

The Pulse 2010

Editor's Remarks

Photography is more than an art... it's a way of life

Many of us have been places where the sunrays caress our skins and the simple drip of a faucet creates pools of clear crystal water. These are the moments when we truly connect with the world around us. Photography is the art of capturing these moments and sharing them with the world. Photography illuminates the world and records that one moment in time. The Pulse Magazine has taken those moments and spread it throughout its pages.

Suffolk University's illustrious campus and Bostonian surroundings make for the truly wonderful that it has attracted international students from all over the world. Whether it's the peaceful scenery of winter's snow-covered streets and buildings or the vibrant colors of the city during the summer months.

House, these are moments that many years from now, we will look back on and remember about our time here at Suffolk University. This is a year in pictures.

This year's edition is special. It puts together the art of photography and graphic design that supersedes last year's edition. As Editor, I'd like to remind you that this edition has been put together with care and consideration for all the different departments and organizations that make Suffolk University unique. Now, with the help of this photography magazine, we present to you a wonderful and truly memorable year in photos.
