

Charles Figone
June 26, 1993

Charles died peacefully in his San Francisco home early Saturday morning, June 26, of complications related to AIDS. His lover Reeves and good friend Barry were with him. Throughout his painful ordeal Charles never lost his positive attitude or bizarre sense of humor. At the time of his death he had been clean and sober for almost two years.

He leaves behind his parents, Robert and Elizabeth, his brother, Rick; and sister-in-lawm Tara; and his friends Marie, Sandra and Owen.

A funeral mass was said at Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church in San Rafael on Wednesday, June 30. His family prefers contributions be made to the San Francisco AIDS Foundation, P.O.

Gilberto Ferraz

Gilberto Ferraz of Springfield, Illinois, died at his home on Thursday, May 6, 1993, of complications associated with AIDS, according to his life partner, Patrick Baikauskas, also of Springfield. He died on his 32nd birthday.

Ferraz was born in Sao Paulo, Brazil and raised on his family's farm in Garca, Brazil. In 1977 he studied English at Cambridge, England. He moved in the late 1970s to the United States after the divorce of his parents, settling with his mother in Miami, Fla., where he completed his secondary education.

Ferraz attended Dade County Community College for two years and was accepted at the Boston Architectural Center in Boston, Mass., where he received a degree in architecture. After graduating in 1986 he worked for the internationally known architectural firm of Cambridge Seven in Boston.

Ferraz returned to Miami in 1989 and worked as an instructor in architecture and design at Dade County Community College.

"As a teacher, Gilberto found a real love and his students quickly found in their young teacher an inspiration and mentor and were injected with his love for design and his constant support for their work," Baikauskas said.

Ferraz met Baikauskas, his partner for life, in Miami in 1990. In June of the same year he moved to Washington, D.C. and worked as an administrative assistant for the Green Cross Clinic and later as an administrative assistant and translator for the Center for Natural and Traditional Medicine (CNTM), an organization dedicated to finding natural medicines and procedures to combat AIDS. Ferraz represented CNTM at the 1992 International AIDS Conference in Amsterdam.

He worked for CNTM until his health problems forced him to give up his position. Baikauskas changed jobs at that time and they both moved to Baltimore, Md., where Ferraz was able to pursue his love of art. He had one showing of his drawings at the Baltimore Chapter of the American Institute of Architects (AIA) and studied painting at Towson State University.

Baikauskas changed jobs again March of 1993 and Ferraz moved with him to Springfield, Ill., where he spent his final weeks.

"There are many things for which Gilberto can be remembered, but chief among them will be his gentle spirit, his courage and faith, his charm and unfailing kindness to all he met," said Baikauskas.

In addition to Baikauskas, Ferraz survived by his father, Marcello Ferraz of Sao Paulo; his mother, Josephine Ferraz of Miami; a sister, Christina Ferraz; brother, Ricardo Ferraz; niece, Anapac Ferraz; and nephew, Alex Ferraz, all of Miami; his former wife and constant friend, Giselle Ferreira of Boston, Mass.; friend, Roy Breimon of D.C.; and many other close friends in this country, Europe, and Brazil.

Ferraz's remains were cremated and the ashes will be interred in the various places in which he lived.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, May 29, at St. Francis Church at the Mother house of the Third order of St. Francis in Springfield.

Contributions in his name can be made to Bethany Place, 224 W. Washington St., Belleville, IL 62220.

Cory D. Fry 1991

Cory D. Fry died of AIDS in Portland, Oregon on September 4. He was 31 years old. He is survived by his lover, Reed Clark; his mother Nancy, his sister Wendy, the "hounds" (Mimi and Maude), and his best friend Luis Lavin. Cory also leaves many other loving friends in Boston, including Martha, Marina, Katie, David, Scott, the Burleys, Michael, Chris, John and Tim.

Cory lives in Boston for four years before returning to Portland. He was a vice president at the Bank of New England and winner of the Tiara della Fallon. We will miss his biting wit, his outrageous sense of fun, and his impersonation of Pat Stevens.

Cory, you touched our lives. We miss you and love you.

A memorial service will be held in Boston in the next few weeks. Friends may call (617) 236-5987 for further information.

Roger Forsythe, 36; Was Head Designer At Perry Ellis Group

10-6-91

Roger Forsythe, head designer for the Perry Ellis Group, the men's wear company, died on Sunday at New York University Medical Center. He was 36 years old and lived in Manhattan.

He died of lymphatic cancer, a company spokesman said.

Mr. Forsythe, who was born in Missouri and raised in Texas, was recruited by the group in 1988 as vice president and men's design director. His assignment was to restore the humor and verve in sportswear that had characterized the originals of Perry Ellis.

Mr. Forsythe's design direction proved so successful, the company said, that its sales of men's wear had soared from a yearly rate of $15 million to more than $100 million since his arrival. Revenues for Perry Ellis, a division of the Salant Corporation, had slumped after Mr. Ellis's death in 1986.

Mr. Forsythe earned a business degree from the University of Houston and then moved to the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York City, where he graduated with an associate degree in applied sciences, specializing in men's wear, in 1982. He worked for Jean Paul Germaine, Kenneth Gordon and D. D. Dominick, and was director of men's, women's and children's sportswear collections at Basic Elements before he joined the Ellis Group.

His companion was Peter Fressola of Manhattan.

Mr. Forsythe is survived by his father, John, of Dallas, and two brothers, Bill, of Des Moines, and Brad, of Houston.

James Ford, a Sculptor And Print Maker, 45

4-16-92

James Ford, a sculptor and print maker, died on Tuesday at his home in Manhattan. He was 45 years old.

He died of AIDS, said his companion, Peter Reed.

Mr. Ford was known for austere sculptures that made use of a wide range of materials: glass, water, steel and copper. Recently, he had produced monumental works that related to his struggle with AIDS, using images drawn from laboratory equipment. Over the last few years, he did a number of sculptures for public spaces, including a Veterans Memorial Fountain for Columbus, Ohio, and a Veterans Memorial Plaza for Winston-Salem, N.C.

A master print maker, he was included in a large 1990 survey called "The Unique Print" at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston. He also designed a number of sets for dance groups, including the Contemporary Ballet, headed by Mr. Reed, and the Nina Wiener Dance Company.

Mr. Ford was born in Yuma, Ariz. He graduated from the University of California at Santa Barbara in 1960 and received a Master of Fine Arts degree there in 1972.

He is survived by his parents, Clara and Payton Ford, and a brother, Ron, all of Bakersfield, Calif.

Roger Ferri, Architect, Dies at 42; Integrated Nature Into Structures

By CAROL VOGEL

Roger C. Ferri, an architect known for his theories about integrating nature into buildings, died on Thursday in the New Milford Hospital, New Milford, Conn. He was 42 years old.

He died of AIDS, said Channing Blake, his longtime companion.

Mr. Ferri grew up in Wantagh, L.I. He was trained in classical painting before entering architecture school at the Pratt Institute, where he received his Bachelor of Architecture degree in 1972. He continued to study classical painting, figure drawing and anatomy, primarily at the Art Students League in Manhattan. Mr. Ferri also taught freehand drawing for architects at Columbia University and had been a consultant on curriculum to the School of Architecture at the University of Miami, where he also served as a visiting design critic.

From 1984 through 1986, he was a vice president and design principal of Welton Becket Associates in New York. During his time there, he designed more than $2 billion in construction, including the Dai-Ichi Hotel in Tokyo, mixed-use developments, housing and office buildings. In 1987, he opened his own firm, Roger Ferri Architect, and returned largely to small-scale work, designing a variety of houses and apartments.

Mr. Ferri also transformed an old gymnasium in Loretto, Pa., into the Southern Alleghenies Museum of Art and restored the conservation and permanent storage facilities of the New York Historical Society in Manhattan. He also designed the installation of the society's Tiffany glass collection.

Mr. Ferri was best known for his theories about the integration of nature and architecture. One of his most ambitious schemes, widely published but never built, was a proposal for a 44-story glass skyscraper in Manhattan that included a series of terraces and setbacks with huge gardens and rocky landscapes. A house he built on Fire Island sits on a trellis base and was designed to seem as though the house itself were a balcony overlooking the ocean.

In 1979, Mr. Ferri was commissioned by the Museum of Modern Art to present a visionary scheme for a pedestrian city as an afterword to "Transformations in Modern Architecture," a large exhibition tracing 20 years of contemporary design trends. Mr. Ferri's design, titled "A Proposal for an American Architecture and Urbanism in the Post Petroleum Age," included a dome surrounded by a series of "Hypostyle Courtyards" that were halls in the shape of giant lilies 42 feet high.

"He recognizes the great gap between what the public want in their buildings and what most architects are giving them," wrote Colin Amery, architecture critic of The Financial Times in London. "It is time, he feels, and most critics would agree, for a new Renaissance."

Mr. Ferri is survived by his mother, Marion Ferri, of Manhattan; two sisters, Jane Ferri, of Greenwich, Conn., and Gloria Ferri, of North Wales, Pa., and two brothers, Peter, of Cos Cob, Conn., and Paul, of Lyme, Conn.

CHILD DIES OF AIDS - Three-year-old Angela Folsom of Duxbury, Vt., is shown with her mother, Jennifer, who died last month of acquired immunodeficiency syndrome. Angela died Sunday. "She was just worn down," said Fred Kenney, Angela's uncle. The child's father, Doug, shot himself in June.

Kevin Flynn

Active locally in ACT UP

1991

Kevin Flynn died early Monday morning, Nov. 10, at Massachusetts General Hospital as a result of AIDS. He is sorely missed by many friends and relatives.

Kevin was 31 years old and had lived in Boston for the last 12 years. Most recently, he lived in Dorchester and prior to that, the South End. He was born and spent his childhood in Brockton, where he attended the Brockton Public School System. Kevin was a partner in the auto body repair shop, Bodyworks. He had worked for a time as a sous chef at the Four Seasons Hotel, and as a waiter at Appley's in the Sheraton. In the last couple of years, he had devoted his considerable energy and talents to AIDS activism. He was a member of the AIDS Coalition to Unleash Power (ACT UP/Boston). He planned, attended and got arrested at several ACT UP demonstrations.

Kevin was a warm, highly intelligent and extremely perceptive person. He understood people and he understood loss. He had a wonderful sense of humor. He was kind and loving, but could wield a razor-sharp wit.

He was an accomplished musician, writer and poet, and a truly excellent cook. He knew the difference between rosemary and dill, which was a distinction that escaped some of his friends. He could whip up a five-star meal on very short notice.

Kevin's passing leaves a hole in the lives of those who knew and loved him. Among those he leaves are his mother, Ann Flynn, two sisters, a brother, a niece, five nephews, a long list of friends and Stephen Baldassarre, his longtime friend. A memorial service will be held on Dec. 7, from 3:00-6:00 p.m. at the Friends Meeting House, #6 Chestnut St., on Beacon Hill. Please call David Otto at (617) 367-5779 if you need information.

Richard A. Fleming

Richard A. Fleming died from an AIDS-related illness in early February at his home on St. Botolph Street in Boston. Originally from Jamaica Plain, he worked for the City of Boston Public Works Department for the past 25 years and for many years served as vice-president of his union.

Richard was renowned for his endless energy, practical jokes, storytelling, and irreverent sense of humor. He always said that "nobody ever had more fun than I did"; how true that was! He also spent time with his friends and acquaintances who were affected by AIDS who will use his example to cope with the rough times ahead. Perhaps the greatest testimonial to Richard are the smiles and grins that instantly appear when we remember him.

Since 1986, the Gene Frey Awards have been presented annually in memory of Gene Frey, who served as a spokesperson for people with AIDS, and as a volunteer and staff member at Whitman-Walker Clinic. Active in the Alcoholism Program and the VD Clinic, Gene also managed the AIDS Evaluation Unit for two years before his death.

FISHER—John Dickson (Dick). On December 10, 1991 of AIDS. Previous employee of the New York Times Family Circle Magazine. Son of the late Arnie and Charlotte (nee Dickson). Cousin of Barbara Dickson Walker. Also survived by Eleanor Dickson and Eleanor Roethke. Dear friend of Larry, Mel, Kim and Glenn. Friends may call Friday, 7-9 PM, Redden Funeral Home, 325 West 14th St, NYC. Service to be held at 8 PM. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made in his name to Gay Men's Health Crisis.

Dianne Fitzgerald of Hyde Park, 45, a senior analyst

11-15-91

Dianne M. Fitzgerald of Hyde Park, formerly of Winthrop, a senior programmer and analyst, died of cancer Tuesday at the Hospice at Mission Hill. She was 45.

Born in Boston, she was a graduate of Hyde Park High School and earned a degree from Northeastern University in 1971. She also attended Suffolk University and Boston University.

Ms. Fitzgerald lived in Winthrop for 10 years before moving to Hyde Park.

She worked as a senior programmer and analyst for Commercial Union Insurance Co. in Foxboro and Boston for 25 years.

She is survived by her mother, Katherine V. (Rogerson) of Hyde Park; a nephew; and two nieces.

A funeral Mass will be celebrated at 11 a.m. today at St. Theresa's Church, West Roxbury.

Burial will be in Mount Benedict Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Arrangements by P.E. Murray Funeral Service, Boston.

FORMAN—Robert S. Age 37. Much loved by his parents Naomi and George, his long time companion Paul Benjou and many friends. He will be fondly remembered and greatly missed. Services Friday, 12:45 at "The Riverside", 76 St and Amsterdam Ave. 7-25-91

FOTOPoulos—Mark. Age 35, on November 29, at his family's home in Fernandina Beach, FL, after a long and courageous life with AIDS. Survived by his father John, mother Anne, sisters Kate and Paula, brother Peter, and his loving friend Robert. 1991

Timothy Patrick Forrest

Worked for Chamber Theatre Productions

Timothy Patrick Forrest, 35, died on April 26 from AIDS-related complications. Born in Stoneham, Massachusetts, on St. Patrick's Day, Tim was employed for several years at the New England Deaconess Hospital, before joining the staff of Chamber Theatre Productions, a touring theater for students. As the Director of Operations, Tim was responsible for the implementation of their first computer system.

Tim and his life partner, David Berti, lived in Cambridge for the past two years. They traveled often, and had just returned from a Caribbean cruise in March. As Tim's condition grew serious, they moved into the Forrest family residence, where Tim was cared for by his loving family, including his mother, five sisters, two brothers, and David. His last months were relatively happy; Tim's humor, bravery, and graciousness were always with him.

According to his last wishes, Tim is buried in the Wellfleet cemetery, very near the Cape cottage his family has owned for many years. He will be missed for his kind and gentle manner, his joy for life, and his unwavering loyalty to loved ones. His enthusiasm, whether directed to his job, or to high-impact aerobics, was always an inspiration to those who knew and loved him.

Donations in Timothy Forrest's memory may be made to: Hospice at Mission Hill, 20 Parker Hill Avenue, Boston, MA 02120.

Sadly Missed by His Provincetown Friends

Roy Gregory Ford

Roy Gregory Ford died of a sudden heart attack on Feb. 5 at the age of 41 in Dallas, Texas, his current city of residence.

Greg lived in Boston from 1972 to 1981, working first at the Homophile Community Health Service and later at Northeastern University School of Law, where he was Assistant Director of the School's co-op internship program.

He then became a law student at Northeastern, graduating in 1981. His later career took him to Washington, D.C., Nashville, Tennessee, and Dallas, where he worked in a succession of civil rights and employment law. At the time of his death, he was a staff attorney with the Resolution Trust Corporation in Dallas.

Greg held an avid interest in theater, and also worked in the Dallas "Buddy" Project to help AIDS patients.

He is survived by his father, Roy Ford; two brothers, Mark Ford and Jeff Ford; a sister, Melissa Ford Thornton, and his lover of thirteen years, John Lamb.

Greg loved Boston, and had many memories of working and studying there at a particularly formative time for Boston's gay community. His interest in gay community activism carried on to Dallas, where he and his lover recently hosted a reception for the Victory Fund, a Washington, D.C. group benefiting state and local gay and lesbian candidates, which featured Rep. Barney Frank as a speaker.

Donations in his memory may be made to the Lambda Legal Defense Fund, 666 Broadway, New York, NY 10012.

Gary "G G" Flavin
April 12, 1990

Although Vicky and I, and my family, can not be with you for Gary's Memorial Service we wanted to add to the service, because of our love for him and our deep sense of loss.

When I last saw Gary, he gave me a Rose.

Roses are beautiful; they're delicate. Roses are special. They come in all colors and all sizes — just as people do. Roses are the symbol of love ... they are given on very special occasions. They are beautiful to look at when they are closed up in a bud, and they are beautiful when that bud opens and shows its inner beauty. They make you feel good. You always linger and gaze upon its beauty.

Gary was a rose...

*A Rose once grew where all could see,
Sheltered beside a garden wall,
And as the days pass swiftly by,
It spread its branches straight and tall.*

*One day a beam of light shown through a crevasse.
That has opened wide,
The Rose then gently showed its warmth,
Then passed beyond to the other side.*

*Now, you who deeply feel its loss,
Be comforted, the Rose blooms,
Its beauty even greater now,
Nurtured by God's own loving care.*

Bruno Fonseca, 36, a former editor of American Premiere magazine who in 1982 founded the Firmature Group, a public relations and advertising company, died Dec. 3 in Los Angeles of AIDS complications. His partner was Humberto Queiroz

Bruno Fonseca, 36, Painter and Sculptor
5-31-90

Bruno Fonseca, an artist who shifted easily between abstract and figurative styles and worked in both painting and sculpture, died on Tuesday at his family's home in East Hampton, L.I. He was 36 and lived in Manhattan.

The cause was AIDS, said his wife, Anke Blaue.

Mr. Fonseca, who was born in New York in 1958, was the son of the Uruguayan sculptor Gonzalo Fonseca. He showed an early talent for drawing. After attending the Dalton School and St. Ann's School in Brooklyn Heights, he moved to Barcelona at the age of 18. He studied for six years with Augusto Torres, whose father, the Uruguayan modernist Joaquin Torres-Garcia, had been a teacher of Mr. Fonseca's father. Hints of Torres-Garcia's compartmentalized divisions of space were visible in the elegant abstractions of the younger Fonseca.

Mr. Fonseca remained in Barcelona until last year, exhibiting his work and executing public commissions in both painting and sculpture. After he returned to New York, he had a solo show of abstract paintings at the Sallander-O'Reilly Galleries on the Upper East Side in October and a private exhibition of large figurative canvases titled "The War Murals" in January at the John McEnroe Gallery in SoHo. His work is in several public and private collections, including that of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

In addition to his wife and his father, he is survived by his mother, Elizabeth; a brother, Caio, who is also a painter, and a sister, Quina Fonseca-Marvel, all of New York; and another sister, Isabel, of London.

Michael Ford, 33,

MERLINE FOSTER 11/10/92

Merline Foster, 46

Health worker, AIDS activist

Merline Foster, a health care worker and AIDS activist, died Tuesday in her home in Jamaica Plain. She was 46.

After contracting the HIV and hepatitis viruses while taking blood from a patient at Southwood Hospital in 1990, Ms. Foster worked fervently to increase awareness about acquired immune deficiency syndrome and to improve the protection of health care workers in the work place. Though her illness became disabling, she devoted the last year of her life to those efforts, even appearing on television programs about AIDS.

Ms. Foster, known as Midge, was born in Sterling, Ky. She came to Massachusetts as a child and was educated in the public schools of Wrentham. She attended Bryman medical school in Brookline, now the National Education Center, Bryman campus.

She was a eucharistic minister at St. Mary's parish in Wrentham.

Ms. Foster leaves her daughter, Sherry Quist of Jamaica Plain; two brothers, James Foster of Westport, and Russell S. Foster of Rehoboth; and a sister, Barbara Marchand of Franklin.

A funeral Mass will be said at 11 a.m. Saturday in St. Martha's Church in Plainville. Burial will be in Mount Hope Cemetery in North Attleborough.

1993 Doug Frazier

Douglas "Doug" Wood Frazier, 33, of Front Royal, Virginia, died on Wednesday, March 17, at his family's home in Front Royal of complications associated with AIDS, according to his good friend, Karen Slater of Chantilly, Virginia.

A native of Front Royal, Frazier received in 1979 a degree in general studies from the Lord Fairfax Community College in Middletown, Va. His mother, Sandy Frazier of Front Royal, also graduated then, making them the first simultaneous mother and son graduates from the college.

Frazier then enrolled in the accounting degree program at George Mason University in Fairfax, Va. Living in several cities in northern Virginia, Frazier most recently attended Marymount University in Arlington, Va. He also was employed as the payroll manager of that university until his retirement in 1991.

Slater said Frazier traveled in 1992 to Richmond, Va., where he lobbied the state legislature on AIDS-related issues. "AIDS was an enemy," she continued, "to whom Doug did not gently submit."

Dancing and traveling, especially to Rehoboth Beach, Del., were two of Frazier's interests. Described by Slater as "a world class shopper," he was also fond of music with Barbara Streisand being his favorite singer.

In addition to Slater, Frazier is survived by his parents, Sandy and Charles Frazier; two sisters, Lori Henry and Cheryl McDonald; one brother, Tony Frazier, all of Front Royal; his good friend, Christopher Kemp of Alexandria, Va.; and many other friends.

A service celebrating Frazier's life will be held at 11 a.m. on Saturday, April 10, at the Fairfax Unitarian Church at 2709 Hunter Mill Road in Oakton, Va. The Reverend Darlene Garner of the Metropolitan Community Church of Northern Virginia will be conducting the ceremony.

Frazier was buried on Saturday, March 20, in the Panorama Memorial Gardens in Front Royal.

John Ferrara

Active in Beantown bowling league

John Ferrara, age 32, died February 22, 1990, at his home in Revere due to complications from AIDS. John was born in Somerville, MA and grew up in South Boston. He was previously in the United States Army, having earned numerous commendations and certificates of achievement in the medical field. Upon leaving the army, John returned to Boston to study at the University of Massachusetts and later at Newbury Junior College, where he obtained his Associate's degree in the Applied Sciences as a Medical Assistant.

John was an extremely active individual, and was always on the move. He loved Nintendo and could spend forty-eight hours at a time mastering many of the games. He loved Rockport, and went there often to walk the town and browse the shops. He also enjoyed working in the backyard, planting and caring for flower and vegetable gardens, as well as bowling in the Beantown Tuesday Night Men's League in Cambridge.

John was a very outgoing person who always made sincere friends wherever he visited. With never an enemy, all who met him learned to love him for his honesty, kindness and love that exuded from him.

He is survived by his mother, Louis, his sister Lorraine, and his five brothers, Adam, William, Robert, Richard and Fred, as well as his lover of eight years, David and their pride and joy, their Afghan hound, Audrey. The wake and the funeral were held in South Boston.

John will be missed deeply by those who survive him. A special group who helped him during his illness are friends from Harvard Community Health Plan/Kenmore, the Boston Visiting Nurses Association, the Visiting Homemakers of Boston, and numerous other doctors and health professionals who provided and cared for John until his death.

Donations from his friends can be made in John's name to the AIDS Action Committee in acknowledgement and respect for the support, assistance and outstanding concern to, not just John and his lover, but to all of those who are affected directly or indirectly by the AIDS virus. □

Judge Richard C. Failla

New York Supreme Court Justice

1993
4-11
NEW YORK (AP) — Richard C. Failla, the first openly gay person elected to the New York State Supreme Court and a leader on gay rights and AIDS issues, has died. He was 53.

Failla died April 11 of AIDS at St. Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital in Manhattan, said Tony Picard, a family friend.

Failla was appointed a Criminal Court judge in 1985 by Mayor Edward Koch and won an uncontested election to the state Supreme Court in 1988.

He was born in Queens and graduated from the University of Florida and Columbia University's law school.

Failla's legal career began in the Navy, where he served from 1964 to 1969 as a lieutenant in the judge advocate general corps in the Philippines and Vietnam. When gay sailors were discharged in accordance with the military's ban on homosexuality, he volunteered to defend them.

Following his military service, Failla worked for the Manhattan district attorney's office and became the director of a federal project to upgrade legal representation for indigents in the Manhattan and Bronx courts.

He also served as chief administrative judge for the Office of Administrative Trials and Hearings and was appointed by the Board of Education to hear misconduct charges against its suspended chancellor, Anthony Alvarado.

When the AIDS epidemic arose, Failla joined the board of directors of the Gay Men's Health Crisis, the world's first private AIDS agency; he later became its vice president. He also served on the state Health Department's AIDS Advisory Council.

His survivors include his mother, Florence, and a brother, Robert, both of Tampa, Fla., and his father, Frank, of Safety Harbor, Fla.

David Frusti

David Frusti passed away on August 1. He left this life with the same grace and dignity with which he lived and contributed to his friends, family and the lesbian and gay community.

David was born and raised in Michigan and educated at Monteith College and Wayne State University. As a staff member at the university in the early seventies, David was instrumental in the organization of the first Gay Student Association in Michigan. David's outgoing style and warm personality also made him the campus resource for students and faculty dealing with coming out, organizing and political issues in those trying times.

David moved to Boston in 1973 and became an activist almost immediately. He served on the board of the Massachusetts Gay and Lesbian Political Caucus and was involved with the Homophile Union of Boston, teaching and organizing programs. He was also a member of Boston NOW, encouraging his fellow gay men to do likewise.

David joined Dignity Boston and found a community that changed his life. He converted to Catholicism and became a member of the board of both the Boston and National Dignity organizations. He left Boston to study for the priesthood, believing the church needed priests like him. David became a Dominican Brother and created an AIDS ministry in which he worked with pride for the remainder of his life. David's passion for the church, commitment to gay and lesbian rights and wonderful sense of humor have left a permanent mark on the Dominican Order and the church. The AIDS ministry will continue and is now a priority project for the Order.

David leaves many friends here in Boston who will miss this wonderful man who gave so freely of himself. David will be remembered at a memorial celebration following the Dignity service on Sunday August 18 at 5:30 p.m. at St. John the Evangelist Church (Bowdoin Street, Beacon Hill). Everyone is invited to come and celebrate this fabulous man and his life. 1991

11/28/93 Kim Foltz

Reporter and Columnist, 44

Kim Foltz, a reporter and columnist for The New York Times, died yesterday at New York Hospital. He was 44.

Mr. Foltz, a resident of Manhattan, died of AIDS. After he learned he had the virus that causes AIDS, he wrote about his experiences as a man infected with H.I.V. in an article for The Times Magazine on Jan. 5, 1992.

A journalism graduate of the University of Utah, Mr. Foltz started his career as an associate editor and writer at Gentlemen's Quarterly. In 1980 he joined Newsweek magazine, where he worked as a business writer before moving to Adweek five years later, advancing to national editor in 1987.

Mr. Foltz joined the staff of The Times in October 1989 as a reporter for the media department. He later wrote a daily advertising column and feature articles on advertising.

He is survived by his companion, James N. Baker; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.G. Foltz of Midville, Utah; a sister, Karen St. Clair, and a brother, Craig Foltz, both of Salt Lake City.

José Costa Ferreira

AIDS Campaigner, 39

LISBON, Oct. 16 (AP) — José Costa Ferreira, Portugal's leading campaigner for people with AIDS, died of the disease on Monday, his family said. He was 39 years old.

He was known as "the face of AIDS" in Portugal because of a series of television appearances and newspaper interviews in which he sought support for his Friendship Project, which was part of his effort to increase public awareness of AIDS and social acceptance of those with the disease. He was seen to build a hostel for AIDS patients in the countryside outside Lisbon.

A former soldier, he said he contracted the AIDS virus while serving as a mercenary in Africa.

Jess George Fisher

June 13, 1952-June 5, 1993

Jess George Fisher was born June 13, 1952 in Richmond, Virginia. He was the son of James Elisa Fisher and Aphrodite Stella Fisher.

Jess attended the Lowell, MA school system. After graduation, he enlisted in the United States Air Force. Shortly after his discharge, he moved to San Francisco.

Jess worked at Pacific Bell Telephone and Bank of America.

Jess leaves behind two brothers, Patrick Raymond Wilson and James Percy Fisher; two nieces, Jennifer and Stacey Fisher; two nephews, Christopher Wilson and James Chistos Loughran Fisher; and three special friends, Tracey Frazier, Lionel Byron and Sam Floria.

We wish to thank all the Zea volunteers, as well as all the medical and social service staff at Laguna Honda Hospital, Section 04, for their strong support and friendship.

• Robert Farber, 47, an artist whose 1992 show at Artist's Space, "I Thought I Had More Time," compared AIDS to the fourteenth-century bubonic plague, has died of AIDS-related complications. The 1992 installation included nine works from his "Western Blot Series," named for the follow-up HIV test. He lived in Manhattan. 2-8-96

FITTERMAN—Stefan, age 38, of Pelham, N.Y., died August 1, 1993 of complications due to AIDS. Born in St. Louis, Missouri to Bernard and Jean Fitterman, he is survived by his brothers, Robert of NYC and Allan of Rochester, N.Y., and his beloved and longtime companion Sid Pinkerton. A graduate of Adelphi University, he was a two time Fulbright-Hays Scholar, serving as intern and director at Story Teatr & Croafian National Theatres in Poland and Yugoslavia. He was the founding director of the St. Louis Actors Ensemble from 1985-87 before becoming Associate Director of the National Theatre Institute at the Eugene O'Neill Theater Center in Waterford, CT. In 1990, Stefan joined Actors' Equity Association where he served as assistant to the Special Projects Coordinator, working tirelessly for Broadway Cares/Equity Fights AIDS and being an invaluable contributor to the successful completion of "Broadway: Day & Night". In 1992, he became special assistant to Equity's current President, Ron Silver. He most recently produced "The Cloud in Trousers—An Evening of Russian Poetry from Pushkin to Pasternak" for his dear friend Vanessa Redgrave at NYC's Circle in the Square. Stefan will be remembered most for his loyalty, good humor and affectionate complaints. He will be missed by the many he loved and who love him. In lieu of flowers, the family asks that donations be made to Broadway Cares/Equity Fights AIDS, 165 West 46th Street, New York, New York 10036.

Lois Greenfield

Louis Falco, a dancer and choreographer who led his own company, in "Early Sunday Morning."

Louis Falco, a Creator of Chic Dances, Dies at 50

By JENNIFER DUNNING

Louis Falco, a former principal dancer with the José Limón Dance Company and an internationally known modern-dance choreographer, died yesterday at his home in Manhattan. He was 50.

The cause was AIDS, said Alan Sener, a personal assistant and former principal dancer in Mr. Falco's company.

From his earliest professional appearances as a young member of the José Limón Dance Company in the mid-1960's, Mr. Falco made a strong impression as a dancer of distinctive presence and highly developed technical resources, often in roles Limón had created for himself. By 1967, when Mr. Falco presented his first formal program of his own dances performed by his own company, the Louis Falco Dance Company, he was hailed as one of the finest dancers of his generation and as a choreographer of exceptional promise.

Taking the Doris Humphrey-Limón principle of falls and recoveries and adding tension and playfulness, Mr. Falco went on to create an individual choreographic style known, by the late 1970's, for reliance on pure dance rather than narrative and for its explosive energy, sensuality and chic. His good-looking, technically gifted dancers moved across the stage as ordinary people who happened to communicate with one another through movement. Celebrated as the essence of a contemporary artist, Mr. Falco set many of his dances to popular music and commissioned sets by popular artists like Robert Indiana and Marisol.

'I Don't Censor'

"I think my works were gutsy," he told an interviewer in 1977, three years before he created dances for "Fame," beginning a career in film that led to the disbanding of his dance company in 1983. "It comes from growing up on the Lower East Side. I don't have the same taboos as other people. I don't censor. I have a certain freedom that others don't." The handsome, mop-headed choreographer also attributed his style to his Italian heritage. "My father was born in Naples, where there is a kind of robust gaiety," he continued. "I don't come from a quiet, subtle background." One of his goals, he said, was to "create earthquakes onstage."

Mr. Falco, who was born on the Lower East Side, began dancing professionally even before his graduation from the High School of Performing Arts. He performed with the company of Charles Weidman, who was an early inspiration to the young dancer, and joined the Limón company in 1960. He left the company in 1970, three years after he began to choreograph. His first program of works included a Falco signature work, "Argot." Other major works were "Huescape," "Caviar," "Sleepers," "Journal," "Escargot" and "Caravan," which was created for the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater.

Danced With Nureyev

Mr. Falco also choreographed pieces for La Scala Opera Ballet, Netherlands Dans Theater, Ballet Théâtre Contemporain de Nancy, Ballet Rambert, Tanz-Forum der Oper der Stadt Köln and the Boston Ballet, as well as several American opera companies. He performed as a guest dancer at La Scala and with Rudolf Nureyev on Broadway. His company was chosen to inaugurate the Joyce Theater in 1983.

In recent years Mr. Falco worked in film, video and television, choreographing sequences in the films "Angel Heart," "Leonard Part VI" and "Off and Running." He wrote and developed material for film, television and the stage, and choreographed advertisements and music videos for artists like Prince, the Cars and Ricky Scaggs.

He is survived by his sisters, Anna Falco Lane and Pauline Ferruzza, and a brother, Edward.

FOSTER—John Robert, Well known entertainer and design account executive, graduate of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, 1974. Survived by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Foster of Plano, Texas and brother James W. Foster of Temecula, California. Born May 3, 1952 in Marshalltown, Iowa. Deceased September 25, 1995, New York City. Memorial service Wednesday, September 27th, 6PM at Bethany Memorial Reformed Church, 400 East 67 Street at 1st Avenue, N.Y. The family requests that all memorial gifts be made to charities of choice in John's name.

FALABELLA—John M. International stage and television scenic and costume designer is dead at the age of forty due to complications from AIDS. "Falabella," as he was known to his friends, designed fourteen Broadway shows including Harvey Fierstein's "Safe Sex" and Edward Albee's "Lady From Dubuque." He also designed numerous AIDS benefits including "The Best of the Best," a benefit at the Metropolitan Opera House directed by his dear friend, the late Fritz Holt who also died of AIDS. In addition to Broadway, he generated countless productions for Off-Broadway and regional theaters as well as numerous television productions including "Broadway Sings: The Music of Jules Styne" for "Great Performances" and five years of "Tony Awards" shows for Cates Films. Falabella was also the head of the scenic design program at Boston University where he had taught since his appointment in 1986. He is survived by his loving companion, Laren T. Lambdin, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Falabella and family. He will be missed by the many people who knew and worked with him.

Les Farr

June 3, 1935—June 15, 1993

Les, one of the most handsome guys in the city, left us all too soon of AIDS. He was charming to a fault, to his own undoing, through alcoholism, which he tried too late to stop, but he had a multitude of friends who lament his passing.

May his journey find him what and who he vainly looked for. Les, you are truly missed by more than you realized, and loved as well. ▼

BRUCE FERDEN, a conductor who made his Metropolitan Opera debut last October with the world premiere of Philip Glass's opera The Voyage, has died of AIDS complications. He was 44 and lived in Manhattan. In 1980 Ferden conducted the world premiere of Glass's Satyagraha at the Netherlands Opera and later the European premiere of The Making of the Representative for Planet 8, also by Glass, in the Netherlands. He conducted the theme and music for the credits for the PBS production of Smithsonian World and music by John Corigliano for The Adams Chronicles.

Vincent Fourcade, 58, Decorator Known for His Ornate Interiors

12-23-92

By CAROL VOGEL

Vincent Fourcade, a New York-based decorator known for opulent Victorian interiors that epitomized the lavish style of the 1980's, died on Wednesday at his home in Paris. He was 58.

He died of AIDS, said his partner, Robert Denning.

During his 35-year career, Mr. Fourcade and Mr. Denning decorated elaborate homes in both the United States and Europe with richly patterned walls of brocades or velvets, tasseled curtains, fringed lampshades and grand French furniture.

Their interiors came to be known as the Style Rothschild, which was frequently copied around the world. Indeed, a home decorated by Denning & Fourcade became such a symbol of wealth and social status that the apartment decorated for the movie version of Tom Wolfe's novel "The Bonfire of the Vanities" was patterned after one of Denning & Fourcade's designs.

First Clients

Michel David-Weil, the senior partner of Lazard Frères & Company, and his wife, Hélène, were the first clients of Mr. Fourcade and Mr. Denning. They worked with the David-Weils on homes for their entire 35-year partnership.

Over the years, Mr. Denning and Mr. Fourcade also decorated homes for the financier Henry Kravis and his wife, the fashion designer Carolyne Roehm; Lillian Phipps, wife of Ogden Phipps, the horse breeder; Antenor Patino, the Bolivian tin magnate, and his wife, Beatriz; the singer Diana Ross; Susanna Agnelli, mayor of Porto Santo Stefano in Italy, and the fashion designer Oscar de la Renta.

Mr. Fourcade grew up in Paris. He was the son of Jean Fourcade, a banker and industrialist. Although he had no formal education, he went to New York in 1957 to begin a career in banking at the Irving Trust Company, but he stayed less than a year. It was during that time that Mr. Fourcade met Mr. Denning, who was then working for the photographer Edgar de Evia.

'Just Like in the Movies'

"We were introduced by Louis Estevez, a dress designer," said Mr. Denning. "Immediately we became great friends. And one day Vincent said to me, why don't we become decorators. It was just like in the movies. Within six months later everyone knew our name."

The designers quickly gained public recognition for their designs for large, extravagant social events. One of their first jobs was decorating the Seventh Regiment Armory in New York for a cancer-care benefit. They covered the floors with wall-to-wall raccoons made from 100 old coats, covered the walls with Fortuny fabrics and borrowed French furniture, arranging sofas back-to-back, a configuration that has become one of their trademarks.

Early in their career, the firm also designed the décor for Cynthia Phipps's coming out party in Roslyn, L.I. The decorators designed huge tents of red trellis covered with prints of wildflowers that were backlit by spotlights. It was like being inside a flowered lamp shade.

Mr. Fourcade was known for his attention to detail, great wit and extreme good looks. The red brick mansion he shared with Mr. Denning on East 73d Street in Manhattan and the house he built in Bridgehampton, L.I., were the subjects of articles in decorating magazines around the world.

Mr. Fourcade is survived by his sister, Yvonne Panizza, and two brothers, Bertrand and Dominique. Another brother, the contemporary art dealer Xavier Fourcade, died five years ago.

Robert Forgues of South End, 49, was caterer

11-4-93

Robert L. Forgues of the South End, a caterer, died Thursday at Boston Specialty Rehabilitation Hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 49.

Born in Lewiston, Maine, Mr. Forgues was a caterer with Famolare Catering in Boston.

He is survived by his father, Romeo of Maine; a brother, Brother Paul of Illinois; and a sister, Louise of Maine.

A funeral service was held at 1 p.m. yesterday at the Jesuit Urban Center, Boston.

Jon Scott Ford

July 13, 1962-Feb. 12, 1993

Jon Ford was born July 13, 1963 in Tacoma, Washington, and passed away surrounded by friends and family on February 12, 1993 at Bailey-Boushays House in Seattle, Washington, following a courageous battle with AIDS.

Jon loved life and lived the adventures that it brought to the fullest extent. His desire and inner strength for his life of adventure carried him through to his final days.

In the course of Jon's love for adventure, he both travelled and discovered. These travels brought him to live in Atlanta, San Francisco and San Diego, but Seattle was his home.

Jon had a special love for the outdoors. He manifested this love through camping, hiking, going for drives in the country or by just spending a day in the park.

Jon was a special friend to many in every way, whether it was a hello in passing on the street, a quick or long conversation on the phone, spending time just "hanging out," or by getting together for a special night out for dinner.

Jon is survived by his father, Raymond; his siblings, Debbie, Tracey, Tanu, Scott, Kerri and Diane; along with his grandmother, uncles, aunts, nieces, nephews and cousins. Jon was interred at Mountain View Memorial Park in Tacoma on Saturday, February 20, at 1:30 p.m. at the grave of his mother, who passed away in 1983.

The family wishes to extend the heartfelt thanks for all of the love, support and prayers we have received.

Roy Fernandez

Oct. 23, 1948-Dec. 6, 1992

Roy died after a brief bout with

Pneumocystis in Los Angeles. He lived in San Francisco for many years before moving to Honolulu in 1986 and then to Los Angeles in 1989. He is survived by his mother, Dolly, in Florida; two step-brothers and many friends. Roy loved life and he lived it well. He loved to dance, go to the gym and was forever washing his car and working on his home. Truly a unique man, many of his friends knew him as the guru of lotions and potions. His youthful good looks were a testament to his knowledge (credited to Dolly) of skin care. A memorial is planned for Sunday, February 21, with a scattering of ashes at sea. For more information, please call Bell at 431-4246. ▼

Douglas Allen Fenberg

Nov. 20, 1951-May 26, 1993

Doug finally gave up his struggle after a ten-year fight with AIDS. Having grown up in Orange County, he attended both UCLA and UC-Berkeley. Doug worked as a senior systems analyst in Southern California for a period of seven years. He finally settled in the Bay Area in 1990, where he met his love, Brian.

Doug was active in sports and loved to swim, snorkel, and play water polo. One of his greatest pleasures was to go skiing at Tahoe. A fan of the Grateful Dead, he also took great pleasure in pursuits that embraced both varied travel experiences and the simplicity of a sunset over Ocean Beach. There was always something youthful about Doug. He was always able to smile despite the difficulties and losses he experienced in life.

In addition to his lover Brian, Doug leaves his parents, Kathleen and Fred. Other family members include his sister Susan and her husband Creighton, as well as his brother, Rick; and his wife, Cynthia. Long-term friends include John, Mike, Tina, Karen, Glenn, Richard, and Dennis. All of us feel grateful to have been a part of his life. ▼

David Richard Fox

July 10, 1949-June 7, 1993

David passed away peacefully at home with his friends Ken Wirth and Michele Dimond by his side.

In 1979, David moved to San Francisco. Here he put his Navy medic training to use working for 12 years as an operating room technician at St. Francis Memorial Hospital.

Disco bunny, theater goer, music lover (especially Streisand, Ronstadt, and Springsteen), sports fanatic (Giants, 49ers and JOE!) — David was all of these and more. David loved to sing and in 1990 realized a longtime dream by joining the S.F. Gay Men's Chorus.

David is survived by his lifetime companion Sandra Marie Fox, his siblings Dr. Paula Nessmith, Sue Boles, William Fox and Larry Fox, many nieces and nephews and three great-nieces and countless loving friends.

Special thanks to Dr. Daryl Raszl and RNs Lynne and Sandy for their compassion and outstanding care.

A memorial celebration will be held on Saturday, July 10, 1993 at 11:30 a.m. in the Swedenborgian Church, 2107 Lyon St., (at Washington) in San Francisco. Donations may be made to Project Open Hand, 2720 17th St., SF 94110, in lieu of flowers. A reception will follow at 184 Bonview, SF. ▼

Robert Louis "Bert" Firks

April 27, 1960–Feb. 13, 1993

Born in San Diego, Bert Firks passed away at home in Laytonville, California. Bert graduated from Laytonville High School in 1978. He leaves his father, Louis Cody Firks; step-mother, Ginger Firks; brothers Josh Cody and Joel Adam Firks; and grandparents, Cody and Virginia Firks.

Last October, after living most of his adult life in San Francisco, Bert came home to Laytonville when he became too sick to stay alone any longer. Always a great gift giver, in the short four months we had together he gave me his greatest gift, the gift of himself. While I had always known my son, Robbie, as the child and boy, I was given the opportunity to know, care for, and love Bert, the courageous, independent, humorous, gentle young man that he had become.

A gifted musician whose passion was sports, Bert loved playing badminton and softball. He played in the San Francisco Gay Softball League for seven years. His proudest moments came with the SF Eagle, the Endup, and the Pilsner Penguins.

To his surviving teammates and all his friends, old and new, who loved, comforted, helped, cared for, thought of, and touched him in his short life ... thank you.

I miss him too. ▼

Arnold R. Fern, 40, Restaurateur and Artist 7-27-93

Arnold R. Fern, a restaurateur and artist, died on Tuesday at New York University Hospital. He was 40 and lived in Manhattan.

The cause was AIDS, his family said.

Mr. Fern was an owner in three Manhattan restaurants. Everybody's, a small French-style bistro, opened in 1987 on Second Avenue in the East Village. The Universal Grill, a larger restaurant with a varied menu, opened in 1991 at 44 Bedford St. in Greenwich Village. The Harmony opened last year at the corner of Downing and Bedford Streets.

As an artist, he did large oil paintings of men's heads surrounded by symbolic dramatic landscapes, and smaller paintings of birds and flowers. Recently he had a solo exhibit at the Feature gallery in Manhattan and was in a group show at the Washington Project for the Arts in Washington.

Mr. Fern, who was born in Brooklyn, was a graduate of the Cornell University College of Art and Architecture.

His survivors include his companion, Osamu Uehara; his mother, Claire, of East Hardwick, Vt., and a sister, Marcia Boston of Dorchester, Mass.

Mark Farmer

Mark Steven Farmer, 31, of Alexandria, Virginia, died on Sunday, January 17, 1993 at his parents' home in Eatonton, Georgia, of a stroke resulting from liver failure, according to his partner of seven years, Olin Thomas of Alexandria. Farmer had been living with AIDS for two and a half years, Thomas said.

Farmer was born and raised in Milledgeville, Ga. He enlisted in 1982 in the Navy and served for a year aboard the USS Eisenhower. After leaving the military, Farmer moved to Savannah, Ga., and held a variety of jobs, in retail sales, as a hotel desk clerk, and as a shipping clerk for several trucking companies, Thomas said.

Farmer moved to Alexandria in 1989 and began working as a marketing specialist with Federal Prison Industries, a company under the Bureau of Prisons that runs workshops in federal prisons.

Farmer's interests included collecting antiques, especially phonographs and radios, exotic birds, and bowling. He was a member of the Silver Spring Friday mixed bowling league for the past three years.

In addition to Thomas, Farmer is survived by his mother and stepfather, Wylene and Clifford Beckum of Eatonton; two brothers, a sister, a niece, two grandmothers, and a grandfather and step-grandmother, all of Georgia. He also Benjamin Culver Flowers, 53, an interior designer, died Saturday, June 5, 1993, at the Washington Hospice of complications associated with AIDS, according to his sister, Charlotte Hale of Perryton, Texas.

Flowers was dedicated to his work and was a popular and well-established interior designer in D.C., according to Hale.

Flowers was born in Perryton. He earned a bachelor of arts degree in interior design at the University of Colorado at Boulder. He then moved to New York to study at the Parsons School of Design.

After serving with the U.S. Army in Germany, Flowers returned to New York to work for McMillen, Inc., as an interior designer. Later Flowers was associated with Bloomingdale's in New York, and in 1976, he moved to D.C. and opened the design department of the new Bloomingdale's at Tyson's Corner, Va. Flowers later formed his own design firm, Benjamin Flowers, Inc.

He was a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church where he was a member of St. Paul's AIDS Ministry (SPAM). He was also an active member of a men's social investment club. Flower's last few years were spent renovating his summer residence in Lewes, Del.

is survived by many friends, including Michael Hogan of Silver Spring, Md.; Tim Wallin of Alexandria; and Larry Watkins, Peter Strickland, Jimmy McPeck, and Evelyn Moore, all of Savannah.

Farmer's remains were entombed in Milledgeville.

A memorial service is scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 7, at 2 p.m., at 501 Slater's Ln., Alexandria, Va. Call Olin Thomas at (703) 751-1310 for more information.

Contributions in Farmer's name may be made to Food and Friends, P.O. Box 70601, Washington, DC 20024.

In addition to Hale, Flowers is survived by two sons, Winston Culver Flowers and Andrew Hall Flowers of New York City; and his mother, Eloise Flowers of Perryton.

A memorial service was held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church on June 8. His ashes will be interred at Ochiltree Cemetery in Perryton on June 11, at 10:30 a.m.

Contributions can be made to the organ fund at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 2430 K St., NW, Washington, DC 20036.

Robert H. Foster

Aug. 7, 1919-June 7, 1993

Bob Foster died of respiratory failure on June 7, 1993 in San Francisco. He had suffered from acute asthma and emphysema for several years. Hal Pedersen, his lover of more than 42 years, was with him at the time of his death.

Bob was a graduate of Ringling School of Art in Sarasota, Florida. He became a displayman and interior designer at the White House Department store, and then at the Emporium. He was a very creative and artistic person who has touched all of our lives in his own special way, continuing to sprinkle his glitter and sparkle to the delight of many friends.

Early retirement allowed Bob and Hal to make numerous junkets, including several ocean cruises to many foreign lands. Bob had a passion for needlepoint and incorporated the rainbow colors into artful tapestries which he donated to Under One Roof, to be sold for the benefit of Project Open Hand.

Those of us who knew Bob will miss his creativity, his wit and his generous nature. He always had the time and energy to help a friend or a cause.

In accordance with Bob's wishes, there will be no memorial service. ▼

Tom Fuccello, 56

Actor had 'Dallas' role

ASSOCIATED PRESS 8/23/93

LOS ANGELES - Tom Fuccello, who played Paul Kendall on the television soap opera "One Life to Live" and Sen. Dave Culver on "Dallas," died Monday of AIDS at a convalescent hospital. He was 56.

Born in Newark, Mr. Fuccello appeared on Broadway during the 1970s in "Butterflies Are Free," "The Unknown Soldier and His Wife" and "Are You Now, Or Have You Ever Been?"

He had a recurring role as Kendall from 1977 to 1979 on ABC's "One Life to Live."

He moved to California in 1979 and played the role of Culver on CBS' "Dallas."

Mr. Fuccello also made numerous television commercials and appeared on such shows as "Highway to Heaven" and "Knots Landing."

In Loving Memory of

Gerry R. Favorito

June 26, 1955

April 19, 1992

May you always walk in sunshine and God's love around you flow; for the happiness you gave us; no one will ever know. It broke our hearts to lose you; but you did not go alone; a part of us went with you; the day God called you home. A million times we've needed you. A million times we've cried. If love could only have saved you. You never would have died.

"We never lose those we give to God."

FRIEDMAN—Paul (Classical and Jazz violinist) on March 26, 1994 at his family's home in Memphis, TN. Greenwich Village resident for over 10 years. Paul will be well remembered for his incredible talent playing viola and violin, as well as his personal style influenced by creative violinists like Stefan Grappell. Paul for many years enjoyed playing with his friends at Five Oaks Piano Bar on Grove Street. Paul also ran his own medical transcription computer business—Sequel Services. He is survived by his close friend Paul Curtis, his mother, two brothers and will be deeply missed.

Jim Foulk

James Carl Foulk of Springfield, Virginia, died on Wednesday, February 3, 1993, at the Hospice of Northern Virginia in Arlington of complications associated with AIDS, according to his friend, Jay Madacsi of D.C. He was 51.

Before moving to Springfield eight years ago, Foulk was an entrepreneur in various parts of the country. After short residencies in Chicago, Ill., and the D.C. areas, he moved in 1968 to Los Angeles, Calif. Foulk began a swimming pool maintenance business in that city and also sold replica muzzleloaders.

He continued selling muzzleloaders when he moved to Springfield and starting in 1988 was employed for almost three years as a personal secretary to the vice president of the Rubber Manufacturer's Association, rubber division.

Born in Herington, Kan., Foulk graduated from the Turon High School in 1959 and then briefly attended Wichita State University.

He enjoyed country and western dancing, roller skating, watching the Washington Redskins football team and caring for his Old English sheepdog, Jason.

A volunteer at the Whitman-Walker Clinic for four years, Foulk was described by Madacsi as a person who "counted among his friends men and women of every age group from all walks of life."

In addition to Madacsi, Foulk is survived by his mother, Vivian Foulk of Turon, Kan.; sister, Conny Dempsey of Annandale, Va.; and two nephews, Cary and Justin Dempsey, both attending Fort Hays State University in Hays, Kan.

A memorial service was held on Saturday, Feb. 6, at 2 p.m., at the United Methodist Church on Columbia Pike in Annandale. His body was cremated and will be interred this May at the Turon Cemetery.

Contributions in Foulk's name may be made to Hospice of Northern Virginia, 6400 Arlington Blvd., suite 1000, Falls Church, VA 22042.

Christopher L. Fairchild
 June 23, 1957
 April 16, 1993

Christopher L. Fairchild, formerly of Newark, Ohio, passed away from complications due to AIDS on April 16 at his home in West Hollywood. He was 36.

Fairchild received his Bachelor's degree in political science from Ohio State University, and his J.D. from Southwestern University in Los Angeles. He was an attorney, political activist and former West Hollywood official (Public Safety Commissioner 1990).

He served as an attorney for ACT UP, National Coming Out Day and the NAMES Project. Fairchild was a principal financial contributor to West Hollywood Police Department campaign in 1992.

Fairchild was a founding partner in the law firm of Fazio and Fairchild; he was also a volunteer Judge Pro Tem for the Los Angeles Municipal Court.

He was co-vice president of the Stonewall Democratic Club and a member of the board of directors of the LIFE AIDS Lobby.

His lover, Gerardo Paron, said of him, "He was fiercely independent and persevering. He had a zest for life, a hunger for knowledge and a passion for social justice. Chris managed to transform the tragedy of his illness into an inspiration — for himself and others—to fight for the rights of Gay and Lesbian people. "Chris always welcomed the unexpected and the challenging, and followed up getting caught in the Russian revolution of 1991 with the Gay uprisings that followed the veto of AB 101."

Fairchild is survived by his lover, Gerardo Paron; his mother Mary L. Spears of Newark, Ohio; his father Robert Fairchild of Gahanna, Ohio, as well as numerous relatives, friends and fellow activists.

Fairchild was buried on April 20 at Forest Lawn Hollywood Hills Memorial Park.

Donations in his name should be made to West Hollywood Citizens for Better Police Protection.

Christopher "Chris" Fitzgerald

Aug. 20, 1951–Sept. 11, 1993

Chris traveled to SF in 1977 from Southern California. He immediately got into the rhythm of the gay life and never looked back. His profession as a bartender, his dedication to partying, and his love of world travel won him many lifelong friends.

With his sister Cathy, he saw behind the Iron Curtain, rode Japan's bullet train, strode the beaches of Rio, rode the elephants in India, and shopped the streets of Hong Kong. During his tour with the U.S. Navy, he was stationed in Roda, Spain, for four years.

Chris boarded for his final flight from this plane on Saturday, September 11, at the VA Hospital, Fort Miley. His brother Doug and his friends Eric, Zane, and John were with him through the day and evening, but being the proud and stubborn Leo that he was, he waited until everyone went home to "lift off" for his final destination.

Chris wanted to thank the wonderful staff and volunteers at the VA for their excellent care and compassionate support; his mother, Rose, for making it possible for him to be home as long as he could; and his brother, Doug, for his unflagging love and support — it made all the difference. He also wanted to thank his many friends, Mary, Dottie, Jean, Margaret, Linzy, Scarlett, Gladys, Billy, Vera, Rose, Iola, Cynthia, and many more for all their efforts of love and support in his final days. There will be a "celebration of life" for Chris at Marlena's, 488 Hayes St., on Saturday, October 2, at 10 a.m.

Bon voyage, Helen. Save us a seat by the juke box. ▼

Connie M. Fitzgerald, prominent AIDS activist

8-3-93

Connie M. Fitzgerald of Weymouth, a prominent AIDS activist, died yesterday at South Shore Hospital in Weymouth of AIDS-related complications. She was 39.

Born in Pasadena, Calif., she resided in La Jolla, Calif., before moving to Andover to attend Phillips Academy, where she graduated in 1972. She was a 1976 graduate of Boston University School of Communications.

Ms. Fitzgerald started a rock group, Viva Beat, in 1980. She was later employed by Massachusetts Institute of Technology from 1983 to 1989 with the video courses department.

Ms. Fitzgerald tested positive for HIV in 1985 and became an active member of the AIDS Action Committee's Speakers Bureau, speaking about AIDS prevention at schools, colleges, church groups and businesses throughout the state.

In 1990, she was elected to the board of directors of the AIDS Action Committee.

"Connie was a profound and gifted spokesperson for women with AIDS, people in recovery and all of us affected by HIV," said Gary Sandison, president of the board of directors of the AIDS Action Committee.

Larry Kessler, executive director of the group and a member of the National Commission on AIDS said, "Connie Fitzgerald will be remembered for her extraordinary courage and leadership in the fight against AIDS."

Ms. Fitzgerald delivered the 1991 keynote address at From All Walks of Life, the AIDS pledge walk.

She is survived by her husband, William Patrick; her father, Federico de Silva of Acapulco, Mexico; her mother and stepfather, Dorothy and Harry Johnston of La Jolla; her brother, Federico Luis de Silva of San Diego; and two sisters, Teresa Durham de Silva of Steamboat Springs, Colo., and Louisa de Silva of San Diego.

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at St. Boniface Church, Quincy.

Arrangements are by McDonald Funeral Home, Weymouth.

MARC GELLER

Doris Fish, at 38, drag queen from San Fran

SAN FRANCISCO — Doris Fish, one of San Francisco's best-known and most campy drag queens, died Saturday of AIDS at the age of 38, friends said yesterday.

Doris Fish was the stage name of Phillip Mills, who moved to San Francisco from Australia in 1976 and built a reputation as one of the city's leading drag queens.

Doris Fish performed in the "Sluts A-Go-Go" drag troupe in the 1980s and appeared on greeting cards sold across the country, once dolled up as first lady Barbara Bush holding a birthday cake.

In a front-page tribute, the San Francisco Examiner said Mr. Mills was "just your basic average guy" until he donned makeup, elaborate dresses and ostentatious jewelry.

"And out emerged a swanking goddess, blowsy, outrageous and vulgar, a new-age Hyde in 6-inch heels and a foot of hair ... the living embodiment of vampy camp, the deliciously tasteless queen of drag," the newspaper said.

David Fisch

Muralist, 43

David Fisch, a decorative-arts painter and muralist, died on Friday, at his home in Manhattan. He was 43.

The cause was AIDS, said Nancy Blechman, a friend.

Mr. Fisch was born in Brooklyn and attended the University of Chicago. From 1978 to 1991, he was commissioned to work as a painter and muralist on more than 30 residential and commercial projects.

His work appeared in Architectural Digest, House Beautiful, HG and Interiors and in a number of books. A one-man show of his work, entitled "Va Pensiero, paintings in oil, reflections on the AIDS crisis 1983-1992," was on exhibit earlier this year at the Derek Danton Gallery in Manhattan.

His survivors include his brother, Robert, and his sister, Judy.

Eric M. ("Poptart") Fayne Jan. 30, 1964 — July 11, 1993

Eric passed away peacefully in his SF home due to complications related to AIDS. His best friend, Matthew, was at his bedside during his final hours. Eric leaves behind a loving family. He is survived by his parents, Elwin E. and Wilda A. Fayne of Galax, Va.; two brothers, Dennis and Berry; two sisters, Chris and Judy; and most of all, Eric's pride and joy, his "little girl" Terri G., his cat.

An active member of the leather community both here and in Atlanta, Eric held the titles of Mr. Southeast Drummer Boy '91, Mr. Pendulum Leather '92, and second runner-up Mr. San Francisco Leather '92. As a title holder in San Francisco, Eric was immensely popular. His sense of community participation did not go unnoticed. He volunteered for many fundraisers by both title holders and other community activists. The much-touted benefit he planned to produce with Mr. Pit Leather John Lopez — a "Pit and Pendulum" theme — did not materialize due to Eric's failing health. Nevertheless, he attended functions when he was able to, and was always surrounded by his caring leather brothers and sisters. You will be missed by all who love you.

In accordance with Eric's wishes, he will attend his service wearing his dress leathers. A celebration of Eric's life will be held at The Pendulum in San Francisco and at the Atlanta Eagle later this month. Many thanks to all the friends at the Pendulum; we couldn't have made it without you. — MW, PT, and BC

Morgan Fine

1940-1993

Morgan died peacefully the evening of July 2 at Coming Home Hospice. He had lived with HIV for over six years.

Born in Brooklyn, New York, Morgan graduated from the New York School of Business with a bachelor's degree in 1961. In the late '60s he was involved in the gay liberation and male consciousness raising movements. After moving to San Francisco in the early '70s, he worked at a variety of jobs before settling at Rosenblum, Parish and Isaacs as a legal secretary.

Morgan was co-founder of PANT, Patient Advocates for Necessary Treatment, an organization that fought against strict guidelines for expanded availability of new drugs and to curb interference by insurers. An early member of ACTUP San Francisco and Project Inform, Morgan worked tirelessly and will be remembered for his compassion and fierce determination to make a difference in the lives of people with HIV. In the last years of his life, Morgan was a generous contributor to numerous AIDS projects and groups within our community.

Many who knew Morgan say he was sometimes cantankerous, but for his inner circle of friends he was a powerful force in their lives.

Morgan was cremated in accordance with his wishes. His ashes were scattered on the Bay. ▼

John Jeffrey Farris

Jan. 14, 1940-July 22, 1993

John Jeffrey Farris of San Francisco

died of complications associated with AIDS at San Francisco General Hospital on July 22, 1993.

Born on January 14, 1940 in Hammond, Indiana, John was raised there by his mother and, after her death, by his sister Marge in Buffalo, New York. He came out during the early 1960's while serving in the military in Washington, DC and subsequently lived in numerous cities, including Los Angeles, New York, Provincetown, Chicago, and Bloomington, Indiana, before settling in his beloved San Francisco where he lived for more than twenty years.

John had an avid interest in astrology, photography, and storytelling which he used to chronicle the lives of his loved ones and friends, whom he affectionately described as his "gay family." He traveled extensively throughout the California countryside and was especially fond of Yosemite National Park which shall remain as his monument for those with whom he shared its beauty and magnificence during the last ten years of his life.

In addition to his gay family scattered across the country, John is survived in Florida and Indiana by his sisters, nieces and a brother. His remains were cremated and a private memorial service will be held in Yosemite. ▼

Gary W. Finley

June 24, 1952-Sept. 2, 1993

Artist, designer, retailer, and world traveler. Gary left us peacefully on September 2, succumbing to complications from AIDS. Gary was born in Marysville, California. He graduated from Marysville High School, attended Yuba College, American River College, and graduated from the Art Institute in San Francisco. Gary lived in New York, Fire Island, and Amsterdam before settling in San Francisco.

He opened his retail store "G.W. Finley" on Castro Street in November 1986. He moved it to its current location on Market Street in 1989. He operated it until retiring shortly before his death. He was a very successful, smart businessman.

His hobbies and interests were music of all types, fine restaurants, and dining. Sports were a passion in his life, and the 49ers were his joy. He loved to paint and design clothes.

Gary is survived by his mother, Mahnnell; sister, Gladys; and brothers Alan, Dennis, and Wesley. He will be missed by his many friends and acquaintances — too many to mention.

Memorial services were held in Marysville, California. Donations may be made in Gary's name to Project Open Hand, 2720 17th Street, San Francisco, CA 94103. ▼

Thomas Farley II

Thomas Boyd Farley II, 46, died at his District home on Monday, September 27, 1993, of complications associated with AIDS, according to his friend, Steve Angle of Washington.

Farley was born in Oklahoma and raised in Odessa, Texas. He graduated from Permian High School in Odessa in 1964. In 1968, he graduated with honors from the University of Texas. While in college, he majored in political science, minored in economics, and was a member of the Phi Eta Sigma honorary fraternity.

Farley received a master's of public administration with honors from Syracuse University in 1971. As part of this program, he spent one year in India as special assistant to the director of Foreign Assistance at the American Embassy, in New Dehli.

From June 1971 to May 1972, Farley was a research analyst for Public Research Council, Inc., in Baton Rouge, La. From July 1972 to 1975, he served as staff assistant for Rep. George Mahon (D-Texas). In 1975, he began lobbying for the American Petroleum Institute.

In addition to Angle, Farley is survived by his father, Thomas L. Farley of Duncan, Okla.; a sister, Erma Chamberlain of Muskogee, Okla.; and several nieces and nephews. He is also predeceased by his mother and two brothers. Farley's remains will be cremated and the ashes will be scattered over the Potomac River.

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m., on Saturday, Oct. 2, at the St. Thomas Episcopal Church, 1772 Church St., NW. A reception at the home of Steve Angle and John Staples will follow the service. For more information, call

Donald Wayne Flynn

July 25, 1945—Jan. 29, 1993

Wayne passed on peacefully Friday, January 29, at 7:15 a.m. at MCV Hospital in Richmond, VA., after an eight-month battle with AIDS-related Hodgkins Lymphoma. His friend Mike was with him at the time — shortly to be joined by his father, mother, brother, and sister.

Wayne was a very versatile and talented fashion designer. He designed hats for the wife of Virginia's governor while in college. Upon moving to Los Angeles, he became men's wear designer for Catalina-Martin (including the Arthur Ashe Tennis Line) and later, leather fashion for Pioneer Wear of Albuquerque, N.M.

The love of Wayne's life will always be his passion for his art. This took many forms during his life-time, from the very detailed photo-realistic masculine studies in pencil to his finely executed acrylics, dealing with the saga of the Native Northern American Tribes.

One will always remember Wayne for the exceptional creative ability to put Halloween costumes together. His love of "different" theme parties was also his trademark, and we will never forget the leather and high heel Christmas party, or his 40th birthday, "The Great Russina River Drag Races."

Wayne gave of himself in the fight against AIDS by donating time to Face to Face/Sonoma County, and many pieces of art work to be sold to benefit the AIDS Emergency Fund.

He is survived by his parents, Herbert and Ester Flynn; one brother William Flynn; and one sister Wanda Taggart of Richmond, VA.; his best friend of 24 years, Michael Lucas of San Francisco. Wayne was surely loved and will be greatly missed by his family and many friends around the world. A celebration of life will be held Sunday, February 21, from 4-6 p.m. Please call Mike at 285-7625 for more information. ▼

Mike R. Fitcock

April 23, 1965—June 23, 1993

Mike passed through to the other side peacefully and painlessly in the presence of his mother and father in Brentwood, Essex, England. Mike was born in Brentwood (on the outskirts of northeast London) where he attended Hogarth Junior School and Brentwood County High. He subsequently received his teaching degree from Warwick University in Coventry. After graduation, Mike pursued a career as a peace officer (even in Hong Kong), but was invariably disqualified due to an eye injury — the result of a gay bashing in Coventry. He finally settled into a teaching career at Cedars Middle School in Harrow, happily challenged by 11- and 12-year olds.

Mike loved to travel (Africa, North/Central/South America) and all who met him will remember his twinkling sapphire eyes, comforting smile and robust fervor for enjoying life. Many will remember him from The Eagle, where he was a rather mischievous barback for many months in 1989 before returning to England.

Mike loved Mt. Tamalpais, the Russian River, Lake Tahoe, roses and hyacinths, raising a toast or two with good company, soft cuddly kittens, and leather. He made great chili and adored Indian cuisine, but absolutely nothing compared to his passion for Christmas!

He is survived by his parents, Ray and Maureen; his sister and brother-in-law, Jackie and Ian; his niece Debbie and nephew Daniel; his boyfriend Graham, close friends Franco, Stevie and Michelle; and is greatly missed by his fellow teachers and students, Sharon and gang at The Eagle, and lastly his wise and devoted cat, Mawg.

In closing, I ask all of you to honor my friend Mike by loving one another and living in peace. ▼

Kevin Freeman

September 18, 1993

Kevin Freeman died at home in San Francisco on Sept. 18, 1993, of AIDS-related complications. He was 40 years old and is survived by longtime companion, Hank Dutt; mother Irma Freeman; brother, Warren Freeman; half-brother, Howard Edmond, all of San Francisco; and half-sister, Carol Holmes, and niece, Stephanie Holmes, of South San Francisco.

Kevin grew up in San Francisco; graduated in 1971 with honors from Lowell High; graduated in 1977 Magna Cum Laude from the University of Utah with a BA in Music; graduated in 1985 from Georgetown with an MA in French Linguistics; and graduated in 1987 from UC Berkeley with an MA in Library and Information Studies. An avid Francophile and gifted musician, Kevin was an active performer for many years with several groups, including the San Francisco Symphony Chorus, Chanticleer, and the Choral Artists of San Francisco. Most recently, Kevin was Head of Musical Technical Services at the Stanford University Music Library, and was active on a national and regional level with the Music Library Association.

Friends are invited to attend a memorial and celebration of Kevin's life on Saturday, Oct. 23, 1993, at 2 p.m. at the First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary, San Francisco. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made in Kevin's memory to an AIDS organization of one's choice or to the Kevin Freeman Music Scholarship Fund, c/o 1235-A Ninth Ave., SF, CA 94122. ▼

David Lawrence Fehrenbach

January 17, 1994

David died Monday, January 17, in San Diego with his sister and cousin at his side. A New York native, he spent most of his adult life in California, with several sojourns here in the city.

A gentle, spiritual man, David's way to inner peace encompassed a variety of traditions. Those included a period in which he was a monastic in the Roman Catholic Benedictine order, as well as times studying Zen Buddhism and various New Age and other consciousness-raising disciplines.

Never one to judge another's beliefs, David was an extremely fastidious man who abhorred anything resembling disorder, dissidence, or dirt whether it was in his personal appearance, his home, or his vehicles. David's ability to discover mint condition cars and maintain them was legendary.

David's lasting gifts to his many friends are the memories of his impish grin, his whimsy, his thoughtfulness and his willingness to share. Good wishes on your continuing journey as the creator shall allow, dear David. ▼

Carlos Alberto Flores

Feb. 15, 1949—May 12, 1994

Carlos left us for a better place on May 12 after living with AIDS for several years. Carlos was a very special and loving person whose life touched many people. Carlos always was there when we needed him. He had a great many friends and dozens of relatives scattered around the world, mainly in the U.S. and Guatemala.

The magnolias were in full bloom when Carlos moved to SF from Guatemala in February 1967.

Special thanks to the Kaiser staff at Home Health Care Hospice, Infusion Center and AIDS ward (7th Floor), all of whom made Carlos' last few years more bearable. Also I'd like to thank our families and friends for their love and support during the past few years and during our spectacular 15 years together.

Carlos leaves behind his loving partner, David; mother, Angelica; large family; and great friends. We all miss Carlos deeply. This world just won't be the same without him. Goodbye and sweet dreams, my Pooky.

A celebration of life is set for May 23 at noon at the Most Holy Remeemer Church.

In lieu of flowers, donations in Carlos' name may be sent to Shanti or Kairos House. ▼

Alexander Frankfurter

At 30; writer for theater group

Alexander M. Frankfurter of Truro and New York City, a photographer and writer for the Pilgrim Theater, died Oct. 27 in Cuttingville, Vt. He was 30. 1993

Mr. Frankfurter was born in New York City. He graduated from the Rhode Island School of Design.

He had lived in New York City, Cambridge and New Mexico and spent most of his summers at his family's home in Truro.

While living in New Mexico, he was a volunteer at the Santa Fe Folk Art Museum. He also had been a curator and director of the gallery at the Cambridge Multicultural Arts Center.

In 1990, he was a principal in the Pilgrim Theater-MIT production of "Leonardo: Anatomy of A Soul," a multimedia production based on the life of Leonardo da Vinci that toured Eastern Europe and was presented at the Edinburgh Festival in Scotland. He also was a member of the avant-garde group's board of directors.

He leaves his mother and stepfather, Eleanor (Munro) and E.J. Kahn Jr. of Truro and New York City; a brother, David T.M. Frankfurter of Princeton, N.J.; and three stepbrothers, E.J. Kahn 3d of Cohasset, Joseph P. Kahn of Sudbury and Hamilton R. Kahn of Wellfleet.

Madonna takes it all back home

Homecoming was only a bit humbling for Madonna. She dedicated a song to her childhood dance teacher and others who have died of AIDS.

"It's good to be home," she told 18,000 fans Thursday night at The Palace of Auburn Hills, Mich., a few miles from her Rochester Hills hometown.

Madonna, who is on a world tour with her "Girlie Show," said the performance of "Why It's So Hard" was for her dance teacher, Christopher Flynn, and other AIDS victims.

Several Madonna relatives were in the audience. At one point, a dancer appeared topless in front of Madonna's father, prompting a playful admonition from the singer.

"You knew my father was going to be in the audience, and yet you insisted on coming down that pole without your shirt on," she said.

The multimillionaire entertainer's parting words were: "Not bad for a girl from Michigan."

Brother Fessenden, 46

Counseled people in need

Brother Bernard (William) Fessenden, a member of the Brotherhood of St. Gregory, an Episcopal order, died Tuesday of chronic lung disease in his home in Dorchester. He was 46. 8-10-93

Brother Fessenden was born in Pittsfield and was raised in upstate New York. He moved to Boston and was employed as an optical technician at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary.

He lived in Hyannis for a time and worked in Cape Cod Hospital. He was also a private duty nurse at Boston City Hospital while training to be a licensed practical nurse.

He worked at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston for six years and in the Addiction Treatment Center of New England for an additional six years. He then worked at Bournemouth Psychiatric Hospital in Brookline.

At the time of his death, Brother Fessenden was studying to be a deacon in the Episcopal Church at the Rhode Island School for Deacons.

Brother Fessenden was a volunteer for the AIDS Action Committee, where he helped set up a telephone counseling system, and was also a telephone counselor for the Samaritans.

He leaves his parents, William E. and Mildred (Briggs) of Waterville, N.Y.; a sister, Martha Smith, of Waterville, N.Y.; and his companion, Joseph T. Leverich.

A funeral will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow in the Church of St. John the Evangelist in Boston. Burial will be private.

Tomas Fabregas

AIDS Crusader, 36

OAKLAND, Calif., Sept. 25 (AP) — Tomas Fabregas, who fought to change the United States law barring foreigners with AIDS from entering the country, died on Thursday. He was 36.

The cause was complications from AIDS, said his companion, Jeffrey Brooks.

In 1992, Mr. Fabregas announced that he would travel from the International Conference on AIDS in Amsterdam back to the United States to test the immigration law. He reentered the United States at the San Francisco International Airport without incident.

A native of Spain, Mr. Fabregas moved to the United States in 1979. He was infected with H.I.V. here, Mr. Brooks said. 9-23-94

Robert Framo

Robert Framo, poet and writer, was met by the Light on April 25, the morning of the March on Washington. He was 33. He is survived by seven brothers and sisters and many loving friends including James Crutchfield, former roommate of Washington D.C., and Marsha Gaspar of Collingswood, NJ, with whom he had been living. The author of "Considered Glimpses," Bob earned his degree in Political Science from the University of Maryland, College Park, in 1986, and worked in Washington D.C. for the Congressional Quarterly and the Bureau of National Affairs. Memorial services were held in Washington D.C. on May 20, and will be held at the home of Marsha Gaspar in Collingswood, NJ, on June 5. Contributions in his name can be made to From All Walks of Life. 1993

NIGEL FINCH, 45, a British film director, died Feb. 14 from AIDS-related complications. He produced hundreds of films for "Arena," a music and arts documentary series for BBC2. He won five British Academy Awards and several Emmys, and received an academy award nomination for Paris Is Burning. Other films include: The Chelsea Hotel, Maplethorpe, Stonewall, and The Lost Language of Cranes. He co-produced

Stonewall, a documentary about the Stonewall uprising. 95

Thomas Fortuin, 48, Lawyer and Officer At Paramount Films 10-25-93

By RANDY KENNEDY

Thomas Mark Fortuin, a senior vice president of Paramount Pictures, died on Monday at Hoag Memorial Hospital Presbyterian in Newport Beach, Calif. He was 48 and lived in Laguna Beach, Calif.

The cause was complications from AIDS, said his companion, Michael Mickiewicz.

Mr. Fortuin was a former assistant United States Attorney in Manhattan. He started his career as a corporate lawyer in Manhattan for Mudge, Rose, Guthrie & Alexander after graduating from Columbia University School of Law in 1971.

In 1978, he worked as special counsel to the House of Representatives' Committee on Standards of Official Conduct in its inquiry into charges that Korean officials had bribed members of Congress and the executive branch to sustain support for continuing large-scale military aid to South Korea. The inquiry led to the conviction of former Rep. Richard T. Hannah of California on charges of conspiring to defraud the Government.

After several years in private practice, Mr. Fortuin moved to California to work for Technicolor Inc., the film processing company, after the New York investor, Ronald O. Perelman, bought the concern. He briefly returned to Washington and then accepted a job at Paramount in 1988.

After being named senior vice president and deputy general counsel in 1991, Mr. Fortuin worked with such television programs as "Entertainment Tonight," "Hard Copy" and "The Arsenio Hall Show."

In addition to his companion, survivors include his mother, Astrid Fortuin of San Francisco; two brothers, Nicholas, of Baltimore, and Floyd, of San Francisco, and a sister, Katherine Reiss of Manhattan.

Fields memorial

A celebration of life will be held for Walter Fields on Tuesday, December 6, from 6:45-8 p.m., at Marbury Plaza Community Room, 2300 Good Hope Rd., SE, B-1 Level, in Washington, D.C. 94

Fields, 43, died of HIV-related complications on June 14, according to his friend, Warren McCoy. To attend or participate in the service, call McCoy at (202) 889-5146.

Have you gone through the caring process with anyone?

Not hands-on. But I've known a number of guys who had AIDS. Julian Ford was a good friend of Carrie Fisher, and I knew him pretty well because he was the guest liaison for Saturday Night Live. He had AIDS. I had done that show every year for five or six years. Two years he was there. One year he wasn't. The next year he was back. And it was like, "Oh, I see, OK, Julian has AIDS." Then he died. Carrie took care of him. So I talked with Carrie a lot about what Julian went through.

Then there were people who were kind of on my periphery. An actor friend of mine from high school died of it. A cousin of mine died of it. But I probably had as sheltered a heterosexual's point of view as you're ever going to find. Like, "Yeah, I knew some guys who died of AIDS. I read the cover story in Newsweek." 12-14-93

Randall Fostvedt, Music Producer, 41

Randall Fostvedt, a concert and record producer and artists representative, died on Saturday at St. Vincent's Hospital. He was 41 and lived in Manhattan.

The cause was AIDS, said Vincent Wagner, a friend.

Mr. Fostvedt represented many well-known performers, including Ivan Moravec, Albert Fuller, Rosalyn Tureck and Stephen Hough. His company, Randall Fostvedt Publicity/Personal Representation, also had several major corporate clients, like Dorian and Nimbus Records, Amnesty International and the Glenn Gould Foundation. He was the producer of some award-winning recordings, by artists including Mr. Moravec, Julian Baird and Robert Stallman.

Mr. Fostvedt was born in Marshall, Minn. He attended Augustana College in Sioux Falls, S.D., and the Mannes College of Music in Manhattan. Before forming his company in 1985, he worked at the public relations firm Ernest Gilbert & Associates. He also produced concerts at Carnegie Hall, the 92d Street Y and the Kennedy Center.

He is survived by his companion, Robert Shelton; his mother, Lucille A. Hay; stepfather, Donald Hay; a sister, Janeen Taveirne, and a grandmother, Mathilde Fostvedt.

FETZER—Mail. You touched the deepest part of my heart with the beauty and gentleness of your soul. In your last months, you were finally able to recognize and feel how many people so deeply loved you. (Yes, "That would be you." "Cool.") 10/23/96 Jack Poren

Gary Fuson

Gary Ray Fuson, 33, of Arlington, Virginia, died of liver failure due to HIV, on Tuesday, March 22, 1994, at the Hospice of Northern Virginia in Arlington, according to his partner, Karl Schwartz of Arlington.

Fuson was born March 19, 1961, in Conrad, Mont., and graduated from Helena High School in Helena, Mont., in 1979. Fuson received a bachelor's degree in computer engineering from the University of South Florida in Tampa, Fla., in 1983.

He worked for System Automation Corporation in Silver Spring, Md., after college, leaving the corporation in 1988 to work for Booz, Allen, & Hamilton, an international management and technology consulting firm in D.C. Fuson became senior consultant at the firm. He retired on disability in May 1992.

From the early 1990s until his death, Fuson was a volunteer for Food and Friends, a group that delivers meals to homebound people with AIDS. He also helped the Spartan Motorcycle Club raise money for Brother Help Thyself, a Gay charity.

Fuson's other interests included tennis, downhill skiing, hang gliding, and scuba diving. In 1990, Fuson skied in amateur races in the Alps of Austria, Italy, France, and Switzerland, according to Schwartz. He returned to Austria in early 1993, and took his last ski trip with friends in Pennsylvania in December 1993.

In addition to Schwartz, Fuson is survived by his parents, Betty and Henry Fuson of Conrad, Mont. He also is survived by several siblings and their spouses, all of Conrad and Helena, Mont.: sisters, Kathy Fuson, Charlotte Fuson, and Julie Rodriguez; brother, Ralph Fuson; sister-in-law, Roma Fuson; and brother-in-laws, Bill Fleiner, and Fernando Rodriguez.

He is also survived by several nieces and nephews, all of Montana: Shannon Moore; Georgia Barnicoat; Wade Fuson; Donald and Darren Fleiner; Casey, Katie, and Kylie Rodriguez; and a grandnephew, Tyler Barnicoat; and many other relatives and friends in the D.C. and Philadelphia, Pa.

A deeply spiritual man, he retained a lifelong affiliation with the Abbey of Gethsemane in Louisville, Ky.

George James Fitzgerald

George James Fitzgerald, 39, of Newton, passed away quietly at his home on Aug. 9 following a courageous battle with AIDS.

George was born Sept. 28, 1954 in Cleveland, Ohio. In 1971 his family moved from Ohio, and he graduated from Cinnaminson High School in Cinnaminson, New Jersey. In 1972, he moved to Boston to attend Boston University where he received a Bachelor of Arts in Communication in 1976. He has lived in the Boston area since that time.

After working at Boston University, Quetzal Productions, and Wang Laboratories, George became an independent producer, writer and director of commercial, industrial and interactive instructional television. He also worked as a freelance editor of television news for Channels 2, 7, 56, and most recently at Channel 4. In June he completed his last project, producing a worldwide teleconference for Babson College in Wellesley.

Besides his cats and many friends, George leaves his parents, Gloria and George of Uniontown, Ohio; his sister and her husband, Gloria and David Murphy of Uniontown, Ohio; nephews Brian and Christopher Murphy; and his loving partner, Thomas Mosher of Newton.

George will always be remembered for his quick wit, creative mind and outgoing personality. His sense of humor remained with him until the end.

Donations may be made in his memory to the AIDS Action Committee, 131 Clarendon Street, Boston, MA 02116, or to The Good Samaritan Hospice, 310 Allston St., Brighton, MA 02146.

Joseph (Joe) Files

October, 1966 — April, 1994

Joe Files (G.I. Joe) passed away at home, in Hollywood, of AIDS-related complications. He was the blond-haired, blue-eyed, well-built all-American boy.

He attended school in Blue Mound, Kansas and lived in Oklahoma for a while, then headed for Hollywood at 18 years old.

Joe was a model and an actor. Photographs of him have appeared in most of our community newspapers advertising 900 and 976 numbers, among other services or products. A collection of beautiful photographs of Joe by photographer Nick Vogue appeared at shows at A Different Light Bookstore and various other galleries in the 80s.

As an actor, he was known as "G.I. Joe" and "Cowboy Joe." He appeared in many various films.

Joe was energetic, fun-loving and always willing to help out a friend; with a mischievous glint in his eye, a quick smile and a great sense of humor.

In 1988 he was in the Gay Pride Parade with his friends Tony and Terry. He sat on the hood of a Celebrity Cab in a hot bikini, and ran alongside it, dancing and giving hugs to the crowd. The crowd roared, he loved it. In fact he totally enjoyed almost every minute of his life.

He was an asset to our community and did some political fighting for our rights. Joe had many friends and spent many wonderful times in the San Diego area as well as the Los Angeles area. His friends, along with hundreds of fans, will miss him.

Joe is survived by his beloved sister Kathleen and her husband; nieces; grandparents; and his favorite niece Brandy, who lives in a small town in Kansas where everyone knows everyone else.

Contributions or donations to defray funeral costs may be made to his sister Kathleen Horttor, c/o Blue Mound, KS 66010.

DIED: Michael Felts, 40, activist, of complications from AIDS November 16 in Washington, D.C. Felts cofounded Deaf AIDS Action in Washington, D.C., and the nation's first HIV prevention program for the deaf in Dallas. 9c

James Bradley Forrest

June 15, 1994

James Bradley Forrest, a well-known and respected member of the San Francisco culinary world, died of complications from AIDS on June 15, 1994. Mr. Forrest was born in Peoria, Illinois, and grew up in the Midwest, starting at a very early age in the restaurant and hotel business.

Mr. Forrest graduated in 1976 from the Culinary Institute of America in Hyde Park, New York. He then cooked at the Breakers Hotel in Palm Beach, Florida, the Four Seasons Clift Hotel, the Banker's Club, Alexis, and Cocolat here in San Francisco. In 1982, Mr. Forrest began his catering business in a cramped kitchen staffed with part-time help. As his work's reputation grew, he occupied the storefront space at 1772 Market St., the subsequent site of two restaurants, Brad Forrest (1985) and Heartland Cafe (1993). Brad was known in the catering business for the spectacular large events he helped produce and as a restaurateur of taste and talent. Mr. Forrest was very involved in fundraising for the Democratic Party, on a local and national level, as well as many Bay Area AIDS service organizations.

Mr. Forrest is survived by his father and stepmother, James and Mary Forrest of Hampton, Illinois; his sister, Lori Miles of Henry, Illinois; his grandmother, Dorothy Stout of Henry, Illinois, and several nephews and nieces.

Jim Nixon, Mr. Forrest's companion of seven years, and many friends in the culinary and recovering communities in San Francisco, mourn his passing. Mr. Forrest will be buried in Illinois after a family service. A memorial service will be held in early July in San Francisco. Donations in Mr. Forrest's name can be made to Project Open Hand or any other AIDS service organization. Expressions of sympathy can be sent to Jim Nixon, 4547 19th Street, SF, CA 94114. ▼

Andrew S. Foxwell

June 7, 1947-August 29, 1994

Andrew was born on June 7, 1947 in Salem, N.J. and died at his home in San Francisco on August 29,

1994. Andrew was a graduate of Suffolk Law in Boston majoring in Education and Political Science. Andrew also received his masters degree from Boston University. He taught at Arlington High School in Massachusetts prior to moving to San Francisco in 1974. Andrew was maitre d'hotel and later restaurant manager of Auberge du Soleil in Rutherford during its opening years. In addition to many other successful business ventures, Andrew was owner and manager of Ivy's Restaurant in San Francisco from 1986 to 1994 when he sold the restaurant due to health complications. As an active board member of the UCSF Aids Health Project, Andrew was instrumental in fund raising for many HIV - related organizations. His generous volunteer efforts through Ivy's Restaurant by way of donations, events, and product were appreciated by many, both in San Francisco and the Napa Valley where he also maintained a home.

Andrew is survived by his devoted companion of ten years, Ben Garcia, his parents, Elvira and Michael Foxwell of Carneys Point, New Jersey and a host of dear friends in San Francisco and the Napa Valley. Andrew was a man of boundless generosity, immense humor and wit, a true lover of life and a peerless friend to all who were so fortunate to know him. A celebration of his life will be held later in September. Memorials may be made to UCSF Aids Health Project, Box 0884, San Francisco, CA 94143-0884, Stop Aids Project, 201 Sanchez Street, San Francisco, CA 94114-1613 or the HIV related charity of your choice.

Ted Edward Flynn

June 11, 1956 - April 20, 1995

Ted (also known as Ken), a tall and lanky Canadian, graduated from life at 9 a.m. Thursday, April 20, in the presence of sisters, Rhonda and Karen; his roommate of about 20 years, John; and a visiting nurse. He accepted his bout with AIDS with resignation and seemed to bear it patiently until the end.

Ted was a calm and gentle one, sociable at the SF-Eagle or Castro bars, home parties, or at parades and street fairs. He was also a serious student of the Bible with fundamentalist yet tolerant interpretations. Heated exchanges might also be broken by his good sense of humor and sense of the ridiculous.

He arrived here from Edmonton, Canada, about 1977 and was handy as a painter and maintenance man at his own apartment building and others. Increased restrictions on residence and work led him to apply for an amnesty program in 1988 when he discovered his HIV status.

After a viewing Friday, April 21, at Driscoll's Mortuary, his sisters accompanied him home to Edmonton for a graveside service and burial. One of 10 children, his sweet spirit will be missed by family and friends. ▼

James (Barr) Fugate

Feb. 13, 1922 - March 28, 1995

"For this is wisdom; to love, to live, / To take what fate or the Gods may give, / To ask no questions, to make no prayer, / To kiss the lips, to caress the hair, / Speed passion's ebb, as you greet its flow, / To have - to hold - and in time, let go."

James Fugate, using the pseudonym James Barr, wrote the novel Quatrefoil in 1950. In the next five years, he produced at least two other works of fiction with a gay theme: Derricks, a collection of short stories, and Game of Fools, a playscript. Such publications were rare for their time.

On the back jacket of Fools, published in 1954, Barr is said to have earned his living as an oil field roustabout. At the time, speaking of the potential for an organized homosexual movement, he said, "The time is not yet ripe. The homosexual minority is too amorphous to have need of a spokesman. At present the group must find and identify itself. Only time or a vicious persecution can hurry the process. But what an organization it could be if ever its individuals mastered their terror, sloth and inclination to pettiness!"

Barr "disappeared" until 1990. He wrote a new epilogue to Quatrefoil, which was republished by Alyson in 1991. ▼

H. James

Farnsworth

November 5, 1949 -

July 25, 1994

James was a beloved friend who spoke fluent Spanish and loved the Mexican culture and people. We met in New York City in 1985 and our friendship was to be forever.

He was born and raised in San Diego, where he first developed a passion for the theater and dance. Later, James lived for many years in NYC, pursuing a career on stage. He appeared in many shows and toured extensively throughout the world with various touring companies. His experience and talent eventually led him to become a gifted choreographer, director and instructor. James touched many lives with his teaching of theater and tap dancing. In 1991, while living in San Francisco, James began to pursue his lifelong dream of creating his own Musical Theater Repertory company. Unfortunately after several months of hard work in developing MTR, James became ill and his dream was short of being realized.

James, we know in our hearts that you're in Heaven now, probably teaching the angels how to tap and recruiting them for the MTR company you have created there. You'll be missed by all your friends in NYC, San Francisco, San Diego and all around the world. We love you very much.

Barbara Fassbinder Dies at 40; Nurse With AIDS Traced to Job

9-20-94

By TIM HILCHEY

Barbara Fassbinder, one of the first health care professionals to be infected with the AIDS virus while on the job, died on Tuesday at the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics in Iowa City. She was 40 and lived in Monona, Iowa.

The cause was complications from AIDS, the hospital said.

Mrs. Fassbinder was infected with H.I.V., the virus that causes AIDS, in 1986 while helping treat a patient in the emergency room of Memorial Hospital in Prairie du Chien, Wis.

While she was pressing gauze on a needle puncture, the patient's blood apparently mingled with her blood through small cuts on her hand from gardening, she said in 1990. The young man died, and an autopsy showed he had AIDS. But it was not until January 1987, when she tried to make a blood donation, that she discovered she had been infected.

She and her family kept the infection a secret until she decided to speak out in 1990. "My biggest fear was how the community would react to me and my kids and my husband," she said at a news conference in Iowa City in which she told her story in the hope that it would warn other health-care workers. The 1,500 people of Monona, a farming community in northeastern Iowa, gave her family "nothing but support," she said at the time.

"She was a gentle giant in the world of AIDS," said Dr. Michael Osterholm, an AIDS expert and epidemiologist with the Minnesota Department of Health who became a friend of her family. "She helped bridge the gap between the worlds of the health care provider and the AIDS patient in need of competent and compassionate care like no one else could."

Mrs. Fassbinder traveled extensively in the next few years, talking to people about AIDS and how to prevent infection by H.I.V., Dr. Osterholm said. She testified about AIDS before Congress, and in 1992 she was recognized by the Surgeon General and the Department of Health and Human Services for her work.

She also served on the National Health Care Reform Committee set up by Hillary Rodham Clinton and was a member of the Iowa State

Warren Paris, 1990

Barbara Fassbinder

Commission on AIDS, Dr. Osterholm said.

A family friend, Bonnie Webber of New York, said that once Mrs. Fassbinder made her condition public, "she didn't stop trying to get the word out about the disease and trying to educate her peers about how to protect themselves."

Barbara A. Herring Fassbinder was born Sept. 29, 1953, in Marion, Iowa. She received a bachelor of science degree in nursing from the University of Iowa in 1975.

She is survived by her husband, David; two daughters, Eva and Emily, and a son, Joel, all of Monona; her parents, James and Ethel Herring, of Marion, Iowa; three sisters, Kathryn Fassbinder, of Elgin, Iowa, Mary Walston of Kewanee, Wis., and Susan Valleire of Rock Island, Ill.; four brothers, J. Stephen Herring of Idaho Falls, Idaho, Edward Herring, of Rockford, Ill., Mark Herring, of Manitowoc, Wis., and John Herring of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and a grandmother, Martha McElroy of Creston, Iowa.

Michael J. Farmer

April 20, 1962 - Oct. 22, 1994

As dusk settled in so did Mike's fight come to an end. He leaves a legacy of a rich, full life filled with love, compassion, humor and bitchiness.

Born and raised in LA, Mike moved to "Oz" five years ago, and found peace, acceptance and a true home. Mike's passions were traveling, music, computers and AMC.

Mike is survived by his mother, Charlene; father, Malcolm; sisters, Debbie and Mooshy; nephew, P.J.; goddaughter, Sharia; and longtime friends, Kathy, Bowdy, Jeff and Ken.

Michael's two passions were his children (his cats Calvin and Sophie) and the Golden Gate Guards. His greatest personal achievements came in caring for his brothers in the GGG and in trying to build a better leather/levi community for all of us to enjoy.

Mike wished to publicly thank Mr. Dale Sues for his tireless devotion; his doctor, Ms. Teresa Black, for her love; and Nurse Aby with Visiting Nurses. A memorial is planned for a later date. Good-by, my friend; be pain free and soar with the angels till we meet again. ▼

FOGLIA—of Boston, Eugene Frank, 53, on Saturday, September 9th, after a long illness. Beloved son of the late Anthony and Tena Foglia of Everett. Memorial donations may be sent to Ferway Community Health Center, 7 Haviland St., Boston, MA 02115. 95

IN LOVING MEMORY
OF
TIMOTHY PHALLEN-FIKE

JUNE 18, 1965 - DECEMBER 26, 1991

Nothing grows in the driest places, the bitter cold, or children's faces,
like love will.

Nothing can be everlasting, or send an iron curtain crashing,
but love will.

Love's a gift the richest or the poorest man can give.
It's the only "treasure" that I know.

Love will not forsake you on the last day that you live, cause you can take it with you when you go.

When someone leaves,
and we've all been through it,
Tears don't help and words won't do it,
but love will.

I don't want to be there
if we all wake up too late.
Love's the only weapon that is strong enough for hate.

You can do the world a favor,
Love yourself and love your neighbor.
If you can, love will.

"Love Will" by Steve Bogard & Rick Giles

JORGE FERNANDEZ, a board member with AIDS Alternative Health Project, died of AIDS complications Jan. 26. Recognized in November by the Asian American AIDS Foundation for his work with AIDS. Fernandez was known for educating the public about his Filipino culture through dancing, acting and producing. He endured years of suffering, yet maintained good cheer and disposition. Robert Ford dies 94

ROBERT T. FORD, 32, a groundbreaking writer, publisher and graphic artist who was inducted into Chicago's Gay and Lesbian Hall of Fame in 1993, died peacefully in his Chicago home Oct. 2 from complications due to AIDS. He was surrounded by his loving parents Frank R. Jr., and LaVerne Ford, sister Linda Ford, cousin LaFreda Lusk, life companion Michael Thompson, and friends Trent Adkins, Wendy Quinn and Terry Martin. There was a large memorial service for family and friends on Chicago's South Side.

Ford was founding publisher and co-editor of the nationally known THING MAGAZINE, a Black and gay arts and entertainment magazine that was seminal in the phenomenon of self-published magazines or "zines" during the late '80s and into the '90s. Previously, Ford published THINK INK, a free Black arts/entertainment magazine.

Born Nov. 17, 1961, Ford received his BA in Arts, Entertainment and Media Management from Chicago's Columbia College in 1987. His writing appeared in THE ADVOCATE, JAM SESSIONS, CHICAGO MUSIC MAGAZINE, JAZZGRAM and PLANET ROC. His most recent work, "Life During Wartime," was published as a series in BABBLE and documented his personal struggle with HIV/AIDS. In June, Ford eloquently spoke at one of his last public appearances, helping host a tribute to

Ford was also an actor, and credits include the role of Travis opposite Claudia McNeil in Raisin' in the Sun and a long run with Gail Strickland and Bruce Boxleitner in Status Quo Vadis. Ford was also a popular DJ in Chicago, New York and San Francisco. He worked his way into management at Rose Records by the time he left that job in 1990.

Donations should be made in Robert Ford's name to either Women in the Director's Chair, a not-for-profit media arts organization, 3435 N. Sheffield, Chicago, 60657, 281-4988; or The Hospice Unit at Northwestern Memorial Hospital, 303 E. Superior, Chicago, 60611, 908-7476.

FOLSOM—of Los Angeles, formerly of Stoneham, MA, Jan. 28, Mark S. Folsom, 34, son of Richard Folsom of Tampa, FL and Inez (Diaz) Folsom of Stoneham, brother of Lynda McGraw of Beverly and Bruce Folsom of Grafton, uncle of Mackenzie McGraw of Beverly and companion of James Duff of Los Angeles. A memorial funeral service will be held at a later date to be announced. There are no public visiting hours. In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made in his memory to the Ferway Community Center, 7 Haviland St., Boston, MA 02115. Arrangements are under the direction of the Grondin Funeral Home, 376 Cabot Street, BEVERLY.

LARRY FELTS, D.N.,

55, died Oct. 25 at home from Burkitt's lymphoma, an HIV-related illness. He was lovingly cared for by nieces, Pam Felts and Pat Felts-Santiago, friends Laura McAlpine and Ann McCallister, and business partner/longtime friend Kevin Barrett. Larry was born in Pittsburgh, Ill. He spent six years in a Franciscan seminary and later left the seminary to pursue teaching in Louisiana. Larry moved to Chicago in 1969, and after many years as a CTA bus driver, entered the Chicago National School of Naprapathy. He received his Doctor of Naprapathy in 1981, and started Grace Health Center in the Lakeview neighborhood in 1983, providing healing services to thousands. Kevin Barrett joined the center in 1984. Over the years, many people benefitted from Larry's healing naprapathic skills, including members of the dance community and HIV/AIDS clients. Larry began to study Buddhism and meditation in 1974 and spent time at various temples on the North Side. His beliefs brought him great comfort. Larry is survived by his three brothers, as well as sisters-in-law, nieces and a nephew. His extended family included Amalia Clare McAlpine McAllister, his grand-daughter. A celebration of Larry's life will be held Dec. 11. Call (312) 935-4032. Donations can be made to the Chicago Women's Health Center, Chicago House and the St. Joseph's Hospital AIDS unit. 94

Henry (Hank) Fattoruso

May 12, 1947 - June 5, 1995

Hank gallantly fought his battle against AIDS for eight years. It is fitting that his struggle ended with very little pain or suffering and with many of his closest friends helping with his care.

Hank was born and raised in Brooklyn, New York. He attended Midwood High School, where he sang in the Men's Chorus. Throughout his life Hank enjoyed attending the opera, ballet, theatre and the symphony.

In 1968 Hank completed a degree in applied science at New York City Community College. He moved to San Francisco in 1978 and took a job as vice president for Pacific American Institute. He later founded and was president of Soul Ventures. He was an active volunteer for a variety of AIDS organizations.

Hank is survived by his mother, Rose; his brother, Frank; and his beloved niece, Lisa; all of Lindenhurst, New York. Hank will be missed by many but especially by Hal, Bill, John, Mark and Fred.

FAY Daniel of the North End of Boston, December 21. Beloved son of Ruth (Roulston) Fay and the late Robert Fay. Loving brother of Robert Fay of AL, Ellen Burke of Boston, Nancy Fay of CA, and Lawrence Fay of Milton. Also survived by several dear nieces and nephews. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend a memorial service in honor of Daniel's memory on Saturday January 27 in the Cathedral Church of Saint Paul, 138 Tremont St., Boston at 10am. Interment private. Visiting hours have been omitted. Memorial donations may be made in Daniel's memory to the Children with AIDS Fund, 253 River St., Mattapan. Late member of I.A.T.S.E. Local B4 and Eucharistic Minister for the Cathedral of St. Paul. Funeral under the direction of Joseph A. Langone Jr. Funeral Home-BOSTON, 94

"Thom"

I'm really proud of my brother, a wonderful man

*Some say picky
Some say fussy
Most say SPECIAL*

Even those whose lives he touched only briefly were left with a sense of having been heard or that they were special - he had that ability

I guess they call it grace

*He loved life - saw many things to do
Striving constantly to better himself whether through self-improvement or looking for good in someone*

With his sharp wit and humor - and an ease with himself he put others at ease as well

He had an insatiable curiosity - constantly seeking new knowledge to satisfy his palate

*Finer things were always his expectation and he never denied himself
Yet, he was grounded in the earth's finest
Warm sand on a beach
Ocean waves*

*He had a supreme appreciation for the beauty in nature
So much that he wanted to be part of it - Eternally*

*How fortunate for him
He got his wish*

*Strong and brave
I don't know another person who worked so diligently to accept himself and enjoy his life*

*If stones were given for good deeds and friends,
Thom could build a castle*

Robert W. Folino

Robert W. Folino, known by many as "Bicycle Bob," died on Feb. 12 at the home of his family in Dorchester of complications caused by AIDS at the age of 35. 95

Bob had been employed as a bartender at the Lafayette Hotel in Boston for a number of years until faltering health led to his retirement, following which he resided for a time in Provincetown.

His enthusiasm for life, his curiosity, geniality and derring-do all found expression in his devotion to cycling.

He is survived by his mother, Mary J. Folino, his brother, Dr. Michael J. Folino, and his twin brother, attorney Mark L. Folino.

David Feinberg

NEW YORK (AP) — David Feinberg, a writer and AIDS activist, has died. He was 37.

Feinberg died on Nov. 2 at his home in Manhattan, and the cause was AIDS, said Wayne Kawadler, a friend.

His two fictional works, "Eighty-Sixed" and "Spontaneous Combustion," documented the devastation of gay life in New York by the AIDS epidemic. A collection of essays, "Queer and Loathing: Rants and Raves of a Raging AIDS Clone," is to be published in three weeks by Viking.

Feinberg joined the AIDS Coalition to Unleash Power in 1987 and was arrested half a dozen times at demonstrations sponsored by the group, including the disruption of Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral in 1989.

But in a speech delivered last month, he complained that ACT UP "wastes precious time bickering" and "indulges its obsession with the Catholic Church" at a time when he wanted "every argument and action to help save my life."

Feinberg was born in Lynn, Mass. He graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1978 and received a master's degree in linguistics from New York University in 1981. That year, he began working for the Modern Language Association in New York.

He is survived by his mother, Betty, and sister, Lynn Harris, both of Syracuse.

Dan Friedman

Graphic Designer, 49

7-6-95

Dan Friedman, a graphic designer, author and teacher, died on Thursday at St. Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital Center in Manhattan. He was 49 and lived in Manhattan.

The cause was AIDS, said his brother, Kenneth Friedman.

"Dan was one of the people who created what is known as the new typography in the United States, which he helped reinvent by mixing typefaces, setting type at angles and using asymmetry in his design," said Ellen Lupton, curator of contemporary design at the Cooper-Hewitt National Museum of Design in Manhattan.

In the 1980's, Mr. Friedman started designing Day-Glo colored art furniture, much of it made from found objects.

Mr. Friedman taught graphic design at Yale University, at the State University College at Purchase, N.Y., and at Cooper Union.

He was born in Cleveland and graduated from what is now Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh.

He is survived by his brother, of Mill Valley, Calif.

Richard Friend

April 9, 1957 - Aug. 2, 1995

Richard Friend, master Montessori teacher with a heart large enough to hold many, died from complications related to AIDS on August 2. With him was his life partner, Jim.

Richard leaves behind a caring family, grateful friends and students, his teddy bear Dumppling, and memories of having learned lessons of courage and loving kindness. He knew his needs and lived them, dying peacefully and at peace with himself. ▼

*May you always walk in sunshine and God's love around you flow.
For the happiness you gave me
no one will ever know.*

*It broke my heart to lose you,
but you did not go alone.
A part of me went with you,
the day God called you home.*

*A million times I've needed you.
A million times I've cried.
If love could only have saved you,
you never would have died.*

Randy Fowler

Sept. 16, 1957 - July 20, 1995

God saw he was getting tired and a cure was not to be. So He put His arms around him and whispered, "Come with me." With tearful eyes we watched him suffer and saw him fade away. Although we loved him dearly, we could not make him stay. A golden heart stopped beating, hard-working hands to rest; God broke our hearts to prove to us, He only takes the best.

Services were held at MCC/SF on July 22. Randy is survived by his mother and father, Betty and John Leman; his partner, Bruce DeBlase; loving friends, Dennis Babb, Jerry and Sharon; his Mom II and Papa Joe DeBlasio; and special thanks to the Westin Hotel Airport and staff.

Donations can be sent to Project Open Hand.

A Sister's Story

Counting all the family members of HIV-positive Americans, multi-millions are touched by AIDS. Siblings can be the forgotten mourners. You may be interested in a new angle on this deadly disease: its impact on families - how they change and grow.

Susan Ford Wiltshire began chronicling her feelings about her relationship with her brother, John Ford, and his battle with AIDS when he became ill in 1990.

Ford served as deputy assistant secretary of agriculture in the Reagan administration and is one of the highest ranking members of that administration to die of AIDS. He received the Heroes of American Agriculture Award just two weeks before his death.

Wiltshire speaks about two siblings sharing an agonizing but special journey - finding possibilities rather than resignation, sharing rather than silence, and strength instead of defeat.

She tells of her mother's new-found heroism and the homophobia of her two older brothers.

Chair of the Classics Department at Vanderbilt University, Wiltshire tells her story in the book, Seasons of Grief and Grace: A Sister's Story of AIDS (Vanderbilt University Press, 1994). Since the book's publication, Wiltshire has become a gay rights activist. She frequently addresses religion and AIDS and has spoken at Baptist, Methodist, and Presbyterian churches.

Died Friday following a courageous battle against the Aids Virus. His Funeral Mass will be held in St. Thomas the Apostle Church, Salem, Monday at 10 a.m. Relatives and friends invited. Visiting hours in the O'Donnell Funeral Home, 46 Washington Square, SALEM (at Salem Common) Sunday 5 to 9 p.m. In lieu of flowers, expressions of sympathy may be made in his memory to the Living Center, 29 Stanhope St., Boston, MA 02116. 96

Thanks for making my loss bearable

My dear son Patrick Clarke Fussell died at his Piano Craft Guild apartment on Thursday, March 30, after a long illness bravely borne.

I really want this letter to be a tribute to all those people who did so much for him during his illness, which was long and painful: to Deaconess Hospital, and the doctor and nurses who gave him such marvelous care; to Samantha Mitchell, who was with him at his ending and made his going a tranquil event for Patrick; to Beverley, his home care lady; to Melanie and her team of visiting nurses; to Brother John Mathis, his spiritual adviser; to Jim Furlong, his support "buddy" who did so much; to all the people at Alcoholics Anonymous; to the staff here at the Piano Factory, helping at every turn; to AIDS Action Committee; to the visiting acupuncturists; and to all the people who had a hand in his care. Also, to Bob the Chef's restaurant, who helped us on the day of our memorial service.

Of course, I was here for five weeks last year when he was on life support and in a coma, from which he made an amazing recovery, but he just slipped away from us a week ago.

I cannot believe all the kindness and hospitality my younger son and I have received. God bless you all. Your kindness has made the whole thing a lot easier. Losing one's eldest son at 48 is never easy, but I will be returning to the U.K. on April 14 having met some wonderful people, who it is a privilege to have known.

Thank you Boston, and very best regards.

Paddy Fussell

Hugh W. Findley

The Rev. Hugh W. Findley, 58, of Jamaica Plain, died on March 1 at the Shattuck Hospital from complications of AIDS.

Hugh was the former Vicar of St. Ann's Episcopal Church in Dorchester from 1961-1968, and was an assistant minister at Grace Episcopal Church in Brooklyn Heights from 1968-1971. On sabbatical from the church since that time, Hugh worked as the Director of Planning and Research for the Quincy Police Department and in a similar capacity for the MBTA in Boston.

For the past decade, Hugh worked as a locksmith for businesses in Somerville and Cambridge and was also an independent contractor in the Boston area. He was a longtime volunteer for the AIDS Action Committee, participating in the planning of early educational conferences and providing care for persons with AIDS through Buddy Program. For the last several years of his life, Hugh was a board member of the Boston Living Center. Hugh was an active member of The Church of St. John the Evangelist in Boston and was deeply touched by the concern of the parish and particularly by the caring of the Rev. Jennifer Phillips.

Hugh is survived by his mother, Henrietta Cadieux of Lake Worth, FL; his brother, Raymond, also of FL; his former wife, Carole Findley of Rockport; his children, Seth and Suzanne Findley, of Seattle; and by his family by choice: his spiritual companion, Dr. David Giragosian of Falmouth; and his loving kin, Patricia Young and Jerome Saunders, both of Cambridge; and by Robert Johansen of Lancaster.

The passage of time has begun to heal for us the pain of Hugh's loss. He is remembered for the sparkle in his eyes and his easy smile, and for the valiant and courageous fight he waged against the disease of which he died with such dignity. Hugh is immortal in those of us who loved him.

Michael Fields

Dec. 12, 1953 - June 28, 1995

Michael was a longtime resident of San Francisco and is missed by his many friends and family in the Bay Area and in Little Rock, Arkansas. He will be remembered for his dedicated, 14-year service with Ghirardelli Chocolate Company at Ghirardelli Square. A memorial service was held there August 1.

Michael was born and raised in Little Rock, where he graduated from Hall High School. He went on to graduate from Columbia College in Missouri and then served five years in the U.S. Navy. Michael maintained many long-standing friendships during his years in San Francisco, and he reached out to others with the AIDS virus during those years.

Michael is survived by his loving mother and sister, Frances Fields and Libby Williams, who both live in Little Rock, and by his extended family here in San Francisco. Several friends gathered in his honor at Golden Gate Park July 15, and the AIDS Walk was dedicated in his honor by a friend on July 16.

TIM FLACK

March 8, 1995, age unknown
Vice president of creative affairs at CBS. He worked on developing such shows as The Nanny and Major Dad.

Charles Fowler

Charles Fowler, 64, died Sunday, June 11, 1995 at his home in Washington, D.C., of AIDS related complications, according to his life partner of 29 years, Kenneth Dresser, also of Washington.

Fowler was born May 12, 1931 in Peekskill, N.Y. He received a bachelor's degree from Crane School of Music, a master's degree from Northwestern University, and a doctorate in music from Boston University. Earlier this year, Fowler was presented an honorary doctorate in fine arts from the State University of New York.

After an extensive teaching career, Fowler moved to Washington, D.C., in 1965 to work as editor and director of publications for the Music Educators National Conference. He served as education editor of Musical America magazine for 15 years and published more than 250 articles in numerous publications, according to Dresser.

In 1989, Fowler founded National Cultural Resources, Inc., a non-profit organization focused on research and assistance for arts education. He traveled throughout the U.S. to speak on the necessity of arts in every child's education.

Fowler wrote several books, including Can We Rescue the Arts for America's Children (1988), a high school textbook, Music! Its Role and Importance in Our Lives (1994), and Strong Arts, Strong Schools which will be published by Oxford University Press in the spring of 1996. Fowler also wrote educational materials for the New York Philharmonic, the Metropolitan Opera, and the John F. Kennedy Center among others, according to Dresser.

In addition to Dresser, Fowler is survived by his brothers, Donald Fowler of Cornwall, N.Y.; Richard Fowler of Orlando, Fla.; and many nieces and nephews.

Interment services will be Friday, June 16 at 2 p.m., at the Historic Congressional Cemetery Chapel, 1801 E St., SE.

Contributions in Fowler's name may be made to the Charles Fowler Fund for Innovation in Arts Education, University of Maryland Foundation, Inc., 3300 Metzgerott Rd., Adelphi, MD 20783.

Samuel Lee Feliciano

Samuel Lee Feliciano, 36, who, in both San Francisco and Boston, was an AIDS activist and an active member of the deaf community, died at Boston's New England Medical Center on Feb. 14 from complications due to AIDS. 95

Born and raised in Boston's South End, Sam graduated from Beverly School for the Deaf and Newton North High School. He also attended NTID in Rochester, New York; Gallaudet University in Washington, DC; and the University of Massachusetts at Boston.

Mr. Feliciano had held several jobs serving the deaf community, including that of a case worker at the Lynn Deaf Program, which served mentally retarded deaf women; and as a staff member at the Hayden School in Dorchester, which served emotionally troubled deaf teenagers. He worked as a staff member at a deaf youth camp, and most recently as an associate at the Bay Area Communication Access in San Francisco. As social director, he represented the Rainbow Society of the Deaf in London last year.

He was a recipient of the Paul Isaac Award and participated in setting up the Deaf Quilt Project in San Francisco.

After taking a training course in working with people with AIDS, Sam participated in the AIDS Buddy Program.

Jaime Fernandez

Amador Jaime Fernandez, deputy assistant general counsel at the U.S. Department of Education and a former board president of the Whitman-Walker Clinic, died Saturday, July 8, 1995 of AIDS related complications at the Washington Hospital Center, according to his former companion and devoted friend, Richard McCann of Washington, D.C. He was 49.

Born Sept. 18, 1945 and raised in Mercedes, Texas, Fernandez was a 1963 graduate of St. Joseph's Academy in Brownsville, Texas. He earned bachelor's degrees in journalism (1967) and government (1972) from the University of Texas at Austin, where he was an editorial columnist for The Daily Texan. Prior to his study and practice of the law, Fernandez worked as a public relations officer at the San Antonio World's Fair from 1967-68 and as a writer for CBS in Los Angeles from 1969-71.

Fernandez came to Washington, D.C. in 1978 to work as an attorney for the Office for Civil Rights in the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. In 1983, he moved to the Office of the General Counsel of the U.S. Department of Education. He earned a law degree from the University of Texas Law School in 1977 and a Master of Laws in Taxation degree from Georgetown University Law Center in 1984.

Fernandez served as vice president of the board of the Whitman-Walker Clinic in 1979 and 1980 and president in 1980 and 1981. He was also a long-distance runner who participated in numerous marathons in the 1980s. Fernandez was a devoted pet owner, animal lover, aficionado of literature, film, and history, a Harley Davidson motorcycle enthusiast and rider, and an avid traveler. He will also be remembered for the "remarkable self-education he tirelessly acquired for over ten years [about] treatment for HIV and AIDS," according to McCann.

Fernandez is survived by his parents, Amador T. and Librada C. Fernandez; sister, Imelda Guerra, all of Mercedes, Texas; brother, Albert Fernandez of San Antonio, Texas; many cousins, including Vickie Mancuso of Houston, Texas; his dear friends, Louie Stewart, John Carter, and Karl Lahring of Washington, D.C., and Sergio Kapfer and Daphna Crotty of Bethesda, Md.; and many other friends and relatives.

In Boston, Mr. Feliciano is survived by his parents, Francisco and Betty Feliciano; his brother Frank; his grandmothers, Dorothy White and Maria Cristina Perez; and his nieces, Carolyn and Shirley. He is also survived by his aunt and uncle, Helen and John Balfour of Hollis, New Hampshire. Mr. Feliciano also leaves behind numerous cousins and many friends.

A memorial service will be held at 4 pm on Saturday, April 1 at the Church of the Covenant at 67 Newbury Street in Boston.

Joe Fawbush, 38 SoHo Art Dealer

6-21-95

Joe Fawbush, an art dealer whose SoHo gallery was known for showing the artworks of a high number of women, died on Wednesday at St. Vincent's Hospital in Greenwich Village. He was 38 and lived in Manhattan.

The cause was AIDS, said Raoul Reyes, a friend.

Mr. Fawbush was born in Arlington, Tex., and majored in art history at the University of North Texas at Dennison. He worked briefly as an art handler at the Fort Worth Art Museum before coming to New York in 1978 to work for Brooke Alexander, an art dealer and print publisher. In 1983, Mr. Fawbush opened Fawbush Editions, publishing prints, multiples and illustrated books by such artists and writers as Joan Nelson, Kiki Smith, Donald Sultan and David Mamet.

His interests shifted from publishing to exhibiting and by 1987, he was running his business as the Fawbush Gallery with a partner, Thomas Jones. Artists who had their first New York gallery shows there included Ms. Smith, whose 1987 exhibition presaged the growing prevalence of art about the body, as well as Rachel Lachowicz, Paula Hayes, Karin Davie and James Nares. The gallery also represents Christian Marclay, Michelle Stuart, Leone and Macdonald, Elliott Green and Betty Goodwin. Mr. Jones said yesterday that the gallery would remain open.

In addition to Mr. Jones, his companion, Mr. Fawbush is survived by his parents, Daisy and Eugene Fawbush, and a sister, Dorinda Leonard, of Arlington.

Doug Fraser

Nov. 15, 1950 - Aug. 23, 1995

A truly inspirational spirit quietly left his mortal body in the early hours of August 23.

Doug came to San Francisco in 1974 and found himself in the world of restaurants, from waiter to short order cook. Though not his true calling, he became a wonderful cook because of it.

Massage became his profession. He later taught at the Body Electric School of Massage and co-created Light Touch Retreats with Sequoia Thom Lundy. Doug created healing spaces wherever he went.

Doug loved to travel, cook and entertain. He was a friend who supported you. Doug loved strong and deep.

Services will be held in November. Call (415) 626-5246 for further information. Donations can be made to Service Through Touch or the AIDS Emergency Fund. ▼

Richard Frank, 42

Actor in theater, TV

LOS ANGELES TIMES 8-27-95

LOS ANGELES — Richard Frank, a critically acclaimed stage actor who achieved his greatest popularity as Jules Bennett on the television series "Anything but Love," died Sunday of complications of AIDS. He was 42.

Mr. Frank, who usually portrayed gay roles, was a versatile actor equally comfortable with Shakespeare and modern works. He earned praise for his performance as attorney Roy Cohn in the landmark play "Angels in America — Millennium Approaches" at the Mark Taper Forum in Los Angeles.

He earned the 1991 Los Angeles Drama Critics Circle Award for his performance as the homosexual window dresser Molina in "Kiss of the Spider Woman" at South Coast Repertory in Costa Mesa. He had also performed the role to good East Coast reviews in 1988 at the Yale Repertory Theatre in New Haven.

Earlier this year, Mr. Frank had played a bisexual theater director in the national touring production of "The Sisters Rosensweig."

When "Sisters" was presented in his hometown of Boston, Mr. Frank was asked if he ever worried about forgetting lines on stage.

"That's the biggest theater myth of all," he replied. "The lines are learned during rehearsal. What concerns you is losing focus. You need to keep concentrated."

Although he considered theater the purest form of acting, Mr. Frank also appeared in films, most notably as Salieri's confessor in "Amadeus" in 1985, and on TV.

William Scott Fortier

Scott Fortier, 34 years old, a prominent and cherished San Francisco casting director, passed away on January 13, 1996 after a long and dignified battle with AIDS. From 1991 to 1995, his company, Scott Fortier Casting, cast over 200 commercials and feature films. Scott was known for the respectful and honest way he treated all the actors with whom he came in contact.

Born in Central Conway, New Hampshire, he attended University of New Hampshire where he developed his love of acting. He is survived by his loving mother Charlotte, and siblings Sarah and James. Scott leaves behind a large extended family and many, many friends who were touched by his kindness, love, and integrity.

Funeral services will be held in New Hampshire this Friday. A memorial celebration will be held at Theatre On The Square, 450 Post Street, on Monday, January 29, 1996 from 6:30-8:30. Donations can be made to Project Open Hand or The San Francisco Center for Living.

Carlos Ferreira

Let me introduce you to Carlos Ferreira, one of your neighbors, born Nov. 4, 1964 in Brazil, youngest of 11 children of Mami Amelia, grandmother of 27 and great grandmother of six babies Carlos had never seen or held in his arms. Eight and one-half years ago Carlos came to America, pursued his happiness, loved life, his family and friends, loved liberty, loved his adopted country, and his unshaken belief in the tarnished American dream made him more American than I, even though he didn't have the papers to prove it.

When I first saw him I thought he was too short for his pants, but his eyes were dark and beautiful. He spoke no English then and I only a little Spanish, but he was sweet and charming and funny, and he had the patience of a mule. He was the bravest and most stubborn man I have ever met, contrary, opinionated, self-educated, sharp, and those dimples. Call it what you will. We called it love for eight years.

You don't ask a dying man to move out of his home. At the very least it is very rude. When Carlos was at the final stage of his illness, AIDS, housebound and fully disabled, he spoke out publicly against the shameful threatened collapse, with a push and a shove, of rent control without adequate protections for low and moderate income people. He asked if people here had a heart. He thought such behavior was unacceptable to any notion of basic human decency and dignity. And he thought it important enough to speak up for those who might be unable to speak up for themselves.

A week and a half before Carlos died he held onto our kitchen window and shouted out to you, "I love you. I love you all. I love everyone and everything. I really do!" This is what I believe he would want me to say.

Cremation arrangements were completed by Watson Funeral Service in Cambridgeport, and Carlos' remains were brought to his native Brazil for interment.

Gary L. France

July 9, 1958 - Aug. 1, 1995

On Tuesday, August 1, Gary peacefully slipped from this earth in the arms of his loving family. Three weeks prior to his passing, he had returned to his native Virginia to the home of his mother. With her care he had been able to remain in San Francisco, until she could no longer care for him there alone.

Gary loved San Francisco and contributed much to his community. He received many awards and citations, among them the Cable Car Award. He was a former board member and co-chair of the SF Lesbian/Gay Freedom Day Parade. Active with the NAMES Project, he worked on the 1993 National March on Washington.

Gary was Mr. Northern California Drummer in 1992-93. Wrestling with Team San Francisco, he won both gold and bronze medals in the 1990 and 1994 Gay Games. He also wrestled with the GGWC. He happily spent the last 10 years traveling and hosting the many friends he made.

Gary will be missed by his mother, Shirley; brother, John; sister, Melissa; and four nieces and nephews. He was especially close to Andrew Konstantaras and Michael McPherson of SF, and Darin F. P. Drake, a longtime friend in Virginia. ▼

Leonard (Lenny) J. Faber

July 26, 1955 - Aug. 18, 1995

Lenny slipped quietly into his final sleep on Friday, August 18. Born into a loving family in Illinois, he was raised on a small farm outside Sycamore, Ill., where he had fond memories of his childhood that he often shared with his friends. Later in life Lenny moved to Atlanta, where he was a waiter at several restaurants and bars. His favorite job was at the Pub Bar, where he made lots of friends. He then moved to San Francisco in 1989, where he was diagnosed with AIDS.

In January of 1993 Lenny met Lee Vernon outside of Ward 86, and they became inseparable. The two were married at MCC/San Francisco on June 28, 1994. They had a wonderful but short life together. Lenny's companionship and love will be sorely missed by Lee.

Lenny is survived by his mother and father, Pauline and Lawrence Faber; his sisters, Lorretta Hatch and Char Johnson; his brother, Guy Faber; and his loving spouse, Lee Vernon. One of Lenny's wishes was to have his ashes spread with his dog Missy's, so they could rest together.

Any donations may be made to Continuum HIV day service or MCC/San Francisco HIV services. ▼

Brian Farlinger

Canada lost one of its most determined AIDS treatment activists with the death of Brian Farlinger on Jul 3.

Brian joined AIDS Action Now in 1991, and soon became one of its driving forces. A lawyer and bank lobbyist by trade, Brian seemed at first an odd fit with the Docs and T-shirt set at AAN meetings. Although his garb slowly shifted, he maintained his methodical, thorough approach to advocacy. He saw no contradictions between presenting carefully researched briefs and participating in noisy, colourful demonstrations.

Brian played a leading role in AAN's Treatment, Access And Research Committee for the past five years. He was AAN's co-chair for two years, until last fall.

His increasing expertise on treatment and research issues kept him in demand on many advisory bodies; he chaired the Canadian AIDS Society's Therapies Committee as well as the Toronto Hospital's HIV/AIDS Community Advisory Committee. He sat on the executive committee of the HIV Ontario Observational Database, Health Canada's Expert Advisory Committee, the Toronto Clinical Trials Group, the Ministry of Health Insurance Working Group and many other bodies.

Brian's relentless drive and thoroughness earned him the respect of AIDS activists, as well as researchers, doctors, bureaucrats and politicians. The diverse crowd attending the public celebration of his life on Jul 13 was a fitting testament to his remarkable personality.

Brian was always direct and persistent. His keynote speech last month to the Canadian Association For HIV Research (CHAR) was typical of his approach. He calmly told Canada's leading researchers they were not doing enough and they were not doing it well enough. Despite his critique, CAHR named a research award after Brian at that conference.

Brian became a valuable friend to many of us who worked with him, even though his standards and expectations of fellow activists could be daunting. He will be missed greatly by friends, colleagues and family, and his absence in the AIDS treatment movement will create an enormous vacuum. Brian's challenge to everyone to work to end the AIDS crisis will continue long after he has gone.

It is appropriate that we end with Brian's final words, which were delivered at his memorial: "Activism makes a real difference. We have succeeded in getting a drug funding program, in stopping unethical trials, in obtaining experimental drugs through emergency release and now we have a significant say in the design of clinical trials in Canada, the direction of research and the development and delivery of services for people with HIV and AIDS.

"Activism has enormous potential and I was glad to give to AIDS Action Now every ounce of energy to the very end. I hope that you will continue our work.

You have that responsibility not only for yourselves and your friends, but for those who are coming after us. And that responsibility can only be discharged by dealing truthfully with our present fortunes and forming a vision of where we want to be.

"With enough energy we can bring the AIDS crisis to an end and transform HIV into a manageable disease. Better yet, we will cure it."

Brian asked that memorial donations be made to AAN, c/o 517 College, suite 402, Toronto M6G 4A2.

— Glen Brown and Darien Taylor

DETERMINED. Brian Farlinger played a leading role.

Carl Fiammetta

July 18, 1964 - Aug. 8, 1995

Our friend, Carl, moved on to a better place after a yearlong battle with AIDS. He showed tremendous courage, strength and dignity during the most challenging time of his incredible life.

Since January, Carl lived with his loving sister Roxanne (and her fiancé Richard) and nephew Patrick. You were always there for him. Constantly by his side was his partner, Victor. Victor is a truly amazing man. Never gave up, never gave in.

Carl had a good heart, a great sense of humor and a generous spirit. He once treated ten of his friends to brunch at the Palace. He made friends easily, and because he was 6' 2", was often the center of attention. Carl was protective of his friends; we were like family to him.

Carl leaves behind his parents, Gloria and Louis; sister, Alicia; aunt, Connie; so many friends, Mark, Rudy, Steven, Kean and Sam; and all his Fed Ex buddies, Maria, Arthur and Jeremy.

In keeping with Carl's flair for high fashion, a Halloween memorial service will be held October 21. Contact Steven (415) 641-7465 or Mark (415) 206-1776 for details.

Henry J. Faber

March 17, 1947 - Oct. 6, 1995

Henry Jacob Faber, a native of Silverlake, Wis., died Oct. 6 at home in San Francisco of AIDS-related complications.

Henry arrived in the Bay Area via the Alameda Naval Station and never looked back. He was a popular bartender at Febe's, the *P.S., Church Street Station and the Nothing Special. He later assisted his life partner, Randy Fontana, with his interior design business until Randy's death three years ago.

Henry loved to travel, whether around the world or South of Market. He thrived on putting together grand dinner parties and group outings, and was the crux of an extended family who loved him dearly despite his dramatic Pisces nature.

He will remain in the hearts of his extended family: Andrea, Larry, Cary, Maggie, Stephanie, Ann Adele, Leo, Terri, Skii and Ray, Louette and Lorna, Chuck, Bill, the Susans and many treasured friends.

Henry's ashes will be spread on the island of Maui. ▼

Jim Feldman

James David Feldman died Sept. 21 of complications from AIDS in North Hollywood, Calif. He was 37. Well recognized for his lighting design of the Trocadero Transfer in San Francisco and the Palace in Hollywood, he cast brightly colored lights throughout the discos of the world. Feldman is survived by his partner, Bob Perrone; his parents, Bernie and June; June's partner, Pro; brother, Steven; sister, Linda; uncles, Matthew and Joshua; Roy Leake Jr.; and many friends, including Kathy, Julie, D2, Holly, Brian, John, Amy and Snatch. 95

William T. Farrier, 44

Actor who had taught at Emerson

William T. Farrier, an actor with Shakespeare & Company and former acting and voice teacher at Emerson College, died of complications from AIDS Monday in his home in Arlington. He was 44. 10-30-95

Born in Cleveland, Mr. Farrier studied at the Actor's Studio and the Circle in the Square Workshop in New York City.

He played the title role in local productions of "Othello" presented by Shakespeare & Company and the New England Repertory Theater, and produced and starred in a production of "Kiss of the Spider Woman" at Suffolk University Theater in 1991.

He leaves a son, Michael McLaughlin of Arlington; and two sisters, Lynne Alexander of New York and Anita Taylor McGee of Cleveland.

A memorial service is being planned.

Unique writer Stu Feiler, 54, published in dozens of newspapers, including briefly as a theatre reviewer for NIGHTLINES, died of a heart attack while visiting Chicago from Baltimore, where he moved two years ago. He was host of PageOne, a nationally syndicated radio show on books. He was an expert on many subjects, including the Holocaust. He is survived by his wife of six months, Michele. 1-1-96

Ben Frazier

April 4, 1958 – Oct. 7, 1995

Benny Frazier, native of Erwin, Tenn., living in Augusta, Ga., died Oct. 7, 1995 from complications due to AIDS. Survivors include Jeff Elstein, his partner of 16 years; his parents; Benny and Amanda Frazier, and his sisters, Meredith Fraser and Rosie Cubreath.

Benny died a hero in both the war on AIDS and the war on homophobia. He will always be remembered for the love he bestowed upon his family, his many friends, and his four-legged children, Bubba and Macgiver.

The family requests donations to the Metropolitan Community Church of Augusta in lieu of flowers.

Brooke Ferguson

Brooke Wakefield Ferguson, 34, a former resident of Washington, D.C., died of AIDS-related complications Monday, March 4, at his home in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, according to his friend Michael Cover of Washington, D.C.

Ferguson was born October 28, 1961, in Burbank, Calif. He lived in Corvallis, Ore., before moving to Key West, Fla., where he worked as a bartender and waiter. In 1988, Ferguson moved to Baltimore, Md., and worked at Gampy's Restaurant for five years. In 1993, he moved to Rehoboth Beach, Del., where he worked as a bartender and waiter at both the West Side Restaurant and the Surfside Diner. Ferguson moved to Washington in the fall of 1993 and worked as a waiter for Gabriel Restaurant.

He was a volunteer and supporter of several Gay and AIDS organizations. Through the annual Rehoboth Beach Sundance Benefit, Ferguson raised funds for Creating A More Positive Rehoboth, known as CAMP Rehoboth, and the Sussex County AIDS Committee in Delaware.

"He was a passionate reader and an avid sports fan," Cover said. "He would open a book and devour it in a matter of hours and then pick up another. He also had a particular love for music by Madonna and the Pet Shop Boys," Cover said. Ferguson also enjoyed traveling.

In addition to Cover, Ferguson is survived by his mother, Joan Ferguson of Portsmouth, N.H.; brother, Gregg of Seattle, Wash.; and half-brother, Lee Ferguson, and half-sister, Teresa Kula, both of Dallas, Texas.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, April 20, 1 p.m. at 37 Baltimore Avenue, Rehoboth Beach, Del. A reception at the Blue Moon Restaurant will follow. For more information, call Cover at (202) 483-7873.

Oct. 7, 1951 - Jan. 7, 1996

Having fought a courageous battle with AIDS, Tom passed away at his home in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., surrounded by friends. Born and raised in upstate New York, Tom moved to San Francisco in the mid-1970s, and loved the beautiful California scenery, as well as the night life.

His deep love of life included a diverse circle of friends, both in the Bay Area and in his more recently adopted home of Ft. Lauderdale. There he enjoyed the beaches and warm tropical nights, while operating his own landscape and pool business.

Tom believed he would be reborn into a better world - and all his friends and family know he is there now. May peace be with you. A memorial service is being planned; call (415) 789-8316 for information. - Love, All your family and friends ▼

GARY J. FRICANO passed away July 23 of complications due to AIDS. "Frickie," who recently celebrated his 40th birthday with family and friends at a party at the Four Seasons, is survived by his parents, Vinnie and Alice, two sisters, Diane and Darlene, and a brother, Wayne. He was preceded in death, also from AIDS, by his brother Dean.

"Frickie" had an enormous passion for life and brought incredible enthusiasm both to his career as an environmentalist and to his hobbies and recreational activities. He took a year off from college to design and build his parents' home in Florida and was constantly in demand to help friends and family with remodeling and rehabbing projects.

He traveled extensively throughout the U.S., but no place could substitute for Florida as a favorite vacation spot.

"Frickie" will also be missed by his extended family and many friends, including Kathy, Jerry, Hannah, Bob, Yako, and Richard, as well as Sylvie and Mr. Moose. 96

Tuck Finn Dies at 50

by Kent Brandley

One of the founders of the Shades Project fundraising program to benefit the AIDS Emergency Fund, Tucker Finn, died November 28 from AIDS complications. 95

Born May 24, 1945 in Columbus, Ohio, Finn came to California in 1950. He was a Vietnam Veteran and talented designer, but many other aspects of his life remain an enigma today, even to his closest friends. Even his name was his own invention.

He lived out the last years of his life at Peter Claver House, a Catholic Charities residence for people with AIDS, and was instrumental in establishing and maintaining a unique rose garden there.

Lee Bossell, Finn's significant other for the last seven months, told the B.A.R. that Finn had promised him the roses at the garden would bloom for Christmas, and they did.

"Nature was his mainstay - his real love of life," Bossell said. "His real love was the rose garden."

Finn built the soil with mulch and chicken manure he carted to the facility on a regular and dedicated basis. He was also fond of birds and hung hummingbird feeders within the rose garden.

"He had a particular affection for hummingbirds," Bossell recalled.

Finn also had an affection for South of Market bars, and was a well-known fixture in the area. He was usually seen in the last years of his life wearing his favorite gardening overalls.

Finn was a driving force in the Shades Project, a long-running fundraising campaign in which volunteers produced works of art on windowshades for charity auctions. The designs and media created ranged from simple pen-and-ink drawings to elaborate collages of matchbook covers, feathers, and sequins. He received a special commendation for his work on the project, in recognition of the many thousands of dollars he helped raise, at the AIDS Emergency Fund's annual dinner in 1991.

A memorial will be announced at a later date. ▼

Dana B. Ferguson

Dana B. Ferguson died November 1 at his home in Boston due to complications from AIDS. He was 35. 76

He died in the presence of his parents, James and Barbara Ferguson, and his lover and best friend of 20 years, Scott Terfry.

Born in Beverly on June 3, 1960, Dana was raised in Wellfleet and settled with Scott in Boston. He worked in the communications department of Massachusetts General Hospital for 15 years. Dana was a "trekkie" and an avid science fiction enthusiast.

In 1991, Dana was successful in a battle with Hodgkin's Disease. He was the first person to undergo a treatment for the disease which used a combination of drugs. This treatment was created by Dana in conjunction with scientists from MGH and California and continues to be used today.

At the time of his death, Dana was enrolled in a degree program at Bunker Hill Community College. His optimism and smile were his best assets and enriched the experience for anyone who was fortunate to know him.

Jeffery L. Farber

Oct. 11, 1955 - March 23, 1996

Jeffery Farber died of complications from AIDS at Kaiser San Francisco. He is survived by his paternal grandparents; parents, Jodie and Gene Farber of Shawnee, Kan.; sister, Mindy of Mission, Kan.; Mindy's two children; and numerous friends in San Francisco, Hawaii, New Jersey, Oakland, Kansas City, San Diego and Finland.

Jeffery graduated from California College of Arts and Crafts in 1978, and worked as a design professional for many years. His skills took him to Singapore, Tokyo and Honolulu, and then back to San Francisco. Jeffery adored his dog, Tidbit, who is in the photo with him.

There are many people to thank for all their support, mainly Sean, the three Michaels, Andrew, Catherine, Chris, Doug, and the staff of Kaiser and St. Luke's. Aloha, my friend.

Stuart Fitzer

1949 - 1996

Stuart Fitzer, a longtime resident of San Francisco, died February 29 after a 16-year battle with AIDS. Stuart came to San Francisco in 1973 from New York City with his partner, Mark Fieldman. Mark was among the first group of men to contract the AIDS virus in San Francisco in 1979.

After Mark's death in 1982, Stuart dedicated his life to caring for and supporting other PLWAs on a one-to-one basis. He continued this work until 1994, when his health would no longer permit it.

Stuart was comptroller and manager of the Gift Center of San Francisco until he retired in 1992. He moved to Fort Lauderdale in 1995, where he purchased a waterfront home. He was active in the community up until three days before his passing.

Stuart was surrounded by family and friends at the time of his passing. In keeping with his wishes, his ashes were returned to San Francisco on May 26 and scattered under the Golden Gate Bridge. In attendance were his brother, Gilbert; sister, Sharon Rachel; and long-time friends, Thomas O'Donald, Frank Wooley and John Flynn.

Donations in Stuart's memory may be made to: Poverello AIDS Food Bank, 2230 Wilton Dr., Wilton Manors, FL 33305.

Bartlett Falls, D.C.

"My goal since I started this clinic has been to provide a place for effective holistic care, where people can come and find caring, nurturing relief and learn self-help from myself and my fellow practitioners. ... I reach that goal daily. ... I love it here." — Dr. Bartlett Falls, head of San Francisco's first Holistic Chiropractic Clinic for 15 years. With the love for his patients, he lived his life's purpose.

His incredible hands touched and healed the hearts, souls and bodies of many in the Castro community and beyond. His healing touch will be with us always.

Bart loved to go away in his Adventurewagon and commune with Nature. He enjoyed ballroom dancing, tap and salsa. His family, friends, patients, recycling and Mother Earth were very important to him.

Bart loved palm trees. The palm trees were put down the middle of Market Street for him. When you see a palm tree, send a smile to Bart.

A memorial celebration will be held at 1 p.m. on Saturday, June 22, at the Pagoda beside Stow Lake in Golden Gate Park. For more information call (415) 863-1312. ⁹⁶

Alan Fox

Alan Bruce Fox, 44, of Washington, D.C., died of AIDS-related complications at Fairfax Hospital in Virginia on Sunday, April 21, 1996, according to his domestic partner Jim Snight.

Fox was born Sept. 26, 1951 in Mansfield, Ohio, and attended Ohio State University before enlisting in the U.S. Army in 1973. He was first stationed in New York City, and in 1976, was stationed in the Office of the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff at the Pentagon until his discharge in 1979. Fox later served as the administrative assistant for the Gay Rights National Lobby, and more recently worked at the Library Corporation in Reston, Va., from 1993 until his retirement in 1995.

Fox was a longtime member, deacon, and board member of the Metropolitan Community Church of Washington. He also served on the board of directors and was treasurer for the Northwest Settlement House, a United Way program, and was an alumni member of the Centaur Motorcycle Club.

Fox enjoyed traveling, and considered his trips to Egypt and China highlights of his travel history. He also loved covered bridges, and often took roundabout routes in his travels so he could see as many as possible. In addition, Fox enjoyed theater, music, bowling, board games, and his cats Mauka and Annie.

Fox is predeceased by his mother, Doreanne Fox, and his first partner, the Rev. Larry Uhrig, former pastor of MCC-Washington.

In addition to Snight, Fox is survived by his father, Robert Fox of Mansfield, Ohio; brothers John Fox, also of Mansfield, and Douglas Fox of Lexington, Ohio; sister Kathleen Lennon of Ocean-side, Calif.; and his former partners Mel Baker of San Francisco, and Kevin Smith of Washington, D.C.

Tim Frazer

Timothy S. Frazer, 35, of Washington, D.C., died of AIDS-related complications at the Hospice of Washington in Washington, D.C., on Saturday, March 30, 1996, according to his life partner, Kevin M. Smith, also of Washington.

Frazer was born in Kansas City, Mo., on Aug. 9, 1960, and grew up in Naples, Fla. He later earned a master's degree in computer science from the Florida Institute of Technology in Melbourne, where he was a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. Frazer was also a Certified Quality Analyst.

Frazer moved to the D.C. area in 1989, where he worked in a variety of capacities in computer design, including employment with Digital Electronics Corporation and Electronic Data Systems, both in the D.C. area. More recently, Frazer worked as an information technologies manager for the American Red Cross, Smith said.

Frazer also volunteered for Brother, Help Thyself and the Whitman-Walker Clinic, and was active in the local leather and country-western communities. He was a member of D.C. Sports and was affiliated with the Centaur Motorcycle Club. Frazer also enjoyed collecting original art pieces, including sketches by Tom of Finland and paintings by Cavalier, Smith said.

In addition to Smith, Frazer is survived by many friends, including Billy Colli-son, Christopher Brush, Martin Palm-Leis, and Michael Upright, all of the D.C. area.

He is also survived by his parents, Bernie and Lynn Frazer; sister and brother-in-law, Lisa and John Lamb; and a niece and nephew, Jordan and Benjamin Lamb, all of Naples, Fla.

Frazer's remains were cremated on April 1 and will be scattered upon the beaches of Key West, Fla.

DIED: Wayne David Fischer, 39, of complications from AIDS March 2 in New York City. Fischer, a New York schoolteacher, chronicled his daily life with AIDS—injections, infusions, family gatherings, and hospitalizations—on a weekly cable television show called AIDS: A Journal of Hope. Fischer came out at a board of education meeting in 1990 and was believed to be the first public-school teacher to acknowledge his HIV status so openly. ⁹⁷

Danny Flores

Danny Flores, formerly of Provincetown and Los Angeles, died June 6 due to complications of AIDS.

Loving partner of Allan J. McDonald; devoted son of Patricia Alvarez of Los Angeles and the late Louis Flores; loving brother of Virginia Martinez, Linda Flores, Louis Flores, Tony Flores, Teri Garcia and Carmen Arroyo all of Los Angeles; grandson of Margaret Flores of Los Angeles; also survived by several other loving relatives and friends.

Donations in Danny's memory may be made to the Beth Israel Hospital Hematology and Oncology Support Fund, 330 Brookline Avenue, Boston, 02115.

A Memorial Service will be held on Saturday, June 15 at 2 p.m. at Poor

96

Richard's Landing, 439 Commercial Street, Provincetown.

Franklin Friday

April 28, 1952 - June 4, 1996

Franklin finally rested on the morning of June 4. With him at his passing were his partner of six years, Kirk Lively, and their dog, Skeeter.

Franklin had been a resident of San Francisco for only two years, with prior residences in Dallas, Texas; Boston, Mass.; and his birth state of Oregon. He was a graduate of Oregon State University, with degrees in elementary education and forestry. In more recent times, he had worked as an accounting clerk.

Franklin had a great love of gardening and floral work, travel and domestic life. He also enjoyed needlework, reading, music and walks on the beach. To those who knew him, he was a simple, kind and gentle man. A private viewing and memorial, attended by family and close friends, were held at his home the day of his death.

PEGGY FERRO, 49, a medical worker at San Francisco's Kaiser Hospital who was infected with HIV by a needle stick in 1989, died of AIDS November 4. Also known as Jane Roe—the pseudonym used in her landmark court case against Kaiser—Ferro's struggle for better HIV prevention for health workers paid off in 1998 with the passage of California legislation requiring new safety guidelines for hospitals, including one-use-only needles. "Her reputation was far-reaching," said Assemblyperson Carole Migden. Ferro appeared in two films, The Real Jane Roe and a video for the Service Employees International Union training nurses how to fight for safe medical devices. "If you needed someone in your corner, Peggy was the one," said Ferro's partner, Cindy Chang. 98

Nicolas Fleites

June 30, 1960 - Aug. 9, 1996

Nico slipped away quietly and peacefully on the morning of August 9 at the Zen Hospice Center, surrounded by some of his many close friends.

Nico was noticed by many in the community; he was a stunning Cuban man, full of charm and good humor, always willing to help with a party or drag, or supply a good piece of one-line advice - delivered only as Nico could.

Much of Nicolas' take on life stemmed directly from his upbringing in Communist Cuba, his immigration to the U.S. in 1979 at 19, and his starting the life he so desired as a free gay man.

Nicolas' journey took him to NYC, where he met his lover, Tom. After many years of the NY disco scene, they moved to San Francisco in 1988 to be closer to Tom's family. Four days after Tom's death in 1989, Nico fulfilled Tom's last desire: to see Nicolas as a clean and sober man.

Nicolas is survived by his mother-in-law, Mamasita; his mother, Rosa; and many family members in Cuba.

A celebration of Nico's life will be held at his home Sept. 1 at 6 p.m. For further details, call David at 665-3442.

Bill Ferranti, 1952-1996

Bill Ferranti, a devoted member of the AIDS Action staff from 1986 to 1989, died in New York City on September 5, 1996, from complications related to AIDS.

Bill's passion for helping those with AIDS and his avid involvement with the Boston Frontrunners, a gay and lesbian running group, led to the creation of the Yuletide Stride, an event which has become his most enduring legacy.

The annual holiday run, the biggest fundraiser for the 150 members of Frontrunners, continues to generate funds for the holiday gift basket program for people with AIDS. The Ninth Annual Yuletide Stride, held on December 7, drew 500 people who raised more than $30,000. The proceeds allowed Frontrunners and AIDS Action to distribute 500 holiday gift baskets for men, women and children with AIDS.

A wake was held for Bill in September and a memorial service was held in October, both in New York. He touched many lives and leaves many friends. He will be greatly missed by his family at AIDS Action.

Lloyd G. Ferreira, Jr.

Lloyd Ferreira, known to his friends as "Uncle Lloyd," died last Tuesday, Oct. 26. He passed away peacefully in his sleep after a courageous battle with Lymphoma.

He retained his wonderful sense of humor to the end, and continued to make his friends and relatives smile. He leaves his beloved cat, Wes, as well as countless friends. He will always be in our hearts. 1999

Matthew Fletcher

Matthew R. Fletcher, 41, a resident of Arlington, Virginia, and former Republican staff director of the House Government Operations Committee, died Saturday, August 31, 1996, of AIDS-related complications in his hometown of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, according to his brother, Andrew Fletcher of Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Fletcher was born Dec. 8, 1954, in Cedar Rapids and graduated from Washington High School in Cedar Rapids, where he was an award-winning quarterback on the school's football team. Fletcher later graduated with a bachelor's degree from Colorado State University in Fort Collins, and a master's degree from George Washington University in D.C.

U.S. Rep. Steve Gunderson (R-Wis.) described Fletcher as a "good friend."

"We were introduced to each other in the spring of 1983 by somebody who said that we had too much in common not to know each other," Gunderson recalled.

Among their similarities, Gunderson said, was that both were Gay, grew up in the Midwest, and were sons of Chevrolet dealers.

Fletcher worked as a legislative assistant in Gunderson's office from June 1985 to March 1987. He also served on the committee staffs of Reps. Frank Horton (R-N.Y.) and William Clinger (R-Pa.), and he had worked on the National Republican Senatorial Committee.

Most recently, Fletcher served as the Republican staff director of the U.S. House of Representatives Committee on Government Operations. He retired from that position in December 1994.

Fletcher testified before the House Commerce Committee on April 5, 1995 during hearings on the reauthorization of the Ryan White CARE Act.

"I know many other staffers on the Hill suffering from AIDS, and they have suffered basically in silence. There is a lot of fear, fear about what going public might mean for their boss, worrying about the politics, but it is right here on Capitol Hill, and I just was hoping to give a little face to it," Fletcher said in his testimony.

"I would hope that this committee would reauthorize the Act in as strong a manner as possible," he concluded.

"Matt was one of those people who excelled on Capitol Hill, and he was the same ordinary, decent guy to all his friends," Gunderson said.

Fletcher was preceded in death by his partner of 17 years, John J. Dent of Arlington, Va.

Fletcher is survived by his parents, Marnie and William C. Fletcher of Cedar Rapids; another brother, Daniel, of Cincinnati, Ohio; a godson; and additional family and friends, including the parents and sisters of his partner, Dent.

Funeral services were held Sept. 3 in Cedar Rapids. Fletcher's remains were cremated. The ashes were retained by the family.

LON FLEXX
(1965 - 1995)

David Lee Anderson, who appeared in forty-nine gay adult videos as Lon Flexx, died of AIDS complications on September 15, 1995 at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center in West Hollywood.

Born January 7, 1965 in Claremore, Oklahoma, he grew up in Flagstaff, Arizona and Albuquerque, New Mexico, but graduated from high school in Claremore. He attended the University of Oklahoma at Norman for two years and was vice president of the Gay Activities Alliance on campus. In a 1990 Manshots interview, commenting on his time there, he said, "The entire time I was there I never had a problem from anybody, and it was a real redneck environment. But if you are very secure with yourself, if you really believe in your lifestyle, people sense that and leave you alone. They don't mess with you when you feel strongly about something. I never forgot that, and that's how I decided to live my life. I have no regrets."

Anderson moved to California in 1988, first living in Riverside and Costa Mesa before settling in West Los Angeles two years later. He was employed as a copywriter of marketing materials for a major studio on their laser disc products.

A friendly, charming, and unassuming man who didn't have a bad word to say about anybody, his dark good looks brought him to the attention of adult video producers.

In his prolific career as Lon Flexx, he appeared in Bad Boys, Big Bang, Billboard, Blow Your Own Horn, Boys Night Out, Boys on the Block, California Stud

Pups, Commercial Sex, Cousins Should Do It, Cowboys and Indians, Davey and the Cruisers, Fidelity, For Sale By Owners, Hard Labor, Hard Moves, Heat in the Night, He-Devils, Inside Expose, International Guide to Fellatio, Just Between Us, Knights of Thunder, Lunch Hour, Lustful Paradise, Male Taboo, Man Stroke, Memories of a Lost Summer, Men at Work, Men of Tough Guys, More of a Man, Mystic Museum, Object of Desire, Plunge, Queens in Danger, Ranger Nick II, Sailor in the Wild II, Screen Test Magazine, Sex, Lies, and Videocassettes, Sex Mates, Sex Shooters, Some Men Are Bigger, Steel Pulse, Straight Boys Do, Straight Up, Stud Squad, Summer Memories, Ten Is Enough, Tough Guys Do Dance, Trade-Off, and Untamed.

After being diagnosed with AIDS while visiting his family in Albuquerque over the 1992 Thanksgiving holiday, he was hospitalized there for several weeks and recovered sufficiently to return to Los Angeles in March, 1993. Recently, when his condition declined and he was hospitalized frequently, his extended family gathered to be with him.

A memorial service was held at his apartment on September 16th, and his ashes were scattered at Slide Rock State Park near Sedona, Arizona on September 30th, a place he himself had selected. He is survived by his lover, Rob McCaffree in West Los Angeles, parents and sister in Albuquerque, and a sister in Oklahoma. [H.F.]

Rev. F. Lauren Flewelling

The Rev. F. Lauren Flewelling of Sterling, MA died at home on April 2 of complications from AIDS.

Born in Oceanside, CA on January 28, 1941, he lived in California, New York and New Hampshire before moving to the Boston area in 1962. He received his B.A. from Cornell University in Ithaca, NY and his Master of Divinity from the Episcopal Divinity School in Cambridge, MA.

Mr. Flewelling served as priest of Saint Andrews' Episcopal Churches in Framingham and Wellesley, MA from 1965 through 1976. He worked in a variety of educational and administrative positions for the Department of Mental Health (DMH) from 1977 to 1995, receiving the Outstanding State Administrator award in 1994 for his work with refugee assistance programs. Mr. Flewelling was active in HIV/AIDS education and received the DMH Recognition Award for his efforts.

The Rev. Flewelling is survived by his life partner, John J. McSweeney of Sterling; his daughter, Heather Lee Flewelling of Boston; his son, Andrew Dixon Flewelling of Newton; his mother, Ramona B. Flewelling of Concord, NH; and two brothers, J. David of New York and Bruce K. Flewelling of Vermont.

A memorial service was held April 7 at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Wellesley. Interment was at Hillside Cemetery, Sterling. Donations may be made to the Rev. F. Lauren Flewelling Memorial Fund for HIV/AIDS Services at the University of Massachusetts Medical Center, c/o Sarah Cheeseman, M.D., Development Office, 55 Lake Ave. North, Worcester, MA 01655.
