It has been reported that a "she-mog" student from a local girls college had a run-in with a Suffolk "bunko" student at the Boston Public Library.

The Suffolk student was diligently scanning the pages of a comic book in Bates Hall when a chic young Miss accidentally bumped the back of his chair. After apologies, the comic book was set aside and the young lady accepted the Suffolk student's invitation to sit next to him.

They both lost themselves in Liberty 17 was later reported concerning that incident the next day that they were both shocked and surprised to find that the young Miss had awakened the old Librarian who was seated in the aisle.

He was annoyed when she asked him why "Lib 17" should be discovered that he had been named "Daisy Mae".

She was exasperated for being asked on the job. "Daisy Mae" was exasperated for being asked on the job. "Daisy Mae" was exasperated for being asked on the job.

It wasn't long before heaped and intellectuals flocked to the scene. Standing over the prostrate female, the Suffolk student was fanning the still figure with a copy of "Daisy Mae, the Best Way Out" by Herbert Newman. She soon recovered throughout the sacred walls of the Boston Public Library.

M.I.T. Ray Opens
First S.U. Forum
By C. K. AVERY

The International Relations Club of Suffolk University, under the able guidance of Mr. Don Fiorillo, last Wednesday night opened its Forum at the spacious Suffolk Auditorium. Distinguished and diplomatic Dr. John H. Ray, Professor of History at MIT, and graduate of Brown University, was the guest speaker.

Introduced by the tall, affable president, I. Masterson, Dr. Ray mounted the rostrum to speak on the vague and controversial problem of U.S. Economic Policy.

Dr. Ray said to a gathering of some 125 enthusiastic internationalists: "Many individuals are the major contributors to international conflict. This is not so, for it is usually the social or emotional factor that contributes the major causes to international conflicts."

Dr. Ray suggested that the U.S. give up any idea of collecting Lindbergh hills from foreign nations. That (UNO) should organize a world sheet.

Reaction to the first issue of the Suffolk Journal, both positive and negative, will serve the editorial staff as leads for improvement in forthcoming editions. It must be remembered, however, that this is the first attempt to present the university with its own student publication since newspaper aspirations at Suffolk began down eight years ago.

If students who complained on various, is actually larger than duty about the size, content, and other school papers, the general appearance of the paper were to come to give constructive criticism and perhaps could be stated verbally, they might prove to be a most interesting and profitable experience for the editorial staff.

Body of 17 Men Make Up Board
A body of seventeen capable and successful men make up the heart of this growing university. These men constitute the Board of Trustees. Their never-ending, tireless work towards giving the young man of America a splendid college education is something to marvel at. They meet, when the occasion arises, sometimes twice a week. These men in seeing that the institution runs smoothly have left nothing untouched. They all hold very high and important positions in everyday life, but find enough time to note: We don't know how they can do it to think of, in their unselfish way, the American youth and his education.

So without any further penning we will introduce to you, your Board of Trustees, in these lines, to make their modest bows:

Chairman of the Board is Judge Frank J. Donahue, Massachusetts Superior Court and a graduate of Suffolk Law. Treasurer is Walter H. Burns, Esq., graduate of Brown University and Harvard Law, who is a prominent Boston lawyer. Chairman L. Archer, is founder and president.

Other members of the Board are Prof. Hiram J. Archer, the clerk and Suffolk Law teacher; Rev. Gleason L. Archer, Jr., assistant pastor of the Park St. Church; Ernest R. Blaisdell, New England manager of the N. E. State, Corp.

NOT ALL TURKEY

Thanksgiving Day is here once again with a different outlook towards life for everyone. Yes, this year Thanksgiving is to be a happy one. The only enemy to keep our eyes on this Thursday is the opposing team playing our High School in the Thanksgiving football game.

To some of us perhaps, the meaning of Thanksgiving isn't as clear as it should be. Let us delve into the past and see how this greater ideology came about. The name, Thanksgiving, originated here in our own New England. After the first harvest of the New England colonists in 1621, Governor Bradford made provisions for a day of thanksgiving and prayer. The first official Thanksgiving in England took place at St. Paul's Cathedral, in gratitude for the defeat of the Spanish Armada.

What does all that mean to us? Well, to some of us it just means a turkey, cranberry sauce, stuffing, and an ox with it. To the rest of us it means more than just satisfying our appetites.

How many families offer basins, an explanation of praise to the Lord or Savior, on this day? Not enough of it! Perhaps, for some devoted parents, this Thanksgiving will be another day of prayer for their departed ones who so bravely gave their lives so that others might live in a peace that is worthwhile. Surely, such a family, and there are many, will sit out at their table and offer up their prayers for their sons who did not die in vain.

To all you Suffolk students, a well-deserved rest is due, especially after those mid-terms, but remember, Thanksgiving isn't all turkey! Let us give thanks this Thursday, for no matter how black life seems, it could be worse.

SUBJECT: SMOKING

Look fellow students (and you, too, young ladies!) this smoking in the corridors is bad enough but if a degree when you take that unnecessary attitude and throw your "butts" wherever they may fly. Why it's a disgrace to smoke through the corridors and see white spots before your eyes. If a stranger were to enter our portals and see those "butts" on the wall-there, well, we do not know what they would think or say.

Listen, we are not trying to "get in good" with the president, deans, faculty of this university. Neither are they deterring our editorial policies. This editorial is written because it is the duty of this department to stress to you all and even to members of our staff, that this happens must stop if we intend to have a respected and true university.

It is all up to you. The officials of the school are very lenient in allowing you to smoke in the corridors, providing you deposit your "butts" in the proper receptacle.

Most of you don't do it. And again we say, it must stop!

We know that 90 per cent of you are against it, and some ten per cent, officers and while in the service, you attacked a position for smoking.

But, tell me, did the officials of the camp where you were stationed allow you to throw "butts" around the mess-hall? "Off course not!"

So fellows and ladies let us all show our respect for our growing university and do away with this disgraceful act.

And while we are on the subject of making demands, let us try to show more respect to our university. Upon entering the building let us, like gentlemen and ladies, take off our hats. And that applies to the faculty, also!

They both are such small things, but they mean so much to build a fine institution.

Remember, Suffolk University is our home-away-from-home. Bear that in mind and the university will get the respect of every other outside college in the nation.

KILROY HALLUCINATION

By JAMES H. WALLACE

This ghostly man who has left his lair To torment and befuddle our world so fair Is known to all cautious both far and near, By his scrawled vain inscription, "Kilroy was here".

From Maine's rocky shore to the Pacific coast, There is not a wall not holding his boast, "Kilroy was here," he proudly avoweth, Yet not one soul knows him except by name.

No room is too safe from this egotist's lore, Who silently enters and leaves by his own hidden door, Himself to do neither admire or condemn, The shadowy Kilroy who travels alone.

At the end of each day and the start of the night, I pray to the Lord, who makes all things right, Give me a sign that will stop all my fear, Don't let me die, and find, "Kilroy was here".

"Better days are coming," great wise men say, "Kilroy" days when free men will have his own way, When all common people can sit down at last, And know that this Kilroy is a thing of the past."

The Mayflower Compact. The pioneers of the good ship Mayflower, known to history as the Pilgrim Fathers, were humble refugees from religious persecution. They were not Puritans as some people suppose but rather a group of separatists who had abandoned the rituals of the established church and had seized freedom ever adopted by the common people for their own government. Magna Charta, it will be recalled in England, a group of noblemen, was created from an unwelcome king by powerful barons. Religious freedom was possible. They had lived for about ten years in the City of Leyden—ten years of hardship and privation.

In Leyden, however, they had developed a system of self-government that was to prove of tremendous value in 1620 when they arrived in America. The Leyden authorities had permitted them not only religious freedom but also the right to govern their own tiny community. Their wise leader, Rev. John Robinson—submitted all pending religious and secular matters to the adult males of his congregation. A majority vote of their little "town meeting" had the force and value of the Pilgrim Compact. While they lived in Leyden some of the Pilgrims acquired homes, developed industries, learned trades. There was no evidence of economic decadence. Why then did complaining complaints they were forced upon them by the Merchants Adventurers of London at the beginning of their passage to America. Because they lacked funds for their voyage, but greatly desired to re-leave their colony to the free will of America, they were unduly agree to work for seven years for the Merchant Adventurers.

Majority Vote Law. This meant that no man among these could own as much as an acre of land, nor have anything in value or of value until the seven years should end. They he would receive a share of the "profits". Some of the company had more money. Bitterly that these terms asked him if he loved his life, he "were bitter for slaves and thieves as was long thinking about it that I but not for honest men." Yet the

By EARL R. ERICKSEN

Veteran's Meeting Held in And.
 A meeting was held in the Auditorium of all Veterans studying under Public Law No. 346, last Tuesday at which a representative of the Veteran's Administration was present. The first topic discussed was the problem of the scheduled Thanksgiving Dance to be given by the University at the Boston City Club on the 26, November, 1946. Veteran's credit in good for the purchase of dance tickets. All L.O.U.'s will be accepted in lieu of cash, for Vets attending this University. It is urged that all who are able to attend to do so, as this dance may mean the deciding factor as to whether or not any other dances will be sponsored by the Univ. in the future.

All Veterans filled out the "Training Officer's Initial report of Contact Blanks" to cover any change of address or any other matter which may have delayed the Substance Checks. For the benefit of those few who did not attend this meeting, we urge you to find out about these blanks and get them in to Mr. Metastasio at once.

The general delay in the financial status of the Vets is to a large part due to the ever-changing addresses of a few of the fellows who fail to inform the V.A. of any such change.

Unofficial reports have it that the checks will be in the mail sometime between November 20, 1946 and the 1st of December. Take it for what it's worth.

Club Chatter and Comments

By Joyce Lunde
Club Editor

Lo and behold! The Drama Club beckons ye players to witness their first forthcoming production—Remorseless. Proof that our group is very much alive and that fine acting is prevalent at Suffolk University will be viewed on the evening of December 18.

In this play we have a rare opportunity to take advantage of the location of least wiggling, re-sponsibilities which they offer—maneuver, pulch, reality, self-awareness, and the whole address of life. Much enthusiasm has been expressed by each character living his role, among the students with whom we won't go into the intimate plot, the establishment of a debating team, but it all revolves around the story line. It seems those who are part of an ambitious woman, whose life trajectory in the organization are in a continual conflict and her determination to receive many benefits. Not only that, but she does it despite the fact that it develops their powers of which in the end she triumphs, leadership, but enables them. They really have you believing work happily with others. The third session and the death they club is completely democratic.

Both Albert G. Tobin, president, and the weeks pass by the east and Mr. George Moore, faculty advisor, have thrown themselves more and more into it. We feel their efforts in seeing that the club justified in saying that under the no home carried on in the most capable direction of Mr. Hanson's factory manner. We feel sure and with such top-notch players that the organization will gain an excellent reputation. Last Thursday evening a large group of us went to the University of Vermont, where we met with Mr. Bowen and Joyce Lunde, that it Members of the Law School are still the your human concerns and welfare.

school publication dealing solely with university problems and problems. We therefore invite letters of the editor and criticism, all though we cannot promise to print material detrimental to the school. This is the absolute policy of all universities lacking student publications.

Taken as a whole, the Journal passed most favorably. (Ed note: Are you kidding?) with faculty members and other employees of the university as well as our address connected with Suffolk. The student who complained that someone was wanting to know the history of the university could find it in a pamphlet put out by the university office was entirely correct. What he did not consider was that the Journal eventually finds its way into Boston homes and circulates through members of the faculty who teach at other schools as well as Suffolk. The story of this university's birth may arouse in parents a more definite interest in their offspring's education and the school that he is attending as well as give hope to the knowledge-seekers who would work by their own hands.

Other students criticized the lack of timeliness with which certain stories appeared, especially on the sports angle. The complications themselves with obtaining material and writing and proof-reading every-

This April he was elected to the vice presidency of the student council and is now the acting president of the council. John Stoen was born in Portland, Maine and graduated from Portland High School in 1935. Before coming to Suffolk, O'Donnell attended St. Francis Xavier University at Antigonish, Nova Scotia from 1941 to 1944. While there, he was a member of the ski club and president of the University Bowling Club. When he receives his A.B. degree next May, John intends to do graduate study in history. Eight Pretty Girls Do Everything But Put Out This Paper (—Who Knows, They May Yet!)— One is Formerly From Sayre, Pa. Another From "The Canal Zone"

By SUMNER H. FREEDMAN
Co-Managing Editor

Seeing so much (and yet so little) of the very able office staff, we thought it was time to find out more about the fair sex who have so thoughtfully helped, in every way possible, each and every student at SU.

As we entered the front office, we found Dorothy J. Sheehan diligently sitting over her desk working like mad. Dorothy has quite a bit of talent (everyone has talent at SU) and after some questioning she told me that she is appearing at the Mission Church during Lent in a play called "Bliss's Daughter."

Edie Is A Lady

We then left Edie, who had worked for me for a while, and went to Edith M. Clark, sitting nonchalantly at her switchboard. Her name appears on the list of students after leaving her clear-as-a-bell "Hello." No wonder classes are full! Edie reads in Koolhaed and she wants everyone to know that she left his when just a little baby (108 baby).

Leaving the front office, there were students lined up to speak to Edith who strode to the back office (work is done there also) and who should greet me but sweet Lois Mallory (they are all sweet). Lois was born in Sayre, Pa., graduated Albion High, went to New York State, and finally honored us with her presence here at SU. In case the basketball team is interested, Lois played basketball for her high school. (Eyes certainly would not be on the basket if Lois played on our team.)

... Finding no trouble in leaving Edie, (let go of my collar, Dean), we spotted Rita M. Fink who resides in Bethlem. For those who enjoy roller skating, be sure to see Rita in the roller skating show which will be held in the Rolland Skating

In addition to his regular studies he is continuing his classical piano lessons under Marjory Chubb-Cherkovskaya after eight years of playing the classical's favorite composers are still Chopin and Debussy.

Rink in Norwood, Dec. 17. For those who don't appreciate the art of skating, see Rita regardless. You won't be sorry. Yes, Stratford Business School has sent us another fine girl.

With hearings piling around in our heads, we left Rita to greet Mary Orfanelli who can run the mimeograph machine while trying another stencil. Mary attended Girl's Latin School and later came out from Haver Business School, a mimeograph she plays the piano, classical and popular, with the touch of a Huth.

Lady in Green

We saw a sweet, demure girl in green, sitting beside the Dean's office. "What's your name?" we asked innocently, little realizing what we were in for. We discovered that she was Jeanne S. Gleason from Wiltshop. She told us, in her soft, southern accent, that she came originally from Kentucky (of course we know differently, don't we girls? Kentucky we had, but why, of all the muddy places, did you go to school in that?) Jeanne is also a pretty basketball. (With her shoes on, we hope.)

Wiping our noses and smothering our smiles with a southern comfort, we left the back office and entered the burner's domain where Harriet M. Kane, with her blonde tresses gleaming in the light, was working earnestly for the benefit of all the students. Harriet arrived here last year from Balboa Panama Canal Zone and upon completion of her studies at Chauders Secretarial School, came to SU where we welcome her with open arms.

In all seriousness, the editorial staff, on behalf of all the students at SU, wish to thank the office staff for all they have done for us. Your work is more than appreciated and we stand ready to serve you in any way possible at any time.

Moon "Shines" Over Suffolk U. Hockey

Holding down the spotlight in the sports news of the past two weeks was the appointment of Tom Moon as coach of the Suffolk University hockey team. For the moment of the fopigniers, Tom Moon played goalie for the Boston Olympics for 10 years. Because he was regarded as one of the finest American-born hockey players, he was a member of the American group at the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin.

Gianes with Worcester Jr. Col. Moon has been coaching the Lexington High hockey squad for the last 3 years, but since the SU team Liberal Arts. Nichols College of practices at 4:30 a.m. Three of the Suffolk, Mass. and the S. E. School coach figured he could handle both. It is interesting to note that to 16 men and he feels confident that the G.L.'s from the Derris St. Sprungfield was the school where Falace have the makings of a smooth-working team. The boys aren't ripe enough, however, for scheduled games but Coach Moon feels that by December his charges will be ready for some games.

Soccer Club Comments

On the other side of the corridor, the soccer team is taking off for a practice at the Commons. This afternoon has already played a number of games, the highlight of which was a 2 to 2 draw with the M.I.T. eleven. Coach Forth, who played for the Fred Ford a having trouble first, and also played every game but it is hoped that by the time their schedule is resumed, his duties as instructor and coach, there will be plenty of available material. So far now, it's hats each plan to see his men in the off to the game during the week. The Johns, Marcus, Stenowich, Colter, i.e. a "shock troop" etc. etc. for a job well done. By the way, Mr. Ford didn't do a bad job as a regular team. They work with a fast-breaking offense and enjoy variations in a zone defense.

Basketers Opens Season vs. Mass State at Ft. Devens

Boston has inaugurated two basketball teams which we all hope will be standouts. One of them is the Boston Celtics, the latest edition to pro basketball, while the second club making their debut in some other than our own basketball quarters here at Suffolk University. You may need all the comparison of a professional team to that of small colleges, but one look at their schedule will show you that the fellows from the Derris St. Palace mean business right from the start. Their schedule is as follows:

Dec. 5—Mass State—Ft. Devens—8:45 p.m.
Jan. 3—Burdett—So. End Boy's Club—1:00 p.m.
Jan. 7—Assumption College—Worcester—8:30 p.m.
Jan. 25—Am. International—Springfield Tech. High—7:30 p.m.
Feb. 1—Becker College—Worcester—10:15 p.m.

MOVIE SLANTS

By LARRY QUIRK
Pre-Leat. 31

This week brings a fairly interesting array of films to our first-run theaters. At the Met, Warner's Bud Boy John Garfield plays with divergent Gerald Fitzgerald in an exciting gangster yarn, "Nobody Lives Forever". It's the son-man who tries to work his way into the affections of a rich widow (Gertrude), Garfield takes the slightly-sworn plot for a ride, turning the grant from a tough, all-get-out attitude to tender affection under his goodly goodly heroine's sweetening and enlightening influence. The treatment including photography and direction is fresh and original however, and makes this little opus well worth seeing.

At the Paramount and Fenway, "Two Years Before the Mast" provides Paramount's perennial star, Alan Ladd, with one of his most colorful and adventuresome roles. The thrilling and engrossing story of the bristles and indignities endured by the men of the U. S. Merchant Marine of a hundred years ago, many of whom they will be forced to endure a literal enslavement at the hands of tyrannical captains, is told crisply and with no punches pulled. As the shipowner's pampered son, who finds himself shanghaied aboard one of the "hell-ships," commanded by a ruthless captain (Howard Duff), Silva, Ladd couldn't be better. He is also supported by Brian Donlevy, William Bendis and Barry Fitzgerald. If you're looking for raw, really entertainment, this is your dish.

At the Loew's Orpheum, those two master character actors, Frank Morgan and Keenan Wynn, combine their talents in a heavy little laugh-reat aptly titled, "The Corker and Macker". It would appear to be fun to give away the plot but just as an appetizer let it be known that for one thing, the 30-year-old Keenan plays the proud papa of Morgan, who is well in his sixties. While you're trying to figure that one out, remember the short three blocks from here to the Orpheum and sit Messrs. Morgan and Wynn when you chase those Mid-Semester Exam Blues away.

Over at the Keith Memorial, up-and-coming, little starlet Jeanne Crain is packing 'em in for her third consecutive week in "Marie", a neatly executed little comedy of the good old days of 1928, the period of flappers and so-called flapping youth. This film needs no recommendation. That "Third Week" tag speaks for itself.

At the RKO Boston, that leering villain, Dan Duryea (remember the pushing around he gave John Henchard in the building of a tight knot in "Scarlet Street") does an about face in his latest, "White Tie and Tails", in which he plays up as an honorably likable comedy lead. He starred with him in this sprightly little film are University's cut Ella Raines, and William Bendis. On the stage we are offered the Wanda Sykes, Prince of Beasts, Wengie and his orchestra as well as an impressive array of stage talents.

Student Council Drafts Constitution

Preamble Sets Forth Purpose

By NANCY OTIS

The Student Council, already plagued by growing pains, is currently in the throes of writing and adopting a constitution. Under the guidance of Dean Goodrich, Dean Forillo, and Mr. Edward Blackman, representatives of the faculty working in coordination with the council, the newly-elected members have drafted nine articles containing numerous sections and clauses. Discrepancies and differences have been thrashed out and the Council has emerged with a completed draft, already enacted by the approval of two-thirds vote of the body.

In the Preamble, the purpose of the Council has been set forth "to cooperate in joint representation with both the faculty and students in coordinating and unifying the life of the college and to afford a medium of expression of undergraduate sentiment in an effort to elicit the specific needs of the student body in execution of undergraduate procedures as may be placed within its province." As from the first election process, the Council shall be composed of three representatives in each day class and one representative from each evening class elected by vote of their respective classes. This article will facilitate the former procedure of electing representatives from the various colleges instead of classes. Elections will henceforth be held on the first Tuesday in December each year, making the freshman class to become acquainted with Suffolk surroundings, begin campaigning, and furnish an adequate academic standing needed for running in the election. The newly-elected council will then take office on the Monday following the election. Any vacancy, except in cases caused by graduation, shall be filled by a majority vote of the council.

The Student Council will meet twice monthly. Among powers delegated to it in the new Constitution, the Council will regulate and supervise all undergraduate activities, mass meetings, and student demonstrations and events which the Council assumes ultimate financial responsibility. The new constitution also provides various powers and duties of the council in addition to regulations on membership, method of election, meetings, officers, committees and amendments.

Norman Thomas, Guest Speaker

Norman Thomas, noted Socialist, will be the guest speaker at the 200 S. U. students on March 3rd, at Suffolk University.

Half 12 was completely filled with members of the Philosophy Club and other interested students and guests. The corridors were filled with students who were unable to obtain seats for the talk.

The Student Has His Say

By AL LINER

Time after time, the Suffolk Journal, your newspaper, has set out appeals to join its staff. On numerous occasions, notices were posted asking for criticism, helpful, earnest, or what have you? Yes, the paper stuck its chin out, but surprisingly few (sadly) enough, hardly anyone took a pole at it. As a result, we became rather pessimistic.

Typical Complaints
Then storm clouds began to gather. Each succeeding issue brought stanzas of protest. "Why wasn't our Ant-Eater's club given a write-up?" ranted some neck-beaked individual. "We never knew you had one," we chuckled.

They continued to batter at our defenses. "Why aren't there more pictures, cartoons, photos—babs!" a wino-sque lineer frolicsily demanded. "The 'vets' for them are too expensive," we answered sorrowfully. "Why didn't you like a subscription to 'Regime' instead?"

"Why isn't the paper larger?" a rational strippling boldly inquired. "Politely, we answered, 'We haven't got the dough, you lunk-head! We can't get enough advertising! We're still trying to get the ink stains off our fingers. Red ink!"

With the mention of "Red," a number of our protesting clientele distorted mouths, and repeated suspiciously.

"No wonder they haven't got enough dough," they whispered behind barnacled palms. "They're importing their ink from Russia. That costs, hey, that costs!"

Immediately we cleared the office. Our abused ears and temperaments could take no more.

Needs and Aims
What does this all boil down to? Primarily, in order to put out a bigger paper, a more professional-looking one, we need more members on the advertising staff—many more. This need is immediate. Next, in order to get complete, efficient news coverage, we need more reporters. And finally, we need, we need, we need the cooperation of all student organizations. How can we publicize school activities if they are virtually kept a secret? Don't make us ferret out approaching affairs or future plans; instead, give us the lowdown on them early enough, so that we can pass the word along. Too many times, we've received news items so late that they could not be printed. They've had become obsolete.

With all those things in mind, we ask for your help and support. Remember, the Journal represents you, all of you, and stands ready at all times to speak in your behalf. That is its duty and its purpose.

Athletic Dance to be Held at Hotel Vendome

On La-La! Another big Suffolk dance and on the last day of exams, March 21! What an occasion to get together and sling the hash about exams, profs, and proctors! Welcome Dance Spring by purchasing a ticket for the big Athletic Dance being held from eight until twelve in the gay Empire Room of the Hotel Vendome.

Proceeds from the affair will go to make our Suffolk athletes super-anxious in brand-new athletic jackets. Feature of the evening will be the awarding of the Suffolk University-Calvin Coolidge Law athletic competition trophy by Baron Hugs, popular headliner from the Telen Polo. George Karavassalis, president of the Social club which made the Thanksgiving Turkey treat a whole of a success, has rapidly been turning out plans and committees to make the Athletic Dance even more sensational than the last affair. Jerry Mitchell and His Orchestra will be on hand with the live and students are requested to come informally. (No bonus about it this time!) Tickets will be $2.00 per couple and no tickets will be sold at the door. Tickets are being distributed by members of the dance committee, the various athletic teams, the bookstore, and Student Council, but it is up to the student body to get the ball rolling. Karavassalis and Dean Forillo are handling tickets. Joyce Lunde superintends the reception committee. John O'Donnell is in charge of publicity. Frank Adams, the Orchestra, and Joseph Clancy is chairman in charge of procuring the hall.

So, go, gather up your guests, tails and gals, and hooten-jooten to the Vendome. March 21 is the night and a good time is promised. Won't our boys look slick in their new jackets?

Bill H. R. 870

By C. K. AVERY

S.U. vets not to be undone by other schools in the country, fell right in line to organize a unit now known as "Suffolk University Veterans." We need more members on the advertising staff—many more. This need is immediate. Next, in order to get complete, efficient news coverage, we need more reporters. And finally, we need, we need, we need the cooperation of all student organizations. How can we publicize school activities if they are virtually kept a secret? Don't make us ferret out approaching affairs or future plans; instead, give us the lowdown on them early enough, so that we can pass the word along. Too many times, we've received news items so late that they could not be printed. They've had become obsolete.

Under the direction of a group of sincere students who laid the foundation for an AVC Chapter in S.U., plans were immediately launched to strengthen the chapter by disseminating AVC information throughout the school.

Officers Elected
At the first meeting of Chapter 888, elections were held and the following students were appointed to office: Mr. J. Smith, Chairman; Mr. W. Stewart, Vice Chairman; Mr. A. Liner, Treasurer; Mr. A. Pica, Correspondence Secretary; Mr. E. Clancy, Secretary; Mr. E. Murray, Area Council Delegate. Elections for positions on the Executive committee are to be held in the near future.

At this same meeting a discussion was held concerning the discus-

V A To Tag Absentees

Dean Donald Goodrich, registrar, has announced the following policy concerning absences: All students are expected to attend class regularly. Two unexcused absences per semester are permitted to students in the Colleges of Liberal Arts, Business Administration, and Journalism. Anyone reported for three unexcused absences in any course is no longer in good standing in the college.

It is required that all students submit to the Registrar or the telephone switchboard operators written excuses for all unavoidable absences, whether due to illness or other causes. Absences because of illness normally require a doctor's certificate. Excuses should contain dates, classes missed, classification of student as to college, and reason for absence, as well as the student's name.

It is particularly important that veterans understand and observe this rule as the Veterans' Administration keeps careful check on their attendance.

APPOINTMENTS

Five appointments to the faculty of the College of Liberal Arts at Suffolk University were announced by President Gleason L. Archer. They include Clyde A. Goodrum, assistant professor of chemistry; Bill Road, assistant professor of English; Robert E. Crawford, instructor in government; Charles H. Savage, Jr., instructor in social studies; Thomas Savage, instructor in English and history.

"Bill H. R. 870" introduced in Congress for AVC by Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R. Mass.). The Bill is a proposal to raise subsistence allotments under the G.I. Bill of Rights to $100.00 a month for single students and $125.00 for married ex G.I.'s, plus $10.00 a month for each child.

"Bill H. R. 870" is being sponsored to help the vet stay in school. With expenses still going up and the vet latching between the books and that part time job to meet half his expenses, confusion reigns. This is a situation of this sort force the student to make a reluctant exodus from the school to hunt for one of those full time jobs that do not exist.

To avoid drastic action on the student veterans part, S.U. Chapter 888 recommends that the student veterans write their respective MUST WE LEAVE?

From universities and colleges all over the country, reports are coming in to the effect that the student veterans are having a difficult time attempting to live on the allowance he receives from the Government.

Many veterans returning to school under the G.I. Bill complain that they can not meet the increased cost with the subsistence furnished them by the Government. This is especially true among the married students and those living away from home.

Since it is theoretically possible to attend college doing nothing but studying, eating, and sleeping, the costs of food and shelter must be considered.

A recent survey showed that the average "away-from-home" student must spend, for food and shelter, $60.00 out of his monthly $65.00 check. Some students have stated that they skip one meal a day to save money. Those who are lucky enough to find a room can not afford to pay the rent that is asked.

campus married couples are here to stay—but not for long, unless the subsistence allowance is raised.

Many couples are living with their parents and are being supported by them. That is the first strike against a successful marriage.

The long delay maturity of youth is considered by many as a product of our economic and social development. If dependence upon parents can be removed (by a raise in subsistence) then one of the hazards to the adjustment of young people to marriage can be eliminated, and more family men can take advantage of the G.I. Bill to complete their education.

The crucial point is at the first and second years of study where the scholar finds himself with inadequate financial resources. Must the veteran leave school at this point because he cannot afford to continue? Wasn't three or four years of fighting for his country enough of a barrier to his advancement in the world? Must he be pushed back again into the uncertainty from which he came?

The bill that is up before the House to raise subsistence allowances for student-veterans must not be thrown into the basket! It is indeed imperative that student-veterans receive a boost in subsistence allowances. We can not afford to have students leaving the colleges and universities because they can not keep up with the high cost of living.

Not all of us absolutely need a subsistence raise, but many do. For their sake, that bill must not be defeated, or pushed aside for a later date. The greener, the doctor, the landlord, the baker, and a host of other people are not withholding or delaying THEIR notices, that your bill is due.

BOSTON CENSORSHIP

By SAMUEL B. CINAMON

Boston has a censor. That fact is borne home again and again by the publicity given to books that are not worth reading and to plays that are not worth seeing. Of those books which are junk we do not wish to make an argument, but there are others and some of those others are classics. Not that they were written hundreds of years ago but classics in that they are pictures of life and will be read hundreds of years from now.

"A friend of ours picked up a book by Henry Miller, opened it, read a few lines and in the next beautiful Boston accent said, 'That is disgusting.' A few minutes later this friend was saying that Miller was a poor writer. Yes, he is banned in Boston and in the United States for that matter.

It took a Supreme Court decision to enable one of the greatest books of our time to go on sale in this country and I imagine that the decision is the only reason why Boston cannot ban ULYSSES by James Joyce. It is to this type of books that we are referring.

What is dirt? Our answer is simple. Filth or dirt is that which fits a book because in the reader's mind and emotions of a sexual nature. When the so-called fifth in ULYSSES acts as an erotic instead of an aphrodisiac, then there is nothing filthy about it, no matter how many good old fashioned Anglo-Saxon words are used.

Boston makes itself look ridiculous in the eyes of the entire nation when it asks an author to change lines in his play before the pure citizens of our city can see it. The Boston Herald carried an excellent editorial in regards to "The Ice Man Cometh" which Bostonians are too innocent to see.

We saw it in New York. There were three young ladies sitting behind us and when asked their opinion of the play they said that it made them want to get as morally as possible. Perhaps our censors are afraid that we are not moral and that we would become so if we saw what happens on the stage to certain types of characters. The Herald compared the "Ice Man" to an old-fashioned morality play and that is just what it is.

All this is only proof to our contention that that which acts as an erotic cannot be any stretch of the imagination be called filthy in the sense that it corrupts those with whom it comes in contact. How long are Bostonians going to put up with this insult to their intelligence and characters by the City Censors?

Harvard Organizes H. S. I. D.

The Harvard Society For Industrial Democracy is bringing to the Harvard campus principal speakers of various social outlooks to discuss, and to stimulate discussion of problems of modern industrial society.

The Society feels that the expression of ideas by persons of all political faiths is necessary to the formation of an informed and healthy campus opinion on contemporary affairs.

The Harvard Society for Industrial Democracy is a new Harvard student organization started during the fall term and recently recognized by the University. Loosely affiliated with the League for Industrial Democracy, the Society maintains its autonomy and is not bound by policy decisions of LID national headquarters.

The purpose of the Society is to disseminate educational, based on the belief that the rapid industrialization of the world has created problems which can only be solved in a democratic manner through research, discussion, and education.

It is hoped that groups similar to the HSID will be organized in other campuses in the vicinity of Boston, so that a program of intercollegiate cooperation in the study of present day problems may be started in this area. Further information about the Harvard Society for Industrial Democracy may be obtained from its president, Thomas Brooks '50, Halloworth 18, Mass., Cambridge 38, Mass.

The Bookstore Dilemma

By AL LINER

Not too long ago a line and cry crowded the air; the atmosphere was really charged.

"Holy smoke! What's wrong with that darn bookstore? How to wait in line for hours to get near the place. Never have the books you want. Why don't they get some more help in there? Mean—mean—growl!" The din was terrific.

Call From Moscow

But, things have quieted down for awhile. Choice rumors that accused the bookstore of taking his orders from Moscow, and claims that the fellows working there were destitute sailors peddling their own texts were easily disproved. Now, let's thrille some of these complaints.

Distribution More Efficient

Sure there were long waiting lines. When a hundred students suddenly stampede into the rec hall, it stands to reason that it will take some time to accommodate them. During the rush hours, 12 P.M. to 2 P.M., there was always a capacity staff to serve you, as large as the physical confines of the store would allow. The distribution setup was greatly improved, we all saw that. It was well-organized, efficiently handled, and twice as fast as last semester. None of us enjoyed hanging around; it's an old story. Well, the ordeal is over now, so take a deep breath and relax.

You know, the fellows who really have the brunt of this campaign to "eliminate the waitlines" were those who filled out your order slips and those who tracked down your books. They're a busy bunch, the old job men of the school. Studying and lunch are two things they usually have little time for.

By the way — these books that were shipped in late. It so happens that the University ordered them many months in advance; however, the publishers just could not meet the overflow demands. The situation was unavoidable, and there is probably not a college in the country that is not facing the same problem.

Another point! A fault which the students themselves can alleviate in a book-rush week is that of poor time distribution. In other words, why not go down for your texts during an off-hour, at a time that isn't so popular with the rest of the folks? It's worth a try.

Still, it is quite evident that this can be only a temporary solution. The system was not practical enough to serve the entire University with the greatest efficiency. The dissatisfaction of the student body was ample indication that more radical changes should be introduced.

And now, for studying this, thank you and goodbye.

HEADING UP THE STAGE

If you are interested in gay comedy filled with shimmering epigrams, covering almost uninitiated actors and writers, then THE ANIMAL KINGDOM, now in rehearsal by the Dramatic Workshop, should certainly be on your must list. Rehearsals indicate perfect casting in that the participants appear to have a particular flair for the shattering remark type of humor found in Philip Barry's plays.

The cast includes Joan Stevenson, as Franck Schmidt; Everett Anderson, as Joe Fink; Dorothy Bromada, as Daisy Sage; Norma Mallie, as Cecelia Henry; Herbert Kligerman, as Richard Bogani; Ben Oront, as Tom Collier; Sam Cinnamon, as Rufus Collier; James Rowan as Owen; and Ray Bernstein as Grace Moschler.

The plot is light and centers about society's attitudes toward love. The main characters are involved in the battle of "free living," vs "stuffy parlor amur," but as in all comedies, the humor is the staff. We assure you THE ANIMAL KINGDOM has its share of humor and wit.

The Dramatic Workshop believes that THE ANIMAL KINGDOM is more than a school production. Reviews of their last effort, ROSSERSHOLM, admitted them among the leading amateur groups in Boston. The forthcoming production than may well serve the students of Suffolk University with an opportunity to introduce their friends and parents to the University with pride.

Plan now to make this your evening at Suffolk with your friends and family.

Creative Writing Club
The second meeting of the Creative Writing club on Tuesday evening, February 29, was highlighted by the presence of several guests who have announced intentions of becoming members of the organization. In addition to regular members, Mr. Thomas Savage and Mr. Fred Bloomhard of the faculty, Harry Chouhain and Ralph Moray of the student body attended.

Members reading manuscripts for discussion and criticism were Robert Goshorn, prose; Arthur Chouhain, poetry; Duncan Ryan, prose; and Charles Leonard, prose. The following were scheduled to read at the next meeting on March 6: Edward Stone, Samuel Cinnamon, Nancy Ottis, Ronald MacAuliffe, Harry Chouhain, and William Marrett.

Debating Club
An intercollegiate debate was held in Suffolk University auditorium in the afternoon of February 19, 1947, between representatives of Suffolk University for the Affirmative, and Temple University for the Negative. R. H. Tabor acted as chairman for the occasion.

The proposition under discussion was, "Resolved, that labor should be given a direct share in management of industry." No decision was rendered. After the main speeches, there was a related period for the affirmative were Israel Masterson and Ralph Moray. Frank Seaton and Alfred Magon of Temple University supported the negative.

On March 26, 1947, at 6:30 P.M. in the university auditorium, we are presenting an intercollegiate debate between Worcester State Teachers College? Suffolk will support the affirmative, and Worcester State Teachers will argue the negative.

All students are urged to attend.

Philosophy Club

The inspiration for "The Suffolk University Philosophy Club" emanated from the Humanities class of Mr. William Sabahany. It was a spontaneous movement, coordinated certainly by Mr. Sabahany's interesting lectures.

The purpose of the Club is to stimulate philosophic discussion about ideas. Meetings are held every Monday afternoon in Room 711 at 12:30. Any student interested in Philosophy and willing to take part in club activities is invited to attend.

At present the Club is discussing reality. These discussions on reality are to continue, culminating in a lecture from one of our foremost American philosophers.

The officers of the club for the next semester are as follows: Homer J. Sage, President, Joseph R. McTee, Vice-President, John W. Stewart, Secretary, and William H. Robinson, Treasurer.

Profile of An Educator

By JOSEPH LAVASH

This month we spot light the "Skipper" of Suffolk U., our most homelike bean-ot. With a background such as he has had, I consider myself privileged to be guided to him.

He was born in Petersburg, small but historic town in Blount County, Georgia, the youngest of that town, having a grandfather who was a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln. In fact the greater part of his early life was connected with history in one way or another, as we can understand his interest in it in later years.

To continue his historic career he went to Knox College, the scene of one of the famous Lincoln-Buchanan debates. While there he wrote an honor thesis in his history, and it was later published by the Historical Society, talks while in high school he had two of his writings published. He received his B.A. degree with honors there, and then came to Mass. to enter Harvard.

In 1922 he received his M.A. degree, and two years later took his Ph.D. examinations. Immediately upon graduation, he went to work on "historical research" for Harvard and Radcliffe. During the summer months at Harvard he was acting Dean of Men.

He came to Suffolk in 1929 as a history teacher, and the following year became assistant professor of history.

His hobby is music, "Not particularly," he said, "Just listening." So when he came here he brought to Suffolk a music club. The type of music he is fond of is operatic, and he has a collection of 275 albums.

When war came, he made a nine month attempt to become an officer in the navy, but was rejected for physical reasons. A short time later he received a letter from his friends and neighbors, requesting him to take a vacation in the expense of the government.

The first winter of his army career was spent at Miami, Florida, and in the spring he went to Chamble Field, Ill, right near his home, which he said was pleasant.

Public Interest Must Be Stimulated

3rd World War Can Be Avoided

By C. K. AVERY

The twenty-fifth School of International Relations conducted by the Massachusetts League of Women Voters with the cooperation of Radcliffe College on Monday, January 20, was attended by several members of the Suffolk International Relations Club.

John B. Hutson, assistant secretary-general for the United Nations Organization, was first speaker on the topic "The United States ship, armaments, and Marines. With the removal of public interest as a prerequisite of public support. Only with the support and interests of all the peoples of the world will the U.N.O. succeed in saving future generations from the scourge of war.

Hutson outlined the six principal organs of the United Nations which will be the machinery for maintaining and building a peaceful and progressive world order.

Far East included Among the speakers discussing "China Among the Powers" was Raymond Denett, Director, World Peace Foundation. Mr. Denett prophesied that the Far East would be the meeting place of friction for the United States and the Soviet Union. China has tended to come between the powers rather than actually asserting itself as a power. Michael Lindsay, visiting lecturer, spoke on "Development of the Chinese Communist Party" and traced the action of the party from its formation and early underground movement to its practical reform of the Historical Society, talks while in high school he had two of his writings published. He received his B.A. degree with honors there, and then came to Mass. to enter Harvard.

In 1922 he received his M.A. degree, and two years later took his Ph.D. examinations. Immediately upon graduation, he went to work on "historical research" for Harvard and Radcliffe. During the summer months at Harvard he was acting Dean of Men.

His hobby is music, "Not particularly," he said, "Just listening." So when he came here he brought to Suffolk a music club. The type of music he is fond of is operatic, and he has a collection of 275 albums.

Such a policy has been prevented in the past by the presence of United States ships, armaments, and Marines. With the removal of public interest as a prerequisite of public support. Only with the support and interests of all the peoples of the world will the U.N.O. succeed in saving future generations from the scourge of war.

More on Russia Professor John Somerville, Professor of Philosophy at Hunter College lectured on the question "How Can the United States and Russia Live Together in One World?" In the field of international relations, Professor Somerville maintains that we should drop the double-standard policy and attempt as all other nations should, to achieve a higher standard of international relations. We should give the American people the same coverage of Russia in regard to history, art, literature, and the sciences, as we give to the German, French, and English. Dr. Somerville is of the opinion that the only nation which has respect for human beings without distinction as to race, sex or language, is Russia. Cultural and educational cooperation must be fostered to understand Russia and its policies.

The editorials must be given to books, newspapers, printed and visual materials, broadcasts and lectures rather than to acquire ourselves with Russia and secure the freedom of individuals within the bounds of truth, accuracy, and tolerance. It was stressed that unless men's minds are coordinated, they cannot cooperate either politically, socially, or economically with lasting success. Cultural cooperation involves the entire substance of people's ways of feeling, thinking, and living.

Luoi Faiella, S. U.'s student director of basketball has been active in many Suffolk sport activities. These include hockey, basketball, baseball and soccer.

In addition to sports activities, Luoi has shown his school spirit by helping at the Pre-Thanksgiving Day dance and he is now working with the social committee to help promote the Suffolk University Athletic Dance which is to be held on March 21.

Before coming to S. U., Luoi attended Quincy High School where he was active in football and basketball. On leaving high school, Luoi entered the Coast Guard and saw duty on a transport, coast guard cutter, and patrol frigate.

In March of 1945 Luoi married Miss Frances Wronski, a former Power's model from New Jersey. At present, Faiella is a prelegal student intending to enter law school next semester where he may later specialize in Admiralty law.

IN THERE PITCHIN' SPORTS SLANTS

With MEL ADELSON
Sports Editor

The Suffolk University hockey squad has definitely come a long way since October when the first call was out. Coached by Tom Moon, the royal exact has steadily improved in each game and can now hold its own with any outfit from a college of Suffolk's size, along with some snappy semi-pro teams. The squad consists entirely of veterans, some of whom did not play hockey in high school.

Ken Nemel put in a lot of time last summer helping teammates O'Neill and Ross get things organized for a hockey team. The other fellow who will someday transport a position in scoring first line skates "Red" Downey at left wing. "Red" played for Natick and from the show he displays for Suffolk, we can say that he must have been a great help to them in the Eastern Mass. Hockey League. Co-captain Fred MacDonald controls this line and very ably at that. Fred was an opponent of Downey, when he started for Brookline High and was chosen on the Eastern Mass. All-Stars. The right wing position is tightly secured to Bill Burrows, the former Needham High ace.

In the second and just as spunky line, Coach Moon places Neil Cronin at left wing. Neil never played for his high school, but not because of lack of talent. Neil handles a puck a though it was his trained dog. The rubber disc does anything he wants it to do. The diminutive Danny Gangelmi is the pivot man. Danny never a star while playing for Boston English, seems to be like a good horse. He gets better as he gets older. Dave Perkins is the fellow that dives down the right lane. He was a big facter for Arlington, and when he came out of the service, he went to a place called Dartmouth where he was a member of their strong front team.

The third line is none the less effective with the smooth skating Bill Brown on the left wing. Brown's center is Bob Johnson, and the boys should be familiar with "each other's style since they were at standouts together at Melrose. Around The Hoop Suffolk Royals Outskate Fitchburg Club 7-6

By DONALD HARRINGTON

The Suffolk University quintet trounced the New England School of accounting for the second time this year, this time by the score of 54-41. The game easily displayed the best basketball both teams have produced this year. In the first half, the lead changed hands five times, with Suffolk finally leading 27-21, when the half time whistle blew. The Royals were playing an exceptionally good passing game. Frank Goldman, a cheer game captain, was a demon of defense. Probably the main reason for Suffolk looking so well was the inspiring play of Bob Steadman at center. The blond-headed six-footer just recently joined the squad and it didn't take him long to prove his worth. Bob has plenty of spring and he plays with great accuracy.

The Accountants caught on to the Royals' offense and in the third period, neither team did much scoring. The play was just the opposite in the last period with both teams playing a wide open game. Donny McAvaney showed plenty of speed and his side shots were baffling the opposition. In an effort to freeze the ball, Coach Law was forced to have two men cover the Accountants' star player-coach, Joe Mahoney. They played the big boy a little too close because he converted eight foul shots, along with the seven baskets he had made.

This writer can't think of any one he'd rather see guarding the Royals' goal than Jack O'Neill. His reflexes are extremely fast and he can do anything he wants to do. For some odd reason, Jack never attempted hockey while in high school. Besides being a star never attempted hockey while in high school, O'Neill deserves a special mention for his untiring efforts in organizing sports at the Burns Street Palace.

The "Who's Who" would not list him on the left wing, complete without mention of two gentlemen who serve as an inspiration for the team. A large lot of gratitude should go to standouts together at Melrose. Faculty Adviser Mr. Donald. He is present at all the practices and has more spirit than the whole staff with the exception of Mr. Fittell. The very hard working student manager, Mel Louison is also entitled to a big "V."

Having been shut-handed on the Saturday afternoon trip to Springfield, the Royal Blue and Gold Quintet led a cheerleader to the Junior Varsity of American International College. Although Suffolk was playing the inferior squad of the College, the game was a crowd-pleaser, for plenty of close calls were registered by both sides. At the 40-35 score indicator, A. I. C. was the victor in a thriller.

Hedge a Saboteur to S. U. The play in the first half was completely dominated by A. I. C. But as the team showed spirit, the international had the accuracy to go with it. Suffolk threw the ball away at . . . The half time score showed the Royals trailing badly, 9-22.

The tables turned in the second half, however, for Suffolk was fighting. The boys were controlling their passes and were following through on their shots. Frank Goldman, who played the whole game, was setting up the ball well while Art Foster and Stu Hulmes scored 2 baskets each. Both Ed Nelsons also had to play the whole

Royals Break Away To Thrilling Finish

On Wednesday night, Feb. 6th, at 8 P.M., the Suffolk Royals played their best hockey of the season when they defeated the Fitchburg Club 7-6 at Fitchburg, Mass. The game had a story-book finish. Fitchburg's semi-pro team at one time during the game had a 6-1 lead and not even the most optimistic Suffolk roster believed the Blue and Gold could win.

In Period 1, Fitchburg scored the first goal after 4:05 of play. Robertson beating Jack O'Neill on a pass from Dede; at the 5 minute mark Robertson again countered this time on a neat pass from Bennett. Finally after 8:05 Dave Perkins drove one home assisted by Jack Sweeney. Ed LeBlanc made it 3-1 for Fitchburg at 12:15 to close scoring for the period.

In exactly four minutes flat Ed LeBlanc received a pass from Hood and the score seemed to be Suffolk. Fan's spirits sunk to their lowest when Bill LeBlanc tallied in 9:55. Trailing by four goals, the Royals went to work. After some scrimmaging around the Fitchburg net, Danny Gangelmi worked himself directly in front of the goal and taking a perfect pass from co-winger Perkins, drilled the puck beyond the start-line goal. This goal occurred at 10:55. At 15:05 the Royals made it 2-5 as Bill Burrows scored from 18 feet out in a pass from "Red" Downey.

In Period 2, John Di Mase got Suffolk's fourth goal on a tricky pass-out from Danny Gangelmi at 5:05; and at 7:45 Bill Burrows tied up the game when he registered on some beautiful checker-lead passing from teammates "Red" Downey and Fred MacDonald. Fitchburg again took the lead in 9:35. Bill LeBlanc scoring, assisted by St. Martin. Immediately the Fitchburg club played defensive hockey in order to protect their slim one-goal lead. Things looked bad for the Royals, but at 17:48 after continually hounding the Fitchburg aggression in their own zone, Fred MacDonald took a pass from defenseman Bob Collins and fired a bullet-like shot into the lower right hand corner of the net. Fitchburg was a voodoo-looking club and it appeared they were now playing for a tie, but Suffolk had other ideas. At 19:30 with exactly one second of play remaining, Danny Gangelmi became the man of the hour when he fired a loose puck from about 6 feet out past the amazed goalie!

Ice Shavings Jack O'Neill had his usual busy night in the nets, having a total of 27 saves. Malley, the opposing goalie, had only 18 stops. The gentlemen Bob Collins, Al Ross, Jim Doherty, and Sweeney handed out plenty of stiff body-checks and played effectively. As in the Univ. of New Hampshire game, a large crowd turned out to watch the game in spite of the cold weather. Coach Tom Moon has really brought the Suffolk Royals a long way since the start of the season. Tom was the happiest man in the dressing-room after the game, with the possible exception of Danny Gangelmi who scored the winning marker. Danny had quite a night for himself, scoring two goals and assisting in another.

game because of the lack of sufficient substitutes. This sudden change of more put the Springfield ball off key. During the waning minutes, Suffolk was threatening. The game became wide open, with both teams shooting for the winning markers. The subtle advantage is held enabled A. I. C. to defeat the Bostonians.

Next Capital Center. Even though Coach Law was using some seconulating men, his visiting team looked like a decent ball club, but their opponents were looking just as well. The Royals deserve a great deal of credit for their exhibition in Springfield despite their loss to the International. This game at least proved that if Suffolk had a capable center, many more games would have been won. The usually clumsy Mike Hovestjan played a fine bucket game in the second half, which helped his team to come close to the Jaycees.
