

Suffolk Sports

Rams open season with 2-0 loss at Curry Franczak loses in coaching debut

By Chris Olson
JOURNAL STAFF

MILTON—From the time they stepped off the bus, they looked like a different team. They walked onto the field together. Their pre-game warm-ups were organized. The players were new and the coach was new. Indeed, this was going to be an entirely different Suffolk University soccer team under coach Dennis Franczak.

Except one thing happened—the game started. Once play got underway, visions of last year's club immediately came to mind. And although they only lost by a score of 2-0 to Curry College, they were outplayed in every aspect of the game.

Some players tried to go through the entire Curry defense alone, and some players tried to pass the ball, but failed. Curry, on the other hand, moved the ball up-field effectively to the Suffolk end of the field to get many scoring chances. Had it not been for the strong play of Erickson Justus in the Suffolk goal, the Rams could have been embarrassed on the scoreboard. Justus, a sophomore from Brazil, recorded 17 saves, an amazing amount for a soccer game.

"We're going to win some games, we just have some problems to work out."

- Soccer Coach
Dennis Franczak

Franczak's comments from the sideline just about said it all. Included in his remarks during the game were: "We're just out of shape," "This is the worst soccer I've seen" and "We're completely eliminating

Suffolk soccer team now 0 - 1 for the season
Journal File Photo

our midfielders."

Instead of working the ball from its defenders to its midfielders, the Rams went for the long passes from the defenders to the forwards, a tactic that rarely works.

The Rams' defense, though shaky, managed to hold Curry scoreless for most of the first half. But the Colonels finally broke through with their first goal of the game 30:42 into the half.

Suffolk's defense finally broke down and allowed three players to walk in on the goal, Justus. Andrew Lator, who wove in and out of the Suffolk defense all day, slipped a pass over to Greg Wolkoff, who blasted the ball into the vacant corner of the net to give Curry a 1-0 lead, all they would need to defeat the Rams.

The Rams looked worse in the second half, but still only surrendered one goal. Wolkoff scored his second of the contest on a fluke shot from about 30 yards out, 55 minutes into the match. Wolkoff lifted a high shot from the right side and Justus timed his leap and got a piece of the ball, but deflected it backwards into the net.

Franczak's post-game comments echoed those made to his players during the game. "We're out of shape and we just need to work harder," said Franczak. "We haven't really played together much, either. "We're going to win some games, we just have some problems to work out."

Quite a few problems to work out, coach. Communication was once again the main problem on the field for the Rams, as it was last year. With players from countries such as Spain, Brazil and Japan, the players can't effectively communicate.

However, an effort was made from the onset. Rob Zeytoonain, new to the team this year and also the shortstop for Suffolk's baseball team,

SOCCER
continued on page 11

Intramural sports offered to all students

By Shelley Lane
JOURNAL STAFF

Now that the semester has gotten into full swing, you may be wondering how one can actually meet someone at this commuting school. If you check out the bulletin board outside the Athletic Office in the Ridgeway Building, you just might find something interesting.

Intramural volleyball starts on Sept. 27 and runs through Thanksgiving. Anyone can put together a roster to play on Mondays through Fridays at 1 and 2 p.m. If you are not on a team, you can be placed on one. Donna Ruseckas, assistant athletic director, has high hopes for starting a women's varsity volleyball team.

Before you can have a varsity team, however, you must have a club team for three years.

"Next year we are looking to start a club team and set up a schedule to play other teams," stated Ruseckas. A first meeting was held last week and six girls turned out.

Things look hopeful for next year. Intramural games are played during the day to make it easier for students to find time in their schedule. "Intramural sports are a way of getting exercise, relieving stress, and socializing," stated Ruseckas.

Aerobics will be offered, starting on Sept. 20 on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 8-8:50 a.m. and 5-5:50 p.m., and Tuesdays and Thursdays from 1-1:50. The program has been successful in the past and has returning certified instructors.

Joe Walsh, assistant athletic director, would like more students to get involved in intramural sports. "I'd like to see fraternities and the Journal have a team," stated Walsh. "You can meet people in a different way, and develop friendships. First year students should really get involved," Walsh continued.

The ever popular intramural basketball league will start up towards the end of the semester. If anyone is interested in joining in on all the fun all you have to do is commit to one hour a week.

If you're not too keen on joining an activity at least check out the fitness center on the second floor of the Ridgeway Building. The hours are Monday-Thursday 8 a.m.-8:30 p.m., and Fridays 8 a.m.-7 p.m.

Intramural volleyball in the Ridgeway Gym
Journal File Photo

The Suffolk Journal

Volume 52, Number 4

Bacon Hill, Boston, Massachusetts

Wednesday, September 29, 1993

Board of Trustees: additions, resignations

By Stephanie Snow
JOURNAL STAFF

Richard J. Trifiro, a Suffolk University Law School graduate, and Paul J. Liacos, Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court have both been elected to five-year terms on the Suffolk University Board of Trustees.

Born in Allston, Trifiro graduated from Boston English High School and Curry College in Milton before graduating from Suffolk Law School in 1957. However, Trifiro opted to concentrate on business, having started several businesses and owning much real estate.

Trifiro has been very active in supporting Suffolk and its students. He is a patron of Summa, the title conferred on donors whose pledges to Suffolk University total $50,000. He established the Trifiro-Sargent scholarship to assist law school students in subsidizing their studies. He also established an alumni scholarship to assist law school students in subsidizing their studies. He also established an alumni scholarship for those 250 high school students, most of them minorities. Those awards range from $300 to $800 depending on the need.

Paul Liacos, new member of the Suffolk Board of Trustees
File Photo

Trifiro interviews about 50 students a year for these scholarships, according to the Summer 1988 edition of the Suffolk University Magazine. According to that same article, Trifiro believes it is important to contribute to the community "during your life time. When you're dead and leave your money behind, other people, particularly the government, will spend it and maybe not the way you would want."

Suffolk awarded Trifiro an honorary doctor of laws degree in June of 1987. Suffolk saluted him, noting, "We proudly salute you for your distinguished citizenship, your business judgment, your leadership abilities, and for opening wide the doors of educational opportunity and economic mobility for deserving young men and women."

Liacos was appointed to the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court as

TRUSTEES
continued on page 2

Medical technology or social disaster? The second segment of a series on the social ramifications of technology

By Shaan Razvi
SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

Advancements in medicine and medical technology have had both positive and negative effects in society. While the advancements may be the missing link in finding a cure to a debilitating disease, they may also plague society as well. Both the positive and negative aspects of medical technology are equally important and both must be examined closely.

This article will look at one area in medical technology which has seen both the positive and negative effects of the advancements in medical technology. This area is the non-intrusive, preventative medical technology. Although many examples can be provided, the field of high resolution imaging will serve as the primary foundation for arguments introduced concerning non-intrusive medicine.

Technology has brought us non-intrusive medicine, a new method of practicing medicine. Non-intrusive implies that the patient is not required to undergo any operative procedure in order for the doctor to understand what the problem is. Instead, imaging equipment is used.

In its most basic context, imaging is the use of sound, light, or magnetic fields to display an object or a group of objects. For example, in the case of sound, an object is placed in close proximity to a sound source. Sound waves are then produced and aimed in the direction of the object.

Because sound waves do not pass through all objects, some are bounced back towards the source. The reflected waves are then picked up by some sort of sensing device.

MEDICINE
continued on page 4

Student injured in classroom fall

By Andrea Rumpf
JOURNAL STAFF

A Suffolk student was injured last week when his chair collapsed during a class in the Sawyer Building. John Pagliuca, fell and hit his head on the wall behind him when the base of his chair suddenly snapped during his class, Theory and Practice of Athletics, in Sawyer. Immediately following the accident, Pagliuca was immobilized by a team of paramedics and university personnel and taken to Massachusetts General Hospital, where he was later released.

Coach James Nelson, the instructor of the class, stated that Pagliuca was not unconscious after the fall. "He complained of a tingling sensation in his left arm, but he was not unconscious," said Nelson. "They immobilized him as a precautionary measure."

It was later verified that the student did not suffer any temporary paralysis.

John Pagliarulo, captain of the university police, stated that Pagliuca was sitting in the older chairs that are common to the Sawyer and Donahue buildings, which are bolted to the floor and connected together. Pagliarulo stated that the base of the chair snapped unexpectedly, causing the injury.

According to the Director of Physical Plant, Sadiq Khaligi, the university is in the process of removing these chairs per suggestion of the University Safety Officer, Judy Scanlon.

Khaligi stated that the physical plant staff had recently removed simi-

FALL
continued on page 2

Inside the Journal

News	2
Lifestyles	5
Editorials	8
Letters	8
Opinions	9
The Drumbeat	12
Classified	14
Sports	16

16 Pages

Ridgeway Lane: This seemingly peaceful alley has the potential for danger, yet it is still a popular route among Suffolk students.

Suffolk student injured in classroom fall

FALL

Continued from page 1

lar chairs from the classrooms on the fourth floor of the Sawyer Building, and were in the process of replacing the remainder of the chairs in Sawyer and Donahue.

However, after the accident, Vice President and Treasurer Francis X. Flannery ordered that the remaining chairs be replaced immediately in order to prevent future injury.

Flannery stated that an outside contractor was brought in to replace the chairs following the accident. According to Flannery, all of the chairs were replaced by Thursday night.

Pagliuca's condition has improved and he returned to classes on Monday.

Flannery stated that Pagliuca has not pressed charges against the university.

Board of Trustees: additions, resignations

TRUSTEES

Continued from page 1

an assistant Justice in 1976 and in 1989 was appointed Chief Justice.

In making the announcement, James F. Linnehan, Chairman of the Suffolk University Board of Trustees, said, "We are honored to add an individual of Chief Justice Liacos' stature to our board. He has distinguished himself as a lawyer, as a jurist, and as a teacher and most importantly as a human being, and we know he will be a valuable asset to Suffolk University."

When he was first appointed as Chief Justice, Liacos vowed to be a vocal advocate for judicial needs and also announced the creation of a commission to evaluate the state court system. David Sargent, dean of Suffolk University Law School, headed the commission on behalf of Liacos.

In his position as Chief Justice, Liacos has been outspoken on some issues. Liacos is quoted in the July 18, 1992 Boston Globe as blasting a budget item that gives a handful of trial court judges a generous early retirement package. Liacos called it "unseemly and self-serving". Liacos urged Governor William Weld to veto the measure.

This year Liacos sponsored the 1993 Judicial Youth Corps. This program is designed to give Boston-area high school students a behind the scenes look at the justice system while they hold down a steady job.

Commenting on the program, Liacos has said, "It is important for citizens, and particularly our youth, to recognize the significance of the law and the legal system in their early lives. What better place to learn about our system than in the courtroom itself."

It was also announced that Thomas P. McDermott retired from the Board of Trustees. He had served as a trustee for seven years.

Walsh, Suffolk trustee dies

The university was deeply saddened to learn of the sudden passing of Thomas R. Walsh, a member of the Board of Trustees and generous benefactor to the school. Walsh died Friday at Massachusetts General Hospital.

Chairman and chief executive officer of C. Walsh, Inc. Movers, Walsh had served as a university trustee since 1983. He was a member of the Building Committee, the Development Committee, the Honorary Degree Committee, the School of Management Committee, and the Student Affairs Committee.

Through his generosity, the C. Walsh Theatre was completely renovated and dedicated on April 30, 1988. The theatre was named for Mr. Walsh's father, Cecil Walsh.

Walsh, who made his home in Canton, had served on a number of boards, including the Greater Bos-

WALSH

continued on page 4

 ATTENTION SENIORS ***

Applications are now available for

Who's Who IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

-Both full- and part-time seniors with a G.P.A. of 2.5 or better, who are active in clubs and organizations at Suffolk University and/or public service in their community are encouraged to apply.

-Applications will be available in the Student Activities Office Thursday, Sept. 30, 1993.

For further information please contact the Student Activities Office at 573-8320, 28 Dorne Street

SGA allocates funds from fidelity account

By Stephanie Snow
JOURNAL STAFF

The Student Government Association (SGA) yesterday passed the first allocation using the Fidelity Reserve Account, an historic precedent that was years in the making. Because of this allocation, none of this year's student activities fees went toward the purchase.

The allocation was for four color computers, hardware, the software and furniture, like desks and chairs necessary with the computers. The passage for this allocation passed unanimously.

Beacon Yearbook, Council of

Presidents and Program Council and SGA are the organizations receiving computers. SGA stated that no more than $12,500 could be allocated for this purchase.

The Fidelity Reserve Account is a bank account that held the student activities money that had been left over after each year. It had been accumulating for over four years before the Fidelity Reserve Account had been discovered about three years ago.

Although there were rumors of people trying to hide the money or some sort of a conspiracy concerning the account, the rumors have never been substantiated.

Unknown to most people, the money had been sitting in the account gaining interest without being utilized. Because their were no guidelines concerning the use of the Fidelity Reserve Account, the combined allocation-finance committee and SGA agreed that the money in the account should not be touched until some could be set up.

Michelle McGinn, SGA president, and last year's treasurer, spent all of last year working on the Treasurer's Manual, a guideline that all the treasurers of the various clubs and organizations could follow. As part of this manual, she was determined to establish some guidelines about the Fidelity Reserve Account so that finally the money could be used.

McGinn took on the Treasurer's Manual as her goal. By conferring with the other organizations treasurers and leaders, McGinn last semester had completed the manual. It came up for review and discussion at a SGA meeting late last semester and passed unanimously.

Because of the Treasurer's Manual successful passage, guidelines for usage of the Fidelity Reserve Account were now in effect. McGinn said that the most important guideline of the Fidelity Reserve Account was that the money cannot be used to supplement any organization.

Suffolk counselor elected president of SOAR

By Andrea Rumpf
JOURNAL STAFF

The New England Chapter of the Society Organized Against Racism in Higher Education (SOAR) recently elected a Suffolk University faculty member to head the organization for a two year term.

Paul R. Korn, a counselor at the University Counseling Center and one of the founders of the Suffolk chapter of SOAR, was elected president of the organization this past July. The New England chapter has a variety of representatives from 27 colleges and universities throughout New England, including Brandeis, Colby College, Brown University, and Northeastern University.

Korn explained that the goal of SOAR, founded in 1981, is to combat racism through education and discussion with college students and faculty members. According to Korn, SOAR is a "staff/faculty network made up of professionals involved directly in dealing with racial incidents, affirmative action, student, staff and faculty development, and training and programming regarding racism on campus."

Korn began his involvement with SOAR through Suffolk University, which joined the program in 1986. As president, Korn will be responsible for continuing to strengthen the organization through communication and to provide support for students and educators.

According to Korn, the Suffolk chapter of SOAR has been "language-rich" over the past couple of years due to the graduation of most of the students who were actively involved in the network.

Korn stated that what the organization needs right now are students and faculty members who are committed to investigating the organization's prior condition. "We need to continue to strengthen our organization to provide support (for students and faculty), and to continue to address discrimination," said Korn, describing the work as "exhausting, important, hard work."

One of the most common perceptions about the organization, according to Korn, is the idea that the group consists only of people of color.

Korn explained, however, that the university chapter is actually a very diverse group of students and faculty members of varied racial and ethnic backgrounds. Some of the goals of Suffolk's chapter of SOAR are to create more educational opportunities for members of the Suffolk community through the sponsoring of films and speakers on campus. Korn also described a "social action component" of the program which will increase racial awareness through education and discussion. However, these events will depend greatly on membership.

Korn explained that one of the factors that will influence the membership of the club is the addition of the diversity requirement. Korn believes that this new requirement will help raise the awareness of racial differences in the classroom. "It makes the university deal with what we (SOAR) are dealing with," said Korn.

The Suffolk chapter of SOAR will be participating in several conferences throughout the semester that will focus on education and leadership. These conferences are open to all members of the Suffolk community.

The Suffolk chapter of SOAR will be participating in several conferences throughout the semester that will focus on education and leadership. These conferences are open to all members of the Suffolk community.

SGA ELECTIONS
OCTOBER 4TH, 5TH AND 6TH IN THE SAWYER LOBBY
FROM 10:00 TO 2:00

ELECTION SEATS AVAILABLE:
1 JUNIOR POSITION
2 SOPHOMORE POSITIONS
6 FRESHMAN POSITIONS

MAKE YOUR MARK

 ATTENTION SENIORS *****

Applications are now available for

Who's Who
IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

-Both full- and part-time seniors with a G.P.A. of 2.5 or better, who are active in clubs and organizations at Suffolk University and/or public service in their community are encouraged to apply.

-Applications will be available in the Student Activities Office Thursday, Sept. 30, 1993.

For further information please contact the Student Activities Office at 573-8320, 28 Dorne Street

This could be the medical breakthrough you've been looking for.

MEDICAL SCIENCES AT SUFFOLK

If you're interested in Medical Biophysics or Radiation Biology, Suffolk has the programs for you. Our Department and Life Biology Departments work with the Radiation Oncology Department of Mass. General Hospital to offer you a dynamic, undergraduate program that's a solid foundation for an exciting medical career. For more information, call (617)575-6646.

Suffolk University
THINK ABOUT IT

8 Ashburton Place, Beacon Hill, Boston 02108

GROUP OPPORTUNITIES

THE UNIVERSITY COUNSELING CENTER IS PREPARED TO OFFER THE FOLLOWING GROUPS DURING THE 1993-1994 YEAR. STUDENTS AND FACULTY INTERESTED IN PARTICIPATING IN A GROUP OR SPONSORING A CLASSROOM PRESENTATION SHOULD CONTACT KAY MAURICE AT EXT. 8226 OR IN RIDGEWAY 305.

- Men and Women in Relationships
- Living in Two Cultures
- Balancing Parenting and Your Career
- Meditation and Relaxation Techniques
- Stress and Time Management Skills
- Assertiveness and Effectiveness
- Majority College and Minority Student
- Recognizing the Signs of Sexual and Physical Abuse
- Responding to Sexual Harassment
- Learning the Signals of Depression (vs. "Blues")
- Urban Survival: Safety and Self-Defense
- Humor and Laughter for Health and Creativity
- Psychology as a Career

ard of Trustees: ditions, resignations

STEEES
need from page 1

nt Justice in 1976 and in appointed Chief Justice. king the announcement, Linehan, Chairman of the University Board of Trust- "We are honored to add an l of Chief Justice Liacos' our board. He has distin- himself as a lawyer, as a id as a teacher and most ly as a human being, and he will a valuable asset to niversity." he was first appointed as tice, Liacos vowed to be a oate for judicial needs and onced the creation of a on to evaluate the state court David Sargent, dean of Suf- ersity Law School, headed sission on behalf of Liacos. position as Chief Justice, a been outspoken on some ish, Suffolk trustee dies

iversity was deeply sad- learn of the sudden passing is R. Walsh, a member of l of Trustees and genero r to the school. Walsh died t Massachusetts General an and chief executive of . Walsh, Inc. Movers, Walsh ed as a university trustee 3. He was a member of the ommittee, the Develop- mmittee, the Honorary Degrec Committee, the School of Man- agement Committee, and the Student Affairs Committee. Through his generosity, the C. Walsh Theatre was completely reno- vated and dedicated on April 30, 1988. The theatre was named for Mr. Walsh's father, Cecil Walsh. Walsh, who made his home in Canton, had served on a number of boards, including the Greater Bos-

WALSH
continued on page 4

SGA allocates funds from fidelity account

By Stephanie Snow
JOURNAL STAFF

The Student Government Association (SGA) yesterday passed the first allocation using the Fidelity Reserve Account, an historic precedent that was years in the making. Because of this allocation, none of this year's student activities fee went toward the purchase.

The allocation was for four color computers, hardware, the software and furniture, like desks and chairs necessary with the computers. The passage for this allocation passed unanimously.

Beacon Yearbook, Council of

Presidents and Program Council and SGA are the organizations receiving computers. SGA stated that no more than $12,500 could be allocated for this purchase.

The Fidelity Reserve Account is a bank account that held the student activities money that had been left over after each year. It had been accumulating for over four years before the Fidelity Reserve Account had been discovered about three years ago.

Although there were rumors of people trying to hide the money or some sort of a conspiracy concerning the account, the rumors have never been substantiated.

Unknown to most people, the money had been sitting in the account gaining interest without being utilized. Because there were no guidelines concerning the use of the Fidelity Reserve Account, the combined allocation-finance committee and SGA agreed that the money in the account should not be touched until some could be set up.

Michelle McGinn, SGA president, and last year's treasurer, spent all of last year working on the Treasurer's Manual, a guideline that all the treasurers of the various clubs and organizations could follow. As part of this manual, she was determined to establish some guidelines about the Fidelity Reserve Account so that finally the money could be used. McGinn took on the Treasurer's Manual as her goal. By conferring with the other organizations treasurers and leaders, McGinn last semester had completed the manual. It came up for review and discussion at an SGA meeting late last semester and passed unanimously.

Because of the Treasurer's Manual successful passage, guidelines for usage of the Fidelity Reserve Account were now in effect. McGinn said that the most important guideline of the Fidelity Reserve Account was that the money cannot be used to supplement any organization.

Suffolk counselor elected president of SOAR

By Andrea Rumpf
JOURNAL STAFF

The New England Chapter of the Society Organized Against Racism in Higher Education (SOAR) recently elected a Suffolk University faculty member to head the organization for a two year term.

Paul R. Korn, a counselor at the university Counseling Center and one of the founders of the Suffolk chapter of SOAR, was elected president of the organization this past July. The New England chapter has a variety of representatives from 27 colleges and universities throughout New England, including Brandeis, Colby College, Brown University, and Northeastern University.

Korn explained that the goal of SOAR, founded in 1981, is to combat racism through education and discussion with college students and faculty members. According to Korn, SOAR is a "staff/faculty network made up of professionals involved directly in dealing with racial incidents, affirmative action, student, staff and faculty development, and training and programming regarding racism on campus."

Korn began his involvement with SOAR through Suffolk University, which joined the program in 1986. As president, Korn will be responsible for continuing to strengthen the organization through communication and to provide support for students and educators.

According to Korn, the Suffolk chapter of SOAR has been "laughing" over the past couple of years due to the graduation of most of the students who were heavily involved in the network.

Korn stated that what the organization needs right now are students and faculty members who are committed to invigorating the organization to its prior condition. "We need to continue to strengthen our organization to provide support (for students and faculty) and to continue to address discrimination," said Korn, describing the work as "exhausting, important, hard work."

One of the most common perceptions about the organization, according to Korn, is the idea that the group consists only of people of color. Korn explained, however, that the university chapter is actually a very diverse group of students and faculty members of varied racial and ethnic backgrounds.

Some of the goals of Suffolk's chapter of SOAR are to create more educational opportunities for members of the Suffolk community through the sponsoring of films and speakers on campus. Korn also described a "social action component" of the program which will increase "racial awareness" through education and discussion. However, these events will depend greatly on membership. Korn explained that one of the factors that will influence the membership of the club is the addition of the diversity requirement. Korn believes that this new requirement will help raise the awareness of racial differences in the classroom. "It makes the university deal with what we (SOAR) are dealing with," said Korn.

The Suffolk chapter of SOAR will be participating in several conferences throughout the semester that will focus on education and leadership. These conferences are open to all members of the Suffolk community.

GROUP OPPORTUNITIES

THE UNIVERSITY COUNSELING CENTER IS PREPARED TO OFFER THE FOLLOWING CIRCLES DURING THE 1993-1994 YEAR. STUDENTS AND FACULTY INTERESTED IN PARTICIPATING IN A GROUP OR SPONSORING A CLASSROOM PRESENTATION SHOULD CONTACT KAY MAURICE AT EXT. 8226 OR IN HUBBERT 365.

- Men and Women in Relationships
- Living in Two Cultures
- Balancing Parenting and Your Career
- Meditation and Relaxation Techniques
- Stress and Time Management Skills
- Assertiveness and Effectiveness
- Majority College and Minority Student
- Recognizing the Signs of Sexual and Physical Abuse
- Responding to Sexual Harassment
- Learning the Signals of Depression (vs. "Blues")
- Urban Survival: Safety and Self-Defense
- Humor and Laughter for Health and Creativity
- Psychology as a Career

This could be the medical breakthrough you've been looking for.

MEDICAL SCIENCES AT SUFFOLK

If you're interested in Medical Biophysics or Radiation Biology, Suffolk has the programs for you. Our Engineering and Biology Departments work with the Radiation Oncology Department of Mass General Hospital to offer you a dynamic undergraduate program that's a solid foundation for an exciting medical career. For more information, call (617) 573-8540.

Suffolk University
8 Ashburton Place, Beacon Hill, Boston 02108

ATTENTION SENIORS**

Applications are now available for

Who's Who IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

-Both full- and part-time seniors with a G.P.A. of 2.5 or better, who are active in clubs and organizations at Suffolk University and/or public service in their community are encouraged to apply.

-Applications will be available in the Student Activities Office Thursday, Sept. 30, 1993.

For further information please contact the Student Activities Office at 573-8320. 28 Deme Street

Deadheads Read the Grateful Dead

GRAB INTER

A follow-up International award-winning charges in each week.

- General office filing, answering it
- Assist in recruitment and pay
- Applicants
- Prior office
- Understanding about immigration, security.
- Sensitivity to a
- Computer liter
- DATABASE
- Applicants

Rich Mello/Journal Staff
Deadheads read a feature in the Boston Globe about the Grateful Dead Concert that is currently in town.

GRADUATE FELLOWSHIP OPENING INTERNATIONAL STUDENT OFFICE

A fellowship position is currently available in the International Student Office. The recipient will be awarded tuition remission for 80% of full time tuition charges in exchange for working 19.75 hours per week. Responsibilities include:

- General office work such as photocopying, typing, filing, answering phone calls and word processing.
- Assist international students with their arrival adjustment and stay.
- Applicants should possess the following skills:
 - Prior office experience
 - Understanding of international student concerns, about immigration, employment, travel and social security.
 - Sensitivity to adjustment issues
 - Computer literacy—knowledge of WordPerfect, DATABASE, and/or Macintosh most desirable.
- Applicants available in the Office of Financial Aid.

Medical technology or social disaster?

■ MEDICINE

Continued from page 1
It is in this way that an image can be formed.

An analogy might be a shadow. A shadow is produced by light which is obstructed. The shadow strongly resembles the object creating it. Magnetic imaging operates using the same basic concept as sound.

The question remains: How has this technology affected society? The answer is not simple. However, some of the effects are prevalent, if not downright obvious.

The most obvious effect is the one which can be observed using intrusive procedures. With imaging devices available, there is no longer a great need for operations to diagnose a condition.

A patient can simply lie on a table for an hour and be diagnosed within minutes, without ever having seen a scalpel. Rather than having to be admitted into a hospital for several days, the patient can be examined on an out-patient basis, thus cutting down on the cost of the medical care.

This is especially relevant today due to the ongoing controversy over the cost of medical care and health care reform.

Discovering a medical problem at an early stage using imaging equipment has also made an impact in both medicine and society in general. In the medical field, this is referred to as preventative medicine, which helps a doctor treat an illness at an early stage, while it is easier to treat. Because of preventative medicine, some diseases that were once fatal are now curable, due to early detection.

Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI), computerized axial tomography scans (CAT scans) and ultrasound are excellent examples of the positive aspects of new technology. However, new technology can have negative aspects. For example, the previously mentioned imaging devices require expensive machinery, sometimes doubling the cost of the patient.

Because of this one financial fact, patients are fed through these machines at an inflated rate. For example, consider an expectant mother. At least three times during her pregnancy, she receives an ultrasound test, which is extremely expensive. This test is to assure both the doctor and the patient that the fetus is in good health.

Health insurance may cover a part of the cost, but at times the patient may be required to pay. This hurts both the patient and the public, who pay taxes and higher health insurance rates to compensate for the large bills.

The President's current proposal to reduce the costs of health care may help to ensure that all Americans will have access to the most modern technology in case of illness, regardless of their income.

In comparison, the hospital, whether it be public or private, profits. This may lead to higher rates of testing in order to boost profits. The ultrasound test is administered anyway, without giving much thought to its necessity.

From unnecessary testing alone, a domino effect is created. The insurance company must pay for the test, which increases the overall insurance rates for all health care recipients. This, in turn, leads to fewer people having health insurance due to its high cost. This may lead to a higher death rate because people who are uninsured tend not to see doctors as often. Death is a morbid ramifications of medical fraud.

Walsh, Suffolk trustee dies

■ WALSH

Continued from page 2

Walsh is the president of both the Literary Society and Sigma Tau Delta, the English honor society.

On top of these three organizations, Benedetti is actively involved in the Suffolk Student Theater. This November, Benedetti will be directing "The Lover," which was written by Harold Pinter, as part of the student one-act performances.

Benedetti hopes that he can challenge the audience to think about their views of marriage. "I am going to try to get the audience in question their conventional views of marriage," Benedetti, an English major, stated.

"Is marriage the conventional boy meets girl, boy takes girl to movie and dinner, boy marries girl and they live happily ever after?"

"In today's society, people realize that there are ups and Thrusday at 1 p.m. at the United Church of Christ, 1541 Washington St., Canton. Visiting hours will be Tuesday and Wednesday from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. at the Chapman, Cole & Gleason Funeral Home, 5 Canton Ave., Milton. Burial will be in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Contributions in his memory may be made to the C. Walsh Theatre Fund at Suffolk University or to The Memorial of the United Church of Christ, Canton.

Got a story idea?
Call the Journal.
573-8323

Lifestyles

Family values a theme for fall TV

By Dan Coakley
JOURNAL CONTRIBUTOR

Dan Quayle is probably sorry he opened his mouth.

One of the most prevalent themes of the new fall TV season is the family. Families in all shapes and sizes: single parents, both mothers and fathers, surrogate parents, traditional nuclear families.

There are families trying to get back together, families trying to recapture something they lost, families just trying to cope with everyday life. There is even one show that has been called unfit for families to watch.

Families are all over the place.

Among the shows involving "traditional" families, in "Against the Grain," the family moves to a town obsessed with football, with the father as "The Mommy's" is the family as seen through the eyes of two mothers who are best friends. "Dave's World" features Harry Anderson ("Night Court") as humor writer Dave Barry. Dave and his wife are children of the 60's who argue about whose turn it is to be the responsible one.

"Boy Meets World," a "Wonder Years" rip-off starring Fred Savage's younger brother, Ben, is the family as seen through the eyes of an 11-year-old boy. "Joe's World" features Peter Onorati ("Civil Wars") as an unemployed electrician playing Mr. Mom to his family.

We also see families trying to make a fresh start. "Harts of the West" features a family that moves to a Nevada dude ranch. In "Against the Grain," the family moves to a town obsessed with football, with the father as the new coach. Peter

Scolari and Pamela Reed move back home to be with their large family in "Family Album."

Single parents, a staple of sitcoms from "Bachelor Father" to "Murphy Brown," are well represented this year. Mothers rule the roost in "Phenom," featuring a teenaged tennis star caught between her mother and her coach, and "Grace Under Fire" with comedienne Brett Butler.

Single fathers get equal time with Richard Lewis and Don Rickles in "Daddy Dearest," Robert Urich in "It Had to Be You," and comedian John Mendoza in "The Second Half," one of the best new shows of the lot.

Also fitting into the single father category is "Frasier."

FALL TV
continued on page 6

File Ph
Kelsey Grammer reprises his 'Cheers' role as 'Frasier.'

University Profiles

A weekly feature highlighting Suffolk's unusual heroes

Patrick Benedetti

By Karen M. Young
JOURNAL STAFF

Patrick Benedetti is a Suffolk University senior who heads three organizations at the school. Benedetti is the editor of "Venture Literary Magazine," the president of both the Literary Society and Sigma Tau Delta, the English honor society.

On top of these three organizations, Benedetti is actively involved in the Suffolk Student Theater. This November, Benedetti will be directing "The Lover," which was written by Harold Pinter, as part of the student one-act performances.

Benedetti hopes that he can challenge the audience to think about their views of marriage. "I am going to try to get the audience in question their conventional views of marriage," Benedetti, an English major, stated.

"Is marriage the conventional boy meets girl, boy takes girl to movie and dinner, boy marries girl and they live happily ever after?"

"In today's society, people realize that there are ups and downs. They realize that there are rocks they are going to stumble on in marriage."

Fantasy is a big part of "The Lover." "A lot of people don't realize that sometimes fantasy plays a big role in marriage," Benedetti said. "If there is fantasy in someone's marriage, they usually keep quiet about it."

"In The Lover," it is not kept quiet. It is probably the most important part of the marriage. It is so important that the fantasy takes over the reality.

"By the end of the play, the characters can no longer distinguish whether their marriage is fantasy or reality."

Benedetti considered trying out for one of the parts in "The Lover" but decided that he would be more valuable on the sidelines.

"I was going to try out for the part of the milkman but I decided that a director should be watching from the audience so he can tell the actors what went wrong," Benedetti explained. "That's hard to do if you're watching from backstage."

Julia Mellen/Journal Contributor
Student director, Patrick Benedetti

The student one-acts are scheduled to run Nov. 18-20 in the C. Walsh Theatre. Benedetti has had a long-time interest in the theater. He was involved in the theater when he was junior high school but he did not keep up with it.

Two years ago, Benedetti was asked to participate in a scene from "Grease" for Springfield, the annual talent showcase of members of the Suffolk community.

"The theater was something that I was always interested in but I never had time to do," Benedetti, who lives in Weymouth, stated. "When I got approached to perform in Springfield I said,

BENEDETTI
continued on page 7

"The Good Son:" a thrillless thriller

By Justin Grleo
JOURNAL CONTRIBUTOR

Call it "Child's Play 4: Chucky Grows Up" or "Friday the 13th Part X: Jason Has a Son." It doesn't really matter. What matters is that "The Good Son" could have been a gripping, psychological study of a young boy's mental torment.

That, however, would be asking for too much. Anyways, it should have been at least fun, right? Think again. It's not.

"The Good Son" is a numbingly cold, snuffily stupid, audience manipulating suspense thriller. What's worse is that the movie's trailer makes it look like a thrill packed roller coaster ride.

Be warned: this is the slowest 87-minute movie ever made—a thrillless thriller! The film stars Elijah Wood ("Forever Young") as a young boy named Mark Evans. Mark is sent from Nevada to Maine, the movie was partially filmed in Cape Ann, to live with his aunt, uncle and two cousins after his mother dies. Mark then wants to take Chucky back to get his career and prosperous life with son.

Mark adjusts to the life in his life quickly. He is a smart Susan, (he is convinced that the sp his dead mother now gets Susan), and he gets well with his cousins (Macaulay Culkin) Connie (Quinn C Macaulay's real life S), and Henry (he is playing around, but soon figures out that t more to Henry than me eye. Henry is obsessed death, particularly the of his baby brother, i lies to his parents cons.

On top of that, smokes, swears and dan shed filled with dmj tools. He also threatens his kid sister on a r basis.

When strange thing to happen, nobody but Mark when he say

THE GOOD SO
continued on page

Lifestyles

Family values a theme for fall TV

By Dan Conkley
JOURNAL CONTRIBUTOR

Dan Quayle is probably sorry he opened his mouth.

One of the most prevalent themes of the new fall TV season is the family. Families in all shapes and sizes: single parents, both mothers and fathers, surrogate parents, traditional nuclear families.

There are families trying to get back together, families trying to recapture something they lost, families just trying to cope with everyday life.

There is even one show that has been called unfit for families to watch.

Families are all over the place.

Among the shows involving "traditional" families, with both a mother and a father, we have several different kinds and approaches. "The Mommy's" is the family as seen through the eyes of two mothers who are best friends. "Dave's World" features Harry Anderson ("Night Court") as humor writer Dave Barry. Dave and his wife are children of the 60's who argue about whose turn it is to be the responsible one.

"Boy Meets World," a "Wonder Years" rip-off starring Fred Savage's younger brother, Ben, is the family as seen through the eyes of an 11-year-old boy. "Joe's World" features Peter Onorati ("Civil Wars") as an unemployed electrician playing Mr. Mom to his family.

We also see families trying to make a fresh start. "Harts of the West" features a family that moves to a Nevada dude ranch. In "Against the Grain," the family moves to a town obsessed with football, with the father as the new coach. Peter

Scolari and Pamela Reed move back home to be with their large family in "Family Album."

Single parents, a staple of sitcoms from "Bachelor Father" to "Murphy Brown," are well represented this year.

Mothers rule the roost in "Phenom," featuring a teenage tennis star caught between her mother and her coach, and "Grace Under Fire" with comedienne Brett Butler.

Single fathers get equal time with Richard Lewis and Don Rickles in "Daddy Dear-est," Robert Urich in "It Had to Be You," and comedian John Mendoza in "The Second Half," one of the best new shows of the lot.

Also fitting into the single father category is "Frasier."

FALL TV
continued on page 6

Kelsey Grammer reprises his "Cheers" role in "Frasier."

University Profiles

A weekly feature highlighting Suffolk's amazing heroes

Patrick Benedetti

By Karen M. Young
JOURNAL STAFF

Patrick Benedetti is a Suffolk University senior who heads three organizations at the school. Benedetti is the editor of "Venture Literary Magazine," the president of both the Literary Society and Sigma Tau Delta, the English honor society.

On top of these three organizations, Benedetti is actively involved in the Suffolk Student Theater. This November, Benedetti will be directing "The Lover," which was written by Harold Pinter, as part of the student one-act performances.

Benedetti hopes that he can challenge the audience to think about their views of marriage. "I am going to try to get the audience to question their conventional views of marriage," Benedetti, an English major, stated.

"Is marriage the conventional boy meets girl, boy takes girl to movie and dinner, boy marries girl and they live happily ever after?"

"In today's society, people realize that there are up and downs. They realize that there are rocks they are going to stumble on in marriage."

Fantasy is a big part of "The Lover." "A lot of people don't realize that sometimes fantasy plays a big role in marriage," Benedetti said. "If there is fantasy in someone's marriage, they usually keep quiet about it."

"In 'The Lover,' it is not kept quiet. It is probably the most important part of the marriage. It is so important that the fantasy takes over the reality."

"By the end of the play, the characters can no longer distinguish whether their marriage is fantasy or reality."

Benedetti considered trying out for one of the parts in "The Lover" but decided that he would be more valuable on the sidelines.

"I was going to try out for the part of the milkman but I decided that a director should be watching from the audience so he can tell the actors what went wrong," Benedetti explained. "That's hard to do if you're watching from backstage."

Julie Miller/Journal Contributor
Student director, Patrick Benedetti

The student one-acts are scheduled to run Nov. 18-20 in the C. Walsh Theatre.

Benedetti has had a long-time interest in the theater. He was involved in the theater when he was junior high school but he did not keep up with it.

Two years ago, Benedetti was asked to participate in a scene from "Grease" for Springfest, the annual talent showcase of members of the Suffolk community.

"The theater was something that I was always interested in but I never had time to do," Benedetti, who lives in Weymouth, stated. "When I got approached [to perform in Springfest] I said,

BENEDETTI
continued on page 7

"The Good Son:" a thrillless thriller

By Justin Grieco
JOURNAL CONTRIBUTOR

Call it "Child's Play 4: Chuckie Grows Up" or "Friday the 13th Part X: Jason Has a Son." It doesn't really matter. What matters is that "The Good Son" could have been a gripping, psychological study of a young boy's mental torment.

That, however, would be asking for too much. Anyways, it should have been at least fun, right? Think again. It's not.

"The Good Son" is a numbingly cold, stultifyingly stupid, audience manipulating suspense thriller. What's worse is that the movie's trailer makes it look like a thrill packed roller coaster ride.

Be warned: this is the slowest 87-minute movie ever made—a thrillless thriller!

The film stars Elijah Wood ("Forever Young") as a young boy named Mark Evans. Mark is sent from Nevada to Maine, (the movie was recently filmed in Cape Ann), to live with his aunt, uncle and two cousins after his mother dies. Mark's father wants to take Christmas break to get his career in order so that he can live a happy and prosperous life with his son.

Mark adjusts to the change in his life quickly. He loves his aunt Susan, (he becomes convinced that the spirit of his dead mother now lives in Susan), and he gets along well with his cousins Henry (Macaulay Culkin) and Connie (Quinn Culkin, Macaulay's real life sister).

Mark and Henry have fun playing around, but Mark soon figures out that there is more to Henry than meets the eye. Henry is obsessed with death, particularly the death of his baby brother, and he lies to his parents constantly.

On top of that, Henry smokes, swears and keeps a shed filled with dangerous tools. He also threatens to kill his kid sister on a regular basis.

When strange things start to happen, nobody believes Mark when he says that

THE GOOD SON
continued on page 6

Family values return to televis

FALL TV
Continued from page 5

with Kelsey Grammer reprising his "Cheers" role as the pompous psychiatrist. While Frasier doesn't have custody of his young son, his insouciant father does move in with him.

Other shows feature less traditional, surrogate families. "The Nanny" features a single father with three kids and Fran Drescher ("Princesses") as the nanny and surrogate mom.

Ex-boxer George Foreman stars in "George," a man who takes in some problem kids, and Sinbad ("A Different World") is a swiving bachelor who adopts some kids of his own in "The Sinbad Show."

Specially designed for family viewing are "Missing Persons" with Daniel J. Travanti ("Hill Street Blues") leading a special police squad who tracks down,

IF YOU RECEIVE FINANCIAL AID, YOU SHOULD READ THIS!

Especially at this time of the year, financial aid recipients should remember the points listed below. Even if you only received a loan, this information still applies to you.

1) You were awarded aid on the basis of the enrollment status you indicated on your application form. IF YOUR ENROLLMENT STATUS CHANGES, YOUR FINANCIAL AID WILL CHANGE. For example, if you received financial aid based on full-time enrollment, and you are registered for only 9 credits, BY FEDERAL REGULATION, your financial aid must be revised. Some programs, (i.e. state scholarship, matching grant, etc.) require full-time enrollment so if your status changes to part-time, you automatically lose the funding. Refer to the brochure you received with your award letter for a listing of programs requiring full-time attendance.

If you don't know what status your aid award was based on, refer to your most recent award letter.

2) You may not receive financial aid to cover the cost of a REPEAT course. Even if you received a grade of L or W when you took the course for the first time, you may not receive aid for taking it again. If you enroll for 12 credits and one of your courses is a repeat, your aid will be revised based on part-time enrollment! Refer to the brochure you received with your award letter for more information on repeat courses.

3) You must be officially registered for all your courses by the close of "ADD/DROP PERIOD." Suffolk University assumes no responsibility for aid revoked because you were not properly registered.

4) You must submit your Student Aid Report (SAR) to the Aid Office before any aid can be applied to your account. If you lost the Student Aid Report the Dept. of Education mailed to you, you may request another copy. Call Office 1-800-722-9700.

Rich Mello/Journal Staff

The 1960s came to Boston last weekend as hundreds of Deadheads converged on the streets surrounding the Boston Garden for the string of six sold-out shows by the Grateful Dead.

The group gathered on Causeway St. and the neighboring side streets around North Station to sell Grateful Dead merchandise, listen to Grateful Dead music, and dance.

Family values return to television this fall season

FALL TV

Continued from page 5
with Kelsey Grammer reprising his "Cheers" role as the pompous psychiatrist. While Frasier doesn't have custody of his young son, his insouciant father does move in with him.

Other shows feature less traditional, surrogate families. "The Nanny" features a single father with three kids and Fran Drescher ("Princesses") as the

nanny and surrogate mom.

Ex-boxer George Foreman stars in "George," a man who takes in some problem kids, and Sinbad ("A Different World") is a swinging bachelor who adopts some kids of his own in "The Sinbad Show."

Specially designed for family viewing are "Missing Persons" with Daniel J. Travanti ("Hill Street Blues") leading a special police squad who tracks down, what else, missing persons, and "seaQuest DSV," produced by Steven Spielberg, with a futuristic submarine, kids on board, and a talking dolphin. Superman is updated for the 90's with an intriguing new twist in "Lois and Clark: The New Adventures of Superman," with a less wimpy Clark Kent and Lois Lane as an equal.

"The Adventures of Briscoe County, Jr." takes a humorous approach to the returning western format.

The most notable departure from the family theme is Steven Bochco's "NYPD Blue," called TV's first R-rated show despite that fact that the Motion Picture Association of America gave the pilot episode a PG-13 rating.

Not every new show features a family-oriented theme, and star-power seems to be the order of the day for many of them. Returning to TV are Valerie Bertinelli in "Cafe American" and John Larroquette in "The John Larroquette Show."

Stars also drive "Townsend Television," a variety show starring Robert Townsend. Rapper Queen Latifa and Kim Fields ("The Facts of Life") team up in "Living Single." Ex-Eagle Glen Frey stars in "South of Sunset."

ABC hopes to make a big star out of comedienne Paula Poundstone in her own improvisational variety show, "The Paula Poundstone Show."

A rotating series of mystery movies feature such stars as Larry Hagman, Kenny Rogers, Pierce Brosnan, and the team of Robert Wagner and Stephanie Powers.

Other shows include "Now," a news magazine with Tom Brokaw and Katie Couric, "Moon over Miami," a "Moonlighting" rip-off, and "The X-Files," about a government team investigating UFOs.

CBS shows an itchy trigger finger, already canceling "Tall Hopes," "Angel Falls," and "The Trouble with Larry."

This season may not feature the widest variety of new programs, but there are a few standouts to appeal to any couch potato.

IF YOU RECEIVE FINANCIAL AID, YOU SHOULD READ THIS!

Especially at this time of the year, financial aid recipients should remember the points listed below. Even if you only received a loan, this information still applies to you.

- 1) You were awarded aid on the basis of the enrollment status you indicated on your application form. IF YOUR ENROLLMENT STATUS CHANGES, YOUR FINANCIAL AID WILL CHANGE. For example, if you received financial aid based on full-time enrollment, and you are registered for only 9 credits, BY FEDERAL REGULATION, your financial aid must be revised. Some programs, (i.e. state scholarship, matching grant, etc.) require full-time enrollment so if your status changes to part-time, you automatically lose the funding. Refer to the brochure you received with your award letter for a listing of programs requiring full-time attendance.

If you don't know what status your aid award was based on, refer to your most recent award letter.

- 2) You may not receive financial aid to cover the cost of a REPEAT course. Even if you received a grade of L or W when you took the course for the first time, you may not receive aid for taking it again. If you enroll for 12 credits and one of your courses is a repeat, your aid will be revised based on part-time enrollment! Refer to the brochure you received with your award letter for more information on repeat courses.

- 3) You must be officially registered for all your courses by the close of "ADD/DROP PERIOD." Suffolk University assumes no responsibility for aid revoked because you were not properly registered.

- 4) You must submit your Student Aid Report (SAR) to the Aid Office before any aid can be credited to your account. If you lost the Student Aid Report, the Dept. of Education mailed to you, you may request another copy by calling 1-800-722-7240.

Everyone knows about our Law School. Now, let's talk about our Paralegal Programs.

PARALEGAL PROGRAMS

At Suffolk, aspiring paralegals enjoy the resources of one of the area's finest law school libraries. You'll also enjoy a choice of both degree and professional certification programs, as well as flexible schedules and a convenient Beacon Hill location. To learn more, call (617) 573-8070.

Suffolk University
THINK ABOUT IT

8 Ashburton Place, Beacon Hill, Boston 02108

"The Good Son:" a thrillless thriller

THE GOOD SON Continued from page 5
Henry is responsible, even as the strange events become progressively more devastating.

To be fair, "The Good Son" is competently made. The director, Joseph Ruben ("Sleeping with the Enemy" and "The Stepfather"), certainly knows what works in a suspense film. That is why it's so annoying that he keeps everything moving at a snail's pace.

Wood is wonderful as Mark. He really lets you believe in his character. He shows every emotion very well. He has a talent for restraint and never over does it.

Mark and Henry are the only well-written characters in the movie. Whereas Wood works well in his role, Culk in goes nowhere with the pivotal role as the disturbed and corruptive Henry. He reduces that part into a rethread of his "Home Alone" character, Kevin McCallister.

Culkin performs a bad act and then spits out a one-liner. This is simply a variation of his "I'm up here in your big horse's ass!" wise-guy persona, played serious instead of for laughs. Culk in's performance induces laughs anyway, as does the entire movie. Culkin's father, Kitt, wanted him to have this role so he could prove he was more than just another child actor. He wants him to make an impact like Jodie Foster!

To paraphrase little Kevin in "Home Alone," "I don't think so!"

things to say and even worse things to do. The audience sees everything coming long before it happens.

"The Good Son" eventually turns into a fight between Mark and Henry for aunt Susan. Although the initial ending is somewhat shocking, it is way too far-fetched to make any lasting impact on the viewer. It basically got laughed off the screen by the audience.

We can only hope that this isn't the big hit of the fall season or start to prepare yourself for "The Return of the Good Son." All in all, this is a brutally bland and ultimately unsatisfying disappointment that is being touted as "The most unexpected thriller of the year!"

It would be better touted as "The most unnecessary movie of the year!"
Grade: D+

Profile: Patrick Benedetti

BENEDETTI Continued from page 5
"Yeah. Sure I'll do it." "I loved performing so much that I wanted to do it again. That's why I started trying out for plays here."

Benedetti has been involved with "Venture" since his sophomore year at the university, when he was a staff member. During his junior year Benedetti became a co-editor of the magazine.

This year, Benedetti is the editor-in-chief of "Venture." He encourages students to submit poetry, short stories and photos to the magazine before the Nov. 12 deadline.

Benedetti's role as president of the Literary Society, a position which he has held for three years, calls for him to organize events for the group. He arranges for poets, writers and speakers to come to the university and lecture.

Sigma Tau Delta is a national organization that holds semi-annual conferences for its members. Benedetti stated that Sigma Tau Delta members can submit paper, short stories and poetry to the group. If their work is accepted, they can read it at the conference and compete for prizes with other members of the group.

Benedetti has participated in two conferences and hopes to attend the next Sigma Tau Delta conference next March in Memphis, Tenn.

Benedetti is by far one of the most active students on the Suffolk campus. Go see "The Lover" and read "Venture" to appreciate the work of this talented Suffolk senior. It is definitely worth the time.

College Fest scheduled for this weekend

An estimated 20,000 college students will unite at the Hynes Convention Center this weekend for the sixth annual College Fest "Way More Weekend."

College Fest is a mega-party featuring live entertainment from up and coming bands, high-powered fashion shows, appearances by NBC television stars, and a mountain of free samples.

This year, College Fest will feature live music from the New York band, Eve's Plum; the Los Angeles eclectic funk-rock trio, Incubed; new age hip-hop from Get Set V.O.P.; and Boston favorite Tribe.

GUESS? Girbaud and YM Magazine will be staging entertaining fashion shows featuring high energy dancers and hot fashion. Local retail stores will be offering students special deals on clothing.

Students can also sample new music from Sony, Polygram, Tower, HMV, BMG and Nuggets. Haagen-Dazs ice cream, Columbo frozen yogurt, Hard Rock chili, Clearly Canadian soft drinks and many other products.

The event will take place at the Hynes Convention Center, which is located at 900 Boylston St., next to the Prudential Center, on Saturday from noon to 8:00 and Sunday from noon to 6:00. Admission is $5.

For more information, call 859-5767.

BEACON HILL PUB

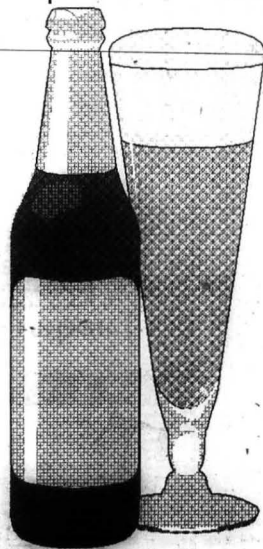

149 Charles St. - Boston

Open till
2 a.m.

September Special

12 oz. Longneck Bud Dry

only $1.95

Free Chicken Wings
Every Thursday and Friday at 5 p.m.

Darts • Pinballs
Video Games
Basketball • Football

New Karaoke Every Wednesday Nite
Starting at 9 p.m.

New Item Boston Ale 16 oz.
Frosted Glass
Draft • $2.95

Bud and Bud Light Draft
16 oz. Frosted Glass • $1.95

Editorials

A positive precedent

The Student Government Association (SGA) yesterday passed an allocation to spend no more than $12,500 on four color computers, software and furniture for themselves, Beacon Yearbook, Council Of Presidents and Program Council.

All of this may sound rather mundane, but it is not. In most cases, money for SGA allocations comes from the student activities fee assessed to every student. In this case, however, the money for this purchase came from the Fidelity Account, an account made up of student activities money that was left over at the end of each year. No student activities money was used in this purchase.

The money in this fund had been accumulating over a period of years, gaining interest on the principle and finally had become a rather large sum. About two years ago, Lisa Masciarelli, former president of SGA, started to investigate the fund and at one time it was estimated that there was over $70,000 dollars in the fund!

The combined allocation-finance committee and SGA agreed that until certain guidelines could be established concerning the use of the money, no one should be able to touch it. After a lot of effort, hard work and time, a Treasurer's Manual was finally adopted last semester which included guidelines on the steps to take when seeking allocations from the Fidelity Account.

Yesterday's allocation was the first of hopefully many to take advantage of the excess funds in the Fidelity Account. It is hoped that every group or organization will investigate the steps necessary to gain access to the funds and take advantage of funds that can help the student body in numerous ways.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

"Joseph McCarthy ... was reading the Suffolk Journal. Must be a good article."

-Dr. Bob Rosenthal lecturing to one of 50 plus students in his Mass Communications class, who was reading the Suffolk Journal while he was lecturing.

Politics vs. the media

The media is an organization that has currently come under fire by a number of different groups for being biased, cynical, and prejudice. People say that the media has lost touch with everyday life, and has hurled itself into a sensationalistic world that focuses entirely on the negative aspects of society, thus contributing to the deluge of social problems instead of simply reporting on them.

Yet, as a society dependent on the media to inform us on a daily basis of events that either directly or indirectly affect our everyday lives, regardless of our personal views on the topics being covered.

Last week's mayoral primary was a prime example of this attitude. In her concession speech, candidate Rosaria Salerno blasted the media for lack of extensive coverage of her campaign.

Political figures in our society cannot survive without the media. They depend on the media to get their message across to the people. Without this primary link of communication between the politician and the voter, the candidate cannot possibly endure the political battles that are indigenous to his or her campaign.

However, political candidates such as Salerno need to recognize the fact that although the media is here for them, it is the responsibility of the candidate to make sure that his or her message is effectively communicated to the public. The media should not be responsible for explaining the candidate to the people, for that is the job of the candidate, not the press.

Political candidates need to take the initiative to ensure that they are understood by the people. It is the responsibility of the candidate to present a platform, and it is the responsibility of the press to report it.

Letters

Words of encouragement from SGA

I am writing this "Letter to the Editor" for several reasons:

1. Congratulations on the wonderful new look the Journal has this year. It is obvious that all of the hard work done over the summer has paid off. The paper looks professional and remains interesting.
2. It was with regret that I read about the resignation of the former editor, Larry Walsh. Through personal experience I know that Larry has put a tremendous amount of time, effort and dedication into the Journal and it has paid off! Good luck Larry in your future ventures. Keep in touch!
3. In response to the first editorial, "A Job Unfinished", comfortable furniture, much like that in the Fenton Lounge, has already been delivered and set up in the new Lounge in the Sawyer Building—I agree that it was unfortunate that the graduate student association felt it was necessary to remove the undergraduate students from the only lounge space in the Sawyer Building. On the other hand, the administration was very helpful in the construction of the new lounge, which is open to the entire student population of Suffolk and should be commended for their efforts.

If there are any questions regarding the lounge, or any other issue, please contact the Student Government Association. Our HOTLINE # is 573-8322. Thank you for the opportunity.

Very Truly Yours,
Michelle McGinn,
President of S.G.A.

The Suffolk Journal

By the students, for the students, since 1936

Lawrence M. Walsh, Editor

Andrea Rumpf, Executive Editor
Stephanie Snow, News Editor
Karen M. Young, Lifestyle Editor
Chris Olson, Sports Editor
V. Gordon Glenn III, Special Editor
Richard Mello, Photo Editor
N.E. Eacobar, Chief Copy Editor
Dr. Gerald Richmond, Advisor

Kevin Lombardi, Managing Editor
Michele Mosca, Asst. News Editor
TBA, Asst. Lifestyle Editor
TBA, Asst. Sports Editor
TBA, Asst. Photo Editor
TBA, Asst. Special Editor
Gary Zerola, Advertising Manager

Norine Škacišgalpou, Consultant

The Suffolk Journal is the student newspaper of Suffolk University. It is the mission of the Suffolk Journal to provide the Suffolk community with the best reporting of news, events, current trends and styles, entertainment, sports, and opinions. The reporting, views and opinions in the Suffolk Journal are solely those of the editors and staff of the Suffolk Journal and do not reflect those of Suffolk University, unless otherwise stated. The Suffolk Journal does not discriminate against any person. Journal's editorial policy, operating procedures, and advertising policy is available upon request.

28 Deme Street • Boston, Massachusetts 02114 • Phone & Fax (617) 573-8323

Warranties: Why do we keep them?

By Gary Zerola

What are you supposed to do with all the owner's manuals, warranties and pieces of paper that come on the box when you buy something new? I can never figure out what I should do with them.

I bought a new juicer a few days ago and there were seven separate flyers to review in there. I was having a blast opening my new toy and the first thing I get is a warning: "STOP!" They don't want me to injure myself. "To avoid injury," it says, "see your recipe book for assembly instructions."

Now, to begin with, I didn't know I had to put this thing together myself, and in addition, why would someone put the instructions for assembly in the recipe book?

"Place stamp here!" That's something I'm supposed to mail back to them if something is missing. Why didn't they make sure nothing is missing?

Here's the important one: "Owner's registration card." They want your name, address, date of birth, color of eyes, how many children you have, who smokes, and what, also, is your income, where you bought it and how you paid for it. It's as if they thought you stole it. "IMPORTANT DO NOT DESTROY!" See this is the reason that I don't throw any of this crap out.....they tell me not to.

I dug up all the warranties I found hidden around the house. I've got more ancient warranty cards than places to put them. Let's face it, it goes like this, anything that's apt to break on an appliance like my new juicer isn't covered by the warranty anyway, so I never send them in. If it breaks, I'll buy a new one. That's the American way.

Congratulations, you are now the proud owner of a new Sony cordless telephone. With care it will give you many years of faithful service." They all say the same things. It doesn't matter whether you buy a radio, power tool, or refrigerator. You know:

"Read instructions carefully"....."Do not immerse in water"....."Keep out of the reach of children"....."Wash occasionally in a mild solution of soap and warm water."

I've got one for my answering machine. I threw the machine out four years ago, but I'm still holding on to the warranty and the owner's manual.

"Your new saw is an outstanding value, combining quality with versatility." They keep selling you on this stuff even after they've got your loot. "Made from the finest materials available."

They usually promise these products won't break, but I notice they always include a list of places where you can get them fixed. Idaho, Wyoming, Tennessee.....there's never a place near me.

"If this item has to be returned, mail it back in its original container." Are they SERIOUS? They expect us to keep all that junk too? I'd have to take it back to the third world country where it was made to find someone who had a chance at putting it back in the package it came in. X's & O's 2 A/F/M/W/A.R., material four great ideas and realization of the way life goes. - And one last bit of reading material....."Batteries not included."

I love you, you love COP

By Jim Behrle

As I sat in the first Council of Students' meeting last Thursday listening to allocations by the Black Student Union and SUHA, I thought to myself: "Jim! What speaker will you bring to Suffolk this year?"

Last year I was responsible for bringing Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Edward Albee to campus. This year, however, I wanted something different. Something bigger. More controversial. Someone misunderstood who would be eager to tell the world their side of the story.

Someone who would have a great deal to teach Suffolk students. A household name. Someone who has the love and admiration of millions. Someone who could enthral an audience with cute songs and funny dances. Someone purple. But who? Where could I find such a person? I thought and thought.

Suddenly, like an ice-cream headache, it came to me. Bring Barney, the big purple dinosaur, to campus. I mean, what we need first and foremost in the halls of this fine university is definitely a six-foot lavender Tyrannosaurus! I felt that if this University could survive visits by people like William F. Buckley and

Fred Luechter, why shouldn't we tolerate the viewpoints of someone who is considered ten times as annoying. Truthfully though, I think that our big purple friend has gotten a bad rap over the years.

I mean, yes, he does have a very strange and pedophile-like look to him. But Barney does talk about a lot of issues that should make Suffolk students stop and listen.

I took the liberties over the weekend to view several thousand hours of the "Barney and Friends" PBS program. I have to say that I was most affected by the Barney program that dealt with the tremendous problem of crossing the street. I know how many times I've almost got squashed out on Deme St. because I was too busy eating a gyro to look both ways. There was that other episode on brushing your teeth. This kind of wisdom should be shared with all of the Suffolk community.

But, perhaps the most important lesson Barney may have to teach us is this: "DON'T TALK TO STRANGERS!" I can't tell you what a refreshing change it was to see a children's program that didn't preach the old standard "Talk to strangers". PBS pinko party line. We shouldn't have to be nice to strangers! Be rude to strangers! Yes, O great and purple one. But I digress.

I am convinced that bringing Barney to campus would truly be the most enlightening event at Suffolk since its inception. There is only one small problem. I fear that there is a great number of Barney hate-mongers here at Suffolk. Sick, twisted dino-haters who would try to intimidate and silence poor Barney. People much like those ten-year-olds that beat the hell out of a Barney imitator in some K-Mart in Wichita or something.

Is this the kind of world that we live in? An innocent dinosaur is hunted down like a common criminal and publicly humiliated.

I believe we owe it to Barney to give him a forum for his beliefs. I think that if we as a community take what Barney has to teach us to heart, Suffolk University will truly become a family, bonded together in love and friendship. I hope my colleagues on the Council will agree with me. This is a really important event, worthy of the power and prestige of our body. I believe that Suffolk is ready, ready for Barney!

Voices of Suffolk

By Julie Miller

If the presidential election were held today, would you choose the same candidate?

"Yes, because he (Clinton) is doing a good job and has a good looking wife."

John Prestigiovanni
Sophomore

"Yes, because I don't like what Clinton stands for. Bush is the man."

Dennis Frasu
Sophomore

"Yes. Perot because he seems to be the only one who knows what he's talking about."

Rui Couto
Junior

"Yes, because I still don't like Bush or Clinton."

Michael Schröder
Sophomore

"Yes, I guess Clinton's the best of the three."

Jeff Pellicia
Freshman

do we keep them?

ful on to the warranty and the owner's manual.

"Your new saw is an outstanding value, combining quality with versatility." They keep selling you on this stuff even after they've got in your loot. "Made from the finest materials available."

They usually promise these products won't break, but I notice they always include a list of places where you can get them fixed. Idaho, Wyoming, Tennessee...there's never a place near me.

"If this item has to be returned, mail it back in its original container." Are they SERIOUS? They expect us to keep all that junk too? I'd have to take it back to the third world country where it was made to find someone who had a chance at putting it back in the package it came in. X's & O's 2 ARE/AM/W A.R., material four great ideas and realization of the way life goes. - And one last bit of reading material..... "Batteries not included."

You, you love COP

Fred Luechter, why shouldn't we tolerate the viewpoints of someone who is considered ten times as annoying. Truthfully though, I think that our big purple friend has gotten a bad rap over the years.

I mean, yes, he does have a very strange and pedophile-like look to him. But Barney does talk about a lot of issues that should make Suffolk students stop and listen.

I took the liberties over the weekend to view several thousand hours of the "Barney and Friends" PBS program. I have to say that I was most affected by the Barney program that dealt with the tremendous problem of crossing the street.

I know how many times I've almost got squashed out on Derne St. because I was too busy eating a gyro to look both ways. There was that other episode on brushing your teeth. This kind of wisdom should be shared with all of the Suffolk community.

But, perhaps the most important lesson Barney may have to teach us is this: "DON'T TALK TO STRANGERS!" I can't tell you what a refreshing change it was to see a children's program that didn't preach the old by standard "Talk to strangers" PBS pinko party line. We shouldn't have to be nice to strangers! Be rude to strangers! Yes, O great and purple one. But I digress.

I am convinced that bringing Barney to campus would truly be the most enlightening event at Suffolk since its inception. There is only one small problem. I fear that there is a great number of Barney hate-mongers here at Suffolk. Sick, twisted dino-haters who would try to intimidate and silence poor Barney. People much like those ten-year-olds that beat the hell out of a Barney imitator in some K-mart in Wichita or something.

Is this the kind of world that we live in? An innocent dinosaur is hunted down like a common criminal and publicly humiliated.

I believe we owe it to Barney to give him a forum for his beliefs. I think that if we as a community take what Barney has to teach us to heart, Suffolk University will truly become a family, bonded together in love and friendship. I hope my colleagues on the Council will agree with me. This is a really important event, worthy of the power and prestige of our body. I believe that Suffolk is ready; ready for Barney!

By Julie Miller

ay, would you choose the same candidate?

it because he's the only one who is what he's out."

"Yes, because I still don't like Bush or Clinton."

"Yes, I guess Clinton's the best of the three."

Michael Schröder
Sophomore

Jeff Pellicia
Freshman

President signs National Service Bill

WASHINGTON — President Clinton signed into law a scaled-back version of his plan to promote national service among youth in exchange for federal help with the high cost of a college education.

Under the National Service and Community Trust Act, students could work for up to two years, making $4,725 annually to pay for college or pay off existing loans. Students also would earn a minimum wage salary as they perform service in a variety of social service and environmental settings.

During the 1992 presidential campaign, Clinton had envisioned national service as a way for all students to attend college. But his plan fell victim to various budget pressures, and the package ultimately approved by Congress is expected to reach only a fraction of the 5 million U.S. college students who currently receive financial aid.

Nonetheless, the president, at a White House ceremony on Sept. 21, touted the new plan as an important starting point to instill in youth a tradition of service.

"I hope, believe and dream that national service will remain throughout the life of America not a series of promises but a series of challenges across all the generations and all walks of life to help us rebuild our troubled, but wonderful, land," the president said. To underscore the importance of the occasion, Clinton signed the bill with pens used by Franklin Roosevelt to create the Civilian Conservation Corps, a Depression-era service program, and John F. Kennedy when he created the Peace Corps in the 1960s.

The bill authorizes $300 million in 1994 to cover about 20,000 participants in the program. The bill sets a goal of $500 million in funding in 1995 and $700 million in 1996 to recruit a growing number of students.

In addition to receiving minimum wage and college aid, participants will receive health insurance, and child-care assistance if applicable, during their service period.

The bill passed the House in early August by a vote of 275-152. Senate Democrats broke a Republican-led filibuster of the bill late in the summer and eventually approved the measure by a 57-40 vote on Sept. 8.

Even before the bill's signing, Clinton kicked off his national service effort earlier this year with a "Summer of Service" for 1,500 students. These youth helped immunize children, rebuild communities and clean the environment at 16 programs in cities including Boston, Los Angeles, New Orleans, New York and Philadelphia.

Student groups generally expressed support for the president's plan but noted that its limited scope will help only a few students receive the type of financial help they need for college.

"The type of program Bill Clinton preached (during the campaign) was probably not possible," said Stephanie Arellano, vice president of the United States Student Association. As approved by Congress, she said, "it will affect only a fraction of most college students' debt."

Arellano also expressed concern because the minimum-wage jobs envisioned under the service plan will not help recent graduates who already have loan payments. "They won't be making enough money to pay off a loan," she said.

Nonetheless, she said USA viewed enactment of the bill as a positive step toward encouraging community service. "We're pleased that it passed," she said, especially provisions favored by student groups to offer health care and child-care assistance.

As for the future, however, Arellano said it is still imperative that Congress provide more funds for other student financial aid programs because national service will reach only a small number of students. Already, however, budget pressures are forcing Congress to consider freezing the maximum Pell Grant and funding for other programs.

"The Pell Grant has been shortchanged," she said, noting that the freeze proposal followed a year in which the maximum grant was cut by $100. In addition, though Clinton proposed the national service bill, his budget plan also would have cut other financial aid programs to reduce the budget deficit.

Congress is still working on bills to set financial aid funding for the 1994 fiscal year, a process which begins this month. Both the House and Senate are expected to complete action on these bills in the next few weeks.

-College Press Service

DONT SIT AROUND MISSING EVENTS!

PLAN THEM!

JustDontWith ProgramCouncil

573-8323

Meetings Are Held Every Tuesday, 1-230pm in Fenton 337

ALL WELCOME

DO NOT BOYCOTT SCHOOLS

The Bo... disadva... Society... I say th... with stud... year, but g... grade: thi... but these... our cities... Most of... pended mil... have been... Where... even ask a... that are t... and bus d... Does a... not having... Has any... members... I really... I graduate... However... Moteo Pro... Schools... I really... this but it... these kids... trapped in

Member

President signs National Service Bill

WASHINGTON — President Clinton signed into law a scaled-back version of his plan to promote national service among youth in exchange for federal help with the high cost of a college education.

Under the National Service and Community Trust Act, students could work for up to two years, making $4,725 annually to pay for college or pay off existing loans. Students also would earn a minimum wage salary as they perform service in a variety of social service and environmental settings. During the 1992 presidential campaign, Clinton had envisioned national service as a way for all students to attend college. But his plan fell victim to various budget pressures, and the package ultimately approved by Congress is expected to reach only a fraction of the 5 million U.S. college students who currently receive financial aid.

Nonetheless, the president, at a White House ceremony on Sept. 21, touted the new plan as an important starting point to instill in youth a tradition of service.

"I hope, believe and dream that national service will remain throughout the life of America not a series of promises but a series of challenges across all the generations and all walks of life to help us rebuild our troubled, but wonderful, land," the president said.

To underscore the importance of the occasion, Clinton signed the bill with pens used by Franklin Roosevelt to create the Civilian Conservation Corps, a Depression-era service program, and John F. Kennedy when he created the Peace Corps in the 1960s.

The bill authorizes $300 million in 1994 to cover about 20,000 participants in the program. The bill sets a goal of $500-million in funding in 1995 and $700 million in 1996 to recruit a growing number of students.

In addition to receiving minimum wage and college aid, participants will receive health insurance, and child-care assistance if applicable, during their service period.

The bill passed the House in early August by a vote of 275-152. Senate Democrats broke a Republican-led filibuster of the bill late in the summer and eventually approved the measure by a 57-40 vote on Sept. 8.

Even before the bill's signing, Clinton kicked off his national service effort earlier this year with a "Summer of Service" for 1,500 students. These youth helped immunize children, rebuild communities and clean the environment at 16 programs in cities including Boston, Los Angeles, New Orleans, New York and Philadelphia.

Student groups generally expressed support for the president's plan but noted that its limited scope will help only a few students receive the type of financial help they need for college.

"The type of program Bill Clinton preached (during the campaign) was probably not possible," said Stephanie Arellano, vice president of the United States Student Association. As approved by Congress, she said, "it will affect only a fraction of most college students' debt."

Arellano also expressed concern because the minimum-wage jobs envisioned under the service plan will not help recent graduates who already have loan payments. "They won't be making enough money to pay off a loan," she said.

Nonetheless, she said USSA viewed enactment of the bill as a positive step toward encouraging community service. "We're pleased that it passed," she said, especially provisions favored by student groups to offer health care and child-care assistance.

As for the future, however, Arellano said it is still imperative that Congress provide more funds for other student financial aid programs because national service will reach only a small number of students.

Already, however, budget pressures are forcing Congress to consider freezing the maximum Pell Grant and funding for other programs. "The Pell Grant has been shortchanged," she said, noting that the freeze proposal followed a year in which the maximum grant was cut by $100. In addition, though Clinton proposed the national service bill, his budget plan also would have cut other financial aid programs to reduce the budget deficit.

Congress is still working on bills to set financial aid funding for the 1994 fiscal year, a process which begins this month. Both the House and Senate are expected to complete action on these bills in the next few weeks.

Congress is still working on bills to set financial aid funding for the 1994 fiscal year, a process which begins this month. Both the House and Senate are expected to complete action on these bills in the next few weeks.

-College Press Service

DONT SIT AROUND MISSING EVENTS!

PLAN THEM!

Just Do It With Program Council

573-8323

Meetings Are Held Every Tuesday, 1-2:30pm in Fenton 3371

ALL WELCOME

THE DRUMBEAT

DOES THE BOSTON PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM CARE?

By Ulanda Oliver

The Boston Public School system is really a disadvantage to the high school students of today's Society.

I say this because I have attended summer school with students who "flunked" during their academic year, but go to summer school and receive a "p" for a grade. This proves that no one cares if these kids learn but these uneducated students will be the ones running our cities tomorrow and how will they do so unarmed?

Most of the students don't realize that this has happened until they have graduated, tried to obtain jobs or have been rejected from the colleges of their choice.

What are the counselors and parents? We won't even ask about the school committee. They're the ones that are too busy worrying about how to pay teachers and bus drivers.

Does anyone realize that the kids are suffering from not having a direct education or is it that no one cares?

Has anyone ever questioned the school committee members about what school their children attend?

I really shouldn't complain because I was a student. I graduated with good grades and I'm in college. However, one must realize that I am a product of the Metro Program and never attended the Boston Public Schools.

I really feel that I don't have a right to comment on this but it's hurting our society. Who will stick up for these kids who are lost, uneducated, and who are trapped in a system that doesn't care?

Members of the Black Student Union

Black Student Union members visit Malcolm X exhibit at ICU

By V. Gordon Glenn, III
JOURNAL STAFF

With looks of amazement, serious thoughts, and concentrated hearts, members of the Suffolk University Black Student Union (BSU) and Robert Bellinger, history professor and director of the Collection of African-American Literature, journeyed last Thursday to the Institute of Contemporary Art (ICA) to witness Malcolm X: Man, Ideal, Icon.

According to Kellie Jones, adjunct curator at the Walker Art Center and art history graduate student at Yale University, who wrote, "Malcolm X: Man, Ideal, Icon" explores "the representation of this leader in American visual culture."

"It is also a three-dimensional environment in which to learn more about who he was and why he continues to be an important figure in our consciousness," she wrote.

"The exhibition examines Malcolm's life and philosophies in three ways: it looks at the man through photographs and speeches, contemplates the ideal in terms of fine art, and considers the icon via products of popular culture."

"The exhibit is a strong reflection of the changes Malcolm went through, his different views on how to get to where African Americans need to be," said BSU president Diane Clark.

"Malcolm's life mirrors the changes in African American's over the decades. We are still trying to reach Malcolm's militant and spiritual stages of life - this is what keeps him an icon in our eyes."

"It is powerful. I feel like I am there," said Jennifer Pollard, former BSU vice president who went on to lament on the lack of involvement by other BSU students. "It's a shame that 20 people signed up and six people showed up."

"We don't have any more people to look up to as Black leaders," said Julia Riley, a senior in the School of Management who was not present at the meeting that discussed the outing. "I think it's a shame. BSU is an union. Everyone should be involved."

Marking on the impact of MALCOLM X continued on page 13

BSU students Diane Clark, Debbie Weekes and Julia Riley observe articles from Danny Tinsdale's "Birth of a Nation" at the ICA.

Reflection of the changes Malcolm went through, his different views on how to get to where African Americans need to be," said BSU president Diane Clark.

"Malcolm's life mirrors the changes in African American's over the decades. We are still trying to reach Malcolm's militant and spiritual stages of life - this is what keeps him an icon in our eyes."

"It is powerful. I feel like I am there," said Jennifer Pollard, former BSU vice president who went on to lament on the lack of involvement by other BSU students. "It's a shame that 20 people signed up and six people showed up."

"We don't have any more people to look up to as Black leaders," said Julia Riley, a senior in the School of Management who was not present at the meeting that discussed the outing. "I think it's a shame. BSU is an union. Everyone should be involved."

Marking on the impact of MALCOLM X continued on page 13

BSU projects team takes part in Roxbury Boy's and Girl's Club open house

Special to the Journal

Over the past weekend The Black Student Union participating in an afternoon long open house at the Roxbury Boys and Girls Club. The purpose of the open house was to give parents the opportunity learn what the Club has to offer this year in academic and social services.

The Black Student Union set up a table amongst several other programs in an effort to promote its cultural learning club. According to B.S.U. President Diane Clark "This is an excellent opportunity for us see how receptive the children are going to be to the things we want to do with them."

The Community Projects Team (Team 1) of the B.S.U. made up of 15 dedicated members including Debbie Weekes, Cedric Jenkins, Line Rose Isaac, Linda Williams and Karen Lawrence, have been working hard to implement a cultural program for the youths that will develop individual thought and learning through cultural activities.

Several curious youngsters lined up at the B.S.U. table to sign up for the program after asking questions such as "What kinds of museum are you taking us to? Can we go on a trip to New Hampshire?" "The kids were very excited about the trip to Suffolk's Friedman Field Station" said Clark of the trip which was postponed due to Boys Club scheduling changes. The trip has been tentatively rescheduled for the weekend of October 1-3.

Parents were also excited about the opportunity for their children as well as themselves to take in some cultural happening such as the African Art Exhibits and Lecture Series at the Museum of Fine Arts on September 29 and October 13, speaking events at the Suffolk campus and several other trips to historical land marks in the in-

Parents were also excited about the opportunity for their children as well as themselves to take in some cultural happening such as the African Art Exhibits and Lecture Series at the Museum of Fine Arts on September 29 and October 13, speaking events at the Suffolk campus and several other trips to historical land marks in the in-

Parents were also excited about the opportunity for their children as well as themselves to take in some cultural happening such as the African Art Exhibits and Lecture Series at the Museum of Fine Arts on September 29 and October 13, speaking events at the Suffolk campus and several other trips to historical land marks in the in-

Parents were also excited about the opportunity for their children as well as themselves to take in some cultural happening such as the African Art Exhibits and Lecture Series at the Museum of Fine Arts on September 29 and October 13, speaking events at the Suffolk campus and several other trips to historical land marks in the in-

Parents were also excited about the opportunity for their children as well as themselves to take in some cultural happening such as the African Art Exhibits and Lecture Series at the Museum of Fine Arts on September 29 and October 13, speaking events at the Suffolk campus and several other trips to historical land marks in the inner city such as the Dilloway Thomas House in Roxbury as well as science related trips such as the Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology.

Students gather in the Quiet Lounge in the Student Activities building for a reception during the Student Activities Open House.

BSU projects team takes part in Boy's and Girl's Club open house

BSU Continued from page 11

One youngster became excited about the production of an African-American scientist exhibit after getting yes to the question "Would we get to make the exhibit how we want it?"

B.S.U. Team 1 member Tyrone Kelley played an important role in answering the questions children and parents had, as well as making sure that the B.S.U. table was visible and interesting.

The open house participants were entertained by the African dance group that performed on the stage of the C. Walsh Theater for the African Extravaganza last February, the children sat wide-eyed and full of joy to watch the lively cultural dance and clothing.

Clark noted, "The way they watched those dancers told me that they are interested in culture. We just need to bring it to them."

- Aveda
- Biogenol
- Coldwell
- Joico
- Kenra
- KMS
- Matrix
- Nexxus
- Paul Mitchell
- Redken
- Sebastian
- Salskha
- TRU
- & More...

SAVE $5.00 on Precision Haircuts
SAVE $10.00 on Color Services
SAVE $15.00 onperms
Hair care products

102 Tremont Street
(corner of Ironfield Street)
Downtown Boston, MA 02108
(617) 451-5359

Buy any two products receive the lower priced item 1/2 PRICE!

Complimentary consultation with our professional stylists.
Call for an Appointment or just come in.
Special offers with coupon only. Not to be combined with other offers.

Ask about our frequent cutter card -- 9th cut free
Owner is a Suffolk Graduate

The Suffolk Journal is looking for staff reporters for news, sports, lifestyles, and specials. No experience necessary. Call Andrea at 573-8323

Festival To Focus On Bridging Races

CLEMSON, S.C.- Can art help bridge differences between the races? That is the kind of question that will be raised during Clemson University's first Festival of African-American Literature and the Arts to explore the role of race in novels, films and other art forms.

The Oct. 20-24 festival will feature playwright Alice Childers, novelist Doris Sanders and poet Nikki Giovanni, who will discuss their work, and an art exhibit and jazz and gospel concerts.

Harvey Gantt, former mayor of Charlotte, N.C., will deliver the welcoming remarks. In 1963, Clemson University was the first college in the South to be integrated peacefully by Gantt, then an architecture student.

While Clemson is proud of that heritage, it doesn't consider itself a model of race relations. "Like all campuses, we have had our share of racial tension and dissonance," said Dean of Liberal Arts Robert Waller. "Clemson took the lead in 1963, and we'd like to do it again, with some honest talk about the issues that are shaping our country's future. This festival is an attempt to show that bridges are being built."

-College Press Service

Malcolm X exhibit displays stages of life, says Bellinger

MALCOLM X Continued from page 11
tance this exhibit has in the African-American community, she said. "I really enjoyed it and I'll come back again."

"One of the things Malcolm said was...that the one regret (he had) was not going to college," said Bellinger. "Here we have him...and others who have the opportunity (and) we don't take advantage of (all the resources available.)"

One of the pieces that BSU members observed was Clairissa Sligh and Carole Byard's EHM (1992), one of the two works commissioned for the exhibition.

EHM, which is the acronym for El Hajj Malik, the name Malcolm X took on after his pilgrimage to Mecca in 1964.

EHM displays a circular, white wall with portions of the FBI files on Malcolm X in black type encased by a jail with thick, black, bars which surrounds a model of a mosque. An African Figure With Nails, which Bellinger, who acted as a guide, described as "the healing figure" was displayed inside the mosque.

According to Bellinger, the figure is a representation of both the curative effects and of the negative things that have been drawn in it. "Malcolm X was a healer," said one of the artists in the video that was encased in the figure's stomach.

"It seems we are looking toward the past when we should be looking to the future for strength," said Debbie Weekes, School of Management senior, when asked about her feelings on what the exhibit says about the present state of affairs for African-American mentors.

"I feel that the exhibit illustrates the different views that people have of Malcolm X from decade to decade."

-Diane Clark

Danny Tinsdale's Birth of a Nation (1992) was the other piece commissioned by the ICA which uses a variety of media and addresses a range of issues, also exhibited Malcolm X's three stages in life. According to Bellinger, those three stages were: hustler, revolutionary and spiritual Leader.

"This city has a lot in it to offer us as African-Americans," said Bellinger, who went on to indicate the need for an inclusion of African-American contributions in art classes.

"It's part of our responsibility to seek out and learn what we should know (as

V. Gordon Glenn
Portion of wall from "EHM" by Clairissa Sligh (which shows enlarged portions of FBI files)

have some time to devote to study...to know where the community is. You don't want to come out of college being disconnected," he added.

At the end of the day, BSU members took their turns writing their comments on the reflection board set up in the reading room on the way out. Among the individual response sheets were written:

"Malcolm's stages in life reflect the stages African-Americans are still experiencing. Some day we will reach that level of mentality and take 'our' place in the world." Someone else wrote, "The voice is still being heard, now let's act." Another wrote simply, "I miss him."

And you thought rock'n'roll was the only thing a CD player could add to your room.

Interactive programs on CD-ROM cover every subject from politics to physiology. And they incorporate sound, animation, music and video clips -- so ordinary topics become more exciting, absorbing and relevant.

Because a single CD-ROM disc stores more information than 500 floppy disks, you'll be able to instantly access encyclopedias, dictionaries and extensive databases -- all with the click of a mouse.

CD-ROM technology brings vast new capabilities to the desktop. Which is why, soon, more and more computers will include a CD-ROM drive. Buy one, and you're making an investment that will last you well into the future.

Apple Macintosh Centris™ 610
8/20 with CD-ROM, Macintosh Color
Display and Apple Extended Keyboard II.

Bring your papers, projects and presentations to life by incorporating photos, clip art and a huge variety of type fonts -- all available on CD-ROM.

You still want rock 'n' roll? Plug in a pair of self-powered speakers and the CD-ROM drive plays music CD's -- so you can work away, while listening to your favorite music.

Buy the Macintosh Centris 610 now, and you'll also receive the CD-ROM gift pack: two discs that include an electronic encyclopedia, a dictionary, interactive rock videos, music for your audio CD player and more (worth $37!).

Macintosh Promo
CD gift pack. FREE.

CD-ROM technology puts a world of information at your fingertips, and enables you to work with sound, video and animation. Buy the Macintosh Centris 610 with CD-ROM drive, and you'll also receive our CD gift pack. Visit your Apple Campus Reseller today. While you're there, ask about financing with the Apple Computer Loan! And discover the power of Macintosh! The power to be your best!

For further information contact Ken Bieria at Suffolk University Bookstore
148 Cambridge St. • 227-4085

Apple and Macintosh are registered trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc. in the U.S. and other countries. "The Power to be your best" and "Macintosh" are registered trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc. in the U.S. and other countries. © 1993 Apple Computer, Inc. All rights reserved.

Open office hours with President David J. Sargent

Originally scheduled for Thursday, September 30, 1993
from 1:00 to 2:30 p.m.

Have Been Postponed!

Office hours will now be held on Tuesday, October 5, 1993 from 1:00 to 2:30 p.m.

EVERY TEST DOESN'T HAVE TO BE A STRESS TEST

Practicing for tests can help raise your scores and lower your anxiety. And Cliffs StudyWare has the most complete test preparation programs available for your computer. Call for a free Test Survival Kit, details at:

CAMPUS STORES OF MASS.,
SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE
148 CAMBRIDGE STREET
BOSTON, MA 02114
TEL. 617-552-0000

Students gather in the Culet Lounge in the Student Activities building for a reception during the Student Activities Open House.

BSU projects team takes part in Boy's and Girl's Club open house

BSU
Continued from page 11
ner city such as the Dillway Thimas House in Roxbury as well as science related trips such as the Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology.
One youngster became excited about the production of an African-American scientist exhibit after getting yes to the question "Would we get to make the exhibit how we want it?"
B.S.U. Team 1 member Tyrone Kelley played an important role in answering the questions children and parents had, as well as making sure that the B.S.U. table was visible and interesting.

The open house participants were entertained by the African dance group that performed on the stage of the C. Walsh Theater for the African Extravaganza last February, the children sat wide-eyed and full of joy to watch the lively cultural dance and clothing.

Clark noted, "The way they watched those dancers told me that they are interested in culture. We just need to bring it to them."

The Suffolk Journal is looking for staff reporters for news, sports, lifestyles, and specials. No experience necessary. Call Andrea at 573-8323

- Aveda
- Bioglenol
- Coldwell
- Jasco
- Kenra
- KMS
- Matrix
- Nexxus
- Paul Mitchell
- Redken
- Sebastian
- Sukesha
- TRI
- More...

SAVE $5.00 on Precision Haircuts

SAVE $10.00 on Color Services

SAVE $15.00 onperms

Hair care products

Buy any two products receive the lower priced item 1/2 PRICE!

Complimentary consultation with our professional stylists. Call for an Appointment or just come in. Special offers with coupon only. Not to be combined with other offers.

Ask about our frequent cutter card -- 9th cut free
Owner is a Suffolk Graduate

And you thought rock'n'roll was the only thing a CD player could add to your room.

Interactive programs on CD-ROM cover every subject from politics to physiology, and they incorporate sound, animation, music and video clips. So ordinary topics become more exciting, involving and relevant.

Because a single CD-ROM disc stores more information than 500 floppy disks, you'll be able to instantly access encyclopedias, dictionaries and extensive databases—all with the click of a mouse.

CD-ROM technology brings vast capabilities to the desktop. Which is why, soon, more and more computers will include a CD-ROM drive. Buy one, and you're making an investment that will last you well into the future.

Apple Macintosh Centris™ 610 $1299 with CD-ROM, Macintosh Color Display and Apple Extended Keyboard II

Bring your papers, projects and presentations to life by incorporating photos, clip art and a huge variety of type fonts—all available on CD-ROM.

You still want rock 'n' roll? Plug in a pair of self-powered speakers and the CD-ROM drive plays audio CDs too—so you can work away while listening to your favorite music.

Buy the Macintosh Centris 610 now, and you'll also receive the CD-ROM gift pack—two discs that include an electronic encyclopedia, a dictionary, interactive rock videos, music for your audio CD player and more (worth $327).

CD-ROM technology puts a world of information at your fingertips, and enables you to work with sound, video and animation. Buy the Macintosh Centris 610 with CD-ROM drive, and you'll also receive your CD gift pack. Visit your Apple Campus Reseller today. While you're there, ask about financing with the Apple Computer Loan. And discover the power of Macintosh! The power to be your best.

For further information contact Ken Biera at Suffolk University Bookstore 148 Cambridge St. • 227-4085

Macintosh and Macintosh are registered trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc. All other trademarks are the property of their respective owners. © 1993 Apple Computer, Inc. All rights reserved. "The power to be your best" is a registered trademark of Apple Computer, Inc.

Festival To Focus On Bridging Races

CLEMSON, S.C. — Can art help bridge differences between the races? That is the kind of question that will be raised during Clemson University's first Festival of African-American Literature and the Arts to explore the role of race in novels, films and other art forms.
The Oct. 20-24 festival will feature playwright Alice Childers, novelist Dori Sanders and poet Nikki Giovanni, who will discuss their work, and an art exhibit and jazz and gospel concerts.

Harvey Gantt, former mayor of Charlotte, N.C., will deliver the welcoming remarks. In 1963, Clemson University was the first college in the South to be integrated peacefully by Gantt, then an architecture student.

While Clemson is proud of that heritage, it doesn't consider itself a model of race relations. "Like all campuses, we have had our share of racial tension and dissonance," said Dean of Liberal Arts Robert Walter. "Clemson took the lead in 1963, and we'd like to do it again, with some honest talk about the issues that are shaping our country's future. This festival is an attempt to show that bridges are being built."

—College Press Service

Malcolm X exhibit displays stages of life, says Bellinger

MALCOLM X
Continued from page 11
tance this exhibit has in the African-American community, she said, "I really enjoyed it and I'll come back again."
"One of the things Malcolm said was... that the one regret (he had) was not going to college," said Bellinger. "Here we have him...and others who have the opportunity (and) we don't take advantage of (all the resources available)."
One of the pieces that BSU members observed was Clarissa Sligh and Carole Byard's EHM (1992), one of the two works commissioned for the exhibit.
EHM, which is the acronym for El Hajji Malik, the name Malcolm X took on after his pilgrimage to Mecca in 1964.

EHM, displays a circular, white wall with portions of the FBI files on Malcolm X in black type enclosed by a jail with thick, black, bars which surrounds a model of a mosque. An African Figure With Nails, which Bellinger, who acted as a guide, described as "the healing figure" was displayed inside the mosque.

According to Bellinger, the figure is a representation of both the curative effects and of the negative things that have been drawn in it. "Malcolm X was a healer," said one of the artists in the video that was encased in the figure's stomach.
"It seems we are looking toward the past when we should be looking to the future for strength," said Debbie Weekes, School of Management senior, when asked about her feelings on what the exhibit says about the present state of affairs for African-American mentors.

"I feel that the exhibit illustrates the different views that people have of Malcolm X from decade to decade."
—Diane Clark
Danny Tinsdale's Birth of a Nation (1992) was the other piece commissioned by the ICA which uses a variety of media and addresses a range of issues, also exhibited Malcolm X's three stages in life. According to Bellinger, those three stages were: hustler, revolutionary and spiritual leader.
"This city has a lot in it to offer us as African-Americans," said Bellinger, who went on to indicate the need for an inclusion of African-American contributions in art classes.
"It's part of our responsibility to seek out and learn... We should know (as

Portion of wall from "EHM" by Clarissa Sligh and Carole Byrd which shows enlarged portions of FBI files on Malcolm X.

WE GO WHERE YOU GO!

CALL US FOR:

- Low Student-Teacher-Youth Airfares
- Low Domestic Airfares • AMTRAK
- Adventure Tours • Language Courses
- International Student & Teacher I.D.
- Youth Hostel Memberships
- Car Rental & Leasing
- Email & Britrail Passes issued on the spot
- For "Around the World" Itineraries. CALL Tina at 576-3134

FREE STUDENT TRAVEL MAGAZINE!

Council Travel

BOSTON 799 Boylston St. 686-1996
CAMBRIDGE Mass Ave/Harvard St 497-1497
NEWPORT Spinnaker U. MT SUCKETT CT 481-6503 925-9555

Open office hours with President David J. Sargent

Originally scheduled for Thursday, September 30, 1993 from 1:00 to 2:30 p.m.

Have Been Postponed!

Office hours will now be held on Tuesday, October 5, 1993 from 1:20 to 2:30 p.m.

EVERY TEST DOESN'T HAVE TO BE A STRESS TEST.

Practicing for tests can help raise your scores and lower your anxiety. And Cliff's StudyWare has the most complete test preparation programs available for your computer. Get a free Test Survival Kit, details at:

CAMPUS STORES OF MASS., INC.
SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE
148 CAMBRIDGE STREET
SUFFOLK, MASS 01914
TEL: 817-887-8888

Festival To Focus On Bridging Races

CLEMSON, S.C. — Can art help bridge differences between the races? That is the kind of question that will be raised during Clemson University's first Festival of African-American Literature and the Arts to explore the role of race in novels, films and other art forms.

The Oct. 20-24 festival will feature playwright Alice Childers, novelist Dori Sanders and poet Nikki Giovanni, who will discuss their work, and an art exhibit and jazz and gospel concerts.

Harvey Gant, former mayor of Charlotte, N.C., will deliver the welcoming remarks. In 1963, Clemson University was the first college in the South to be integrated peacefully by Gant, then an architecture student.

While Clemson is proud of that heritage, it doesn't consider itself a model of race relations. "Like all campuses, we have had our share of racial tension and dissonance," said Dean of Liberal Arts Robert Waller. "Clemson took the lead in 1963, and we'd like to do it again, with some honest talk about the issues that are shaping our country's future. This festival is an attempt to show that bridges are being built."

—College Press Service

Malcolm X exhibit displays stages of life, says Bellinger

MALCOLM X — Continued from page 11
tance this exhibit has in the African-American community, she said. "I really enjoyed it and I'll come back again."

"One of the things Malcolm said was...that the one regret (he had) was not going to college," said Bellinger. "Here we have him...and others who have the opportunity (and) we don't take advantage of (all the resources available)."

One of the pieces that BSU members observed was Clarissa Sligh and Carole Byrd's EHM (1992), one of the two works commissioned for the exhibition. EHM, which is the acronym for El Haji Malik, the name Malcolm X took on after his pilgrimage to Mecca in 1964.

EHM, displays a circular, white wall with portions of the FBI files on Malcolm X in black type encased by a jail with thick, black, bars which surrounds a model of a mosque. "An African Figure With Nails, which Bellinger, who acted as a guide, described as "the healing figure" was displayed inside the mosque.

According to Bellinger, the figure is a representation of both the curative effects and of the negative things that have been drawn in it. "Malcolm X was a healer," said one of the artists in the video that was encased in the figure's stomach.

"It seems we are looking toward the past when we should be looking to the future for strength," said Debbie Weekes, School of Management senior, when asked about her feelings on what the exhibit says about the present state of affairs for African-American men.

"I feel that the exhibit illustrates the different views that people have of Malcolm X from decade to decade."

—Diane Clark

Danny Tinsdale's Birth of a Nation (1992) was the other piece commissioned by the ICA which uses a variety of media and addresses a range of issues, also exhibited Malcolm X's three stages in life. According to Bellinger, those three stages were: hustler, revolutionary and spiritual leader.

"This city has a lot in it to offer us as African-Americans," said Bellinger, who went on to indicate the need for an inclusion of African-American contributions in art classes.

"It's part of our responsibility to seek out and learn. We should know (as

V. Gordon Glenn, III/Journal Staff
Portion of wall from "EHM" by Clarissa Sligh and Carole Byrd which shows enlarged portions of FBI files on Malcolm X

WE GO WHERE YOU GO!

SOON NOW TRANSIT
CALL US FOR:
• Low Student-Teacher-Youth Airfares
• Low Domestic Airfares • AMTRAK
• Adventure Tours • Language Courses
• International Student & Teacher I.D.
• Youth Hostel Memberships
• Car Rental & Leasing
• Eurail & Britrail Passes issued on the spot
• For "Around the World" itineraries.
CALL Tina at 576-3134

FREE "STUDENT TRAVEL" MAGAZINE!
Council Travel

Boston 729 Boylston St. 4975-1871
Cambridge Mass. Ave. Harvard Sq. 4975-1871
Northwestern U. 424-6863
MIT 552-8274 Ctr. 925-2555

Open office hours with President David J. Sargent

Originally scheduled for Thursday, September 30, 1993 from 1:00 to 2:30 p.m.

Have Been Postponed!

Office hours will now be held on Tuesday, October 5, 1993 from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

EVERY TEST DOESN'T HAVE TO BE A STRESS TEST.

Practicing for tests can help raise your scores and lower your anxiety. And CIBS StudyWare has the most complete test preparation programs available for your computer. Get a free Test Survival Kit, details at:

CAMPUS STORES OF MASS., INC.
SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE
100 CAMBRIDGE STREET
BOSTON, MA 02114
TEL. 857-85-0886

Suffolk University 1993 - 1994

The following is a list of Pre-law Advisers by academic department for the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the School of Management:

Department Office	Pre-law Adviser
Biology A549	Dr. Henry Mulcahy
Chemistry A601	Dr. Doris Lewis
Communications & Journalism R403	Dr. Vicki Kars
Economics S824	Dr. Shahrzad Mohtadi
Education F334	Dr. Glen Lewandowski
English F534	Dr. Anthony Merzlak
Government S1225	Prof. John O'Callaghan
History S1214	Dr. Lauri Umansky
Humanities & Languages F431	Dr. David Hastings
Philosophy F407C	Dr. Rudolf Zuckerstatter
Psychology F507	Dr. Robert Webb
Sociology S1045	Dr. Donald Morton
School Of Management S637	Prof. Anthony Eonas

If your major is not listed above, please contact Professor O'Callaghan, Sawyer 1225, extension 8125 for pre-law advising.

Classifieds

FREE TRIPS & CASH!**
Call us and find out how hundreds of students are earning FREE TRIPS and LOTS OF CASH with America's #1 Spring Break company! Choose Cancun, Bahamas, Jamaica, Panama, Daytona or Puerto Rico! CALL NOW! TAKE A BREAK! STUDENT TRAVEL (800) 328-SAVE OR (617) 424-8222

Agents • No Experience
Brooklyn, NY 11230
Company Expanding - $12-$18/hr. Send SASE for Details to: International
1375 Coney Island Ave., Ste 427

Breakaway Tours Inc. now hiring campus reps to promote spring break vacations. Earn free trips plus highest commissions. Destinations include CANCUN, BAHAMAS, JAMAICA, SOUTH PADRE, PANAMA CITY, KEY WEST, AND DAYTONA. Call 1-800-214-8687. Let's go Suffolk!!!

WANTED: Staff reporters for The Suffolk Journal. Reporters needed for news, sports, lifestyles and specials. No experience necessary. Call 573-8323 or 573-8328. Ask for Andrea.

WANTED: Hungry, intellectual type. Am easy to understand, love all subjects. Ready day/night for quiet study or gentle explorations. Meet me in the campus bookstore. I'll be in a blue and yellow striped jacket.

SPRING BREAK: 7 Nights from $299 Includes: Air, Hotel, Transfers, Parties, and More! NASSAU, PARADISE ISLAND, CANCUN, JAMAICA, SAN JUAN. Organize a small group - Earn FREE trip plus commissions!
1-800-GET-SUN-1

 EXTRA INCOME '93 ***
Earn $200 - $500 weekly mailing 1993 Travel brochures. For more information send a self addressed stamped envelope to:
Travel Inc.
P.O. Box 2370
Hialeah, FL 33017-2370

Music Industry Fall-Spring Internship
National Concert Promotion/Marketing company based in L.A. seeks RESPONSIBLE, OUTGOING, MUSIC/Marketing Intern based in Boston. Sophomore or above. Know your market well, be very into music. Call Mary ASAP. 213-368-4738

Malcolm X exhibit displays stages of life, says Bellinger

MALCOLM X Continued from page 11
 tance this exhibit has in the African-American community, she said, "I really enjoyed it and I'll come back again."
 "One of the things Malcolm said was...that the one regret (he had) was not going to college," said Bellinger. "Here we have him...and others who have the opportunity (and) we don't take advantage of (all) the resources available.)"

One of the pieces that BSU members observed was Clarissa Sligh and Carole Byard's EHM (1992), one of the two works commissioned for the exhibition. EHM, which is the acronym for El Haji Malik, the name Malcolm X took on after his pilgrimage to Mecca in 1964.

EHM, displays a circular, white wall with portions of the FBI files on Malcolm X in black type encased by a jail with thick, black, bars which surrounds a model of a mosque. An African Figure With Nails, which Bellinger, who acted as a guide, described as "the healing figure" was displayed inside the mosque.

According to Bellinger, the figure is a representation of both the curative effects and of the negative things that have been drawn in it. "Malcolm X was a healer," said one of the artists in the video that was encased in the figure's stomach.

"It seems we are looking toward the past when we should be looking to the future for strength," said Debbie Weekes, School of Management senior, when asked about her feelings on what the exhibit says about the present state of affairs for African-American men.

"I feel that the exhibit illustrates the different views that people have of Malcolm X from decade to decade."

-Diane Clark

Danny Tinsdale's Birth of a Nation (1992) was the other piece commissioned by the ICA which uses a variety of media and addresses a range of issues, also exhibited Malcolm X's on three stages in life. According to Bellinger, those three stages were: hustler, revolutionary and spiritual leader.

"This city has a lot in it to offer us as African-Americans," said Bellinger, who went on to indicate the need for an inclusion of African-American contributions in art classes.

"It's part of our responsibility to seek out and learn. We should know (as

Portion of wall from "E.H.M." by Clarissa Sligh and Carole Byard which shows enlarged portions of FBI files on Malcolm X college students) that we have some time to devote to study...to know where the community is. You don't want to come out of college being disconnected," he added.

At the end of the day, BSU members took their turns writing their comments on the reflection board set up in the reading room on the way out. Among the individual response sheets were written:

"Malcolm's stages in life reflect the stages African-Americans are still experiencing. Some day we will reach that level of mentality and take 'our' place in the world." Someone else wrote, "The voice is still being heard, now let's act." Another wrote simply, "I miss hip."

V. Gordon Glenn, III/Journal Staff

WE GO WHERE YOU GO!

CALL US FOR:
 • Low Student-Teacher-Youth Airfares
 • Low Domestic Airfares • AMIRAK
 • Adventure Tours • Language Courses
 • International Student & Teacher I.D.
 • Youth Hostel Memberships
 • Car Rental & Leasing
 • Eurail & Britrail Passes issued on the spot!
 • For "Around the World" Itineraries
 CALL TINA at 576-3134

FREE STUDENT TRAVEL MAGAZINE!
Council Travel
 BOSTON: 729 Boylston St., 866-1926
 CAMBRIDGE: Mass. Ave./Harvard St. 497-1497
 NORTHAMPTON: Mt. Sicker Ct. 424-6663
 295-2555

Suffolk University 1993 - 1994

The following is a list of Pre-law Advisers by academic department for the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the School of Management:

Department Office	Pre-law Adviser
Biology A549	Dr. Henry Mulcahy
Chemistry A601	Dr. Doris Lewis
Communications & Journalism R403	Dr. Vicki Kams
Economics S824	Dr. Shahruz Mohtadi
Education F334	Dr. Glen Lewandowski
English F534	Dr. Anthony Merzjak
Government S1225	Prof. John O'Callaghan
History S1214	Dr. Lauri Umansky
Humanities & Languages F431	Dr. David Hastings
Philosophy F407C	Dr. Rudolf Zuckerstatter
Psychology F507	Dr. Robert Webb
Sociology S1045	Dr. Donald Morton
School of Management S637	Prof. Anthony Eonas

If your major is not listed above, please contact Professor O'Callaghan, Sawyer 1225, extension 8125 for pre-law advising.

Classifieds

FREE TRIPS & CASH

Call us and find out how hundreds of students are earning FREE TRIPS and LOTS OF CASH with America's #1 Spring Break company! Choose Cancun, Bahamas, Jamaica, Panama, Daytona or Puerto Rico! CALL NOW! TAKE A BREAK STUDENT TRAVEL (800) 328-SAVE OR (617) 424-8222

Agents • No Experience
 Brooklyn, NY 11230
 Company Expanding - $12-$18/hr. Send SASE for Details to: International
 1375 Coney Island Ave., Ste 427

Breakaway Tours Inc. now hiring campus reps to promote spring break vacations. Earn free trips plus highest commissions. Destinations include CANCUN, BAHAMAS, JAMAICA, SOUTH PADRE, PANAMA CITY, KEY WEST, AND DAYTONA. Call 1-800-214-8687. Let's go Suffolk!!!

WANTED: Staff reporters for The Suffolk Journal. Reporters needed for news, sports, lifestyles and specials. No experience necessary. Call 573-8323 or 573-8328. Ask for Andrea.

WANTED: Hungry, intellectual type. Am easy to understand, love all subjects. Ready day/night for quiet study or gentle explorations. Meet me in the campus bookstore. I'll be in a blue and yellow striped jacket.

SPRING BREAK: 7 Nights from $299 Includes: Air, Hotel, Transfers, Parties, and More! NASSAU, PARADISE ISLAND, CANGUN, JAMAICA, SAN JUAN. Organize a small group - Earn FREE trip plus commissions!
 1-800-GET-SUN-1

EXTRA INCOME '93
 Earn $200 - $500 weekly mailing 1993 Travel brochures. For more information send a self addressed stamped envelope to:
 Travel Inc.
 P.O. Box 2370
 Hialeah, FL 33017-2370

Music Industry Fall-Spring Internship
 National Concert Promotion/Marketing company based in L.A. seeks RESPONSIBLE, OUTGOING, Music/Marketing Intern based in Boston. Sophomore or above. Know your market well, be very into music. Call Mary ASAP. 213-368-4738

Campus briefs

Physics & Engineering Dept. broken in

The Physics and Engineering Department office was vandalized last week, but the only real damage was a broken window. University Police Captain John Pagliarulo stated that the office was vandalized Wednesday evening, however, nothing was lost. Pagliarulo stated that it appears as though the perpetrator extinguisher to force their way into the office, yet there was no missing fire extinguisher in the building.

According to the police, a report of a suspicious person in the building was investigated in connection with the break-in.

Copy Center replaces Vend-a-cards in Sav

Students who have visited the library recently may have noticed a change in the vending operations of the copy machines.

According to a supervisor at the Sawyer Copy Center, the new will alleviate many of the problems that were prevalent with the Vend-a-Card system, including the de-magnetization of cards, erasing of accounts. Many students have complained that the amounts on their cards were incorrect, causing many students money on photocopying.

The new cards are of better quality than the older system eliminating many of the problems experienced by students in the past. The new machines have already been installed in the Sawyer, however, the law school libraries are still utilizing the older Vend system.

Khaksari resigns as Finance Dept. ch

Finance professor Shabir Khaksari has relinquished his post as the Chair of the Finance Department and Director of the M Science in Finance Program (MSF).

He will, however, remain active in the capacity of professor finance department.

Professor Thomas O'Hara, previous chair of the department, serving as the acting chair of the department. He will also Khaksari's duties as the Director of MSF until the appointment of director can be chosen by all faculty members of the department.

Financial aid handbook available

Students can find out how and when to apply for state, federal college-supported financial aid programs in the new 1993-94 Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts. The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The handbook tells college students and their families how to if they are eligible to receive financial aid, where to get the app forms they will need, when to apply and where to get more info.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 770-1111.

office hours
 President
 J. Sargent

originally scheduled for September 30, 1993
 from 1:00 to 2:30 p.m.

has been postponed!

hours will now be held on October 5, 1993 from 1:00 to 2:30 p.m.

EVERY TEST DOESN'T HAVE TO BE A STRESS TEST.

Practicing for tests can help raise your scores and lower your anxiety. And Cliffs StudyWare has the most complete test preparation programs available for your computer. Get a free Test Survival Kit, details at:

CAMPUS STORES OF MASS., INC.
 SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE
 148 CAMBRIDGE STREET
 BOSTON, MA 02114
 TEL. 857-87-0000

Suffolk University 1993 - 1994

The following is a list of Pre-law Advisers by academic department for the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the School of Management:

Department Office	Pre-law Adviser
Biology A549	Dr. Henry Mulcahy
Chemistry A601	Dr. Doris Lewis
Communications & Journalism R403	Dr. Vicki Kams
Economics S824	Dr. Shahruz Mohtadi
Education F334	Dr. Glen Lewandowski
English F534	Dr. Anthony Merzjak
Government S1225	Prof. John O'Callaghan
History S1214	Dr. Lauri Umansky
Humanities & Languages F431	Dr. David Hastings
Philosophy F407C	Dr. Rudolf Zuckerstatter
Psychology F507	Dr. Robert Webb
Sociology S1045	Dr. Donald Morton
School Of Management S637	Prof. Anthony Eonas

If your major is not listed above, please contact Professor O'Callaghan, Sawyer 1225, extension 8125 for pre-law advising.

Classifieds

FREE TRIPS & CASH**
Call us and find out how hundreds of students are earning FREE TRIPS and LOTS OF CASH with America's #1 Spring Break company! Choose Cancun, Bahamas, Jamaica, Panama, Daytona or Padret! CALL NOW! TAKE A BREAK STUDENT TRAVEL (800) 328-SAVE OR (617) 424-8222

Agents • No Experience
Brooklyn, NY 11230
Company Expanding - $12-$18/hr. Send SASE for Details to: International
1375 Coney Island Ave., Ste 427

WANTED: Hungry, intellectual type. Am easy to understand, love all subjects. Ready day/night for quiet study or gentle explorations. Meet me in the campus bookstore. I'll be in a blue and yellow striped jacket.

SPRING BREAK: 7 Nights from $299 Includes: Air, Hotel, Transfers, Parties, and More! NASSAU, PARADISE ISLAND, CANCUN, JAMAICA, SAN JUAN. Organize a small group - Earn FREE trip plus commissions!
1-800-GET-SUN-1

 EXTRA INCOME '93 ***
Earn $200 - $500 weekly mailing 1993 Travel brochures. For more information send a self addressed stamped envelope to:
Travel Inc.
P.O. Box 2370
Hialeah, FL 33017-2370

Music Industry Fall-Spring Internship
National Concert Promotion/Marketing company based in L.A. seeks RESPONSIBLE, OUTGOING, Music/Marketing Intern based in Boston. Sophomore or above. Know your market well, be very into music. Call Mary ASAP. 213-368-4738

WANTED: Staff reporters for The Suffolk Journal. Reporters needed for news, sports, lifestyles and specials. No experience necessary. Call 573-8323 or 573-8328. Ask for Andrea.

Campus briefs

Physics & Engineering Dept. broken into

The Physics and Engineering Department office was dismantled in a break-in last week, but the only real damage was a broken window. University Police Captain John Pagliaro stated that the office was vandalized Wednesday evening, however, nothing was listed as missing. Pagliaro stated that it appears as though the perpetrators used a fire extinguisher to force their way into the office, yet there was no sign of a missing fire extinguisher in the building.

According to the police, a report of a suspicious person in the area is being investigated in connection with the break-in.

Copy Center replaces Vend-a-cards in Sawyer

Students who have visited the library recently may have noticed a change in the vending operations of the copy machines.

According to a supervisor at the Sawyer Copy Center, the new system will alleviate many of the problems that were prevalent with the older Vend-a-Card system, including the de-magnetization of cards and the erasing of accounts. Many students have complained that the dollar amounts on their cards were incorrect, causing many students to lose money on photocopying.

The new cards are of better quality than the older system, thus eliminating many of the problems experienced by students in the past. The new machines have already been installed in the Sawyer Library, however, the law school libraries are still utilizing the older Vend-a-Card system.

Khaksari resigns as Finance Dept. chair

Finance professor, Shahbaz Khaksari has relinquished his responsibilities as the Chair of the Finance Department and Director of the Master of Science in Finance Program (MSF).

He will, however, remain active in the capacity of professor in the finance department.

Professor Thomas O'Hara, previous chair of the department, will be serving as the acting chair of the department. He will also assume Khaksari's duties as the Director of MSF until the appointment of another director can be chosen by all faculty members of the department.

Financial aid handbook available

Students can find out how and when to apply for state, federal and college-supported financial aid programs in the new 1993-94 Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts.

The handbook tells college students and their families how to find out if they are eligible to receive financial aid, where to get the application forms they will need, when to apply and where to get more information.

The Handbook on Admissions and Financial Aid at Independent Colleges in Massachusetts is available free of charge by calling: (617) 479-8704.

The ideal program for everyone who'd rather see this ad on TV or hear it on the radio.

BROADCASTING AND RECORDING ARTS

If you want a career in broadcasting, you'll want to look into our new joint programs with The Northeast Broadcasting School. Our one-year certificate, associate's, or bachelor's degree programs all feature a personal, practical approach to education that you just can't find anywhere else. To learn more, call (617) 573-8460.

Suffolk University
LEARN ABOUT IT

8 Ashburton Place, Beacon Hill, Boston 02108

Colorado athletes arrested on charges of illegal weapons possession

BUFFALOS

Continued from page 16

Gardner and Swazer caused the biggest shock to university officials. Both players were expelled pending disciplinary hearings.

Both athletes were discovered on the campus with weapons. School officials declined to give further details. "We cannot, by law, discuss specific disciplinary actions in specific cases," Hale said.

Gardner and Swazer were not available for comment, and neither was Boyce. Boyce was involved in an off-campus incident. A crowd of students, including Boyce, were gathered at a Taco Bell near the Boulder campus. There are two versions of what took place when police stopped at the scene. Officer Robert Sullenberger says he observed Boyce, "along with five or six other males," standing outside, "exchanging money."

Sullenberger said he saw a small white object in Boyce's right hand, and dollar bills in his left, and thought a drug deal was taking place.

Boyce refused to give him the object, he said. A scuffle ensued when he and another officer tried to arrest the basketball player. The officer claimed a crowd of "50 black males" surrounded them as they tried to handcuff Boyce. The unknown object was never retrieved because Boyce apparently slipped it to someone in the crowd, Sullenberger reported.

The police department said was no evidence of drug activity.

Meanwhile, at Colorado State University, officials said Russell Nicholls, a freshman basketball guard, will be arraigned Oct. 19 on charges of false imprisonment, third-degree sexual assault and third-degree assault causing bodily harm. The charges stem from an episode in which a 15-year-old female, who was visiting a friend on campus, asked to use the phone in Nicholls' room. When he made a sexual overture, the girl refused and struggled with him, police said, and she hit her head during the struggle.

"We were called in on what was a medical situation," said Karl Swenson, a spokesman with the Colorado State campus police. "As part of our investigation as to what caused the injury we were informed of the facts concerning the alleged sexual and physical assault."

-College Press Service

University Dateline

Suffolk University's Calendar of Events

September 29 - October 5, 1993

Wednesday, September 29

10:00 - 12:00	Last Day to Apply For Make-up of Spring & Summer Final Exams	Dean of Students Office Ridgeway 200
11:45 - 1:00	Student Services Director's Meeting	Sawyer 623
1:00	Accounting Department Meeting MSAGDPA Programs	Emerson College
2:00	Women's Tennis vs Emerson College	Sawyer 521
2:00 - 5:00	ESL Reception For Students And Friends At Suffolk University	Sawyer 1025
3:00	SOM Faculty Development Committee	Graduate Student Lounge, Sawyer 4
6:00	MPA Association, First Meeting	Archer Building Room 110
7:00 - 8:30	Parent Council Meeting	Boston
7:30 - 9:00	African Art Exhibit at Museum of Fine Arts Sponsored by BSU

Thursday, September 30

9:00 - 10:30	Dinnan Fellowship Committee Meeting / Law	McDermott Ridgeway 207
10:30 - 12:00	First Meeting Of The Residence Life Committee	Fenton 337
1:00	Alpha Phi Omega Meeting	Worcester Polytechnical Institute One Beacon St. 25th Fl
1:00	Little Four Golf Tournament	Sawyer 421
1:00 - 2:30	President's Open Office Hours
1:00	SGA Class of 1997 election speeches and candidate debate	Nichols College
1:00 - 1:30	Transfer Mentor Meeting	McDermott Conference Room
3:30	Varsity Soccer vs Nichols College
5:00 - 6:30	Asian Law Students Association / Law
6:30	Council of Presidents Meetings

Friday, October 1

	Mass Law School Consortium Off-Campus Recruiting Program	Washington, DC
	$1,000 Stafford Loan Increase Effective	Law Financial Aid
	Work - Study Requests Due - Decisions Ongoing	Law Financial Aid
	Financial Aid Reconsideration Letters Due - Decisions By Mid - November
	Cook County Minority Job Fair \ Law	Chicago
3:00 - 4:00	Law Alumni / Student Reception	McDermott Conference Room D128
8:00 - 10:30	Terpsichore - Original Choreography By Andre Quintela	C. Walsh Theatre

Saturday, October 2

11:00	Women's Cross Country vs. Gordon College	Gordon College
11:00	Men's Soccer vs. Framingham State College	Framingham State College
12:00	Men's Cross Country vs. Gordon College	Gordon College
3:00	Women's Tennis vs. Regis College	Regis College
8:00 - 10:30	Terpsichore - Original Choreography By Andre Quintela	C. Walsh Theatre

Monday, October 4

8:00	SGA Fall Elections Mon - Wed	Sawyer Lobby
1:00	Little Four Golf Tourney Brandeis University Brandeis University	Activities Building 328
	Food, Clothes And Toy Drive	C. Walsh Theatre
5:30 - 7:30	Managing The Job Search Process \ Law

Tuesday, October 5

9:00	Blood Drive Tables	Sawyer Cafeteria
12:00	Hispanic Week Reception	Fenton Lounge
12:00 - 3:00	Breast Cancer Awareness - Information Booth	Health Services Fenton
1:00	SGA Meeting	Sawyer 421
1:00 - 1:30	E.F. Mediterranean Summer Tour Information Meeting	20 Ashburton Place 2nd Fl
1:00 - 2:30	BSU Meeting	Sawyer 921
1:00 - 2:30	Criminology Club Presents Phil Weiner - will speak on drugs and crime	Sawyer 929
3:00	Undergraduate Information Session	CMD 1 Beacon Street 25th Floor
3:30	Men's Soccer vs. Anna Maria College	Anna Maria College
3:30	Women's Tennis @ WPI	WPI
7:15	MBA Association Meeting	Graduate Lounge Sawyer 4th Floor

sted on charges of illegal weapons possession

Boyce, were gathered near the Boulder building; are two versions of what happened when police stopped them. Officer Robert Yeh observed Boyce or six other males," said, "exchanging said he saw a small Boyce's right hand, in his left, and thought he was taking place. ted to give him the d. A scuffle ensued another officer tried to get the player. The officer claimed a crowd of "50 black males" surrounded them as they tried to handcuff Boyce. The unknown object was never retrieved because Boyce apparently slipped it to someone in the crowd, Sullenberger reported. The police department said an investigation determined there was no evidence of drug activity. Meanwhile, at Colorado State University, officials said Russell Nicholls, a freshman basketball guard, will be arraigned Oct. 19 on charges of false imprisonment, third-degree sexual assault and third-degree assault causing bodily harm. The charges stem from an episode in which a 15-year-old female, who was visiting a friend on campus, asked to use the phone in Nicholls' room. When he made a sexual overture, the girl refused and struggled with him, police said, and she hit her head during the struggle. "We were called in on what was a medical situation," said Karl Swenson, a spokesman with the Colorado State campus police. "As part of our investigation as to what caused the injury we were informed of the facts concerning the alleged sexual and physical assault."

-College Press Service

ir of Events

September 29 - October 5, 1993

ip of Spring & Summer Final Exams	Dean of Students Office
eting	Ridgeway 207
ge MSA/GDPA Programs	Sawyer 623
College	Emerson College
nd Friends At Suffolk University	Sawyer 521
mmittee	Sawyer 1025
g	Graduate Student Lounge, Sawyer 4
	Archer Building Room 110
of Fine Arts Sponsored by BSU	Booth
Meeting / Law	McDermott
Life Committee	Ridgeway 207
	Fenton 337
eches and candidate debate	Worcester Polytechnical Institute
Ridgeway 207	One Beacon St. 25th Fl
age	Sawyer 421
1 / Law	Nichols College
	McDermott Conference Room
Off-Campus Recruiting Program	Washington, DC
Effective	Law Financial Aid
Decisions Ongoing	Law Financial Aid
Decisions By Mid-November	Chicago
Law October 1 & 2	McDermott Conference Room D128
raphy By Andre Quintela	C. Walsh Theatre
ollege	Gordon College
ilege	Framingham State College
ge	Gordon College
	Regis College
raphy By Andre Quintela	C. Walsh Theatre
ersity Brandeis University	Sawyer Lobby
	Activities Building 328
	C. Walsh Theatre
Booth	Sawyer Cafeteria
	Fenton Lounge
nation Meeting	Health Services Fenton
	Sawyer 421
will speak on drugs and crime	20 Ashburton Place 2nd Fl
	Sawyer 921
	Sawyer 929
	CMD 1 Beacon Street 25th Floor
	Anne Maria College
	WPI
	Graduate Lounge Sawyer 4th Floor

Suffolk Sports

Women's tennis team falls to Eastern Nazarene

By Chris Olson
JOURNAL STAFF

BELMONT—The women's tennis team knows about adversity. They haven't played a real home game since the domed roof of the Charles River Tennis Club collapsed during the storm last winter.

If that wasn't enough, they had to face Eastern Nazarene College on Saturday without their number one and number four players.

The team made the trek to the Belmont Hill School with a few substitute players, hoping to be competitive. They were just that. However, ENC simply outnumbered and outlasted Suffolk, 6-3.

Angelique Muller, the team's number one player and one of the top-ranked players in New England, was unavailable due to an illness,

leaving coach Richard Levenson a team very different from the one which is usually fielded for a match.

Luckily for Levenson, a positive appeared from an apparently-bad situation. Levenson may have found a player that, along with Muller, can compete with the opponent's number one. Farida Kurmanbaeva, an exchange student from Russia, played at first singles and dominated her match against Kim Donahue, winning 6-0, 6-0.

Suffolk gained a 2-0 lead of the match after co-captain Heather Santos won at second singles over Heather Angell, 6-1, 6-0.

From that point, however, things went downhill for Suffolk. The Rams lost the next four matches to fall behind for good.

Co-captain Beth Oxner fell

Women's Tennis Coach Richard Levenson fielded a depleted squad last Saturday.

to Jennifer Sheehan at third singles, 1-6, 1-6 and another Russian, Yveta Borsenko, lost to Lori Shobert, 1-6, 1-6 at fourth singles.

All of the matches resulted in blowout wins for either side, except for one—fifth singles—in which Suffolk's

Kim Hicks lost 2-6, 6-7 (4-7) to ENC's Anne Hasinger.

Maria Gnerre was called upon to play the final singles match, but lost 1-6, 0-6 to Susan Sherrick. Gnerre, a member of the women's basketball team, was playing in only her third competitive tennis match.

In doubles play, the team of Kurmanbaeva and Santos defeated Donahue and Sheehan, 6-2, 6-3, to pull Suffolk to within one point of ENC in the match. Going into the second doubles match, Suffolk trailed, 4-3.

At second doubles, Oxner and Borsenko dropped their match, 1-6, 0-6, officially giving ENC the victory over Suffolk.

In the final match of the afternoon, two basketball teammates, Gnerre and Kerri Swiney fell by a score of 2-6, 1-6 to make the final score of the match 6-3, ENC.

The duo of Kurmanbaeva and Santos were impressive, combining for all of Suffolk's three points. The rest of the players put in a good effort against an ENC squad that had all of its regular players.

Despite being short-handed, Levenson couldn't fault his team's effort. "The match was positive, though we had two new players," said Levenson. "One of those players (Kurmanbaeva) stepped in to the number one spot and won."

"We need the others back and we'll be a lot stronger," he continued. "We lost our one and four players. It's a little frustrating."

With the loss, Suffolk's record dropped to 1-4. The tennis team plays again on Wednesday, Sept. 29 at 2 p.m. against Emerson and Saturday, Oct. 2 at 3 p.m. against Regis College. Both matches are at home.

Cross country season underway

Walsh seeks women runners for Saturday meet vs. Gordon College

By Chris Olson
JOURNAL STAFF

The Suffolk cross country team competed in its first Fall meet on Sept. 18 at Saint Anselm's College in Manchester, N.H.

Tommy Lynch lived up to his billing as one of the top runners in New England, while the women weren't able to field a team in the meet.

Lynch placed second in a field of 87 runners, covering the five-mile course in a time of 27:27, behind St. Anselm's David Brosnan, who won the event with a 26:10.

Lynch was the only Suffolk

runner to finish in the top five, where points can be earned. The next runner across the finish line for Suffolk was Tom O'Hare, with a 29:45. The remainder of the Suffolk runners, in finishing order, were: Jake Mikulauskas, Tim Murray, Scott Dunn, Mike Duran and Marty Nastasia.

Suffolk, as a team, finished sixth out of eight teams, but Cross Country Coach Joe Walsh was still pleased with his team's effort. "It was a good start for us," said Walsh. "It was a difficult, very hilly course."

Walsh said that Lynch bested his time for last year on the same course, and should be "on par for challenging the other Division III runners at the Babson College meet on Oct. 9." Suffolk was the only Division III school among seven Division II schools at St. Anselm's.

Assumption College won the St. Anselm's event, followed by St. Anselm's, Merrimack College, Bryant College, St. Michael's College, Suffolk, Clark University and Rivier College.

On the women's side, Suffolk was unable to find enough runners to enter in the competition. According to Walsh, only three women have been interested in running. Five runners are the minimum required to field a team in competition.

Walsh added that anyone interested in running for the women's cross country team can contact him in the Athletic Office.

The next cross country meet will be held on Saturday, Oct. 2 at Gordon College. The women's race starts at 11 a.m. and the men's race at 12 noon. "We're hoping to get the women off the ground on Saturday," Walsh said. "There's room for improvement. We'll see what happens at Gordon."

Colorado athletes arrested on charges of illegal weapons possession

DENVER—Several student athletes were arrested in Colorado in separate incidents on charges ranging from illegal weapons possession to obstruction of justice, officials said. The arrests occurred in the space of a week, beginning on Sept. 5 at the University of Colorado.

Keenen Gardner and Thadus Swazer, linebacker and tight end for the University of Colorado Buffaloes, were arrested by police for carrying guns on the sprawling campus.

University of Colorado basketball star Donnie Boyce was charged with obstruction of justice, but those charges were dropped by the Boulder Police Department on Sept. 23.

At Colorado State University, meanwhile, freshman basketball guard Russell Nicholls was charged with sexual assault.

The gun charges against BUFFALOS continued on page 15

Suffolk Sports

Women's tennis team falls to Eastern Nazarene

By Chris Olson
JOURNAL STAFF

BELMONT — The women's tennis team knows about adversity. They haven't played a real home game since the domed roof of the Charles River Tennis Club collapsed during the storm last winter.

If that wasn't enough, they had to face Eastern Nazarene College on Saturday without their number one and number four players.

The team made the trek to the Belmont Hill School with a few substitute players, hoping to be competitive. They were just that. However, ENC simply outnumbered and outlasted Suffolk, 6-3.

Angelique Muller, the team's number one player and one of the top-ranked players in New England, was unavailable due to an illness, leaving coach Richard Levenson a team very different from the one which is usually fielded for a match. Luckily for Levenson, a positive appeared from an apparently-bad situation. Levenson may have found a player that, along with Muller, can compete with the opponent's number one.

Farida Kurmanbaeva, an exchange student from Russia, played at first singles and dominated her match against Kim Donahue, winning 6-0, 6-0.

Suffolk gained a 2-0 lead of the match after co-captain Heather Santos won at second singles over Heather Angell, 6-1, 6-0.

From that point, however, things went downhill for Suffolk. The Rams lost the next four matches to fall behind for good.

Co-captain Beth Oxner fell

Women's Tennis Coach Richard Levenson fielded a depleted squad last Saturday.

to Jennifer Sheehan at third singles, 1-6, 1-6 and another Russian, Yveta Borsenko, lost to Lori Shobert, 1-6, 1-6 at fourth singles.

All of the matches resulted in blowout wins for either side, except for one—fifth singles—in which Suffolk's

Kim Hicks lost 2-6, 6-7 (4-7) to ENC's Anne Hasting.

Maria Gerne was called upon to play the final singles match, but lost 1-6, 0-6 to Susan Sherrick. Gerne, a member of the women's basketball team, was playing in only her third competitive tennis match.

In doubles play, the team of Kurmanbaeva and Santos defeated Donahue and Sheehan, 6-2, 6-3, to pull Suffolk to within one point of ENC in the match. Going into the second doubles match, Suffolk trailed, 4-3. At second doubles, Oxner and Borsenko dropped their match, 1-6, 0-6, officially giving ENC the victory over Suffolk.

In the final match of the afternoon, two basketball teammates, Gerne and Kerri Sweeney fell by a score of 2-6, 1-6 to make the final score of the match 6-3, ENC.

The duo of Kurmanbaeva and Santos were impressive, combining for all of Suffolk's three points. The rest of the players put in a good effort against an ENC squad that had all of its regular players.

Despite being short-handed, Levenson couldn't fault his team's effort. "The match was positive, though we had two new players," said Levenson. "One of those players (Kurmanbaeva) stepped in to the number one spot and won.

"We need the others back and we'll be a lot stronger," he continued. "We lost our one and four players. It's a little frustrating."

With the loss, Suffolk's record dropped to 1-4. The tennis team plays again on Wednesday, Sept. 29 at 2 p.m. against Emerson and Saturday, Oct. 2 at 3 p.m. against Regis College. Both matches are at home.

At Colorado State University, meanwhile, freshman basketball guard Russell Nicholls was charged with sexual assault.

The gun charges against

BUFFALOS
continued on page 15

Cross country season underway

Walsh seeks women runners for Saturday meet vs. Gordon College

By Chris Olson
JOURNAL STAFF

The Suffolk cross country team competed in its first Fall meet on Sept. 18 at Saint Anselm's College in Manchester, N.H.

Tommy Lynch lived up to his billing as one of the top runners in New England, while the women weren't able to field a team in the meet.

Lynch placed second in a field of 87 runners, covering the five-mile course in a time of 27:27, behind St. Anselm's David Brosnan, who won the event with a 26:10.

Lynch was the only Suffolk

runner to finish in the top five, where points can be earned. The next runner across the finish line for Suffolk was Tom O'Hare, with a 29:45. The remainder of the Suffolk runners, in finishing order, were: Jake Miklauskus, Tim Murray, Scott Dunn, Mike Duran and Marty Nastasia.

Suffolk, as a team, finished sixth out of eight teams, but Cross Country Coach Joe Walsh was still pleased with his team's effort. "It was a good start for us," said Walsh. "It was a difficult, very hilly course."

Walsh said that Lynch bested his time for last year

on the same course, and should be "on par for challenging the other Division III runners at the Babson College meet on Oct. 9." Suffolk was the only Division III school among seven Division III schools at St. Anselm's.

Assumption College won the St. Anselm's event, followed by St. Anselm's, Merrimack College, Bryant College, St. Michael's College, Suffolk, Clark University and Rivier College.

On the women's side, Suffolk was unable to find enough runners to enter in the competition. According to Walsh, only three women have been interested in running. Five runners are the minimum required to field a team in competition.

Walsh added that anyone interested in running for the women's cross country team can contact him in the Athletic Office.

The next cross country meet will be held on Saturday, Oct. 2 at Gordon College. The women's race starts at 11 a.m. and the men's race at 12 noon. "We're hoping to get the women off the ground on Saturday," Walsh said. "There's room for improvement. We'll see what happens at Gordon."

beginning on Sept. 5 at the University of Colorado. Keena Gardner and Thadous Swazer, linebacker and tight end for the University of Colorado Buffaloes, were arrested by police for carrying guns on the sprawling campus.

University of Colorado basketball star Donnie Boyce was charged with obstruction of justice, but those charges were dropped by the Boulder Police Department on Sept. 23.

The gun charges against

BUFFALOS
continued on page 15

Colorado athletes arrested on charges of illegal weapons possession

DENVER — Several student athletes were arrested in Colorado in separate incidents on charges ranging from illegal weapons possession to obstruction of justice, officials said. The arrests occurred in the space of a week,

The Suffolk Journal

Volume 52, Number 5

Beacon Hill, Boston, Massachusetts

Wednesday, October 6, 1993

SGA candidates deliver pre-election speeches

Apathy, lack of involvement prime concerns among candidates

By Andrea Rumpf
JOURNAL STAFF

Candidates for the Student Government Association (SGA) expressed similar concerns about apathy towards student government and the lack of involvement among students in their pre-election speeches last week.

In what seemed to be a continuation of last year's pre-election speeches, the candidates repeatedly stressed the importance of class unity and student involvement. Candidates were primarily concerned with finding new ways to unite members of each individual class, as well as achieving unity throughout the student body.

Mark DiFraia, candidate for Freshman Class President, stated during the question and answer period that the key to unity is effective communication. "We have to make it easy to have these issues dealt with," said DiFraia.

Write-in candidate for Freshman Class President Scott Scaio stated that he would promote unity by sponsoring more social events geared specifically toward freshman students, including class trips, whale watches and on-campus social gatherings. "We need to bring students together as a unit," said Scaio.

Similar concerns were voiced among the four candidates for Freshman Class

SPEECHES
continued on page 3

This year's SGA executive board is excited about the prospects of the upcoming year.

Crime statistics show many inconsistencies

By David L. White
JOURNAL CONTRIBUTOR

There are crime prevention brochures by the dozens at the entrances of every building on campus. Suffolk University police distribute the brochures, intending to raise the student body's awareness of crime statistics and useful crime prevention tips. This law enforcement aid successfully fulfills one of the two goals mentioned above.

The crime prevention program is virtually unflawed. The publication is tarnished only by its inability to provide Suffolk students with accurate crime statistics. According to the information provided from 1990 through 1992 there was only one crime reported. Nobody who has had belongings stolen on campus must marvel at this recorded information.

This isn't a misprint, these are the crime statistics released by the campus police for public record. The one crime reported in this three year time span is a motor vehicle theft which occurred on campus in 1991. Among the other possible offenses on the crime statistics chart are robbery, rape, murder, aggravated assault, and burglary.

CRIME
continued on page 2

Suffolk looking to acquire dorm space

By Stephanie Snow
JOURNAL STAFF
By Robert Ricci
JOURNAL CONTRIBUTOR

The problem of creating more dorms for Suffolk students is being addressed as Suffolk University looks into acquiring space in the former Lincoln Shire Hotel located on 20 Charles Street. The dorms would be convenient for students, with less than a three minute walk to Suffolk.

The dorms was just used as dorms for a Massachusetts General Hospital nursing program. According to Dean of Students Nancy Stoll, the intention is to lease the building rather than purchase it. Once it is leased, the building will be used for undergraduate, graduate, and law students.

According to Associate Dean of Students Elliot Gabriel, the main reason for acquiring the dorm space is to increase the number of international and out-of-state students. In order to remain competitive with the other colleges in the area, Suffolk knew that it would have to be able to recruit students from out-of-state and from other countries. To do this, it would be essential for Suffolk to be able to provide housing for these students.

In the past year, Suffolk has been aggressively marketing out of state. It was a calculated decision made in order to compensate for the declining base of commuter students in the area. However, for the past couple of years Suffolk has been actively recruiting international students. Most of these students live off-campus in apartments near the school.

Suffolk does currently lease some dorm space for some 60 students located at International Hall on Anna Maria College. There are some 24

DORMS
continued on page 14

Inside the Journal

News	2
Lifestyles	5
Editorials	8
Letters	8
Opinions	9
Business	11
Classified	14
Sports	16

16 Pages