

orts

What Suffolk athletics is all about

By Chris Olson
JOURNAL STAFF

Interested in athletics at Suffolk University? Or do you just want to know more about the different sports and athletic activities offered at Suffolk? Many different sports and activities are combined in an educational experience at Suffolk by students to participate in varsity sports right on down to the intramural level competitions.

For those who wish to play at the varsity level, Suffolk offers baseball, basketball, cross-country, golf, hockey, tennis and soccer for men, and basketball, tennis, cross-country and softball for women.

Those seeking a workout, competition and a chance to meet some new friends can look into the intramural sports leagues at Suffolk. Basketball and volleyball are offered at the intramural level for those interested.

Aerobic classes are also offered for the students who are interested in a conditioning program before or after classes.

Suffolk is an official member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) and the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference (ECAC) at the varsity level.

However, only the Suffolk hockey team is a member of a distinct conference, the Division 3 ECAC North-South-Central conference.

Other varsity sports at Suffolk schedule their own games and do not belong to a conference. The baseball team is a member of the NCAA and is ranked as Division 3 school, but does not play in a conference the same teams every year.

The baseball team schedules its own games every year, and has taken on Division 1 powerhouses in the past few years and has come out victorious.

One of the first things mentioned when talking about the sports scene at Suffolk is the lack of regular game fields and arenas for the teams.

Both the men's and women's basketball and tennis teams and the men's hockey team are the only varsity sports teams at Suffolk to boast of a legitimate home-field advantage.

The tennis teams at Suffolk play their home matches at the Charles River Tennis Club on Lomasney Way, which is within walking distance from Suffolk.

The basketball teams play their home games at the Ridgeway Gym, located in the basement of the Ridgeway Building on Cambridge Street.

Anyone can use the gym during open periods on a school day, where a pickup game of some kind is usually found quickly upon arrival.

The men's hockey team plays its games at Walter Brown Arena, located on the campus of Boston University. Some may call Walter Brown arena a mecca for the Rams, and some may not, due to its stance from the Suffolk campus.

The remainder of Suffolk's teams, such as baseball and soccer, do not have a home field. The baseball team is constantly on the road. But with perspective players knowing this fact beforehand, Suffolk will always have those players with a true love for the game.

ATHLETICS

continued on page 15

The Suffolk Journal

Volume 52, Number 1 Beacon Hill, Boston, Massachusetts Wednesday, September 8, 1993

Suffolk agrees to purchase Tremont St. building

By Lawrence M. Walsh
JOURNAL STAFF

After a year of negotiations with property owners, the city of Boston, and local community and historical interest groups, Suffolk University President David J. Sargent announced the school's agreement to purchase the New Studio Building on Tremont Street for $6 to $8 million and build a new law school on the site.

Flanked by Paul Sugarman, dean of the law school, James Finneran, chairman of the board of trustees, and Mayor Raymond L. Flynn, Sargent told the on-lookers at the July 10 press conference, "We renew our pledge to be an active and helpful neighbor on Beacon Hill and in the city of Boston."

The announcement of the agreement between Suffolk and Olympia & York, the owners of the building, comes after a year of speculation and negotiations for the acquisition of a new site for the law school.

Although the agreement is not final, Sargent said that the university is currently accepting bids from demolition firms and is seeking an architect for the project. The board of trustees will not act on the property until all of the arrangements are finalized.

University officials have envisioned the new 250,000 square foot building to include modern lecture halls, moot court rooms, classrooms, a library, and faculty and administrative offices. In addition,

BUILDING continued on page 5

FROM THE OTHER SIDE - A view of the back side of Beacon Hill as seen from the Longfellow Bridge spanning the Charles River linking Boston with Cambridge. Rich Mello/Journal Staff

Construction on campus redefines work, leisure space

By Andrea Rumpf
JOURNAL STAFF

Returning students will notice a great many changes in the look of Suffolk University since last spring which have redefined the work and leisure space for students, faculty and staff. Renovations include the addition of an undergraduate lounge in the Sawyer Building, the remodeling of the Office of Financial Aid, and the enlarging of the darkroom in the Ridgeway Building.

Suffolk Vice President and Treasurer Francis X. Flannery stated that

CONSTRUCTION continued on page 16

BSU launches youth "Express" program

By V. Gordon Glenn III
JOURNAL STAFF

In an effort to keep with one of their major goals, which is "to have a positive impact on the lives of Boston's youth through the implementation of activities that will bring about cultural, social, educational and individual growth," the Suffolk University Black Student Union (BSU) will begin "The Express," its mentorship program with the Roxbury Boys and Girls Club, this fall.

"This is like an express to the

EXPRESS continued on page 12

Suffolk enters joint program with NBS

By Kevin Lombardi
JOURNAL STAFF

For just a short walk down Beacon Hill to the Back Bay, Suffolk communications majors will now be able to use the facilities and take classes at Northeast Broadcasting School through a joint agreement reached between the two institutions over the summer.

The program will allow students from Suffolk to use the audio and video facilities and attend classes at Northeast, while Northeast students will be able to pursue a college degree through Suffolk.

Dr. Edward J. Harris, chairman of the communications and journalism department said, "I think it's going to work out great for us."

The Northeast Broadcasting School is accredited by the Accrediting Commission for Trade and Technical Schools of the Career College Association and is licensed by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the U.S. Department of Education. Northeast is the only accredited career broadcasting and recording arts school in Massachusetts.

Marguerite J. Dennis, dean of Enrollment and Retention Management, said that she is very pleased with the

BROADCAST continued on page 6

Inside the Journal

News	2
Lifestyles	7
Editorials	10
Letters	10
Opinions	11
La Pagina	13
Sports	17

20 Pages

Not the books

Suffolk University Bookstore books for the fall semester.

Student We

We

Int We're Tu 1 p

Not the books!

Suffolk University Bookstore staff unload crates of books for the fall semester. Rich Melio/Journal Staff

Safety officer continues to improve campus safety program

By Andrea Rumpf
JOURNAL STAFF

When Judy Scanlon was hired in 1991 as the University Safety Officer, she initiated a process for evaluating the school's safety plan and improving the overall safety of all members of the Suffolk community.

Throughout her tenure at Suffolk, Scanlon has implemented a number of procedures ranging from indoor air quality to the proper disposal of chemical waste in what she describes as "an evolving and expanding" plan.

Scanlon's latest project is the implementation of a new evacuation plan, which is a comprehensive document covering escape routes and meeting places for each individual building within the university.

The previous plan consisted only of the Xerox copies of the floor plans mounted on classroom walls in each building. Indicating that there was no formal evacuation plan other than the statement in the Student Handbook, which simply states that students and faculty evacuate the building "by the nearest exit," Scanlon stated, "We need more than that."

According to Scanlon, under the new plan specific, detailed evacuation routes will be implemented in each building, more sophisticated fire systems will be installed, and drills will be practiced on a regular basis.

Scanlon stated that the purpose of these drills is to identify and correct any trouble spots, citing instances of students and faculty being unaware of an alarm due to the position of their classroom or office.

With the implementation of the new plan, Scanlon hopes to eliminate the confusion that follows a drill through the training of university students and staff members.

"Changing behavior is the key," said Scanlon. "The challenge is raising awareness throughout the campus about safety."

Scanlon stated that the university police have been involved in the process and will play a key role in raising awareness about the evacuation plan. "The police are our best resources," said Scanlon.

According to University Police Captain John Pagliarulo, the university police gave ideas and suggestions in the planning of the escape routes from the various buildings, and proposed the idea of having police as "floor leaders" to direct students and faculty safely out of the buildings.

"We are here 24 hours a day and we have the people to execute the evacuation," explained Pagliarulo.

He stated that the police will be more involved in the execution of the evacuation plan through maximizing their "resources and authority," referring to past instances of drills being ignored by some students and professors.

"People have to start taking responsibility for their personal safety," said Pagliarulo. "You have to take care of yourself."

Pagliarulo also stated that he would like the police to play a greater role in public safety.

"I think that there is a lot more we can do to make (Suffolk University) a safer, cleaner, nicer place to be," said Pagliarulo.

According to Francis X. Flannery, vice president and treasurer, a meeting is scheduled to review the plan in early September, during which the plan will likely be approved.

Flannery stated that this committee of deans and key administrators is expected to finalize and implement the new plan, therefore clearing the path for Scanlon and the University Police to begin training university staff members.

Student Government Association We Want You!

Interested in SGA?
We're interested in you!
Tuesday, Sept. 15th
1st SGA Meeting
1 p.m. in Sawyer 427

Lost bat traps itself on Fenton's 6th floor, eventually freed unharmed

By Lawrence M. Walsh
JOURNAL STAFF

Breaking the quiet of a lazy summer afternoon, an eight inch bat trapped on the sixth floor of the Fenton building startled workers and students on August 19 as it frantically searched for a way out of the building.

Staff and students in the Math and Computer Science Department called the Suffolk Police shortly after 4 p.m. and alerted them to the situation. The bat was flying in irregular patterns in the hallways.

"We confirmed that there was in fact a bat and referred the matter to physical plant," said Captain John Pagliarulo of the Suffolk Police. After which, Physical Plant called the Animal Rescue League of Boston for assistance.

First spotted by Margaret Codianni, staff assistant in the Math and Computer Science Department, she thought she saw something fall from the ceiling while she was walking up the back stairwell of the Fenton Building.

As she got closer, Codianni said the only thing she saw was a black object on the floor. When she approached, it suddenly started to move.

"It was very startling and frightening and I was really surprised by my reaction," said Codianni. She continued by saying that she never really thought about the bat biting her, rather she was more concerned about the bat flying into her.

With the bat trapped in the corridor with the doors closed, Physical Plant was told by the Animal Rescue League of Boston that as long as the bat was flying around there was no use in trying to catch it.

Sadiq Khaliqi, Physical Plant director, said the Animal Rescue League told him to open the windows and doors in the building and the bat will eventually find its way out. With those instructions followed, he said the bat has not been seen since.

Bats and birds becoming trapped in buildings is not an unusual occurrence, according to Raymond Orlando, acting manager of the Animal Rescue League of Boston. Orlando said August is the time of the year when they receive the most calls concerning bats.

"If you have your window open just an inch, they're going to get in your house," said Orlando. "August is a bad time of the year and this is when they are having their babies."

While bats are nocturnal creatures, this bat was fully active at mid-afternoon. Orlando said that when bats find themselves trapped in a strange place they react in the same fashion as people, they panic. This is compounded by the usual activity in any building which startles and makes them very active, even during daylight.

Explaining the bat's activity, Orlando said, "It was probably trying to get out and with all the people moving around, it picks it up on its radar and confuses it."

Although bats are a high risk for being rabies carriers, Orlando said the risk of exposure from this bat was minimal since there are literally hundreds of thousands of bats out this time of the year.

Orlando said the only time it becomes a concern is if the bat bites someone or inflicts an open wound, then, even if the bat is not rabid, the person is treated as if they have been infected.

This is not the first incident of a bat being trapped in a Suffolk building. Khaliqi said that a bat found its way into the Fenton building around the beginning of August when painters left some windows open. The bat eventually found its way out of the building.

A check of the sixth floor the day after the incident found no trace of the bat.

Fenton UMS office burglarized

Suffolk University Police reported a forced break-in to the University Media Services (UMS) office on the fourth floor of the Fenton Building sometime during the night of August 18 and August 19.

According to Capt. John Pagliarulo of the Suffolk University Police, the burglars forced their way into the UMS office with a screwdriver sometime after workers left the building.

The only items reported stolen were two boom-boxes and an answering machine, all having a combined value of approximately $150.

Pagliarulo said there are no suspects and investigation is continuing.

Pagliarulo promoted to captain of univ. police

John Pagliarulo, the senior officer in charge of the Suffolk University Police, was promoted over the summer from lieutenant to captain.

Come down
paintball has t
Play our up BOSTON PAII fun, exciteme BOSTON P yourself, a fe Play paintba outings and c Excitement i F
BOSTON PAINT
ONI

Not the books!

Suffolk University Bookstore staff unload crates of books for the fall semester. Rich Malloy/Journal Staff

Safety officer continues to improve campus safety program

By Andrea Rumpf
JOURNAL STAFF

When Judy Scanlon was hired in 1991 as the University Safety Officer, she initiated a process for evaluating the school's safety plan and improving the overall safety of all members of the Suffolk community. Throughout her tenure at Suffolk, Scanlon has implemented a number of procedures ranging from indoor air quality to the proper disposal of chemical waste in what she describes as "an evolving and expanding" plan. Scanlon's latest project is the implementation of a new evacuation plan, which is a comprehensive document covering escape routes and meeting places for each individual building within the university. The previous plan consisted only of the Xerox copies of the floor plans mounted on classroom walls in each building. Indicating that there was no formal evacuation plan other than the statement in the Student Handbook, which simply states that students and faculty evacuate the building "by the nearest exit," Scanlon stated, "We need more than that." According to Scanlon, under the new plan specific, detailed evacuation routes will be implemented in each building, more sophisticated fire systems will be installed, and drills will be practiced on a regular basis. Scanlon stated that the purpose of these drills is to identify and correct any trouble spots, citing instances of students and faculty being unaware of an alarm due to the position of their classroom or office. With the implementation of the new plan, Scanlon hopes to eliminate the confusion that follows a drill through the training of university students and staff members. "Changing behavior is the key," said Scanlon. "The challenge is raising awareness throughout the campus about safety." Scanlon stated that the university police have been involved in the process and will play a key role in raising awareness about the evacuation plan. "The police are our best resources," said Scanlon. According to University Police Captain John Pagliarulo, the university police gave ideas and suggestions in the planning of the escape routes from the various buildings, and proposed the idea of having police as "floor leaders" to direct students and faculty safely out of the buildings. "We are here 24 hours a day and we have the people to execute the evacuation," explained Pagliarulo. He stated that the police will be more involved in the execution of the evacuation plan through maximizing their "resources and authority," referring to past instances of drills being ignored by some students and professors. "People have to start taking responsibility for their personal safety," said Pagliarulo. "You have to take care of yourself." Pagliarulo also stated that he would like the police to play a greater role in public safety. "I think that there is a lot more we can do to make (Suffolk University) a safer, cleaner, nicer place to be," said Pagliarulo. According to Francis X. Flannery, vice president and treasurer, a meeting is scheduled to review the plan in early September, during which the plan will likely be approved. Flannery stated that this committee of deans and key administrators is expected to finalize and implement the new plan, therefore clearing the path for Scanlon and the University Police to begin training university staff members.

Student Government Association We Want You!

Interested in SGA?
We're interested in you!
Tuesday, Sept. 15th
1st SGA Meeting
1 p.m. in Sawyer 427

Lost bat traps itself on Fenton's 6th floor, eventually freed unharmed

By Lawrence M. Walsh
JOURNAL STAFF

Breaking the quiet of a lazy summer afternoon, an eight inch bat trapped on the sixth floor of the Fenton building startled workers and students on August 19 as it frantically searched for a way out of the building. Staff and students in the Math and Computer Science Department called the Suffolk Police shortly after 4 p.m. and alerted them to the situation. The bat was flying in irregular patterns in the hallways. "We confirmed that there was in fact a bat and referred the matter to physical plant," said Captain John Pagliarulo of the Suffolk Police. After which, Physical Plant called the Animal Rescue League of Boston for assistance.

First spotted by Margaret Codianni, staff assistant in the Math and Computer Science Department, she thought she saw something fall from the ceiling while she was walking up the back stairwell of the Fenton Building. As she got closer, Codianni said the only thing she saw was a black object on the floor. When she approached, it suddenly started to move. "It was very startling and frightening and I was really surprised by my reaction," said Codianni. She continued by saying that she never really thought about the bat biting her, rather she was more concerned about the bat flying into her. With the bat trapped in the corridor with the doors closed, Physical Plant was told by the Animal Rescue League of Boston that as long as the bat was flying around there was no use in trying to catch it. Sadiq Khaliqi, Physical Plant director, said the Animal Rescue League told him to open the windows and doors in the building and the bat will eventually find its way out. With those instructions followed, he said the bat has not been seen since. Bats and birds becoming trapped in buildings is not an unusual occurrence, according to Raymond Orlando, acting manager of the Animal Rescue League of Boston. Orlando said August is the time of the year when they receive the most calls concerning bats. "If you have your window open just an inch, they're going to get in your house," said Orlando. "August is a bad time of the year and this is when they are having their babies." While bats are nocturnal creatures, this bat was fully active at mid-afternoon. Orlando said that when bats find themselves trapped in a strange place they react in the same fashion as people, they panic. This is compounded by the usual activity in any building which startles and makes them very active, even during daylight. Explaining the bat's activity, Orlando said, "It was probably trying to get out and with all the people moving around, it picks it up on its radar and confuses it." Although bats are a high risk for being rabies carriers, Orlando said the risk of exposure from this bat was minimal since there are literally hundreds of thousands of bats out this time of the year. Orlando said the only time it becomes a concern is if the bat bites someone or inflicts an open wound, then, even if the bat is not rabid, the person is treated as if they have been infected. This is not the first incident of a bat being trapped in a Suffolk building. Khaliqi said that a bat found its way into the Fenton building around the beginning of August when painters left some windows open. The bat eventually found its way out of the building. A check of the sixth floor the day after the incident found no trace of the bat.

Fenton UMS office burglarized

Suffolk University Police reported a forced break-in to the University Media Services (UMS) office on the fourth floor of the Fenton Building sometime during the night of August 18 and August 19.

According to Capt. John Pagliarulo of the Suffolk University Police, the burglars forced their way into the UMS office with a screwdriver sometime after workers left the building.

The only items reported stolen were two boom boxes and an answering machine, all having a combined value of approximately $150.

Pagliarulo said there are no suspects and investigation is continuing.

Pagliarulo promoted to captain of univ. police

John Pagliarulo, the senior officer in charge of the Suffolk University Police, was promoted over the summer from lieutenant to captain.

Have a story idea? See something going on around campus. Call the Journal at 573-8323 or drop a note at our office in the Student Activities Center.

Metro Deli

160 Cambridge St.
Boston, MA 02114

NEXT TO NEWS SUFFOLK BOOKSTORE BUILDING

SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY

!!! SPECIAL !!!

25% OFF

FROM 6 A.M. TILL CLOSING 9 P.M.

A choice of 15 varieties including our famous cooked fresh daily

TURKEY

Dinners, Sandwiches, Soups, and Fresh Salad Bar

Join Us and Enjoy Our Special Offered Especially to the Suffolk Community:

Professors, Students, and Employees

Owner a Suffolk Graduate

Q: What are these people doing?
A: They're having the time of their lives at — BOSTON PAINTBALL

Come down to BOSTON PAINTBALL today and see why paintball has been called the "Sport of the 90's."

Play our updated version of tag or capture the flag at BOSTON PAINTBALL and experience a day of unmatched fun, excitement and adventure.

BOSTON PAINTBALL provides everything. Just bring yourself, a few friends, and a limitless imagination.

Play paintball for interoffice challenges, bachelor parties, outings and college/fraternity games. Paintball fun is suited for any occasion.

Excitement is just a phone call away!

Reserve your adventure now!

Call (617) 742-6612

BOSTON PAINTBALL 131 Beverly St., 6th floor, Boston, MA 02114
ONLY ONE BLOCK FROM BOSTON GARDEN

ty officer continues to rove campus safety program

rea Rumpf
JOURNAL STAFF

er her tenure at nion has impleber of proce-
; from indoor air proper disposal aste in what she volving and lan.
latest project is stitution of a new lan, which is a e document covering escape routes and meeting places for each individual building within the university.

The previous plan consisted only of the Xerox prints of the floor plans mounted on classroom walls in each building. Indicating that there was no formal evacuation plan other than the statement in the Student Handbook, which simply states that students and faculty evacuate the building
"by the nearest exit," Scanlon stated, "We need more than that."

According to Scanlon, under the new plan specific, detailed evacuation routes will be implemented in each building, more sophisticated fire systems will be installed, and drills will be practiced on a regular basis.

Scanlon stated that the purpose of these drills is to identify and correct any trouble
spots, citing instances of students and faculty being unaware of an alarm due to the position of their classroom or office.

With the implementation of the new plan, Scanlon hopes to eliminate the confusion that follows a drill through the training of university students and staff members.

"Changing behavior is the key," said Scanlon. "The challenge is raising awareness throughout the campus about safety."

Scanlon stated that the university police have been involved in the process and will play a key role in raising awareness about the evacuation plan. "The police are our best resources," said Scanlon.

According to University
Police Captain John
Pagliarulo, the university police gave ideas and suggestions in the planning of the escape routes from the various buildings, and proposed
the idea of having police as
"floor leaders" to direct students and faculty safely out of the buildings.

"We are here 24 hours a day and we have the people to execute the evacuation," explained Pagliarulo.

He stated that the police will be more involved in the execution of the evacuation
plan through maximizing their "resources and authority," referring to past instances of drills being ignored by some students and professors.
"People have to start taking responsibility for their personal safety," said Pagliarulo.
"You have to take care of yourself."

Pagliarulo also stated that he would like the police to play a greater role in public safety.

"I think that there is a lot more we can do to make (Suffolk University) a safer, cleaner, nicer place to be,"
said Pagliarulo.

According to Francis X.
Flannery, vice president and treasurer, a meeting is scheduled to review the plan in early September, during which the plan will likely be approved.

Flannery stated that this committee of deans and key administrators is expected to finalize and implement the new plan, therefore clearing
the path for Scanlon and the University Police to begin training university staff members.

Lost bat traps itself on Fenton's 6th floor, eventually freed unharmed

By Lawrence M. Walsh
JOURNAL STAFF

Breaking the quiet of a lazy summer afternoon, an eight inch bat trapped on the sixth floor of the Fenton building startled workers and students on August 19 as it frantically searched for a way out of the building.

Staff and students in the Math
and Computer Science Department
called the Suffolk Police shortly after 4 p.m. and alerted them to the situation. The bat was flying in irregular patterns in the hallways.

"We confirmed that there was in fact a bat and referred the matter to physical plant," said Captain John Pagliarulo of the Suffolk Police.
After which, Physical Plant called the Animal Rescue League of Boston for assistance.

First spotted by Margaret
Codianni, staff assistant in the Math
and Computer Science Department,
she thought she saw something fall
from the ceiling while she was walking up the back stairwell of the Fenton Building.

As she got closer, Codianni said
the only thing she saw was a black object on the floor. When she approached, it suddenly started to move.

"It was very startling and frightening and I was really surprised by my reaction," said Codianni. She continued by saying that she never really thought about the bat

biting her, rather she was more concerned about the bat flying into her.

With the bat trapped in the corridor with the doors closed, Physical Plant was told by the Animal Rescue League of Boston that as long as the bat was flying around there was no use in trying to catch it.

Sadiq Khaliqi, Physical
Plant director, said the Animal Rescue League told him to open the windows and doors in the building and the bat will eventually find its way out. With those instructions followed, he said the bat has not been seen since.

Bats and birds becoming trapped in buildings is not an unusual occurrence, according to Raymond Orlando, acting manager of the Animal Rescue League of Boston. Orlando said August is the time of the year
when they receive the most calls concerning bats.

John Pagliarulo, the senior officer in charge of the Suffolk
University Police, was promoted over the summer from lieutenant to captain.

having their babies."

While bats are nocturnal creatures, this bat was fully active at mid-afternoon. Orlando said that when bats find themselves trapped
in a strange place they react in the same fashion as people, they panic. This is compounded by the usual activity in any building which startles and makes them
very active, even during daylight.

Explaining the bat's activity,
Orlando said, "It was probably trying to get out and with all the people moving around, it picks it up on its radar and confuses it."

Although bats are a high risk for being rabies carriers, Orlando said
the risk of exposure from this bat
was minimal since there are literally hundreds of thousands of bats
out this time of the year.

Orlando said the only time it becomes a concern is if the bat bites
someone or inflicts an open wound,
then, even if the bat is not rabid, the person is treated as if they have been infected.

This is not the first incident of a bat being trapped in a Suffolk building. Khaliqi said that a bat found its way into the Fenton building around
the beginning of August when painters left some windows open. The bat eventually found its way out of the building.

A check of the sixth floor the day after the incident found no trace of the bat.

Fenton UMS office burglarized

Suffolk University Police reported a forced break-in to the University Media Services
(UMS) office on the fourth floor
of the Fenton Building sometime during the night of August 18 and August 19.

According to Capt. John
Pagliarulo of the Suffolk University Police, the burglars forced their way into the UMS
office with a screwdriver sometime after workers left the building.

The only items reported stolen were two boom-boxes and an answering machine, all having a combined value of approximately $150.

Pagliarulo said there are no suspects and investigation is continuing.

Pagliarulo promoted to captain of univ. police

John Pagliarulo, the senior
officer in charge of the Suffolk
University Police, was promoted over the summer from
lieutenant to captain.

Have a story idea? See something going on around campus. Call the Journal at 573-8323 or drop a note at our office in the Student Activities Center.

Metro Deli

160 Cambridge St.
Boston, MA 02114

NEXT TO NEWS SUFFOLK BOOKSTORE
BUILDING

SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY

!!! SPECIAL !!!

25% OFF

FROM 6 A.M. TILL CLOSING 9 P.M.

A choice of 15 varieties including our famous cooked fresh daily

TURKEY

Dinners, Sandwiches, Soups, and Fresh Salad Bar

Join Us and Enjoy Our Special Offered Especially to
the Suffolk Community:

Professors, Students, and Employees'

Owner a Suffolk Graduate

Q: What are these people doing?

A: They're having the time of their lives at —
BOSTON
PAINTBALL

Come down to BOSTON PAINTBALL today and see why
paintball has been called the "Sport of the 90's."

Play our updated version of tag or capture the flag at BOSTON PAINTBALL and experience a day of unmatched
fun, excitement and adventure.

BOSTON PAINTBALL provides everything. Just bring yourself, a few friends, and a limitless imagination.

Play paintball for interoffice challenges, bachelor parties, outings and college/fraternity games. Paintball fun is suited for any occasion.

Excitement is just a phone call away!

Reserve your adventure now!

Call (617) 742-6612

BOSTON PAINTBALL 131 Beverly St., 6th floor, Boston, MA 02114
ONLY ONE BLOCK FROM BOSTON GARDEN

t Association
t You!

GA? in you!
. 15th
ting er 427

ines to afety program

nd meetdividual iversity.
consisted opies of anted on ch build-here was ion plan ent in the .. which dents and building
Scanlon ore than

regular basis.
Scanlon stated that the purpose of these drills is to identify and correct any trouble
spots, citing instances of students and faculty being unaware of an alarm due to the position of their classroom or office.
With the implementation of the new plan, Scanlon hopes
to eliminate the confusion that follows a drill through the training of university students
and staff members.
"Changing behavior is the key," said Scanlon. "The challenge is raising awareness
throughout the campus about
safety."
Scanlon stated that the university police have been involved in the process and will play a key role in raising awareness about the evacuation plan. "The police are our best resources," said Scanlon.
According to University
Police Captain John
Pagliarulo, the university police gave ideas and suggestions in the planning of the
escape routes from the various buildings, and proposed
the idea of having police as
"floor leaders" to direct students and faculty safely out of
the buildings.
"We are here 24 hours a day and we have the people to execute the evacuation," explained Pagliarulo.
He stated that the police
will be more involved in the execution of the evacuation
plan through maximizing their "resources and authority," referring to past instances of drills being ignored by some
students and professors.
"People have to start taking responsibility for their personal safety," said Pagliarulo.
"You have to take care of
yourself."
Pagliarulo also stated that he would like the police to play a greater role in public safety.
"I think that there is a lot more we can do to make (Suffolk University) a safer,
cleaner, nicer place to be,"
said Pagliarulo.
According to Francis X.
Flannery, vice president and treasurer, a meeting is scheduled to review the plan in early September, during which the
plan will likely be approved.
Flannery stated that this committee of deans and key
administrators is expected to
finalize and implement the
new plan, therefore clearing
the path for Scanlon and the University Police to begin training university staff members.

Lost bat traps itself on Fenton's 6th floor, eventually freed unharmed

By Lawrence M. Walsh
JOURNAL STAFF

Breaking the quiet of a lazy summer afternoon, an eight inch bat
trapped on the sixth floor of the Fenton building startled workers and
students on August 19 as it frantically searched for a way out of the
building.

Staff and students in the Math
and Computer Science Department
called the Suffolk Police shortly after 4 p.m. and alerted them to the situation. The bat was flying in irregular patterns in the hallways.

"We confirmed that there was in fact a bat and referred the matter to physical plant," said Captain John Pagliarulo of the Suffolk Police.
After which, Physical Plant called the Animal Rescue League of Boston for assistance.

First spotted by Margaret
Codianni, staff assistant in the Math
and Computer Science Department,
she thought she saw something fall
from the ceiling while she was walking up the back stairwell of the Fenton Building.

As she got closer, Codianni said
the only thing she saw was a black object on the floor. When she approached, it suddenly started to move.

"It was very startling and frightening and I was really surprised by my reaction," said Codianni. She
continued by saying that she never

really thought about the bat
biting her, rather she was
more concerned about the bat flying into her.

With the bat trapped in the corridor with the doors
closed, Physical Plant was told by the Animal Rescue League of Boston that as long as the bat was flying around there was no use in trying to catch it.

Sadiq Khaliqi, Physical
Plant director, said the Animal Rescue League told him to open the windows and doors in the building and the bat will eventually find its
way out. With those instructions followed, he said the
bat has not been seen since.

Bats and birds becoming trapped in buildings is not
an unusual occurrence, according to Raymond Orlando, acting manager of the Animal Rescue League of Boston. Orlando said August is the time of the year
when they receive the most
calls concerning bats.

"If you have your window open just an inch, they're going to get in your house," said Orlando. "August is a bad time of the year and this is when they are having their babies."

While bats are nocturnal creatures, this bat was fully active at mid-afternoon. Orlando said that
when bats find themselves trapped
in a strange place they react in the same fashion as people, they panic. This is compounded by the usual activity in any building
which startles and makes them
very active, even during daylight.

Explaining the bat's activity,
Orlando said, "It was probably
trying to get out and with all the people moving around, it picks it
up on its radar and confuses it."

Although bats are a high risk for
being rabies carriers, Orlando said
the risk of exposure from this bat
was minimal since there are literally hundreds of thousands of bats
out this time of the year.

Orlando said the only time it becomes a concern is if the bat bites
someone or inflicts an open wound,
then, even if the bat is not rabid, the
person is treated as if they have
been infected.

This is not the first incident of a
bat being trapped in a Suffolk building. Khaliqi said that a bat found its way into the Fenton building around
the beginning of August when paint-
ers left some windows open. The
bat eventually found its way out of the building.

A check of the sixth floor the day after the incident found no trace of
the bat.

Fenton UMS office burglarized

Suffolk University Police reported a forced break-in to the University Media Services
(UMS) office on the fourth floor
of the Fenton Building sometime during the night of August 18 and August 19.

According to Capt. John
Pagliarulo of the Suffolk University Police, the burglars
forced their way into the UMS
office with a screw driver sometime after workers left the building.

The only items reported stolen were two boom-boxes and an answering machine, all having a combined value of approximately $150.

Pagliarulo said there are no
suspects and investigation is continuing.

Pagliarulo promoted to captain of univ. police

John Pagliarulo, the senior
officer in charge of the Suffolk
University Police, was promoted over the summer from
lieutenant to captain.

Have a story idea? See something going on around campus. Call the Journal at 573-8323 or drop a note at our office in the Student Activities Center.

Metro Deli

160 Cambridge St.
Boston, MA 02114

NEXTTONEWSUFFOLKBKBOOKSTORE
BUILDING

SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY

!!! SPECIAL !!!

25% OFF

FROM 6 A.M. TILL CLOSING 9 P.M.

A choice of 15 varieties including our famous cooked fresh daily

TURKEY

Dinners, Sandwiches, Soups, and Fresh Salad Bar

Join Us and Enjoy Our Special Offered Especially to
the Suffolk Community:

Professors, Students, and Employees'

Owner a Suffolk Graduate

Q: What are these people doing?

A: They're having
the time of their lives at—

BOSTON
PAINTBALL

Come down to BOSTON PAINTBALL today and see why
paintball has been called the "Sport of the 90's."

Play our updated version of tag or capture the flag at BOSTON PAINTBALL and experience a day of unmatched
fun, excitement and adventure.

BOSTON PAINTBALL provides everything. Just bring yourself, a few friends, and a limitless imagination.

Play paintball for interoffice challenges, bachelor parties,
outings and college/fraternity games. Paintball fun is suited
for any occasion.

Excitement is just a phone call away!

Reserve your adventure now!

Call (617) 742-6612

BOSTON PAINTBALL 131 Beverly St., 6th floor, Boston, MA 02114
ONLY ONE BLOCK FROM BOSTON GARDEN

Flynn praises Suffolk

By Lawrence M. Walsh
JOURNAL STAFF

Just two days before assuming his post as Ambassador to the Vatican, Ray Flynn took time to participate in Suffolk University's July 10 announcement of its intentions to build a new law school on Tremont Street.

Arriving four hours before at South Station fresh from his confirmation hearings in Washington, D.C., Flynn, in typical style, rode up to the future law school site in a police escorted station wagon and performed one of his final duties as mayor of Boston.

Flynn told the passersby, "Today
ment is of vital in-downtown Boston important for our fine institutions, versity, because it veloping a new building on one prominent sites in Boston."

Flynn and Paul ton Redevelopme-[BRA] director, w-kers in the deal university, comm-groups, historic p-

New Course
English

African-A Literat
Dr. Wayne

MWF 9:30
Sawyer

WORK S

Career Serv

L
Busy, p

Contact the

Flynn praises Suffolk's commitment to Boston before assuming post

By Lawrence M. Walsh
JOURNAL STAFF

Just two days before assuming his post as Ambassador to the Vatican, Ray Flynn took time to participate in Suffolk University's July 10 announcement of its intentions to build a new law school on Tremont Street.

Arriving four hours before at South Station fresh from his confirmation hearings in Washington, D.C., Flynn, in typical style, rode up to the future law school site in a police escorted station wagon and performed one of his final duties as mayor of Boston.

Flynn told the crowd and passersby, "Today's announcement is of vital importance to downtown Boston. It is also important for one of Boston's fine institutions, Suffolk University, because it will be developing a new law school building on one of the most prominent sites in downtown Boston."

Flynn and Paul Barrett, Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA) director, were key brokers in the deal between the university, community interest groups, historic preservationists, and Olympia & York, owners of the property.

Understanding, many concerns from architectural preservation and the impact the eight-story structure will have on the nearby historical sites, such as the Old Granary Burial Grounds, Flynn struck balances between the old and the new.

"We are still going to be able to balance the uniqueness of Boston and its rich architectural and historical character, yet at the same time, continue the progress of Boston as a center of learning and great universities and colleges," Flynn said.

Also of major importance to the city is the revitalization of the Downtown Crossing business district. The BRA has been actively pursuing all avenues of stimulating the commercial and retail industry along Tremont and Washington Street which was so badly affected by the recession.

"When I come back from the Vatican, we're going to look at this street again and we're going to say that Tremont Street is one of the most premier streets, once again, in all of the United States of America," Flynn said with much confidence.

In addition to the law school project, Downtown Crossing will also see the $55 million renovation of the Lafayette

Place on Washington Street and a massive landscaping and sidewalk reconstruction of the area by the city.

Frequently throughout the press conference, onlookers and tour buses would stop to wish Flynn a heart felt good-bye and in the process drew more attention to what would become Suffolk's largest extension.

Onerolley bus driver wished Flynn a hearty thanks for his years as mayor and then asked a reporter what was going on. The reporter told him that it was the announcement of Suffolk's new law school to be built at the site. And as the bus pulled away you could hear, "What you are seeing now is the future site of Suffolk University's law school."

University to begin capital campaign to pay for new $60M law school

By Lawrence M. Walsh
JOURNAL STAFF

With the eventual acquisition of the property at 110-120 Tremont Street for the construction of a new law school building, university officials will have to find a way to pay for what could be a $60 million investment.

President David J. Sargent said Suffolk University will pay for the new building through a combination of funds raised through a capital campaign, bonds, state and federal grants, and funds diverted from other university sources.

At the news conference last July where the announcement of Suffolk agreeing to buy the building was made, Sargent said, as he has said in the past, that the university would undertake a massive capital campaign to raise the necessary funds for the project.

"We would like to have it all come from donors, that would be the easiest, but not necessarily essential," Sargent said, explaining the school will also be seeking an increase in bonding and diverting some modest funds from plant replacement funds.

Last September, Suffolk issued $32.9 million in bonds for the refinancing of the Ridgeway and Student Activities Building and added an additional $6 to $8 million on to the issuing for the purchase of a then undisclosed location for a law school.

Traditionally, the board of trustees has stayed away from mortgaging Suffolk property to pay for large projects and has avoided the burden that many other schools have incurred through borrowing.

Speculation was raised after David Murphy, the former vice-president for development, resigned last April to pursue other interests. Sargent said the change in administration in the Development Office has not affected the operation of that department.

"No, it has not been a major hindrance in connection to the capital campaign," Sargent said.

In relation to tuition, Sargent has said in the past the construction of a new law school will not affect the tuition of undergraduates and the law school will bear the burden.

Suffolk agrees to buy Tremont St. buildings for new law school

■ BUILDING
continued from page 1

NEW HOME FOR LAW SCHOOL - The New Studio Building at 110-120 Tremont St. will be the future home of the new eight story, $60 million Suffolk University Law School. Suffolk will demolish the existing buildings some time in the near future. Fitch Mello/Journal Staff

ton, Redevelopment Authority, the city will undertake a $4 million sidewalk and street renovation project surrounding the Tremont Street property.

"I think a $60 million investment of a brand new law school is a good shot in the arm for Boston and for Tremont Street, and will bring both economic opportunities and construction jobs that are badly needed for construction workers," Barrett said.

In his remarks, Sargent praised the support and contributions made by both

Barrett and Flynn. "We could not have done it without the help of Mayor Flynn and Paul Barrett," he said.

Sargent estimates the new law school will cost somewhere between $35-$40 million, but stressed that a final cost estimate can not be determined until the architect has been selected. The above figure does not include demolition and acquisition cost.

Once all permits have been acquired and contractors selected, the university will secure title to the property. It is expected Suffolk will assume the title to the property in September. The project is not expected to be completed until, at the earliest, some time in 1998.

After the law school has completed its move into the Tremont Street building, Sargent said the Donahue and Archer buildings will revert to the School of Management, the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, and administrative offices.

Sargent said the university has no plans to expand on the enrollment levels of the law school and will maintain enrollment of 1,700 full and part-time students.

New Course: Fall 1993
English 357A

African-American Literature I
Dr. Wayne Dudley

MWF 9:00 - 9:50
Sawyer 1126

WANTED

WORK STUDY STUDENTS to work at Career Services and Co-op Office:

Lots of student contact Busy, pleasant office environment
Flexible schedule
No typing required.

Contact the Career Services & Co-op Office 20 Ashburton Place for more information.
573-8480

COME MEET US!
September 16, 1993
Ridgeway 400
1:00 p.m.

COME MEET US!
September 16, 1993
Ridgeway 400
1:00 p.m.

If you ARE INTERESTED in:

- CURRENT EVENTS
- LAW
- LITERATURE
- PERFORMING
- POLITICS
- PROBLEM SOLVING
- TRAVELING

THE WALTER M. BURSE FORENSICS SOCIETY

THINK ABOUT US!

Suffolk agrees to buy Tremont St. buildings for new law school

BUILDING
continued from page 1

NEW HOME FOR LAW SCHOOL - The New Studio Building at 110-120 Tremont St. will be the future home of the new eight story, $60 million Suffolk University Law School. Suffolk will demolish the existing buildings some time in the near future.
Rich Mello/Journal Staff

tion, the school plans to have a separate law school bookstore on the street level and historic displays that celebrate the Freedom Trail which passes in front of the building.

The agreement in principle simply means Suffolk University intends to purchase the historic office buildings at 110-120 Tremont Street and develop the site in a certain context in keeping with the spirit of the surrounding neighborhood and historical interest.

The agreement also includes university concessions to the city and community groups in the form of the creation of an historic preservation committee with a $200,000 donation from Suffolk.

Suffolk University is also restricted under the terms of the agreement and may not utilize the site for economic interest and must not allow property to sit vacant for any extended period of time.

In return, according to Paul Barrett, director of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, the city will undertake a $4 million sidewalk and street renovation project surrounding the Tremont Street property.

"I think a $60 million investment of a brand new law school is a good shot in the arm for Boston and for Tremont Street, and will bring both economic opportunities and construction jobs that are badly needed for construction workers," Barrett said.

In his remarks, Sargent praised the support and contributions made by both

Barrett and Flynn. "We could not have done it without the help of Mayor Flynn and Paul Barrett," he said.

Sargent estimates the new law school will cost somewhere between $35-$40 million, but stressed that a final cost estimate can not be determined until the architect has been selected. The above figure does not include demolition and acquisition cost.

Once all permits have been acquired and contractors selected, the university will secure title to the property. It is expected Suffolk will assume the title to the property in September. The project is not expected to be completed until, at the earliest, some time in 1998.

After the law school has completed its move into the Tremont Street building, Sargent said the Donahue and Archer buildings will revert to the School of Management, the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, and administrative offices.

Sargent said the university has no plans to expand on the enrollment levels of the law school and will maintain enrollment of 1,700 full and part-time students.

fore assuming post importance to utilization of housing bus- BRA has been g all avenues e commercial ustry along ington Street ly affected by back from the sing to look at and we're go- remont Street most premier in, in all of the f America." much confi-

the law school w. Crossing e $35 million e Lafayette city to begin campaign to pay $60M law school

M. Walsh STAFF

annual acquisi- ty at 110-120 r the construc- school build- officials will vey to pay for a $60 million

vid J. Sargent vesity will pay ding through a f-funds raised tal campaign, federal grants, ted from other es. onference last announcement ing to buy the

Place on Washington Street and a massive landscaping and sidewalk reconstruction of the area by the city.

Frequently throughout the press conference, onlookers and tour buses would stop to wish Flynn a hearty good-bye and in the process drew more attention to what would become Suffolk's largest extension.

One trolley bus driver wished Flynn a hearty thanks for his years as mayor and then asked a reporter what was going on. The reporter told him that it was the announcement of Suffolk's new law school to be built at the site. And as the bus pulled away you could hear, "What you are seeing now is the future site of Suffolk University's law school."

building was made, Sargent said, as he has said in the past that the university would undertake a massive capital campaign to raise the necessary funds for the project.

"We would like to have it all come from donors, that would be the easiest, but not necessarily essential," Sargent said, explaining the school will also be seeking an increase in bonding and diverting some modest funds from plant replacement funds.

Last September, Suffolk issued $32.9 million in bonds for the refinancing of the Ridgeway and Student Activities Building and added an additional $6 to $8 million on to the issuing for the purchase of a then undisclosed location for a law school.

Traditionally, the board of trustees has stayed away from mortgaging Suffolk property to pay for large projects and has avoided the burden that many other schools have incurred through borrowing.

Speculation was raised after David Murphy, the former vice-president for development, resigned last April to pursue other interests. Sargent said the change in administration in the Development Office has not affected the operation of that department.

"No, it has not been a major hindrance in connection to the capital campaign," Sargent said.

In relation to tuition, Sargent has said in the past the construction of a new law school will not affect the tuition of undergraduates and the law school will bear the burden.

Suffolk begins join

BROADCAST
continued from page 1

agreement and feels that the program should yield about 40 to 50 new Suffolk students within the next two years.

Dennis explained the agreement is similar to the one made with New England School of Art, which currently has about 40 students enrolled at Suffolk.

Explaining the considerable enthusiasm about the agreement, Peter Miller, Northeast chief executive officer, said there is excitement amongst current students and alumni. He noted that several of Northeast's are already in the process of applying for a degree at Suffolk.

Phil Hager, senior, broadcasting major, will be one of the first Suffolk students to venture to Northeast and take classes. He explained that he is planning on taking three courses at Northeast, including a course Suffolk has never offered, Radio Production.

Harris said he is excited about the agreement and described Northeast's facilities as "very nice." He sees a lot of potential coming out of this deal, including the possibility of having Suffolk classes with Suffolk professors at Northeast.

Miller feels that his schools resources combined with

Suffolk's hi- munication "compelling bination.

Northeast School stud a diploma i sion Broadc ording A

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

Suffolk Un

You'll be making many decisions in your life.

DURING THE NEXT FEW WEEKS,
ONE OF YOUR DECISIONS SHOULD BE:
"Which ORGANIZATIONS should I join?"

If you ARE INTERESTED in:

- CURRENT EVENTS
- LAW
- LITERATURE
- PERFORMING
- POLITICS
- PROBLEM SOLVING
- TRAVELING

COME MEET US!
September 16, 1993
Ridgeway 400
1:00 p.m.

COME MEET US!
September 16, 1993
Ridgeway 400
1:00 p.m.

The WALTER M. BURSE FORENSICS SOCIETY

THINK ABOUT US!

Suffolk Un

M.B.A. Ass

Announces It's

Meeting Da

Fall, 19

All meetings are held at 7:15 in The Graduate

Floor of Sawyer. Meeting

Full and Part-Time

Meeting dates a

SEPTEMBER

OCTOBER:

NOVEMBER:

DECEME

Come to the first meeting

1993 to find out w

Association is plan

Suffolk agrees to buy Tremont St. buildings for new law school

BUILDING
continued from page 1

tion, the school plans to have a separate law school bookstore on the street level and historic displays that celebrate the Freedom Trail which passes in front of the building.

The agreement in principle simply means Suffolk University intends to purchase the historic office buildings at 110-120 Tremont Street and develop the site in a certain context in keeping with the spirit of the surrounding neighborhood and historical interest.

The agreement also includes university concessions to the city and community groups in the form of the creation of an historic preservation committee with a $200,000 donation from Suffolk.

Suffolk University is also restricted under the terms of the agreement and may not utilize the site for economic interest and must not allow property to sit vacant for any extended period of time.

In return, according to Paul Barrett, director of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, the city will undertake a $4 million sidewalk and street renovation project surrounding the Tremont Street property.

NEW HOME FOR LAW SCHOOL - The New Studio Building at 110-120 Tremont St. will be the future home of the new eight story, $60 million Suffolk University Law School. Suffolk will demolish the existing buildings some time in the near future.
Rich Melito/Journal Staff

tion Redevelopment Authority, the city will undertake a $4 million sidewalk and street renovation project surrounding the Tremont Street property.

"I think a $60 million investment of a brand new law school is a good shot in the arm for Boston and for Tremont Street, and will bring both economic opportunities and construction jobs that are badly needed for construction workers," Barrett said.

In his remarks, Sargent praised the support and contributions made by both

Barrett and Flynn. "We could not have done it without the help of Mayor Flynn and Paul Barrett," he said.

Sargent estimates the new law school will cost somewhere between $35-$40 million, but stressed that a final cost estimate can not be determined until the architect has been selected. The above figure does not include demolition and acquisition cost.

Once all permits have been acquired and contractors selected, the university will secure title to the property. It is expected Suffolk will assume the title to the property in September. The project is not expected to be completed until, at the earliest, some time in 1998.

After the law school has completed its move into the Tremont Street building, Sargent said the Donahue and Archer buildings will revert to the School of Management, the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, and administrative offices.

Sargent said the university has no plans to expand on the enrollment levels of the law school and will maintain enrollment of 1,700 full and part-time students.

Suffolk begins joint program with NE

BROADCAST
communications department are a "compelling and powerful" combination.

agreement and feels that the program should yield about 40 to 50 new Suffolk students within the next two years.

Dennis explained the agreement is similar to the one made with New England School of Art, which currently has about 40 students enrolled at Suffolk.

Explaining the considerable enthusiasm about the agreement, Peter Miller, Northeast chief executive officer, said there is excitement amongst current students and alumni. He noted that several of Northeast's are already in the process of applying for a degree at Suffolk.

Phil Hager, senior, broadcasting major, will be one of the first Suffolk students to venture to Northeast and take classes. He explained that he is planning on taking three courses at Northeast, including a course Suffolk has never offered, Radio Production.

Harris said he is excited about the agreement and described Northeast's facilities as "very nice." He sees a lot of potential coming out of this deal, including the possibility of having Suffolk classes with Suffolk professors at Northeast.

Miller feels that his schools resources combined with

Suffolk's highly reputable communications department are a "compelling and powerful" combination.

Northeast Broadcasting School students wishing to earn a diploma in Radio and Television Broadcasting or in the Recording Arts can do so by completing the required coursework as listed in the current Northeast Broadcasting School catalog. If they want to pursue a degree at Suffolk they will receive 15 credits towards it for the one year worth of work completed at Northeast.

JOINT AGREEMENTS BETWEEN SUFFOLK AND OTHER SCHOOLS
School	Program Began	Year
Case Western Reserve University (Cleveland)	1981	NA
New England School of Art and Design (Boston)	1991	40
International University of Moscow (Russia)	1993	NA
Whitwell School For International Studies (China)	1993	NA

completing the required coursework as listed in the current Northeast Broadcasting School catalog. If they want to pursue a degree at Suffolk they will receive 15 credits towards it for the one year worth of work completed at Northeast.

The school's facilities consist of professional caliber production studios specifically designed for training. The school's resources include one 24-track ADAT digital audio recording studio, two MIDI audio production facilities, three fully equipped radio stations, one radio station suite, two multi-camera studios, three editing systems, and a computer graphics facility.

The Northeast Broadcasting School was founded in 1967 and is dedicated to offering completing the required coursework as listed in the current Northeast Broadcasting School catalog. If they want to pursue a degree at Suffolk they will receive 15 credits towards it for the one year worth of work completed at Northeast.

JOINT AGREEMENTS BETWEEN SUFFOLK AND OTHER SCHOOLS
School	Program Began	Year
Case Western Reserve University (Cleveland)	1981	NA
New England School of Art and Design (Boston)	1991	40
International University of Moscow (Russia)	1993	NA
Whitwell School For International Studies (China)	1993	NA

completing the required coursework as listed in the current Northeast Broadcasting School catalog. If they want to pursue a degree at Suffolk they will receive 15 credits towards it for the one year worth of work completed at Northeast.

The school's facilities consist of professional caliber production studios specifically designed for training. The school's resources include one 24-track ADAT digital audio recording studio, two MIDI audio produc-

Suffolk University M.B.A. Association

Announces It's Scheduled Meeting Dates For Fall, 1993

All meetings are held on Tuesdays at 7:15 in The Graduate Lounge on the 4th Floor of Sawyer. Meetings are open to all Full and Part-Time MBA Students. Meeting dates are as follows:

- SEPTEMBER: 14, 21, 28
- OCTOBER: 5, 19, 26
- NOVEMBER: 2, 9, 23, 30
- DECEMBER: 7

Come to the first meeting on September 14, 1993 to find out what the M.B.A. Association is planning for this fall!

You'll be making many decisions in your life.

DURING THE NEXT FEW WEEKS,
ONE OF YOUR DECISIONS SHOULD BE:
"WHICH ORGANIZATIONS SHOULD I JOIN?"

If you are interested in:

- CURRENT EVENTS
- LAW
- LITERATURE
- PERFORMING
- POLITICS
- Problem Solving
- TRAVELING

COME MEET US!
September 16, 1993
Ridgeway 400
1:00 p.m.

COME MEET US!
September 16, 1993
Ridgeway 400
1:00 p.m.

THE WALTER M. BURSE FORENSICS SOCIETY

THINK ABOUT US!

Suffolk begins joint program with NBS

■ BROADCAST
continued from page 1

agreement and feels that the program should yield about 40 to 50 new Suffolk students within the next two years.

Dennis explained the agreement is similar to the one made with New England School of Art, which currently has about 40 students enrolled at Suffolk.

Explaining the considerable enthusiasm about the agreement, Peter Miller, Northeast chief executive officer, said there is excitement amongst current students and alumni. He noted that several of Northeast's are already in the process of applying for a degree at Suffolk.

Phil Hager, senior, broadcasting major, will be one of the first Suffolk students to venture to Northeast and take classes. He explained that he is planning on taking three courses at Northeast, including a course Suffolk has never offered, Radio Production.

Harris said he is excited about the agreement and described Northeast's facilities as "very nice." He sees a lot of potential coming out of this deal, including the possibility of having Suffolk classes with Suffolk professors at Northeast.

Miller feels that his schools resources combined with

Suffolk's highly reputable communications department are a "compelling and powerful" combination.

Northeast Broadcasting School students wishing to earn a diploma in Radio and Television Broadcasting or in the Recording Arts can do so by

School	Program Began	Students in Program
Centre for International Studies (Spain)	1981	60-80
New England School of Art and Design (Boston)	1991	40
International University of Moscow (Russia)	1993	N/A
British School For International Studies (China)	1993	N/A

completing the required coursework as listed in the current Northeast Broadcasting School catalog. If they want to pursue a degree at Suffolk they will receive 15 credits towards it for the one year worth of work completed at Northeast.

The school's facilities consist of professional caliber production studios specifically designed for training. The school's resources include one 24-track ADAT digital audio recording studio, two MIDI audio production facilities, three fully equipped radio stations, one radio production suite, two multi-camera television studios, three television edit systems, and a computer graphics facility.

The Northeast Broadcasting School was founded in 1952 and is dedicated to offering students a unique and comprehensive educational program which prepares graduates for employment and professional advancement in the fields of radio, television, and the recording arts.

Northeast Broadcasting School shares the same personal, practical approach to education as Suffolk, with small class sizes and direct access to faculty. Its facilities provide students with hands-on training in radio, television and music recording studios.

SGA approves activities budget over summer break

By Stephanie Snow
JOURNAL STAFF

In a precedent setting move, the Student Government Association (SGA) passed the activities budget over the summer, clearing the way for many events to be planned early but also eliminating the incoming freshman from being allowed to vote on it.

All recognized student organizations assign either their president or a representative to attend the Council of Presidents meetings.

Beacon Yearbook received $21,115.07 despite having asked for $26,182.50 to operate the 1993-1994 yearbook.

When asked if he was disappointed with the funding she had received, Mary D'Alba, editor of the Beacon Yearbook, stated she was "happy with the funding."

SGA budgeted itself $10,324.51 for the 1993-1994. Funding will be used to support the Leadership Retreat Weekend and the Annual Leadership Banquet as well as other projects for the upcoming year.

Program Council got the most funds, receiving $54,041.25 for use toward their program.

Program Council, responsible for the majority of the social, educational and cultural events on and off campus, had been seeking $71,984.

Council Of Presidents, an umbrella organization for the smaller clubs on campus, received $36,519.17 to use as they see fit. They had asked for $40,340.

All recognized student organizations assign either their president or a representative to attend the Council of Presidents meetings.

Beacon Yearbook received $21,115.07 despite having asked for $26,182.50 to operate the 1993-1994 yearbook.

When asked if he was disappointed with the funding she had received, Mary D'Alba, editor of the Beacon Yearbook, stated she was "happy with the funding."

SGA budgeted itself $10,324.51 for the 1993-1994. Funding will be used to support the Leadership Retreat Weekend and the Annual Leadership Banquet as well as other projects for the upcoming year.

Andrea Rumpf, Journal Staff, assisted with the preparation of this report.

Lifestyle

Reincarnated

Sixties T.V. shows find new life and greater success in movies

By N.E. Escobar
JOURNAL STAFF

While it may seem that Hollywood is always panning for box-office success, it may have struck a gold mine recently by digging up vintage 60's series and putting them on the silver screen.

As the recent number one box-office draw in the country, "The Fugitive," a late summer film starring Harrison Ford in the title role of Dr. Richard Kimble, a man falsely accused of murdering his wife, is a living testament of the fact that "what was once old is new again."

"It's fun," says Vicki Karns, who teaches a TV classics course at Suffolk. "We have always been intrigued by our past."

Although she admits to never having seen the original "Fugitive" series with David Janssen, which lasted from 1963-1967, Karns credits the return of these classics to cable shows such as "Nick at Nite," a part-time lineup of reruns of such series as "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "Dragnet" on Nickelodeon.

Because of the timing, a fortysomething President in the White House, one may begin to wonder if this latest trend is a way for the baby boomer generation to try one last ditch effort to hold on to their youth.

"Not true," says Karns. "Hollywood is just being Hollywood. They know that the profile of the general movie audience has changed in the last several years from kids with disposable incomes to older, more mature audiences. That's who they want to target because these people will remember these old shows from their childhood."

As more and more films coming out of Hollywood, such as the upcoming, "The Flintstones" and "Mission Impossible," begin to resemble the networks' 60's programming schedules, it seems that

REINCARNATED
continued on page 8

Juggler of Fury

An area juggler performs a trick with a soda bottle and a glass of beer at Quincy Market. The juggler, William Faulkner, is seen in the background.

Collecting is just a wa

By Tony Delloro
JOURNAL STAFF

"When you're a collector you realize that some items are worth parting with," said Kelly Lynn of the Hobby Store located in the Old Boston Common building in downtown Boston. For over a decade Lynn has been serving Boston hobby and trading card enthusiasts.

Now located on the corner of Tremont and Winter Streets the Hobby Store carries a variety of coins, stamps, paper money and the latest collectibles.

A pushcart at Quincy Market is one of the many places in downtown Boston where one can buy trading cards. The one shown also features souvenirs of Boston's sports teams.

Escaping the crowded eateries of Quincy Market

By Karen M. Young
JOURNAL STAFF

Anyone who is spending a day at Faneuil Hall and wants to get away from the crowded eateries in Quincy Marketplace should consider Clarke's Turn of the Century Saloon for a quick bite to eat.

Located on the corner of Chatham Street and Merchants Row a block away from Faneuil

Hall, Clarke's is a restaurant where patrons can get a complete meal for under $10 and take a break from a day of shopping at Faneuil Hall. Serving a menu of hot and cold sandwiches, burgers, soups and salads, Clarke's serves large portions for a low price. The soups at Clarke's are delicious.

CLARKE'S
continued on page 12

Sanders quikens the "McNally's Luck" my

By Karen M. Young
JOURNAL STAFF

"McNally's Luck" by Lawrence Sanders is a fast-paced novel that combines murder, lust, infidelity, catnip, and a bizarre psychic to create an exciting story that's hard to put down.

The reader is lead through the events of the story by Archy McNally, a playboy who works as a private detective at his father's law firm. Two of his firm's clients, Harry Willig and Roderick Gillsworth, enlist Archy to solve their mysteries, which appear to be related to Harry, a cranky, old businessman, needs Archy's help to find the perpetrators who stole Peaches, his beloved cat. The catnappers left a ransom note when they stole the cat. They warned Harry not to co-

Suffolk University M.B.A. Association

Announces It's Scheduled Meeting Dates For
Fall, 1993

All meetings are held on Tuesdays at 7:15 in The Graduate Lounge on the 4th Floor of Sawyer. Meetings are open to all Full and Part-Time MBA Students. Meeting dates are as follows:

SEPTEMBER: 14, 21, 28
OCTOBER: 5, 19, 26
NOVEMBER: 2, 9, 23, 30
DECEMBER: 7

Come to the first meeting on September 14, 1993 to find out what the M.B.A. Association is planning for this fall!

To All Suffolk
Student University
Students
All Semester Long

You will receive
15% off your entire lunch
With a student I.D.
at
GRILLE ON THE HILL
21A Beacon Street
Beacon Hill

Suffolk begins joint program with NBS

BROADCAST
continued from page 1
agreement and feels that the program should yield about 40 to 50 new Suffolk students within the next two years. Dennis explained the agreement is similar to the one made with New England School of Art, which currently has about 40 students enrolled at Suffolk. Explaining the considerable enthusiasm about the agreement, Peter Miller, Northeast chief executive officer, said there is excitement amongst current students and alumni. He noted that several of Northeast's are already in the process of applying for a degree at Suffolk.

Phil Hager, senior, broadcasting major, will be one of the first Suffolk students to venture to Northeast and take classes. He explained that he is planning on taking three courses at Northeast, including a course Radio Production. Harris said he is excited about the agreement and described Northeast's facilities as "very nice." He sees a lot of potential coming out of this deal, including the possibility of having Suffolk classes with Suffolk professors at Northeast.

Miller feels that his schools resources combined with

Suffolk's highly reputable communications department are a "compelling and powerful" combination.

Northeast Broadcasting School students wishing to earn a diploma in Radio and Television Broadcasting or in the Recording Arts can do so by

JOINT AGREEMENTS BETWEEN SUFFOLK AND OTHER SCHOOLS
School	Program Began	Students In Program
Center for International Studies (Spain)	1991	98-80
New England School of Art and Design (Boston)	1991	40
International University of Moscow (Russia)	1993	N/A
Eastwell School for International Studies (China)	1993	N/A

completing the required coursework as listed in the current Northeast Broadcasting School catalog. If they want to pursue a degree at Suffolk they will receive 15 credits towards it for the one year worth of work completed at Northeast.

The school's facilities consist of professional caliber production studios specifically designed for training. The school's resources include one 24-track ADAT digital audio recording studio, two MIDI audio production facilities, three fully equipped radio stations, one radio production suite, two multi-camera television studios, three television edit systems, and a computer graphics facility.

The Northeast Broadcasting School was founded in 1952 and is dedicated to offering students a unique and comprehensive educational program which prepares graduates for employment and professional advancement in the fields of radio, television, and the recording arts.

Northeast Broadcasting School shares the same personal, practical approach to education as Suffolk, with small class sizes and direct access to faculty. Its facilities provide students with hands-on training in radio, television and music recording studios.

SGA approves activities budget over summer break

By Stephanie Snow
JOURNAL STAFF

In a precedent setting move, the Student Government Association (SGA) passed the activities budget over the summer, clearing the way for many events to be planned early but also eliminating the incoming freshman from being allowed to vote on it.

Because of this move, the clubs will now have a jump on planning their activities as well as early knowledge of their budgets.

Erika Christenson, SGA treasurer, explained the need for an early passage of the budget stating that the budget process consumed a tremendous amount of time of the first two months of the academic year.

"We spent well into October working on the budget. That was two months of our time spent on the budget," said Christenson. "We spent half of our leadership retreat time on the budget."

Program Council, responsible for the majority of the social, educational and cultural events on and off campus, had been seeking $71,984.

Council of Presidents, an umbrella organization for the smaller clubs on campus, received $36,519.17 to use as they see fit. They had asked for $40,340.

All recognized student organizations assign either their president or a representative to attend the Council of Presidents meetings.

Beacon Yearbook received $21,115.07 despite having asked for $26,182.50 to operate the 1993-1994 yearbook.

When asked if she was disappointed with the funding she had received, Mary D'Alba, editor of the Beacon Yearbook, stated she was "happy with the funding."

SGA budgeted itself $10,324.51 for the 1993-1994. Funding will be used to support the Leadership Retreat Weekend and the Annual Leadership Banquet as well as other projects for the upcoming year.

Program Council got the most funds, receiving $54,041.25 for use toward their program.

Andrea Rumpf, Journal Staff, assisted with the preparation of this report.

Lifestyles

Reincarnated Sixties T.V. shows find new life and greater success in movies

By N.E. Escobar
JOURNAL STAFF

While it may seem that Hollywood is always panning for box-office success, it may have struck a gold mine recently by digging up vintage '60's series and putting them on the silver screen.

As the recent number one box-office draw in the country, "The Fugitive," a late summer film starring Harrison Ford in the title role of Dr. Richard Kimble, a man falsely accused of murdering his wife, is a living testament of the fact that "what was once old is new again."

"It's fun," says Vicki Karns, who teaches a TV classics course at Suffolk. "We have always been intrigued by our past."

Although she admits to never having seen the original "Fugitive" series with David Janssen, which lasted from 1963-1967, Karns credits the return of these classics to cable shows such as "Nick at Nite," a part-time lineup of reruns of such series as "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "Dragnet" on Nickelodeon.

Because of the timing, a fortysomething President in the White House, one may begin to wonder if this latest trend is a way for the baby boomer generation to try one last ditch effort to hold on to their youth.

"Not true," says Karns. "Hollywood is just being Hollywood. They know that the profile of the general movie audience has changed in the last several years from kids with disposable incomes to older, more mature audiences. That's who they want to target because these people will remember these old shows from their childhood."

As more and more films coming out of Hollywood, such as the upcoming, "The Flintstones" and "Mission Impossible," begin to resemble the networks' '60's programming schedules, it seems that

REINCARNATED
continued on page 8

Juggler of Fury

An area juggler performs for a crowd on the steps of Quincy Market. The juggler demonstrates his talents by tossing a soda bottle and the book "The Sound and the Fury," by William Faulkner. Rich Melo/Journal Staff

Collecting trading cards is just a way of life

By Tony Dellorco
JOURNAL STAFF

"When you're a collector you realize that some items are not worth parting with," said Ken Lynn of the Hobby Store located in the Old Boston Company building in downtown Boston. For over a decade, Lynn has been serving Boston hobby and trading card enthusiasts.

Now located on the corner of Tremont and Winter Street, the Hobby Store carries a variety of coins, stamps, paper money and the latest collection fad — trading cards. Although Lynn carries the traditional sports cards, he also has a variety of unique cards. There are cartoon cards which feature such animation as the Flintstones.

Cards featuring different types of guns are also displayed as well as cards featuring bikini models. Comic book cards, ranging from Spiderman to Wolverine, are also available.

Despite this array of collectibles, CARD collecting is just a way of life. CARD collecting on page 9

A pushcart at Quincy Market is one of the many places in downtown Boston where one can buy trading cards. The one shown also features souvenirs of Boston's sports teams. Rich Melo/Journal Staff

Escaping the crowded eateries of Quincy Market

By Karen M. Young
JOURNAL STAFF

Anyone who is spending a day at Faneuil Hall and wants to take a break from the crowded eateries in Quincy Marketplace should consider Clarke's Turn of the Century Saloon for a quick bite to eat.

Located on the corner of Chatham Street and Merchants Row a block away from Faneuil

Hall, Clarke's is a restaurant where patrons can get a complete meal for under $10 and take a break from a day of shopping at Faneuil Hall. Serving a menu of hot and cold sandwiches, burgers, soups and salads, Clarke's serves large portions for a low price. The soups at Clarke's are delicious.

CLARKE'S continued on page 12

Sanders quickens the pace in "McNally's Luck" mystery

By Karen M. Young
JOURNAL STAFF

"McNally's Luck" by Lawrence Sanders is a fast-paced novel that combines murder, lust, infidelity, catnapping, and a bizarre psychic to create an exciting story that is hard to put down.

The reader is lead through the events of the story by Archy McNally, a playboy who works as a private detective at his father's law firm. Two of the firm's clients, Harry Willigan and Roderick Gillsworth, enlist Archy to solve their mysteries, which appear to be related.

Harry, a crunky, old businessman, needs Archy's help to find the perpetrators who stole Peaches, his beloved cat. The catnappers left a ransom note when they stole the cat. They warned Harry not to contact the police or his cat would be killed. The catnappers also tell Harry that they will send additional notes to let him know when and where he can drop off the ransom money.

Archy thought the note was odd. He noted that the letter was word processed on a machine that justified the right

LUCK continued on page 9

Suffolk University M.B.A. Association

Announces It's Scheduled Meeting Dates For
Fall, 1993

All meetings are held on Tuesdays at 7:15 in The Graduate Lounge on the 4th Floor of Sawyer. Meetings are open to all Full and Part-Time MBA Students. Meeting dates are as follows:

SEPTEMBER: 14, 21, 28
OCTOBER: 5, 19, 26
NOVEMBER: 2, 9, 23, 30
DECEMBER: 7

Come to the first meeting on September 14, 1993 to find out what the M.B.A. Association is planning for this fall!

To All Suffolk
Student University
Students
All Semester Long

You will receive
15% off your entire lunch
With a student I.D.
at
GRILLE ON THE HILL
21A Beacon Street
Beacon Hill

Lifestyles

Reincarnated

Sixties T.V. shows find new life and greater success in movies

By N.E. Escobar
JOURNAL STAFF

While it may seem that Hollywood is always panning for box-office success, it may have struck a gold mine recently by digging up vintage 60's series and putting them on the silver screen.

As the recent number one box-office draw in the country, "The Fugitive," a late summer film starring Harrison Ford in the title role of Dr. Richard Kimble, a man falsely accused of murdering his wife, is a living testament of the fact that "what was once old is new again."

"It's fun," says Vicki Karns, who teaches a TV classics course at Suffolk. "We have always been intrigued by our past."

Although she admits to never having seen the original "Fugitive" series with David Janssen, which lasted from 1963-1967, Karns credits the return of these classics to cable shows such as "Nick at Nite," a part-time lineup of reruns of such series as "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "Dragnet" on Nickelodeon.

Because of the timing, a fortysomething President in the White House, one may begin to wonder if this latest trend is a way for the baby boomer generation to try one last ditch effort to hold on to their youth.

"Not true," says Karns. "Hollywood is just being Hollywood. They know that the profile of the general movie audience has changed in the last several years from kids with disposable incomes to older, more mature audiences. That's who they want to target because these people will remember these old shows from their childhood."

As more and more films coming out of Hollywood, such as the upcoming, "The Flintstones" and "Mission Impossible," begin to resemble the network's 60's programming schedules, it seems that

REINCARNATED
continued on page 8

Juggler of Fury

An area juggler performs for a crowd on the steps of Quincy Market. The juggler demonstrates his talents by tossing a soda bottle and the book "The Sound and the Fury," by William Faulkner. Rich Melillo/Journal Staff

Collecting trading cards is just a way of life

By Tony Dellorco
JOURNAL STAFF

"When you're a collector you realize that some items are not worth parting with," said Ken Lym of the Hobby Store located in the Old Boston Company building in downtown Boston. For over a decade, Lym has been serving Boston hobby and trading card enthusiasts.

Now located on the corner of Tremont and Winter Street, the Hobby Store carries a variety of coins, stamps, paper money and the latest collection fad — trading cards.

Although Lym carries the traditional sports cards, he also has a variety of unique cards. There are cartoon cards which feature such animation as the Flintstones.

Cards featuring different types of guns are also displayed as well as cards featuring bikini models. Comic book cards, ranging from Spiderman to Wolverine, are also available.

Despite this array of col-

CARDS

continued on page 9

A pushcart at Quincy Market is one of the many places in downtown Boston where one can buy trading cards. The one shown also features souvenirs of Boston's sports teams. Rich Melillo/Journal Staff

Escaping the crowded eateries of Quincy Market

By Karen M. Young
JOURNAL STAFF

Anyone who is spending a day at Faneuil Hall and wants to get away from the crowded eateries in Quincy Marketplace should consider Clarke's Turn of the Century Saloon for a quick bite to eat.

Located on the corner of Chatham Street and Merchants Row a block away from Faneuil

Hall, Clarke's is a restaurant where patrons can get a complete meal for under $10 and take a break from a day of shopping at Faneuil Hall. Serving a menu of hot and cold sandwiches, burgers, soups and salads, Clarke's serves large portions for a low price. The soups at Clarke's are delicious.

CLARKE'S
continued on page 12

Sanders quickens the pace in "McNally's Luck" mystery

By Karen M. Young
JOURNAL STAFF

"McNally's Luck" by Lawrence Sanders is a fast-paced novel that combines murder, lust, infidelity, catnapping, and a bizarre psychic to create an exciting story that's hard to put down.

The reader is lead through the events of the story by Archy McNally, a playboy who works as a private detective at his father's law firm. Two of the firm's clients, Harry Willigan and Roderick Gillsworth, enlist Archy to solve their mysteries, which appear to be related.

Harry, a cranky, old businessman, needs Archy's help to find the perpetrators who stole Peaches, his beloved cat. The catnappers left a ransom note when they stole the cat. They warned Harry not to contact the police or his cat would be killed. The catnappers also tell Harry that they will send additional notes to let him know when and where he can drop off the ransom money.

Archy thought the note was odd. He noted that the letter was word processed on a machine that justified the right

LUCK

continued on page 9

INFORMATION FROM THE OFFICE OF FINANCIAL AID

Recent construction in the Financial Aid should enable us to offer students much more private and professional service. The main reception area of the office is no longer open. Rather, an enclosed reception area was constructed to afford privacy. Along with the construction, you will notice changes in our method of service.

When interacting with the Aid Office, please remember we don't offer drive-thru, phone-in, or instant service. Financial aid is a time consuming and complex process so we can't offer "on the spot" decision or answers. In fact, dealing with the Aid Office is much like dealing with the I.R.S. There are numerous forms, deadlines and regulations. Most people don't realize much of what we do in the Aid Office is regulated by federal or state law. For your convenience, information on the types of services we offer is listed below.

WALK-IN: When classes are in session during the fall and spring semester, the office is open Monday through Thursday from 8:45 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. and Friday from 8:45 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. For walk-in visitors, we can:

- answer general question
- distribute applications
- provide receipts for forms personally submitted
- schedule appointments for return visits

Specific questions or concerns may require research. Rather than keep you waiting you will be asked to complete a "Service Form" and advised to call or return to the Aid Office at a specific time for a response.

TELEPHONE: Phone calls are accepted during regular business hours. In response to calls, we can:

- answer general questions
- accept request to mail forms, brochures, etc.
- schedule appointments for visits

Specific questions and/or concerns may require research so the caller may be asked to call again at a specific time for a response.

APPOINTMENTS: If walk-in or phone service does not meet your needs, appointments are available with staff members. We regret we can't accommodate requests for same day appointments.

To minimize the time you spend on financial aid matters, we recommend you read all documentation forwarded to you including award letters, brochures, etc. It is also a good idea to get into the habit of reading "The Journal." We frequently run ads containing valuable information for students.

styles

d new life in movies

"Not true," says Karns. "Hollywood is just being Hollywood. They know that the profile of the general movie audience has changed in the last several years from kids with disposable incomes to older, more mature audiences. That's who they want to target because these people will remember these old shows from their childhood."

As more and more films coming out of Hollywood, such as the upcoming, "The Flintstones" and "Mission Impossible," begin to resemble the networks' 60's programming schedules, it seems that

REINCARNATED
continued on page 8

Juggler of Fury

An area juggler performs for a crowd on the steps of Quincy Market. The juggler demonstrates his talents by tossing a soda bottle and the book "The Sound and the Fury," by William Faulkner. Rich Mallo/Journal Staff

Collecting trading cards is just a way of life

By Tony Dellorco
JOURNAL STAFF

fad — trading cards.

"When you're a collector you realize that some items are not worth parting with," said Ken Lym of the Hobby Store located in the Old Boston Company building in downtown Boston. For over a decade, Lym has been serving Boston hobby and trading card enthusiasts.

Now located on the corner of Tremont and Winter Street, the Hobby Store carries a variety of coins, stamps, paper money and the latest collection

Although Lym carries the traditional sports cards, he also has a variety of unique cards. There are cartoon cards which feature such animation as the Flintstones.

Cards featuring different types of guns are also displayed as well as cards featuring bikini models. Comic book cards, ranging from Spiderman to Wolverine, are also available.

Despite this array of col-

CARDS
continued on page 9

Sanders quickens the pace in "McNally's Luck" mystery

By Karen M. Young
JOURNAL STAFF

as a private detective at his father's law firm. Two of the firm's clients, Harry Willigan and Rodertick Gillisworth, enlist Archy to solve their mysteries, which appear to be related.

"McNally's Luck" by Lawrence Sanders is a fast-paced novel that combines murder, lust, infidelity, catnapping, and a bizarre psychic to create an exciting story that's hard to put down.

The reader is lead through the events of the story by Archy McNally, a playboy who works

Harry, a cranky, old businessman, needs Archy's help to find the perpetrators who stole Peaches, his beloved cat. The catnappers left a ransom note when they stole the cat. They warned Harry not to contact the police or his cat would be killed. The catnappers also tell Harry that they will send additional notes to let him know when and where he can drop off the ransom money.

Archy thought the note was odd. He noted that the letter was word processed on a machine that justified the right

LUCK
continued on page 9

A piece of Hollywood was blown to Boston late last month when shooting for "Blown Away," an action film starring Jeff Bridges and Tommy Lee Jones, began shooting at several locations in and around the city. The movie will also be filmed in the South End, the Charles River Dam Bridge and Charlestown, where a climactic face off between Dove and Gayerly, the main characters, will occur on a boat. The film is scheduled to be released by MGM next summer.

Photo by Rich Mallo/Journal Staff

INFORMATION FROM THE OFFICE OF FINANCIAL AID

Recent construction in the Financial Aid should enable us to offer students much more private and professional service. The main reception area of the office is no longer open. Rather, an enclosed reception area was constructed to afford privacy. Along with the construction, you will notice changes in our method of service.

When interacting with the Aid Office, please remember we don't offer drive-thru, phone-in, or instant service. Financial aid is a time consuming and complex process so we can't offer "on the spot" decision or answers. In fact, dealing with the Aid Office is much like dealing with the I.R.S. There are numerous forms, deadlines and regulations. Most people don't realize much of what we do in the Aid Office is regulated by federal or state law. For your convenience, information on the types of services we offer is listed below.

WALK-IN: When classes are in session during the fall and spring semester, the office is open Monday through Thursday from 8:45 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. and Friday from 8:45 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. For walk-in visitors, we can:

- answer general question
- distribute applications
- provide receipts for forms personally submitted
- schedule appointments for return visits

Specific questions or concerns may require research. Rather than keep you waiting you will be asked to complete a "Service Form" and advised to call or return to the Aid Office at a specific time for a response.

TELEPHONE: Phone calls are accepted during regular business hours. In response to calls, we can:

- answer general questions
- accept request to mail forms, brochures, etc.
- schedule appointments for visits

Specific questions and/or concerns may require research so the caller may be asked to call again at a specific time for a response.

APPOINTMENTS: If walk-in or phone service does not meet your needs, appointments are available with staff members. We regret we can't accommodate requests for same day appointments.

To minimize the time you spend on financial aid hassles, we recommend you read all documentation forwarded to you including award letters, brochures, etc. It is also a good idea to get into the habit of reading "The Journal." We frequently run ads containing valuable information for students.

Sixties T.V. shows find new life, success

REINCARNATED
continued from page 7

Karns' observations of Hollywood are true. Over the past three summer movie seasons, there has been an average of two to three old series brought out of retirement and transferred onto the silver screen.

Although movie critics have not always leaned towards giving such films favorable reviews, citing drastic differences from the originally loved series, it is the support of the fans that have made characters such hot movie fare.

"These movies are relatively easy to make," Karns explains. "You already have the characters and their history in place. There's plenty of storylines and the audience already recognizes who they are."

There seems to be no end in sight to what Hollywood can accomplish if it sticks to the simple idea that Americans are still stuck in another age.

Because of this, the 80's "Pepsi generation" may one day be taking their children to see "Miami Vice" or "Cheers" at their local Loews.

After all, there already seems to be talk of taking "The Brady Bunch" to the big screen.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES
WELCOMES ALL NEW AND RETURNING STUDENTS BACK TO CAMPUS

THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES CENTER WILL BE CELEBRATING THEIR 4TH ANNIVERSARY.
PLEASE JOIN US FOR AN OPEN HOUSE ANNIVERSARY PARTY.

ON THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1993
FROM 12:00 NOON UNTIL 2:00 P.M.

AT
THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES CENTER
28 DERNE STREET
REFRESHMENTS WILL BE SERVED
THERE WILL BE DOOR PRIZES TOO!

HOPE TO SEE YOU THERE!

A piece of Hollywood was blown to Boston late last month when shooting for "Blown Away," an action film starring Jeff Bridges and Tommy Lee Jones, began shooting at several locations in and around the city. The movie will also be filmed in the South End, the Charles River Dam Bridge and Charlestown, where a climactic face off between Doves and Gayerity, the main characters, will occur on a boat. The film is scheduled to be released by MGM next summer.

Photo by Rich Melillo/Journal Staff

INFORMATION FROM THE OFFICE OF FINANCIAL AID

Recent construction in the Financial Aid should enable us to offer students much more private and professional service. The main reception area of the office is now longer open. Rather, an enclosed reception area was constructed to afford privacy. Along with the construction, you will notice changes in our method of service.

When interacting with the Aid Office, please remember we don't offer drive-thru, phone-in, or instant service. Financial aid is a time consuming and complex process so we can't offer "on the spot" decision or answers. In fact, dealing with the Aid Office is much like dealing with the I.R.S. There are numerous forms, deadlines and regulations. Most people don't realize much of what we do in the Aid Office is regulated by federal or state law. For your convenience, information on the types of services we offer is listed below.

WALK-IN: When classes are in session during the fall and spring semester, the office is open Monday through Thursday from 8:45 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. and Friday from 8:45 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. For walk-in visitors, we can:

- answer general question
- distribute applications
- provide receipts for forms personally submitted
- schedule appointments for return visits

Specific questions or concerns may require research. Rather than keep you waiting you will be asked to complete a "Service Form" and advised to call or return to the Aid Office at a specific time for a response.

TELEPHONE: Phone calls are accepted during regular business hours. In response to calls, we can:

- answer general questions
- accept request to mail forms, brochures, etc.
- schedule appointments for visits

Specific questions and/or concerns may require research so the caller may be asked to call again at a specific time for a response.

APPOINTMENTS: If walk-in or phone service does not meet your needs, appointments are available with staff members. We regret we can't accommodate requests for same day appointments.

To minimize the time you spend on financial aid hassles, we recommend you read all documentation forwarded to you including award letters, brochures, etc. It is also a good idea to get into the habit of reading "The Journal." We frequently run ads containing valuable information for students.

Sixties T.V. shows find new life, success

REINCARNATED continued from page 7

Karns' observations of Hollywood are true. Over the past three summer movie seasons, there has been an average of two to three old series brought out of retirement and transferred onto the silver screen.

Although movie critics have not always leaned towards giving such films favorable reviews, citing drastic differences from the originally loved series, it is the support of the fans that have made characters such hot movie fare.

"These movies are relatively easy to make," Karns explains. "You already have the characters and their history in place. There's plenty of storylines and the audience already recognizes who they are."

There seems to be no end in sight to what Hollywood can accomplish if it sticks to the simple idea that Americans are still stuck in another age. Because of this, the 80's "Pepsi generation" may one day be taking their children to see "Miami Vice" or "Cheers" at their local Loews.

After all, there already seems to be talk of taking "The Brady Bunch" to the big screen.

"McNally's Luck" is fast paced mystery

LUCK continued from page 7

hand side. He also noticed that the catnappers used harsh words to describe what would happen to the cat if Harry did not exactly follow their instructions.

Roderick enlists Archy to find out who is behind the death threats that his wife Lydia is receiving in the mail. Roderick informs Archy that Lydia has no enemies and has not done anything to provoke the death threats.

Archy notices that there are many similarities between the letters received by Harry Willigan and Lydia Gillsworth.

He believes that all of the letters were word processed on the same machine because all of them have the right margins justified. He also noted that all of the letters use the same harsh words to describe the manner in which the murders of Lydia and Peaches will be carried out.

Before Archy is able to determine who was responsible for sending Lydia the death threats, she is murdered in her own home after attending a seance at the home of Hertha Gloriana, a mysterious psychic.

Her death leaves Archy wondering whether or not her murder and the catnapping are related.

Archy eventually secured the help of Hertha in finding out who catnapped Peaches and spoke to Lydia's spirit so he can determine who is responsible for her death.

What follows is a fast-paced investigation in which Archy encounters nearly a dozen people, including a convicted felon and his wimpy son, who knew Lydia and could be suspects in the case. Several curve balls in the plot keep Archy from finding out who is the death threats.

Sanders, a best selling author who wrote "Capitol Crimes" and "McNally's Secret," keeps the reader entranced in the novel by adding several twists in the plot. Every time Archy appears to be on the verge of solving the case, new information is given that points the blame in another direction. This creates a feeling of intensity for the reader.

Sanders also breaks away from the intensity of the plot by intriguing the reader with tidbits from McNally's personal life. Several passionate scenes ensue as Archy bounces between two women, Consuela Garcia, his beautiful, long-time girlfriend, and Meg Trumble, Harry's sister-in-law, who works as a personal trainer.

Intrigue, intensity and passion are combined to make "McNally's Luck" a page-turner and a must read novel for any mystery buff.

HELP WANTED
You don't have to be a journalist to be a Journal staff member. There's more to a newspaper than just writing. Stop by the Journal or call 573-8323 for details.

NATIONAL RESUME SERVICE
ITS NEVER BEEN EASIER
ONE TOLL-FREE CALL GETS YOU OUR RESUME PACKAGE.SM
Our package will guide you through writing your resume and provide you with a 2400 dpi Typset Resume and Letterhead.
You can also list your resume on our National Network Service.
ALL FOR JUST $24.00
1-800-433-0045

Trading cards is a way of life

CARDS continued from page 7

lecting cards in both sports and other interests. Lym said that the most popular cards sold now in the store are baseball cards.

Lym stated that the most valuable trading card is one of Hornus Wagner from the early 1900's. The card is so expensive that he cannot afford to carry it in his store.

In those days, collecting cards could be found as an extra feature on cigarette packs. Wagner, a man against cigarette smoking, was angered after seeing his card on the back of a pack of Camels. As a result, the packs were recalled. That card is now worth over half a million dollars.

Lym's most valuable card is an authentic 1968 Nolan Ryan rookie card. Worth $1,500, he does not display the card, rather he keeps it in a file.

Building a valuable trading card collection, Lym explained, can happen in a couple of ways, one is spending a great deal of money and the other is luck. Lym sells unopened packs of old sports cards, which could contain some really rare cards. But the buyer is really taking pot luck since many only contain card worth very little money.

Lym's store originally only sold coins and stamps, trading cards were not even offered in the store until 1988. Now the trading cards are part of the store's core success.

BEACON HILL PUB
149 Charles St. - Boston
Open till 2 a.m.

September Special
12 oz. Longneck Bud Dry only $1.95

Free Chicken Wings Every Thursday and Friday at 5 p.m.

Darts • Pimballs
Video Games
Basketball • Football

New Karaoke Every Wednesday Nite Starting at 9 p.m.

New Item Boston Ale 16 oz. Frosted Glass Draft • $2.95

Bud and Bud Light Draft
16 oz. Frosted Glass • $1.95

STUDENT ACTIVITIES WELCOMES ALL NEW AND RETURNING STUDENTS BACK TO CAMPUS

THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES CENTER WILL BE CELEBRATING THEIR 4TH ANNIVERSARY. PLEASE JOIN US FOR AN OPEN HOUSE ANNIVERSARY PARTY.

ON THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1993 FROM 12:00 NOON UNTIL 2:00 P.M.

AT THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES CENTER 28 DERNE STREET REFRESHMENTS WILL BE SERVED! THERE WILL BE DOOR PRIZES TOO!

HOPE TO SEE YOU THERE!

Editorials

A Job Unfinished

While most of us were sunning it up on the suburban beaches, one of the many goals of the Student Government Association came to completion during the dog days of summer — the construction of the new undergraduate lounge on the fourth floor in the Sawyer Building.

This glass shine is testimony to what a concerned group of students can accomplish once they put their minds to it. Ever since the old smoking lounge in the Sawyer Building was taken over by the graduate students last year undergraduate students have had no where to go and relax.

Nearly a year later, with construction almost complete, the undergraduates once again have a place where they can escape the stress and hardship of the academic day. But as for comfort, this lounge offers little in comparison to the graduate lounge or the existing Fenton Lounge.

So far the lounge has only been furnished with stack chairs, cold, colorless walls, and modest tables resembling more of a half completed conference room than a lounge.

The Student Government Association should continue talks with the university administration to ensure the lounge is fully equipped and furnished with all that is needed to make it a functional student lounge.

The student government should then disseminate a report of the progress of this and other such issues so that students do not come to view the new lounge and the SGA's efforts as a token gesture.

Too many feelings have been hurt over the issue of lounge space. False perceptions have formed over the distinction between the graduates and undergraduates. If this lounge is to be the point of reconciliation, then the job should be done complete and correctly the first time.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

"And one of the things we are going to be doing this year is a video yearbook. But we're not telling too many people because we don't want them to expect too much. This is the first year we've done it."

-Michael Cloberty, general manager of WSUB Television, while addressing a group of travel students interested in joining a media organization.

Shedding Light On Safety

And Suffolk said "Let there be light." After many students raised concerns over personal safety when they travel down Ridgeway Lane, followed by homeless people taking up residence next to the Archer building by the heat exhaust vents, Suffolk University took action and installed lights to illuminate the dark pathway.

In a move long over due, the university has acted responsibly towards the concerns and safety of the community by simply installing two lights along the outside wall of the Fenton building.

Too many times in the past students would travel down Ridgeway Lane with trepidation or avoided the passage entirely just because of inadequate lighting and the numerous nooks and hideaways along the walls of the passage.

Now the lights combined with the rotating video camera mounted on the corner of the Archer building enhances the ability of the Suffolk Police to monitor and respond to any emergency which may occur in the most obscure traveling routes taken by Suffolk students.

But even with the increased presence of the university police around the campus, personal security is still the responsibility of the individual. Every student attending Suffolk University should make it a point to keep abreast of dangers and of suspicious activities happening on their travel routes and take the proper precautions to avoid becoming a victim.

None of us plan on becoming a victim of violence or any other type of crime, but there always stands the possibility of violence in an urban setting, even on pristine Beacon Hill. With the proper precautions and the assistance of Suffolk's police department, all of us will be able to remain unaffected by the social ills of crime.

Letters

The Suffolk Journal wants to hear what you have to say. Write letters to editor and tell us what you think. Letters to the editor must be submitted no later than 1 p.m. on Thursday for publication. The Journal reserves the right to reject any letter for profanity or space considerations.

The Suffolk Journal

By the students, for the students, since 1936

Lawrence M. Walsh, Editor

Andrea Rumpf, Executive Editor
Stephanie Snow, News Editor
Karen M. Young, Lifestyles Editor
Chris Olson, Sports Editor
V. Gordon Glenn III, Special Editor
Richard Mello, Photo Editor
N.E. Escobar, Chief Copy Editor

Dr. Gerald Richmond, Advisor

Kevin Lombardi, Managing Editor
Michele Mosca, Asst. News Editor
TBA, Asst. Lifestyles Editor
TBA, Asst. Sports Editor
TBA, Asst. Photo Editor
TBA, Asst. Special Editor
Gary Zerola, Advertising Manager

Norine Bacigalupo, Consultant

The Suffolk Journal is the student newspaper of Suffolk University. It is the mission of the Suffolk Journal to provide the Suffolk community with the best reporting of news, events, current trends and styles, entertainment, sports, and opinions. The reporting, views and opinions in the Suffolk Journal are solely those of the editors and staff of the Suffolk Journal and do not reflect those of Suffolk University, unless otherwise stated. The Suffolk Journal does not discriminate against any persons for any reason, except on the basis of university policies concerning equal opportunity. A space request.

28 Deme Street • Boston, Massachusetts 02114 • Phone & Fax (617) 573-8323

"I Was Drunk" Is No Excuse For Violence

V. Gordon Glenn III

Before you turn the page and disregard this one man's opinion of the drunken state that we as a nation have tolerated for too long. Take a minute, sit down, and listen to this tale....

Think back, what were you doing on the night of the Head of the Charles Regatta festivities, October 18, 1992. It was a Sunday Night. A seemingly calm Sunday night for most of us, but not all of us, students, I mean.

On that dreadful night last fall while most of us were alive and well, one man, a BU Law student almost died by the hand of a drunken Cambridge Rindge and Latin High School student's hunting knife, instead he was left with a 25 inch physical scar and an emotional one that goes even deeper.

After hearing the story on the news, I thought of two important questions: Number 1, why was this child carrying a hunting knife around with him... was he looking for trouble? Number 2, why was he drunk? Don't forget, this is high school, not another college student.

I'm not that naive to think that it is not very easy for teens to get access to alcohol, but what was surprising to me was the trial a couple weeks ago where the kid was sentenced to 3 1/2 years for the crime.

I sat there in awe as the family and friends of the "Rindge" student, through tearful expressions of love and devotion tried to excuse what he did one drunken night in Harvard Square to the BU Law student, his friends, and I shook my head in disbelief. His defense was that he was drunk and depressed.

"Weeeel," said the Church Lady from Saturday Night Live, "Isn't that conveeeeeenient." It's very exhausting to keep hearing alcohol addicted "victims" of this nation doing what they want and blaming it on everything but the source of the problem - themselves. The fact is, it could have been anyone that could have looked at him funny that night and he would have pulled his Rambo-style knife out and cut them for the sheer joy of it.

The Cambridge kid's father was funny also, funny in a sad way, in his interview with the press. They didn't even know that it was his fault, he said of his beloved child. But I suppose the kid was so inebriated that he probably didn't realize it either until it happened.

All those people, the defense, stood up with their shining renditions of stories about a kid who couldn't have done this crime under normal circumstances. Well, surprise these were not normal circumstances. The kid was drunk.

What is this world coming to? The victim and his pain are being totally overlooked. No one has said a word about this BU Law student who was not inciting violence, as the media would have you believe of all black people, but he was trying to stop it before someone got hurt, but I guess he didn't try hard enough because it was himself who was injured.

The next question to ask is, what if he had died. What if, in his drunken stupor, the outstanding youth and friend to all, had killed his victim? Would the story be the same? Would his mother still think that he was incapable of such an atrocity? Well, open yo' eye's because it almost happened.

In the words of the victim, the real victim, the tearful apology that was made by the assailant's friends and family was "Too little, too late." "I was drunk...oops!" is unacceptable. Some would disagree with me and say that you don't know what you're doing when you're drunk. O.K., but you do know what you're doing before you take that first sip, that first guzzle, the first keg of the night, but we have come to accept this as normal, social behavior.

Don't take my word for it, look at the torn and distraught faces of parents, husbands, wives, brothers, sisters, and friends of those that were raped while drunk, those that either drove and were killed by a drunk driver, or those like that BU Law student who must walk around with the scars on their bodies of drunken assailants, who thought of nothing but their temporary escape from reality...

Never enough time on my hands

Stephanie Snow

I don't care, there is just never enough time. There could be 24 hours in a day, there could be 36 hours in a day, but there would still never be enough time.

There are too many demands, and not enough time. There are too many useless people pressing for my time, without enough reason. There are too many things I wished to accomplish this summer, and not enough time to do it.

Did I get to go on vacation this summer? No, I had to work. Is there any chance that I might go away for Spring Break? Chances are no, unless I want to default on my final tuition payment.

It does not help that I am a natural procrastinator, putting off everything to the last possible moment. Perhaps, just once, if I could do something that was ahead of schedule my life could be easier.

Don't get me wrong, my life is not that burdened that I did not have fun this summer. Nor am I that important that my time is constantly being pressed upon or my services valued so highly that no one could get by without me! To be honest, I am just not that important.

However, it just seems the lofty plans that I had at the start of summer vacation just did not happen. Oh, such plans to go here and there and spend hours at the beach and just relax. Didn't happen; in fact I might be one of the few people to go to Martha's Vineyard and miss the beach. Trust me, you don't want me to bore you with the tale.

I've learned the hard way that the key to my life is time management. What exactly is time management? It is learning which things are a waste of time and which things are worthwhile.

For example, watching Oprah Winfrey console women whose ex-boyfriends have married their sisters is probably not good time management, entertaining as it may be.

Instead, throughout this upcoming semester, I vow to use my time in a good, quality way. First, however, I will have to figure out what those ways are.

Voices of Suffolk

By Rich Mello

Should all Americans be entitled to national health care?

"I think everyone should have it."

Paula Thomas Freshman

"Yes, if Canada can do it, so can we."

Stephanie Engels Freshman

"I think if they're making an attempt to be employed, then they should be guaranteed health care."

Steve Raneri Senior

"Yes, it's a right people should have."

Matt Holland Junior

"Yes, I do."

Linda Palmiero Senior

Excuse For Violence

Interview with the mother still think that he was incapable of such an atrocity? Well, open your eyes because it almost happened.

In the words of the victim, the real victim, the tearful apology that was made by the assailant's friends and family was "Too little, too late." "I was drunk...oops!" is unacceptable. Some would disagree with me and say that you don't know what you're doing when you're drunk. O.K., but you do know what you're doing before you take that first sip, that first guzzle, the first keg of the night, but we have come to accept this as normal, social behavior.

Don't take my word for it, look at the torn and distraught faces of parents, husbands, wives, brothers, sisters, and friends of those that were raped while drunk, those that either drove and were killed by a drunk driver, or those like that BU Law student who must walk around with the scars on their bodies of drunken assailants, who thought of nothing but their temporary escape from reality...

ough time on my hands

no one could get by without me. To be honest, I am just not that important.

However, it just seems the lofty plans that I had at the start of summer vacation just did not happen. Oh, such plans to go here and there and spend hours at the beach and just relax. Didn't happen; in fact I might be one of the few people to go to Martha's Vineyard and miss the beach. Trust me, you don't want me to bore you with the tale.

I've learned the hard way that the key to my life is time management. What exactly is time management? It is learning which things are a waste of time and which things are worthwhile.

For example, watching Oprah Winfrey console women whose ex-boyfriend's have married their sisters is probably not good time management, entertaining as it may be.

Instead, throughout this upcoming semester, I vow to use my time in a good, quality way. First, however, I will have to figure out what those ways are.

By Rich Mello

to national health care?

"Yes, it's a right people should have."

"Yes, I do."

Matt Holland Junior

Linda Palmiero Senior

BSU begins "Express" youth program

EXPRESS continued from page 1

college experience," said BSU President Diane Clark, who emphasized the hopes of, through individual learning, exposing the Boys and Girls Club members to the many cultural experiences available to college students. "We are) trying to deemphasize the negative aspects of everyday life" said Clark.

Clark, who has revamped the structure of BSU to encompass three teams, with three distinct functions. Clark said that Team 1, whose function is "to develop, organize and oversee projects with the intent of assisting Boston communities," will be handling this venture.

The focus age group for boys and girls club members in the program are between 12 and 18 years old. "Some of our children are not exposed to things outside the community," said the boys and girls club Program Director Nayo Sanford. "(They) will get a different outlook on life...Hopefully they'll learn about different careers."

The first event scheduled event for The Express will be a weekend trip to the Suffolk University Friedman Science Field Station in Edmonds, Me. to do environmental experiments.

"The children will get a chance to be exposed to the environment," said Sanford. "College students will help them become focussed."

Departing Friday, Sept. 24 and returning that Sunday, Sept. 26, students will have an opportunity to learn more about nature and marine Biology.

According to Clark, 15 people in total will be going on the trip. There will be 10 Boys and Girls Club members, two chaperones, and three BSU members.

"BSU members will be there as people the kids can work with," said Clark. "The kids will have a chance to explore other aspects of science besides the classroom, and get a better picture of college science - how you can do a lot more, you can expand."

Sanford also said that the college students' presence, especially students of color, can serve as people that the club members can readily relate to. "It says 'yes, you can do it!'"

The second event with BSU and the club this month will be a trip to the Museum of Fine Arts (MFA), Sept. 29; 25 club members and 25 BSU students will be going.

On the trip students will have a chance to take a tour of the "African and Oceanic Sculpture: Treasures from a Private Collection" exhibit and later hear Amherst College's Professor of Black Studies Roland Abiodun speak about African sculpture, as a part of the MFA's African American Art Lecture Series.

Clark, who has been working diligently this summer, got the support and cosponsorship of many on-campus administrative offices for The Express intense effort.

Among those offices and administrators were Arnold Bailey, Jr. of the Development Office, Nancy Stoll, dean of students, Paul Tanklefski, director of Career Services, and Marguerite Dennis, dean of enrollment management, who Clark described as a "very generous sponsor."

Escaping the crowded eateries of Quincy Market

CLARKE'S continued from page 7

The French Onion Soup is served piping hot with melted cheese and chunks of crunchy French bread. A hearty and spicy bowl of Chili is another great choice before you have your main course at the restaurant.

Clarke's famous cheddar burgers are highly recommended. The large, juicy hamburgers are topped with creamy cheddar cheese mixed with chives served on a sesame seed roll.

The burgers are served with Clarke's special Dublin Fries. Dublin Fries are thin potato slices that are fried to a crisp and combine the taste of a french fry with the look of a potato chip.

With a half dozen varieties, Clarke's is a burger lover's dream.

Clarke's also serves an array of hot and cold sandwiches, including the delicious turkey club and the corned beef sandwich. The large sandwiches are enough for two people or just one if you are famished. All of the sandwiches are served with Dublin Fries.

The service at Clarke's is superb. The waiters and waitresses at the restaurant are friendly and the service is quick. It's a great place to have dinner before going to the theater or a sports event if pressed for time. There is rarely a wait for a table before 7 p.m.

The bar at Clarke's is a great place to meet friends and have a drink. The bar can get crowded after 6 p.m., but it is still a fun place to go if you want to have a cocktail before dinner or before a night on the town. A limited food menu is also served at the bar.

Clarke's validates parking for its customers at the parking garage located at 75 State Street.

As an added service to its customers, Clarke's provides free shuttle bus service to the Boston Garden on nights when the Bruins or Celtics are playing at home. The service begins at 7 p.m.

DON'T BE ANOTHER FACE IN THE CROWD

JOIN THE BEACON YEARBOOK!
We need staffers for the 1993-1994 yearbook!

If you write, snap photos, draw, and/or are a creative person, we need you!
All majors and classes welcome!
No experience necessary!
Call 573-8326 or stop by Room 119, SAC

Hispanic

"And remember and take advantage of this message I gave somehow it says I remember man orientatio Daniels explain and learning his activities done the ice for me. anyone else an

"This school all the cultural is with the long is enriching the it There must be to culturalism is or even "Castill experiences an iversity. I dream tell stories and seem like story

I chucked v teacher, whose many tacos she each model at lunch. This dream pointed but I wa of adjustment s become involv I came across it and attended in school's cultur Through 611 teaches some t professor I kno parties (a cultur of their many ac Hispanic Stud concerns for H

I thought of American music was "cultural The school's learning exper what they mean As a Hispan of thought is ve my grandparents saved by my pe lived in Puerto R This contribu a foundation th Before use a with me outlin

BSU begins "Express" youth program

EXPRESS
continued from page 1

college experience," said BSU President Diane Clark, who emphasized the hopes of, through individual learning, exposing the Boys and Girls Club members to the many cultural experiences available to college students. "We are trying to deemphasize the negative aspects of everyday life" said Clark.

Clark, who has revamped the structure of BSU to encompass three teams, with three distinct functions. Clark said that Team 1, whose function is "to develop, organize and oversee projects with the intent of assisting Boston communities," will be handling this venture.

The focus age group for boys and girls club members in the program are between 12 and 18 years old. "Some of our children are not exposed to things outside the community," said the boys and girls club Program Director Nayo Sanford. "They will get a different outlook on life...Hopefully they'll learn about different careers."

The first event scheduled event for The Express will be a weekend trip to the Suffolk University Friedman Science Field Station in Edmonds, Me. to do environmental experiments.

"The children will get a chance to be exposed to the environment," said Sanford. "College students will help them become focussed."

Departing Friday, Sept. 24 and returning that Sunday, Sept. 26, students will have an opportunity to learn more about nature and marine Biology.

According to Clark, 15 people in total will be going on the trip. There will be 10 Boys and Girls Club members, two chaperones, and three BSU members.

"BSU members will be there as people the kids can work with," said Clark. "The kids will have a chance to explore other aspects of science besides the classroom, and get a better picture of college science - how you can do a lot more, you can expand."

Sanford also said that the college students' presence, especially students of color, can serve as people that the club members can readily relate to. "It says 'yes, you can do it!'"

The second event with BSU and the club this month will be a trip to the Museum of Fine Arts (MFA), Sept. 29; 25 club members and 25 BSU students will be going.

On the trip students will have a chance to take a tour of the "African and Oceanic Sculpture: Treasures from a Private Collection" exhibit and later hear Amherst College's Professor of Black Studies Roland Abiodun speak about African sculpture, as a part of the MFA's African American Art Lecture Series.

Clark, who has been working diligently this summer, got the support and sponsorship of many on-campus administrative offices for The Express intense effort.

Among those offices and administrators were Arnold Bailey, Jr. of the Development Office, Nancy Stoll, dean of students, Paul Tanklowski, director of Career Services, and Marguerite Dennis, dean of enrollment management, who Clark described as a "very generous sponsor."

Escaping the crowded eateries of Quincy Market

CLARKE'S
continued from page 7

The French Onion Soup is served piping hot with melted cheese and chunks of crunchy French bread. A hearty and spicy bowl of Chili is another great choice before you have your main course at the restaurant.

Clarke's famous cheddar burgers are highly recommended. The large, juicy hamburgers are topped with creamy cheddar cheese mixed with chives served on a sesame seed roll.

The burgers are served with Clarke's special Dublin Fries. Dublin fries are thin potato slices that are fried to a crisp and combine the taste of a french fry with the look of a potato chip.

With a half dozen varieties, Clarke's is a burger lover's dream.

Clarke's also serves an array of hot and cold sandwiches, including the delicious turkey club and the corned beef sandwich. The large sandwiches are enough for two people or just one if you are famished. All of the sandwiches are served with Dublin Fries.

The service at Clarke's is superb. The waiters and waitresses at the restaurant are friendly and the service is quick. It's a great place to have dinner before going to the theater or a sports event if pressed for time. There is rarely a wait for a table before 7 p.m.

The bar at Clarke's is a great place to meet friends and have a drink. The bar can get crowded after 6 p.m., but it is still a fun place to go if you want to have a cocktail before dinner or before a night on the town. A limited food menu is also served at the bar.

Clarke's validates parking for its customers at the parking garage located at 75 State Street.

As an added service to its customers, Clarke's provides free shuttle bus service to the Boston Garden on nights when the Bruins or Celtics are playing at home. The service begins at 7 p.m.

Ba Pagina

The Suffolk Hispanic Experience

Arlene Santiago

"And remember, be open minded to new experiences and take advantage of Suffolk's cultural diversity." I repeat this over in my mind. "Be open minded...and take advantage of Suffolk's cultural diversity." This was the message I gave to students at orientation this year and somehow it seemed incomplete. Then, I found out why.

I remember vividly the cultural activities of my freshman orientation. An orientation leader named Cristy Daniels explained the importance of being open minded and learning from a culture rather than judging it. The activities done that day proved just that. Hey, that broke the ice for me. I always felt that I was no different from anyone else and now Suffolk agreed too!

"This school is awesome!" I thought. My mind raced on all the cultural activities I would encounter in the Fall along with the long list of culturally enhanced classes available for enriching the knowledge of my Hispanic culture.

There must be a floor in one of the buildings dedicated to culturalism with a professor named "Yaguas," "Torres," or even "Casillo" and a professor "Junilia Ramirez," whose experiences and struggles admired among the whole University. I dreamed of "Paco," the older professor, who could tell stories and encounters that would make mom's stories seem like storytime for kindergarten kids.

I chuckled with the thought of my high school Spanish teacher, whose Spanish lineage is only comprised of how many tacos she ate that day, and dreaded the encounter of such model at a collegiate level...and...and...and then was lunch.

This dream did not become a reality. I was not disappointed but I was not satisfied either. After my freshman year of adjustment and exposure, I wanted to know where I could become involved as a Hispanic and learn more of my culture. I came across the Suffolk University Hispanic Association and attended meetings to find more information about the school's cultural support.

Through SUHA I met Alberto Mendez, a professor who teaches some of the Spanish courses; the only Hispanic professor I know. Very excitedly I attended many SUHA parties (a cultural quality I prefer to keep forever), took part of their many activities, such as Cultural Unity Week and the Hispanic Student/Professional Forum, and expressed my concerns for Hispanic involvement within the school.

I thought of the many reasons why there was no Latino-American majors or minors in any department if the school was "culturally diverse." It hit me like a bolt of lightning. The school's diversity had students not classes. The student learning experiences are to be learned from students and what they may know about their backgrounds.

As a Hispanic person, I was not the only one. I thought of thoughts as very diverse and I realized that my grandparents were not the only ones. My grandparents were saved by my parents and had so close a family, they lived in Puerto Rico for three years. They were very cultured. This contributed to my knowledge of my parents and served as a foundation for the information I was seeking.

Before this experience, the only thing my parents shared with me culturally were pictures, old-fashioned movies, the TV

HISPANIC continued on page 14

Lack of mentors for hispanics still felt by students, faculty

By Fernando Ramos
JOURNAL CONTRIBUTOR

There are still many questions left unanswered months after last semester's "Latino Forum," at which issues such as the lack of Hispanic mentors, traditions within the Latino family and the lack of Latino faculty, were discussed.

The first forum of its kind, hosted by the Suffolk University Hispanic Association

(SUHA), "The Latino Forum" succeeded in educating and informing the Suffolk community about specific issues that Latino's face daily.

When asked recently if there were sufficient Latin mentors or faculty at Suffolk, Wilma Celestino, BA91, of the Adult and Evening Studies Office stated that the amount of Latin employees could definitely be expanded.

"(Latinos) deserve someone who can devote the necessary amount of attention and support they need," said Celestino commenting on the increasing number of Latinos entering the university.

Although there are a handful of Latino staff within the university, there is no one specific person who is directly responsible for the academic and personal development

MENTORS continued on page 14

Spain

-one of the many Inter-Future destinations for Suffolk students

Suffolk Journal Graphic

EUROPE

Area shown below

Suffolk InterFuture students prepare for Spain, Mexico

By V. Gordon Glenn III
JOURNAL STAFF

While most of us were taking it easy this summer, relaxing from the stresses of classes and finals, or while the others that were lucky enough to get a summer job were working 9-5, some Suffolk students were doing intense research, practice and preparation for their InterFuture projects.

"InterFuture," (IF) whose name stands for "Intercultural Studies For The Future," was founded in Princeton, N. J. in 1969. It is a private, non-profit educational organization which helps promising students conduct intercultural research. Students who qualify as InterFuture Scholars undergo an immensely challenging and rewarding experience in overseas cultural research.

After an intense interview and application process, the next step for the InterFuture Scholar is to carry out his research abroad in, if possible, both a European and a third world nation.

To do this IF students must attend conferences at which other IF students and board members meet in order to help the student focus their research project so it can be implemented in their country of choice.

The second of two conferences was held last month, from Aug. 3 - 8 at Endicott College, Beverly, The Research Design Conference, according to an IF report, is held following a summer's background reading and, if needed, language study. Eight Suffolk students attended this conference.

"For me it was something that was stressful... INTERFUTURE continued on page 14

DON'T BE ANOTHER FACE IN THE CROWD

JOIN THE BEACON YEARBOOK!
We need staffers for the 1993-1994 yearbook!

If you write, snap photos, draw, and/or are a creative person, we need you!
All majors and classes welcome!
No experience necessary!
Call 573-8326 or stop by Room 119, SAC

ogram

Escaping the crowded eateries of Quincy Market

ers can readily re- says 'yes, you can cond event with he club this month ip to the Museum is (MFA), Sept. 29; members and 25 uts will be going. trip students will nce to take a tour 'ican and Oceanic 'Treasures from a ollection" exhibit r hear Amherst Professor of Black Roland Abiodun ut African sculp- part of the MFA's merican Art Lec- s.

ho has been work- this summer, port and cospon- many on-campus tie offices for The tense effort.

those offices and tors were Arnald of the Develop- ice, Nancy Stoll, students. Paul i, director of C- ces, and Margu- es, dean of enroll- ment, who cribed as a "very sponsor."

CLARKE'S continued from page 7

The French Onion Soup is served piping hot with melted cheese and chunks of crunchy French bread. A hearty and spicy bowl of Chili is another great choice before you have your main course at the restaurant.

Clarke's famous cheddar burgers are highly recommended. The large, juicy hamburgers are topped with creamy cheddar cheese mixed with chives served on a sesame seed roll.

The burgers are served with Clarke's special Dublin Fries. Dublin Fries are thin potato slices that are fried to a crisp and combine the taste of a french fry with the look of a potato chip.

With a half dozen varieties, Clarke's is a burger lover's dream.

Clarke's also serves an array of hot and cold sandwiches, including the delicious turkey club and the corned beef sandwich. The large sandwiches are enough for two people or just one if you are finished. All of the sandwiches are served with Dublin Fries.

The service at Clarke's is superb. The waiters and waitresses at the restaurant are friendly and the service is quick. It's a great place to have dinner before going to the theater or a sports event if pressed for time. There is rarely a wait for a table before 7 p.m.

The bar at Clarke's is a great place to meet friends and have a drink. The bar can get crowded after 6 p.m., but it is still a fun place to go if you want to have a cocktail before dinner or before a night on the town. A limited food menu is also served at the bar.

Clarke's validates parking for its customers at the parking garage located at 75 State Street.

As an added service to its customers, Clarke's provides free shuttle bus service to the Boston Garden on nights when the Bruins or Celtics are playing at home. The service begins at 7 p.m.

Ba Pagina

The Suffolk Hispanic Experience

Arlene Santiago

"And remember, be open minded to new experiences and take advantage of Suffolk's cultural diversity." I repeat this over in my mind. "Be open minded...and take advantage of Suffolk's cultural diversity." This was the message I gave to students at orientation this year and somehow it seemed incomplete. Then, I found out why. I remember vividly the cultural activities of my freshman orientation. An orientation leader named Cristy Daniels explained the importance of being open minded and learning from a culture rather than judging it. The activities done that day proved just that. Hey, that broke the ice for me. I always felt that I was no different from anyone else and now Suffolk agreed too!

This school is awesome! I thought. My mind raced on all the cultural activities I would encounter in the Fall along with the long list of culturally enhanced classes available for enriching the knowledge of my Hispanic culture.

There must be a floor in one of these buildings dedicated to culturalism with a professor named "Vasquez," "Torrez," or even "Castillo" and a professor "Juanita Ramirez," whose experiences and struggles admired among the whole University. I dreamed of "Paco," the older professor, who could tell stories and encounters that would make moon's stories seem like storytime for kindergarten kids. I chuckled with the thought of my high school Spanish teacher, whose Spanish lineage is only comprised of how many tacos she ate that day, and dreaded the encounter of such models at a collegiate level...and...and...and then was lunch.

This dream did not become a reality. I was not disappointed but I was not satisfied either. After my freshman year of adjustment and exposure, I wanted to know where I could become involved as a Hispanic and learn more of my culture. I came across the Suffolk University Hispanic Association and attended meetings to find more information about the school's cultural support.

Through SUHA I met Alberto Mendez, a professor who teaches some of the Spanish courses; the only Hispanic professor I know. Very excitedly I attended many SUHA parties (a cultural quality I prefer to keep forever), took part of their many activities, such as Cultural Unity Week and the Hispanic Student/Professional Forum, and expressed my concerns for Hispanic involvement within the school.

I thought of the many reasons why there was no Latin-American majors or minors in any departments if the school was "culturally diverse." It hit me like a bolt of lightning. The school's diversity was students not classes. The cultural learning experiences are all learned from students and what they may know about their backgrounds.

As a Hispanic person born and raised in Boston my mind of thought is very liberalized in the U.S. A reason why I thought my grandparents were odd for not wanting to know in Boston, my parents were odd for not wanting to know in Boston and I lived in Puerto Rico for three years. I was very cultural shock. This contributed to my knowledge of my parents and served as a foundation for the information I wanted to know.

Before this experience, the only thing any person shared with me culturally were pictures, of course, books, movies, the TV

HISPANIC continued on page 14

Lack of mentors for hispanics still felt by students, faculty

By Fernando Ramos JOURNAL CONTRIBUTOR

There are still many questions left unanswered months after last semester's "Latinos and Informing the Suffolk Community about Specific Issues that Latino's Face Daily."

The first forum of it's kind, hosted by the Suffolk University Hispanic Association

(SUHA), "The Latino Forum" succeeded in educating and informing the Suffolk community about specific issues that Latino's face daily.

When asked recently if there were sufficient Latin mentors or faculty at Suffolk, Wilma Celestino, BA91, of the Adult and Evening Studies Office stated that the amount of Latin employees could definitely be expanded.

who can devote the necessary amount of attention and support they need," said Celestino commenting on the increasing number of Latinos entering the university.

Although there are a handful of Latino staff within the university, there is no one specific person who is directly responsible for the academic and personal develop

MENTORS continued on page 14

Spain -one of the many inter-Future destinations for Suffolk students

Suffolk InterFuture students prepare for Spain, Mexico

By V. Gordon Glenn III JOURNAL STAFF

While most of us were taking it easy this summer, relaxing from the stresses of classes and finals, or while the others that were lucky enough to get a summer job were working 9 - 5, some Suffolk students were doing intense research, practice and preparation for their InterFuture projects.

"InterFuture," (IF) whose name stands for "Intercultural Studies For The Future," was founded in Princeton, N. J. in 1969. It is a private, non-profit educational organization which helps promising students conduct intercultural research. Students who qualify as InterFuture Scholars undergo an immensely challenging and rewarding experience in overseas cultural research.

After an intense interview and application process, the next step for the InterFuture scholar is to carry out his research abroad in, if possible, both a European and a third world nation.

To do this IF students must attend conferences at which other IF students and board members meet in order to help the student focus their research project so it can be implemented in their country of choice.

The second of two conferences was held last month, from Aug. 3 - 8 at Endicott College, Beverly. The Research Design Conference, according to an IF report, is held following a summer's background reading and, if needed, language study. Eight Suffolk students attended this conference.

"For me it was something that was stressful and challenging and rewarding experience in overseas cultural research." INTERFUTURE continued on page 14

FACE IN THE CROWD

ACON YEARBOOK! rs for the 1993-1994 arbook!

p photos, draw, and/or person, we need you! id classes welcome! eance necessary! stop by Room 119, SAC

HISPANIC continued on page 14

Lac

MENTY continu men) of the Celestino Suffolk's E states that i ficult for h colleagues' students b sponsibilit ally need i job descrip a Latino m With a work-load year, it is dents to s ments wil sor Albert most prom ure at the

gina

Mentors for hispanics by students, faculty

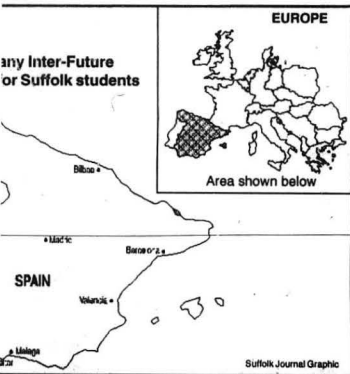

(SUHA). "The Latino Forum" succeeded in educating and informing the Suffolk community about specific issues that Latino's face daily. When asked recently if there were sufficient Latin mentors or faculty at Suffolk, Wilma Celestino, BA91, of the Adult and Evening Studies Office stated that the amount of Latin employees could definitely be expanded. "Latinos deserve someone who can devote the necessary amount of attention and support they need," said Celestino commenting on the increasing number of Latinos entering the university.

Although there are a handful of Latino staff within the university, there is no one specific person who is directly responsible for the academic and personal develop-

MENTORS
continued on page 14

any Inter-Future or Suffolk students

InterFuture students for Spain, Mexico

After an intense interview and application process, the next step for the InterFuture Scholar is to carry out his research abroad in, if possible, both a European and a third world nation.

To do this IF students must attend conferences at which other IF students and board members meet in order to help the student focus their research project so it can be implemented in their country of choice.

The second of two conferences was held last month, from Aug. 3 - 8 at Endicott College, Beverly. The Research Design Conference, according to an IF report, is held following a summer's background reading and, if needed, language study. Eight Suffolk students attended this conference.

"For me it was something that was stressing experience in over-

INTERFUTURE
continued on page 14

Lack of mentors felt by hispanics

MENTORS
continued from page 13

Celestino, who tries to help Suffolk's Latino community states that it is extremely difficult for her and her Latino colleagues to be there for the students because of job responsibilities. "What we really need is someone who's job description is to serve as a Latino mentor," she said. With a full-time teaching work-load throughout the year, it is difficult for students with Spanish Professor Alberto Mendez, the most prominent Latino figure at the university.

As stated at the Latino Forum, Mendez said. "We need somebody to specialize in the area."

One plausible alternative for the lack of professional mentors was already initiated since The Latino Forum was held, the panel consisted of three Latino upper-classmen who could easily serve as peer mentors within the university. In addressing the difficulties of hiring such a professional, Latinos have expressed a concern to develop a system where every entering freshman would automatically be assigned an upperclass student as a peer mentor, which could help in easing some of the questions and confusion that arise during the first year of college.

Eventually, the major goal of the mentors' presence would be to have the Latino community become more successful in areas such as education, business and law. With the help of professional or student mentors, the Latino community has a chance to be more aware of scholarship and job opportunities available at Suffolk.

Now that Suffolk is accepting more Latinos, progress is being made, but according to Celestino, "if you want (Latinos) here, you have to serve them."

Black Studies Professor Reinstated

College Press Service

NEW YORK - Leonard Jeffries, the black studies professor who was ousted as department chairman at City College of New York for making racist comments, must be reinstated to his position, a federal judge ruled.

U.S. District Judge Kenneth Conboy ruled that Jeffries' statements were protected free speech.

In a 1991 speech, Jeffries created an uproar when he said that Jews promoted the slave trade, and that Jews and the Mafia were responsible for negative media images of the black race.

In early August, Conboy called Jeffries' 1991 comments "reprehensible and racist." However, he ruled that the college must reinstate Jeffries for the last two years of a three-year contract.

Earlier this year, a federal judge ruled that Jeffries was improperly removed from his position as chair of the Black Studies Department. It has not been decided if Jeffries will be awarded damages.

The college will not comment on the case because it is on appeal, said a City College spokesman.

The Suffolk Hispanic Experience

HISPANIC
continued from page 13

show Chico & the Man, and Freddy Fender. That is probably all they could share. Sad case of culture blues if you asked me. Here I thought Hispanic men were mechanics or sang ranchero songs on guitars. I had no input on women's roles, so I assumed they were all housewives and factory workers like my mom.

My mother did not finish the fourth grade before my grandmother pulled her out to help do the farming and other self supportive needs for a home. Here develops a big gap of history unlearned due to no schooling, hence information not passed on to their children.

Therefore, although this may not be the case with everyone, this limits the cultural experiences gained from other students. This is what developed the feeling of incompleteness within my statement. It is incomplete.

We need the supplementation to cultural diversity with history and other such classes. I should not only say to take advantage of our cultural diversity, but I should say how one can within the limits of our school. This develops a hunger for Hispanic unity and knowledge to search for that culture we want to gain that Suffolk prides itself on.

Pride appropriately upheld by Sharon Artis-Jackson, assistant to the president and director of multi-cultural affairs, and Mendez, whom both work so hard for the Latin community -pride the culturally diversified students hold on and share within the university.

This is the same pride that supports cultural requirements within our school, and the same pride, unsatisfied or not, that will keep voicing out the need to support Suffolk's cultural diversity and the contributions it gives back to this wonderful Suffolk community of ours.

Hope this encourages the Suffolk community to unite, support, and show off our cultural diversity, involving everything and everyone! Let us fully take advantage of what Suffolk has and make it an example for the rest of the surrounding communities.

Don't Live In An Ivory Tower While You're at Suffolk. Tower Above It All At The Greenhouse Apartments.

1, 2 & 3 Bedroom Luxury Apartments in Back Bay offering:

- 24 hr. Concierge
- Valet Parking Garage
- Rooftop Pool
- Health Club
- Saunas
- Library
- 24 hr. Maintenance
- Cafe
- Drycleaners
- Florist
- Beauty Salon
- Car Rental
- Market
- On-Site Management
- On-MBT Green Line

Model Apartment Open Daily
Call 267-6777 or 1-800-330-4020
for free brochure & appointment.
Reservations now being accepted for Fall.

 THE GREENHOUSE

ESL prog

By Michael Tod
JOURNAL STAFF

For many students, college challenges themselves academically, however, the difficult face are not solely a matter themselves to the elevated standards of college, but also in tremendous barrier of doing while learning a new language.

In the wake of this dilemma students have found an at University's English as a gauge (ESL) Program.

Dedicated to helping an first language is not English program is seen by many a desert of fear and confusion. Founded at Suffolk in the program's objective has of it's director Fernando "sought to give students w language is not English, an receive a college education.

The ESL process is or when the student is still en school. It is in their senior students are recruited by ar Once the student has decide ing Suffolk, their English a are then tested to determine ESL program they will be Those students who ma

Univ

Monday 8:30 - 9:00
9:00 - 11:30
10:30 - 11:30
4:30 - 7:00

Tuesday 8/31
8:30 - 5:00
4:30 - 7:00
6:00 -

Wednesday 9/1
9:30 - 2:00
11:15 - 3:30 - 6:30
6:00 -

Thursday 9/2
9:00 -
9:30 - 2:00
10:30 - 11:15 - 12:00 - 1:30
12:00 -

Monday 9/5
Tuesday 9/7

11:45 - 1:00 - 1:00 - 2:00
4:30 -

Wednesday 9/8
Thursday 9/9
10:00 - 3:00

Friday 9/10
Saturday 9/11

University has an event that is general information

a

For hispanics ts, faculty

who can devote the necessary amount of attention and support they need," said Celestino commenting on the increasing number of Latinos entering the university.

Although there are a handful of Latino staff within the university, there is no one specific person who is directly responsible for the academic and personal development

MENTORS

continued on page 14

ire students Mexico

an intense interview and application the next step for the InterFuture Scholar out his research abroad in, if possible, European and a third world nation.

The Research Design Conference, one of the IF students must attend conference, which other IF students and board's meet in order to help the student their research project so it can be entered in their country of choice.

Record of two conferences was held last from Aug. 3-8 at Edinboro College.

The Research Design Conference, one of the IF report, is held following a student's background reading and, if needed, a study. Eight Suffolk students attended this conference.

me it was something that was stressful.

INTERFUTURE
continued on page 14

Lack of mentors felt by hispanics

MENTORS
continued on page 13

ment of the Latino student.

Celestino, who tries to help Suffolk's Latino community states that it is extremely difficult for her and her Latino colleagues to be there for the students because of job responsibilities. "What we really need is someone who's job description is to serve as a Latino mentor," she said.

With a full-time teaching work-load throughout the year, it is difficult for students to schedule appointments with Spanish Professor Alberto Mendez, the most prominent Latino figure at the university.

As stated at the Latino Forum, Mendez said, "We need somebody to specialize in the area."

One plausible alternative for the lack of professional mentors was already inflated since the Latino Forum was held, the panel consisted of three Latino upper-classmen who could easily serve as peer mentors within the university.

In addressing the difficulties of hiring such a professional, Latinos have expressed a concern to develop a system where every entering freshman would automatically be assigned an upperclass student as a peer mentor, which could help in

Black Studies Professor Reinstated

College Press Service

NEW YORK - Leonard Jeffries, the black studies professor who was ousted as department chairman at City College of New York for making racist comments, must be reinstated to his position, a federal judge ruled.

U.S. District Judge Kenneth Conboy ruled that Jeffries' statements were protected free speech.

In a 1991 speech, Jeffries created an uproar when he said that Jews promoted the slave trade, and that Jews and the Mafia were responsible for negative media images of the black race.

In early August, Conboy called Jeffries' 1991 comments "reprehensible and racist." However, he ruled that the college must reinstate Jeffries for the last two years of a three-year contract.

Earlier this year, a federal judge ruled that Jeffries was improperly removed from his position as chair of the Black Studies Department. It has not been decided if Jeffries will be awarded damages.

The college will not comment on the case because it is on appeal, said a City College spokesman.

The Suffolk Hispanic Experience

HISPANIC
continued from page 13

show Chico & the Man, and Freddy Fender. That is probably all they could share. Sad case of culture blues if you asked me. Here I thought Hispanic men were mechanics or sang ranchero songs on guitars. I had no input on women's roles, so I assumed they were all housewives and factory workers like my mom.

My mother did not finish the fourth grade before my grandmother pulled her out to help do the farming and other self supportive needs for a home. Here develops a big gap of history-unlearned due to no schooling, hence information not passed on to their children.

Therefore, although this may not be the case with everyone, this limits the cultural experiences gained from other students. This is what developed the feeling of incompleteness within my statement. It is incomplete.

We need the supplementation to cultural diversity with history and other such classes. I should not only say to take advantage of our cultural diversity, but I should say how one can within the limits of our school. This develops a hunger for Hispanic unity and knowledge to search for that culture we want to gain that Suffolk prides itself on.

Pride appropriately upheld by Sharon Artis-Jackson, assistant to the president and director of multi-cultural affairs, and Mendez, whom both work so hard for the Latin community-pride the culturally diversified students hold on and share within the university.

This is the same pride that supports cultural requirements within our school, and the same pride, unsatisfied or not, that will keep voicing out the need to support Suffolk's cultural diversity and the contributions it gives back to this wonderful Suffolk community of ours.

I hope this encourages the Suffolk community to unite, support, and show off our cultural diversity, involving everything and everyone! Let us fully take advantage of what Suffolk has and make it an example for the rest of the surrounding communities.

Don't Live In An Ivory Tower While You're at Suffolk. Tower Above It All At The Greenhouse Apartments.

1, 2 & 3 Bedroom
Luxury Apartments
in Back Bay
offering:

- 24 hr. Concierge
- Valet Parking Garage
- Rooftop Pool
- Health Club
- Saunas
- Library
- 24 hr. Maintenance
- Cafe
- Drycleaners
- Florist
- Beauty Salon
- Car Rental
- Market
- On-Site Management
- On MBTA Green Line

Model Apartment Open Daily
Call 267-6777 or 1-800-330-4020
for free brochure & appointment.
Reservations now being accepted for Fall.

THE GREENHOUSE

ESL program gives stu

By Michael Todino
JOURNAL STAFF

For many students, college is a time to challenge themselves academically. To some, however, the difficulties they must face are not solely a matter of adapting themselves to the elevated scholastic standards of college, but also in defeating the tremendous barrier of doing all of this while learning a new language.

In the wake of this dilemma, these students have found an ally in Suffolk University's English as a Second Language (ESL) Program.

Dedicated to helping students whose first language is not English, the ESL program is seen by many as an oasis in a desert of fear and confusion.

Founded at Suffolk in the fall of 1989, the program's objective has, in the words of its director Fernanda Rodrigues, "sought to give students whose primary language is not English, an opportunity to receive a college education."

The ESL process is one that begins when the student is still enrolled in high school. It is in their senior year that most students are recruited by an ESL official. Once the student has decided upon attending Suffolk, their English and math skills are then tested to determine which type of ESL program they will be placed in.

Those students who rank in the intermediate level are in a program that consists of hours that will cover college-level English. Courses consist of intermediate history, integrals, history and a math level. Students in this level are required to complete their first year course work. Those students who rank in the inter-

University Dates

Suffolk University
Monday 9/20	Orientation & Registration Orientation For International SOM Undergraduate Progs Registration For New Grad
8:00 - 9:00
10:00 - 11:30
4:30 - 7:00
Tuesday 9/21	Orientation & Registration
8:30 - 5:00
4:30 - 7:00	Registration For New Part- Orientation For Evening Di
6:00 -
Wednesday 9/22	Registration For New Fresh Orientation Day Division I Cooperative Education Ori Orientation For Evening Di
9:30 - 2:00
11:15 - 5:30 - 6:30
6:00 -
Thursday 9/23	Resumes Due; Mass Law S CLAS Academic Standing Registration For New & R SOM Graduate Program C Orientation For Day Divisi SOM Faculty Luncheon Resume Preparation Work
9:00
9:30 - 2:00
10:30 - 11:15 - 12:00 - 2:30
12:30
Monday 9/26	Labor Day Holiday!!
Tuesday 9/27	Classes Begin For All Law Classes Convene For Meet First Day Resumes Are Du CLAS Faculty Luncheon CLAS Faculty Assembly SOM Department Chairmen Evening Classes Convene 11:45
1:00 - 2:00
1:00 - 2:00
4:30
Wednesday 9/28	Day Classes Convene CLA
Thursday 9/29	Placement Orientation For 10:00 - 5:00
Friday 9/30	BLSA Job Fair Roosevelt I
Saturday 9/31	Last Day of Class For Exce

University Dates List is Suffolk University's most important event that you are planning call 573-5062. A general information.

Lack of mentors felt by hispanics

MENTORS

continued from page 13

ment of the Latino student. Celestino, who tries to help Suffolk's Latino community states that it is extremely difficult for her and her Latino colleagues to be there for the students because of job responsibilities. "What we really need is someone who's job responsibility is to serve as a Latino mentor," she said.

With a full-time teaching work-load throughout the year, it is difficult for students to schedule appointments with Spanish Professor Alberto Mendez, the most prominent Latino figure at the university.

As stated at the Latino Forum, Mendez said, "We need somebody to specialize in the area."

One plausible alternative for the lack of professional mentors was already initiated since The Latino Forum was held, the panel consisted of three Latino upper-classmen who could easily serve as peer mentors within the university.

In addressing the difficulties of hiring such a professional, Latinos have expressed a concern to develop a system where every entering freshman would automatically be assigned an upperclass student as a peer mentor, which could help in easing some of the questions and confusion that arise during the first year of college.

Eventually, the major goal of the mentors' presence would be to have the Latin community become more successful in areas such as education, business and law. With the help of professional or student mentors, the Latin community has a chance to be more aware of scholarship and job opportunities available at Suffolk.

Now that Suffolk is accepting more Latinos, progress is being made, but according to Celestino, "If you want (Latinos) here, you have to serve them."

Black Studies Professor Reinstated

College Press Service

NEW YORK—Leonard Jeffries, the black studies professor who was ousted as department chairman at City College of New York for making racist comments, must be reinstated to his position, a federal judge ruled.

U.S. District Judge Kenneth Conboy ruled that Jeffries' statements were protected free speech.

In a 1991 speech, Jeffries created an uproar when he said that Jews promoted the slave trade, and that Jews and the Mafia were responsible for negative media images of the black race.

In early August, Conboy called Jeffries' 1991 comments "reprehensible and racist." However, he ruled that the college must reinstate Jeffries for the last two years of a three-year contract.

Earlier this year, a federal judge ruled that Jeffries was improperly removed from his position as chair of the Black Studies Department. It has not been decided if Jeffries will be awarded damages.

The college will not comment on the case because it is on appeal, said a City College spokesman.

The Suffolk Hispanic Experience

HISPANIC

continued from page 13

show Chico & the Man, and Freddy Fender. That is probably all they could share. Sad case of culture blues if you asked me. Here I thought Hispanic men were mechanics or sang ranchero songs on guitars. I had no input on women's roles, so I assumed they were all housewives and factory workers like my mom.

My mother did not finish the fourth grade before my grandmother pulled her out to help do the farming and other self supporting needs for a home. Here develops a big gap of history unlearned due to no schooling, hence information not passed on to their children.

Therefore, although this may not be the case with everyone, this limits the cultural experiences gained from other students. This is what developed the feeling of incompleteness within my statement. It is incomplete.

We need the supplementation to cultural diversity with history and other such classes. I should not only say to take advantage of our cultural diversity, but I should say how one can within the limits of our school. This develops a hunger for Hispanic unity and knowledge to search for that culture we want to gain that Suffolk prides itself on.

Pride appropriately upheld by Sharon Artis-Jackson, assistant to the president and director of multi-cultural affairs, and Mendez, whom both work so hard for the Latin community—pride the culturally diversified students hold on and share within the university.

This is the same pride that supports cultural requirements within our school, and the same pride, unsatisfied or not, that will keep voicing out the need to support Suffolk's cultural diversity and the contributions it gives back to this wonderful Suffolk community of ours.

I hope this encourages the Suffolk community to unite, support, and show off our cultural diversity, involving everything and everyone! Let us fully take advantage of what Suffolk has and make it an example for the rest of the surrounding communities.

Don't Live In An Ivory Tower While You're at Suffolk. Tower Above It All At The Greenhouse Apartments.

1, 2 & 3 Bedroom
Luxury Apartments
in Back Bay
offering:

- 24 hr. Concierge
- Valet Parking Garage
- Rooftop Pool
- Health Club
- Saunas
- Library
- 24 hr. Maintenance
- Cafe
- Drycleaners
- Florist
- Beauty Salon
- Car Rental
- Market
- On-Site Management
- On-MBTA Green Line

Model Apartment Open Daily
Call 267-6777 or 1-800-330-4020
for free brochure & appointment.
Reservations now being accepted for Fall.

 THE GREENHOUSE

ESL program gives students opportunity for growth

By Michael Todino
JOURNAL STAFF

Fernanda Rodrigues, director of the English as a Second Language (ESL) program at Suffolk University.

Rich Melillo/Journal Staff

For many students, college is a time to challenge themselves academically. To some, however, the difficulties they must face are not solely a matter of adapting themselves to the elevated scholastic standards of college, but also in defeating the tremendous barrier of doing all of this while learning a new language.

In the wake of this dilemma, these students have found an ally in Suffolk University's English as a Second Language (ESL) Program.

Dedicated to helping students whose first language is not English, the ESL program is seen by many as an oasis in a desert of fear and confusion.

Founded at Suffolk in the fall of 1989, the program's objectives, in the words of its director Fernanda Rodrigues, "sought to give students whose primary language is not English, an opportunity to receive a college education."

The ESL process is one that begins when the student is still enrolled in high school. It is in their senior year that most students are recruited by an ESL official. Once the student has decided upon attending Suffolk, their English and math skills are then tested to determine which type of ESL program they will be placed in.

Those students who rank in the intermediate level are placed in a one-year program that consists of 24-30 semester hours that will count towards their Suffolk degree. Courses during this first year consist of intermediate reading and writing skills, integrated studies, American history and a math course.

Students who test at the elementary level are placed in a two-year program in which the first year's credits are only counted towards financial aid. This student's first year courses consist of elementary reading and writing skills, a math course and elementary grammar and listening/speaking courses.

For students like Julio Jimenez, the ESL program has enabled them to succeed in accomplishing quality work. A senior accounting major, Jimenez is quick to credit the ESL program for his prosperity at Suffolk. "It was a good transition from High School to college. I would have gotten lost in that first year if it wasn't for the ESL program. It helped ease my fears of college work loads and campus life."

Jimenez is not alone when it comes to ESL students doing well at Suffolk. The program can proudly boast of an 80%

University Dateline

Suffolk University's Calendar of Events

August 2

Monday 8/29	Orientation & Registration For New Undergraduate Students	Orientation For International Students	SDM Undergraduate Program Committee	Registration For New Graduate Students & Re-Admitted Grad Students
9:00 - 11:30
4:30 - 7:00
Tuesday 8/31	8:30 - 5:00	Orientation & Registration For New Transfer & International Students
4:30 - 7:00	Registration For New Part-Time & Evening Students
6:00 -	Orientation For Evening Division Law Students
Wednesday 9/1	9:30 - 2:00	Registration For New Freshmen & Transfer Students	Orientation Day Division Law Students	Cooperative Education Orientation
11:15 -	5:30 - 6:30	Orientation For Evening Division Law Students
6:00 -
Thursday 9/2	9:00 - 2:00	Resumes Due: Mass Law School Consortium, off-Campus Prgrams, DC	CLAS Academic Standing Committee	Registration For New & Returning Students
9:30 - 2:00	10:30 -	SDM Graduate Program Committee (Academic Standing)	Orientation For Day Division Law Students	SDM Faculty Luncheon
11:15 -	12:00 - 2:30	Resume Preparation Workshop / Law Students
12:00 -	12:00
Monday 9/5		Labor Day Holiday!
Tuesday 9/7		Classes Begin For All Law Students	Classes Convene for Master Of Science in Finance Program	First Day Resumes Are Due for On-Campus Interviews / Law
11:45	1:00	CLAS Faculty Luncheon	CLAS Faculty Assembly	SDM Department Chairpersons Meeting
1:00 - 2:00	4:30	Evening Classes Convene CLAS/SOM
Wednesday 9/8		Day Classes Convene CLAS/SOM
Thursday 9/9	10:00 - 3:00	Placement Orientation For '94 - '95 Law Students
Friday 9/10		BLAS Job Fair Roosevelt Hotel, New York City / Law
Saturday 9/11		Last Day of Class For Executive MBA/MFA

University Dateline is Suffolk University's master calendar. For information on any scheduled event, or an event that you are planning call 873-9082. A comprehensive record of what is happening, when and where, general information.

Lack of mentors felt by hispanics

MENTORS
continued from page 13

Celestino, who tries to help Suffolk's Latino community states that it is extremely difficult for her and her Latino colleagues to be there for the students because of job responsibilities. "What we really need is someone who's job description is to serve as a Latino mentor," she said. With a full-time teaching work-load throughout the year, it is difficult for students to schedule appointments with Spanish Professor Alberto Mendez., the most prominent Latino figure at the university.

As stated at the Latino Forum, Mendez said, "We need somebody to specialize in the area."

One plausible alternative for the lack of professional mentors was already initiated since The Latino Forum was held, the panel consisted of three Latino upper-classmen who could easily serve as peer mentors within the university.

In addressing the difficulties of hiring such a professional, Latinos have expressed a concern to develop a system where every entering freshman would automatically be assigned an upperclass student as a peer mentor, which could help in easing some of the questions and confusion that arise during the first year of college.

Eventually, the major goal of the mentors' presence would be to have the Latin community become more successful in areas such as education, business and law. With the help of professional or student mentors, the Latin community has a chance to be more aware of scholarship and job opportunities available at Suffolk.

Now that Suffolk is accepting more Latinos, progress is being made, but according to Celestino, "if you want (Latinos) here, you have to serve them."

Black Studies Professor Reinstated

College Press Service

NEW YORK—Leonard Jeffries, the black studies professor who was ousted as department chairman at City College of New York for making racist comments, must be reinstated to his position, a federal judge ruled.

U.S. District Judge Kenneth Conboy ruled that Jeffries' statements were protected free speech.

In a 1991 speech, Jeffries created an uproar when he said that Jews promoted the slave trade, and that Jews and the Mafia were responsible for negative media images of the black race.

In early August, Conboy called Jeffries' 1991 comments "reprehensible and racist." However, he ruled that the college must reinstate Jeffries for the last two years of a three-year contract.

Earlier this year, a federal judge ruled that Jeffries was improperly removed from his position as chair of the Black Studies Department. It has not been decided if Jeffries will be awarded damages.

The college will not comment on the case because it is on appeal, said a City College spokesman.

The Suffolk Hispanic Experience

HISPANIC
continued from page 13

show Chico & the Man, and Freddy Fender. That is probably all they could share. Sad case of culture blues if you asked me. Here I thought Hispanic men were mechanics or sang ranchero songs on guitars. I had no input on women's roles, so I assumed they were all housewives and factory workers like my mom.

My mother did not finish the fourth grade before my grandmother pulled her out to help do the farming and other self supportive needs for a home. Here develops a big gap of history unlearned due to no schooling, hence information not passed on to their children.

Therefore, although this may not be the case with everyone, this limits the cultural experiences gained from other students. This is what developed the feeling of incompleteness within my statement. It is incomplete.

We need the supplementation to cultural diversity with history and other such classes. I should not only say to take advantage of our cultural diversity, but I should say how one can within the limits of our school. This develops a hunger for Hispanic unity and knowledge to search for that culture we want to gain that Suffolk prides itself on.

Pride appropriately upheld by Sharon Artis-Jackson, assistant to the president and director of multi-cultural affairs, and Mendez, whom both work so hard for the Latin community—pride the culturally diversified students hold on and share within the university.

This is the same pride that supports cultural requirements within our school, and the same pride, unsatisfied or not, that will keep voicing out the need to support Suffolk's cultural diversity and the contributions it gives back to this wonderful Suffolk community of ours.

I hope this encourages the Suffolk community to unite, support, and show off our cultural diversity, involving everything and everyone! Let us fully take advantage of what Suffolk has and make it an example for the rest of the surrounding communities.

Don't Live In An Ivory Tower While You're at Suffolk. Tower Above It All At The Greenhouse Apartments.

1, 2 & 3 Bedroom Luxury Apartments in Back Bay offering:

- 24 hr. Concierge
- Valet Parking Garage
- Rooftop Pool
- Health Club
- Saunas
- Library
- 24 hr. Maintenance
- Cafe
- Drycleaners
- Florist
- Beauty Salon
- Car Rental
- Market
- On-Site Management
- On-MBTA Green Line

Model Apartment Open Daily
Call 267-6777 or 1-800-330-4020
for free brochure & appointment.
Reservations now being accepted for Fall.

THE GREENHOUSE

ESL program gives students opportunity for growth, success

By Michael Todino
JOURNAL STAFF

Fernanda Rodrigues, director of the English as a Second Language (ESL) program at Suffolk University.
Rich Melillo/Journal Staff

For many students, college is a time to challenge themselves academically. To some, however, the difficulties they must face are not solely a matter of adapting themselves to the elevated scholastic standards of college, but also in defeating the tremendous barrier of doing all of this while learning a new language.

In the wake of this dilemma, these students have found an ally in Suffolk University's English as a Second Language (ESL) Program.

Dedicated to helping students whose first language is not English, the ESL program is seen by many as an oasis in a desert of fear and confusion.

Founded as Suffolk in the fall of 1989, the program's objective has, in the words of its director Fernanda Rodrigues, "sought to give students whose primary language is not English, an opportunity to receive a college education."

The ESL process is one that begins when the student is still enrolled in high school. It is in their senior year that most students are recruited by an ESL official.

Once the student has decided upon attending Suffolk, their English and math skills are then tested to determine which type of ESL program they will be placed in.

Those students who rank in the intermediate level are placed in a one-year program that consists of 24-30 semester hours that will count towards their Suffolk degree. Courses during this first year consist of intermediate reading and writing skills, integrated studies, American history and a math course.

Students who test at the elementary level are placed in a two-year program in which the first year's credits are only counted towards financial aid. The students' first year courses consist of elementary reading and writing skills, a math course and elementary grammar and listening/speaking courses.

For students like Julio Jimenez, the ESL program has enabled them to succeed in accomplishing quality work. A senior accounting major, Jimenez is quick to credit the ESL program for his prosperity at Suffolk. "It was a good transition from High School to college. I would have gotten lost in that first year if it wasn't for the ESL program. It helped ease my fears of college work loads and campus life."

Jimenez is not alone when it comes to ESL students doing well at Suffolk. The program can proudly boast of an 80%

retention rate among its students and saw it's first student, Evelyn Miranda, graduate this past May.

Along with this accomplishment, the program has also experienced a jump in its enrollment from an average of 40 new students in previous years to a whopping 60 new students for the Fall 1993 semester.

According to Rodrigues, the program is ethnically comprised of one-half Asian and one-half Hispanic with a few Cape Verdean and Haitian students as well. This coming year will also see the 4 Russian students entering the program.

With small classes (15-20 students per class), students are able to receive a great deal of needed attention. The program also provides its students with two part-time master tutors that aid with content materials and provide individual support to each client.

In the spirit of Suffolk's commitment to providing its students with excellent resources, the ESL program is a superb model.

"It helps (students) to develop their self-confidence and to gain a sense of identity," said Rodrigues. "They have the strength to move on and do well academically."

For many of its students, the ESL program has been that helping step towards many successful academic careers.

University Dateline

Suffolk University's Calendar of Events

August 30 - September 11, 1993

Date	Event	Location
Monday 8/30 8:00 - 9:00 10:30 - 11:30 4:30 - 7:00	Orientation & Registration For New Undergraduate Students Orientation For International Students SOM Undergraduate Program Committee Registration For New Graduate Students & Re-Admitted Grad Students	C. Walsh Theatre Ridgeway Building, Room 400 Faculty Lounge, Sawyer 613 Sawyer Cafeteria
Tuesday 8/31 8:30 - 5:00 4:30 - 7:00 6:00 -	Orientation & Registration For New Transfer & International Students Registration For New Part-Time & Evening Students Orientation For Evening Division Law Students	C. Walsh Theatre Sawyer Cafeteria C. Walsh Theatre
Wednesday 9/1 9:30 - 2:00 11:15 - 5:30 - 6:30 6:00 -	Registration For New Freshmen & Transfer Students Orientation Day Division Law Students Cooperative Education Orientation Orientation For Evening Division Law Students	Sawyer Cafeteria C. Walsh Theatre Sawyer 521 C. Walsh Theatre
Thursday 9/2 9:00 9:30 - 2:00 10:30 11:15 12:00 - 2:30 12:00	Resumes Due: Mass Law School Consort. off-Campus Program CLAS Academic Standing Committee Registration For New & Returning Students SOM Graduate Program Committee (Academic Standing) Orientation For Day Division Law Students SOM Faculty Luncheon Resumes Preparation Workshop / Law Students	Law Placement Office Archer 110 Sawyer Cafeteria Sawyer 521 C. Walsh Theatre Omni Parker House 50 School Street Besse Conference Room, Division
Monday 9/6	Labor Day Holiday!
Tuesday 9/7 11:45 1:00 1:00 - 2:00 4:30	Classes Begin For All Law Students Classes Convene For Master Of Science in Finance Program First Day Resumes Are Due for On-Campus Interviews / Law CLAS Faculty Luncheon CLAS Faculty Assembly SOM Department Chairpersons Meeting Evening Classes Convene CLAS/SOM	Law Placement D - 137 Sawyer Cafeteria Sawyer 424 Sawyer 521
Wednesday 9/8	Day Classes Convene CLAS/SOM
Thursday 9/9 10:00 - 5:00	Placement Orientation For '94 - '95 Law Students	C. Walsh Theatre
Friday 9/10	BLSA Job Fair Roosevelt Hotel, New York City / Law	For Details See Law Placement
Saturday 9/11	Last Day of Class For Executive MBA/MPA

University Dateline is Suffolk University's master calendar. For information on any scheduled event, any day of the academic year, or to list an event that you are planning call 873-8062. A comprehensive record of what's happening, when and where — for planning, publicity or general information.

ESL program gives students opportunity for growth, success

By Michael Todino
JOURNAL STAFF

For many students, college is a time to challenge themselves academically. To some, however, the difficulties they must face are not solely a matter of adapting themselves to the elevated scholastic standards of college, but also in defeating the tremendous barrier of doing all of this while learning a new language.

In the wake of this dilemma, these students have found an ally in Suffolk University's English as a Second Language (ESL) program.

Dedicated to helping students whose first language is not English, the ESL program is seen by many as an oasis in a desert of fear and confusion.

Founded at Suffolk in the fall of 1989, the program's objective has, in the words of its director Fernanda Rodrigues, "sought to give students whose primary language is not English, an opportunity to receive a college education."

The ESL process is one that begins when the student is still enrolled in high school. It is in their senior year that most students are recruited by an ESL official. Once the student has decided upon attending Suffolk, their English and math skills are then tested to determine which type of ESL program they will be placed in.

Those students who rank in the inter-

Fernanda Rodrigues, director of the English as a Second Language (ESL) program at Suffolk University. Rich Melko/Journal Staff

mediate level are placed in a one-year program that consists of 24-30 semester hours that will count towards their Suffolk degree. Courses during this first year consist of intermediate reading and writing skills, integrated studies, American history and a math course.

Students who test at the elementary level are placed in a two-year program in which the first year's credits are only counted towards financial aid. This students first year courses consist of elementary reading and writing skills, a math course and elementary grammar and listening/spoken courses.

retention rate among it's students and saw it's first student, Evelyn Miranda, graduate this past May.

Along with this accomplishment, the program has also experienced a jump in it's enrollment from an average of 40 new students in previous years to a whopping 60 new students for the Fall 1993 semester.

According to Rodrigues, the program is ethnically comprised of one-half Asian and one-half hispanic with a few Cape Verdian and Haitian students as well. This coming year will also see the 4 Russian students entering the program.

With small classes (15-20 students per class), students are able to receive a great deal of needed attention. The program also provides it's students with two part-time master tutors that aid with content materials and provide individual support to each client.

In the spirit of Suffolk's commitment to providing it's students with excellent resources, the ESL program is a superb model.

"It helps (students) to develop their self-confidence and to gain a sense of identity," said Rodrigues. "They have the strength to move on and do well academically."

For many of it's students, the ESL program has been that helping step towards many successful academic careers.

idies

Reinstated

negative media images of the black race.

In early August, Conboy called Jeffries' 1991 comments "reprehensible and racist." However, he ruled that the college must reinstate Jeffries for the last two years of a three-year contract.

Earlier this year, a federal judge ruled that Jeffries was improperly removed from his position as chair of the Black Studies Department. It has not been decided if Jeffries will be awarded damages.

The college will not comment on the case because it is on appeal, said a City College spokesman.

he Suffolk

hispanic xperience

HISPANIC

continued from page 13

Chico & the Man, and Freddy Fender. It's probably all they could share. Sad case culture blues if you asked me. Here I thought Hispanic men were mechanics or rancho songs on guitars. I had no idea on women's roles, so I assumed they all housewives and factory workers like mom.

My mother did not finish the fourth grade so my grandmother pulled her out to do the farming and other self-supportive is for a home. Here develops a big gap of my unlearned due to no schooling; hence information not passed on to their children. Therefore, although this may not be the case with everyone, this limits the cultural experiences gained from other students. This has developed the feeling of incompleteness within my statement. It is incomplete. We need the supplementation to cultural maturity with history and other such classes. I could not say to take advantage of our rural diversity, but I should say how one within the limits of our school. This elopes a hunger for Hispanic unity and wedges to search for that culture we want to aim that Suffolk prides itself on.

ride appropriately upheld by Sharon is-Jackson, assistant to the president and director of multi-cultural affairs, and Mendez, whom both work so hard for the Latin community—pride the culturally diversified talents held on and share within the university.

This is the same pride that supports cultural requirements within our school, and the pride, unsatisfied or not, that will keep going out the need to support Suffolk's rural diversity and the contributions it gives to this wonderful Suffolk community of students.

I hope this encourages the Suffolk community to unite, support, and show off our cultural diversity, involving everything and everyone! us fully take advantage of what Suffolk has to make it an example for the rest of the surrounding communities.

University Dateline

Suffolk University's Calendar of Events

August 30 - September 11, 1993

Monday 9/30 8:00 - 9:00 10:00 - 11:30 4:30 - 7:00	Orientation & Registration For New Undergraduate Students Orientation For International Students SOM Undergraduate Program Committee Registration For New Graduate Students & Re-Admitted Grad Students	C. Walsh Theatre Ridgeway Building, Room 400 Faculty Lounge, Sawyer 613 Sawyer Cafeteria
Tuesday 9/31 8:30 - 5:00 4:30 - 7:00 6:00 -	Orientation & Registration For New Transfer & International Students Registration For New Part-Time & Evening Students Orientation For Evening Division Law Students	C. Walsh Theatre Sawyer Cafeteria C. Walsh Theatre
Wednesday 9/1 9:30 - 2:00 11:15 - 5:30 6:30 -	Registration For New Freshmen & Transfer Students Orientation Day Division Law Students Cooperative Education Orientation Orientation For Evening Division Law Students	Sawyer Cafeteria C. Walsh Theatre Sawyer 521 C. Walsh Theatre
Thursday 9/2 9:00 - 9:30 - 2:00 10:30 - 11:15 12:00 - 2:30 12:30 -	Resumes Due: Mass Law School Consortium, off-Campus Programs CLAS Academic Standing Committee Registration For New & Returning Students SOM Graduate Program Committee (Academic Standing) Orientation For Day Division Law Students SOM Faculty Luncheon Resume Preparation Workshop / Law Students	Law Placement Office Archer 110 Sawyer Cafeteria Sawyer 521 C. Walsh Theatre Omni Parker House 60 School Street Bourse Conference Room, Donahue
Monday 9/6	Labor Day Holiday!!
Tuesday 9/7 11:45 - 1:00 1:00 - 2:00 4:30 -	Classes Begin For All Law Students Classes Convene For Master Of Science In Finance Program First Day Resumes Are Due for On-Campus Interviews / Law CLAS Faculty Luncheon CLAS Faculty Assembly SOM Department Chairpersons Meeting Evening Classes Convene CLAS/SOM	Law Placement D-137 Sawyer Cafeteria Sawyer 421/429 Sawyer 521
Wednesday 9/8	Day Classes Convene CLAS/SOM
Thursday 9/9 10:00 - 3:00	Placement Orientation For '94 - '95 Law Students	C. Walsh Theatre
Friday 9/10	BLSA Job Fair Roosevelt Hotel, New York City / Law	For Details See Law Placement
Saturday 9/11	Last Day of Class For Executive MBA/MEA

University Dateline is Suffolk University's master calendar. For information on any scheduled event, any day of the academic year, or to list an event that you are planning call 573-5982. A comprehensive record of what is happening, when and where - for planning, publicity or general information.

Construction on campus

CONSTRUCTION continued from page 1

to the unavailability of certain materials.

"There will be no messes on campus when the students return," explained Flannery. "I've been through worse."

According to Christine Perry, the director of the Office of Financial Aid, the office was renovated in order to provide more privacy for students, improve time management, and reduce noise levels in the office.

The new office consists of a private reception area where students can be referred to specific staff members pending on their individual needs.

The older office, said Perry, was totally unusable and impossible to conduct business with students wasn't fair to the student it's not fair to us," said Perry.

The Financial Aid office now enclosed, is said to be more efficient and better organized due to the increased space.

"We really wanted more in terms of better management," said Perry.

The new undergraduate lounge on the fourth floor

General Me
for New and Returning
on Tuesday, September 1
at 1:00 p.m. in Fenton

New ideas welcome at Suffolk Free Radio

THE THRILL OF THE HILL

Program gives students opportunity for growth, success

Rich Mellor
Suffolk Journal Staff

For many students, college is a time to overcome academic difficulties. To many, it is a matter of adapting to a new level of scholastic standards. For those who are struggling with the language barrier, the dilemma is often one of how to succeed in a second language.

Fernanda Rodrigues, director of the English as a Second Language (ESL) program at Suffolk University.

Rich Mellor/Journal Staff

For students like Julio Jimenez, the ESL program has enabled them to succeed in accomplishing quality work. A senior accounting major, Jimenez is quick to credit the ESL program for his progress. "It helps (students) to develop their self-confidence and to gain a sense of identity," said Rodrigues. "They have the strength to move on and do well academically."

Students who test at the elementary level are placed in a two-year program in which the first year's credits are only counted towards financial aid. This students first year courses consist of elementary reading and writing skills, a math course and elementary grammar and listening/speaking courses.

For students like Julio Jimenez, the ESL program has enabled them to succeed in accomplishing quality work. A senior accounting major, Jimenez is quick to credit the ESL program for his progress. "It helps (students) to develop their self-confidence and to gain a sense of identity," said Rodrigues. "They have the strength to move on and do well academically."

Students who test at the elementary level are placed in a two-year program in which the first year's credits are only counted towards financial aid. This students first year courses consist of elementary reading and writing skills, a math course and elementary grammar and listening/speaking courses.

University Dateline

Suffolk University's Calendar of Events August 30 - September 11, 1993

8/29	Orientation & Registration For New Undergraduate Students Orientation For International Students	C. Walsh Theatre Ridgeway Building, Room 400
8/30	SOM Undergraduate Program Committee Registration For New Graduate Students & Re-Admitted Grad Students	Faculty Lounge, Sawyer 623 Sawyer Cafeteria
8/31	Orientation & Registration For New Transfer & International Students	C. Walsh Theatre
9/0	Registration For New Part-Time & Evening Students Orientation For Evening Division Law Students	Sawyer Cafeteria C. Walsh Theatre
9/1	Registration For New Freshmen & Transfer Students Orientation Day Division Law Students Cooperative Education Orientation Orientation For Evening Division Law Students	Sawyer Cafeteria C. Walsh Theatre Sawyer 521 C. Walsh Theatre
9/2	Resumes Due: Mass Law School Consortium off-Campus Prgrms. DC CLAS Academic Standing Committee Registration For New & Returning Students SOM Candidates Program Committee (Academic Standing) Orientation For Day Division Law Students SOM Faculty Luncheon Resumes Preparation Workshop / Law Students	Law Placement Office Archer 110 Sawyer Cafeteria Sawyer 521 C. Walsh Theatre Omni Parker House 60 School Street Barnes Conference Room, Oneonta
9/6	Labor Day Holiday!!
9/7	Classes Begin For All Law Students Classes Convene for Master Of Science in Finance Program First Day Resumes Are Due for On-Campus Interviews / Law CLAS Faculty Luncheon CLAS Faculty Assembly SOM Department Chairpersons Meeting Evening Classes Convene CLAS/SOM	Law Placement D - 137 Sawyer Cafeteria Sawyer 422/423 Sawyer 521
9/8	Day Classes Convene CLAS/SOM
9/9	Placement Orientation For '94-'95 Law Students	C. Walsh Theatre
9/10	BLSA Job Fair Roosevelt Hotel, New York City / Law	For Details See Law Placement
9/11	Last Day of Class For Executive MBA/MBA

This is Suffolk University's master calendar. For information on any scheduled event, any day of the academic year, or to list an event, please call 573-8062. A comprehensive record of what is happening, when and where -- for planning, publicity or information.

Construction on campus redefines work, leisure

CONSTRUCTION continued from page 1

to the unavailability of certain materials. "There will be no messes on campus when the students return," explained Flannery. "I've been through worse."

According to Christine Perry, the director of the Office of Financial Aid, the office was renovated in order to provide more privacy for students, improve time management, and reduce noise levels in the office.

The new office consists of a private reception area where students can be referred to specific staff members depending on their individual needs.

The older office, said Chris Perry, was totally unlivable and impossible to conduct business with students. "It wasn't fair to the students and it's not fair to us," said Perry.

The Financial Aid office, now enclosed, is said to be more efficient and better organized due to the increased privacy and effective use of the expanded work space.

"We really wanted to do more in terms of better time management," said Perry.

The new undergraduate lounge in the Sawyer building seats 15 to 20 people and is furnished with love seats, stack chairs, and tables. The lounge was constructed at the urging of the Student Government Association after the old smoking lounge on fourth floor of Sawyer was converted into a graduate student lounge.

The Ridgeway darkroom has been enlarged to include a prep room for production. The darkroom will be used primarily for the photo journalism class which will be offered this fall.

The renovation was

The new undergraduate lounge on the fourth floor of the Sawyer Building.

Rich Mellor/Journal Staff

The entrance to the newly renovated Ridgeway Building.

prompted by the need for a more workable and accessible darkroom. Before the only way people could enter the darkroom was through a classroom and many times were turned away in order to avoid disrupting classes.

Once inside the darkroom the work space was little more than a broom closet and nearly

General Meeting

for
New and Returning Members
on Tuesday, September 14th, 1993
at
1:00 p.m. in Fenton 430 A+B

New ideas welcome at Suffolk Free Radio

THE THRILL OF THE HILL

Become a part of
a winning team...
Become a staff member

The Suffolk

Suffolk's best source information is looking reporters in news, lifestyle sports. If writing isn't your Journal also needs representatives, photo
staff, and computer techs

Call the Suffolk at 573-8323 or stop by the Room 116 in Student Activities

Construction on campus redefines work, leisure space

■ CONSTRUCTION
continued from page 1

to the unavailability of certain materials.

"There will be no messes on campus when the students return," explained Flannery. "I've been through worse."

According to Christine Perry, the director of the Office of Financial Aid, the office was renovated in order to provide more privacy for students, improve time management, and reduce noise levels in the office.

The new office consists of a private reception area where students can be referred to specific staff members depending on their individual needs.

The older office, said Chris Perry, was totally unlivable and impossible to conduct business with students. "It wasn't fair to the students and it's not fair to us," said Perry.

The Financial Aid office, now enclosed, is said to be more efficient and better organized due to the increased privacy and effective use of the expanded work space.

"We really wanted to do more in terms of better time management," said Perry.

The new undergraduate lounge in the Sawyer building seats 15 to 20 people and is furnished with love seats, stack chairs, and tables. The lounge was constructed at the urging of the Student Government Association after the old smoking lounge on fourth floor of Sawyer was converted into a graduate student lounge.

The Ridgeway darkroom has been enlarged to include a prep room for production. The darkroom will be used primarily for the photo journalism class which will be offered this fall.

The renovation was

The new undergraduate lounge on the fourth floor of the Sawyer Building.
Rich Mello/Journal Staff

The entrance to the newly renovated darkroom in the Ridgeway Building.
Rich Mello/Journal Staff

prompted by the need for a more workable and accessible darkroom. Before the only way people could enter the darkroom was through a classroom and many times were turned away in order to avoid disrupting classes.

Once inside the darkroom the work space was little more than a broom closet and nearly impossible for more than two people to work effectively in. According to Flannery, many departments requested renovations this year. Decisions regarding construction were made by a panel of deans and administrators. "I don't think we refused anyone," said Flannery.

General Meeting

for
New and Returning Members
on Tuesday, September 14th, 1993
at
1:00 p.m. in Fenton 430 A+B

New ideas welcome at Suffolk Free Radio

THE THRILL OF THE HILL

Become a part of
a winning team...
Become a staff member of...

The Suffolk Journal

Suffolk's best source of news and information is looking for dedicated reporters in news, lifestyles, specials and sports. If writing isn't your thing, then the Journal also needs advertising representatives, photographers, business staff, and computer techs.

Call the Suffolk Journal
at 573-8323 or stop by the Journal office,
Room 116 in the Student Activities Center

SUFFOLK SPO

Accident paralyzes Suffolk hockey star

Coaches expect Cicchese to overcome injury

By Chris Olson
JOURNAL STAFF

Though doctors say Kevin Cicchese may never walk again, Suffolk Hockey Coach Bill Burns believes that Cicchese is the kind of person able to overcome any type of setback.

"It's hard on him now," said Burns during a phone interview. "He's a big, physical kid. It's tough on him and it's tough on his family right now. He's also trying to get used to some physical therapy."

"It's hard now, but down the road miracles can happen," Burns continued. "With a little luck and some help from God, Kevin may walk again."

Burns described the Cicchese as having a "heart of gold." "Kevin would do anything for a friend and is a good teammate," added Burns. "He is a very outgoing kid with lots of friends."

Burns continued, "When my nine-year-old son would go to hockey practice, Kevin was the kid who would always give him that little extra attention that set him apart."

Suffolk Athletic Director Jim Nelson also visited Cicchese at the Boston University Medical Center shortly after the accident and reported that Cicchese "had good strength in his arms and upper body, but still no sensation

from his waist down."

Much publicity has been made in the past few years about athletes overcoming different types of paralysis.

Most recently, Dennis Byrd, a defensive lineman for the New York Jets, completed a comeback first deemed possible by his doctors.

"With a little luck and some help from God, Kevin may walk again."

- Bill Burns, Suffolk
hockey coach

Byrd walked into a practice at training camp to pay his teammates a visit less than a year after colliding with a teammate during a regular season game.

Cicchese, now going through physical therapy at University Hospital, is hoped to achieve the same type of recovery as Byrd. With any luck Cicchese will return to Suffolk in September 1994.

Suffolk hires Franczak to turn soccer team around

By Shelly Lane
JOURNAL STAFF

For all Suffolk University soccer fans who have been in hiding the past few seasons, it's time to show your face again.

After consecutive losing seasons, things seem to be turning around for the Rams with the arrival of new head coach Dennis Franczak.

Franczak, a 1991 graduate from St. John Fisher College with a B.S. in Computer Science, was captain for men's varsity soccer team in 1990 and 1991 and was an All-American nominee.

Franczak most recently has been an assistant coach for the Boston Bolts Soccer Club's Under 19 men's program and

This year's soccer coach, Dennis Franczak

also at St. John Fisher College, his alma mater.

Franczak comes to Suffolk with strong ideas of changes and discipline. "Players must be at practice every day and they can't miss

a game," he said.

Franczak believes the biggest change for the team will be discipline. "I will only keep the players that want to play. They also need to be in shape or I'll put them in shape," stated Franczak.

Along with discipline will come fairness with Franczak's coaching.

"I'll be fair to everyone. There will be preference to people who come everyday," said Franczak.

Franczak said, "I'll play the best players, but everyone who comes will get to play."

When asked why he came to Suffolk, Franczak stated,

SOCCER
continued on page 18

Suffolk hoc motorcycle

Conn
colleg

By Cl JOUR

Lou Conn of public rel information sity, was rec mer by the C formation Dir at their annu
Atlanta, Ga.
Connelly,
was cited fo service in th tion field for Suffolk Univ
Connelly
and upon gr university fo industry, wh covered both Red Sox fort Traveler, the Boston Herald
Prior to wc

Construction on campus redefines work, leisure space

■ CONSTRUCTION continued from page 1

to the unavailability of certain materials.

"There will be no messes on campus when the students return," explained Flannery. "I've been through worse."

According to Christine Perry, the director of the Office of Financial Aid, the office was renovated in order to provide more privacy for students, improve time management, and reduce noise levels in the office.

The new office consists of a private reception area where students can be referred to specific staff members depending on their individual needs.

The older office, said Chris Perry, was totally unlivable and impossible to conduct business with students. "It wasn't fair to the students and it's not fair to us," said Perry.

The Financial Aid office, now enclosed, is said to be more efficient and better organized due to the increased privacy and effective use of the expanded work space.

"We really wanted to do more in terms of better time management," said Perry.

The new undergraduate lounge in the Sawyer building seats 15 to 20 people and is furnished with love seats, stack chairs, and tables. The lounge was constructed at the urging of the Student Government Association after the old smoking lounge on fourth floor of Sawyer was converted into a graduate student lounge.

The Ridgeway darkroom has been enlarged to include a prep room for production. The darkroom will be used primarily for the photo journalism class which will be offered this fall.

The renovation was

The entrance to the newly renovated darkroom in the Ridgeway Building. Rich Mello/Journal Staff prompted by the need for a more workable and accessible darkroom. Before the only way people could enter the darkroom was through a classroom and many times were turned away in order to avoid disrupting classes.

Once inside the darkroom the work space was little more than a broom closet and nearly impossible for more than two people to work effectively in.

According to Flannery, many departments requested renovations this year. Decisions regarding construction were made by a panel of deans and administrators. "I don't think we refused anyone," said Flannery.

The new undergraduate lounge on the fourth floor of the Sawyer Building. Rich Mello/Journal Staff

WSFR

General Meeting

for
New and Returning Members

on Tuesday, September 14th, 1993

at
1:00 p.m. in Fenton 430 A+B

New ideas welcome at Suffolk Free Radio

THE THRILL OF THE HILL

Become a part of
a winning team...
Become a staff member of...

The Suffolk Journal

Suffolk's best source of news and information is looking for dedicated reporters in news, lifestyles, specials and sports. If writing isn't your thing, then the Journal also needs advertising representatives, photographers, business staff, and computer techs.

Call the Suffolk Journal
at 573-8323 or stop by the Journal office,
Room 116 in the
Student Activities Center

SUFFOLK SPORTS

Accident paralyzes Suffolk hockey star

Coaches expect Cicchese to overcome injury

By Chris Olson
JOURNAL STAFF

Though doctors say Kevin Cicchese may never walk again, Suffolk Hockey Coach Bill Burns believes that Cicchese is the kind of person able to overcome any type of setback.

"It's hard on him now," said Burns during a phone interview. "He's a big, physical kid. It's tough on him and it's tough on his family right now. He's also trying to get used to some physical therapy."

"It's hard now, but down the road miracles can happen," Burns continued. "With a little luck and some help from God, Kevin may walk again."

Burns described the Cicchese as having a "heart of gold." "Kevin would do anything for a friend and is a good teammate," added Burns. "He is a very outgoing kid with lots of friends."

Burns continued, "When my nine-year-old son would go to hockey practice, Kevin was the kid who would always give him that little extra attention that set him apart."

Suffolk Athletic Director Jim Nelson also visited Cicchese at the Boston University Medical Center shortly after the accident and reported that Cicchese "had good strength in his arms and upper body, but still no sensation

from his waist down."

Much publicity has been made in the past few years about athletes overcoming different types of paralysis.

Most recently, Dennis Byrd, a defensive lineman for the New York Jets, completed a comeback first deemed possible by his doctors.

"With a little luck and some help from God, Kevin may walk again."

- Bill Burns, Suffolk
hockey coach

Byrd walked into a practice at training camp to pay his teammates a visit less than a year after colliding with a teammate during a regular season game.

Cicchese, now going through physical therapy at University Hospital, is hoped to achieve the same type of recovery as Byrd. With any luck Cicchese will return to Suffolk in September 1994.

Suffolk hockey star Kevin Cicchese, paralyzed by a motorcycle accident. Courtesy of Suffolk Athletic Department.

Suffolk hires Franczak to turn soccer team around

By Shelly Lane
JOURNAL STAFF

For all Suffolk University soccer fans who have been in hiding the past few seasons, it's time to show your face again.

After consecutive losing seasons, things seem to be turning around for the Rams with the arrival of new head coach Dennis Franczak. Franczak, a 1991 graduate from St. John Fisher College with a B.S. in Computer Science, was captain for men's varsity soccer team in 1990 and 1991 and was an All-American nominee.

Franczak most recently has been an assistant coach for the Boston Bolts Soccer Club's Under 19 men's program and

This year's soccer coach, Dennis Franczak

also at St. John Fisher College, his alma mater.

Franczak comes to Suffolk with strong ideas of changes and discipline. "Players must be at practice every day and they can't miss

a game," he said.

Franczak believes the biggest change for the team will be discipline. "I will only keep the players that want to play. They also need to be in shape or I'll put them in shape," stated Franczak.

Along with discipline will come fairness with Franczak's coaching. "I'll be fair to everyone. There will be preference to people who come everyday," said Franczak.

Franczak said, "I'll play the best players, but everyone who comes will get to play."

When asked why he came to Suffolk, Franczak stated,

SOCCER
continued on page 18

Connolly recognized by college sports directors

By Chris Olson
JOURNAL STAFF

Lou Connolly, 62, director of public relations and sports information at Suffolk University, was recognized this summer by the College Sports Information Directors of America at their annual July meeting in Atlanta, Ga.

Connolly, a Melrose native, was cited for his 23 years of service in the sports information field for his work here at Suffolk University.

Connolly attended Suffolk, and upon graduation left the university for the newspaper industry, where he eventually covered both the Patriots and Red Sox for the Boston Herald Traveler, the predecessor of the Boston Herald.

Prior to working for the Herald Traveler, Connolly worked for the New Bedford Standard-Times, covering crime and courts.

Connolly has been a member of the Suffolk community since he first attended the university in 1953. As a student he was the editor of the Suffolk Journal in 1957 and was known for his column "Dear Gabby," a take-off of the Dear Abby column. He graduated from Suffolk in 1957 with a degree in journalism.

Suffolk Athletic Director Jim Nelson said of Connolly: "Lou has a wealth of knowledge on the information and background of Suffolk University sports. He was a member of the basketball team here at Suffolk in the 1950's and has covered events up through professional sports."

fund

ne, in which folks own $25 to join. The enterprise uses as much as per month, said and one month a record $10,000. ers can walk away 1,000, but the usual $300 to $400. nding to Miller, the s conceived four years y two Mansfield i who said to them- "If bingo works for s, why can't it work " said Miller. dition, there's "Kids Out," another fund-brainstorm that brings fs of local kids and fs of dollars to the very other Saturday here they schmooze y games with mem- the Mansfield base- m. member, these are the heroes," reminded glorified babysitting on, which is open six out of the year, makes h money that it funds seball team's annual training trip to the have the best base- in the state," said "and one of the rea- that they can go south y against some of the teams." parents are so enthu- about the program that le over $20,000 last ported Miller, noting e gym is teeming with en on the Saturday before the holidays. e kids don't have much do in Mansfield ex- t the college," Miller

team around

rip for next year to his mater in Rochester. will take a few years all this, but it will get " he said. nczak would also like the school behind the by starting up a r club that would pro- transportation for the o the games. ach Franczak's "New ning" season kicks-off the help of two new tant coaching John e and George Silva. e Rams upcoming sea- seems to be a promising with the new ideas and ges that coach zek will put into ef-

IF students prepare for Spain, Mexico

INTERFUTURE continued from page 13

but it was rewarding because I finally came up with a project plan that was acceptable by the staff and myself," said Junior and Spanish major Kathleen Biggins who will be going to Spain in the Spring to study mainstreaming programs that help special needs students. "There were parts of it that were fun. We had one party at the end where everyone just sorta hung out."

"We worked on our project plan and presented it to each other in terms of what exactly we are going to do in Spain. (It was) really intense," she said.

At the conference, they defined the research, interviews and documentary methods they will use.

She said it was intense because they have to be careful with the language they use, so that the terms were correct. At the culmination they were required to do a presentation on their country to everyone.

When asked why she chose Spain, Biggins said simply, "It is my major and I've always had an interest in it. This is my first time going there." Biggins also feels that she will have better opportunities in the workforce when she learns to speak Spanish fluently."

Biochemistry major Julie Sjoberg, also a Junior, also plans to go to Spain, but will continue her research project next summer in Mexico, why, "Because they are both Spanish speaking countries."

"They attempt to give the student a new perspective as to what being integrated into a different culture would be like," Sjoberg said. "The conferences are rewarding in that they center your attention as to what has to be done."

In terms of the student-staff ratio of directory assistance they were given, Biggins remarked that, "It was pretty much a one-on-one ratio between staff and students, which was very helpful."

The project Sjoberg chose to study is: "The Role of Indigenous Folk Medicine in the health care systems of Spain, Mexico, and the U.S."

"My personal goal is to go to medical school (after grad from S.) because I've always been interested in medicine and healthcare," said Sjoberg. "In this society, the value of this type of medicine is usually scoffed at. It is not scientifically proven. They don't feel that it is valid."

According to Sjoberg, "Folk medicine originated as the colonies were formed because the medically trained medical doctors weren't available. The system of medicine was Native American with former European traditions."

During the fall semester each IF student will be taking five classes in total, one of which will be an independent study, in which they'll be testing out their project plan in the U.S.

Biggins will do hers in a U.S. school that has a mainstreaming program, while Sjoberg will do her pilot study on the role of folk medicine in US healthcare and how it is perceived.

Both Biggins and Sjoberg will depart to Spain from Logan International Airport at the end of January, 1994.

The Suffolk University FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION

INVITES YOU TO ATTEND A GENERAL MEETING

WHEN: TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14TH 1:00-2:30 p.m.

WHERE: SAWYER BUILDING, ROOM 927

THE FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION is a student organization which promotes the education and skills of Finance students through a program consisting of:

- job search skills
- panel discussions with industry professionals
- and much more!!

Co-Sponsored by the Financial Management Association and the Accounting Club in conjunction with the Career Services Office

Topics to be discussed: Beginning Your Job Search Resources available at the Career Services Office and at the Sawyer Library

For further information, please call the Finance Department 573-8369

CROSS COUNTRY - FALL 1993

DAY	DATE	OPPONENT	TIME	DEPART
SAT	Sept 18	St. Anselm's Inv. (Women)	11:00	8:30
		St. Anselm's Inv. (Men)	12:00	8:30
SAT	Sept 25	Rhode Island College Inv. (Women)	11:00	8:30
		Rhode Island College Inv. (Men)	12:00	8:30
SAT	Oct 2	Gordon College Inv. (Women)	11:00	9:00
		Gordon College Inv. (Men)	12:00	9:00
SAT	Oct 9	Babson College Inv. (Women)	11:00	9:00
		Babson College Inv. (Men)	12:00	9:00
SAT	Oct 16	Regis College (Women)	11:00	9:00
SAT	Oct 23	NEWAC Championship	TBA	TBA
SAT	Nov 6	ECAC	TBA	TBA
SAT	Nov 13	NCAA	TBA	TBA

HEAD COACH: Joseph M. Walsh ASST. COACH: Larry O'Toole

VARSITY SOCCER - FALL 1993

DAY	DATE	OPPONENT	TIME	DEPART
SAT	Sept 18	@ Curry College	10:00	8:15
WED	Sept 22	Wentworth Institute (Home)	3:30	2:00
SAT	Sept 25	@ WORCESTER STATE	1:00	10:30
THUR	Sept 30	@ Nichols College	3:30	1:00
SAT	Oct 2	@ FRAMINGHAM STATE	11:00	9:00
TUES	Oct 5	Anna Maria College (Home)	3:30	2:00
SAT	Oct 9	@ U. Mass Boston	11:00	9:30
MON	Oct 11	@ Eastern Nazarene College	1:00	11:30
SAT	Oct 16	@ Mass. Maritime Academy	1:00	9:00
WED	Oct 20	@ Notre Dame College	3:30	1:00
FRI	Oct 22	SALVE REGINA UNIVERSITY	TBA	TBA

As of 8/83

VARSITY GOLF - FALL 1993

DAY	DATE	OPPONENT	TIME	DEPART
THUR	Sept 18	Little Four Tournament @ Nichols	1:00	11:15
TUES	Sept 21	Little Four Tournament @ Suffolk	1:00	11:15
THUR	Sept 30	Little Four Tournament @ W.P.I.	1:00	11:15
MON	Oct 4	Little Four Tournament @ Brandeis	1:00	11:15
MON	Oct 11	@ Plover College	1:00	11:15
SUN	Oct 17	New England Championships	TBA	TBA
MON	Oct 18	New England Championships	TBA	TBA
SAT	Oct 19	New England Championships	TBA	TBA

HEAD COACH: Tony Farna

Suffolk University Athletic Teams Fall Season Schedules

Team try outs going on now. For more information call the Athletics Department at 573-8575

WOMEN'S VARSITY TENNIS - FALL 1993

DAY	DATE	OPPONENT	TIME
TUES	Sept 14	@ Colby Sawyer	3:30
SAT	Sept 18	PINEMANOR	3:00
MON	Sept 20	@ Curry College	3:30
THUR	Sept 23	@ Simmons College	3:00
SAT	Sept 25	EASTERN NAZARENE COLLEGE 3:00
MON	Sept 27	ENDICOTT COLLEGE	2:00
WED	Sept 29	EMERSON COLLEGE	2:00
SAT	Oct 2	REGIS COLLEGE	3:00
TUES	Oct 5	@ W.P.I.	3:30
THUR	Oct 7	@ Emmanuel College	3:30
SAT	Oct 9	SALVE REGINA	2:00
MON	Oct 11	@ Worcester	3:00
WED	Oct 13	LESLEY COLLEGE	3:30
MON	Oct 18	@ GORDON COLLEGE	1:00
SAT	Oct 23	@ Alburus Magnus	3:30
MON	Oct 25	@ Lesley College	3:30
WED	Oct 27	@ Wentworth	3:30

HEAD COACH: Richard Levenson Tentative Schedule as of 8/16/93

SOARING TO

Special Events

Executive Board

Performing Arts & Lectures

Help plan and organize some of Suffolk's greatest Street Fair! How about you? We are always welcome call 513-8697 or stop by our office in the 5 Weekly meetings are on Tuesdays

COMING T "Hurrah" Welcome Back Bash - 9 Scoop Day! - 9/15 Sawyer & Fe

in, Mexico

ective as to what being to a different culture ce." Sjoberg said. "The are rewarding in that our attention as to what as." "the student-staff ratio of instance they were given, asked that, "It was pretty n-one ratio between staff which was very helpful." t Sjoberg chose to study of Indigenous Folk Medicine care systems of Spain, the U.S." "The goal is to go to medical grad from S.) because I've interested in medicine and aid Sjoberg. "In this soci- of this type of medicine is dat. It is not scientifically don't feel that it is valid." to Sjoberg, "Folk medi- ed as the colonies were use the medically trained rs weren't available. The icine was Native Ameri- er European traditions." fall semester each IF stu- king five classes in total, -will be an independent ch they'll be testing out slan in the U.S. ll do hers in a U.S. school streaming program, while to her pilot study on the icine in US healthcare rceived. as and Sjoberg will depart Logan International Air- 1 of January, 1994.

The Suffolk University
FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION

INVITES YOU TO ATTEND A GENERAL MEETING

WHEN: TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14TH
1:00-2:30 p.m.
WHERE: SAWYER BUILDING, ROOM 927

THE FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION is a student organization which promotes the education and skills of Finance students through a program consisting of:

- job search skills
- panel discussions with industry professionals
- and much more!!

Co-Sponsored by the Financial Management Association and the Accounting Club in conjunction with the Career Services Office

Topics to be discussed:
Beginning Your Job Search
Resources available at the Career Services Office and at the Sawyer Library.

For further information, please call the Finance Department 573-8369

CROSS COUNTRY - FALL 1993

DAY	DATE	OPPONENT	TIME	DEPART
SAT	Sept 18	St. Anselm's Inv. (Women)	11:00	8:30
		St. Anselm's Inv. (Men)	12:00	8:30
SAT	Sept 25	Rhode Island College Inv. (Women)	11:00	8:30
		Rhode Island College Inv. (Men)	12:00	8:30
SAT	Oct 2	Gordon College Inv. (Women)	11:00	9:00
		Gordon College Inv. (Men)	12:00	9:00
SAT	Oct 9	Babson College Inv. (Women)	11:00	9:00
		Babson College Inv. (Men)	12:00	9:00
SAT	Oct 16	Regis College (Women)	11:00	9:00
SAT	Oct 23	NEWAC Championship	TBA	TBA
SAT	Nov 6	ECAC	TBA	TBA
SAT	Nov 13	NCAA	TBA	TBA
HEAD COACH: Joseph M. Walsh			ASST. COACH: Larry O'Toole

VARSITY SOCCER - FALL 1993

DAY	DATE	OPPONENT	TIME	DEPART
SAT	Sept 18	@ Curry College	10:00	8:15
WED	Sept 22	Wentworth Institute (Home)	3:30	2:00
SAT	Sept 25	@ WORCESTER STATE	1:00	10:30
THUR	Sept 30	@ Nichols College	3:30	1:00
SAT	Oct 2	@ FRAMINGHAM STATE	11:00	9:00
TUES	Oct 5	Anna Maria College (Home)	3:30	2:00
SAT	Oct 9	@ U. Mass Boston	11:00	9:30
MON	Oct 11	@ Eastern Nazarene College	1:00	11:30
SAT	Oct 16	@ Mass. Maritime Academy	1:00	9:00
WED	Oct 20	@ Notre Dame College	3:30	1:00
FRI	Oct 22	SALVE REGINA UNIVERSITY	TBA	TBA

As of 8/93

VARSITY GOLF - FALL 1993

DAY	DATE	OPPONENT	TIME	DEPART
THUR	Sept 16	Little Four Tournament @ Nichols	1:00	11:15
TUES	Sept 21	Little Four Tournament @ Suffolk	1:00	11:15
THUR	Sept 30	Little Four Tournament @ W.P.I.	1:00	11:15
MON	Oct 4	Little Four Tournament @ Brandeis	1:00	11:15
MON	Oct 11	@ Rivier College	1:00	11:15
SUN	Oct 17	New England Championships	TBA	TBA
MON	Oct 18	New England Championships	TBA	TBA
SAT	Oct 19	New England Championships	TBA	TBA

HEAD COACH: Tony Farina

ersity ams
on s ow.
the 3-8575

FALL 1993

TIME
3:30
3:00
3:30
3:00
GE 300
2:00
2:00
3:00
3:30
3:00
3:30
3:00
3:30
1:00
3:30
3:30
chedule as of 8/16/93

SOARING TO NEW HEIGHTS

- Special Events
- Social
- Executive Board
- "Hurrah" Committee
- Performing Arts & Lectures
- Daytime Programming

Help plan and organize some of Suffolk's greatest social events • from Comedy Night to Temple Street fair! How about you? We are always welcoming new members. If your interested, please call 573-8691 or stop by our office in the Student Activities Building • Room 221. Weekly meetings are on Tuesdays in Fenton 331 • 1 to 2:30 p.m.

COMING THIS FALL
"Hurrah" Welcome Back Bash - 9/17 Sawyer Cafeteria 3- 7 p.m.
Scoop Day! - 9/15 Sawyer & Fenton Lobbies 11 a.m to 1 p.m.