Suffolk University's celebration of its 100th anniversary began September 21, 2006 with a year-long series of events reflecting on the University's history and looking ahead to a new century of innovation and opportunity.

While the University has grown from a local institution focused on the study of law to a global University educating students in the arts and sciences, business, and law it has remained true to its values of diversity, social responsibility, excellence, and caring.

We hope this year's Centennial edition of The Beacon Yearbook gives a brief glimpse into the Suffolk events, programs and student life that took place here at 100 years.

FACES OF SUFFOLK

Through a series of events over a two week period of time Unity Week 2007 helped us showcase and highlight the diversity of our urban campus.

Close to 75 students took part in event called Faces of Suffolk. Over a three day period students of various races, color, national origin religion, sex, age and more were photographed as individuals and in small groups.

The purpose of the photos were to create a photo display showcasing the diversity within our student body. The exhibit was hung in the Donahue and Sawyer Lounges as well in the Adams Gallery in the Law School.

A Message from President Sargent

Congratulations and best wishes to the Class of 2007. You are a distinctive group, not only because you have worked so diligently at Suffolk University but because, as the Centennial graduating class, you form the bridge between the University's past and future.

Today you stand ready to use the knowledge gained here to launch your career or pursue a higher academic degree, and the University takes great pride in knowing that we have led you to this critical step on the road to your future. It has been an honor for every member of the University community to play a part in your journey of intellectual discovery.

The faculty who have encouraged you in your scholarship and the staff and administrators who have provided support have high expectations for you. We have given you the gift of access to excellence in higher education and you have studied in an atmosphere that recognizes and celebrates diversity. Now it's up to you to apply what you have learned here as you become a contributing member of a global society. We hope that you will continue to sow the seeds of mutual understanding long after you have received your diplomas.

In graduating from Suffolk University, you become one of more than 51,000 active University alumni. These men and women are leaders in education, law, business, the sciences, public service and the arts. We foresee new leaders rising from the Class of 2007 to join them and we look forward to seeing your accomplishments, both professionally and in the spheres of family, friendship and community.

The University, too, grows and changes. During your time here the University set records for the geographic diversity of incoming students from around the world. We expanded our program offerings and improved our facilities. Some of you were the first students to live in the Nathan Miller Residence Hall. Undoubtedly you all studied in the new Mildred Sawyer Library as well as new classrooms. And we continuously work to find creative ways to use technology for the good of our students.

This year has been one of celebration as we mark a great milestone in our evolution. Yet in reflecting on our first 100 years, we see that the foundation of a Suffolk education stands firm. We continue to maintain the small classes and personal attention that are our hallmarks. Each faculty member, administrator and staff person cares about students and, as a community, we all care about promoting a society in which every individual has a chance to succeed.

We hope you will maintain an interest in your University in the years to come. Much has been demanded of you during your time as students, but we're not ready to let you go entirely. I ask that you form a continuing relationship with the Suffolk University family so that you may play a role in the lives of future students. If you benefited from a contact with an alumni mentor, found an internship with the help of a Suffolk graduate, or benefited from an alumni scholarship, you already know the value of the Suffolk University network. As you realize the fruits of your education, please think about giving back to Suffolk through gifts of time, talent, counsel, expertise and financial resources.

You have been an exceptional group of students and your continued support is essential to our mission of providing access and excellence in education as we embark on our second century.

Senior Breakfast

Suffolk University's Class of 2007, and their families and friends, gathered at the Long Wharf Marriott on Saturday, May 19th for the first ever Senior Brunch. This tradition began as a breakfast that took place in the hours before Commencement. However, because of the Centennial celebration this year, it was decided that the brunch on the day before Commencement would provide the perfect setting to officially induct the Class of 2007 into the Alumni Association.

With the Boston Harbor creating the perfect backdrop to celebrate the impending Commencement, over 500 Seniors and their families gathered in the Grand Ballroom on the lower level of the hotel. Warm words were shared by Ellen Solomita, Executive Director of the Alumni Association, Elaine O'Sullivan, President of the Sawyer Business School Alumni Board of Directors, Max Koskoff, President of the Student Government Association and John Silveria, Assistant Dean of Students. The Alumni Association Induction Oath was given by Barbara-Ann Boehler, President of the College of Arts and Sciences Alumni Board of Directors, and the champagne toast was given by Alyssa Lemenager, President of the Class of 2007.

Centennial Commencement

NBA champion, civil rights advocate, and author Bill Russell advised 1,672 graduating students to go out and help create a civil society in his commencement address on Sunday, May 20, 2007, at the TD Banknorth Garden.

Suffolk University's Centennial Commencement brought together students from the Law School, College of Arts and Sciences, and Sawyer Business School.

Russell told the graduates: "Kindness is an act of strength ... and a society that is kind is a civil society.

"I have as much regard for Suffolk University as I have for any school on the planet, because this school, not only gave you lessons, but tried to impart a philosophy, a philosophy on how to be a good citizen. Now, your work is just beginning. And again, I repeat to you, do not be afraid.

"I also ask you to take the responsibility of trying to make this society all that it can be. And each of you are one of the instruments of change. And so I thank you for being here today, because it makes me think that some of the things that we have done in the past have made this possible. ..."

The following honorary degrees were awarded: Bill Russell, Doctor of Humane Letters, Attorney John J. Gardner, 'JD 31, Charmoy, Stolzberg & Holian, LLP, Doctor of Laws, Margot Stern Strom, president and executive director of Facing History and Ourselves, Doctor of Humane Letters and The Hon. Peter T. Zarella, JD '75, justice of the Supreme Court of Connecticut, Doctor of Laws.

Messages from the SGA President and Class Speaker

Dear Class of 2007,

Writing this note to you is very bittersweet. I am excited to congratulate you for all of your accomplishments and endeavors at Suffolk University, yet sentimental that this marks the end of our journey together. It has been an honor to represent such a unique class and to share in the memories that we've had over the past four years; and what wonderful memories they are.

I hope that you all have cherished the time we have spent at Suffolk University as much as I have. Through this yearbook you can see the growth, maturity, accomplishment and pride that we have all gained through the college experience. I cannot think of a better group of people to have shared this journey with. I wish you all the best of luck in everything that you pursue in the future.

Sincerely,
Alyssa Lemenager

Dear Graduating Class of 2007,

The past four years have been some of the most amazing in my life, and I owe it to the actions of this community. We are ending a common thread of four plus years being together, supporting one another through highs and lows. We have seen history unfold in front of our very eyes. On a high note, we saw the Patriots win two Super Bowl championships, and an 86 Year old curse end with the Red Sox Winning a World Series in 2004. On a low note we saw tragedy strike at a college campus in West Virginia, which brought us, as college students across the country together to mourn. When we came in to Suffolk in 2003, there was an underground library, now we have a beautiful facility located at 73 Tremont St. We were the first class to use 10 Somerset, as a functional living space. Some of us sat front row, watching numerous shows and events in an old C. Walsh Theater and even a Few in a newer one. We also sat front row, in the world of politics have the Democratic National Convention in Boston the summer of our freshman year. And a rally for an acceptance speech that never came, in Copley Square.

We have helped craft school and state policy for the better. We have programmed hundreds of events all across the school during our time here. However this is small compared to receiving a great education in the greatest college city in the world, Boston! The most important action though the class of 2007 has taken, has been providing friendship and helping each other. We go out into the world prepared and ready to help a global community. Are skills are useful and needed, and we will use them everyday. We leave here knowing Suffolk has transformed each and everyone us in a different way, and as a better person as that of when we entered.

Thank you for all of the opportunities that you have given me and your classmates. I wish you luck in the future in all of your endeavors, and please remember never let a moment go by without taking full advantage of it. Thank you for these amazing four years, they have gone by way to fast, and I will miss each and every one of you. Congratulations Class of 2007 on your Graduation from Suffolk University.

Congratulations & Sincerely,
Max Koskoff, Class of 2007

Centennial Convocation

Bells pealed and students applauded as more than 400 Suffolk University faculty and invited dignitaries in academic robes paraded through the Boston Common on September 21, 2006. They took their places under a tent constructed on the Common for the Centennial Convocation, the formal beginning of the yearlong celebration of Suffolk University's 100th anniversary. Former President George H. W. Bush was the keynote speaker while honorary degrees were given to several key members of the community. As former President Bush moved the audience with his sense of humour, other speakers talked to the importance of a higher education. Mayor Thomas Memino also made an appearance as the Mayor of Boston. The Suffolk University Music Ensemble also played various pieces to set the mood for such an extraordinary and uplifting event. Hundreds of people who attended the event captured this moment on film to not only commemorate the 100 years of Suffolk's existence, but also to show their gratitude to those who have made it such an amazing and successful institution.

Centennial Activities Fair

This year's Fall Student Activities Fair was hosted as part of Suffolk University's highly anticipated Centennial Celebration on September 21st, 2006. For the first time in Suffolk history, the fair was moved out of Temple Street and onto the Boston Common. Following convocation student clubs and organizations, joined by campus departments, set up tables and chairs around the Parkman Bandstand to highlight opportunities for involvement.

Participants enjoyed cotton candy and kettle corn as they were greeted by friendly faces and welcomed to the Suffolk community. On the Parkman Bandstands, student groups including the Vietnamese Student Association, Ramifications, Suffolk Step Team, Dance Company, Seriously Bent as well individual students also performed a variety of comedic, musical and dance acts.

Program Council, the Performing Arts Office, and the Office of Student Activities and Service Learning were instrumental in the planning process that left many wondering if this could become an annual event on the common.

Centennial Celebration

The birthday celebration continued with the Temple Street Fair on the Common, which featured student music, theater, and dance performances at the Parkman Bandstand. Faces and Places of Suffolk, an exhibit of student photography, captured the University's spirit. Author and actress Anna Deavere Smith gave a lecture, and students and guests enjoyed receptions, exhibits and open houses throughout the University.

The culmination of the day's festivities was a birthday cake cutting and concert in Pemberton Square. Suffolk's Ramifications acappella group made its second appearance of the day, having wowed the Convocation crowd. Local Boston band Averi entertained the crowd allowing many to kick-off their shoes and dance the night away. The Centennial Celebration kickoff attracted more than 5,000 people, and the festivities will run through September 2007, when a grand finale is planned.

For Breast Cancer Awareness Month, a group of Suffolk faculty, staff and students walked up to the State House, each holding pink balloons, which represented the number of women who had been diagnose with Breast Cancer in Massachusetts in 2006.

President Sargent addressed the crowd in front of the State House on Beacon Street. Faculty, staff and students held over one hundred pink balloons, all of which were released after the speech to kick off Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

The annual event was co-sponsored by S.O.U.L.S. Community Service Center, Health Services and the Athletics Department, all of which took part in the planning and execution of the days events.

Fall Fest is Suffolk's annual show. It combines music, dance, and special talents for an amazing evening of entertainment. An ensemble cast performs a variety of numbers. Independent acts made up of individual students and groups perform a diverse array of music forms, dance, and unique talents.

This year's theme focused on Suffolk's own Centennial Celebration, visiting pieces of the school's past along with performances of influential and pivotal musical numbers from that decade, spanning the last 100 years.

This show also marked the first performance in the newly renovated C. Walsh Theatre. Independent group acts included the Dance Company with a choreographed routine to Imogen Heap's "Hide and Seek", an original musical piece by Kimberly June and Adam Harrington. A unique Fashion Show was also put on by the Vietnamese Student Association. All who participated in the performance celebrated the school's success and paved the way for the bright future that lies ahead for many years to come.

Suffolk University's twelfth annual Family Weekend took place from Friday, October 13 through Sunday, October 15, 2006. Approximately 200 families of Suffolk students came to campus and participated in a weekend full of events.

The Fall Fest variety show themed FallFest2006: Celebrating Suffolk's Centennial was a fantastic way to inaugurate the newly renovated C. Walsh Theatre. Approximately 900 people attended one of the three shows that took place throughout the weekend.

About 250 attendees enjoyed a wonderful evening at the New England Aquarium with dinner, music, and IMAX movies while immersed in the world of water, surrounded by exotic and unusual aquatic animals. Many tour options were available throughout the weekend including Duck Tours, historic walking tours of Boston, and the special director's tour of the newly renovated library. The weekend was a wonderful way for families to connect with their Suffolk students, and to explore campus and the surrounding area.

The Theatre Department kicked off the school year in the Studio Theatre with its September Showcase that ran September 14-17. The showcase highlighted the writing, directing, and artistic vision of advanced students. Productions this year included 27 Wagons Full of Cotton, written by Tennessee Williams and Directed by Jonathan Orsini ('07) and How to Kill a Robot written by Theodore Goodell ('07) and directed by David Foley ('07).

The Theatre Department's Family Weekend One-Act Play Festival took place October 12-15, 2006 in the Studio Theatre.

Candide, or Optimism took place November 16-19, 2006 in the C. Walsh Theatre. After a year of renovations, the Theatre Department opened the C. Walsh Theatre with Voltaire's classic satire reinterpreted for the stage, and introduced visiting director Peg Denithorne to Suffolk! Candide, or Optimism was adapted by Len Jenkin from the book by Francois Marie Arouet Voltaire and directed by Peg Denithorne Business students, decked out in suits and dresses and with resumes in hand, took to the ballroom on the top floor of the Omni Parker House Hotel. The occasion? The first BSBA Alumni/Student Networking Event.

Planned by the Suffolk University business clubs, in association with the Sawyer administration--the Student Activities Office, and the Alumni Relations Office--the networking event was designed to give current Suffolk business students a chance to meet alumni, opening up opportunities for jobs and internships. It also gives students a chance to meet other business students, and to speak with faculty and administrators outside of a classroom setting. Roughly two hundred students and alumni ended up attending the event.

Alexandra Ramos livens up the stage with her impression of a song by famous musician Luis Migel

Each fall semester The Suffolk University Hispanic Association (SUHA) holds a showcase portraying the hispanic culture, its traditions and values. Nuestra Cultura, meaning Our Culture, is one of the biggest, most memorable and outstanding events that SUHA does.

Through Nuestra Cultura, the hispanic association gives a chance to suffolk students to show their talents and perform in the show. Nuestra Cultura showcases performances of singers, dancers, musicians, speakers, poets and actors. Nuestra Cultura also has performances by other student clubs.

The evening concluded with an "after party" held in the Donahue Cafe. This reception included a Mariachi band and DJ, as well as plenty of free hispanic food. The very warming and fun environment, and the way it is done, is very alluding to the celebrations held in hispanic culture. Through Nuestra Cultura, students get to see what Hispanic culture is about, our beliefs, our pride, and how fun and interesting "Nuestra Cultura" is.

Members of the Caribbean Student Network and S.O.U.L.S. once again teamed up for annual Soul Food Luncheon. The event was a Thanksgiving luncheon that took place in November, which coincides with National Hunger and Homelessness Awareness Month. Taking place on the fourth floor student lounge of the Donahue Building, the Soul Food Luncheon attracted members of the entire Suffolk community

This year's luncheon consisted of traditional Soul Food including fried chicken, green veggies, rice and beans, mac-n-cheese and more. Members of the Caribbean Student Network and of S.O.U.L.S. volunteered to serve the meals to the community. The goal of the luncheon was for Suffolk faculty, staff and students to enjoy some traditional Soul Food and also to give back to the community. This event has brought people together through the goodness of food. All of the money and canned-food donations were delivered to The Paulist Center and Neighborhood Action.

The International Thanksgiving dinner took place on November 21st in the Donahue Cafeteria. The Cafe was transformed into a sweet smelling gathering space that included Thanksgiving and fall decorations.

Program Council (PC) and the International Student Association (ISA) collaborated on this annual event to showcase the history of an American Thanksgiving and share some of the traditional foods. Hillel and Kosher food were also provided as well as an assortment of international deserts. The event brought over 200 people together from various backgrounds.

The evening kicked off with a prayer from the Reverend Amy Fisher and several faculty and students who spoke about the history of Thanksgiving. The food lines were then opened and Program Council members served the capacity crowd while ISA members helped dish out the deserts to the hungry lines of people.

The Holiday Ball is an annual event which is hosted by Program Council. This extravagant event marks the end of every fall semester, a time in which Suffolk students are ready for some time to enjoy themselves. This year, the ball was held at the Boston Park Plaza on December 8th. Amazingly, Program Council sold exactly 250 tickets, which marks the selling out of the event.

A good time was had by all. Aside from the obvious formal attire, friends and couples gathered at the plaza, ready for what the night had in store for them. Friends danced to a variety of music and ate delicious food which was carefully prepared into a buffet. The buffet style dinner fed all of the guests. The Buffet included various foods such as salads, lemon chicken, pasta and steak. Each table was decorated with poinsettia center pieces and gifts were provided for for each guest. The DJs livened up the crowd as people fueled with the energy to dance all night with all of their friends.

The Vietnamese Student Association's annual show, VSA Farenheit, is held every March displaying various acts on the Vietnamese culture. These traditional acts are performed by the members of VSA. All semester long, members have dedicated their time and efforts to provide the Suffolk Community, friends, family members, and supporters with a glimpse of the Vietnamese culture.

The members created a back drop for the show which depicts a beach scene in Vietnam, consisting of a life-like palm tree, a river and a Vietnamese style boat. The audience members sure felt the warmth of Vietnam's weather in the C Walsh Theatre where that night's performances were amazing. The performances included a variety of different Vietnamese oriented acts. With the acts ranging from traditional to more modern styles, they captured all the perspectives of the Vietnamese culture as well as a collaboration with the American modern culture.

AAA Glimpse of Asia

Jennifer Ung sings "Stranger in My House" for a solo performance which captured the hearts of the crowd

The Asian American Association presents "Glimpse of Asia" is an annual production, which showcases many talents of its members. Each year, a different theme is tagged onto the show and this year's theme of "Reflection" was derived from the ideas of its members.

This year's event showcased some of AAA's past performances. Putting together this show was exciting because of the variety of talents. Many of the interests of people providing for the Asian culture are depicted during this show. The yearly show consists of singing, acting, dancing and even martial arts. The Asian culture, as well as any other culture carries its own stereotypes and expectations. During the show, the performers depicted Asians as being smart and nerdy. Other acts also showed many different traditional aspects of the Asian culture, which are very important to the people including, martial arts, lion dancing and a Vietnamese kimono dance. Glimpse of Asia has indeed provided its viewers with a glimpse of the Asian culture.

Most of the garments were those specific to the Caribbean islands, Asia, India, Africa, Spain, Native American, Latin America and even the Middle East. The theme of this year's show was called BELLE Fashion which stands for breathe, eat, live, love and enjoy. For those who attended the show, this acronym fit their experience. The show contained various different acts including Formal, Black and White, Carabana, Bad Girl, International and Carnival. The show's intention wasn't merely for entertainment. Rather, it focused on building a bridge between the different cultures through the display of their similarities. The designs for the show were the works of David's bridal, Andy Jacques, ill wear, Donna Byrd, and others. There were also a few performances Through the help of the E-Board and dedicated members of the Caribbean Student Network, this year's Fashion Show proved to be a spectacle.

Venture Literary magazine is an annual magazine put together by Suffolk students to present the writings and arts of Suffolk students. The 40th Anniversary of Venture Literary/Arts magazine was held on April 17, 2007 at the Omni Parker House. It also marked the launch of the 40th edition of the magazine. This event was to thank all those who have worked on Venture Magazine in the 2006-2007 school year. Several contributors to the 2007 edition were present to give readings from this year's special edition. The evening featured former editor-in-chief, Jill Garzik (Editor-in-Chief, 2005), as well as Michael Buccell, who was editor-in-chief from 1992 to 1993. They spoke about their experiences as editors of the magazine during their respective years. Other alumni in attendance also included Patrick Bendetti and Venture's first editor-in-chief, Greg Wayland, who brought the first edition of the magazine to the event. Venture Literary magazine has put together la crème de la crème of the works of Suffolk students and has combined them in this year's 40th anniversary edition.

The importance of the 40th anniversary of Venture magazine is discussed through audience participation and readings.

Members of the Suffolk community remained great sports despite the less than ideal location. Over 40 clubs and organization in addition to campus departments were there to showcase their accomplishments throughout the year and reconnect with others before the year ended.

The Temple Street Fair served as a time of relaxation for Suffolk students who are ready to wrap up the spring semester. Participants at the fair enjoyed hot dogs and hamburgers as well as cotton candy and popcorn. Caricature artist, henna tattoo artists and psychics were on hand to entertain the crowd. While Program Council members treated everyone to cotton candy, Suffolk Free Radio rocked the gym with requests from students. Despite the lack of sun, all those who attended the Temple Street Fair enjoyed the atmosphere with friends and fellow classmates.

The Pioneer Performance Series celebrated its sixth year with a production of Urinetown, The Musical.

Urinetown was originally staged at the New York International Fringe Festival in 1999. It went on to win three Tony Awards in 2002: Best Original Score, Best Director and Best Book for a Musical.

The play is a satirical comedy musical which pokes fun at corporate management and culture, law enforcement, government, bureaucracy, idealism, romance, musical theater, itself, and anything else it can get its hands on. It is, at the same time, filled with catchy tunes, lovable characters and witty dialogue. It achieves the best parody can aspire to— to simultaneously mock and exemplify the best in an art form.

Directed by Performing Arts Office director Kristin Baker and choreographed by Suffolk CAS alum Jamie Montesano ('01); the show featured the work of 25 Suffolk student cast and crew members. Performing for three nights (April 19, 20 & 21) to capacity crowds in the C. Walsh, Urinetown, The Musical, was a smashing success!

"Women In Business, a student run organization, held its final event of the 2006-2007 academic year, 'Dancing on the Glass Ceiling.' The goal of the event was to highlight 3 women who have broken through the glass ceiling in their typically male-dominated fields/industries and who have achieved great success. The 3 women were the panelists for the evening and included, Phyllis Godwin, Monica Cost and Kristen Kuliga. The event was moderated by Suffolk University's Academic Provost, Patricia Maguire Meservey, who seamlessly led an inspiring and encouraging conversation between the panelists and the audience. With over 90 attendees. A lovely dinner accompanied the panel conversation followed by live jazz music, performed by The Jack Volpe Project, dessert, coffee and dancing. We have set the bar for ourselves and plan to have another wonderful final event next spring. The success of the event certainly proved that we are achieving our goal as an organization, which is "To educate and inspire women to define and achieve their goals in the business world and beyond."

A guitarists graced the stage at the Open Mic Night in December Fall 2006 brewed up some memorable coffee houses here at Suffolk University. Hosted by the Performing Arts Office each month, a transformed Donahue Cafeteria saw the likes of such themed coffee houses as: Suffolk Idol, The Drag Show, The Ramifications, and an Open Mic Night.

The first coffee house, held in September, was Suffolk Idol co-sponsored by Program Council. It was a night of karaoke and song where students found a chance to show off their vocal skills.

October was the always unpredictable Drag Show co-sponsored by the Rainbow Alliance. It has a reputation as being one of the most popular coffee houses at Suffolk.

The Ramifications headlined the coffee house in November; The evening was chock full of a cappella with performances by guest groups from Emerson College and Northeastern University.

The Open Mic Night, held in December, gave students a chance to express themselves through song and poetry during the final fall Coffee House series.

The annual recognition day program was held on April 24th recognizing hundreds of academic award winners, honor society inductees, Who's Who members and student organization leaders for their participation and achievement over the past year.

With over 600 students recognized annually, it's Suffolk's way of celebrating success both inside and outside the classroom. With opening remarks from President David Sargent, it was an event that students could remember as part of their Suffolk experience for a long time.

This ceremony is held to honor undergraduate students who have shown outstanding scholastic achievements and those who displayed a monumental interest and contribution to co-curricular groups and organizations within the university.

SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY
CONGRATULATES its CENTENNIAL
GRADUATING CLASS

*The Class of 2007
continues a 100-year tradition of excellence that began with the University's founding in 1906.*

*We wish you the best
as you chart life's course, using your Suffolk education
as a guiding beacon.
And we look forward to hearing of your accomplishments in the years ahead.*

SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY
CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

Ryan Christopher Fattman

Ryan,

From the time you were very young we knew you were destined to accomplish great deeds.

You have the qualities that others admire; determination, ambition, righteousness, and kindness all tied together with a quiet confidence. Make the mountains move to your rhythm, dance on. We're right beside you – you make us proud.

We Love You,

Dad, Mom & Anthony

Congratulations!

*To the Centennial Class of 2007,
Suffolk University's Dean of Students
Office wishes you a heartfelt congratulations!*

Colleen McHatton

Congratulations on your graduation,
the world awaits you!

Love,
Mom, Dad, Kelli, Ed, Michael,
Meg & Spanky

Leanne Sewell

Congratulations Leanne!
We're very proud of you! We know you will do well in future endeavors.

Love, Mom, Dad, & Mark

Alexis L. Cristo

We're very proud of all your accomplishments. Congratulations and remember... the future is yours!

Love,
Mom, Dad, & Dudley

Congratulations and Best Wishes to the Class of 2007!

The Office of the Provost

Danielle M. DiRuzza

To Our Little Girl-

*A budding artist at six
Who would have ever thought
How well you would do at art
Years have past so fast
And look at you now at last*

*A beautiful and talented woman at twenty-one
And your years of school finally done
May your future hold happiness and success
We are so proud of you
And wish you the best of luck*

*Good luck finding your dreams
Someone will find you and put you on their team
Go out and grab life, give it a whirl
We know you can do it
Because you'll always be our cute little girl*

*Love,
Mom, Dad, John, Papa, & Grandma*

The Office of

Congratulations Lisa!
You have made us so proud!
We Love You,
Mom and Dad
May happiness follow you through all the twists and turns of your life!

Anthony Guardia

Anthony,
It seems like only yesterday that you were a little boy. You have grown to be a confident and independent young man with a keen understanding of who you are and what you want to do. We have witnessed your accomplishments with admiration and pride. Remember to keep faith and be proud of your heritage. Wishing you all the best life has to offer.

Love,
Mom, Dad, Tina, &
Grandparents

Michelines Quinones

Chachi,
I am very proud of you. You are a very mature young lady. Since you were a little girl, I knew that you would succeed in life and all your dreams and goals would be accomplished.

Kristin Campbell

Kristin,
Congratulations!
Your hard work paid off! We are very proud of you!

Love,
Mom & Dad

Kristen Wallerius

We are so proud of you!
“In light of knowledge attained, the happy achievement seems almost a matter of course, any intelligent student can grasp it without too much trouble. But the years of anxious searching in the dark, with the intense longing their alterations of confidence and exhaustion and the final emergence into the light – only those who have experienced it can understand it.”

-Albert Einstein

Congratulations Class of 2007

And Best of luck in all your future endeavors.

Office of Retention Services

What a year to graduate!

Sarah Youngman

Congratulations!
We wish you the very best the

Este es uno de sus logros para alcanzar sus metas, Panselón.

Ferchito, te felicito por la culminación de tu carrera que es un logro más en tu vida.

Su abuelito Arturo, más familiares y amigos, te felicitan y desean éxitos tu profesión.

Lo que de pequeño era un sueño hoy se convierte en realidad... siempre amando lo que haces, tratando de fundir pensamientos con la libertad necesaria para crecer.

Deseo que vivas tu mundo de sueños.

Me siento orgullosa y feliz de saber que has culminado una etapa tan importante y llena de éxitos. Nunca olvides que para mí es un honor haberte acompañado en el camino hacia el comienzo de una vida llena de felicidades y logros.

Congratulations Class of 2007

SPECIAL THANKS

Congratulations to the Class of 2007. We hope the 2007 Beacon Yearbook serves as a reminder of how special Suffolk University is to each of you. This year's edition of the Beacon would not have been possible without the talent, time and dedication of a group of small individuals. The following were instrumental in ensuring the 2007 Beacon Yearbook captured just a small glimpse of the faces, places and highlights of an historic year at Suffolk University. Thank you to the following individuals and departments:

Coach Jim Nelson

Kim Heagney

Kathy Maloney

Suffolk University Student Government Association

Brenda Laymance

Steve Forslund (Fine Point Photographic)

John Carrier (Herff Jones Yearbooks)

A special thank you to Fatima Litim and Gina Nardone. Without these two dedicated women this Centennial Edition of the Beacon Yearbook never would have been possible. They worked day in and day out to ensure this year's book was a special edition.

Best of luck,

Dan

Dan McHugh

Director, Student Activities
