

Suffolk Sports

Rams struggle against Tufts, 5-2

By Chris Olson
JOURNAL STAFF

Only five games into the season, it appears as if the Rams are braced for a rollercoaster ride. Suffolk dropped its opening game to Bentley, but rebounded to defeat Assumption and Curry. After two consecutive wins, however, came two straight losses to New Hampshire College and, most recently, Tufts.

On Saturday night, the Rams were totally outplayed by Tufts and dropped a 5-2 decision. Suffolk's record now stands at 2-3.

Defenseman Mark Tsoukalas scored both Suffolk goals. That Tsoukalas, a steady defensive player, scored both goals was an indicator of the forwards' play. Suffolk's front-line players couldn't generate any offense against Tufts and goalie Stephen Tomasello.

Missing from Suffolk's lineup were Paul Bartalini, Merck Franklin, Chris Dwyer and Bill Santos—all forwards capable of putting points on the board. Without those key players, the Rams struggled offensively.

Little-used and first-time players were pressed into action and played as best they could, but it just wasn't enough against a Tufts squad that is much-improved over last year's 8-14-1 record.

"We had some kids that were going for the first time on the wings," said Burns. "They're not used to playing with each other."

Suffolk managed to escape the first period with the game tied at one, though they were outplayed by the Jumbos. Matt Ryan got Tufts on the board first when he had an open net to shoot at after Marc Gouthro hit the post.

As with the first goal, Suffolk goalie Russ Eonas wasn't to fault on most of the goals, as they were scored on rebounds from close in. Burns has said that his defense will play a key role in the success of the team, and thus far, the defensive corps has been inconsistent, to say the least.

"Most of our goals were scored from directly in front on rebound situations in the slot area," said Burns. "They [the defense] made some mistakes with blind passes from behind the net. We have to concentrate on that area."

Tsoukalas tied the game 6:11 into the first period, but Tufts scored four straight

TUFTS

continued on page 15

Suffolk goalie Russ Eonas was under heavy fire against Tufts in Saturday's 5-2 loss.

Dow baseball photographs on exhibit

By Shelley Lane
JOURNAL STAFF

Baseball in America: A Fan's Perspective, an exhibit on loan from the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service, featuring photography from Jim Dow, was unveiled on Friday, Nov. 19.

Dow, a Boston native, brings to light a different aspect of the baseball stadium—the empty, silent times when there are no players on the field and no fans in the stands.

Dow has traveled to 50 communities in over 26 states. Since 1980, he has photographed more than 150 stadiums and arenas in Britain and the United States, including all 26 Major League Baseball stadiums.

Dow's exhibit consists of 67 photographs depicting major-league ball parks and many minor league fields, as well.

The photos are presented in multi-image panoramas which seem to be the most effective method of capturing the unique characteristics of each stadium.

"I enjoyed seeing different kinds of parks around the country and I especially liked seeing the mountains outside some of the ball parks," said Michael Borek, a spectator.

"I liked the panoramic views of all the parks that Dow was able to capture," said Vicki Borek.

In addition to Dow's photographs, the museum features memorabilia from some of baseball's legends and pioneers.

Some items featured are Ted Williams' locker, cleats autographed by Roger Clemens, various gloves and uniforms, baseball cards, team pictures, a mini stadium, and a batting cage.

Also featured at the exhibit are some women who played the game: Mary Pratt, Maddy English and Jackie Mitchell. English and Pratt were on hand to receive awards for their achievements.

"Baseball has come a long way since I was getting paid

DOW

continued on page 15

Busters capture intramural volleyball title

Chris Olson/Journal Staff

The Busters recently defeated the Wild Turkeys in the Intramural Volleyball Championship Match, 15-1, 15-1, 15-1. The members of the Busters are: (l-r) Norman Martel, Captain Rodrigo Mendez, Yannis Gieglis, Vasilakis Gideglis, Bassam Alameddine, Michael Ramos and Tony Duos. Not pictured are Leonel Miranda and Noriel Tunon.

Happy Holidays!

The Suffolk Journal

Volume 52, Number 14

Beacon Hill, Boston, Massachusetts

Wednesday, December 8, 1993

Head of Physical Plant acknowledges problems, seeks solutions

By Stephanie Snow
JOURNAL STAFF

Responding to criticism that he had ignored the complaints about Ridgeway 400, Sadiq Khaliq, Director of Physical Plant, refuted allegations that he was responsible for the lack of work done in that room.

This semester alone, many students and faculty have complained of the overwhelming heat inside Ridgeway 400. Because there are no windows at all, no fresh air is allowed to circulate inside the room, sometimes making the room feel like a sauna. Despite the many complaints that students and faculty have made about the room, nothing has really been done to alleviate the problem.

The system used to ventilate Ridgeway 400 is called the gas absorption system. Gas absorption is used in very few places in New England, according to Khaliq. The product is manufactured by Hitachi and Yourk International serves as the New England representative for Hitachi.

The gas absorption system utilizes chiller heaters. Because there is only one unit for both the heating and air conditioning, they cannot take place at the same time. If there is a sudden change in temperature and there needs to be a sudden switch from heat to air conditioning, there is a down time of more than one day, according to Khaliq.

Yourk has the sole maintenance contract on Ridgeway 400. Because Yourk does have the contract, Khaliq said that he is not allowed to do anything, maintenance related to the gas absorption system. Again, Khaliq reiterated that he was aware of the problems in Ridgeway 400. We "have a problem with the system and working to correct it."

When asked what some of these problems might be, Khaliq refused to discuss the problems. He said due to the technicalities involved with the problems, Khaliq declined to get into the specifics.

RIDGEWAY

continued on page 10

Tension runs high at final SGA meeting

By Stephanie Snow
JOURNAL STAFF

Yesterday's final Student Government Association (SGA) meeting of the semester sparked some heated debate over the policy of attendance for its members.

The meeting had been going very calmly with Michelle McGinn, SGA President, congratulating SGA for their accomplishments. McGinn explained that this year's Executive Board was the best board in years and also declared this semester "absolutely incredible" with the work that has been done.

McGinn also had particular praise for this year's freshman congregation of SGA, praising them for their hard work and for the energy they brought to SGA this year.

However, in an exchange that generated tension throughout the room, Senior Vice President Judy Dunn asked SGA Vice President Efrén Hidalgo whether he had called for her resignation at last week's meeting. Current SGA attendance policy allows for only three excused meet-

SGA

continued on page 5

Rich Mello/Journal Staff

The hustle and bustle of holiday shopping is in full swing as shoppers crowd into stores in Downtown Crossing in hopes of finding that perfect gift.

Future bright for Forensics team

By Gary Zerola
JOURNAL STAFF

Despite the fact that Suffolk University's National Champion Forensics Team lost six of its members to graduation last season, they have bested their competition and succeeded in qualifying for the Nationals at Western Kentucky on April 12-19 in 1994.

The Suffolk Forensics team got off to a strong start at Plattsburgh and continued its fine performances at the Suffolk hosted tournament in October. The team placed well in this competition and first overall in Northeastern University's Green Line Tour-namment, continuing its winning tradition under the direction of Communication Professor Sarah Carroll and Communication Professor Dr. Richard Kropp.

The team ranked 12th out of 30 teams this past weekend at a tournament held at American University in Washington, D.C. Members of Suffolk's team that participated in the tournament included Denise Cogliano, Kevin Connelly and Christine Wilkins. Other institutions of higher education that competed included George Mason University,

FORENSICS

continued on page 2

Cella, law school professor dies at age 64

By Stephanie Snow
JOURNAL STAFF

Alexander J. Cella, a long-time professor at Suffolk University Law School, died Dec. 2 at Massachusetts General Hospital after a lengthy illness.

Cella was born and raised in Medford and had resided in Lexington for 25 years.

CELLA

continued on page 3

Inside the Journal

News	2
Lifestyles	5
Editorials	8
Letters	8
Opinions	9
Seasonal Sports	11
	16

16 Pages

Landolphi: Boston native is using comedy to send a serious message about AIDS

By Richard Bono
JOURNAL CONTRIBUTOR

On Tuesday, Nov. 30, an extremely talented person graced Suffolk University with her presence. Suzi Landolphi gave a hysterical performance in the C. Walsh Theatre to the delight of numerous people.

Born in Boston, the comedienne has appeared on several television talk shows including the Maury Povich and Gerardo shows, and will also soon be seen on her own Home Box Office (HBO) special.

Landolphi is not only funny, but is also a smart businesswoman. She opened the first condom store in the United States called Condomania.

Excessively energetic and betting out joke after joke with a fast-talking pace, she was a hit. But the more one watched and laughed, the sooner the realization came that this funny lady had a serious message to send out.

The message was about safe sex and AIDS awareness.

Through her electrifying material, Landolphi clearly attempts to eliminate stereotypes and promotes self-pride and individuality. In a no-nonsense, straightforward approach, she used blunt terms and talked openly about sex by poking fun at herself and at the audience.

Her act involves a lot of audience participation, such as putting a condom entirely over one student's head and balancing her whole body on another student's arms while making a point about trust.

Overall, Landolphi's clever method of informing youth, particularly college students, through her universal humor was brilliant. She left the audience tickled and wanting to tell their friends about her performance. But hopefully she also sparked their awareness.

Suzi Landolphi is definitely one rising star that we, at Suffolk, have had the pleasure of seeing while on the way up.

Tension runs high at final SGA meeting

SGA

Continued from page 1
ings during a semester and only five in total for the scholastic year. It is believed that Dunn has missed at least three meetings.

Hidalgo explained that he did not ask for her resignation, despite the fact it might have sounded that way to her. Dunn, however, wanted clarification over what exactly he had been asking for last week.

Hidalgo stated that he might have been misunderstood, but never intended to imply that anyone should tender his/her resignation. He said that he hoped he did not cause any rift because of some of the things he might have said.

Dunn, however, remained unconvinced and continued to press Hidalgo on what he meant by last week's statements. She noted the contradictions between this week and last week's statements.

As of press time, Dunn had not tendered her resignation.

Forensics team looking forward to bright future

FORENSICS

Continued from page 1

Harvard, and Louisiana State.

In a major rebuilding year, the team is in a very good position at this point of the season. The coaches are very pleased with the team's performance, which closely parallels the projections made for the team at the beginning of the season.

The team has a busy schedule lined up for the spring semester beginning with the tournament hosted at Otterbein College in Westerville, Ohio, Jan. 22 and 23. This is followed by a Central Michigan University hosted competition in Mt. Pleasant, Michigan on Feb. 18 and 19.

Suffolk will be host for a spring tournament on Feb. 26 and 27 and will also take part in the National Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha National Honorary Forensics Society Tournament at Ohio University on Mar. 18 - 21.

Upcoming local and regional competitions will include the Tufts and Ithaca College Tournaments and the New England Championship at Emerson College.

Cella: law professor, former state rep, dies

CELLA

Continued from page 1

Cella, 64, was graduated cum laude from Harvard College in 1951 with a bachelor of arts degree in government. He received a master's degree in public administration from the Littauer Graduate School of Public Administration at Harvard, which is now known as the Kennedy School of Government. Cella also attended law school at Suffolk and received his juris doctor degree in 1961.

Cella had been a part of the Suffolk Law School faculty since 1971. Before joining the Suffolk faculty, Cella had established a distinguished political career.

His political career included two terms as a State Representative from Medford, served as legal counsel to John F. Thompson, John F. X. Davoren and Robert H. Quinn, all of whom served as Speakers in the Massachusetts House. Cella also served as legal counsel to former Senate President Maurice A. Donahue.

Cella also managed Hubert Humphrey's unsuccessful campaign for U.S. president in Massachusetts in 1968. Early in his legal career, Cella tried a number of controversial cases. Some of these cases include a mass civil rights case arising from picketing at a Hayes-Bickford Restaurant in Cambridge. He also worked to end discrimination in housing and was honored by the Boston chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) for all of his efforts.

At Suffolk Law, Cella taught administrative law and legislation for 22 years. He served as adviser to the Suffolk Law Review, which honored him on a number of occasions. Cella also served as overseer for the Donahue Lecture Series.

Last April more than 600 of his friends and colleagues honored him at a testimonial dinner at the Park Plaza Hotel in which a scholarship was established in his name. The dinner attracted a virtual who's who in the political and legal fields and was highlighted by the presentation of a six-volume transcript of the Sacco-Vanzetti trial.

Cella, probably the foremost authority on the famous case, long fought the injustice of the trial. Ultimately, former Gov. Michael Dukakis issued a proclamation deploring the unfairness of that trial.

"Al Cella was a world-class scholar, teacher and gentleman," recalled Suffolk Law School Dean Paul R. Sugarman. "He was truly a man for all seasons. He will be missed by the entire Suffolk University community."

He inspired a generation of students and as a legacy, his scholarship and accomplishments will continue to inspire future generations.

Suffolk President David J. Sargent said, "Suffolk University has lost a great friend. Al Cella had a lifelong commitment to helping others. Winston Churchill once said, 'We make our living by what we get. We make our lives by what we give.' If that be the measure, then Al Cella was as rich as any person."

Cella leaves his wife, Josephine (D'Angeli); two daughters, Laura Cella-Donovan of Medford and Lisa Cella-Labadini of Lexington; a brother, Augustine of Arlington; and a sister, Camille St. Paul of Chelmsford.

Alexander J. Cella, Suffolk University Law School professor died at age 64 last week after a long illness.

The Suffolk Journal's Student Newspaper

Is looking for students with experience in advertising, marketing or accounting to help with business operations. Gain valuable work experience while helping your college newspaper grow. Looks great on a resume! Work study positions available for qualified students. Call 573-8323 for more information.

SUFFOLK PALOOZA '94

Musical Benefit

Band Application

We are seeking talented Suffolk students and their bands to be part of fund-raiser to benefit children with A.I.D.S. The proceeds from the event will be donated to the Children's Hospital A.I.D.S. Ward. Five bands are needed to perform in the show which will also spotlight diversity in the music. We are interested in having a wide range of sound including Rock, Rap, Alternative, Dance, Blues, Jazz or anything else we may have left out.

To apply simply fill out this form and return or mail it to:

Student Activities Center Office

Suffolk University 28 Deme St. Boston, MA 02114
Return the form with a demo tape of your band's performance. The tape does not have to be professionally recorded and should include two or three songs. The songs do not have to be original as this event will be open to both cover and original bands.

The only other requirement is: at least one member of your band must be a current Suffolk student. Applications must be turned in no later than December 10th. The show will be held in the C. Walsh Theatre on Temple St., on February 18, 1994.

List the band name and the names of the members. Please indicate if member is a student at Suffolk and a number where he or she can be reached.

Band name _____

MUSIC TYPE _____

MEMBER NAME _____ SUFFOLK STUDENT

TELEPHONE # _____

1. _____ YES NO _____

2. _____ YES NO _____

3. _____ YES NO _____

4. _____ YES NO _____

5. _____ YES NO _____

6. _____ YES NO _____

ADDITIONAL CONCERNS OR QUESTIONS _____

BE ADVISED APPLICATIONS AND TAPES ARE DUE NO LATER THAN DECEMBER 10TH AND ONCE SUBMITTED, TAPES BECOME PROPERTY OF SUFFOLK PALOOZA AND WILL NOT BE RETURNED UNLESS IT IS ACCOMPANIED BY A WRITTEN REQUEST. THANK YOU, CHRIS FENNER, STEPHEN HUNT CO-CHAIRS, SUFFOLK PALOOZA '94

The Suffolk University Student Government Association

announces its

Student Forum

at the

Tuesday Meeting

in Sawyer 421

at 1:00 p.m.

Celebrate The Season

The C. Walsh Theatre season of performances will be a perfect end to the fall semester as well as a great way to begin the New Year. Come join us!

DECEMBER

- 14 - 19 Boston University presents ROMEO AND JULIET
- 30 Coyote Theatre presents THE ORAL HISTORY OF BOSTON
- 31 FIRST NIGHT! Boston's New Year festival celebration

JANUARY

- 1 Coyote Theatre presents THE ORAL HISTORY OF BOSTON
- 9 Emmanuel Music presents the BRAHMS CONCERT
- 14 - 16 PROMETHEUS DANCE Concert
- 16 COLLAGE NEW MUSIC Concert

FOR INFORMATION AND TICKETS CALL THE C. WALSH AT EXT. 8581

te rep, dies

ice of the trial. Ultimately, ormer Gov. Michael Dukakis issued a proclamation deploring the unfairness of that trial.

"Al Cella was a world-class scholar, teacher and gentleman," recalled Suffolk Law School Dean Paul R. Sugarman. "He was truly a man for all seasons. He will be missed by the entire Suffolk University community. He inspired a generation of students and as a legacy, his scholarship and accomplishments will continue to inspire future generations."

Suffolk President David I. Sargent said, "Suffolk University has lost a great friend. Al Cella had a lifelong commitment to helping others. Winston Churchill once said, 'We make our living by what we get. We make our lives by what we give.' If that be the measure, then Al Cella was as rich as any person."

Cella leaves his wife, Josephine (D'Angeli); two daughters, Laura Cella-Donovan of Medford and Lisa Cella-Labadini of Lexington; a brother, Augustine of Arlington; and a sister, Camille St. Paul of Chelmsford.

Public Relations/Photo
Alexander J. Cella, Suffolk University Law School professor died at age 64 last week after a long illness.

The Suffolk Journal Suffolk University's Student Newspaper

Is looking for students with experience in advertising, marketing or accounting to help with business operations.

Gain valuable work experience while helping your college newspaper grow. Looks great on a resume!

Work study positions available for qualified students.

Call 573-8323 for more information.

e The Season

1 of performances will be a perfect end to the at way to begin the New Year. Come join us!

DECEMBER

y presents ROMEO AND JULIET
presents THE ORAL HISTORY OF BOSTON
Boston's New Year festival celebration

JANUARY

presents THE ORAL HISTORY OF BOSTON
c presents the BRAHMS CONCERT
DANCE Concert
MUSIC Concert

CKETS CALL THE C. WALSH AT EXT. 8581

Campus Briefs

Program Council hosts annual tree lighting ceremony

Program Council hosted the annual Holiday Tree Lighting Ceremony in the Alumni Park, across from the Donahue Building Thursday, Dec. 2.

The ceremony was attended by about 50 students and faculty members who participated in the holiday sing along.

James Rice of the campus ministry spoke at the ceremony, followed by Program Council President Candi Tuplin.

The university Christmas tree was decorated with ornaments donated by various clubs and organizations.

The tree will be on display in the alumni park throughout the holiday season.

Program Council will also host a Menorah lighting ceremony in celebration of Hanukkah.

COP revives the 1950's in first "Suffolk Cafe"

Council of Presidents hosted the first "Suffolk Cafe" in the Sawyer Cafeteria last Fri. Dec. 3.

The "Suffolk Cafe" is a music and dance extravaganza based on the 1950's theme.

Members of COP, Program Council and the Student Government Association performed songs from the hit movie "Grease" and other favorites of the time.

The "Suffolk Cafe" was very authentic in detail, featuring soda bottles and plates that were symbolic of the time.

Those who performed dressed in appropriate 50's

The students performed their act for an audience of about 80 students and faculty members.

Women's Center, TKE sponsor Toys for Tots

The Women's Center and Tau Kappa Epsilon are sponsoring a Toys for Tots drive to benefit children in battered women's shelters in the Boston area.

According to information provided by the Women's Center and TKE, new toys will be accepted until Dec. 10.

Toys should be wrapped, and the label should indicate if the gift is for a girl or a boy, and the approximate age group.

Donations may be dropped off in the Women's Center, Room 326 in the Student Activities Building, or the Student Activities Office.

For more information, contact the Women's Center at 573-8327.

Applications for Suffolk Palooza being accepted

The coordinators of Suffolk Palooza are seeking talented students and their bands to participate in the event, a fundraiser to benefit children with the AIDS virus.

All proceeds from the event will be donated to the Children's Hospital AIDS Ward.

Five bands are needed to participate. All types of music will be accepted.

Bands must submit a tape with at least three songs.

The only requirement is that at least one of the band members must be a Suffolk student.

Applications must be turned in by Dec. 10. The show will be held in the C. Walsh Theatre on Feb. 18, 1994.

BSU celebrates semester success

Recounting the many successes the Black Student Union had this semester, President Diane Clark presided over the last meeting of the semester yesterday beginning with the results of the food, toy, and clothes drive.

According to Clark, all the food that was collected went to the Boston Food Bank for them to distribute throughout the Boston area. Clark also read the Bank's letter of thanks to the BSU which indicated that they received five turkeys from the BSU. She also indicated that the returned gift certificates from the Thanksgiving raffle will also go to the Bank.

The clothes will go out with the Women's Center to a battered women's center along with their toy drive.

Before giving out recognition certificates to noteworthy members for their contributions this semester, Clark announced the free Dec. 9 Kwanza celebration in the Sawyer Cafe at which BSU will sponsor a group of pupils from Roxbury's Paige Academy for a dance performance they call "Lagasse" depicting the seven principles of Kwanza.

Hawaiian Holiday Party
December 17, 1993
Boston Sheraton
9 p.m. to 1 a.m.
Tickets on sale from 12-01-93
to 12-16-93 in Sawyer Cafe.
$5 for Suffolk Students
$6 for Guests
$10 for Suffolk Students at the door only! No guests at the door

Rooms available for $85, mention you are from Suffolk University.

 Tix also available at the Student Activities Office

Campus Briefs

Program Council hosts annual tree lighting ceremony

Program Council hosted the annual Holiday Tree Lighting Ceremony in the Alumni Park, across from the Donahue Building Thursday, Dec. 2.

The ceremony was attended by about 50 students and faculty members who participated in the holiday sing along.

James Rice of the campus ministry spoke at the ceremony, followed by Program Council President Candi Tuplin.

The university Christmas tree was decorated with ornaments donated by various clubs and organizations.

The tree will be on display in the alumni park throughout the holiday season.

Program Council will also host a Menorah lighting ceremony in celebration of Hanukkah.

COP revives the 1950's in first "Suffolk Cafe"

Council of Presidents hosted the first "Suffolk Cafe" in the Sawyer Cafeteria last Fri. Dec. 3.

The "Suffolk Cafe" is a music and dance extravaganza based on the 1950's theme.

Members of COP, Program Council and the Student Government Association performed songs from the hit movie "Grease" and other favorites of the time.

The "Suffolk Cafe" was very authentic in detail, featuring soda bottles and plates that were symbolic of the time.

Those who performed dressed in appropriate 50's

The students performed their act for an audience of about 80 students and faculty members.

Women's Center, TKE sponsor Toys for Tots

The Women's Center and Tau Kappa Epsilon are sponsoring a Toys for Tots drive to benefit children in battered women's shelters in the Boston area.

According to information provided by the Women's Center and TKE, new toys will be accepted until Dec. 10.

Toys should be wrapped, and the label should indicate if the gift is for a girl or a boy, and the approximate age group.

Donations may be dropped off in the Women's Center, Room 326 in the Student Activities Building, or the Student Activities Office.

For more information, contact the Women's Center at 573-8327.

Applications for Suffolk Palooza being accepted

The coordinators of Suffolk Palooza are seeking talented students and their bands to participate in the event, a fundraiser to benefit children with the AIDS virus.

All proceeds from the event will be donated to the Children's Hospital AIDS Ward.

Five bands are needed to participate. All types of music will be accepted.

Bands must submit a tape with at least three songs. The only requirement is that at least one of the band members must be a Suffolk student.

Applications must be turned in by Dec. 10. The show will be held in the C. Walsh Theatre on Feb. 18, 1994.

BSU celebrates semester success

Recounting the many successes the Black Student Union had this semester, President Diane Clark presided over the last meeting of the semester yesterday beginning with the results of the food, toy, and clothes drive.

According to Clark, all the food that was collected went to the Boston Food Bank for them to distribute throughout the Boston area. Clark also read the Bank's letter of thanks to the BSU which indicated that they received five turkeys from the BSU.

She also indicated that the returned gift certificates from the Thanksgiving raffle will also go to the Bank.

The clothes will go out with the Women's Center to a battered women's center along with their toy drive.

Before giving out recognition certificates to noteworthy members for their contributions this semester, Clark announced the free Dec. 9 Kwanza celebration in the Sawyer Cafe at which BSU will sponsor a group of pupils from Roxbury's Paige Academy for a dance performance they call "Lagasse" depicting the seven principles of Kwanza.

Hawallan Holiday Party
December 17, 1993
Boston Sheraton
9 p.m. to 1 a.m.
Tickets on sale from 12-01-93
to 12-16-93 in Sawyer Cafe.
$5 for Suffolk Students
$6 for Guests
$10 for Suffolk Students at the door only! No guests at the door

Rooms available for $85, mention you are from Suffolk University.

 Tix also available at the Student Activities Office

Life

Holiday shopping a breeze at the new Pru

By Karen M. Young
 JOURNAL STAFF

there is an escalator that leads shoppers to an eye-catching mall that has something for everyone.

With Christmas less than three weeks away, you're probably wondering where you can go to find unique shops to get gifts for your friends and relatives. You probably feel that every mall is the same after visiting a half dozen since Thanksgiving.

Well, there's a new mall in Boston that is quite different than the others in the greater-Boston area. The Shops at Prudential Center has over 60 stores and carts that range from exclusive clothing stores to gourmet candy shops.

When you walk through the doors on Boylston St.,

The earth-tone marble floors and posts surrounding the stores and restaurants help make the Prudential Center one of the most beautiful malls in the Boston-area. The high glass ceilings and numerous benches and plants help create a relaxed atmosphere that is ideal for a hectic day of shopping.

Among the most popular shops at the Prudential Center is the Warner Bros. Studio Store. A vast supply of Looney Tunes merchandise

PRU MALL
 continued on page 7

University Profiles

A weekly feature highlighting Suffolk's unsung heroes

Lynne Pflaumer

By Karen M. Young
 JOURNAL STAFF

get a videotape some where. It sounds really fast-paced and exciting."

"NEXT semester, Suffolk senior Lynne Pflaumer will be participating in one of the most exciting internships available to college students. Pflaumer will be interning at the "Late Show with David Letterman" in New York.

Pflaumer, who is majoring in broadcasting, will work with the production staff and in the mailroom while interning at "The Late Show." The intern coordinator told Pflaumer what her responsibilities will begin when the internship begins.

"I have to go around and get the mail for everyone," stated Pflaumer, who resides in Weymouth. "The coordinator said it sounds menial, but it works out really well because you get to know everyone. Dave's assistant will rely on you a lot because of his mail. You have to weed out the mail for the writers for viewer mail."

"The production staff is just a bunch of emends. You might have to pass out scripts. You might have to go out on the subway and Pflaumer heard about the internship from Sarah Carroll, a communications professor. "At first I didn't believe her when she told me," Pflaumer stated. "I applied. I sent a resume and cover letter to 'The Late Show' and then they called and said they were interested."

"I had to make an appointment for an interview. On Veteran's Day, I went to New York for the day. I had the interview and they called a week later and said I got it."

While at "The Late Show" offices in New York, Pflaumer had the opportunity to see David Letterman on the phone so I was just looking out the door," Pflaumer recalled. "I heard that he would be coming up on that floor. They told me he would be coming up on the elevator."

"I didn't see him come out of the elevator, so I thought that I wouldn't get to see him. I saw him walk by and thought 'Oh, he looks familiar.' He looked in and he

Shops

Karen M. Young

Lynne Pflaumer

hopped he said 'Hi, smiled. I but then like 'O Letterman

The is unpaid, he will run t who is l iving in semester,

sister's is Big Appl

Pflaumer other livi spoke to i lanta, Ga

looking f

Pflaumer bunch of

into getti

said we fr

living in 'The Re

Pflaumer

contin

Campus Briefs

Program Council hosts annual tree lighting ceremony

Program Council hosted the annual Holiday Tree Lighting Ceremony in the Alumni Park, across from the Donahue Building Thursday, Dec. 2.

The ceremony was attended by about 50 students and faculty members who participated in the holiday sing along.

James Rice of the campus ministry spoke at the ceremony, followed by Program Council President Cathi Tuplin.

The university Christmas tree was decorated with ornaments donated by various clubs and organizations.

The tree will be on display in the alumni park throughout the holiday season.

Program Council will also host a Menorah lighting ceremony in celebration of Hanukkah.

COP revives the 1950's in first "Suffolk Cafe"

Council of Presidents hosted the first "Suffolk Cafe" in the Sawyer Cafeteria last Fri. Dec. 3.

The "Suffolk Cafe" is a music and dance extravaganza based on the 1950's theme.

Members of COP, Program Council and the Student Government Association performed songs from the hit movie "Grease" and other favorites of the time.

The "Suffolk Cafe" was very authentic in detail, featuring soda bottles and plates that were symbolic of the time.

Those who performed dressed in appropriate 50's

The students performed their act for an audience of about 80 students and faculty members.

Women's Center, TKE sponsor Toys for Tots

The Women's Center and Tau Kappa Epsilon are sponsoring a Toys for Tots drive to benefit children in battered women's shelters in the Boston area.

According to information provided by the Women's Center and TKE, new toys will be accepted until Dec. 10.

Toys should be wrapped, and the label should indicate if the gift is for a girl or a boy, and the approximate age group.

Donations may be dropped off in the Women's Center, Room 326 in the Student Activities Building, or the Student Activities Office.

For more information, contact the Women's Center at 573-8327.

Applications for Suffolk Palooza being accepted

The coordinators of Suffolk Palooza are seeking talented students and their bands to participate in the event, a fundraiser to benefit children with the AIDS virus.

All proceeds from the event will be donated to the Children's Hospital AIDS Ward.

Five bands are needed to participate. All types of music will be accepted.

Bands must submit a tape with at least three songs.

The only requirement is that at least one of the band members must be a Suffolk student.

Applications must be turned in by Dec. 10. The show will be held in the C. Walsh Theatre on Feb. 18, 1994.

BSU celebrates semester success

Recounting the many successes the Black Student Union had this semester, President Diane Clark presided over the last meeting of the semester yesterday beginning with the results of the food, toy, and clothes drive.

According to Clark, all the food that was collected went to the Boston Food Bank for them to distribute throughout the Boston area. Clark also read the BSU's letter of thanks to the Bank which indicated that they received five turkeys from the BSU. She also indicated that the returned gift certificates from the Thanksgiving raffle will also go to the Bank.

The clothes will go out with the Women's Center to a battered women's center along with their toy drive.

Before giving out recognition certificates to noteworthy members for their contributions this semester, Clark announced the free Dec. 9 Kwanza celebration in the Sawyer Cafe at which BSU will sponsor a group of pupils from Roxbury's Paige Academy for a dance performance they call "Lagasse" depicting the seven principles of Kwanza.

Hawaiian Holiday Party
December 17, 1993
Boston Sheraton
9 p.m. to 1 a.m.
Tickets on sale from 12-01-93 to 12-16-93 in Sawyer Cafe.
$5 for Suffolk Students
$6 for Guests
$10 for Suffolk Students at the door only! No guests at the door

Rooms available for $86, mention you are from Suffolk University.

 Tix also available at the Student Activities Office

Lifestyles

Holiday shopping a breeze at the new Pru

By Karen M. Young
 JOURNAL STAFF

With Christmas less than three weeks away, you're probably wondering where you can go to find unique shops to get gifts for your friends and relatives. You probably feel that every mall is the same after visiting a half dozen since Thanksgiving.

Well, there's a new mall in Boston that is quite different than the others in the greater-Boston area. The Shops at Prudential Center has over 60 stores and carts that range from exclusive clothing stores to gourmet candy shops.

When you walk through the doors on Boylston St.,

there is an escalator that leads shoppers to an eye-catching mall that has something for everyone.

The earth-tone marble floors and posts surrounding the stores and restaurants help make the Prudential Center one of the most beautiful malls in the Boston area. The high glass ceilings and numerous benches and plants help create a relaxed atmosphere that is ideal for a hectic day of shopping.

Among the most popular shops at the Prudential Center is the Warner Bros. Studio Store. A vast supply of Looney Tunes merchandise

PRU MALL
 continued on page 7

Shoppers and merchants gather in the pavilion at the new Prudential Center mall.

University Profiles

A weekly feature highlighting Suffolk's unsung heroes

Lynne Pflaumer

By Karen M. Young
 JOURNAL STAFF

NEXT semester, Suffolk senior Lynne Pflaumer will be participating in one of the most exciting internships available to college students. Pflaumer will be interning at "The Late Show with David Letterman" in New York.

Pflaumer, who is majoring in broadcasting, will work with the production staff and in the mailroom while interning at "The Late Show." The intern coordinator told Pflaumer what her responsibilities will begin when the internship begins.

"I have to go around and get the mail for everyone," stated Pflaumer, who resides in Weymouth. "The coordinator said it sounds menial, but it works out really well because you get to know everyone." Dave's assistant will rely on you a lot because of his mail. You have to weed out the mail for the writers for viewer mail.

"The production staff is just a bunch of errands. You might have to pass out scripts. You might have to go out on the subway and get a videotape some where. It sounds really fast-paced and exciting."

Pflaumer heard about the internship from Sarah Carroll, a communications professor. "At first I didn't believe her when she told me," Pflaumer stated. "I applied. I sent a resume and cover letter to 'The Late Show' and then they called and said they were interested."

"I had to make an appointment for an interview. On Veterans' Day, I went to New York for the day. I had the interview and they called a week later and said I got it."

While at "The Late Show" offices in New York, Pflaumer had the opportunity to see David Letterman. "I was sitting in the internship coordinator's office and she was on the phone so I was just looking out the door," Pflaumer recalled. "I heard that he would be coming up on that floor. They told me he would be coming up on the elevator."

"I didn't see him come out of the elevator, so I thought that I wouldn't get to see him. I saw him walk by and thought 'Oh, he looks familiar.' He looked in and he

Karen M. Young/Journal Staff
 Lynne Pflaumer

nodded his head and softly said 'Hi.' I said, 'Hi' and smiled. I acted really cool, but then when I left, I was like 'Oh, I saw Dave Letterman.'"

The internship, which is unpaid, begins on Jan. 3 and will run until May. Pflaumer, who is looking forward to living in New York for the semester, may stay with her sister's in-laws while in the Big Apple.

Pflaumer was given another living option when she spoke to and intern from Atlanta, Ga. "The intern was looking for a place to stay," Pflaumer said. "I guess a bunch of them are looking into getting an apartment. We said we felt like we would be living in (MTV's program) 'The Real World' because

PFLAUMER
 continued on page 7

The best and worst at the '93 box office

By Justin Grieco
 JOURNAL STAFF

Yes, I know 1993 isn't over yet, but this is the last Journal of the semester and therefore the last Journal of 1993. By the time the first Journal of the second semester arrives, we will be almost a month into 1994 and the past year will be old news. So, I see it suitable to produce a 10 best and 10 worst list of movies for 1993.

There are, however, some things that should be known before reading my lists. The first thing is that I have not seen every single film released this year. I have seen a lot of movies, especially the major releases, but I can't claim the honor of seeing them all. So these lists are based only on the films that I have seen. After all, it would be unfair to judge a movie that I just heard was good or bad.

The other thing that should be known before reading these lists is that these are not conventional best and worst reviews. I like movies for many different reasons, not because I am supposed to like them.

So, in other words, this list is not going to include movies like "Age of Innocence" or "The Joy Luck Club." If you want a list that has typical movies, go watch "Sister & Ebert." It is not that I am knocking these movies. It is just that my list is different.

So, enough said. Here is my choice for the 10 most entertaining, well-acted and well-made movies of 1993:

10. "Guilty As Sin" - Rebecca DeMornay was a criminal defense attorney defaming Don Johnson, who is accused of murdering his wife. This is a sort of a reverse "Basic Instinct." It is a super-trashy and monstrously preposterous suspense/thriller. The movie is 100 percent entertainment and it all works to make one of the best thrillers of the year.

Sidney Lumet's direction is superb. He creates erotic scenes without sex! The actors get close enough, but never get into bed. Johnson was an acting tour-de-force and DeMornay is wonderful in her role. The ending is gleefully over-the-top. This

BEST & WORST
 continued on page 6

Lifestyles

Holiday shopping a breeze at the new Pru

By Karen M. Young
JOURNAL STAFF

With Christmas less than three weeks away, you're probably wondering where you can go to find unique shops to get gifts for your friends and relatives. You probably feel that every mall is the same after visiting a half dozen since Thanksgiving.

Well, there's a new mall in Boston that is quite different than the others in the greater Boston area. The Shops at Prudential Center has over 60 stores and carts that range from exclusive clothing stores to gourmet candy shops.

When you walk through the doors on Boylston St.,

there is an escalator that leads shoppers to an eye-catching mall that has something for everyone.

The earth-tone marble floors and posts surrounding the stores and restaurants help make the Prudential Center one of the most beautiful malls in the Boston-area. The high glass ceilings and numerous benches and plants help create a relaxed atmosphere that is ideal for a hectic day of shopping.

Among the most popular shops at the Prudential Center is the Warner Bros. Studio Store. A vast supply of Looney Tunes merchandise

PRU MALL
continued on page 7

Karen M. Young/Journal Staff

Shoppers and merchants gather in the pavilion at the new Prudential Center mall.

University Profiles

A weekly feature highlighting Suffolk's unsung heroes

Lynne Pflaumer

By Karen M. Young
JOURNAL STAFF

NEXT semester, Suffolk senior Lynne Pflaumer will be participating in one of the most exciting internships available to college students. Pflaumer will be interning at the "Late Show with David Letterman" in New York.

Pflaumer, who is majoring in broadcasting, will work with the production staff and in the mailroom while interning at "The Late Show." The intern coordinator told Pflaumer what her responsibilities will begin when the internship begins.

"I have to go around and get the mail for everyone," stated Pflaumer, who resides in Weymouth. "The coordinator said it sounds menial, but it works out really well because you get to know everyone. Dave's assistant will rely on you a lot because of his mail. You have to woot off the mail for the writers for viewer mail."

"The production staff is just a bunch of errands. You might have to pass out scripts. You might have to go out on the subway and get a videotape some where. It sounds really fast-paced and exciting."

Pflaumer heard about the internship from Sarah Carroll, a communications professor. "At first I didn't believe her when she told me," Pflaumer stated. "I applied. I sent a resume and cover letter to 'The Late Show' and then they called and said they were interested."

"I had to make an appointment for an interview. On Veteran's Day, I went to New York for the day. I had the interview and they called a week later and said I got it."

While at "The Late Show" offices in New York, Pflaumer had the opportunity to see David Letterman. "I was sitting in the internship coordinator's office and she was on the phone so I was just looking out the door," Pflaumer recalled. "I heard that he would be coming up on that floor. They told me he would be coming up on the elevator."

"I didn't see him come out of the elevator, so I thought that I wouldn't get to see him. I saw him walk by and thought 'Oh, he looks familiar.' He looked in and he

Karen M. Young/Journal Staff
Lynne Pflaumer

nodded his head and softly said, 'Hi.' I said, 'Hi' and smiled. I acted really cool, but then when I left, I was like 'Oh, I saw Dave Letterman.'"

The internship, which is unpaid, begins on Jan. 3 and will run until May. Pflaumer, who is looking forward to living in New York for the semester, may stay with her sister's in-laws while in the Big Apple.

Pflaumer was given another living option when she spoke to and intern from Atlanta, Ga. "The intern was looking for a place to stay," Pflaumer said. "I guess a bunch of them are looking into getting an apartment. We said we felt like we would be living in (MTV's program) 'The Real World' because

PFLAUMER
continued on page 7

The best and worst at the '93 box office

By Justin Grieco
JOURNAL STAFF

Yes, I know 1993 isn't over yet, but this is the last Journal of the semester and therefore the last Journal of 1993. By the time the first Journal of the second semester arrives, we will be almost a month into 1994 and the past year will be old news. So, I see it suitable to produce a 10 best and 10 worst list of movies for 1993.

There are, however, some things that should be known before reading my lists. The first thing is that I have not seen every single film released this year. I have seen a lot of movies, especially the major releases, but I can't claim the honor of seeing them all. So these lists are based only on the films that I have seen. After all, it would be unfair to judge a movie that I just heard was good or bad.

The other thing that should be known before reading these lists is that these are not conventional best and worst reviews. I like movies for many different reasons, not because I am supposed to like them.

So, in other words, this list

is not going to include movies like "Age of Innocence" or "The Joy Luck Club." If you want a list that has typical movies, go watch "Siskel & Ebert." It is not that I am knocking these movies. It is just that my list is different.

So, enough said. Here is my choice for the 10 most entertaining, well-acted and well-made movies of 1993: 10. "Guilty As Sin"; Rebecca DeMornay stars as a criminal defense attorney defending Don Johnson, who is accused of murdering his wife. This is a sort of a reverse "Basic Instinct." It is a super-trashy and monstrously preposterous suspense/thriller. The movie is 100 percent entertainment and it all works to make one of the best thrillers of the year.

Sidney Lumet's direction is superb. He creates erotic scenes without sex! The actors get close enough, but never get into bed. Johnson gives an acting tour-de-force and DeMornay is wonderful in her role. The ending is gleefully over-the-top. This isn't supposed to be known before reading these lists is that these are not conventional best and worst reviews. I like movies for many different reasons, not because I am supposed to like them.

BEST & WORST
continued on page 6

BEST & WORST

Continued from page 5

is the way to make a thriller! 9. "Free Willy"-The year's 1 family film. I didn't want to like movie as much as I did. Some are predictable and unbelievable it's sappy as hell, but so was "E.T." gave in to this touching story friendship, however, and realized while it's truly amazing. The plot of a boy who wants to free a whale if captivity is a heart-tugging winn 8. Tim Burton's "The Nightmare Before Christmas"- The story of a skeleton named Jack who lives in Halloween town and is tired of usual trick-or-treat activities is dark at times, but the stop-motion puppet animation is the real winner here. There are times when the viewers can't believe their eyes. An original and technically amazing work in filmmaking even though very, very weird.

7. "Point Of No Return"-Fonda gives a powerful performance in this engaging action thriller. stars as a junkie turned government assassin who wants out of her prison. She slowly realizes there is out. The remake of the French hit "Femme Nikita" is a fast and furious ride that proves women do have place in the action game.

6. "Cliffhanger"- This is the year's best action movie. A non-stop roller coaster ride that realizes dizzy heights and is not afraid to pluck down them. Sylvester Stallone as a mountain climber up against John Lithgow, who gives a dramatic performance. The movie

Lifestyles

Holiday shopping a breeze at the new Pru

By Karen M. Young
JOURNAL STAFF

With Christmas less than three weeks away, you're probably wondering where you can go to find unique shops to get gifts for your friends and relatives. You probably feel that every mall is the same after visiting a half dozen since Thanksgiving.

Well, there's a new mall in Boston that is quite different than the others in the greater-Boston area. The Shops at Prudential Center has over 60 stores and carts that range from exclusive clothing stores to gourmet candy shops.

When you walk through the doors on Boylston St.

there is an escalator that leads shoppers to an eye-catching mall that has something for everyone.

The earth-tone marble floors and posts surrounding the stores and restaurants help make the Prudential Center one of the most beautiful malls in the Boston-area. The high glass ceilings and numerous benches and plants help create a relaxed atmosphere that is ideal for a hectic day of shopping.

Among the most popular shops at the Prudential Center is the Warner Bros. Studio Store. A vast supply of Looney Tunes merchandise

PRU MALL
continued on page 7

Karen M. Young/Journal Staff

Shoppers and merchants gather in the pavilion at the new Prudential Center mall.

University Profiles

A weekly feature highlighting Suffolk's unsung heroes

Lynne Pflaumer

By Karen M. Young
JOURNAL STAFF

Next semester, Suffolk senior Lynne Pflaumer will be participating in one of the most exciting internships available to college students.

Pflaumer will be interning at "The Late Show with David Letterman" in New York.

Pflaumer, who is majoring in broadcasting, will work with the production staff and in the mailroom while interning at "The Late Show." The intern coordinator told Pflaumer what her responsibilities will begin when the internship begins.

"I have to go around and get the mail for everyone," stated Pflaumer, who resides in Weymouth. "The coordinator said it sounds menial, but it works out really well because you get to know everyone. Dave's assistant will rely on you a lot because of his mail. You have to weed out the mail for the writers for viewer mail."

"The production staff is just a bunch of errands. You might have to pass out scripts. You might have to go out on the subway and get a videotape some where. It sounds really fast-paced and exciting."

Pflaumer heard about the internship from Sarah Curroll, a communications professor. "At first I didn't believe her when she told me," Pflaumer stated. "I applied. I sent a resume and cover letter to 'The Late Show' and then they called and said they were interested."

"I had to make an appointment for an interview. On Veterans' Day, I went to New York for the day. I had the interview and they called a week later and said I got it."

While at "The Late Show" offices in New York, Pflaumer had the opportunity to see David Letterman. "I was sitting in the internship coordinator's office and she was on the phone so I was just looking out the door," Pflaumer recalled. "I heard that he would be coming up on that floor. They told me he would be coming up on the elevator."

"I didn't see him come out of the elevator, so I thought that I wouldn't get to see him. I saw him walk by and thought 'Oh, he looks familiar.' He looked in and he

Karen M. Young/Journal Staff
Lynne Pflaumer

nodded his head and softly said 'Hi.' I said, 'Hi' and smiled. I acted really cool, but then when I left, I was like 'Oh, I saw Dave Letterman.'"

The internship, which is unpaid, begins on Jan. 3 and will run until May. Pflaumer, who is looking forward to living in New York for the semester, may stay with her sister's in-laws while in the Big Apple.

Pflaumer was given another living option when she spoke to and intern from Atlanta, Ga. "The intern was looking for a place to stay," Pflaumer said. "I guess a bunch of them are looking into getting an apartment. We said we felt like we would be living in (MTV's program) 'The Real World' because

PFLAUMER
continued on page 7

The best and worst at the '93 box office

By Justin Grieco
JOURNAL STAFF

Yes, I know 1993 isn't over yet, but this is the last Journal of the semester and therefore the last Journal of 1993. By the time the first Journal of the second semester arrives, we will be almost a month into 1994 and the past year will be old news. So, I see it suitable to produce a 10 best and 10 worst list of movies for 1993.

There are, however, some things that should be known before reading my lists. The first thing is that I have not seen every single film released this year. I have seen a lot of movies, especially the major releases, but I can't claim the honor of seeing them all. So these lists are based only on the films that I have seen. After all, it would be unfair to judge a movie that I just heard was good or bad.

The other thing that should be known before reading these lists is that these are not conventional best and worst reviews. I like movies for many different reasons, not because I am supposed to like them.

So, in other words, this list

is not going to include movies like "Age of Innocence" or "The Joy Luck Club." If you want a list that has typical movies, go watch "Siskel & Ebert." It is not that I am knocking these movies. It is just that my list is different.

So, enough said. Here is my choice for the 10 most entertaining, well-acted and well-made movies of 1993: 10. "Guilty As Sin". Rebecca DeMornay stars as a criminal defense attorney defending Don Johnson, who is accused of murdering his wife. This is a sort of a reverse "Basic Instinct." It is a super-trashy and monstrously preposterous suspense/thriller. The movie is 100 percent entertainment and it all works to make one of the best thrillers of the year.

Sidney Lumet's direction is superb. He creates erotic scenes without sex! The actors get close enough, but never get into bed. Johnson gives an acting tour-de-force and DeMornay is wonderful in her role. The ending is gleefully over-the-top. This

BEST & WORST
continued on page 6

The entertaining and t

BEST & WORST
Continued from page 5

is the way to make a thriller!

9. "Free Willy". The year's best family film. I didn't want to like this movie as much as I did. Some parts are predictable and unbelievable, and it's sappy as hell, but so was "E.T." I gave in to this touching story of friendship, however, and realized the whale is truly amazing. The plot about a boy who wants to free a whale from captivity is a heart-tugging winner.

8. Tim Burton's "The Nightmare Before Christmas". The story about a skeleton named Jack who lives in Halloweentown and is tired of the usual trick-or-treat activities is very dark at times, but the stop-motion puppet animation is the real winner here. There are times when the viewers can't believe their eyes. An original and technically amazing landmark in filmmaking even though it is very, very weird.

7. "Point Of No Return". Bridget Fonda gives a powerful performance in this engaging action thriller. She stars as a junkie turned government assassin who wants out of her position. She slowly realizes there is no out. The remake of the French hit "Le Femme Nikita" is a fast and furious ride that proves women do have a place in the action game.

6. "Cliffhanger". This is the year's best action movie. A non-stop roller coaster ride that realizes dizzying heights and is not afraid to plummet down them. Sylvester Stallone stars as a mountain climber up against John Lithgow, who gives a great manic performance. The movie suffers from some serious silly, but the viewers will hard because from the scary an opening scene to the nail-b max, viewers will be on the their seats proving not to fa

5. "Jurassic Park". Spielberg did an acceptable ferring Michael Crichto thriller to the big screen. Th effects are incredible and basically been as "Jaws" C but unlike "Jaws," this film most boring human chari quite some time. But that' long as they keep the dinos

4. "The Fugitive". This i ceptionally well-made a pletely engaging suspense! action is fast, the story is li and the acting, well, let's Harrison Ford and Tommy l give two of the best perfor the year.

3. "What's Love Got To I". Angela Bassette and Fishburne deserve Oscars portrayals of Ike and Tina this emotional and compa matic autobiography of thi horrible marriage to the c sive Ike. Everything in t is top-notch, especially the ing music.

2. "In the Line of Fi Eastwood is, of course, br secret Service Agent ter psychopath John Malkovic other great performance) it pensive and enormously ing action thriller. The twist (and, the action is gripping story benefits from woodw touches. A must see.

DRUNK DRIVING DOESN'T JUST KILL DRUNK DRIV

Andrea Harris, killed August 20, 2001 at 4:00pm on El Camino Real, Altamundo, Cal
Next time your friend insists on driving drunk, do whatever it takes to stop him.
Because if he kills someone, people here will see how you really feel.

FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS DRIVE DRUNK

The entertaining and the sleep-inducing films of 1993

BEST & WORST

Continued from page 5

is the way to make a thriller!

9. "Free Willy." The year's best family film. I didn't want to like this movie as much as I did. Some parts are predictable and unbelievable, and it's sappy as hell, but so was "E.T." I gave in to this touching story of friendship, however, and realized the whale is truly amazing. The plot about a boy who wants to free a whale from captivity is a heart-tugging winner.

8. Tim Burton's "The Nightmare Before Christmas." The story about a skeleton named Jack who lives in Hallowentown and is tired of the usual trick-or-treat activities is very dark at times, but the stop-motion puppet animation is the real winner here. There are times when the viewers can't believe their eyes. An original and technically amazing landmark in filmmaking even though it is very, very weird.

7. "Point Of No Return." Bridget Fonda gives a powerful performance in this engaging action thriller. She stars as a junkie turned government assassin who wants out of her position. She slowly realizes there is no out. The remake of the French hit "Le Femme Nikita" is a fast and furious ride that proves women do have a place in the action game.

6. "Cliffhanger." This is the year's best action movie. A non-stop roller coaster ride that realizes dizzying heights and is not afraid to plummet down them. Sylvester Stallone stars as a mountain climber up against John Lithgow, who gives a great manic performance. The movie suffers from some serious silly dialogue, but the viewers will hardly notice because from the scary and intense opening scene to the nail-biting climax, viewers will be on the edge of their seats praying not to fall off.

5. "Jurassic Park." Steven Spielberg did an acceptable job transferring Michael Crichton's dinosaur thriller to the big screen. The special effects are incredible and this can basically be seen as "Jaws On Land," but unlike "Jaws," this film has the most boring human characters in quite some time. But that's fine, as long as they keep the dinos coming.

4. "The Fugitive." This is an exceptionally well-made and completely engaging suspense film. The action is fast, the story is interesting and the acting, well, let's just say Harrison Ford and Tommy Lee Jones give two of the best performances of the year.

3. "What's Love Got To Do With It." Angela Basset and Laurence Fishburne deserve Oscars for their portrayals of Ike and Tina Turner in this emotional and compelling dramatic autobiography of Tina Turner's horrible marriage to the control obsessive Ike. Everything in this movie is top-notch, especially the electrifying music.

2. "In the Line of Fire." Clint Eastwood is, of course, brilliant as a secret Service Agent terrorized by psychopath John Malkovich (in another great performance) in this suspenseful and enormously entertaining action thriller. The twists are abundant, the action is gripping and the story benefits from wonderfully witty touches. A must see.

1. "Poetic Justice." By far the best film of the year. This greatly ignored, underrated and underrepresented film is an emotional roller-coaster. The director John Singleton invents heart-felt characters and his sweet, funny and moving film has a lot to say about relationships—and we should listen.

Jackson is wonderful in her role and proves she is the best of the singers-turned-actresses, and Shakur is an amazingly talented performer. This is A plus filmmaking and a movie everyone can learn from.

And now for the disappointments, the flops, and the 10 worst films of 1993:

10. "Flesh and Bone." A dismal, depressing disappointment that suffers from a painfully obvious storyline. Great performances by Dennis Quaid, Meg Ryan and James Caan can't save the film.

9. "Silver." Sharon Stone and William Baldwin star in this disappointing follow-up to "Basic Instinct." An interesting storyline slowly becomes uninvolved due to a poorly passed dramatic mystery. The ending is also abrupt and irritating. Buy the great soundtrack and skip the movie.

8. "Judgment Night." Bad acting is abundant in this dull action film which is alternately boring and silly, and sometimes both. The original story is as flat as a week old soda and the one-dimensional characters get stomped by scene stealing Denis Leary, the only real character in the film.

7. "Aspen Extreme." This film is a boring, stupid, soap opera which manages to use every cliché in film history. Thank God for the skiing sequences. They are exciting and well directed, but they can't save this snoozer.

6. "The Crush." This movie is an idiotic, ridiculous teen "Fatal Attraction" Loaded with clichés and unintentional camp humor, this no-brainer goes down in the depths of dullsville.

5. "The Good Son." An exploitative, audience manipulating suspenseless thriller which redefines the word stupid. Poor Elijah Wood, a wonderful young actor, is lost in a sea of laughable scenes and Macaulay Culkin better start filming "Home Alone 3," quickly.

4. "Man's Best Friend." The dog is interesting, but the human characters are boring and the screenplay does nothing with the dog. The movie isn't scary, has no suspense and is simply no fun to sit through. Good only for inducing sleep.

3. "Children of the Corn: The Final Sacrifice." Unnecessary, redundant, and hilariously bad sequel. If makes the original look good...no kidding, it really does.

2. "Robocop 3." Bad acting, bad script and bad effects equal a bad film. Enough said.

1. "The Firm." Should have been called "101 Ways to Destroy a Book." John Grisham's novel was a fast and entertaining read. The movie is a slow and stupid bore. It is not so much that this film is as completely bad as the rest of the films on this list—it does try, but the filmmakers make too many unforgivably changes in the original story. Everyone in the movie over-acts with a shamelessness that has to be seen to be disbelieved. It was the year's biggest disappointment. Do yourself a favor and read the book.

The new Prudential Center mall: shopping made simple

PRU MALL

Continued from page 5

ranging from Bugs Bunny jackets and Superman dolls to stuffed animals and lithographs are available here. The store offers computer painting and an activity-filled spaceship to keep both big and little kids occupied while shopping.

Nearly a dozen exclusive (and often expensive) clothing stores are located at the mall. You can browse at Anne Taylor, Elisabeth, Structure and Talbot Kids to see the latest fashion trends and buy beautiful clothing for anyone on your list.

Other stores in the mall include The Body Shop, where you can purchase lotions, shampoos, soaps and creams. Timothy's Coffees of the World, where you can find gourmet coffee flavors, and Truffles Fine Confections, where you can satisfy your sweet tooth by purchasing truffles and other assorted candies.

There are over a dozen restaurants at the Prudential Center mall. You can have a sit-down meal at world famous Legal Sea Foods, California Pizza Kitchen or Dick's Last Resort. If you don't have time for a sit down meal, you can grab a quick bite to eat at one of the ten restaurants located around a large communal dining area. With a wide variety of restaurants, even the most picky eater can find something they like.

The redevelopment of the Prudential Center mall began in the mid-1980's when Boston city officials and Prudential Center management decided the center had to be updated to meet the needs of the growing Back Bay area. Former Mayor Raymond Flynn created the Prudential Project Advisory Committee to address the needs of the community.

The committee agreed that the Prudential Center needed to be connected with its surroundings. The group realized that the center needed to be united with the Hynes Convention Center, hotels, and other malls and stores in the area to simplify and clarify pedestrian circulation.

The result of these findings is the street-like arcades that line the mall. Clearly marked streets are lined by the shops, carts and restaurants in the mall. The streets save the shoppers' time by making the stores easy to find.

The mall is connected by several area hotels and the Copley Place mall by a bridge that runs across Huntington Ave. The Westin Hotel and the Copley Marriot can be reached from the Prudential Center without going outside.

Preferred parking is offered at the Prudential Center shops. Shoppers can park for three hours for $5 with a $5 mall purchase before 5 p.m. After 5 p.m., shoppers can park for free with a $5 purchase at the mall.

The Copley Place mall, which can also be reached without going outside, offers over three dozen stores, a half dozen restaurants and a 12-theater movie complex.

The mall is easily accessible by the MBTA. It is conveniently located near the Prudential and Hynes Convention Center Stations on the green line and Back Bay Station on the orange line.

Preferred parking is offered at the Prudential Center shops.

Shoppers can park for three hours for $5 with a $5 mall purchase before 5 p.m. After 5 p.m., shoppers can park for free with a $5 purchase at the mall.

Pflaumer to intern at Letterman's "Late Show"

PFLAUMER

Continued from page 5

we don't know anyone and we'll be grouped together in a foreign city."

Pflaumer is hoping she will be able to get financial aid or loans to help subsidize her living expenses while in New York, as she will not have an income while she is there.

Pflaumer believes the internship will be a great experience. It will give her the opportunity to get her foot in the door at CBS, where many of the employees served as interns or pages prior to becoming full-time employees.

This semester, Pflaumer has been interning at KISS 108 in Medford. "I intern in the programming department," Pflaumer stated. "I answer the request lines and I help the DJ out in the studio by pulling the music and the spots."

"Answering the request lines is kind of interesting because a lot of little kids call and they're just real annoying. But it's interesting because you get to talk to different types of people."

Pflaumer has gained valuable experience while interning at KISS 108 and she will garner more experience when she begins her internship at "The Late Show."

If her ability to get internships is a reflection of how she'll do in the job market when she graduates, Pflaumer has a bright future ahead of her.

Suffolk Students good luck with finals and
Please, have a Safe, Happy Holiday Season

From the Law Office of

THOMAS D. HAGGARD, ESQ.

TEL (617) 598-5333

FAX (617) 596-3938

Concentrating in:

Criminal Defense

including, Drunk Driving, Disorderly Conduct and Drug Related Offenses

AND

Personal Injury Matters

(THERE IS NO FEE FOR PERSONAL INJURY MATTERS UNLESS SUCCESSFUL)

Appointments available in the Boston & Metropolitan area

Need a lawyer.....but don't know one?

Not sure of your legal rights?

CALL NOW

THERE IS NO CHARGE FOR THE FIRST MEETING

DRUNK DRIVING DOESN'T JUST KILL DRUNK DRIVERS.

Andrew Harris, killed August 26, 1981 at 20 years on El Camino Blvd, Altamonte, California.
Next time your friend insists on driving drunk, do whatever it takes to stop him.
Because if he kills innocent people, how will you live with yourself?

FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS DRIVE DRUNK.

The Suffolk Journal

Suffolk University's Leading
Source of News and Information

Editorial Board Positions Available:

Editor-in-Chief
Photo Editor
Business Manager
Advertising Representatives
Technical Support Assistants

If you have experience in newswriting, newspaper production, photography, advertising, accounting, marketing, or computer technology, the Journal is interested in you!

Those applying for the position of Editor-in-Chief must turn in an application and resume to the Student Activities Office by Thursday, December 16, 1993. Applications will be available in the Student Activities Office on Thursday, December 9, 1993.

Positions available as of January, 1994.

For more information call 573-8323, or leave a message in the Student Activities Office.

Prudential Center mall: shopping made simple

Prudential Center mall, which can also be reached without going outside, offers over three dozen stores, a half dozen restaurants and a 12-theater movie complex. The mall is easily accessible by the MBTA. It is conveniently located near the Prudential and Hynes Convention Center Stations on the green line and Back Bay Station on the orange line. Preferred parking is offered at the Prudential Center shops.

The redevelopment of the Prudential Center mall began in the mid-1980's when Boston city officials and Prudential Center management decided the center had to be updated to meet the needs of the growing Back Bay-area. Former Mayor Raymond Flynn created the Prudential Project Advisory Committee to address the needs of the community.

The committee agreed that the Prudential Center needed to be connected with its surroundings. The group realized that the center needed to be united with the Hynes Convention Center, hotels, and other malls and stores in the area to simplify and clarify pedestrian circulation.

The result of these findings is the street-like arcades that line the mall. Clearly marked streets are lined by the shops, carts and restaurants in the mall. The streets save the shoppers' time by making the stores easy to find.

The mall is connected by several area hotels and the Copley Place mall by a bridge that runs across Huntington Ave. The Westin Hotel and the Copley Marriott can be reached from the Prudential Center without going outside.

Shoppers can park for three hours for $5 with a $5 mall purchase before 5 p.m. After 5 p.m., shoppers can park for free with a $5 purchase at the mall.

Suffolk Students good luck with finals and
Please, have a Safe, Happy Holiday Season

From the Law Office of
THOMAS D. HAGGARD, ESQ.
TEL (617) 598-5333
FAX (617) 596-3938

Concentrating in:

Criminal Defense
including, Drunk Driving, Disorderly Conduct and Drug Related Offenses

AND

Personal Injury Matters
(THERE IS NO FEE FOR PERSONAL INJURY MATTERS UNLESS SUCCESSFUL)

appointments available in the Boston & Metropolitan area

Need a lawyer.....but don't know one?
Not sure of your legal rights?
CALL NOW
THERE IS NO CHARGE FOR THE FIRST MEETING

Editorials

'Tis the season for responsible drinking

The hectic holiday season is finally upon us, and most students are struggling to complete classwork and study for final exams.

Yet, when exam week is over, most students will begin to celebrate the holidays and the end of a stressful semester. They will attend a number of parties and various social gatherings where drinking is a factor.

The consumption of alcohol is excessive during the holidays, which leads to an increase in drunk driving accidents.

We are all aware of the horrifying consequences of drinking and driving, yet, some of us continue to ignore them, citing the familiar excuse: "It will never happen to me."

The fact is, it can happen to you. We all stand the chance of being a victim.

But it doesn't have to turn out that way. Disasters caused by drunk driving can be prevented. All it takes is a little responsibility. Be sure to designate a driver who will be responsible enough to abstain from drinking for the evening and get everyone home safely.

The holidays should be a time of joy and a time to enjoy time spent with friends and family. Make sure that your holiday season does not turn into a nightmare because of the irresponsibility of one person. Take the necessary steps to ensure your safety and the safety of those you care about.

This holiday season, designate a driver. Save a life.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

"COP meetings are about as much fun as drinking Windox."

-an anonymous COP member, on attending COP meetings.

No time for uptightness

Sex education is a practice which has always been a strict taboo in American society. Many teachers in both public and private schools feel that the classroom is not the place for such discussion, while irate parents have harassed those teachers who do, usually resulting in pulling their children out of the class.

In the wake of the onslaught of the AIDS epidemic, sex education is a necessary component to any child's education. Provided that it is taught responsibly, sex education is the only logical way to battle such problems as AIDS, other sexually transmitted diseases, and teen pregnancy.

Fear is not a legitimate excuse for producing children who are ignorant of the ways in which the AIDS virus is transmitted and how to prevent it. Such complex social issues will never be solved if the American people continue to promote ignorance.

Fear can be a very powerful emotion. It can cause people to act unreasonably, thus dismissing all opposing arguments. Fear causes people to be closed-minded, and the children should not suffer ignorance due to the closed-mindedness of a few.

Parents and teachers need to take the responsibility to educate our youth about the AIDS virus. Ignoring the issue of AIDS will not make it go away. We need to fight it.

We, the Suffolk community, were reminded of the devastation of the AIDS virus last week with the display of the AIDS quilt. We were also reminded of the importance of sex education with the presentation of Suzi Landolph.

Times have changed. The children of today are growing up in a different world: a world of danger, a world of sacrifice, a world of incredible stress, yet a very colorful world. We need to provide these children with the necessary knowledge to survive in this new world. Otherwise, the nightmare of the AIDS epidemic will never end.

Letters

HASA secretary thanks Pellegrino

In the December 1st issue of the Suffolk Journal the article about HASA had some typographical errors. The correct spelling for HASA's president, vice president and secretary are as follows: Dolores Pariste, Ferdiane Cadet and Gwendolyn Fougy. HASA would also like to acknowledge Lou Pellegrino, assistant director of student activities for being very supportive towards HASA.

Sincerely yours,
Gwendolyn Fougy
Secretary of HASA

The Suffolk Journal
By the students, for the students, since 1936
Andrea Rumpf, Editor-in-Chief

Stephanie Snow, News Editor	Justin Grieco, Asst. Lifestyles Editor
Karen M. Young, Lifestyles Editor	Michael A. Todino, Asst. Specials Editor
V. Gordon Glenn, III, Specials Editor	Paul DiPerna, Asst. Sports Editor
Chris Olson, Sports Editor	Christian Engler, Senior Copy Editor
Richard Mello, Photo Editor	R. Patrick Benedetti, Production Assistant
N.E. Escobar, Chief Copy Editor	Gary Zerola, Advertising Manager
Dr. Gerald Richman, Advisor	Norine Bacigalupo, Journal Consultant

The Suffolk Journal is the student newspaper of Suffolk University. It is the mission of the Suffolk Journal to provide the Suffolk community with the best reporting of news, events, current trends and styles, entertainment, sports, and opinions. The reporting, views and opinions in the Suffolk Journal are solely those of the editors and staff of the Suffolk Journal and do not reflect those of Suffolk University, unless otherwise stated. The Suffolk Journal does not discriminate against any person for any reason and complies with all university policies concerning equal opportunity. A comprehensive copy of the Suffolk Journal's editorial policy, operating procedures, and advertising policy is available upon request.

28 Deme Street • Boston, Massachusetts 02114 • Phone & Fax (617) 573-8323

Editorials

'Tis the season for responsible drinking

The hectic holiday season is finally upon us, and most students are struggling to complete classwork and study for final exams.

Yet, when exam week is over, most students will begin to celebrate the holidays and the end of a stressful semester. They will attend a number of parties and various social gatherings where drinking is a factor.

The consumption of alcohol is excessive during the holidays, which leads to an increase in drunk driving accidents.

We are all aware of the horrifying consequences of drinking and driving, yet, some of us continue to ignore them, citing the familiar excuse: "It will never happen to me."

The fact is, it can happen to you. We all stand the chance of being a victim.

But it doesn't have to turn out that way. Disasters caused by drunk driving can be prevented. All it takes is a little responsibility. Be sure to designate a driver who will be responsible enough to abstain from drinking for the evening and get everyone home safely.

The holidays should be a time of joy and a time to enjoy time spent with friends and family. Make sure that your holiday season does not turn into a nightmare because of the irresponsibility of one person. Take the necessary steps to ensure your safety and the safety of those you care about.

This holiday season, designate a driver. Save a life.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

"COP meetings are about as much fun as drinking Windex."

-an anonymous COP member, on attending COP meetings.

No time for uptightness

Sex education is a practice which has always been a strict taboo in American society. Many teachers in both public and private schools feel that the classroom is not the place for such discussion, while irate parents have harassed those teachers who do, usually resulting in pulling their children out of the class.

In the wake of the onslaught of the AIDS epidemic, sex education is a necessary component to any child's education. Provided that it is taught responsibly, sex education is the only logical way to battle such problems as AIDS, other sexually transmitted diseases, and teen pregnancy.

Fear is not a legitimate excuse for producing children who are ignorant of the ways in which the AIDS virus is transmitted and how to prevent it. Such complex social issues will never be solved if the American people continue to promote ignorance.

Fear can be a very powerful emotion. It can cause people to act unreasonably, thus dismissing all opposing arguments. Fear causes people to be closed-minded, and the children should not suffer ignorance due to the closed-mindedness of a few.

Parents and teachers need to take the responsibility to educate our youth about the AIDS virus. Ignoring the issue of AIDS will not make it go away. We need to fight it. We, the Suffolk community, were reminded of the devastation of the AIDS virus last week with the display of the AIDS quilt. We are also reminded of the importance of sex education with the presentation of Suzi Landolphi.

Times have changed. The children of today are growing up in a different world: a world of danger, a world of sacrifice, a world of incredible stress, yet a very colorful world. We need to provide these children with the necessary knowledge to survive in this new world. Otherwise, the nightmare of the AIDS epidemic will never end.

Letters

HASA secretary thanks Pellegrino

In the December 1st issue of the Suffolk Journal the article about HASA had some typographical errors. The correct spelling for HASA's president, vice president and secretary are as follows: Dolores Pariste, Ferdiane Cadet and Gwendolyn Fougy. HASA would also like to acknowledge Lou Pellegrino, assistant director of student activities for being very supportive towards HASA.

Sincerely yours,
Gwendolyn Fougy
Secretary of HASA

The Suffolk Journal
By the students, for the students, since 1936
Andrea Rumpf, Editor-in-Chief

Stephanie Snow, News Editor	Justin Grieco, Asst. Lifestyles Editor
Karen M. Young, Lifestyles Editor	Michael A. Todino, Asst. Sports Editor
V. Gordon Olson, III, Specials Editor	Paul DiPerna, Asst. Sports Editor
Chris Olson, Sports Editor	Christian Engler, Senior Copy Editor
Richard Mello, Photo Editor	R. Patrick Benedetti, Production Assistant
N.E. Escobar, Chief Copy Editor	Gary Zerola, Advertising Manager
Dr. Gerald Richman, Advisor	Norine Bacigalupo, Journal Consultant

The Suffolk Journal is the student newspaper of Suffolk University. It is the mission of the Suffolk Journal to provide the Suffolk community with the best reporting of news, events, current trends and styles, entertainment, sports, and opinions. The reporting, views and opinions in the Suffolk Journal are solely those of the editors and staff of the Suffolk Journal and do not reflect those of Suffolk University, unless otherwise stated. The Suffolk Journal does not discriminate against any persons for any reason and complies with all university policies concerning equal opportunity. A comprehensive copy of the Suffolk Journal's editorial policy, operating procedures, and advertising policy is available upon request.

28 Deme Street • Boston, Massachusetts 02114 • Phone & Fax (617) 573-8323

Simple alternatives for relieving end-of-semester stress

By Patrick Benedetti

Students of Suffolk, I congratulate you. You've come this far. Made it to the end. The last week of classes. The question now is how can you catch up on a whole semester's worth of work in one week and find the time to study for finals?

Come on, confess, I know most of you probably owe at least one more paper. That's why I, Patrick Benedetti, professional procrastinator, have devised this end-of-the-semester survival guide, or "How To End Up Having Spent Your Tuition Money Wisely."

Being a Senior, I have, of course, a few tricks up my sleeve about how to finish all the work in half the time. Most of the workload consists of papers or something like that. The first way to blow off papers is to use convices.

Excuse # 1: Convince your professor that you personally handed your only copy to them a few weeks ago and that they must have lost it. Add tears, screaming and a knife for that "homicidally devastated" effect.

Excuse # 2: Write a "ghost paper" which includes an introduction, first paragraph and conclusion, then pass it in. When the professor mentions that there seems to be some pages missing, start to cry, insist that there were 3-7 pages in the middle of your only copy and that you have no time to write them again.

Excuse # 3: Take a copy of an old paper (if you've never written one, borrow someone else's), rip it up and mix it with a little Campbell's Soup. Bring it in, explaining, "My dog ate my only copy but I gave him the Heimlich maneuver and this is what I salvaged."

If the excuses don't seem to work, then strain your brain and dust off your imagination. Yes, ladies and gentlemen, it is time to improvise. Why not? There's plenty of other things you can do with your time than stupid, pointless papers, right? Here's what you do.

Alternative # 1: For art majors: If your paper is on Van Gogh, simply buy one of his paintings and give it to your professor as a Christmas gift. Your professor will be so awestruck that he will conveniently forget all about your paper.

Alternative # 2: For English majors: If you must write your paper on some boring literary book like James Joyce's A Portrait of the Artist As a Young Man or John Stuart Mill's An Autobiography, then why not regress back to elementary school and make a "diorama" using a shoe box and Playdoh to dramatize your favorite scene from the book. Why not use green to create Stephen's epiphany or yellow to symbolize Mill's boring, passionless existence. Professor's love this approach and it's fun!

Alternative # 3: For Government majors: Make your own translation of Plato's The Republic. It worked for me.

Alternative # 4: For History majors: Bring in an ancient war relic to amaze the class. If your professor still demands a paper, beat him up with it - a mace or battle-ax works nicely.

Alternative # 5: For Philosophy majors: Explain away your professor's existence so that, in effect, the paper was never really assigned.

Alternative # 6: For Psychology majors: Hypnotize your professor and suggest that they write your paper for you. Then, when it is done, snap them out of it and give them your paper. Wasn't Freud a genius?

Alternative # 7: Do the obvious and take an incomplete. Then you can wait a whole year until you have to stress out over the paper again.

Once all your work is taken care of, then you can take advantage of your whole, one reading day. But, you cannot study for finals if you do not have an efficient study area. You know what I mean: a television, radio, Sega, magazines, food, water, air - anything that keeps you from studying. Here's some tips on how to make your area less distracting.

Step # 1: Use a golf club or some other blunt object to destroy your television, CD player and duct tape all items. Blame the vandalism on a bitter ex-lover and take advantage of your new, quiet atmosphere. No one will ever suspect you and you can ask for even better media products for Christmas!

Step # 2: Lock your parents and other relatives in the basement where they cannot hassle you about money, schoolwork and the fact that you still haven't moved out (you get). Step # 3: Avoid losing irritating phone calls by answering this message on your answering machine using your best psychopathic voice: "If you ever call here again, I will come after your family and use them to clean my oven."

Step # 4: Handcuff yourself to a desk and duct tape all books and pens to your hands. When using a computer, substitute staples for the tape. If you choose the Sawyer Library as your haven of study, choose a floor (my favorite is B) and shoot everyone on it. It is important to use a silencer, however, as many levels of the library require silence.

Finally, to avoid papers and finals altogether, choose from the following methods: Method # 1: Don't show up ever again.

Method # 2: Promote yourself from student to a professor of humanities.

Method # 3: Kill everyone. Except me, of course.

Good luck, folks, and, if you use any of these methods, I'll see you in the unemployment line.

Jim's overflowin' bag o' hate mail

By Jim Behrle

As a big shot Suffolk Journal op-ed phenom, I find that I have to be very careful what I write and say in my articles. When I first began writing for the Journal (or the Urinal as we call it), I never thought anyone would actually read what I was op-ed-ing about, and so I have been the unfortunate recipient of a great deal of phone and postal hatred. Since it's the holiday season, I thought I'd share some of it with you.

"I'm offended that you called our Prime Minister 'Prime Rib,'" writes Tommy Cockneyhead of Plymouth, England. "You're a wet bloody git!" It is true that I showed a great deal of disrespect to John Major of England, but hey, so did Thatcher.

At least I didn't say anything about his wife, his hair, his stupid accent, or the fact that he's the leader of a country that is slowly descending into the grime from which it spewed.

Yes, they gave us the English language, but they're also responsible for Duran Duran.

I don't understand where these pathetic losers from across the Atlantic get off in telling we Americans what we can say in our newspapers. Perhaps you guys have forgotten that we beat the hell out of you in the war! You don't own us anymore! Get on with your rock opens and your poll taxes and take the royal family out to the curb already!

But I digress. "I did not appreciate your article of Nov. 10, 1993. Your statement that Suffolk University is in 'the day care business' and not 'the throwing' away money business" is both inaccurate and silly. Why we ever let you into this school is beyond me. You're sooo expelled."

I'm a journalist! A journalist, do you hear me? I'm...I'm...no...let go...let go of me you little...stop...can't you see writes Suffolk's Dean of Student Publication Censorship.

Well, ho ho ho to you! "Mr. Behrle, we read your article on Barney the purple dinosaur. This article made us very angry. You think you're funny, Mr. Behrle? How funny will you be when you're squashed flat underneath our Big Wheels? You are in great danger, Mr. Behrle. You cannot escape our wrath. We know where you live and we are coming to smash you. You are a waste of skin and we will not rest until you are beaten into a bloody puddle. You have been warned. We are coming for you with wiffleballs and supersoakers. Run for your life, jerkface."

Your idle threats don't scare me. I'm invincible. I'm a journalist! A journalist, do you hear me? I'm...I'm...no...let go...let go of me you little...stop...can't you see writes Suffolk's Dean of Student Publication Censorship.

Well, ho ho ho to you! "Mr. Behrle, we read your article on Barney the purple dinosaur. This article made us very angry. You think you're funny, Mr. Behrle? How funny will you be when you're squashed flat underneath our Big Wheels? You are in great danger, Mr. Behrle. You cannot escape our wrath. We know where you live and we are coming to smash you. You are a waste of skin and we will not rest until you are beaten into a bloody puddle. You have been warned. We are coming for you with wiffleballs and supersoakers. Run for your life, jerkface."

Your idle threats don't scare me. I'm invincible. I'm a journalist! A journalist, do you hear me? I'm...I'm...no...let go...let go of me you little...stop...can't you see writes Suffolk's Dean of Student Publication Censorship.

Well, ho ho ho to you! "Mr. Behrle, we read your article on Barney the purple dinosaur. This article made us very angry. You think you're funny, Mr. Behrle? How funny will you be when you're squashed flat underneath our Big Wheels? You are in great danger, Mr. Behrle. You cannot escape our wrath. We know where you live and we are coming to smash you. You are a waste of skin and we will not rest until you are beaten into a bloody puddle. You have been warned. We are coming for you with wiffleballs and supersoakers. Run for your life, jerkface."

Your idle threats don't scare me. I'm invincible. I'm a journalist! A journalist, do you hear me? I'm...I'm...no...let go...let go of me you little...stop...can't you see writes Suffolk's Dean of Student Publication Censorship.

Well, ho ho ho to you! "Mr. Behrle, we read your article on Barney the purple dinosaur. This article made us very angry. You think you're funny, Mr. Behrle? How funny will you be when you're squashed flat underneath our Big Wheels? You are in great danger, Mr. Behrle. You cannot escape our wrath. We know where you live and we are coming to smash you. You are a waste of skin and we will not rest until you are beaten into a bloody puddle. You have been warned. We are coming for you with wiffleballs and supersoakers. Run for your life, jerkface."

Your idle threats don't scare me. I'm invincible. I'm a journalist! A journalist, do you hear me? I'm...I'm...no...let go...let go of me you little...stop...can't you see writes Suffolk's Dean of Student Publication Censorship.

Well, ho ho ho to you! "Mr. Behrle, we read your article on Barney the purple dinosaur. This article made us very angry. You think you're funny, Mr. Behrle? How funny will you be when you're squashed flat underneath our Big Wheels? You are in great danger, Mr. Behrle. You cannot escape our wrath. We know where you live and we are coming to smash you. You are a waste of skin and we will not rest until you are beaten into a bloody puddle. You have been warned. We are coming for you with wiffleballs and supersoakers. Run for your life, jerkface."

Your idle threats don't scare me. I'm invincible. I'm a journalist! A journalist, do you hear me? I'm...I'm...no...let go...let go of me you little...stop...can't you see writes Suffolk's Dean of Student Publication Censorship.

Voices of Suffolk

What do you hope for in 1994?

"I hope to complete my M.B.A., and the world to live in peace."

Golshan Soguksu
Grad Student

"To keep my G.P.A. and have a successful year in college."

Kelly Ann Charland
Junior

"To get my girlfriend back and not to lose my hair."

Mark Destefano
Grad Student

"I hope to get a co-op job."

Anu Anand
Sophomore

"To improve my academic standing."

Sang Pae
Junior

By Rich Mello

alternatives for relieving end-of-semester stress ork, then strain your brain and dust off your imagination. Yes, ladies and gentlemen, it is time to improvise. Why not? There's plenty of other things you can do with your time than stupid, pointless papers, right? Here's what you do.

Alternative # 1: For art majors: If your paper is on Van Gogh, simply buy one of his paintings and give it to your professor as a Christmas gift. Your professor will be so awestruck that he will conveniently forget all about your paper.

Alternative # 2: For English majors: If you must write your paper on some boring literary book like James Joyce's "A Portrait of the Artist As a Young Man" or John Stuart Mill's "An Autobiography," then why not regress back to elementary school and make a "diorama" using a shoe box and Playdoh to dramatize your favourite scene from the book. Why not use green to create Stephen's epiphany or yellow to symbolize Mill's boring, passionless existence. Professor's love this approach and it's fun!

Alternative # 3: For Government majors: Make your own translation of Plato's "The Republic." It worked for me.

Alternative # 4: For History majors: Bring in an ancient war relic to amaze the class. If your professor still demands a paper, beat him up with it - a mace or battle-ax works nicely.

Alternative # 5: For Philosophy majors: Explain away your professor's existence so that, in effect, the paper was never really assigned.

Alternative # 6: For Psychology majors: Hypnotize your professor and suggest that they write your paper for you. Then, when it is done, snap them out of it and give them your paper. Wasn't Freud a genius?

Alternative # 7: Do the obvious and take an incomplete. Then you can wait a whole year until you have to stress out over the paper again.

Once all your work is taken care of, then you can take advantage of your whole, one reading day. But, you cannot study for finals if you do not have an efficient study area. You know what I mean: a television, radio, Sega, magazines, food, water, air - anything that keeps you from studying. Here's some tips on how to make your area less distracting.

Step # 1: Use a golf club or paper on some boring literary book like James Joyce's "A Portrait of the Artist As a Young Man" or John Stuart Mill's "An Autobiography," then why not regress back to elementary school and make a "diorama" using a shoe box and Playdoh to dramatize your favourite scene from the book. Why not use green to create Stephen's epiphany or yellow to symbolize Mill's boring, passionless existence. Professor's love this approach and it's fun!

Step # 2: For English majors: If you must write your paper on some boring literary book like James Joyce's "A Portrait of the Artist As a Young Man" or John Stuart Mill's "An Autobiography," then why not regress back to elementary school and make a "diorama" using a shoe box and Playdoh to dramatize your favourite scene from the book. Why not use green to create Stephen's epiphany or yellow to symbolize Mill's boring, passionless existence. Professor's love this approach and it's fun!

Step # 3: For Government majors: Make your own translation of Plato's "The Republic." It worked for me.

Step # 4: For History majors: Bring in an ancient war relic to amaze the class. If your professor still demands a paper, beat him up with it - a mace or battle-ax works nicely.

Step # 5: For Philosophy majors: Explain away your professor's existence so that, in effect, the paper was never really assigned.

Step # 6: For Psychology majors: Hypnotize your professor and suggest that they write your paper for you. Then, when it is done, snap them out of it and give them your paper. Wasn't Freud a genius?

Step # 7: Do the obvious and take an incomplete. Then you can wait a whole year until you have to stress out over the paper again.

Once all your work is taken care of, then you can take advantage of your whole, one reading day. But, you cannot study for finals if you do not have an efficient study area. You know what I mean: a television, radio, Sega, magazines, food, water, air - anything that keeps you from studying. Here's some tips on how to make your area less distracting.

Step # 1: Use a golf club or paper on some boring literary book like James Joyce's "A Portrait of the Artist As a Young Man" or John Stuart Mill's "An Autobiography," then why not regress back to elementary school and make a "diorama" using a shoe box and Playdoh to dramatize your favourite scene from the book. Why not use green to create Stephen's epiphany or yellow to symbolize Mill's boring, passionless existence. Professor's love this approach and it's fun!

Step # 2: For English majors: If you must write your paper on some boring literary book like James Joyce's "A Portrait of the Artist As a Young Man" or John Stuart Mill's "An Autobiography," then why not regress back to elementary school and make a "diorama" using a shoe box and Playdoh to dramatize your favourite scene from the book. Why not use green to create Stephen's epiphany or yellow to symbolize Mill's boring, passionless existence. Professor's love this approach and it's fun!

Step # 3: For Government majors: Make your own translation of Plato's "The Republic." It worked for me.

Step # 4: For History majors: Bring in an ancient war relic to amaze the class. If your professor still demands a paper, beat him up with it - a mace or battle-ax works nicely.

Step # 5: For Philosophy majors: Explain away your professor's existence so that, in effect, the paper was never really assigned.

Step # 6: For Psychology majors: Hypnotize your professor and suggest that they write your paper for you. Then, when it is done, snap them out of it and give them your paper. Wasn't Freud a genius?

Step # 7: Do the obvious and take an incomplete. Then you can wait a whole year until you have to stress out over the paper again.

Once all your work is taken care of, then you can take advantage of your whole, one reading day. But, you cannot study for finals if you do not have an efficient study area. You know what I mean: a television, radio, Sega, magazines, food, water, air - anything that keeps you from studying. Here's some tips on how to make your area less distracting.

Step # 1: Use a golf club or paper on some boring literary book like James Joyce's "A Portrait of the Artist As a Young Man" or John Stuart Mill's "An Autobiography," then why not regress back to elementary school and make a "diorama" using a shoe box and Playdoh to dramatize your favourite scene from the book. Why not use green to create Stephen's epiphany or yellow to symbolize Mill's boring, passionless existence. Professor's love this approach and it's fun!

Step # 2: For English majors: If you must write your paper on some boring literary book like James Joyce's "A Portrait of the Artist As a Young Man" or John Stuart Mill's "An Autobiography," then why not regress back to elementary school and make a "diorama" using a shoe box and Playdoh to dramatize your favourite scene from the book. Why not use green to create Stephen's epiphany or yellow to symbolize Mill's boring, passionless existence. Professor's love this approach and it's fun!

Step # 3: For Government majors: Make your own translation of Plato's "The Republic." It worked for me.

Step # 4: For History majors: Bring in an ancient war relic to amaze the class. If your professor still demands a paper, beat him up with it - a mace or battle-ax works nicely.

Step # 5: For Philosophy majors: Explain away your professor's existence so that, in effect, the paper was never really assigned.

Step # 6: For Psychology majors: Hypnotize your professor and suggest that they write your paper for you. Then, when it is done, snap them out of it and give them your paper. Wasn't Freud a genius?

Step # 7: Do the ob-

Jim's overflowin' bag o' hate mail

By Jim Behrle

As a big shot Suffolk Journal op-ed phenom, I find that I have to be very careful what I write and say in my articles. When I first began writing for the Journal (or the Urinal as we call it), I never thought anyone would actually read what I was op-ed-ing about, and so I have been the unfortunate recipient of a great deal of phone and postal hatred. Since it's the holiday season, I thought I'd share some of it with you.

"I'm offended that you called our Prime Minister 'Prime Rib,'" writes Tommy Cockneyhead of Plymouth, England. "You're a wet bloody git!" It is true that I showed a great deal of disrespect to John Major of England, but hey, so did Thatcher.

At least I didn't say anything about his wife, his hair, his stupid accent, or the fact that he's the leader of a country that is slowly descending into the grime from which it sprang.

Yes, they gave us the English language, but they're also responsible for Duran Duran.

I don't understand where these pathetic losers from across the Atlantic get off in telling we Americans what we can say in our newspapers. Perhaps you guys have forgotten that we beat the hell out of you in the war! You don't own us anymore! Get on with your rock operas and your poll taxes and take the royal family out to the curb already!

But I digress. "I did not appreciate your article of Nov. 10, 1993. Your statement that Suffolk University is in 'the day care business' and not 'the throwin' away money business' is both inaccurate and silly. Why we ever let you into this school is beyond me. You're sooo expelled," writes Suffolk's Dean of Student Publication Censorship.

Well, ho ho ho to you! "Mr. Behrle, we read your article on Barney the purple dinosaur. This article made us very angry. You think you're funny, Mr. Behrle? How funny will you be when you're squashed flat underneath our Big Wheels? You are in great danger, Mr. Behrle. You cannot escape our wrath. We know where you live and we are coming to smash you. You are a waste of skin and we will not rest until you are beaten into a bloody puddle. You have been warned. We are coming for you with wiffleballs and supersoakers. Run for your life, jerkface."

Your little threats don't scare me. I'm invincible. I'm a journalist! A journalist, do you hear me? I'm...I'm...no...no...let...let go of me you little...stop...can't you see I'm writing an article?...Abhhhhhh!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Method # 1: Don't show up ever again.

Method # 2: Promote yourself from student to a professor of humanities.

Method # 3: Kill everyone. Except me, of course.

Good luck, folks, and, if you use any of these methods, I'll see you in the employment line.

By Rich Mello

What do you hope for in 1994?

"To keep my G.P.A. and have a successful year in college."	"To get my girlfriend back and not to lose my hair."	"I hope to get a co-op job."	"To improve my academic standing."
Kelly Ann Charland Junior	Mark Destefano Grad Student	Anu Anand Sophomore	Sang Pae Junior

SGA finds success with changes in meeting format

By Stephanie Snow
JOURNAL STAFF

Despite operating without a full membership through the course of the semester, the Student Government Association (SGA) succeeded in instituting various new policies to help make their meetings more productive and organized. Because of these changes, SGA has managed to make some inroads toward many issues that it has dealt with for some time.

The SGA Executive Board met consistently over this past summer, in the hopes of making some changes to the way meetings were conducted. The Executive Board (consisting of Michelle McGinn, President; Efron Hidalgo, Vice President; Erika Christenson, Treasurer; and Beth Evans, Secretary) met to discuss various ways to improve the effectiveness of their meetings.

Are you a Business major?
Interested in writing?

The Suffolk Journal is looking for business reporters to write on a regular basis.
Call us at 573-8323 for more information.

meetings.

In order to use the meeting time more productively and to ensure maximum meeting time, SGA established a new meeting policy. This new policy has three different aspects, the first being official SGA meetings running on a four week cycle.

The second aspect is that during the first and third meetings, SGA will meet as a legislative body, entertaining motions, officer and committee reports and official business. Finally, during the second and fourth meetings, SGA will meet as working committees. The meeting would be called to order, attendance would be taken, student forum and the President's News would be covered and then SGA would break into its designated committees for the duration of the meeting.

McGinn said that the committees have been very effective in dealing with the issues. The L.U.A.C. in particular, handled many of the student body issues that SGA comes across. This committee, the largest in SGA, is co-chaired by juniors Michael Mirabile and Phil Falzone.

Another change this semester in the SGA meeting was the policy concerning the Student Forum. This forum, originated by former SGA President Tommy Belmonte, was designed to give students a place to voice their concerns or complaints about a particular issue or suggestion. It also allowed an SGA member to speak on behalf of the student about the complaint or suggestion.

Last year, concerns that came before Student Forum were not written down, only verbalized. Because of this, some concerns and suggestions that came before the Forum fell between the cracks and were not followed up.

This year the student who addresses SGA must fill out the attached form and submit it to Evans, officer assigned to the issue. The officer picked is the chairperson of the committee of which the problem falls under, the President of the class if it is a class issue, or President of SGA if the above two criteria do not fit the issue.

A progress report must be made at the next SGA meeting regarding the progress in dealing with the issue. Also, a letter will be sent to the student who brought forth the complaint or suggestion within two weeks to inform them of what was found out about the issue.

SGA also set a policy that must be met if motions and agenda items are to be discussed at that week's SGA meeting. In order for official business to be put on the agenda, a written motion card must be presented to the SGA Secretary no later than 3:00 p.m. on the Wednesday prior to the meeting. The only exceptions to this policy would be announcements, Officer's reports and Committee Reports, as long as it is informational.

Ridgewood and you was ov

RIDGEWOOD Continued While Khalil folk, he is not e city. Khalil is Master, a priva he is answerabl ter and Francis dent and Treas sity.

Flannery de pointed he wa Ridgeway 400. picked the g Flannery said the architect o stated that in j tion system, M mend what wa Khalilqui reas system was f cheaper than e tion costs are e hope that the could be reso months.

There is a f on work done remains uncle ed by this w know whether pay for any f necessary to f Flannery, g nny might e eeing the wa sible to deter Suffolk might nigh comment gardless, it ha

Maximize Your Scores:

LSAT GRE GMAT MCAT

Courses in BOSTON starting soon!

THE PRINCETON REVIEW
We Score More

(617) 558-2828

DRUNK DRIVING DOESN'T DRUNK DRIVERS

Hannah and Sarah Fogleman, killed Dec. 12, in I-95 South, Brunswick, GA.

Next time your friend insists on driving drunk, do to stop him.

Because if he kills innocent people, how will you

FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS DRIVE

Seas

Hanukkah's history is not ju

By N.E. Escobar
JOURNAL STAFF

Many of us know the religious meaning behind Christmas, but unless you are Jewish, you may not know what Hanukkah is, how or even why it is celebrated.

According to Collier's Encyclopedia, Hanukkah began in 165 B.C. after a rebellion by Orthodox Jews to overthrow the Syrian Greeks and restore traditional Jewish worship. This rebellion was led by Judah the Maccabee.

On day 25 of Kislev, occurring in either November or December, the Jewish Temple was desecrated. Because of what happened on this day in the Jewish calendar year, this day usually marks the beginning of the festival.

The Talmud, written many centuries after the Temple's destruction, tells of how Hanukkah was three years after the Temple had again, a sm holy oil was miraculously, for eight days could be pre the reason it celebrated for a riot. Robert J wrote Cel Complete B can Holiday. Hanukkah w

The Reason for the Season: patrons at Downtown Crossing give to in this time of peace and love.

Kwanza: a time for m celebration and reflect

By Justin Grieco
JOURNAL STAFF

It's that time of year again when we remember all the things that we accomplish during the year and the time where we make plans to insure that the goals we made come true for the up-coming year. Looking around the Boston community we see that Americans are not just people from Anglo-Saxon descent.

People from all descents build communities in Boston and often their cultures get blended into mainstream

United States. This time of the year is important because it's a time of reflection on our lives and our connection with the world around us.

Besides the American tradition of Christmas, some African-Americans also take part in the Kwanza celebration. Founded in 1966 by Maulana Karenga, a doctor of Sociology and Political Science, Kwanza embraces the elements of the African Diaspora, which hungers for a better understanding and a positive relationship to Africa depicting characteristics of the Ame volving ec and stabilit; Kwanza, can langu means the harvest. It is Dec. 26 to ceasingly of the Afric dition. Nguzo, ciples of K each day, s to the Afric Um KY continue

SGA finds success with changes in meeting format

By Stephanie Snow
JOURNAL STAFF

Despite operating without a full membership through the course of the semester, the Student Government Association (SGA) succeeded in instituting various new policies to help make their meetings more productive and organized. Because of these changes, SGA has managed to make some inroads toward many issues that it has dealt with for some time.

The SGA Executive Board met consistently over this past summer, in the hopes of making some changes to the way meetings were conducted. The Executive Board (consisting of Michelle McGinn, President; Efrén Hidalgo, Vice President; Erika Christenson, Treasurer; and Beth Evans, Secretary) met to discuss various ways to improve the effectiveness of their

- Interested in writing?
- Are you a Business major?
- The Suffolk Journal is looking for business reporters to write on a regular basis.
- Call us at 573-8323 for more information.

meetings.

In order to use the meeting time more productively and to ensure maximum meeting time, SGA established a new meeting policy. This new policy has three different aspects, the first being official SGA meetings running on a four week cycle.

The second aspect is that during the first and third meetings, SGA will meet as a legislative body, entertaining motions, officer and committee reports and official business. Finally, during the second and fourth meetings, SGA will meet as working committees. The meeting would be called to order, attendance would be taken, student forum and the President's Notes would be covered and then SGA would break into its designated committees for the duration of the meeting.

McGinn said that the committees have been very effective in dealing with the issues. The L.U.A.C. in particular, handled many of the student body issues that SGA comes across. This committee, the largest in SGA, is co-chaired by juniors Michael Mirabile and Phil Falzone.

Another change this semester in the SGA meeting was the policy concerning the Student Forum. This forum, originated by former SGA President Tommy Belmonte, was designed to give students a place to voice their concerns or complaints about a particular issue or suggestion. It also allowed an SGA member to speak on behalf of the student about the complaint or suggestion.

Last year, concerns that came before Student Forum were not written down, only verbalized. Because of this, some concerns and suggestions that came before the Forum fell between the cracks and were not followed up.

This year the student who addresses SGA must fill out the attached form and submit it to Evans. A copy is then given to the SGA officer assigned to the issue. The officer picked is the chairperson of the committee of which the problem falls under, the President of the class if it is a class issue, or President of SGA if the above two criteria do not fit the issue.

A progress report must be made at the next SGA meeting regarding the progress in dealing with the issue. Also, a letter will be sent to the student who brought forth the complaint or suggestion within two weeks to inform them of what was found out about the issue.

SGA also set a policy that must be met if motions and agenda items are to be discussed at that week's SGA meeting. In order for official business to be put on the agenda, a written motion card must be presented to the SGA Secretary no later than 3:00 p.m. on the Wednesday prior to the meeting. The only exceptions to this policy would be announcements, Officer's reports and Committee Reports, as long as it is informational.

Ridgeway 400: and you hoped it was over

By RIDGEWAY

Continued from page 1

While Khaligi works here at Suffolk, he is not employed by the university. Khaligi is employed by Service Master, a private contractor. However, he is answerable to both Service Master and Francis Flannery, Vice President and Treasurer of Suffolk University.

Flannery declared he was "disappointed he wasn't contacted" about Ridgeway 400. When asked who had picked the gas absorption system, Flannery said it was James McNelly, the architect of the project. Flannery stated that in picking the gas absorption system, McNelly "did not recommend what was best."

Khaligi reasoned the gas absorption system was picked because gas is cheaper than electricity and the operation costs are cheaper. It was Khaligi's hope that the problems in Ridgeway could be resolved with a couple of months.

There is a five to 10 year warranty on work done on Ridgeway 400. What remains unclear is what is exactly covered by this warranty. Khaligi did not know whether Suffolk might have to pay for any of the repairs that might be necessary to fix Ridgeway 400.

Flannery, guessing on what the warranty might cover, said that without seeing the warranty it would be impossible to determine what part of the cost Suffolk might have to pick up. His final comment on Ridgeway 400: "Regardless, it has to be fixed."

Maximize Your Scores:

LSAT GRE GMAT MCAT

Courses in BOSTON starting soon!

THE PRINCETON REVIEW

We Score More

(617) 558-2828

DRUNK DRIVING DOESN'T JUST KILL DRUNK DRIVERS.

Hannah and Sarah Fogleman, killed Dec. 12, 1988 at 2:22 pm on I-95 South, Brunswick, GA.

Next time your friend insists on driving drunk, do whatever it takes to stop him.

Because if he kills innocent people, how will you live with yourself?

FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS DRIVE DRUNK.

AA

U.S. Department of Transportation

e tape.
e Sawyer
n of study, favorite is ne on it. It a silencer, vels of the ce.
papers and oose from ods:
't show up
note your-a professor everyone.

as, and, if e methods, unemploy-

I
you we read ney the
This ary angry.
my, Mr.
ny will you're neath our u are in Behrie. ape our here you oming to re a waste ll not rest en into a ou have are com-wiffle bats Run for ats don't wincible.

journal-
tar me? t go...let you see an
!!!!!!!!!!!!

Ho

SGA finds success with changes in meeting format

By Stephanie Soow
JOURNAL STAFF

Despite operating without a full membership through the course of the semester, the Student Government Association (SGA) succeeded in instituting various new policies to help make their meetings more productive and organized. Because of these changes, SGA has managed to make some inroads toward many issues that it has dealt with for some time.

The SGA Executive Board met consistently over this past summer, in the hopes of making some changes to the way meetings were conducted. The Executive Board (consisting of Michelle McGinn, President; Erika Hidalgo, Vice President; Efen Christenson, Treasurer; and Beth Evans, Secretary) met to discuss various ways to improve the effectiveness of their

.....
Are you a Business major?
Interested in writing?

.....
The Suffolk Journal is looking for business reporters to write on a regular basis.

.....
Call us at 573-8323 for more Information.

meetings.

In order to use the meeting time more productively and to ensure maximum meeting time, SGA established a new meeting policy. This new policy has three different aspects, the first being official SGA meetings running on a four week cycle.

The second aspect is that during the first and third meetings, SGA will meet as a legislative body, entertaining motions, officer and committee reports and official business. Finally, during the second and fourth meetings, SGA will meet as working committees. The meeting would be called to order, attendance would be taken, student forum and the President's Notes would be covered and then SGA would break into its designated committees for the duration of the meeting.

McGinn said that the committees have been very effective in dealing with the issues. The L.U.A.C. in particular, handled many of the student body issues that SGA comes across. This committee, the largest in SGA, is co-chaired by juniors Michael Mirabile and Phil Falzone.

Another change this semester in the SGA meeting was the policy concerning the Student Forum. This forum, originated by former SGA President Tommy Belmonte, was designed to give students a place to voice their concerns or complaints about a particular issue or suggestion. It also allowed an SGA member to speak on behalf of the student about the complaint or suggestion.

Last year, concerns that came before Student Forum were not written down, only verbalized. Because of this, some concerns and suggestions that came before the Forum fell between the cracks and were not followed up.

This year the student who addresses SGA must fill out the attached form and submit it to Evans. A copy is then given to the SGA officer assigned to the issue. The officer picked is the chairperson of the committee of which the problem falls under, the President of the class if it is a class issue, or President of SGA if the above two criteria do not fit the issue.

A progress report must be made at the next SGA meeting regarding the progress in dealing with the issue. Also, a letter will be sent to the student who brought forth the complaint or suggestion within two weeks to inform them of what was found out about the issue.

SGA also set a policy that must be met if motions and agenda items are to be discussed at that week's SGA meeting. In order for official business to be put on the agenda, a written motion card must be presented to the SGA Secretary no later than 3:00 p.m. on the Wednesday prior to the meeting.

The only exceptions to this policy would be announcements, Officer's reports and Committee Reports, as long as it is informational.

Ridgeway 400: and you hoped it was over

■ RIDGEWAY

Continued from page 1

While Khaligi works here at Suffolk, he is not employed by the university. Khaligi is employed by Service Master, a private contractor. However, he is answerable to both Service Master and Francis Flannery, Vice President and Treasurer of Suffolk University.

Flannery declared he was "disappointed he wasn't contacted" about Ridgeway 400. When asked who had picked the gas absorption system, Flannery said it was James McNelly, the architect of the project. Flannery stated that in picking the gas absorption system, McNelly "did not recommend what was best."

Khaligi reasoned the gas absorption system was picked because gas is cheaper than electricity and the operation costs are cheaper. It was Khaligi's hope that the problems in Ridgeway could be resolved with a couple of months.

There is a five to 10 year warranty on work done on Ridgeway 400. What remains unclear is what is exactly covered by this warranty. Khaligi did not know whether Suffolk might have to pay for any of the repairs that might be necessary to fix Ridgeway 400.

Flannery, guessing on what the warranty might cover, said that without seeing the warranty it would be impossible to determine what part of the cost Suffolk might have to pick up. His final comment on Ridgeway 400: "Regardless, it has to be fixed."

DRUNK DRIVING DOESN'T JUST KILL DRUNK DRIVERS.

Hamak and Sarah Pogleman, killed Dec. 12, 1988 at 2:22 pm on I-95 South, Brunswick, GA.
Next time your friend insists on driving drunk, do whatever it takes to stop him.

Because if he kills innocent people, how will you live with yourself?

FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS DRIVE DRUNK.

AA

U.S. Department of Transportation

Seasonal

Hanukkah's history is not just about military conquests

By N.E. Escobar
JOURNAL STAFF

Many of you know the religious meaning behind Christmas, but unless you are Jewish, you may not know what Hanukkah is, how or even why it is celebrated.

According to Collier's Encyclopedia, Hanukkah began in 165 B.C. after a rebellion by Orthodox Jews to overthrow the Syrian Greeks and restore traditional Jewish worship. This rebellion was led by Judah the Maccabee.

On day 25 of Kislev, occurring in either November or December, the Jewish Temple was desecrated. Because of what happened on this day in the Jewish calendar year, this day usually marks the beginning of the festival.

The Talmud, written many centuries after the Temple's destruction, tells of how three years later, once the Temple had been raised again, a small lamp with holy oil was found. Miraculously, this oil burned for eight days until more oil could be prepared. This is the reason Hanukkah is celebrated for an eight day period.

Robert J. Myers, who wrote Celebrations: The Complete Book of American Holidays, claimed that Hanukkah was not a simple commemoration of a military victory, but it signified the rededication of the Temple altar and the purification of the sanctuary. For many in the Jewish community, "Hanukkah stands for a continual dedication of a people to practices and ideals that binds them together as a community," Myers wrote.

The World Book Encyclopedia defines Hanukkah, also written as Chanukah, as the Jewish Festival of Lights or Feast of Dedication.

For observance, the ceremony involves either the lighting of candles in a special eight-branched candelabrum called a "menorah" or lighting small oil lamps in the evening on each of the eight days with a separate candle called a

HANUKKAH

continued on page 12

The top 10 holiday treats on home video

By Justin Grieco
JOURNAL STAFF

The holidays are upon us without warning and some people may need a little help to get into the spirit of things.

So, between the stress of Christmas shopping and wrapping gifts, take the time to go to your local video store and rent one of these Yuletide classics. Happy Holidays!

10. Charlotte's Web. This 1973 animated adaptation of E.B. White's children's book isn't a Christmas movie, but it's a wonderful tale of friendship that is perfect for the holidays.

9. Edward Scissorhands. Directed by Tim Burton, this is a charming and sweetly romantic fairy tale fantasy. Let your mind go and your heart take over and this movie will win you over with Johnny Depp's wonderful performance.

8. Greninja. A horror movie for the holidays? Cute, furry little creatures turn into slimy monsters which destroy a small town during Christmas. It's a funny, scary, heart-warming movie.

7. Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer. Stop-motion animation highlights this holiday classic narrated by Bill Lee.

6. How the Grinch Stole Christmas. Dr. Seuss' cartoon classic is a film everyone loves. A must see once a year.

5. A Christmas Carol (1955). This is a superb adaptation of Charles Dickens' story of Ebenezer Scrooge. Alastair Sim portrays Scrooge and the movie is a classic for the whole family.

4. Miracle on 34th Street. This 1947 fantasy is another family film classic. Natalie Wood is the girl who doubts the existence of Santa Claus and Edmund Gwenn is the department store Santa who helps her regain the Christmas Spirit.

3. It's a Wonderful Life. The essential Christmas movie to view year after year. Frank Capra's film is funny and heart-breaking. James Stewart is wonderful as the man who wishes he was never born.

2. National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation. Not only one of the best Christmas film's ever made, but the best of the "Vacation" series. The Griswold's stay home for Christmas and this hilarious farce exposes all the truths about the holidays. A truly funny movie that will put you in a great mood.

Annnnnnn... (drum roll here)

1. A Christmas Story. The mother of all Christmas films! This wacky recollection of being a kid in the 1940's is a brilliantly hilarious and alternately sentimental. It's a delightful film for all ages.

The Reason for the Season: patrons at Downtown Crossing give to help others in this time of peace and love.

Kwanza: a time for much celebration and reflection

By Justin Grieco
JOURNAL STAFF

It's that time of year again when we remember all the things that we accomplish during the year and the time where we make plans to insure that the goals we made come true for the up-coming year. Looking around the Boston community we see that Americans are not just people from Anglo-Saxon descent.

People from all descents build communities in Boston and often their cultures get blended into mainstream

United States. This time of the year is important because it's a time of reflection on our lives and our connection with the world around us.

Besides the American tradition of Christmas, some African-Americans also take part in the Kwanza celebration. Founded in 1966 by Maulana Karenga, a doctor of Sociology and Political Science, Kwanza embraces the elements of the African Diaspora, which hungers for a better understanding and a positive relationship to Africa depicting characteristics of the American culture involving economic growth and stability.

Kwanza, in the East African language Kiswahili, means the first fruits of the harvest. It is celebrated from Dec. 26 to Jan. 1 and is increasingly becoming a part of the African-American tradition.

Nguzo, the seven principles of Kwanza, celebrated each day, serve as a tie-back to the African roots.

Umoja (Unity) calls

KWANZA

continued on page 12

Gift-giving and the light of Hanukkah

■ HANUKKAH

Continued from page 11
"shamash."

According to Myers' book, the kindling of the lights in the home is accompanied by the recitation of blessings and intonation of "Psalm 13," entitled "A Psalm, a Song for the Dedication of the House." Once these traditional prayers are said, they are accompanied by the singing of the song "Maot Tzur (Rock For-truss)."

Like Christmas, Hanukkah celebrations include exchanging gifts, decorating homes, and festive meals, which includes a traditional European dish of potato pancakes called "latkes." On Hanukkah, children play with four-sided tops called "dreidels" and, depending on which side the "dreidell" lands, use nuts or candy to put and take.

Hanukkah's central symbol is still the light, which stands for Divine Providence and for the burning dedication of a people to preserve its identity.

To help celebrate the holiday at Suffolk University, Hillel and Campus Ministry are sponsoring a Menorah Candlelighting in the McDermott Conference Room at 3 p.m. today in the Donahue building, room 128.

The seven days and principles of Kwanza

■ KWANZA

Continued from page 11 for striving for peace and harmony in all communities, races, and nations.

• Kujichagulia (Self-determination) requires being independent and taking control of your own life.

• Ujima (Collective Work and Responsibility) calls for keeping the community in peace and love by maintaining that divine love between our brothers and sisters.

• Ujamaa (Cooperative Economics) is thusly placed so that the money that is made in our communities circulates amongst ourselves before it leaves the community by way of supporting one another's businesses, stores, and shops.

• Mu (Purpose) is for building and developing their communities so that people can reflect and restore the tradition and history of their African ancestors.

• Kumba (Creativity) calls for using all our talents in a positive way by giving your all to make the community beautiful.

• Inani (Faith) is believing with all one's heart and soul in their parents, children, leaders, churches, and in the truth and success of our struggles.

Swing with Harry Connick Jr. through the holiday season

By Karen M. Young
JOURNAL STAFF

Are you tired of the same old Christmas songs sung by the same old singers? Then pick up "When My Heart Finds Christmas," Harry Connick Jr.'s contribution to the wonderful world of Christmas music.

Connick brings new flavor to old holiday favorites by jazzing them up with a swinging beat and adds some original Christmas tunes to make "When My Heart Finds Christmas" one of the best holiday tapes to come out in years.

Connick's beautiful voice, which has more than a hint of Frank Sinatra in it, shines on Christmas classics like "Sleigh Ride" and "Let It Snow! Let It Snow! Let It Snow!" His high-energy versions of the songs are among the best versions ever made.

One of the highlights of the album is Connick's rendition of "Ave Maria," which is sung in Latin. It begins with a lengthy and exquisite piano solo leading into Connick's singing, accompanied by a full orchestra.

Another gem on the album is "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers." Connick's timing on this song is perfect. He pauses at appropriate times, which gives the feeling of a real parade of wooden soldiers. You can almost see a room of toys dancing around as you listen to the song.

Connick was accompanied by the Carol Lombard Kids on "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer." Connick and the kids alternate the lines and give a truly unique and imaginative flavor to this version of the holiday classic.

Connick mixed a number of religious tunes in with the secular Christmas songs. He performed beautiful versions of "What Child Is This?" and

CONNICK

continued on page 14

Remember to include Christ in the mass

By V. Gordon Glenn, III

Warning, this commentary is about what the real reason for my celebration of this holiday season is: the celebration of the birth of my lord and savior Jesus Christ.

I have found that we have forgotten the meaning of Christmas. These days I can't watch television for five minutes without a commercial with some superstar giving me some bogus reason to run down to my local department store and buy up all that I can't afford. "No payments until '94," the ad says. I think "wow" and then I realize that 1994 is only three weeks away. I look and look for some substance in these commercials, a semblance of something more than low calling card rates and the sale on "X-mas" trees down at "Cousin Bob's Christmas Trees and Tackle Novelty Shop." Alas, my search has been to no avail.

Every year at this time I get a little depressed by this whole commercialized Christmas scene. If people can't make money off of it, you probably won't see it on T.V. or hear it on the radio or in billboards. "Merry Christmas" these days has lost its irresistible flavor. Do we even mean it anymore? I submit that we don't.

My depression is deeply rooted in this fact. We put so much emphasis on the fact that we must purchase for each other expensive gifts or be branded as cheap or uncaring that we have forgotten what a wonderful season this is. We have put a price on our happiness.

Fellas, if you think I'm wrong, buy a gift for your girlfriend that costs less than what she has bought for you and expect an argument on the (supposedly) most joyous day of the year. The warning signs for this are when you ask her what she wants for Christmas and she says, "Whatever you get will be just fine." But, I digress.

While we are bombarded by the pictures of "Old St. Nick" and the elaborate scenes outside the numerous shopping centers eager to earn that all-powerful 30% this season, it's important to think of the real reason for this season. The reason for the tree, the reason for the night, the reason for the morning. This is what should keep us going throughout the year, not just holding our tongues for one afternoon of cheesy pictures and a fancy feast.

"Christmas," so defined, "Ain't what it used to be." The reason for this is that we don't take the time to realize that it means more than expensive gifts and hours of shopping to get the real reason for the season. All it should take is for us to recognize that there are others who don't have the means to celebrate Christmas in the fashion that most of us are used to.

I submit further that we realize the gifts that we are given each day. Each morning when we wake up and have breath and mobility we ought to be thankful, but most of us aren't. And yet when comes Christmas we are overjoyed by the temporal gifts we receive from people that give only to reciprocate what was given to us. Is this the true spirit of Christmas. I say no.

Last Sunday, my pastor preached from what was given to us. Is this the true spirit of the commuopia that we are remembering an event that is much higher than us, for it commemorates the birth of the Son of God.

Why it is that I have to wait for Christmas to come for me to exhibit "Peace on Earth, good will towards men (and women)." I wonder why it is that I need a holiday to show the love we should have throughout the year. Are people not in need on Dec. 26?

So, as the commercialized version of this most holy day wares on, let us not forget that on this day as we siphon through all the commuopia that we are remembering an event that is much higher than us, for it commemorates the birth of the Son of God.

We get so caught up in the hoopla that we forget this all-important fact. We get so lost in the "all-star" Christmas show specials that we lose sight of the greatness of the day and the "Super-Star" that is to be honored that day.

This celebrative premise supersedes any tangible gifts that we give each other and the fake smiles we give to the homeless people we walk by with our few cents that we put in their "Dunkin' Donuts" cups. "Ah, I've done my good deed for this year," we say to ourselves.

$$$CASH$$$

FOR YOUR BOOKS

Bring Your Books To:

Nov. 29 - Jan. 14
Mon., Thurs., 9 a.m. - 7:30 p.m.

IN THE BOOKSTORE

(Valid I.D. Required)

Books Are Money - Guard Against Theft

We Buy the Largest Range of Books -

Hard or Soft Bound

BOSTON UNIVERSITY SCHOOL FOR THE ARTS presents

William Shakespeare's

Romeo and Juliet

Directed by James Bohnen

at Suffolk University's C. Walsh Theatre, 55 Temple Street
December 14-18 at 8 p.m.
December 19 at 2 p.m.

Tickets: $8 and $6; $4 for seniors and students

SPECIAL OFFER FOR THE SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY COMMUNITY
Boston University and Suffolk University faculty, staff, students and alumni receive one complimentary ticket per current ID; additional tickets $4.

To reserve tickets, please call the C. Walsh Theatre box office at 574-8600.

Seatingboxes will be provided between the Charles River Campus and the C. Walsh Theatre on Wednesday, December 15 and Thursday, December 16. Buses depart at 7:00 p.m. from the School for the Arts at 855 Commonwealth Ave. and return at 11:00 p.m. from the C. Walsh Theatre.

- Aveda
- Biogenol
- Goldwell
- Joico
- Kenra
- KMS
- Matrix
- Nexxus
- Paul Mitchell
- Redken
- Sebastian
- Sukesha
- TRI
- & More...

102 Tremont Street
(corner of Bromfield Street)
Downtown Boston, MA 02108
(617) 451-5359

Complimentary consultation with our professional stylists.
Call for an Appointment or just come in.
Special offers with coupon only. Not to be combined with other offers.

Ask about our frequent cutter card -- 9th cut free
Owner is a Suffolk Graduate

SAVE $5.00 on Precision Haircuts

SAVE $10.00 on Color Services

SAVE $15.00 on Perms

Hair care products

Buy any two products receive the lower priced item 1/2 PRICE!

Connick sings Christmas gems

CONNICK
Continued from page 12

"O Holy Night," the latter of which includes seldomly heard verses. Connick's voice is complemented by a wonderful orchestra, which was conducted by Connick himself.

A gospel flare is added to "I Pray On Christmas," which he wrote. He was accompanied by an adult choir on this truly inspirational tune.

The title track is one of the most moving songs on the album. "When My Heart Finds Christmas," another Connick original, is a song about finding more than gifts at Christmas time. It's about finding true love on Christmas. The choir that accompanies Connick on this tune adds an extra dimension to the song and makes it one of the most enjoyable songs on the album.

The jazzy "It Must've Been OI' Santa Claus" is another fantastic Connick original. The song has an original flavor that makes it unlike any other Christmas song ever recorded.

Connick will perform these songs when his Christmas special airs on CBS, Christmas Eve.

Minority medical school enrollment increases

ATLANTA (CPS)—The black student enrollment increased sharply between 1990 and 1992 in the Southern region's medical schools, a report by the Southern Regional Education Board said.

The jump in minority enrollment matches the enrollment increase for minorities from 1980 to 1989. Black medical student enrollment increased from 6.8 percent to 7.5 percent between 1990 and 1992, the report said. This two-year growth in the South also outpaced the nation.

David R. Denton, director of board's Health and Human Services Program, said the growth is primarily due to the number of minority college graduates applying to medical school in recent years, but said other factors supported the increase.

"Credit also must go to schools that have made serious efforts to identify potential applicants early in their college and even high school careers and give them extra-academic support and guidance," Denton said.

Denton said schools also have flexible admission procedures to encourage enrollment by non-traditional and disadvantaged students.

Despite the efforts of medical schools to recruit African American students, 25 percent of black medical students are enrolled in the South's two predominantly black medical schools, Meharry College of Medicine in Nashville, Tenn., and Morehouse School of Medicine in Atlanta.

East Carolina University in Greenville, N.C., ranked fourth in medical schools nationwide in the percentage of black students enrolled, with 15.1 percent for the 1992-93 school year.

Other Southern schools enrollment rates for blacks exceeding 10 percent are the University of Maryland, the University of North Carolina, East Tennessee State University, and Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

The report follows a 1991 study that documented the minority growth between 1980 and 1990. Several schools made vast improvements in their minority enrollment. Those schools include the University of Alabama and the Medical College of Virginia.

In Florida and Texas, the states that lead the South in Hispanic residents, enrollment of Hispanic medical students increased at rates comparable to black students. At the University of Miami, 17.7 percent of its medical school students were Hispanic in 1993-93, which led the Southern region for Hispanic enrollment.

How to avoid the holiday blues

FREDERICK, Md. (CPS)—The holidays can be a time to relax and be with friends and family, or those days of merriment can actually be an extremely stressful period, a psychology professor at Hood College says.

"Holidays bring back good memories," said Dana Cable. "Holidays are associated with family, and a lot of times family is just not there anymore so people who have been at a low level sink even deeper."

Cable offers these tips on how to avoid the holiday blues:

- Start new traditions. "Even something as simple as moving the Christmas tree to another part of the house can have a dramatic effect," he said. "Anything to break up those memory pictures."

- Buy new ornaments for the Christmas tree.

- Let someone else in the family host the holiday dinner.

Christmas has become especially stressful because no one can escape the holiday countdown. "Everyone is so cheerful and happy and everything is turning red and green," Cable said, adding that requests for counseling sessions rise after the holiday decorations in stores are put up.

Brown leads Lady Rams over Eastern Nazarene, 72 -59

BASKETBALL
Continued from page 16

of the pressure. "We're not that deep yet and the pressure might have taken so much out of us that we wouldn't have anything left at the end."

"It was kind of kamikaze out there but at least we were hustling and we forced some turnovers with the pressure."

On offense, junior center Noreen McBride, who finished with 16 points, connected on three-point plays in consecutive trips down court with 17 minutes to play, cutting the lead to 35-33.

"Those were big, real big," Walsh said. "She's coming off a sprained ankle, missing an entire game and most of a second game. She was out there playing at 60%." She just wanted to go inside and once that first one fell, her eyes were open and the hoop looked pretty big."

McBride's tough play down low inspired the Suffolk team. After shooting only eight free throws in the first half (making two), they were 11-19 in the second.

"We're not a high powered offense," Walsh said. "We've got to get to the line between 20-25 times, minimum. We got there in the second half."

After that it was the Maureen Brown show. Brown finished with 27 points, 10 rebounds, four assists and four blocks, to go with the eight steals — all team-leading numbers. She had the Eastern Nazarene coach begging someone to guard her.

"It's been that way all year, it's been that way the last three years," Walsh said of ENC's problems with Brown. "She has more confidence in the players around her now. She's not looking to do it all herself—yes she can do it all herself—but she's a better player and we're a better team when we get her to beat the pressure and dish."

Fidler finished with 10 points while senior center Maria Gerre added nine points and eight rebounds. DiFrederico and sophomore guard Tammy Swartzlander led ENC with 17 points apiece. Sophomore center Amy Cunningham paced them with 10 rebounds.

Box Score
Suffolk (72)-Brown 11-4-27; McBride 7-2-16; Fidler 3-4-10; Gerre 4-1-9; Sweeney 2-0-4; Broadhurst 1-2-4; Glennon 1-0-2; Kormanbaeva 0-0-0; Totals 29-13-72.
ENC (59)-DiFrederico 7-2-17; Swartzlander 4-7-17; Gardner 3-0-12; Jones 2-1-3; Wilber 0-4-4; Cunningham 0-1-1; Roberts 0-1-1; Clark 0-0-0; Fitzpatrick 0-0-0; VanLew 0-0-0; Rutledge 0-0-0; Totals 19-16-59.
3-pt. goals-ENC 3 (Swartzlander 2, Gardner 2, DiFrederico 1); Suffolk 1 (Brown).
Records-ENC 0-2, Suffolk 2-4.

University Dateline

December 8 - 27

Wednesday, 12/08

5:00 Menorah Lighting
5:00 Men's Hockey vs. Worcester State College

Thursday, 12/09

Hanukkah
Last Day Of Class For Fall Semester
Ballotti Learning Center - Conversation Workshop
Ballotti Learning Center - Microeconomics Study Group
Alpha Phi Omega Meeting
Seminar In Teaching Excellence: Panel Discussion University Communications Committee Meeting
Phi Sigma Sigma Meeting
Humanities Department Meeting
WSUB General Meeting
Forensic Team Meeting
Accounting Association Meeting
Kwanza Celebration
Faculty Night: The Lady Ram's vs. Wentworth College
The Ram's vs. Brandeis University

Friday, 12/10

Reading Day
Ballotti Learning Center - Microeconomics Study Group

Saturday, 12/11

2:00 Men's Basketball vs. Bates College
2:00 Women's Basketball vs. Endicott College
8:00 Men's Hockey vs. St. Michael's College

Sunday, 12/12

2:00 - 4:00 Suffolk University Holiday Celebration

Monday, 12/13

11:00 - 12:00 Final Exams Monday - Friday
Ballotti Learning Center - Accounting 312 Study Group

Tuesday, 12/14

12:30 SOM Promotion, Tenure & Review Committee Meeting

Wednesday, 12/15

5:30 - 7:00 SOM Graduate School Information Session

Thursday, 12/16

11:30 SOM Policy & Strategic Planning Committee

Friday, 12/17

9:00 Program Council's Holiday Party

Saturday, 12/18

Last Class For Executive MBA/MPA

Saturday, 12/25

Christmas Day

Monday, 12/27

Deadline For Submission Of Fall Grades To Registrar's Office

McDermott Conf. Room
Worcester State College

Fenton 430A
Sawyer 430
Fenton 537
Sawyer 521
One Beacon Street
Fenton 338A
Fenton 430B
Fenton 503
Ridgeway 416
Sawyer 1128
Sawyer Cafeteria
Home
Home

Sawyer 430

Home
Endicott College
Home

Gymnasium

Sawyer 521

Sawyer 521

One Beacon Street, 25th Floor

Sawyer 623

Boston Tara-Sheraton Hotel Prudential

Buy a Macintosh now and you can organize your time, straighten out your finances or go completely ballistic.

Macintosh LC 589 SBE,
Internal AppleCD 300 CD-ROM Drive,
Apple Keyboard II and mouse.

Macintosh LC 475 480, Apple Color II, 14" Display, Apple Keyboard II and mouse.

Apple PowerBook 100 485.

Introducing the Great Apple Campus Deal. Now, when you buy any select Macintosh® or PowerBook® computer, you'll also receive seven software programs. It's all included in one low price. And the software package alone has a combined SRP value of $596. It was designed to give you the kinds of programs you need most. Programs to organize your time and money. And some programs just for fun. So, why buy an Apple® computer? It does more. It costs less. It's that simple.

Visit your Apple Campus Reseller for more information.
Contact Ken Biera or Theo Nicolakis at Suffolk University Bookstore 148 Cambridge St.

© 1993 Apple Computer, Inc. All rights reserved. Apple, the Apple logo, Macintosh and PowerBook are registered trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc. AppleCD is a trademark of Apple Computer, Inc. *Based on the combined suggested retail prices (SRP) of the products in The Campus Software Set for Macintosh as of October 1, 1993.

University Dateline is Suffolk University's master calendar. For information on any scheduled event, any day of the academic year; or to list an event that you are planning call 573-5062. A comprehensive record of what is happening, when and where — for planning, publicity or general information.

Suffolk Sports

Brown leads Lady Rams over ENC, 72 - 59

By Nat Newell
JOURNAL STAFF

Suffolk women's basketball coach Joe Walsh is hoping to be anything but a gracious host this season. "I hope we get the feeling, when we're playing at home, that we can take it to a team and upset a few people," he said.

The Rams were particularly rude hosts Saturday night, teasing Eastern Nazarene College (0-2) in the first half, on the way to a 72-59 victory.

Although Walsh would like the opposition to see Suffolk's three-story-deep, subterranean Ridgeway Gym as a dungeon, in the first half it looked like a banquet hall to the Lady Crusaders.

After Suffolk (2-4) took an early 8-6 lead, Eastern Nazarene went on an 11-0 run to take a 17-8 advantage on the strength of 10 quick points by junior guard Darcy DiFrederico.

The Suffolk deficit would reach nine again at 22-13, but Suffolk called out the royal guard — as in senior point guard Maureen Brown. Brown helped close the gap to 27-22 at the half.

Despite the slim five point deficit, very few things were going right for the Rams.

"I thought for the first half, we lost the battle of the boards," Walsh said, "and we were in foul trouble early.

"In the second half we started playing smart—not just going up and down the court. We came out determined that we were going to win the battle of the boards. I think we decided we were going to play smart as well as hard."

Walsh thought correctly. On defense, Brown shut

Anna Bolero/Journal Contributor

Mo Brown had 27 points against Eastern Nazarene in Saturday's 72-59 win.

down DiFrederico, holding her to two baskets after the early spurge.

Brown (eight steals, along with senior guard Sharon Fidler (two big steals and layups midway through the second half), also sparked the Suffolk pressure defense in the second half. Eastern Nazarene would turn the ball over 20 times, creating a number of fast-break opportunities and leaving the Rams to put 50 second-half points on the board.

"I was nervous because it was tiring us," Walsh

BASKETBALL
continued on page 15

Santa will decide who's been naughty and nice in the sports world

By Paul DiPerna
JOURNAL STAFF

It is Christmas time again sports fans, so let us sneak a peak at what Santa Claus will be bringing the sports world this year.

For the Boston Bruins, a crowbar, dynamite and other assorted blasting materials. These will not be used for the construction of the Shawmut Center, but to open the rusted lock on Jeremy Jacob's wallet.

Santa has not really liked Mr. Jacobs since he left that note on his chimney telling him it was sealed shut because it was losing heat.

For the New England Patriots, a league rule shortening the length of the field to 99 yards, enabling the Patriots to go 14-2 next season. Things have not gone well since the year Santa found out about the Lisa Olson incident, and this region's favorite whipping boys have tried to be good since. Their efforts will likely go for naught as field-goal kicker Scott Sisson is in charge of guiding Santa into Foxboro Stadium. It would be a travesty to see Santa glide too far to his right or left and crash into the goal post.

To the Boston Red Sox, a copy of the animated special, "Rudolph, The Red-Nosed Reindeer." If the Abominable Snowman can bounce and Herbie the Elf can become a dentist, the Red Sox can win a World Series. Ownership already has something in common with the special, like the Island Of Misfit Toys, they seem to be a haven for those players that do not fit in with any other team.

Santa will be delivering the Boston Celtics a copy of Dr. Seuss' children's book, "The Zorax." Red Auerbach kept cutting down all those championship "trees" until there were none left. The North Pole's emissary believes it is time Celtic's fans and Mr. Auerbach stopped being so greedy and shared the championship "seed."

For the Boston College Eagles football team, an elementary math guide. Santa realized Glen Foley and company had an addition problem, they thought eight straight wins equaled nine.

West Virginia fans should not fret because Santa will be bringing them a choose-your-own-ranking book. This way the Mountaineers will have a chance at some type of number-one ranking.

To the parachutist who graced the Evander Holyfield-Riddick Bowe rematch, a direct landing in the next fight between the two. Santa hopes both men will deliver a unanimous beating to the idiot.

To Lou Holtz, a chance to coach the Patriots so he can see what real pressure is like.

For the Boston University Terriers, a recipe for mashed potatoes on their next trip through Idaho.

A copy of the Red Sox's illustrious history for the Atlanta Braves and San Francisco Giants to show them what a tragic season really consists of.

For the Chicago Bulls, a Michael-Jordan-life-size cardboard cut-out. Since they do not have the real thing, the Bulls might be able to psyche out a few opponents with this special gift.

For the NHL, a video of the rough and tumble hockey of the 70's. Santa has become annoyed at the attempt of hockey to make itself more marketable by copying the NBA style. Hockey is losing much of its intensity and excitement because the league wants to clean up its intensity. Commissioner Gary Bettman should watch one of Don Cherry's videos and understand what hockey is trying to get rid of is that which has made it thrive all these years.

For Boston sports fans, a documented history of the town's memorable moments over the years. Fans seem to be depressed that there is no clear championship-caliber team in 1993. Everyone needs to be reminded that the town of Boston's teams have kept them on the edge of their seats for a long time. Every fan must finally fall off.

Santa had a much longer list but he was unable to show us because he had to head back to the workshop to do some last minute revising. Seems the Houston Rockets did not reach the 15-0 mark without a little help from a certain red gentleman.

Sports Schedule
Women's Basketball	Dec. 9 - Wentworth, 5:30 p.m., Ridgeway Gym
	Dec. 11 @ Endicott 2:00 p.m.
Men's Basketball	Dec. 9 - Brandeis 7:30 p.m., Ridgeway Gym
	Dec. 11 - Bates 2:00 p.m., Ridgeway Gym
Ice Hockey	Dec. 8 @ Worcester State, 5:00 p.m.
	Dec. 11 - St. Michael's 8:00, Boston University

Lifestyles Page 4 Specials Page 9
Which actor has two big screen hits out this season? Nu School intellectuals and African theology

The Suffolk J

Volume 52, Number 15

Beacon Hill, Boston, Massachusetts

Winter storm causes delay in open

By Stephanie Snow
JOURNAL STAFF

Suffolk University students yesterday greeted the new semester's first day of classes with the snow, wind and cold that has refused to let up since the beginning of the new year. The first day of Spring semester seemed about as far from spring as could be imagined. Due to this bad weather, the school had a 11 a.m. delayed opening.

There seemed to be some confusion about the opening due to the fact that there are no 11 a.m. classes on Tuesday and Thursday, but instead the closest class is at 11:30 a.m. Also many students who have 8:30 a.m. classes and travel a great distance to arrive at Suffolk had no choice but to leave early, which in some cases meant missing the announcement of the delayed opening.

However, Francis Flannery, Vice President and Treasurer, stated that he had received only one complaint about the delayed opening.

Flannery explained that the 11 a.m. opening referred to the opening of offices and the time Suffolk workers were expected to be in work. All workers, except security which should be here anyway, were expected to be in by this time.

Flannery stated that he had woke up yesterday morning at 4 a.m. and began to monitor the weather. At 5 a.m. Flannery noted that the weather continued to get worse and that various reports had declared the roads were suffering from very icy conditions. The decision to delay the opening of the school was made at 5:45 a.m. by Flannery.

Once the decision was made by Flannery, he said that he called Michael Ronayne, dean of the college of liberal arts and sciences, and confirmed the decision. The next step is to notify the various media outlets, for example the radio and television stations, so as to publicize the announcement.

Flannery stated Suffolk tries to reach the different media stations that are affiliated with television stations. An example of this would be WHDH, which would have both a radio, and television station in the immediate area. Flannery stated that stations with storm centers that were continually making school closing and/or delay announcements were the best stations to tune in to.

There is no difference between the way faculty is notified of Suffolk delays or closings in relation to the

Women's Center, TKE sponsor holiday toy drive

By Paul DiPerna
JOURNAL STAFF

Several of Suffolk's student organizations brightened the holidays for battered women and their children in the Boston area this past holiday season. The Women's Center, Tau Kappa Epsilon (TKE) and the Women's Law Caucus sponsored a toy drive which benefited children in various shelters in the Boston area.

"We had a great response from the Suffolk community," Alison Reynolds of the Women's Center said. "The Women's Law Caucus and TKE helped out with more than two bags of toys."

Steve O'Brien and Chris Barr, members of TKE, thought the drive was successful and enjoyed working with their fellow organizations. "It was a worthwhile charity and we were impressed with the effort put forth by the Women's Center," Barr said. "I only hope that more of the Suffolk community becomes involved in future efforts."

TKE was instrumental in posting flyers and ads around the university to notify students and faculty of the event. Two of the shelters which benefited were the F.I.N.E.X. House in Dorchester and Respond in Somerville. Both homes have over 30 children in residence.

"We contacted other shelters in the area but they already had enough toys from other donors," said Reynolds. "It's nice when an organization has more than doesn't need your help."

Some of the items donated were stuffed animals, Walt Disney books as well as various board games.

way students heard of Christenson, Student of Association (SGA) Treasurer at yesterday's SGA meeting. The class, despite the 10 a.m. class, despite the fact that the class was officially still closed anyway. Apparently, no professor nor anyone in the heard of the delayed opening about seven people of an member class showed up, explained.

J. Robert Job

Three new voted a full

The University's Board have elected three new voted full membership Trustee J. Robert Job alumni elected term as Management representative to come to a close Johnson was elected term at the Board's Nov. 11 meeting. He has a BSBA and Suffolk and is president Marketers in Middleton.

Also elected to five-year term is John P. Broga, chairman of Associated Insurance Agency, Inc., of Acton, executive for Finance and Admini