

Our Classy Essence.

In the Monist for January, 1891, I tried to show what conceptions ought to form the brick and mortar of a philosophical system. Chief among these was that of absolute chance, <sup>for</sup> which I argued ~~for~~ again in last April's number. In July, I applied another fundamental idea, that of continuity, to the law of mind. Next in order I have to elucidate from the point of view chosen the relation between the psychical and physical aspects of a substance.

The first step towards this ought, I think, to be the framing of a molecular theory of proto-
