Mark James Nicklas
Nov. 10, 1959–Feb. 8, 1993

Mark Nicklas was born to Georgianna and Jim Nicklas. He had an older half-brother, Neil; a brother, Jeff; sister, Shelly; and later a half-brother, Judd. Born deaf and gay, he had obstacles to overcome from the very beginning. And, in spite of those obstacles, he was a joyful, special person, meeting life on its own terms.

As a child in Southern California, Mark loved two things — animals and cars. At his death he left behind two beloved black cats who miss him very much. Mark was very close to his grandmother, who always drove Cadillacs. Perhaps this was the source of his sometimes overwhelming passion for that brand of car. His grandmother was hard of hearing, sharing with him that isolation from the world of sound.

Mark has been a client of Deaf AIDS Center and UCSF Center on Deafness.

We grieve today not only the loss of Mark to AIDS, but the fact that such a disease that takes away life so unfairly and with such finality. The young no longer have second chances. They must be born wise and be absolutely accurate in their decision making, or they risk what Mark unknowingly risked. ▼

3/30/93
Dear Bob:
You're another man who has earned his wings.
Dale was everything to me and I miss him deeply.
Some good things did happen like meeting you. You are a real sweetheart. If there's every anything I can do for you

Jeffrey Edmund Nole

A memorial service will be held on Sunday, Aug. 8 for Jeffrey Edmund Nole, of Boston, who died June 28 of complications from AIDS. He is survived by his lover of 7 1/2 years, Eric Hook. He was the beloved son of Edmund and Delores Nole, and brother of Lisa and Gregory Nole. The service held in his honor will take place at the Jesuit Urban Center, 761 Harrison Ave.

All guests are asked to bring one flower. Donations may be made to the Behavioral Medicine Program, Attn: HIV Program/Anne Webster, New England Deaconess Hospital, 110 Francis Hospital, Boston, 02215.

Anthony J. Newborne
1952–1993

Tony passed away peacefully at home in the early morning hours of Saturday, March 13, after a 2 1/2 year battle with AIDS.

Tony was a member of the board of directors for We Care Bay Area. WCBA is a nonprofit organization designed to provide financial, physical and emotional support to those faced with an illness.

He graduated from St. Mary's College in Winona, MN., and embarked on a career in the human resources field. His most recent position was with Informix in Menlo Park.

During the mid-'70s and early '80s, Tony was in the entertainment field, singing his way throughout the midwest. He shared MC duties with Miss America for the Miss Wisconsin beauty pageant.

His many talents will be missed by all those who knew and loved him. We'll miss you, Tony. A memorial service will be held at 1 p.m., March 20, at Comisky-Roche at 16th and Dolores. ▼

NASH—Norman. On October 27, 1993, following complications from AIDS. He is survived by his mother, Sylvia; sister, Michelle; cousins and many close friends. Calling hours at Redden Funeral Home, 325 West 14th Street, NYC, on Thursday, October 28, from 7-9 P.M. Interment in Skyview Cemetery, Homewood, PA. Memorial service to be held at a later date.

Michael Alan Nauert
1957 — 1993

Memorial services for Michael Nauert were conducted on Sunday, March 21 at Metropolitan Community Church in San Diego, where he had served as Worship Ministries Coordinator since October, 1989.

Michael was born in Waxahachie, Tex. While in grammar school, he studied piano and clarinet. By the age of 12, he was organist of Faith Lutheran Church in Sagerton, Tex.

He attended North Texas State University in Denton, where he distinguished himself with a major in Organ Performance and many courses in religion.

His performance activities also included participation as a drum major in his high school and college marching bands.

After college, Michael was appointed Music Director/Organist of Agape MCC in Fort Worth. In 1980, he became the organist of the largest congregation in the MCC Fellowship in Dallas. He joined the staff of MCC San Diego in October, 1989, and served as Organist, Music Director and schedule coordinator for the worship staff. During his tenure, the Joyful Noise Choir became a distinguished performing group in San Diego. He was instrumental in the formation of "Reveille," a contemporary Christian singing group which has performed on concert tours around the United States.

During his long and valiant battle with AIDS, Michael remained an inspiring force in the lives of his friends and family, seldom complaining, and full of the joy and hope they were accustomed to experience from him.

He passed peacefully and quietly on the evening of March 16, one hour before the weekly church choir rehearsal, which, after a brief period of remembrance, proceeded as usual. Music at his memorial included offerings by the Joyful Noise Choir, Reveille, and his close friend, Marsha Stevens.

Michael's mischievous alter-ego, Wanda June, entertained and delighted many with her outrageous presentations, most of which were surprise appearances, often at the church.

Our beloved friend and colleague is survived by his parents Michael and Barbara; his Aunt Bertha; and his life companion Jim Henderson, as well as a grandfather, Herbert and numerous aunts, uncles and cousins.

Final services were held on Saturday, March 27 at Faith Lutheran Church in Sagerton, Tex., and were played by Geoffrey Graham, Director of Music at MCC San Diego, with Jim and Michael's family in attendance. His ashes will be buried there, in the family plot.

Memorial tributes may be directed to the MCC San Diego Music Fund, PO Box 33921, San Diego, CA 92163. Funds will be used to purchase supplementary hymnals which Michael desired to further enhance the beauty of the musical legacy he established.

Famed ballet dancer Rudolf Nureyev, at 53

PARIS — Rudolf Nureyev, the Soviet ballet dancer who stunned the world by defecting to the West and became the most celebrated classic dancer of his generation, died yesterday at age 54.

Nureyev, who was widely reported to have suffered from AIDS, died of "a cardiac complication, following a cruel illness," his physician, Michel Canesi, said in a statement.

Andre Larquie, former president of the Paris Opera, of which Nureyev was ballet director, said the dancer would be buried in Paris, but gave no funeral date.

Nureyev was born on March 17, 1938, in Transsiberia. His father, a Red Army soldier of Tatar descent, tried to dissuade his young son from studying dance, saying he'd end up a drunk at 30.

APPRECIATION Page 53

But Nureyev persevered. He studied traditional Russian folk dance at the Ouafa School until 1955, then moved to Leningrad, where he was enrolled in the Vaganova School of the Kirov Theater until 1958.

He was the lead male dancer with the Kirov Ballet until 1961, when he made a dramatic run for freedom in a Paris airport.

While sipping coffee with the other dancers minutes before he was to board a plane to Moscow, Nureyev made his split-second decision to defect.

Six Soviet guards tried to block his way, but he managed to reach a French policeman, shouting "Protect me!"

He was whisked away to the French Interior Ministry and granted political asylum. He became a naturalized Austrian citizen in 1982.

RUDOLF NUREYEV

The Soviet newspaper Izvestia called him "a traitor to Soviet art and his country."

Nureyev joined the Grand Ballet du Marquis de Cuevas in Paris, and in November 1961 made his first appearance with Margot Fonteyn at the Royal Ballet in London. The audience's hysterical ovation lasted longer than the eight-minute dance. One newspaper said Nureyev "stunned the audience with what was probably the finest piece of male dancing seen on the Covent Garden stage in this generation."

Nureyev danced with the Royal Ballet until the early 1980s, delighting audiences with his magnetism and graceful athleticism.

Although notorious for his post-performance celebrations, he attributed his professional longevity to the Spartan diet he would wash down with gallons of tea.

Nureyev appeared in several films including "Romeo and Juliet," "Swan Lake," "I Am a Dancer," "Don Quixote" and "Exposed." He played the title role in "Valentino" as the silent film star, another celebrated Rudolf.

In 1989 he also toured the United States in a revival of the musical "The King and I."

Tommy Nutter, 49

Tailor to Beatles, Rolling Stones

REUTERS 8-17-92

LONDON - Britain's tailor to the stars, Tommy Nutter, whose customers included the Beatles, the Rolling Stones and Michael Jackson, died of AIDS yesterday in a London hospital. He was 49.

Mr. Nutter rose to fame in the 1960s when he pioneered flared trousers and wide lapels, helping turn them into the decade's trademark fashions on both sides of the Atlantic.

The Beatles were wearing Nutter creations when they posed on a London street for the "Abbey Road" album cover.

A statement announcing Mr. Nutter's death issued by his tailoring establishment in Savile Row said:

"Over the past years that he knew of his illness, he actively participated in supporting others living with HIV and AIDS as well as helping AIDS charities and research organizations. It was his hope that the fight against this disease can continue until a cure is eventually found."

Erwin Neff

Nov. 5, 1938-Aug. 4, 1993

Born in Zurich, Switzerland, and orphaned at an early age, he became the quintessential American success story. A mentor both personally and professionally, he helped launch numerous successful careers in the Custom House Brokerage Industry. An early pioneer in organizational efforts in helping those with AIDS, he was a founding member of Coming Home Hospice Bingo, where he worked tirelessly for over three years.

Suffering painfully from multiple sclerosis brought on by advanced HIV disease, he passed away at his home in upper Noe Valley where he is survived by his lover of 10 years, Kent Pasek.

Erwin was grateful to those who unselfishly gave of themselves during his difficult times. Special thanks to Selma, whose skill in care made things a bit easier for him.

A memorial service will be held at Most Holy Redeemer Parish at 100 Diamond St., on Friday, August 13, 1993 at 11 a.m.

A celebration of his life will follow immediately afterwards. His ashes will be scattered privately up at the Russian River. Donations can be made to the Erwin Neff Trust to benefit Most Holy Redeemer Support Group. ▼

William Newman, 38

Architect, AIDS activist in N.H.

William Newman, an architect and a leading AIDS activist in New Hampshire, died of AIDS yesterday at his home in Derry, N.H. He was 38.

His architectural projects included renovations to Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston University Medical Center and the Mid-Maine Medical Center.

When illness forced him to retire, Mr. Newman began a crusade against AIDS, urging young people at schools and colleges throughout New Hampshire to avoid casual sexual behavior that might lead to AIDS. He lobbied the state Legislature to extend insurance to people in life-threatening situations.

A native of Cherry Hill, N.J., Mr. Newman was a graduate of the University of Virginia and a former Naval officer.

He leaves his parents, William and Ann (Caldwell) Newman of Ewingville, N.J., and two sisters, Elizabeth Ann Scott of Westminster, Colo., and Barbara Tsougas of Virginia Beach, Va.

A memorial service will be held Nov. 23 at 4 p.m. in St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Concord, N.H.

Clifford John Ness

Steven Nichols

Steven Nichols, age 34, died of AIDS at the Mission Hill Hospice on June 1, 1991. Steven was a long time resident of Boston and had worked as a waiter at the Parker House. He was an active member of Alcoholics Anonymous and had been sober for four years. He served in the buddy program with the AIDS Action Committee.

Steven loved to travel and made friends everywhere he went. He had a quick wit, a sharp tongue, and a big heart. He spent much of his time during his own illness taking care of others, including his former lover John Van Etten who died of AIDS in October of 1990.

We miss his laughing, loving presence. An informal memorial service was held at the function room at Saint John the Evangelist July 16.

At 36, Ralph Nelson, bio-medical assistant

Ralph W. Nelson of Boston, a former bio-medical assistant at Biogen Inc. in Cambridge, died Friday from an AIDS-related illness. He was 36.

Born in Los Angeles, Mr. Nelson was raised in Wilbraham and was a graduate of Minnechaug Regional High School. He received a bachelor's degree in biochemistry from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Mr. Nelson was involved in AIDS-related research and development at Biogen. He was also a volunteer with the AIDS Action Committee.

He is survived by his long-time companion, William D. McDonough of Boston; his mother, Annabelle Nelson of Jacksonville Beach, Fla.; his father, William Crawford of Reno, Nev.; and several sisters.

A private funeral service will be held at his residence. Burial will be private.

Arrangements are by J.S. Waterman & Sons-Eastman-Waring Funeral Home of Boston.

Robert Nicholson, 55

Ran Brockton moving company

Robert Nicholson, founder of a moving and storage company, died of AIDS Tuesday at his home in Brockton. He was 55.

In 1986, after five years as a cross-country driver for North American Van Lines and Global Van Lines, Mr. Nicholson formed Accord Moving and Storage Co. in Brockton, which he operated until seven months ago.

A native of Smithfield, Pa., he worked in the 1960s and 1970s as a research technician, first at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, then at Massachusetts General Hospital.

After leaving Massachusetts General, he founded the Lincoln Sandwich Shop in Quincy, which he and his family ran for three years.

He leaves his mother, Gladys (Wilkins), and a sister, Eleanor McLean, both of Brockton. Services will be private.

Robert L. Nikirk, 51, Club Librarian, Dies

Robert L. Nikirk, librarian of the Grolier Club for the last two decades and a specialist in antiquarian books, died on Sept. 5 at St. Vincent's Hospital in Manhattan. He was 51 years old and lived in Manhattan.

A family friend said he died of AIDS-related pneumonia.

Mr. Nikirk was involved in preparing exhibitions, lectures and publications for the century-old research library and gathering place for those interested in the history and collecting of books and manuscripts.

A native of Corning, N.Y., he held a degree in art history from New York University and worked as a cataloguer of rare books with A. H. Minters, the bookseller, and the Parke-Bernet Galleries, now Sotheby's, before joining Grolier in 1970.

Mr. Nikirk was chairman of the Museum Council of New York from 1981 to 1983. He was a trustee of the Bibliographical Society of America, the Rosenbach Museum and Library in Philadelphia and the Corning (N.Y.) Museum of Glass and a fellow of the Pierpont Morgan Library.

His companion was Justin Caldwell. He is survived by his mother, Kathryn, of Corning, and a sister, Mary Morrison of Bonita Springs, Fla.

KENNETH NELSON
10-8-93*Kenneth Nelson, at 63, longtime theater actor

LONDON — Kenneth Nelson, an American actor who came to London with the hit play "The Boys In the Band" and settled in Britain, has died of AIDS, his agent said.

Born in Rocky Mount, N.C., Mr. Nelson was educated in Texas. He made his Broadway debut in 1951 in "Seventeen." Nine years later, he opened as The Boy in the original off-Broadway cast of "The Fantasticks," which became the world's longest-running musical.

He was Anthony Newley's standby in the musical "Stop the World, I Want To Get Off," subsequently playing the role of Littlechap on Broadway and on tour.

In 1968, he had his greatest success as Michael, the party host, in Mart Crowley's groundbreaking play "The Boys in the Band," recreating the part the next year on London's West End.

James Nickell

November 4, 1993

James Nickell passed on peacefully and into the light on November 4, 1993, at 44 years of age. He is survived by his good friends, Anthony, Bruce McGee, Steve Freeman and Mark Padgett; "Ms. M," his mother Mary Nickell; four brothers, and three sisters.

James (Jim) Nickell was a gentle soul of peace, goodness and love. He was the kindest and most considerate of the family offspring. He will be remembered for his beautiful heart, magnificent brilliant eyes and gentle smile. He was an experienced professional interior designer and a graduate of SF City College, where he placed on the dean's list and had a four-point average. He passed into the arms of Mother Universe to rest with Her throughout Eternity, for one day we will be together again. We love you always.

Kenneth I. Nissman

Executive, 46 12/15/92

Kenneth I. Nissman, a men's clothing executive in New York, died on Saturday at Beth Israel Hospital in Manhattan. He was 46 years old and lived in Manhattan.

He died of complications from AIDS, the Pincus Brothers-Maxwell company said in an announcement.

At the time of his death, Mr. Nissman was a vice president and the national sales manager of PBM/Bill Blass Men's Clothing Manufacturing, working out of PBM's sales office in New York. He joined the company three years ago.

At the age of 16, Mr. Nissman, a native of New York, went to work in the training program of the Chicago-based Hartmarx Corporation. He stayed with Hartmarx for 25 years, rising to merchandise manager of men's clothing. He was a past president of Wallach's New York and the men's wear division of Calvin Klein.

Ron Nunziato

Sept. 16, 1952 - July 9, 1992

I have you fast in my fortress and will not let you depart,
But put you down into the dungeon in the round tower of my heart.

And there will I keep you forever,
Yes forever and a day, till the walls shall crumble to ruin and moulder and dust away.

Do I have your undivided attention?

As a handful of us piled into a car in the Beth Israel Hospital parking garage that Wednesday night, I wondered in how many towns, in how many hospitals was this drama unfolding? The previous hours had been spent at Ron's bed, his family of origin and his family of choice watching the end creep stealthily closer with each sweep of the second hand on the clock. Settling into the back seat, I thought about how Ron fell into the top tenth percentile of support systems. His passing would be peaceful and dignified, unsmirched by the friction and strain I've seen in too many ICU's between parents and lovers, siblings and friends.

The phone rang at 1:00 A.M. and a mutual friend told me Ron had left for the Big Resort.

Believe me, I'm as tired of writing about friends I'll never see again as you probably are reading about them. I haven't the energy to pick up the pen and eulogize every person who touched my life. I don't have the stamina to sew a quilt for all those snapshots of people who will never smile for the camera again. And a lot of the time, I don't even have the sorrow necessary to cry over another snuffed-out life. This lack of feeling, this inactivity has nothing to do with insensitivity and everything to do with desensitivity.

Yet, sometimes I'm allowed to feel again.

"...grieve not, nor speak of me with tears, but laugh and talk of me as if I were beside you...I loved you so... 'twas Heaven here with you."

There is a photograph, yes another photograph, of a birthday party over five years ago, when Ron and Tony and I were invincible. There we were: bewigged, begowned and bewildered by an evening of craziness in the midst of a special summer of questionable frivolity. I remember that night clearly. It was our own personal Mardi Gras. We were all young, healthy, ambitious and alive. The only thing we weren't was invulnerable. I remember that afternoon half a decade ago when Tony complained of a rash that would not go away, something I dismissed then, but later recognized as the grisly calling card of the death that would claim him less than two years later.

Ron was selfless in making Tony's last few months bearable. My immaturity and youth made facing Tony's illness an impossibility. For years after, I carried the shame of having been a failure to him. But Ron always soothed that guilt with assurances that Tony had understood only too well my fear and grief.

When Ron fell ill, it was an opportunity to recover the ground I had lost when Tony died. While I couldn't be there a lot, I was always amazed at how present Ron and I were, whether I was at his bedside, or if we were on the phone. He was so conscious of the moment, sensitive to his visitors' concerns. The last time I spoke with him, laughed with him, he was still the perpetual "Italian mother," offering me food and coffee, insisting in playing the ever-gracious host. Giving, but never giving up, until he felt it was his time to go.

Even at his wake there was an abundance of Ron's favorite elements: beauty, music, love and humor. And while his soul journeyed to dimensions beyond us, the example he set stayed behind, making us cry, laugh and reflect. His life may have been cut short, but his memory will last long.

I've thought a lot about Ron since he died. I've tried to find sense in his death. I've tried to find some solace in the void he's left behind. I look to others for answers they cannot give. However, if I listen closely in my apartment when it's very quiet, I'm sure I can hear the rustle of satin hoop skirts and the laughter of two friends reunited after far too long. Maybe that's the best we can hope for after all is said and done.

And on that happy note, ciao for now!

... Martin Navarrete, 33, of Los Angeles died Aug. 13 due to complications from AIDS; he is survived by his life partner, Christopher Strey. ...

What we want people to think about is to be careful with what they do because this isn't just an infection, it's your life. Things get worse as you go along with this disease, but if you do contract it, let me say to you, it is not the end. It just makes everything a little more precious.

I have a family that is all HIV-positive. My wife and I used I.V. drugs and quit two and a half years before our child, Amy, was born. She is 21 months old and is infected. We found out two months after her birth. What a pain it is to look at this beautiful little girl and know you could lose her at any time.

Hollywood, California

Dora died on February 9, 1993, at 9:25 a.m.

Eric Nowlin, 48, Macy's Executive

5-28-94

Eric G. Nowlin, vice president of communication at R.H. Macy & Co. Inc. and an expert in laser videodisk programming, died last Saturday at Cabrini Medical Center. He was 48 and lived in Manhattan.

The cause was AIDS-related pneumonia, according to Francis A. Roefaro, his companion.

A native of Ohio, Mr. Nowlin graduated with a degree in urban planning from the University of Cincinnati. He received a master's degree in media communications there and a Ph.D. in communication theory and film at Northwestern University. In the late 1970's he was an assistant to the provost at Northwestern.

In 1980, Mr. Nowlin founded Vidmax Inc. in New York to develop and market video programming for new technologies.

He joined Macy's in 1993 as a vice president and liaison to the office of the co-chairman.

Besides Mr. Roefaro, Mr. Nowlin is survived by his mother, Jane Nowlin of Seymour, Ind., and his brothers Joseph of Bloomington, Ind., Thomas of Gaithersburg, Md., and Timothy of Cincinnati.

Yves Navarre

PARIS (AP) — Yves Navarre, one of France's greatest contemporary writers, died of an overdose of barbituates. He was 53.

Police alerted by a friend of the author found Navarre dead Jan. 24 from a pill overdose at his Paris apartment.

Navarre, who returned to France recently after several years in Canada, won France's top literary prize, the Goncourt, in 1980. In 1992, he was honored by the prestigious French Academy for his more than two dozen novels, several plays and children's books.

Navarre made no secret of his homosexuality, a subject he explored in numerous works.

In 1991, he wrote "Ce sont amis que vent emporte" (Friends Gone With the Wind), a love story that dwells on the daily pains of AIDS.

But he denied being afflicted with the disease and once took an author to court for referring to him in a book on AIDS.

Navarre "did not like people saying that he was a homosexual writer," literary critic Hugo Marsan said on French radio.

"He considered himself first a writer even if he was committed to making others understand and admit homosexuality."

Born Sept. 24, 1940 in Condom, a small town in France's Gers region, Navarre had a privileged upbringing. The son of the director of the French Petroleum Institute, he went to high school in the affluent Paris suburb of Neuilly.

His first novel "Lady Black" was published in 1971 after editors rejected 16 other manuscripts submitted since 1958. Next came "Les Loukoums" in 1973, followed by "Le Coeur Qui Cogne," (The Heart That Knocks) in 1974.

Navarre won the Goncourt prize in 1980 for "Le Jardin d'Acclimatation" (The Zoological Garden). □

Michael Allen Nettle

July 18, 1967 - Dec. 31, 1994

Gone but not lost. Michael passed on to the promised land in peace with love. Brian was at his side. With wings as beautiful as his soft hair, may he circle the heavens looking down with those stary blue, blue eyes forever.

Your family, friends and I miss you sorely. I love you, Michael. Until we meet

Philip H. Neff Jr.

Aug. 14, 1938 - Dec. 15, 1994

Complications from AIDS took our Philip at the age of 56. Born and raised in New Orleans, he received his accounting degree in 1959 from LSU. His career took him to Atlanta; Charlotte, N.C.; Irving, Texas; and in 1987 to San Francisco. He is survived by his father; his beloved cousin, Dolores; her husband, Paul; other cousins and their families; and friends. Funeral and burial will be in New Orleans. ▼

Charles Anthony Napoliello

March 14, 1951—Feb. 28, '94

Charles Anthony Napoliello passed away in his sleep in Los Angeles on the night of Feb. 28, 1994.

Born and raised in Audubon, New Jersey, Charles' unique interest in fashion design and cosmetology, together with a keen sales talent, landed him a job as a sales and teaching consultant to Revlon which he held for 19 years. His territory covered first the East Coast, then upon his move to California in 1984, the Western United States. This allowed him to travel extensively throughout the country, which he thoroughly enjoyed.

Charles' sense of humor was a joy to all who knew him. He was pure fun, especially at parties he enjoyed hosting, and on Halloween, when he and his friends transformed into various characters known to one and all. Charles had a quiet side as well. His pet birds were a refuge for him from a busy, hectic life.

Charles' outgoing personality won him friends wherever he went. He will be dearly missed by all of his relatives, neighbors, friends he had on both coasts, as well as the many friends he made all over the country throughout the years he worked at Revlon.

He is survived by his mother Jeanette Napoliello of Audubon, New Jersey; his sister Dianne Kenny and her husband Mark of San Diego (who most graciously provided comfort, love, and care when Charles needed it most); and all the relatives and close friends who provided support and compassion in return for all the kindness Charles showed to them and others throughout his life.

A funeral mass was held at St. Rose of Lima Catholic Church on Saturday morning, March 6, in Haddon Heights, New Jersey, followed by the funeral service at Holy Sepulcher Catholic Cemetery in Hammononton, New Jersey, later that same day.

Michael A. Napoleon

July 4, 1945—May 6, 1994

Michael A. Napoleon died peacefully of AIDS complications on May 6 at his home in Vallejo. His lover of nine years, Steven Bilodeau, and his best friend of 25 years, Michael Behney, were with him at his passing. Michael was a longtime employee at the Male Image Barber Shop and was most proud of his fabulous flat-tops!

Michael was a native of Chicago and made his way to the City in 1973. His many wild adventures here included a stint as bellman at the Mark Twain Hotel and waiting at a gay restaurant on Potrero Hill before he attended barber school and started practicing his tonsorial arts at Louie's. He will be missed by his many friends and clients.

A wonderful open house was held to celebrate his memory last Sunday in Vallejo at his home. ▼

Our dear son passed away in the hospital in Sarasota, Fla. He lived with us for the last five months of his life. He always will be loved and remembered by his brother and parents, who were with him through this ordeal. ▼

Fred Nathan

Press Agent, 38

7-2-94

Fred Nathan, a press agent who represented some of the most successful Broadway shows of the 1980's, died on Tuesday at New York University Medical Center. He was 38 and lived in Manhattan.

The cause was AIDS, said his press associate, Michael F. Borowski.

Mr. Nathan was best known for his association with David Merrick's "42d Street" in 1980 and the Cameron Mackintosh production of "Miss Saigon" in 1991. He also represented six Andrew Lloyd Webber musicals, including "Cats" and "The Phantom of the Opera," and shows for the Shubert Organization.

He was born in Brooklyn and attended Boston University. He opened his first publicity office when he was 24, representing the 1979 Broadway revival of "Oklahoma!"

He is survived by his mother, Gladys Nathan of Boca Raton, Fla.; a sister, Ronnie Greenstein of Dix Hills, L.I., and a brother, Robert Nathan of Manhattan.

Kebin Nephew, AIDS educator, dies at 33

Kebin Wayne Nephew, a Native American and HIV/AIDS activist and educator, died in his Alexandria, Virginia, home on Friday, June 17, 1994, of AIDS-related complications, according to his friends, Joyce and Tony Littleman.

Nephew, 33, a Washington, D.C.-area resident for the past 12 years, made substantial contributions to both the Native American and Gay communities during his lifetime. As a member of both, he helped to develop the D.C. branch of Two Spirits, a national organization for Gay Native Americans.

As a financial manager and development assistant with the National Congress of American Indians (NCAI), Nephew worked to develop and implement and AIDS education program for Native Americans, tribal leaders, and health educators, said Joyce Littleman.

She added that Nephew also worked as marketing associate for the American Indian National Bank and as an AIDS program manager with Support Services, Inc.

At Support Services, Nephew was the primary coordinator for the National American Indian Summit Meeting on HIV and AIDS in January 1993.

"Kebin's tireless commitment to addressing HIV/AIDS issues generally and to educating the Indian community specifically, has had, and continues to have, a tremendous impact on the awareness of tribal leaders, and serves as an example for us all," said NCAI executive director and Nephew's friend, JoAnn Chase.

Nephew's contributions were marked by numerous community awards and special recognition from the National Indian Health Board and the National Congress of American Indians, Joyce Lit-

by Doug Hincle

tleman said.

She said Nephew, a Seneca Indian, was born Oct. 16, 1960, in the D.C. area, but moved to the Cherokee Nation with his family. He went to Kansas for his higher education, attending Haskell Indian Junior College, where he was student body president, and the University of Kansas. Both schools are in Lawrence, Kan. He later continued his studies at Strayer College in D.C.

Nephew enjoyed both sports and composing poetry, Joyce Littleman recalled.

Nephew was predeceased by his companion, William B. Stealer. He is survived by his parents, Richard and Karen Nephew of Boynton Beach, Fla.; two sisters, Mareena Nephew of Albuquerque, N.M.; and Christine Sawatis of Alexandria; a nephew, Christopher Harjo of Boynton Beach; nieces, Catherine and Cherie White of Alexandria; and his close friends, the Littlemans and Chase, all of D.C.

Following a memorial service for Nephew on June 21 at Franconia Methodist Church, his family accompanied his remains to the Seneca nation.

The National Congress of American Indians, 900 Pennsylvania Ave., SE, Washington, DC 20003, is accepting contributions in Nephew's name.

Raymond Robert Nadeau

On July 20, Raymond Robert Nadeau ("Ray") passed away at the Hospice at Mission Hill from HIV-related lymphoma. He was 45 years old.

Ray was born on July 6, 1949, and was raised in Woburn. He was a graduate of UMass-Boston. Throughout the '70s and '80s, he managed numerous bookstores in the Boston area, including Reading International in Cambridge and The Architectural Bookshop in Boston, while also finding time to work as an occasional book-reviewer for the Boston Globe.

In 1990 Ray moved to New York City to manage Urban Center Books. In New York, he became involved with the Municipal Arts Council and acted as their program director for galleries.

Ray had a passion for literature and the arts. It was an eclectic passion: Jean-Paul Sartre, Michel Foucault, T. S. Elliot, E. B. White and William Maxwell. He loved architecture, especially the work of Frank Lloyd Wright. Ray had an easy, breezy enthusiasm with which he would share his intellectual passions. Ray knew the seductive power of talk. Ray knew how to make even Jean-Paul Sartre exciting, erotic — to anyone.

Ray had a passion for living — a hungry curiosity about places and people and things that were beautiful, interesting. In his early 20s, he hitch-hiked from here to Alaska and back in the company of his dog, Buckwheat. He could become rhapsodic remembering Alaskan sunsets. In his 30s, Ray traveled all over this country and the world — Australia, Europe — even when he did not have the money. Every year, he sent out 100 Christmas cards; Ray had friends all over the world — and the phone bills to prove it.

He loved well-cut shirts and mesmerizing, expensive ties. He loved music; Nina Simone, in particular. The walls of the various apartments he inhabited over the years were crammed with CDs, books, videos, paintings. In the back of his closets there always were more boxes and more books. There were too many beautiful books to own and hold and behold.

Ray loved friendships, to which he tended with special care. The meals at his place were simple and invariable — pasta, salad and garlic bread. The talk was special and fun. Ray knew how to have fun, how to make others have fun. And he was there for friends when they were sick, taking off his Ferragamo tie, doing what needed to be done.

He is survived by a father and a sister and many close friends who miss the bounty of his presence. A mass and celebration of Ray's life will be held at 6 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 24 at the Jesuit Urban Center. Donations in Ray's memory can be made to the Hospice at Mission Hill, 20 Parker Hill Ave. Boston, MA 02120.

Jef Nadeau

Philippe Jef Nadeau, 34, died Thursday, June 23, 1994 at his Gaithersburg, Maryland home due to complications associated with AIDS, according to his sister Diane Robbins of Annandale, Virginia.

Nadeau was born July 10, 1959 at Fort Belvoir in Alexandria, Va. He attended Langley High School in McLean, Va., graduating in 1977.

Nadeau worked as an art consultant at Creative Frame in Vienna, Va. and at Frame Makers in Rockville, Md. He also volunteered at the Whitman-Walker Food Bank in D.C.

"Jef was a gourmet cook who threw wonderful dinner parties and made all the preparations himself," recalled Robbins. Nadeau also enjoyed boating, gardening, antiquing, playing the guitar, and singing. He loved to escape to the beach, where he would collect shells to give to friends.

"Jef lived simply," Robbins said. "He will live forever in the hearts of those he shared himself with. He cared more about others than himself, even during the last days of his life."

In addition to Robbins, Nadeau is survived by his father, Phillippe Nadeau of Virginia Beach, Va.; his friend, Tim Moore of Gaithersburg; his lifetime friends, the Berry family of McLean, Va.; and many other friends and relatives.

A memorial service was held for Nadeau July 2 at the Berry's home in McLean. His ashes were given to his friend, Kathy Berry of Tampa, Fla.

Edward (Teddy) Nix

1948 - 1995

Teddy died March 9 after a long battle with AIDS dementia. He came to SF in 1972. In 1976 he met his lover, Roger, with whom he shared the rest of his life.

A man whose multiple virtues were redeemed by a number of charming vices, Teddy maintained a durable circle of friends up to the end. We remember his cool blue eyes, extraordinary roller-skating, caustic humor and pecan pie. He was a wonderful guy and a good bunny.

On Sunday, April 2, we shall celebrate Teddy's life with champagne and feedies. Please call 431-5894 for details. ▼

Harry Nivens

June 27, 1994

Our dear Harry entered the other room during the early hours of June 27, 1994. He had had a massive heart attack — a grave, sudden loss for his family of friends. Long a volunteer worker at San Francisco's Hospitality House, he befriended derelicts, runaway kids and others down on their luck with food and shelter. He probably managed to save a few lives.

In his life he was conscious of a mystical reality that supported his life and maintained a life of prayer that sought contact with the life force that transcended his individuality. A modest-looking man, his strength was from within.

A veteran of the Army and Air Force, he saw duty in Japan and Korea.

Always a part of the human family, we shall miss his hearty laughter and caring nature. He leaves his companion, Mary Ann, and the many whose lives he touched. He is at rest in the San Joaquin Veterans Memorial Cemetery — The friends and companions of Harry Nivens, Esq. ▼

Darrell Henry Newman

May 19, 1952–July 14, 1994

Darrell peacefully joined our many loved ones in the Lord's garden at 11:29 p.m. on July 14 at Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco, with his longtime companion, Bob Shore, and his mother, Betty at his side.

We knew Darrell to be a very private man whose life was centered around his home; his cats, Princess and Pascha; the San Francisco Giants; and the 49ers. He spent many years of his life as a cocktail waiter in San Francisco, most recently as doorman at the N Touch Bar on Polk Street, a position he took great pride in.

We know Darrell would want special thanks given to Tanya Rodda of Hospice Home Care, Dr. Aileen Dillon of Kaiser Permanente, Gary Mootz and the staff of Image Leather, and Mark Salazar and Dan Magee, home-care attendants who were with him during the final stages of his courageous battle with AIDS.

Darrell is survived by Bob Shore; his mother, Betty Boyd, of Clovis, Calif.; sisters, Patty Newman Taylor and Georgia Boyd of Madera, Calif.; brothers, Randy Newman and Raymond Boyd of Madera, Frank Carr of Clovis, David Newman of Lake Tahoe, and Kevin Newman of Chandler, Arizona.

We can relax now, Darrell, knowing you're at peace in the hands of the Lord. We love you and miss you. ▼

James H. Noel

Oct. 19, 1924 – Aug. 9, 1994

A fascinating, fun-loving, delightful and very special friend, James H. Noel, recently passed away in San Francisco.

James ventured here from the Midwest, working as a sheet metal worker and building ships in Richmond, California. In 1943 he was an engine mechanic and corporal in the Army Air Corps. After WWII, he became a sergeant in the Army and was chief supervisor of clerks for the 11th Motor Transport Squadron in Okinawa through 1947.

James later became quite the gourmet, showcasing his talents in restaurant work as well as hosting his own memorable epicurean dinner parties. He developed an astute knowledge of the opera, and his passion for it was contagious. He attended performances worldwide.

He is survived by Hulon McNeil, a relative. His parents are deceased, and he had no siblings or children. James will be very much missed by his friend, Linda Hartmann; his longtime best friend, Duane Smith, who has since given a home to James' pet, Kitty; and the others who had the pleasure of his friendship.

A memorial service will be held at Martin de Porres House, 225 Potrero Avenue, on Sept. 14, 1994, at 4 p.m. ▼

Philip ("Felipe") E. Nevarez

November 25, 1994

Philip Nevarez died on Friday, November 25, of AIDS. Services were held November 29-30 for Philip. All things considered, Philip was able to share a pleasant Thanksgiving meal with his family. He ate three "Philip-sized" servings of turkey with gravy, stuffing and potato salad, and had tastes of pumpkin and blueberry pie for dessert. He died at home in San Francisco the next afternoon surrounded by family and friends.

Felipe loved everything about his Mexican heritage. He was an accomplished Mexican folk dancer. Most dancers can do steps and move in straight lines, but not all dancers radiate with pride when they dance. Felipe did. When Felipe danced, his eyes sparkled with life and energy. Felipe last danced in public in September 1993 at the Oakland Coliseum for an Oakland Athletics pre-game show.

Philip was proud to have worked as a flight attendant for American Eagle Airlines. Since Philip thrived being around people, he had the perfect disposition for a flight attendant. He enjoyed making new friends everywhere he went. He lived through their stories and experiences. Being a flight attendant allowed Philip to achieve a personal goal in life.

David Nieto

David Leo Nieto, 39, of Arlington, Virginia, died of AIDS related complications on Friday, September 16, 1994, while visiting family in Hawthorne, California, according to his life partner, Dan Burney of Arlington.

Nieto moved to Washington, D.C. in the early 1970s. He was a staff person for the United Methodist Council on Youth Ministry from 1972 until 1975. From 1975 until 1978, Nieto worked with the Congressional Hispanic Caucus followed by employment with the Bureau of Government and Financial Operations, according to Burney.

In 1978, Nieto received a bachelor's degree in urban planning and economics from American University in D.C. That same year, Nieto joined the Library of Congress where he worked until his retirement in 1993. While at the Library of Congress, Nieto in 1984 received a master's degree in library and information science from Catholic University of America in D.C.

Nieto was born May 19, 1955 in Austin, Texas. He graduated from Regan High School, and attended the University of Texas until he moved to D.C.

Nieto was a member of Foundry United Methodist Church in D.C. and of the Gay Men's Chorus of D.C. Nieto liked to travel, garden, and admire fashion. Nieto also enjoyed spending time with family and friends and reading about Gay culture and Latino culture.

"His buoyancy and good spirits gave him a perpetually youthful and fresh outlook," said Burney, that "drew people to him from all ages and backgrounds."

In addition to Burney, Nieto is survived by his mother, Consuelo V. Akin of Austin, Texas; father, the Rev. Leo Nieto and stepmother, Mary Jean Friel-Nieto of Hawthorne, Calif.; sister, Carolyn Nieto of Hawthorne; brothers, Mark and Timothy of Austin; Jonathan of Pico Rivera, Calif.; Nathan of Hawthorne; and Michael Nieto of Hawthorne; and many other relatives and friends.

A service will be held at 2 p.m., on Saturday, Oct. 22 at the Foundry United Methodist Church, 1500 16th St., NW. Other memorial services were held Sept. 19 in Hawthorne and Oct. 1 in Austin.

Contributions in Nieto's name may be made to Food and Friends, PO Box 70601, Washington, DC 20024; or to the Foundry United Methodist Church, 1500 16th St., NW, Washington, DC 20036.

Jim R. Norwood

Oct. 19, 1940 – Oct. 23, 1994

Jim died of AIDS four days after his 54th birthday at Garden Sullivan Hospital. He struggled for seven years with the disease that eventually consumed his body and his mind, but not his heart. Beloved partner of Rev. Peter Hayn of Daly City, he is also survived by his mother, Geraldine; brother, Ron; sister-in-law, Paulette; and many friends around the world. Jim was preceded in death by his father, Robert, and his lover, Gary Way of Seattle, as well as numerous friends.

A Vietnam veteran, Jim was a retired employee of the Canadian government. He was also an active square dancer in the early days of Foggy City Squares and Western Star Dancers, and was proud when the first International Lesbian and Gay Convention was held in his beloved Seattle.

A requiem Mass was held October 29 at Saint Aidan's Episcopal Church in San Francisco. There will be a scattering of Jim's ashes in both San Francisco and Seattle during the last week of December. For more information, please call Peter at (415) 994-6963. Memorial gifts can be made to Jim's loyal and loving caregivers, The Community of St. Francis, 3743 Army Street, SF, CA 94110. ▼

Dennis Neal Newsom

April 9, 1956 – April 12, 1995

Dennis died Wednesday, April 12, of PML, an AIDS-related complication, at Laguna Honda Hospice, here in San Francisco. He was surrounded with love and support by his family of choice, James, Ed and Wyndham. A member of the recovery community, Dennis died clean and sober, as was his last wish.

Dennis is survived by his lover, Wyndham Young; his best friends, James Winkfield and Edwin Mamer, all of San Francisco; his mother, Juanita; his sisters, Sandy, Becky, Karen and LaDonna; and by his brother, Gaylon, all of Abilene, Texas.

Dennis' memorial service was held on Monday, April 24, at Martin de Porres of San Francisco. A special thanks from us goes to the staff and residents of Baker New Place, the staff of Ward 5A of SFGH, the staff at Laguna Honda Hospice, Barbara and the staff at Martin de Porres, and the Godfather Service Fund. Your support and love was felt and appreciated by Dennis.

Any donations in Dennis' memory should be made to Martin de Porres, 225 Potrero Street, San Francisco, CA. ▼

Timothy Nickerson loved to recite and to sing Psalm 23 as a young boy. As an adult he realized what it meant to have Jesus Christ as his Lord, Savior and Shepherd, and to have confidence in God's grace to him.

Less than 24 hours before Tim's death at Hospice, a friend sang Psalm 23 to him. The next singing of Psalm 23 was by loved ones and friends at Tim's funeral.

Each time I read or sing Psalm 23 I will remember that Tim is dwelling in the house of the Lord forever.

PSALM 23

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in the green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the Presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the LORD for ever.

Robert "Kelly" Neal

Aug. 29, 1954 - Aug. 23, 1995

"Precious Lord, take my hand./Lead me on, let me stand./I am tired, I am weak,/I am worn..."

"Through the storm,/through the night,/lead me on to the light./Take my hand, precious Lord./lead me home."

Precious Kelly— Thank you for a lifetime of love in the too few short years we shared. You are sorely missed by many. ▼

Jim Nyman

1949 - 1995

Jim died peacefully in his sleep, just the way he always wanted to go. He passed June 15.

Jim grew up in Bozeman, Montana, and graduated from Rosary High School. In 1968 he came to San Francisco and fell in love with the city. He attended San Francisco State University.

Jim is survived by Betty Nyman, three sisters and numerous relatives.

Jim found it hard to open up, but once he did - wow. He was a very beautiful man. I'm so glad we met. He will be greatly missed by many people.

Jim, I'll see you later. ▼

James Paul Nye

May 25, 1961 - March 25, 1995

Jim passed away peacefully March 25 after a long and courageous battle against AIDS. After graduating from USC in 1985, he moved to Seattle before settling in San Francisco in 1988.

Jim was supported and comforted in his struggle by his partner in life, Al Lorenzen; parents, Bill and Shirley Nye; his co-workers at Galoob Toys; his very special friend, Judy; and many other family members and friends. Everyone who was touched by Jim's creative and fun-loving spirit knows we have lost someone special.

God has called Jim away to be his angel much earlier than we wanted. He will always be in our hearts, our memories and our dreams. Jim, say "hello" to George, Tom, Mason, Roxanne and all our friends and relatives who have left before us. Watch over us until we join each other again. We will always love you, forever and ever. ▼

Richard L. Neas, An Interior Designer And Painter, 67

By SUZANNE SLESIN

Richard Lowell Neas, an interior designer and decorative painter known for his lyrical trompe l'oeil murals, died on Saturday at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Hospital in Manhattan. He was 67.

The cause was cancer, Dennis W. O'Brien, his partner and longtime companion, said.

Born in Independence, Mo., Mr. Neas studied at the Art Institute in Kansas City, Mo. There, he began to specialize in the decorative craft of trompe l'oeil, or illusionistic painting, creating architectural and garden scenes on the walls and ceilings of rooms.

One of his early commissions, in the late 70's from the Folger Shakespeare Library in Washington, was to recreate the interior of London's 16th-century Globe Theatre. The model of the theater, which was the same size as the original, is still included in a traveling exhibition.

Mr. Neas created decorative paintings for such private clients as Gloria Vanderbilt Cooper, Nelson Doubleday, Annette de la Renta, John Hay Whitney, and Jane and Charles Engelhard.

For the last 27 years, Mr. Neas also worked as an interior designer. His work was seen six times in the Kips Bay Boys and Girls Club Decorator Showhouse. In 1984, Mr. Neas was chosen to design a suite of rooms for Queen Elizabeth II when she visited a private home in Versailles, Ky.

Both of Mr. Neas's homes, a 1920's house in Amagansett, L.I., and an 18th-century rectory that he restored in the Perigord region of France, were widely pictured in European and American magazines.

In addition to Mr. O'Brien, Mr. Neas is survived by a sister, Norma Waitman of Lee's Summit, Mo.; a half-sister, Louise Chaney, of Escondido, Calif., and two half-brothers, Dixon Kepley of Anaheim, Calif., and Edmond Kepley of Independence.

John A. Nichols

July 13, 1953 - April 7, 1995

Born at Langley Air Force Base in Virginia and raised in Florida, John attended the University of Florida for four years, attained his Master's Degree in theatre from Trinity University of San Antonio and taught for a year at Mountain View Community College in Dallas. He moved to San Francisco in 1978 and made the city his home for the next 17 years.

John was a fun-loving individual who always enjoyed life to the fullest. Yes, he lived fast and furious. He always had an animal, or several animals, from hamsters to several different dogs — even a horse that he loved dearly. He left one of his cats to Dennis, the other to his mother.

John leaves behind his soulmate Dennis, his mother Reba and half-brother Karl-Don Ketter, his half-sister Hope Nichols, step sisters Zann and Jann, his stepmother Ann Nichols, one grandmother and many aunts and cousins, all of whom loved him dearly.

John's memorial service will be held June 10, 11 a.m., at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Van Ness Avenue and Clay Street, in San Francisco. For further information, phone (510) 357-

Salvatore "Sam" Nuccio Jr.

June 1, 1995

Sam, 50, passed away at his home in Sunnyvale, Calif., June 1. For the past five years, he was the program/marketing director of California's Historic Estate for the Arts — Villa Montalvo.

Sam was the loving son of the late Salvatore and Rose Nuccio and the life companion of the late Dave Long. He is survived by his brother and sister-in-law, Joe and Rhody Nuccio, and their family.

Sam was a native of Tampa, Fla., and received his B.A. at the University of Florida and his master's at the University of Indiana. He moved to the Bay Area in 1973 and pursued a career in the arts and entertainment field. He was company manager for Theatre Flamereo in San Francisco for approximately seven years.

Sam's many loyal and loving friends are invited to attend a visitation on Sunday, June 11, from noon-8 p.m. at the Mountain View Chapel of Spangler Mortuaries, 799 Castro St., Mountain View. Services will be Monday, June 12, at noon at the Gate of Heaven Catholic Cemetery's chapel, 22555 Cristo Rey Drive, Los Altos. Donations may be made in Sam's name to VNA, Aris Project or hospice programs. ▼

Grant D. Nielsen

June 25, 1995

Early on Sunday, June 25, mischievous Grantly left, taking his impish grin, sparkling glance, childlike enthusiasms and offbeat sense of humor.

Grant had a strong aesthetic sensibility and an intimate relationship with the natural world. He was a hub; he designed and brought a vibrancy to gardens throughout the Bay Area, connecting people through shared plantings — excess growth from one garden providing new life to others. Birds, fish, frogs, rabbits and crickets flourished in his care.

Grant was able to derive, and share, enormous satisfaction from things that most saw as momentary pleasures. He took the time to focus on the details of a particular sunset. He reveled in the nuances of poetry, and had an innate understanding of the great depth and multiple meanings in literature. He was legend among his friends for his feats of long-distance running and world-class eating.

Grant was a joyful and spiritual light who shared his passions with his friends. He was the genuine article, and was loved by his mother and father, sister, two brothers and a host of friends, who all provided for his final care.

"This is not interference; this is the next best thing to Grantly...leave a message." ▼

Sergio Navarro

Feb. 14, 1970 - July 15, 1995

Early Saturday morning, July 15, Sergio went on to become a part of something much greater than ourselves.

So many of us loved and cared a great deal about Sergio; I only hope he knows this. Among his friends are Einstein, David, Gustave, Naomi, Oscar, Ricardo and Umberto.

Services were held in Richmond, Calif., on July 20. Sergio is survived by his devoted and loving brother, Hector Navarro, and Hector's wife, Margarita, of Richmond. Also of Richmond are brother Nacho and his family, and Rick Goodwin, who befriended Sergio soon after his arrival from Mexico City in 1991.

Sergio's beloved mother and sisters still reside in the La Palma District of Mexico City.

Hasta nos vemos querido, amigo. Nos dejaste muy pronto. Siempre te vamos a extrañar. ▼

Martin (Marty)

Allen Nellans

Aug. 29, 1963 - Dec. 12, 1995

In the early morning hours of Tuesday, December 12, Marty

Nellans departed this world in his sleep for a better place. He had been battling HIV infection for 13 months. He had been recently attacked near his home on Geary Street and never seemed to recover.

Marty moved to San Francisco from Hollywood, Calif., in 1979, hailing originally from North Bend, Wash. He enjoyed a variety of career endeavors, but his favorite jobs involved those dealing with the public. He worked as a bartender at many of San Francisco's well-known venues: QT, Reflections, Giraffe, Gangway, White Horse in Berkeley and, most recently, Galleon.

Marty would always greet you with a smile, and was ready to offer a comforting remark or help if needed. His witty disposition and offhand remarks were his trademark.

Marty is survived by his mother, Lois Schultz; father, Jimmy Nellans; brother, Jimmy Dean Nellans; half-brother, Brian Copeland; and close friend, Ken Odum. Memorial services will be early January 1996. Benefit fundraisers will be held at the White Horse, and the Galleon will have a benefit dinner on January 4, 1996. Donations in Marty's name should be made to the Godfather Service Fund. ▼

William G. Noblit

William G. Noblit passed away peacefully on June 23 due to complications from AIDS. Born in Detroit on November 4, 1962, Wil grew up and attended schools in Mt. Clemens, MI. After graduating high school in 1980, Wil lived in LaJolla, CA, for a brief period before making his home in Boston.

While here, Wil found many ways to enrich his life. His love of change and adventure led him from the financial district, to Provincetown, and, of course, the gym. Always there with a smile, Wil never missed the opportunity to brighten a friend's day with a card, a note or a call. His happiest moments were spent with his partner, and family of friends.

Wil will be greatly missed by his parents, Betty and Nelson of Mt. Clemens, MI; his siblings; Michael, Jerry, Anne and Patty; and his four nieces and his nephew. Wil also leaves behind his partner Sam Peterson, along with many dear friends, and his Jasmine.

Join us to celebrate Wil's life on Sunday, July 16, from 5 p.m. until 7 p.m. at 152 West Concord St. in the South End. In lieu of flowers, Wil requested that contributions may be made to The Hospice at Mission Hill, c/o Kendall Walton, 20 Parker Hill Ave., Boston, MA 02120.

Tommy Novak

Thomas A. Novak, 36, of Arlington, Virginia, died Monday, April 17, 1995 at Woodbine Nursing Center in Alexandria of AIDS related complications, according to his friend, Mike Smith of D.C.

Novak was born Sept. 9, 1958 in Dundalk, Md., where he also grew up and graduated from high school.

In 1982, Novak moved to the Washington area and worked as a waiter at the Prime Rib Restaurant on K Street, NW, until his retirement in 1994.

Novak was fond of art deco and Erte artwork, reading, and interior design.

"He will be remembered for the incredible courage and dignity in which he fought this disease," said Smith. "He will be truly missed by all who knew him."

In addition to Smith, Novak is survived by his mother, Sophia Novak; brother, Joseph Novak; both of Dundalk; and his many, many friends.

A memorial service was held April 22 at St. Mary's Church in Dundalk and interment services were held at St. Stanislaus Cemetery in Baltimore.

M. Niro

Aug. 21, 1952 - June 17, 1995

Niro lost his battle with HIV disease surrounded by loving friends and the comfort of his beloved mother. An intense, multi-talented and very opinionated individual, he traveled through life making strong bonds with people of all walks of life through his down-to-earth approach and extremely perceptive ability to get to the truth, whatever the situation.

Born and raised in Milford, Mass., Niro came to San Francisco in the late 1970s to find new and better opportunities to develop and expand both professionally and personally. He was involved in the floral industry for most of his professional life.

Niro's special thanks go to Allison; Kelly, his hospice nurse; Charles; Dr. Heath; Michael; Diana; Amanda; the construction crew who remodeled his ranch home to accommodate his needs; his mother, Angie; and Greg, who traveled so far to give The Three Musketeers one last stand.

A celebration of Niro's life will be held on his ranch in Cotati on August 20. For further details, please call Michael at (415) 864-6681 or Allison at (707) 664-0455. Donations are encouraged to Face to Face of Sonoma County for their efforts and services, which greatly benefited Niro. ▼

Jamie Norton

The family and friends of Jamie Norton regretfully announce his passage from this lifetime on August 12 after a long battle with liver disease and AIDS. He was 32.

A native of Chenango Forks, New York, Jamie moved to Boston from New York City in January 1990. He quickly developed a reputation as one of Newbury Street's leading hair colorists, working at Born 2B Wild and Ibis, and in February 1991 he received mention in Vogue as the best colorist in Boston. Jamie also worked at Dramatics and John Dellaria salons in New York City and Paul Richards Salon in Provincetown. As well, he was known to give a mean buzzcut in the antique barber chair he kept at home in his living room.

He is survived by his mother, Reva Norton; brothers Ken, Tom, and Dan; and sisters Cindy and Nancy (Davies), all of Binghamton, New York.

In addition, he leaves a collection of devoted friends from around the country, including Mark Haddad and Leila Roman of New York City; Jim Teehan and Joe Allen of Boston; Terry Salvaggio, Lenny Santamaria, and Dan Burns of Provincetown; Mark Taylor of Washington, D.C.; and Brian Keil of San Francisco.

Jamie also held a special place in his heart for the employees and volunteers at JRI Health, including Holly Schick, May Baldwin, Brian Geen, Liz Shaw and Andrea Rogers.

A memorial celebration of Jamie's life will be held on Sunday, September 24, from 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. in the Sunset Lounge at Club Cafe, 209 Columbus Avenue, Boston. All who knew Jamie are invited to attend. 95

Richard H. Nilsen

November 10, 1946 — May 6, 1996

Richard passed in San Francisco, beloved son of Barbara Nilsen and loving brother of Debra and Robert Nilsen.

Born in San Francisco, his family moved to Marin in 1949. After graduation from Drake High in 1964, Richard won a scholarship to Columbia University in New York, graduating with a B.A. in English in 1968.

Summers included working as an oarsman on the Colorado River, a part of the country he enjoyed and in which he found solace for the rest of his life. His work as a union carpenter in SF enabled him to buy land on Sunshine Mesa in Colorado, where he lived part time.

During the early '70s, Richard was involved in starting community gardens in SF. Later, he started writing for the Whole Earth Catalog in Sausalito — a 20-year career in Journalism that enabled him to combine his gifts for writing and editing with his concerns for the environment. He edited a special catalog, Helping Nature Heal.

A memorial gathering is planned for Saturday, June 1 at 1 p.m. at the Redwood Grove in Samuel P. Taylor State Park in West Marin. The family asks that contributions be made to the Nature Conservancy in Richard's memory.

Kenny Novack

Kenneth Scott Novack, a long-time resident of Washington D.C., died Monday, September 25, 1995, of complications associated with AIDS in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, according to his friends

Donn Murphy of Arlington and Michael Figueroa of Alexandria, Virginia. He was 49.

Novack was born Jan. 2, 1946, in Fall River, Mass. He grew up in Plainview, N.Y., and moved to Rhode Island during his last year of high school. After high school, Novack graduated from the University of Rhode Island, where he earned a bachelor's degree in business administration in 1969.

After college Novack moved to Washington where he worked for 22 years in the automobile industry as an automotive designer.

According to Murphy and Figueroa, Novack loved the classic cars of the 1950s and '60s for the beauty of "their sculptured lines and their artful design."

But classic cars were not Novack's only love.

"Ken's zest for adventure and fun loving nature, and his great energy, found expression in country and classical music, mountain hiking, motorcycling, and traveling. He also loved exploring the worlds of science fiction, history, film, and theater," said Figueroa.

Novack is also survived by his mother, Barbara Sterns of Coconut Creek, Fla.; sister, Linda Kenny and her husband, Michael Kenny; two nephews, Ethan Kenny and Matthew Kenny, all of Charlottesville, Va.; and many friends.

There was a private family memorial service for Novack. Novack's remains have been cremated, and his ashes will be scattered over the Blue Ridge Mountains.

February 15, 1996

Roger Lawrence Nye Jr., 65, native San Franciscan and son of the late Roger L. Nye and Edith Harris Nye, died February 15 at UC Mt. Zion following a cancer operation.

A legendary partygiver at the Broadway Social Club and two Sacramento Street venues, Trixie was known best for his annual Academy Awards parties and kept in touch with friends throughout the country who were interested in the motion picture arts.

A 1948 graduate of Lowell (a classmate said, "Roger did drag before it was chic!") and 1952 UC Berkeley, he worked at Universal Studios, Balfour Guthrie, Burgermeister Brewing Co., and Schwabacher Frye and its successors.

Roger is survived by his aunt, Ruby Harris Ryman, and her husband, of Southern California; cousins, Judy Ryman Severson, Joan Ryman Kleiman, Shirley Ryman Witeck, David Ryman and Pat Conner; and legions of friends.

There will be no memorial service. A party in his memory, in accordance with the wishes expressed in his will, will be held in the near future. Contributions are suggested to the American Cancer Society. ▼

Charles P. Nadeau, 38

Organist and office manager

Charles P. Nadeau of Needham, an office manager and accomplished organist, died Thursday of brain cancer at his home. He was 38.

Born in North Smithfield, R.I., Mr. Nadeau attended St. Paul's Elementary School and North Smithfield High School. He worked briefly as a machinist and then for Replacement Auto Parts of Milford, before moving to Needham to become the office manager for attorney Joseph P. Gibbons, a job he held for the last 14 years.

Mr. Nadeau played the organ in local theater productions and was a past officer of the Organaires of West Suburban Boston. He also was a computer buff.

He leaves his companion, Joseph Gibbons of Needham; his parents, Normand H. and Lucille L. (Benjamin) of North Smithfield; and a brother, Danny N. of Woonsocket, R.I.

A funeral Mass will be said at 11 a.m. Tuesday in the Church of St. Paul in Blackstone. Burial will follow in St. Jean Baptist Cemetery in Bellingham. 9-5-96

RYAN NAKAGAWA, 40, chief ethics officer of Los Angeles' Metropolitan Transportation Commission, died of AIDS January 11. Prior to his job with the MTC, Nakagawa served as policy advisor to then-state controller Gray Davis, now California's governor, and served on the LA County Judicial Procedures Commission. "Ryan was a true diplomat," said his partner James Litz. "He could speak before any group and keep his cool." Fluent in Russian, Nakagawa was also a marathon runner. Nakagawa's ashes will be scattered along Ka'ena Point on Oahu, his native island, in Hawaii—"where spirits depart," Litz said. 99

Connie Norman, 46, AIDS activist, radio talk show host, and newspaper columnist, died July 14 of AIDS-related complications at Los Angeles's Chris Brownlie Hospice, according to the Los Angeles Times and Frontiers, a West Hollywood, Calif. Gay newspaper.

For her tireless work with California AIDS organizations, Norman was dubbed the "AIDS Diva." She was a founding member of the HIV Health Services Planning Council, Los Angeles; a board member of Being Alive, an L.A. AIDS advocacy group; and director of public policy for the AIDS Service Center in Pasadena, Calif. Norman was a member of ACT UP Los Angeles and the L.A. chapter of Stonewall Democratic Club.

Norman ran away from home at age 14 and underwent gender reassignment surgery in 1976. Whether she was addressing her audience on her Gay radio talk show, The Connie Norman Show, or in her newspaper column which ran in the San Diego Gay newspaper Update, Norman was not secretive about her past: "I often tell people that I am an ex-drag queen, ex-hooker, ex-IV drug user, ex-high risk youth, and current postoperative transsexual woman who is HIV positive."

Her husband of 13 years, Bruce Norman, remembers when his wife found out she was HIV antibody positive. He said she shut herself in the bedroom with all the information on HIV and AIDS that she could find. Then, two months later, "She came out fighting and never stopped," he said. Norman also is survived by a grandmother and an aunt. 96

Don Novak

1940 - 1996

Don lost his final battle with AIDS in Palm Springs on Valentine's Day. He died as he lived - with grace, awareness and pride.

Following his heart, Don moved from his hometown of Chicago to San Francisco, and it was his heart and the need of gay community that took him to Long Beach and finally Palm Springs. He hated to leave this city, but he's coming back for his last physical visit - happy hour at the Station, cruising the Folsom St. Fair, Sunday at the Eagle and then a spot he chose for a final farewell.

Don requested that his friends "have a drink and remember me and listen to my favorite song, 'Hotel California,' by the Eagles. To those I leave, remember I love you." 2-14-96

As a memorial tribute, Don suggested volunteer work or a contribution to an AIDS-help organization - particularly The Desert AIDS Project (750 Vella Rd., Palm Springs).

John Nelson

John Derek Nelson, 36, of Washington, D.C., died from AIDS-related complications at Washington Adventist Hospital in Takoma Park, Maryland, on Wednesday, July 10, 1996, according to his friend Les Butler, also of D.C.

Nelson was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, on July 8, 1960, and grew up there. In 1981, he began working with the Evans Fur Company of Dayton, Ohio, one of the largest fur companies in the United States, and began a successful 15-year career as one of the few African American furriers in the country, said Butler.

In 1986, Nelson moved to Washington, D.C., and began working as a protégé to Lev Matlin, master furrier of Miller's Furs, and Manny Miller, president and owner of the company.

Nelson established his own proprietorship in 1992, called The Independent Furrier, and quickly secured himself in the Washington, D.C., fur industry, said Butler.

According to Butler, Nelson was the only African American furrier in Washington who sold, made, and re-styled furs. His clients included people throughout the Washington and Baltimore areas who represented a variety of social, economic, and political backgrounds, said Butler.

In 1993, Nelson's work was featured in a fashion show for the Congressional Black Caucus Legislative Weekend, said Butler. Nelson changed his company's name to Furs by John Derek in 1994, in preparation to one day open a store of the same name.

Nelson also volunteered for Food and Friends and Us Helping Us, and attended 12-step recovery meetings at the Cardozo, Triangle, and Dupont Circle clubs, said Butler.

In addition to Butler, Nelson is survived by his father and step-mother, Roland and Peggy Nelson; seven brothers and sisters, all of Cincinnati, Ohio; and by his friends Michelle Lax and Zegary James Oliver, both of D.C.

SOUTH AFRICAN GAY LEADER

SIMON NKOLI DIES

AGE 41

South Africa's most well-known gay activist is dead of AIDS.

Simon Tseko Nkoli died Nov. 30 at Johannesburg General Hospital.

In a joint statement, the Gay and Lesbian Organisation of Witwatersrand and the National Coalition for Gay and Lesbian Equality — both of which Nkoli helped found — said: "We mourn the loss of an important anti-apartheid activist, gay and lesbian rights activist and HIV/AIDS activist. Simon was a courageous person who dared to declare his sexual orientation and his HIV status at a time when few were prepared to do so. Through these acts he defied the notion that being gay is unAfrican.

"As a founding member, of both GLOW and the NCGLE, Simon played an important role in ensuring that equality for gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender persons has been entrenched in the South African Constitution as an unalienable right. Simon played an important role in putting lesbian and gay issues on the agenda of the African National Congress."

At the time of his death, Nkoli was president of GLOW, a board member of the International Lesbian and Gay Association, a member of the 1999 ILGA World Conference Organising Committee and a member of the African National Congress.

Nkoli was jailed for treason for three years in the mid-1980s. In a 1989 interview with this reporter, he explained: "It was because of my previous political involvement. I was involved in anti-apartheid organizations and demonstrated against unjust laws such as detention without trial, inferior education and the increas[ing] of rent. I was held under Section 29 of the Internal Security Act and didn't get bail until I gave evidence for my defense in June 1987."

A memorial service was held in Johannesburg Dec. 4. Other memorials and a funeral were planned.

Nkoli is survived by his lover, Roderick Sharp. 98

John A. Nunes

John A Nunes died suddenly and unexpectedly June 1 at the home in Roslindale he shared with his partner, Tom Wallace. He was 40.

John spent his childhood primarily in Medford and Lexington. He lived briefly in San Francisco and for 10 years in New York before returning in the 1980s to Boston. In 1983 John received a BA in Fine Arts from New York University, specializing in video photography. In 1994 he earned a Masters in Nursing from Mass. General Hospital's Institute of Health Professions. At graduation, he was awarded the Institute's prestigious "Excellence in Clinical Nursing Practice" (the "Golden Nursing Cap") award and went on to become a licensed Nurse Practitioner in the Boston area.

As a nurse practitioner, John specialized in the care of AIDS patients and served as president of the Association of Nurses in AIDS Care. In addition to a warm and caring heart, he possessed the skills, determination and the persistence that were necessary to ensure quality care, human dignity and civil rights for people living with AIDS. He was truly the best in heart and skill and was completely dedicated to the care of his patients.

Over the past several years, John took a sabbatical from nursing and turned an avid interest in vintage dolls and toys into a thriving hobby. Last year, he and his partner launched Valley of the Dolls.com, one of the first e-commerce websites to specialize in Barbie and other dolls and toys from the 60s and 70s. Almost overnight, the website became world renowned and John became one of the most respected and knowledgeable gurus of the doll world. In an industry known for dishonesty, John was widely respected for his integrity.

John could often be seen walking his dog Spike around the South End where he lived for a number of years with his then-husband, Jim Tucker. He also worked out daily, or almost daily; loved to downhill ski unreasonably fast and loved to rollerblade. The many who truly loved him will greatly miss his humor, intense charm and kindheartedness.

A memorial service for John will be held at Arlington Street Church on June 29 at 8 p.m.
