you get your first job but also with the more general learning that will provide the light of flexibility and the capacity to learn new materials and techniques which will see them successfully through the vicissitudes of their careers.

Perman emphasized that the well-being of Suffolk University is a responsibility we all share. The staff of Suffolk University is dependent upon the scholars (and energies) of its students.

as much as upon the sound and prudent management by its administration, the dedication and commitment of its faculty, and the talents and benefactions of

Evening students and SGA fight for funds

by Gina Russell

The President of the United States Association of Evening Students, Tony Parma, urged Student Government Association (SGA) members, during their meeting this week to join forces with the Evening Division Students Association (EDSA) on April 23 to write letters to congressmen protesting budget cuts in federal aid to colleges proposed by the Reagan Administration.

A Hall of Fame evening school will be in trouble as well as 750,000 day college students and all students of the evening division across the country, over the proposed cuts, said Parma.

Parma, a member of the Suffolk Evening Division Students Association, said that he came to the SGA meeting after seeing information about their budget cut in the "Student" column of the journal.

on financial aid in a recent issue of the "Journal."

Parma invited SGA members and the constituents to take 15 minutes on April 23, possibly in the cafeteria, to write handwritten letters, which he says are more effective to elected officials of their individual plights regarding how the federal aid cuts will affect them.

"If an elected official gets 20 handwritten letters, he'll know that it's a real issue and his constituents are really shaking up Parma, and added that any kind of protest helps.

In order to try to stimulate proposed cuts, that Parma explained the group, over the past five years have formed a coalition. The United States Association of Evening Students, the United States Student Association and the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities.

Students who are freshmen now will really feel the cut-off to maintain those who are sophomores who won't be able to go to college, said Parma, who remarked that middle-income people especially will be affected.

"The United States Constitution does provide for equal opportunity but does not require the federal government to provide financial aid to students," said Parma.

Following a lengthy discussion, debating powers and responsibilities of the SGA, members voted 17 to two in favor of allocating $400 for hotel and travel expenses. Two students from the Public Administration Department so they could attend a convention on Public Administration in Detroit, Michigan on April 12-15.

All of the Suffolk students who were present at the meeting were given a copy of the journal.

Rats may return to caf this semester

by Nancy Rezendes

Final approval has been given for Ratskeller to return to Suffolk but it is uncertain if the events will be back this semester because of scheduling problems.

According to Ratskeller, Chairperson Thomas Lenox, "there is a problem with available time." Lenox said, after the guidelines were given final approval the week's "rough time" for the committee to set up a "Rat" for April 10. When the committee decided to hold the event on April 17, Vice President and Treasurer Francis X. Flannery refused to give a liquor permit. According to Lenox, Flannery had "strong objections" to a Ratskeller being held on Good Friday. Flannery could not be reached for comment.

The committee could not schedule the informal Friday afternoon gathering for April 24 since it would conflict with Suffolk's Springfest program.

Lenox said the didn't want to schedule a Ratskeller for the following week since it is the last week of classes. "It would be risky," said Lenox. "The last time trouble occurred was during the week of finals."

The Ratskeller was held in the Suffolk cafeteria up until last December when a fight ensued causing former president Thomas Falmes to cancel the event for the rest of the year. Since then, the gatherings have been held at Riley's Beef and Pub on New Chardon St.

Lenox, along with the committee, has been working since August to re-establish Ratskeller Committee Chairperson Thomas Lenox. The Ratskeller Committee is still at a loss as to whether the event will be held this semester.

Bulletin

by Greg Freeman

PBC's Bulletin may return to the cafeteria this semester if new Program Board and Council (PBC) plans approved last November are approved by the administration.

Although Vice President and Treasurer Francis X. Flannery would not appear at April 17 cafeteria Ratskeller as he felt it was not appropriate to hold the event on Good Friday, the PBC has made tentative plans to hold a Ratskeller in the cafeteria on Thursday, April 16.

President Vincent Conio proposed the plan, which also includes holding a Ratskeller on the last day of finals, at Riley's Beef and Pub. Conio said he would like to be able to have a Rat in the cafeteria on this date, but since there is no liquor permit until 2 p.m. and the day's school final is over before noon, he did not think students would "hang around for a couple of hours."

Mount Vernon fire causes minor damage

by John Maloney

A late night fire in the Mount Vernon Street building caused "less than $1000" damage, according to Vice President and Treasurer Francis X. Flannery.

Assistant Physical Plant Director Edward Farnes speculated that the fire was caused by a "carelessly disposed cigarette" and that it must have been "smoldering for a long time."

Farnes said that Patrolman Michael Benson discovered the fire at 12:05 a.m. Sunday, while making the regular two hour check. Benson smelled smoke, saw an orange glow under the door and then felt the door which was hot. He then immediately called the fire department.

The fire department dispatched engines 10, four and a second ladder 21 and 17. Also at the scene were Resources and Liberty divisions two and three.

The "quick response" of the fire department, due to the proximity of the firehouse, stopped the fire from spreading throughout the building, according to Firefighter D. Benoit of the firehouse at 308 1/2 Cambridge Street who helped direct the midnight blaze. See Fire Page Three
