S. U. Debating Team Argues To Victory Over Tufts

Schedule to be Completed

By NANCY OTIS

A group of students interested in debate and in achieving confidence while speaking before an audience, convened at the beginning of the year to form the debating society. Although called a society, it is less a society and more a team. The purpose of the organization is to compete successfully in inter-collegiate debating.

Student-veterans desire a strong representative position in their school, social and political activities. The S. U. Chapter has organized such a representative body to represent the students, veterans and non-veterans, and the results are already proving the value of the effort put into their being.

The club got under way with the selection of a faculty advisor and the election of officers. Mr. George F. Moore, of the History Department, an able and experienced debater, was appointed faculty advisor, but due to the pressure of collegiate work, Mr. Moore recently has left the Society. While extending to Mr. Moore a deserving "Well Done" and our sincere thanks, at the same time we welcome our new "coach" Dr. Hanning to carry on the good work. The officers elected were: Robert H. Tobin, President; and John Stewart, Vice-President.

"Resolved: That labor should be given a direct share in the management of industry," the inter-collegiate debating topic of the year chosen by representatives of the colleges and universities throughout the nation, was debated and discussed during the meeting of the Club in preparation for the debating season which is now in full activity.

Non-Decision

Before an appreciative and responsive audience in the Suffolk Auditorium, February 10, at 8:00 P. M. Suffolk University opened its season by competing in a non-decision debate with Temple University of Philadelphia. One of our team, Ed Masterson and Philip Murray, expertly defended the affirmative side of the question against the forensic onslaught of an able Temple team consisting of

Student Council Elects Officers

Laurence Rand, popular member of the Junior class in the College of Liberal Arts, was elected president of the Student Council by unanimous vote at a meeting of March 3. Chosen for the vice-presidency was George Kelly, Freshman sophomore, active in the Student Council, and in the Student Council, and in the Student Council.

Secretary for the Council is Joyce Lande, freshman in the College of Journalism. Miss Lande is also secretary of the Social club and a member of the Dramatic Workshop, the Suffolk Publicity committee, and the JOURNAL staff. Richard Carson was elected treasurer. Carson, who is a Freshman in the College of Business Administration, is prominent in Dramatic Workshop activities.

Immediately assuming his duties as president, Rand appointed a committee for the Formation of By-Laws, naming the following councilors: Nancy D'Amico, chairman; Susan Gilman, and Richard Carson. The resignation of Richard Lamb, Pre-legal representative for the Evening Division was accepted. Replacement will be made at the next meeting of the council.

Women Vets to Draw Subsistence

Married women veterans with children may receive $30 a month subsistence allowance while attending school even though they are recognized as dependents under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act (G. I. Bill). Veterans' Administration ruled.

The decision was based on a case involving a husband and wife, both veterans, with one child. It stated that the maximum of $30 per month subsistence allowance would be paid only if the woman's

SUFFOLK SKATERS STRONG FINISHERS

Pucksters Looking Forward to '47 Battles

By MEL ADELSON

The first Suffolk University Hockey Squad, coached by Tom Moon, aided and abetted by Mr. Pond and Mel Loison, displayed some late season hockey that made their followers stop in amazement. This season, which was only allowed an hour a week to work together, proved by their record that they were eager for action. They also prevented a problem for their coach's imagination as to what they could do next year if their school would give them a chance to get more practice, as a team, at more reasonable hours and if he (Coach Moon) was asked to devote more time with them. If such an arrangement could be made, Suffolk's opponents would be the only ones sorry about it.

S. U. Wants In

The Royals wound up the season with four wins, four defeats, and one deadlock in nine starts. They split two games with the Tufts Varsity, which is a member of the New England Intercollegiate Hockey League. Suffolk is trying to prove themselves worthy of membership in that league. In a three game series with the very highly-touted Fitchburg Hockey Club the Devils St. Vets defeated the French skaters once on Fitchburg ice. The next time out, Fitchburg got revenge, while the roller match ended in a 3-3 knot. This same Fitchburg Club holds a couple of victories over the New England Hockey Club, competitors of the Devils St. Vets.

Although he came to Suffolk late in the year, Dave Perkins was the season's high scorer with 17 points. The Dartmouth transfer also netted the most goals, eight in number. Dismittive Danny Gagnier, a line-mate of Perkins, was right behind with 11 points, but Red holds the title of Suffolk's Best Boy, having been thumped off the ice five times this year. On

Ver Students in Full-time Jobs Entitled to Gov't. Aid

Veterans in full-time employment, and also attending school under the G. I. Bill, are entitled to subsistence allowance from the Veterans' Administration if they satisfy necessary requirements of the VA, according to John L. Pickett, acting chief of the vocational rehabilitation and education division, Boston VA Regional Office.

Believing many employed veterans attending school on a part-time basis are unaware that they are entitled to VA subsistence allowance, Pickett urged these veterans to investigate their subsistence entitlements at their nearest VA office.

He pointed out that veteran in full-time employment who are entitled to part-time subsistence must receive less than $175 per month, if they have no dependents, or less than $200 per month, if they have dependents, from their regular employment. At the same time they must attend a school of collegiate level for at least two the other hand, Neil Cronin, another "Lampighter," played energetically in all nine games without any misadventures. Co-Capt. Fred MacDonald, although hampered by illness during the season, managed to cop eight points, while doing plenty of two-way playing on his line. John DiMasi was the high scorer on the third line with six goals and an assist without getting into trouble. The line which did the most scoring consisted of Perkins and Cronin at the wings with Gagnier pivoting, whose totals combined, produced eight goals, almost half of Suffolk's total goals for the season. Co-Capt. Al Bass was the season's Royal defenseman with three Goals Jack O'Neill played 60 minutes in all nine games to make 150 saves while being beaten only 23 times. Breaking this down, Jack and his defencemen were scored against a little less than four shots in each game, which is good work against any kind of competition.

CLUB VITALITY NEEDED

Since June of '46 we have witnessed an unparalleled enrichment of extra-curricular activities. Perhaps the establishment of the Journal has played some part in the development of these activities. The Journal has in turn benefited from this development. The loss of us who are the Journal staff must necessarily look to other activities for much of our live news.

The Suffolk cannot continue without help from other student activities. The clubs cannot be dormant, for if they are, the Journal will be dormant.

We must say that Suffolk is a club and not an organization.

clubs must give forth its vitality and new ideas must be born continuously.

The time is at hand when the Journal must take its place in the intercollegiate newspaper world. Our probationary period is nearly ended. There are hundreds of excellent journals in that larger world. Most of them are well planned and edited. The cultural standards of each university are reflected in the publications of that university. We too have our cultural standards, and we are morally obligated to our university to maintain them.

However, we must have cooperation from every active and student in the university. Our publication reflects the standards of our university, but in turn, the students reflect the standards of this publication. Our news is received from you. Without you we are lost. All who aspire to the honor of representing this university should recognize first that they are morally obligated to elevate themselves to the cultural standards of this great institution. They must resolve to be loyal at all times to a transcendent trust, the faith reposed in its spokesmen by this cultural fellowship.

THE VOICE AGAINST FACTIONALISM

It is with deep regret to receive word that some students want to foster restricted organizations here at Suffolk University. Surely, these students have not given enough thought to the possible results that will follow such a plan.

School spirit is far from being at a normal level. With the formation of such organizations many students will be segregated. Suffolk University is not large enough to include organizations which will exclude a great number of its students from participating.

There are hundreds of clubs outside of Suffolk University which any student can join if they wish. Why start such an activity here?

At least nine clubs plus the sports program are included in Suffolk University's program. These clubs are crying for members, and for clubs before from each and every student. Why not help up these clubs before we attempt to create others, especially those which will exclude many students from joining?

Such groups are detrimental to the small student body that exist at this university!

Our purpose should be to encourage friendly relationships between the students rather than to establish barriers because of racial, economic, political, or religious standpoints.

If such an organization is allowed to be formed, then others will follow until there is nothing left but conflict and isolation between the entire student body.

It is the duty of every student in this university to block this plan of isolation. We must not allow this form of sectarianism to engraft the very cornerstone of our democratic principles!

Modern Jeremiah

SAMUEL B. CINAMON

To all those who have sent us letters, agreeing or not (thank you the latter) with this writer's column in the previous issue of the Journal, our heartfelt thanks. We shall continue to write that which we believe and our answer to those who feel that the opinions of a mere student are worthless is "talk talk."

"Why the vitriol?" The answer is simple. We have just finished reading Mr. Philip Wylie's latest book. His previous volumes have established him as a relentless critic of American manners, morals and mistakes. Mr. Wylie is the man who castigated our poor defenseless mothers with his "Mommies" in the book GENERAL TION OF VIPERS. If you have never read that volume, do so. It is worth the time and the effort.

Mr. Wylie's latest book is called AN ESSAY ON MORALS and it is only people that can be compared to him are the prophets of the OLD TESTAMENT and they were never so wrong. When he lets loose a blast at anything, whether it be sexual ignorance or the potent symbols of heroism, duty, and the God-likeness, the object of his fire receives quite a pounding. It really does not matter whether one agrees with him or not, the ESSAY is, in this writer's opinion, a volume that everyone should read. It is a book that deserves serious consideration, especially from the men and women in college today who will lead the future.

As a "whipmaster, Mr. Wylie is tremendous; prudes and tyrants tremble when he unleashes his "average blackbans."

The ESSAY is not so good as some have said. It is a book that is unimportant because Wylie at his worse is still one of the better authors of the day. We have read that the third deadly sin is anger and he is often guilty of that sin, but it is a guilt with which in his case no fault can be found for he is angry at the ignorance and lack of thought of the mass of the people.

WOMEN

 outside income from productive work did not exceed $100 per month.

The woman claimed the child is dependent for the purpose of the subsistence even though her husband was in training under the same law and was receiving a subsistence allowance of $80 a month because he had a dependent wife.

Under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act, an eligible veteran is entitled to a subsistence of $65 a month if he or she has no dependents, or $90 if there are one or more dependents, provided he or her income from productive work does not exceed $100 a month.

The question whether the woman veteran in the case was entitled to $90 subsistence allowance because of the child was considered in the light of previous opinions and decisions covering the recognition of a child as the dependent of a woman veteran.

It was concluded that while the woman veteran would be limited to $65 monthly if only she and her husband were considered, the child entitled her to an allowance of $90 monthly because, in the words of the law, she has a dependent.

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor:

Many questions have been asked about our hockey team and its members. As you already know, the majority of our games and all of our practices have been held very early in the morning. Many students have asked me, "Why so early?" "Who shows up?" "Are we all crazy?"

I hope the following will clear up the puzzling circumstances. Last summer a number of us wanted to organize a hockey squad at Suffolk. It meant that the University would be set back in the financial end, but we promised that the turnout would be more than satisfactory for this activity.

Now that the first and most trying season is practically history, we can truthfully say that this hockey team has more than lived up to its agreement. We have attendance of at least 20 students at each meeting on the ice.

Our record is more than impressive for a first year club, since we have reached a point where we are being considered for a position in the New England Intercollegiate Hockey League. A random of the fellows concerned with this squad shows that they appreciate the chance they were given by our losses in the front office.

We have a manager who comes all the way from Taunton into Allston in time for a 6:00 A. M. gathering. Our loyal faculty advisor never misses a chance to patch us workout and he brings coffee a long with his cheerful personality. Suffolk hired a coach who never lets up in his work. Tom Moon has to get up with the dawn in Lexington to deliver his lessons.

We have players coming from Dedham, Mattapan, Weymouth, South Boston, and Dorchester. Some have of Richfield and others spend their government checks on cab fares. The two fellows who keep the student body up to date on our doings by means of the Journal have practically frozen from the sub-zero weather at Durham, New Hampshire, and Fitzburg when we played there.

All of which goes to prove that this type of spirit and a sacrifice made our team what it is. No one complained because everyone realized that these sacrifices had to be made so that a hockey team represent Suffolk University for years to come. We were compensated by the administrators who announced that a schedule was being drawn up whereby it will be possible for everyone to appreciate the advances made since our first attempt.

For all this, I wish to express thanks of the S. U. Hockey Squad and to promise that we'll never forget the chance we were given: Albert Bonn, Co-Captain of the S. U. Hockey Team.

TO THE EDITOR:

There are probably many students at Suffolk who are interested and would like to participate in dramatic but who nevertheless feel that they do not have the specific dramatic talent required. But I must tell you that acting ability is only one of several types of ability for which we regularly have need. For example, at the present time, there are opportunities for a few people who know how to work with their hands as well as their heads.

It is possible to contribute to play production at Suffolk and the same time to learn the useful and fascinating arts of scenic design and construction, properties, lighting, etc. In addition to this, one is privileged to experience:

- 1) the smel of grease paint and burning electricity.
  - 2) the thrill of first nights.
  - 3) the satisfaction that comes from having shared in a cooperative endeavor well done (for which feeling there is no known substitute).
  - 4) Social activities of the dramatic club.
- I am sure you will agree with me that more people should know about this.
- Donald Hanson

AROUND BOSTON STAGES

By LARRY QUIRK

Hunt Stromberg, Jr. and Paula Stone have finally brought their Miss Office Woman, "The Fool Mill" to Boston where it is packing 'em in at the shubert. From all indications, this popular revival of the famous Victor Herbert musical comedy will enjoy as long a run here as the producer has planned. As far as advertising is concerned, Mr. Stromberg and Paula Stone are well ahead of the production rest on its previous laurels, garnered in a two-year Broadway run and accounting for an exempt themselves from the usual frantic scurrying for patronage. The show, on its reputation alone, is guaranteed a prosperous Boston sojourn.

Do you realize the implications of the United States position in Greek affairs? If we send support, who exactly will benefit from this aid? Does this support indicate ultimate complete control of Greece by the United States?

The IRC is intent upon finding the answers to these questions through qualified experts.

The IRC wishes to thank the student body at large, for its limited support of the formal forums that the IRC has sponsored in the past. Unfortunately our lecturers, it appears, have not had the importance attributed to the importance of the subject matter presented. It is apparent however that question-able reputation is a criterion for intelligence and factual knowledge. generalizations are not a basis for formulating pertinent judgments which should be based upon facts.

The IRC will, hereafter, as recently constituted, hold informal forums and round table discussions.

The world is in troubled times; you and I are directly affected. It is imperative that we obtain the truth of situations and conditions that lead to war. If you are content to carry a gun every generation, sink into reveries and prayers; do not attend our lectures and discussions. All others are invited.

Italian Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Italian Club was held on March 3, 1947 in Hall 4B. At this meeting twenty-two new members were enrolled in the club as a result of a week's New Membership Drive staged by members of the club. President John J. Vranichelli extended a welcome to the new members. Listed among the new members are two members of Suffolk's faculty: Axel Duan D. F. Fiorello and Arthur P. Metastasio. A committee was appointed to secure a speaker for the next

The Suffolk team had a busy day since it met the affirmative team in an inter-club debate before Mr. Kerswin's Public Speaking class in the morning before leaving for Worcester.

The Suffolk boys, Stewart and R. Tobin, were able to gain invaluable experience in Worcester not only from the Clark debate, in which capsule and participated but more so from Holy Cross.

Holy Cross presented two exceptionally able speakers, Edward Harrington and Richard Baillenberg, who have been underdogs this year, having won the Worcester Debating Tournament. Mr. Carroll spotted the Suffolk team by announcing after the debate that their arguments were the most formidable he has heard for the negative. He also stated that he would "make an impartial judgment as to the merits of the case" and "point to Holy Cross for presentation and one to Suffolk for argument."

Tate Debate

The highlight of the season will now be the Suffolk-Tate contest at Medford. Friday the 10th of February, a heated debate at Suffolk defended the affirmative side of the inter-collegiate question, represented by Hesterman and Murray, who carried away the decision by three-point presentation arguments and elaboration of argument, giving the club its first victory of the debating season.

The club hopes to make more of the contests decision phases, but the general trend is to have the matches non-decisive for two reasons: 1. So that the issues can be presented more clearly to the audience with the elimination of merely accumulating points for victory; and 2. Since judges are holding greater numbers of debates, it becomes increasingly harder to obtain impartial judges.

Profile of An Educator

By JOSEPH LAVASHI

This time we present Charles G. Berns, lawyer, and teacher of commercial law here at Suffolk University.

He was born in Passaic, New Jersey in 1912. Upon completion of high school he entered Pennsylvania and there received his A. B. degree. His next stop was Columbia University, here adding an M. A. to his growing collection.

From 1932 to 1941 he taught at various schools throughout New York State, and in 1941 went to work in Washington, D. C. as an economist in the "Hecht" Department.

In February of 1942 he entered the service of the government as "Industrial Analyst" in charge of administration of certain portions of a program effecting the domestic production of pulp and paper products.

A year and a half later finds him on the staff of "Disputes and Differences" of the National War Labor Board. While serving in this capacity, he handled many disputes throughout the nation.

In October of 1945, he left the service of the government to engage in private practice as a consultant in labor relations and labor law. (As a member of the bar in Washington, D. C., he practiced in these fields prior to his coming to Boston.)

Mr. Berns is also a member of the "National Panel of Labor Arbitrators" of the American Arbitration Association, and a member of the Boston Bar Association.

During this eventful career, he has written a play which has been accepted for professional production. Truly an accomplishment in itself. Added to this, Mr. Berns has raised a family, two girls and a boy who's had added richness to his year-full life.

He came here to Suffolk University in September of 1946, as teacher of commercial law. Plus his duties here, he is Professor of Labor Law at Paria Law School.

And in addition to this, he is a member of the faculty of the evening school of Business Administration at Northeastern! He is an man who would be happy to see the "25 hour day!"

Mr. Berns has a remarkable record, and if the past is an indication of the future, he has much to look forward to in his chosen field of endeavor.

Norman Thomas Pleads For World Peace

By C. K. AVERY

In the biggest turnout of any activity currently held at S. U. over 20 students crowded into Room 12 on March 2nd to hear the old-timer Socialist Norman Thomas speak on Socialism and the Social at Party. Mr. Thomas prepared for an intimate speech before what he thought would be a small group of Philosophy Club members.

The job is to subordinate the Philosophy Club members to hear a free man speak in a free time. According to Norman Thomas we can prepare for another depression and a third world-war. When this would all happen was not mentioned, but one can be assured that the world's immediate weak financial status and present moral unpreparedness will surely delay any drastic move for the worse.

"Humanity," said Mr. Thomas, cannot afford another war. "Disillusionment under UN control can prevent further conflict."

Must Be Prepared
It is up to the youth of America to put our economic house in order and do something about unemployment. Properly thus far has been a legacy of war in which a depression inevitably followed. If the next depression comes, Mr. Thomas believes that it will be so permanent and devastating that all hope of freedom will be lost to dictatorial groups ruling as did the totalitarian Hitler and Mussolini.

Mr. Thomas felt that America should have (1) an overall and

A HILARIOUS COMEDY

IN THERE PITCHIN' SPORTS SLANTS
With MEL ADELSON
Sports Editor

Ever since Baron Hugo announced that he was donating to the victor in a series of games between Suffolk University and Coadlege College, there has been a great dilemma between institutions.

Apparently the trophy goes to the team who wins the majority of sports contests each year. The series was to have consisted of two games each in hockey, basketball, and baseball. Suffolk won both hockey games, that were played 6:1 and 6:3. In basketball, three games were scheduled in which Suffolk took two, winning 64:53 and 56:47 while losing once 37:50. The Coadlege officials seem to think we, here at S. U. care only to play them so they want three games in each sport.

Suffolk Far Ahead
After much deliberation, it was decided that Coadlege will be out of luck. The trophy and basket a forfeit game from hockey, that the trophy will continue to be won by the third game which won't be played. However, it only for the relation ship with the Portia Law "Kiddies" to exist, the schedule will include only two games in each sport from now on. As things stand now, upon Tipton Pde.

Coach Charlie Law has called out candidates for the first Suffolk University Baseball Squad. The candidates were arranged for tryouts were handled in orderly fashion so that everything is in readiness for the annual candidates.

All the finest equipment was purchased and Suffolk has a complete schedule of 12 games in the making, including tilts with Assumption College, Clark University, Tufts College, and the Tufts Varsity. Bright Horizon for Suffolk Quintet

If you happen to see a half-dozen fellows running through your hometown clad in shorts and the name "Suffolk" across their chests, there's no need to see an optometrist. These diligent fellows are training for the internationally-known B. A. Marathon on April 19 and at the same time are doing a little advertising for the school which will be their alma mater.

From this little group, only one has ever gone over the 26 mile 385 yard marker. He is John Burge, who was also a standout member of Suffolk's soccer team. John was a 4-time starter and a 4-time finisher. Nick Novak, also from the royal soccer team has shaped very well thus far in training. John Stouling, formerly of Belmont Hill, has been running into form very fast. Although his stamina has been lathering him, Gordon Bourne the distance star from Kings Tech can be counted on to finish the historic route. Two former Boston English trackmen have been training on some dirt along the route. Arnie Brown's lin' accustomed to the long distances as yet but he has been plugging hard and can make it. The other, whose name you have seen on this page has surprised even himself. At first, your writer was not only for the story, but there's no one capable of doing.

It is intended that the fellows will enter in a 10 or 15 mile half-marathon on Marathon Day. There, being no city guidelines regarding cheering we hope to hear quite a few voices hollering for Suffolk University's entries.

In a recent campaign letter published by the S. U. Chapter states: "As college men and women it is quite logical to expect that you have an interest in your own country, State, City, and yourself. No doubt you have found in your dealings with the curricula that the affairs of running our vast program are not easy and require the drive of many people. You sometimes wonder how you will fit into the picture in time to come. Even more important, you wonder about the stability of your existence today. In accordance with the motto, "time and tide wait for no man," the American Veterans Committee Inc. was established to form the nucleus about which the Veterans of World War II could rally and give voice to the ideals for which they had fought and for which their friends had died."

"The S. U. Chapter No. 888 was formed by a small group of your fellow students with the objective of bettering their school and helping its veteran students a voice in the affairs of State and Nation that at this time so largely concerns them. In accordance with any organization in which the principles of democracy are so firmly stressed, it will take a large number of students to accomplish the tasks which we have shouldered. As you can readily see this is a rugged task and our aim for attainment are entirely objective."

At present the S. U. Chapter is in the process of collecting and looking to allocate the critical book shortage.

It isn't a particularly good policy to say "Wait until next year," but with the figures to back the statement up, it could be persuasive. There's no sense in trying to string anybody along, so I'll have to admit that Suffolk University's first Basketball Team wasn't altogether successful.

However, one big concession must be made. This being that the quintet was centered by a capable ball-handler, they actually looked like a team. We might say that this change started with the thrilling game with American International. On that particular day, Coach Law had only a makeshift lineup present but they gave the first signs that the Suffolk boys know how to play basketball. Mike Hoeserjian showed what a difference a good pivot man would make. A few games later, a young giant named Bob Steadman played his first game for Suffolk. From then on, the coach thought he had a different team. The team as a whole scored 770 points in 19 games while their opponents scored 1019 points. Their average score for this season was 41.54 which isn't bad considering the Royals won only while losing 12 games. Naturally, all official statistics this year will serve as a record for all future Suffolk teams to break.

Suffolk's home record was very creditable with 5 wins in 8 starts. The individual scoring honors were topped by Art Foster who averaged 18.7 points in 29 games for an average of 9.84 points per game. Art scored the most field goals with 72 and his 41 foul shots were for his team. Foster's percentage on free throws was not the highest, since Stu Helm sank 10 out of 10 attempts for a high of 100 percent.

The Suffolk quintet's percentage on foul shots for the season was 44.1 percent. Both Dan McAvaney and "Smoo" Block also reached the century mark. The only other basketballer who played in all Suffolk's games was defensive star Frank Goldman. Frank's hustle caused him to commit the most fouls but that is true for any guard who puts in close to 40 minutes every game. Looking back at this basketball season, the writer would nominate the second game with the New England School of Accounting as the best play game of the year. Suffolk won that tilt 64:46, thus setting a couple of records. A score of 66 was the highest Suffolk went all season, while the 14 point margin was the season's largest. With all due respect, the worst game Suffolk played was against the very powerful Assumption College quintet, when the Worcester terrier walloped the Royals 89:30. Another Worcester team went a point higher with 96 tallies having been made by Worcester Jr. College. Bardett College held Suffolk to their smallest score on the Boston Garden court with a meager 21 points.

The writer certainly hopes that no other Suffolk team will have to make as miserable a trip as the infamous journey to Nichols Jr. College in Dudley, Mass. I also know that most S. U. students weren't excited over the hapless' record but an up-and-coming player named Lou Fairla sees a dream that came true when he made this complete season's statistics. Lou's whole-hearted play gained him everybody's respect. In conclusion, I'm going on record as predicting that the Suffolk U. Basketball Team of next year, will definitely be entitled to the last laugh on all its so-called "Bones" of this year — especially if Coach Charlie Law remains at the helm.

Council Committees Chosen S. U. PLAYERS PRESENT Drama Club Scores Hit Council Advocates Plan to Make BENEFIT FOR AMPUTEE With "Animal Kingdom"

Council Advocates Plan to Make S. U. Member of N. S. O.

By NANCY OTIS
At recent meetings of the Student Council, President Laurence Rand announced appointments of chairmen and members of seven committees. Each chairman will have the authority and privilege to call on any council member for advice or assistance and shall have the same authority as the whole council to request the presence of or information from any organization or student.

Committee Heads Named
Chairman of the Veterans' Committee is William Joyce assisted by Ben Perlick. The purpose of this committee is to act as liaison between the Council and the A. V. C. and to take into consideration any veteran problems which may arise. George Karavasiles heads the Social Committee aided by Stanley Borenstein. This committee will act in coordination with the Social Club. On the Athletic Committee which will act as liaison between the various athletic teams and the Council are Mel Louison, Chairman and William Robinson.

Chairman of the Finance Committee is Richard Casanova assisted by Thomas McDonald. This committee will receive budgets from activities, determine appropriations to be made to each and submit its recommendations to the Council for approval. Leading the Activities Committee is Samson Gilman with Mary Nolan as assistant. This committee will act as liaison between the Council and all school activities not otherwise covered by another committee. Nancy Otis was named chairman of the Publicity Committee with Joan Stevenson. The purpose of this committee is to announce to the student body the work accomplished by the Council through the

The Dramatic Workshop presented a benefit performance in Malden on Friday night, May 2, for 11-year-old Glenwood Brann, Jr. The Malden lad, unaware that both his legs have been amputated as a result of his being "burned at the stake" by his playmates in a game of cowboys and Indians is still in the hospital. The whole cast of the original Suffolk Players graciously offered their adaptation for the sole benefit of the brave little Glen.

Professor Neiley to Study Abroad

Robert Grant Neiley, English teacher will study at the University of Geneva this summer and will visit with two brothers who are temporarily living in Switzerland.

Benjamin Endicott, New York, Mr. Neiley prepared at Phillips Exeter Academy and was graduated from Harvard College with the class of 1942, with a degree in Medieval French History.

Pres. Rand to Lower Blinds

Henceforth the male element at Suffolk U. can have its complete set of periodicals, telescopes, magnifying glasses, and radar equipment at hand. Classes will begin on time for no longer will John Jones and his buddies be too embarrassed to peek into the Hill bellies, and dressing activities going on in Temple Street apartments.

At its last meeting at Suffolk Law School, the senior class of 1947 elected its class officers. Those elected were: Pils., Joseph R. O'Keefe, Major of Troop; Vice-Pres., Robert MacGregory; Treas., Benjamin I. Hunkler; Sec., Katharine A. Cavart. Executive Committee: Richard H. Gordon, John J. Dolan, John A. Stankin, Raymond J. White, and Albert Abrahamian. Finance Committee: Raymond J. White, Joseph Stankin and Vice-President B. Perlick. Publicity Director: John A. Stankin.

Plans were made for a senior prom at the Hotel Vendome and for graduation activities. The dance will be formal and will be held in the Princess room of the Hotel Somerset.

EXPERT CHARACTERIZATIONS DISPLAYED

By LARRY QUIRK

If at the beginning of the school year you happened to see the play "Angel Street" in the arms of Miss Joyce Lunde, then you witnessed the Suffolk Dramatic Workshop in its conception.

The most controversial issue to involve the group was the selection of plays. The argumentation was diversified and found supporters of various fields of thought. Faction, or group A, was lobbying for producing plays written by contemporary authors and known to have a popular appeal. They believed that these plays would be more likely to receive support of the student body on the merits of their popularity. It was reasoned that "The Ippan Cometh" for instance, would be certain to succeed by virtue of the publicity already received. The same school of thought would do plays that were running movie house theaters at the same time of our production again by reason of popularity.

Group B, as we shall call them in the interest of simplicity, were diametrically opposed. Popularity, they reasoned rarely good cause for considering a play good, and this club should concern itself with the best. "Bian" argued that no matter what we produced by the Suffolk Dramatic Workshop, the support of the student body would never be solidified. We be more than averse to expect the intellectual and cultural drudges of Boston, that go to make up the majority of students at Suffolk University, to become interested in good theater.

"A" retorted that this would be impossible in view of the small funds allotted the club. How long the school would continue to support a group, even in the interest of art, must be considered many cups of coffee, traveled many miles and lost many hours of sleep.

During the first few weeks of organization the charter members were at each others throats over policy. It was indicative of a healthy culture. Stimulated and inspired to give time, thought and personal health to the writing of a constitution, the members of the second floor, during many cups of coffee, traveled many miles and lost many hours of sleep.

Dean Simpson Honored at Banquet

Plans Made for Senior Class Dance and Graduation Law School's Senior Class Officers Elected

Tributes to his interest in the welfare of veterans and his ability to teach students to analyze problems were paid to Frank J. Simpson at a dinner in the Hotel Vendome attended by more than 300 students and guests honoring his fifty anniversary as dean of Suffolk Law School.

Albert Morris, a former Democratic floor leader and graduate of Suffolk University, who passed his bar a week ago, expressed his gratitude to Dean Simpson for persisting in making him analyze problems thoroughly.

The testimonial dinner was arranged and conducted by students under the direction of Henry art. Executive Committee: Richard H. Gordon, John J. Dolan, John A. Stankin, Raymond J. White, and Albert Abrahamian. Finance Committee: Raymond J. White, Joseph Stankin and Vice-President B. Perlick. Publicity Director: John A. Stankin.

Plans were made for a senior prom at the Hotel Vendome and for graduation activities. The dance will be formal and will be held in the Princess room of the Hotel Somerset.

A MASQUERADE?

Why the false-face Uncle Sam?
It is time the U. S. stopped calling the Soviet Union the "peace-loving democracy." Why not call things by their right names? Sooner or later we will have to distinguish between right and wrong. Why not do it now?
The question arising now is: shall we do what is right for everyone or what is best for us?
We can afford to become selfish now, but what of later? Let's clean our own back yard first, by suppressing all lies in the U. S. How can we help other nations when we cannot help ourselves.
The problem of cleaning our back yard is getting a little more. We must begin our bid for world leadership, not behind a mask. We must face the world with truth and fight with the hope, not the fear of mankind.
A world government would solve the present crisis, but we have a world government? It doesn't seem likely, for the advanced "animals" are a race of majority, not of unity.
Like a cancer, this growth of Communism will not stop. We can't wait for it to become larger. It must be cut out now, or else there will be no hope for a true democratic later.

FACTS NOT FALLACIES WANTED

Repudiating its isolationist past the United States, following the defeat of the Axis helped set up the United Nations as the world instrument for peace and for international understanding. Indeed the road of peace has been and no doubt will continue to be a rocky one. Nevertheless some measure of success and cooperation has been achieved.
Today we are faced with our most momentous decision. This decision predicted by the bankruptcy of England and her inability to continue vigorous phase of our foreign policy. This step which we might take can have but two consequences — war or peace — do we Americans appreciate the profound results this step might bring? If we are taking this step with sincere conviction do we appreciate the results it makes mandatory?
President Truman quite bluntly stated that we must oppose any step to democratic government. Indeed his reference to Greece was clear, but does not this statement have a far reaching implication? "We oppose any threat to democracy." If this is our creed and we have a sincere conviction then we are bound to carry out this policy in many lands. France's fascist government — which collaborated with the Nazis — and perhaps even France where the Communists received more than fifty percent of the votes polled in the last election. All these countries plus many more necessitate our intervention to preserve democracy. If the President meant that we are opposed only to Soviet totalitarian expansion, why not say so.
We must keep in mind also that if this step is taken we do so alone and without aid. Where could aid come from? China? Bankrupt England? Socialist France? Indeed not. This step means also a complete ignoring of the United Nations which would be the death knell of any future hope for world peace.
Are we, the people, getting all the facts? The President stated that the United Nations is not prepared to handle the Greek situation. A few months back it was effective enough to settle the Iranian dispute — actually force Russia to withdraw its troops from Iran. Russia has no troops in Greece. Why is this situation more difficult?

Profile of An Educator

By JOSEPH LAVASH

Do you find it hard to make your self plain to your swain? You do? Your worries are over! An interview with Dr. Friedman reveals that he used to run a love letter bureau while a student in college. To those who know him, his is a far cry from geology and biology (maybe not so far from biology) but Dr. Friedman is an extremely versatile gentleman! Needless to say, he is also one of Suffolk's most learned men.

Robert Friedman was born in Taunton, Mass. on January 10, 1918. He went to school there and then entered the University of Mich. After spending three years there he came back to Mass. to receive his B. S. degree in education at Boston University's School of Education. He also earned his M. A. degree at B. U. in the Department of Biology. His last and most coveted degree, the Ph.D., was received from Harvard.

Dr. Friedman worked to help pay his way through college. For his room and board, he was hired as manager of one of the dorms at the University of Mich. For his pleasure, as well as to help financially, he played in a local jazz orchestra. Between this and his studies he found time to write humor for the Mich. Gargol (the college newspaper). He said he did most of this writing while in the Readers Digest editors and paste.

Dr. Friedman came here to Suffolk University in 1948 to teach biology and give lectures on general science. He taught here for two years and then left to do research for the Office of Scientific Research and Development.

He returned to Suffolk in September of '48 to pick up the reins. He stated that most students here at Suffolk are of good quality, and if the spirit that has been shown in the past year keeps up, this school will very soon receive its just reputation.

Dr. Friedman is a family man. He's married and has two children, a boy and a girl, into a dog; when he's a Suffolk terror!

He said, "I became a teacher because I like to talk, and it provides a natural outlet." He adds color to his speech with a little humor, but says his jokes are best adapted to stag classes, and cordially requests all female students not to biology.

Spanish Club Elects Heads

13 Council members of S. U. Suffolk's newly formed Spanish Club — held its first meeting March 24nd electing the group's first slate of officers.
Francis O'Brien was elected president while Newman Wood was chosen Vice President and Norman Orell and Geraldine Lellan were made treasurer and secretary respectively.
Newman Wood and Arthur Flamberlain were appointed to draw up the constitution while Stanley Bornstein was made chairman of the entertainment committee.
The first proposals before the club were to seek a joint meeting with the Italian club and to pass out literature of the International Solidarity Committee which plans to send relief to Spanish anti-fascists now in exile.

Letters To The Editor

TO THE EDITOR:
The main purpose of education is to make knowledge practical. Now knowledge can only be practical when it is broad. How then can we make our courses and classes more informative and more useful to all students concerned?

I have a pertinent suggestion to make for Suffolk University. It isn't original—Dean Ott and Prof. D. Donald Finelli have used the idea before. The plan is simply more invitations to good outside lecturers. Why not more refreshment and diversified views in all courses where such a system is possible?
Dean Ott has from time to time presented various lecturers either from the faculty or from outside sources to his classes. Recently a view of the Middle Eastern situation was given by a guest, the remarks causing much comment and producing thought. Now, thinking is education's prime page objective.

Then a worthy list of interesting personages have been presented by Prof. Fiorillo to his sociology classes. These men have presented new views, contrary opinions and fresh slants in those current social problems. Among those brought to us by Prof. Fiorillo were: Prof. Knowledge of Boston University speaking on "Social Pathology." Mr. McCarty presented the Social Party views. Dr. Linburg gave new insight into the problems of Boston State Hospital. These and others combined with occasional "guest starting" by members of our own faculty have made these courses outstanding and invaluable. Field trips, tours of civic institutions, tours of museums, and seminars are all practical helps in making our learning process fluid and enjoyable while broadening our minds in the meantime.

If this can be done in a few courses it can and should be done in many others. New views are not only stimulating but refreshing to any student. This is particularly true if the guest lectures may present their views freely and fully. A method aiding such guests and the teachers who present them is the popular seminar type of course. A course in which the body may relax, the nerves be relieved from tension and originality. A period of "give and take" in which students may quit the "command performance" and in which he may question his listeners is a feature coming to us from the Greek group-sium and a very practical as well as a classic idea.

What do you think about these few views on "class help"? I hope you will respond as I to the ideas. If you are able to compare and contrast some forms of educational methods you have endured in the past—then you know what I'm writing about. More power to progress in class methods and learning processes. C. S.

TO THE EDITOR:

On April 9th and 10th, the Dramatic Club of Suffolk University presented Phillip Barry's "The Animal Kingdom" in the auditorium. The men and women of the cast and stage crew worked long and hard to make the play a success through back-breaking rehearsal. For weeks they went which lasted many times past midnight. They built the settings, borrowed and borrowed props. The production was publicized sufficiently so that no conscious student could plead ignorance of the presentation.

Boston University, Boston College and Northeastern sent critics to cover the performance.

A golden opportunity to "put" the university over presented itself. The play revealed any other amateur professional and equalled many students who participated in the proud of a job well done. All students who attended were gratified and pleased with the polished performance. However the lack of interest of the general student body was appalling. Scarcely 250 tickets were sold.

The prevailing gripe among a number of students has been the lack of recognition of the university. Yet any and all extra-curricular activities that could give Suffolk the needed prestige has been shunned woefully by the student body. The athletic teams play before empty stands. The various clubs conduct their activities overwhelmed by paucity in attendance. This general apathy leads to a cynicism that is unhealthy for a growing school.

It is not enough to attend classes only; we are duty-bound to support student activities. If a degree from Suffolk is to mean anything in future years, we must gain prestige for the university. The only possible way is favorable publicity. The various clubs are doing their very best to bring Suffolk to the attention of other colleges and the general public.

It is good common sense to support our future by supporting school activities.

AVC URGES PASSAGE OF H. R. 807

By C. K. AVERY

Dean Ott receiving AVC charter from chapter Chairman Jack Smith with veterans' advisor Arthur Metastasis looking on.

S. U.'s AVC Chapter 888 asserted its position by the presentation of a charter authorized by the AVC, Inc. Mr. Jack Smith, Chairman of the S. U.'s AVC Chapter made the presentation to Dean L. R. Ott before an impressive gathering of onlookers.

In a short but arduous period, S. U.'s AVC Chapter has worked to leave its way to the top as a prominent organization. AVC's interest in promoting and furthering school and veteran's activities has been silently kindled by many.

The recent presentation of a Charter from the AVC National Headquarters to the S. U. Chapter is significant of the tireless efforts that interested individuals put into its being.

This AVC Chapter now makes Chapter 888 of S. U. a fully matured organization and one capable of official function. With this new warrant the S. U. Chapter will renew its vigorous drive to alleviate the bank shortage.

At a recent meeting held in the auditorium, Jack Smith, the Chapter's Chairman, pointed out the urgency of Veterans writing to their political representatives to push Hill H. R. 807 through. Said Mr. Smith: "Half an education is more dangerous than no education at all. If the substitute is not raised soon, many veterans are

"Anna Lucasta," longest running all-Negro drama in the history of the American stage, is playing to capacity audiences in the Plymouth Theatre. Philip Yordan's sensational success play, which centers itself with the regeneration of a loose woman through the love of an idealistic, decent man, has earned so many encores in the New York critics as any play could possibly hope to receive. It was received enthusiastically on its opening night here in Boston. Lucille Cuddy took in a finished performance as Anna, and is accorded splendid support from experienced actors, Rex Ingram and Frank Silvera. Bostonia La Sore, Earl Heyman and Charles

Both Treater, the popular monologist, will appear at the Wilbur, for one week beginning Monday, April 28, in some of her most popular character sketches, including "Three Women and Mr. Clifford," "Opening a Bazaar," "On The Porch," and "Viv La France."

One theatrical event which should not be missed on any performer's of wide account is Maurice Evans' new production of "Hamlet," which opens at the Boston Opera House in Boston at the Colonial Theatre. Directed from its record-breaking New York engagement, it bids the ballet, never as popular in our fair to pack the old Highbury America as it might be, but Evans has enjoyed spectacular Russian, still doubtless find this success in his several versions of latest offering entitled William Shakespeare's fabulous fantasy.

VETERANS' AFFAIRS

By SHELDON BERGEL

The House Committee on Veterans Affairs has recommended paying the colleges an income received by on the job trainees, as established by Public Law 679 79th Congress. Following a letter debate in executive session, the committee, by a vote of 14 to 11, rejected the outright repeal of the college, and reported out the so-called Kerasney Bill, H. R. 246, in amended form. The bill as reported provides for an increase in pay ceilings for employment, plus allowances, from $175 to $250 for single veterans; $200 to $125 for married veterans or a veteran with a dependent; and to $150 monthly if the veteran has two or more dependents. The two year limitation on training, set up in Public Law 679, was increased to four years. Remember, this bill has not become a law yet. There are several other bills intended to increase the subsistence allowance that have been introduced also. No definite action, however, has been taken on them.

The Veterans Administration has announced that the provisions governing reinstatement of term insurance are repealed, and this privilege will be governed hereafter by regulation.

Veterans may now reinstate, at any time before August 1, 1947, their term insurance, upon payment of two monthly premiums, accompanied by a statement that the applicant is in good health on the day of application, as he was at the time of lapse. The statement over the applicant's own signature is usually acceptable under Public Law 5 - 80th Congress approved March 27, 1947.

New regulations to be issued by the V. A. to permit reinstatement on that basis up to August 1, 1947, regardless of date of lapse.

Because comparatively few veterans have filed for Terminal Leave Pay, as time goes on, it is discovered that "Johnny Come Lately" appear to be making more than their share of errors in submitting applications. Applications for leave pay due a veteran must be made not later than September 1, 1947.

The application blank, entitled "Claim for Settlement Unsettled Leave," which contains detailed instructions can be obtained from any U. S. Post Office or any Public Employment Office or Service Office.

Completed forms must be notarized and mailed with discharge certificate, or photostatic copy, to appropriate Army, Navy or Marine Corps or Coast Guard paying officers listed on reverse side of claim.

The Royals' Letter Day

By AL LINER

You might think we remember March 21 as the first day of spring, but that's not so. The first annual Athletic dance of the University was held that day, a more fitting reason for its commemoration (fanfare of trumpets, wild applause and cheering, etc.) To continue:

The Aftermath The walls of the Empire Room (Hotel Vendome) bulged with reckless abandon that evening. With 800 dancers straining for "idleness," something had to give. They'll probably call it the "Oral Room" now. Yes, 800 attended. Exams had just been completed, and all were carefree and gay, — and paunchy. This dance was different from those put on by other colleges; we had music. Jerry Mitchell and his orchestra kept the toes tapping and the feet a-movin', and everyone danced in vicious circles.

Our Boys Will Shine The proceeds will buy sweaters for our athletic teams, which, as you know, the purpose of this function. I assure you, no other school will be able to boast of such handily adorned sportsmen. Comes the first week in May, and the boys will really look sharp.

During the intermission, as the last chorus of "Huller-maker Blues" was splitting a few unwary atoms, the clans were assembled around the bandstand. They were addressed by Mr. Fisher, who heartily congratulated all squad members for their spirit and sportsmanship. He, in turn, introduced the coaches who tendered their words of praise and thanks to those who so well deserved them.

AWARDS These gentlemen, then awarded the players their athletic certificates. Mr. Moon, (check), presented 17; Mr. Lane, (basketball), 16; and Mr. Pond, (soccer), 12. It was certainly a proud moment for those men who had played so hard and so well to earn their "letter."

Low Felska receiving athletic certificate from Coach Charles Law at Hotel Vendome. Turnabout is fair play. Coaches Moon and Law were presented with Initialed wallets by co-captains Al Ross and Dave Perkins, and by Lou Felska, respectively, and coach Pond was presented with a briefcase by Mel Lousion. All this "in grateful appreciation."

Onward and Upward The dance was a hit, so successful, in fact, that the Social Club's sponsor, has decided to make it a regular annual affair. Representative of Northeastern B. U., and Harvard were with us that night and welcome guests they were. Through such contacts, we hope to create social affiliations with other colleges, and to establish ourselves as an alert and progressive University.

IN THERE PITCHIN' SPORTS SLANTS

A stiff twelve game baseball schedule has been arranged for Suffolk University's first diamond venture. Starting off with Tufts at Medford on the 23rd of April, the schedule carries the Royals down through the second encounter with the Cambridge Junior College club which takes place on the 31st of May.

Wheaton's Charlie Law is once more at the helm of a Suffolk team and one of the most encouraging factors in his favor is that he has a much better brand of ballplayer this spring than he had during the basketball season. It is a known fact that some of the best court players in the actual didn't even show enough interest in the team to go out. Baseball, on the other hand, has enjoyed a much better reception from the Suffolk students. All in all, some seventy-five men were candidates for positions on the team. At the moment, twenty five have been retained and given uniforms.

Suffolk's strongest point is "down the middle." With the capable Tony Pupillo taking care of the catching department, Coach Law's mound staff is bolstered by two right handers, Jack O'Brien and Dick Long. O'Brien is a well built individual who has displayed a remarkable change of pace ball in practice. He's a hard man to hit when he's right, especially when he starts launching curve balls, creeping up to the plate. Another bulwark in the infield is Arnold Repenke, short corner and guardian. Arnold has a good arm and he hits the long ball, something O'Brien's long and curved ball is always needed if the team is expected to snow the opposition under with a barrage of runs. Nick Pappas and Harry Stevens take care of the second base area both being quick on cutoffs and covering them. Bounding out the infield at first is only a few weeks left in the term Ralph Ciclettes the Straws so named to play the twelve games

O'Brien Pitches 5- Hitter

A jittery sixth inning coupled with some daring Tufts brounching took the wind out of Suffolk University's first venture into intercollegiate baseball circles. The final score of the game stood 11-0 in favor of the Juniors, 5-0.

According to the powers that be, John O'Brien pitched well enough to win Suffolk's opener. In the six and third innings he belted on the mound, O'Brien held his opponents to just three hits while at the same time striking out seven. His fast ball was hopping and his drop breaking as it never had before. He pitched himself out of home tight appears, too. In the third frame, Tufts got the bases loaded with but one out and still couldn't produce a run. After walking one, John lost the handle on a routine bouncer back to the mound and this lapse put runners on second and third. They were later covered by a well-timed throw from Hartman, the Juniors' catcher. In the so-called lucky seventh, Tufts continued to beat a weary path around the bases. After getting the first man on a fly to right, "chickens" walked the next two men who continued on moving to second and third by virtue of a double steal. That was all for O'Brien and Coach Law called in Dick Long who was warmly greeted by a two-run scoring single. An error, a fielder's choice and a long fly to Norton in center brought in the fifth rally

The final choice had to be made. Mr. Donald Hanson, the director of the group, finally established the policy. Suffolk University is in a dangerous state of its growth. It can now establish high, low, or mediocre standards which will have direct influence on all the students now attending the university. The students can be counted on for some support, this support will grow over a period of time. But Suffolk Dramatic Workshop will do only plays that are non-burlesque and intellectually stimulating, whether in comedy, satire, or serious works.

The Suffolk University Dramatic Workshop's second production of the season, "The Animal Kingdom," a revival of Philip Barry's popular comedy played to appreciative audiences in the college auditorium on the evenings of April 10th and 11th. It is a pleasure to record that the play was an unqualified success. Mr. Donald Hanson, the director, is to be congratulated upon a flawless production. The writing was of unusually high calibre, several of the performers exhibiting the sure craftsmanship of seasoned professionals.

Natural Performance
Dorothy Hornaday, Ben Orent and Norma Mallin, in the three principal roles, turned in glowing, paper characterizations. Orent, who reminds one not a little of the late Leslie Howard, who starred in the original play, was particularly fine, lending an admirable poise and stage presence to his interpretation of the lovelorn Tom Collier. Miss Mallin, while somewhat mannered, was most effective in the role of his shrewish, predatory wife, and Dorothy Hornaday, as his romantically light-hearted companion and womanizer. Ernest Anderson turned in a well-shaded and charmingly natural performance as Joe Fink, and Herbert Kligerman deserves a special hand for his particularly fine drunk scene which, as all stage-wise folk-service takes any actor's resources to the limit.

Shirley Wilkinson, in her role of the catty Grace Macomber exhibited a flare for comedy which should take her places, (that, Shirley, lay long down that wiles), and James Rowan, Samuel Channing and Jack Stevenson show in their brief appearances.

Bright Future Ahead
The production was admirably staged, and Mr. Hanson's deft, swiftly paced direction revealed his undeniable flair for this type of comedy. It is no doubt particularly heartening to the sincere, hardworking members of the Drama Workshop, in fact, themselves with a solid hit in their hands, as their ill-starred first production, "Boomer's Boomerholm," presented many difficulties which worked against its success. The Group has ungrudgingly redeemed itself with this latest offering, and can now take its rightful place in the forefront of Boston's successful amateur work-shops.

The Republicans and the Democrats aren't the only ones who are battling on Bracon Hill. Suffolk University and Calvin College are embroiled in a woe bit of a skirmish all their own. While there won't be any political plums passed out to the winner of the athletic series between the two schools, there will be a trophy thanks to the generosity of Baron Hugo, major domo at the Totem Pole.

One Thanks
If and when this prize possession rests within our hallowed halls, much credit for its acquisition must be given to the hockey team. Through their efforts, Suffolk has a commanding lead in the Hill series and needs but one victory in baseball to clinch the deal, so to speak. The scores of the hockey games were 6-1, and 6-0, by the way.

Now, there are a number of reasons why the hockey sextet enjoys this position of eminence. Standing out among others was the fine spirit displayed by all the fellows on the team. There was no room for individuality on the club. No matter what six were on the ice, it worked as a well-oiled machine with all its gears meshing together and working toward the ultimate goal which was to see who could score the most. Taken on a seasonal basis, the Royals put Paul Bevan out of business by lighting the red lamp thirty-six times to a mere thirty-five marks for the opponents.

Tennisists Ready for First Match May 6

Another line of endeavor has been drawn in Suffolk University athletics. In joining in the fold is the newly formed tennis team under the able guidance of Joseph McCafferty and John Colburn, members of the Episk Department.

For over a month now, candidates for positions on the team have been practicing diligently at the Charles River Courts in preparation for a series of matches with the leading racket wielders in the area. There has been a definite home series arranged with Bridgewater State Teachers College with the first match being played in Bridgewater on the 1st of May. In addition to this match, Coaches McCafferty and Colburn have contacted Boston University, Northeastern, Tufts, and M. I. T., among others, with the hope of getting a first class schedule set up.

Among those seeking positions are Jack Giblin, Charles C. Lanson, and Neil Cronin, Thomas Sykes, Harvey Barnes, Al Limer, Edward Limalatone Ed Matsonian, George Karavasilas, Jack Wallace, and John Wise. In addition the

We Can Sleep Now

All this is over now. The sticks, pads and skates have been packed away in moth balls till next year. However, remember this: if you see a shining new trophy perched by those "tag-of-war" cups in Mr. Finelli's office, it came about partly because many commuters had come to take the fingerpull test at an ungodly hour of the morning.
