

Nicholas Edwards, 42,

Designer and Painter

4-16-92

Nicholas Edwards, a designer who specialized in murals, died on Thursday in his home in Manhattan. He was 42 years old.

Mr. Edwards died of complications from AIDS, said Louise Crandell, his business partner.

Mr. Edwards was a partner in Serpentine Studio of New York City, which specializes in interior designs for homes, public buildings and restaurants. He painted murals at the Guggenheim Museum, the Brooklyn Botanic Garden and both local and foreign restaurants including Lutèce. Ms. Crandell will continue the business.

He was born in Wellington, New Zealand, and was a graduate of Auckland University Law School. Before coming to the United States, Mr. Edwards was a staff attorney at the New Zealand Public Solicitor's Office.

Mr. Edwards also advised art collectors, specializing in 20th century decorative objects made of silver.

He is survived by his mother, Patricia Baxter of Sydney, Australia; two sisters, Vicki Fleetwood of Sydney and Janne Edwards of Wanganui, New Zealand, and a stepmother, Mrs. Rona L. Edwards of Auckland, New Zealand.

Jacqueline Eubanks, College Librarian, 54

11-18-92

Jacqueline K. Eubanks, a college librarian, an editor and a proponent of multicultural education, died on Thursday at St. Vincent's Hospital in Manhattan. She was 54 years old and lived in Brooklyn.

She died of complications from AIDS, said friends and colleagues at the library at Brooklyn College, where she was on the faculty since 1966.

Ms. Eubanks significantly expanded the college library's African and Caribbean collection and was a founding member of the Social Responsibilities Roundtable of the American Library Association.

She was the originator and senior editor of "Alternatives in Print," an international catalog of books, pamphlets, periodicals and audio-visual material not easily found in mainstream references works. She also helped organize book fairs in the city.

Ms. Eubanks grew up in Chicago. She earned her bachelor's degree and master's degree in library science at the University of Chicago and a master's degree at Columbia University Teachers College.

Before joining Brooklyn College, she worked as a librarian for the United States Army Special Services in Germany and for the American Association of Advertising Agencies in Manhattan.

Her marriage to Lloyd W. Eubanks ended in divorce.

She is survived by a brother, Alan Peldzus of Chicago.

Albert F. Emery, Jr

Albert F. Emery, Jr., "Al" to his friends, died on February 6, 1991 at 47 years of age, due to complications from AIDS. Following a career as a Medical Laboratory Technologist, Al became Boston's leading gay leather entrepreneur.

He loved pottery, ducks, and automobiles. He owned a vast video library and was one of the original co-founders of Dreizhen, Boston's leading S/M fraternity. Al served in the Army Medical Corps in Saigon during the Vietnam War and farmed in New Brunswick, Canada. More recently Al and his lover of many years, Stephen Page, built a thriving leather business in the South End, and traveled to Egypt, Europe, and Florida.

Since Steve's death in 1989, Al lived both in Fort Lauderdale and Boston. Al leaves behind many friends throughout the U.S. and Canada, as well as his parents, sisters, niece and nephews. Al will best be remembered for his limitless generosity. A gentle, giving human being, Al knew what he wanted and made it happen. His final days passed peacefully in The Hospice at Mission Hill. Funeral services were private and burial was at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery in Quincy, Massachusetts. Donations may be made to The Hospice at Mission Hill 20 Parker Hill Avenue, Boston, MA 02120.

Max Epstein

Metropolitan Opera conductor

NEW YORK (AP) — Max Epstein, a conductor at the Metropolitan Opera, died Friday in Manhattan. He was 39.

David Reuben, a spokesman for the Met, said the Texas native died of AIDS.

Epstein, who joined the Met in 1984, last conducted in March during a national broadcast commemorating the 50th anniversary of opera broadcasts sponsored by Texaco, Reuben said.

"We will sorely miss his wisdom, counsel and friendship but take solace in the fact that his memory will live on through his efforts and inspiration on behalf of both the arts and artists of opera," Reuben said on behalf of the Met.

A native of Bay City, Texas, Epstein was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1973.

His career began in earnest in 1975 in Germany and he went on to be associated with several opera houses in Europe before he came to New York, Reuben said.

Survivors include his parents, Renne and Melvin Epstein of Bay City; sisters Jaine Fraser of Dallas and Betty Epstein of Austin, Texas, and a brother, Robert Epstein of Atlanta.

Reuben said a memorial service would be held at an undetermined date. Services will be held in Bay City.

In lieu of flowers, Epstein's family asks that donations be made to the Max Epstein Fund for Education in the Arts, P.O. Box 2360, Bay City, Texas.

David Eisler, 36, Dies;

Tenor With City Opera

2-10-92

David Eisler, a tenor who sang many leading roles at the New York City Opera, died on Sunday at the Park Plaza Hospital in Houston. He was 36 years old and lived in Houston.

He died of pneumonia, said his manager, Merle Hubbard.

Mr. Eisler was born on Dec. 20, 1955, in Evansville, Ind., and studied voice at Indiana University. He joined the New York City Opera cast in 1981 and attracted attention the next year with his performance in the title role in Leonard Bernstein's "Candide." He sang the role again in the company's "Live From Lincoln Center" telecast and on its 1985 recording for New World Records.

Mr. Eisler, who was often praised for the strength and clarity of his voice, also sang in City Opera productions of "Barbiere di Siviglia," "The Mikado" and "Brigadoon." He appeared in the company's telecasts of "Lucia di Lammermoor" and "La Rondine."

Besides the New York City Opera, Mr. Eisler performed with the Opera Theater of St. Louis, the Canadian Opera, the Monte Carlo Opera, the Cleveland Orchestra, the Los Angeles Philharmonic and the London Symphony

J. Heffernan, 1986

David Eisler

Orchestra. He was rehearsing for performances with the Houston Grand Opera when he became ill.

Mr. Eisler's companion was Geoffrey Westergaard.

He is survived by his parents, Donald and Margaret Eissler of Evansville, and a sister, Lisa Best of Roanoke, Ind.

John Van Etten

Taught music in Boston Public Schools

There will be a memorial service for John Van Etten on Saturday, October 20, 1990 at 10:30 a.m. at the Emmanuel Church Chapel, 15 Newbury Street, Boston.

John died on September 19, 1990 at the Hospice at Mission Hill due to complication from AIDS. He was an elementary school teacher for the Boston Public School for eight years. He began his teaching career at the Mackie and Tobin Schools. In recent years he taught music at the Bradley, Kennedy, and Dante Alligheri Schools in East Boston. John received a BA in music from Boston University and Masters in Education from the University of Massachusetts, Boston.

John's funeral was held in Mills, Pennsylvania on September 22. He is survived by his parents, Bill and Anna Van Etten; his brother Rick; his sister Vicky; her family and his many loving friends and colleagues.

John was the assistant director of the Boston Gay Men's Chorus from 1983-85, and was the director of The Front Line cabaret, a small group of chorus members. He also worked part-time at Capriccio Piu.

John was extremely proud of his students who often sang during the holidays at the Prudential Center, City Hall and Quincy Market. He was devoted to teaching music to inner city children and was a dynamic and exciting music teacher. John loved to read historical novels and biographies. He would often travel with his friends to see the homes of historical figures and places where people lived and worked.

John Van Etten

During John's illness, his family and friends united in a very special bond to care for John and each other. The unity and love created will endure forever and give strength to everyone involved.

John will be greatly missed by everyone who knew and deeply loved him. Donations in his name can be made to The Hospice at Mission Hill, 20 Parker Hill Avenue, Boston, MA 02120.

Paul Everett

1992

Paul Everett passed away Jan. 17 after suffering a heart attack. He was 41. At the time of his death, he was employed with the Jupiter Theater in Florida.

During his 17 years in Boston, his passion for the stage was well-known. Paul was instrumental in securing Triangle Theater's present space and appeared in several of their productions, including Boys in the Band, Franny: The Queen of Provincetown, and A Night Out with the Boys. He appeared in the Lesbian soap opera, Two-In-Twenty, in various roles in murder mysteries for both High Moon Productions and Mystery Cafe. His first Equity production was The Hostage at the Merrimack Repertory Theater. Paul performed in independent productions of Boy Meets Boy, Street Theatre (the Stonewall uprising) and Royal Paste & Paper Circus (at New Ehrlich and other locations). He participated in various productions for The New African Company and for Playwrites Platform. He traveled to local grade schools in a musical version of Jungle Book.

RICHARDEWING JR., the last surviving founding member of Being Alive, a Los Angeles AIDS support group, died of complications from AIDS Oct. 12 in Los Angeles. He was 37. In 1986, Ewing started Being Alive with Ron Rose and Scott Barry, both of whom died of AIDS complications earlier this year. 1990

He also choreographed and directed; he was proud to have directed the first production of Ten Percent Revue (listed amongst the top ten plays that year by The Boston Herald).

Information on memorial services, to be held on Sat., Feb. 22, may be obtained by calling 522-5006.

EGAN: Formerly of Winthrop, in Boston, Nov. 7, James Wesley Egan, age 49, beloved son of Lillian A. (Burke) and the late William N. Egan. Devoted brother of Charles W. Egan of East Bridgewater and the late Diane Marie Egan. Loving uncle of Robert W. Egan of East Bridgewater. Please omit flowers. Expressions of sympathy in Jim's name may be made to Hospice of Mission Hill, 20 Parker Hill, Boston, MA 02120. Graveside Funeral Services will take place at Winthrop Cemetery, Saturday, November 9th at 11. (Cross Street Section). Visiting hours are omitted. Funeral arrangements by the Maurice W. Kirby Funeral Home, 210 Winthrop St., WINTHROP. 11-7-91

Ethyl Eichelberger

Actor played male, female roles

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK - Actor Ethyl Eichelberger, who turned theatrical conventions upside down in his career as a performance artist, playwright and director, committed suicide over the weekend. He was 45.

Mr. Eichelberger, who had AIDS, was found dead in his apartment Sunday.

Mr. Eichelberger was equally at ease playing characters male or female, including Abraham and Mary Todd Lincoln, King Lear and Medusa.

His rewriting of the classics included such Shakespearean send-ups as "Hamlette," a female version of Hamlet, and "Leer," his version of "King Lear." He had just completed performances of "Das Vedanya Mama," a variation on Chekhov.

He was also recognized for his work on Broadway. Last year, he performed opposite Sting in "The 3 Penny Opera," playing a crankbox and singing "Mack the Knife."

James Roy Eichelberger was born to Amish parents in Pekin, Ill. He legally became Ethyl in 1975.

After studying theater at Knox College in Galesburg, Ill., he attended the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York. For seven years, he acted with the Trinity Square Repertory Company in Providence, R.I. In New York, he worked with Charles Ludlam and the Ridiculous Theatrical Company.

As his reputation grew, he began appearing in mainstream theater, doubling as the courtesan and the abbess in the Flying Karamazov Brothers production of "The Comedy of Errors" at Lincoln Center.

Mr. Eichelberger's final performance will be posthumous: he plays himself in Oliver Stone's upcoming Jim Morrison film biography, "The Doors."

EPPS-of Boston, Franze Taylor Epps, Jr. age 37, on Friday, July 3, 1992. Son of Franze T. & Mary C. (Montgomery) Epps, Sr. of Houston, TX. Brother of Darrell L. & Catherine N. Epps of Aberdeen, Scotland. Also survived by his friends & business partners: Joe Condon of Boston, and Christopher Williams & his wife, Elaine; his dear friends, Stoney & Sara Ballard & their children, Bruce Hobbins & Sybil; an old friend & neighbor, Cameron Sawzin and the rest of the very remarkable community of comrades at 9 Durham St., and a host of other friends. A funeral service will be held in the Celestial Chapel at J.S. Waterman & Sons and Eastman-Waring Funeral Home, 495 Commonwealth Ave. (Kenmore Sq.) BOSTON, on Monday, July 6th at 8 p.m. The family will be receiving visitors on Monday, the evening of the service, from 7-9. Interment: Houston, TX. Expressions of sympathy may be made to the Hospice at Mission Hill, 20 Parker Hill Ave., Boston, MA 02120.

ARTHUREVANS (1964-1992) From this first year to forever, we miss you, the special person we knew & loved. We'll always remember your loving spirit & all that you taught us. Love, your friends.

Gordon T. Earls

MICHAEL EMPERO

Jan. 22, 1994, age 32

Dancer who appeared in Suzanne Somers' nightclub act and on TV in Cop Rock and L.A. Law.

Gordon T. Earls, 32, of Honolulu, Hawaii, died Friday, Jan. 31 of AIDS-related pneumonia. 1992

Mr. Earls was born in Boston, the son of Dory C. Earls of Portland, Maine and the late Raymond T. Earls.

He graduated from Deering High School in 1978 and attended Emerson College in Boston. Mr. Earls worked as a travel agent for American Express Travel Services in Boston and Air France in San Francisco.

Gordon was active as an AIDS volunteer in San Francisco and Honolulu.

Surviving, in addition to his mother, are two brothers: Stephen Earls of Wilmington, Mass., and Dana R. Earls of Portland, and a sister, Debora Cota of Saco, Maine. Also, an aunt, Mrs. Leon Burbank of South Portland.

A memorial service will be held Sunday, Feb. 9 at 1:00 at the North Deering Congregational Church with the Rev. Mark Rustin officiating.

Memorial contributions may be made to: AIDS Project, 22 Monument Square, 5th Floor, Portland, ME 04112.

DENHOLM ELLIOTT

10-6-92

At 70, veteran British actor Denholm Elliott

LONDON — Denholm Elliott, the veteran British supporting actor who often outshone the stars around him, died yesterday of complications from AIDS, his agent said. He was 70.

Mr. Elliott, who died at his home in Ibiza, Spain, had been ill "for more than three years," his agent, Jean Diamond, said in London.

Although active on stage, screen, and television for over four decades, Mr. Elliott had his most productive period in the 1980s, offering a host of supporting performances which established him as one of the quirkiest and most original talents around.

"Never act with children, dogs, or Denholm Elliott" was the British film industry's affectionate line on the actor.

Best known perhaps for playing Eddie Murphy's butler in the comedy "Trading Places," Mr. Elliott received a 1985 Oscar nomination for Best Supporting Actor for the period film, "A Room With A View," adapted from the E.M. Forster novel.

His most recent film was "Noises Off," based on the hit British stage comedy.

—AP

EIKREM—Lynwood Olaf, former Chairman of Strategic Directions International, died October 10, 1992 after a long illness. Mr. Eikrem was born 1919 in Lansing, Michigan, received his BS in Chemistry from Michigan State University and an MS degree from M.I.T. in 1948. He served as a Lieut. in the U.S. Navy during WW II. Mr. Eikrem was internationally known as an expert in the analytical instruments industry, was a Fellow of the American Institute of Chemists, member of the Optical Society of America and the New York Academy of Sciences. He was also listed in the Who's Who in Finance and Industry, American Men & Women of Science, and Who's Who in the World. He is survived by his four children, Margaret A. Keller, John P. Eikrem, Marie E. Rawcliffe, Jeanne M. Vilsack, and by twelve grandchildren. Funeral Mass was held Oct. 15 at Immaculate Catholic Church in Glendale. Committal in Los Angeles National Cemetery. Contributions may be made to Pediatrics AIDS Research, Harbor-UCLA Medical Center, Los Angeles. Arrangements by Cabot & Sons, Pasadena, Directors.

EARLEY—Sean, artist, age 40, on May 30, in Ft. Worth, TX. He is survived by parents, Dorothy and David K. Earley, sister, Linda Swindle and five nieces and nephews. Services will be in Ft. Worth on Tuesday. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the John Peter Smith Infectious Disease Clinic, 1500 South Main Street, Ft. Worth, TX 76104, or GMHC. 92

ELLNER—Eddie. Died on January 15, 1992 at age 35 of AIDS. Musical Director of Chicago City Limits for 8 years. He was far too young to die. He will be missed forever by his loving life partner Robert Bank, his parents Gene and Amy, his sister Nancy, his brother Joey, his grandmother Ethel, his grandfather Sam, his aunt Sallie and his in-laws, Sybil and Simmy, Kevin and Melissa, Larry and Rebecca, his niece and nephew Anna and Jacob and his podson Aurelien. He was so grateful to his devoted family of friends who stood by him and Robert throughout his long illness. Eddie will be deeply missed for his gentleness, his wit, his dazzle at the keyboard and his Bette Davis. Eddie, "we know you're a treasure." Donations in Eddie's memory can be sent to American Foundation for AIDS Research, 212-719-0033 and God's Love We Deliver, 212-865-4900. A memorial service will be held at a future date.

ENDICOTT—Harold P. On October 17, 1992. Beloved son of Jennie Endicott, devoted brother of Robyn and Arthur, cherished uncle of Jennen, Thomas, Ian and Kristen, Joseph and Jake, admired and loved by his many friends. Memorial service to be held at the Redden Funeral Home, 325 West 14 St, N.Y.C., on November 1, 1992 11AM to 1PM. In lieu of flowers please make donations to God's Love We Deliver and GMHC.

EISENDRATH—Steve, on October 5, 1992, of AIDS related causes. Age 47. Former President and Founder of The Heartland Company, Ltd. and Executive Vice President of Merona Sport. Survived by Edward K., companion; Marvin Eisenrath, father; Gordon and Stuart Eisenrath, brothers. Funeral to be held in Milwaukee, Thursday, 10/8. Memorial service in New York to be announced. Donations in his name may be made to the Gay Men's Health Crisis.

EDMONDS—Robert, died on February 8, 1992, just shy of 43 years, from AIDS. An accomplished actor and raconteur, he starred in the Off-Broadway production of "Boy Meets Boy" and "No Trifling With Love". Robert was also the co-author of the play "Blowing Cover". He is survived by his beloved parents, Rose and Richard, his sister Regina and brother Richard as well as by his devoted aunt Regina Drewes and his life companion, Michael Singer. Robert will be remembered by the many relatives and friends to whom he was so devoted and who offered him such magnificent support in his battle with AIDS. Donations in Robert's memory can be sent to the American Foundation for AIDS Research, 212-719-0033. Memorial service at a future date.

ELVERMAN—Bill, 40, of N.Y.C. died on Aug. 13, 1992. He was born on Nov. 14, 1951 in Kenosha, WI. The playwright, actor, and dramatist graduated with honors with a BA in Communication Arts from the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1973. For the last 20 years Mr. Elverman made his home in Manhattan. He was a member of the Screen Actors Guild, Actors Equity Association and the American Federation of TV and Radio Artists. He was also a member of Circle Repertory Theatres Writer's Unit, a guest lecturer at NYU teaching dramatic writing and worked with The 52nd Street Project. His play "Rock County" won the 1985 Joseph Kesselring Award. "True Facts" was performed at the Grove Theatre in London and here at the Astor Place Theatre under the name "Particular Friendships". "The Mask" was produced by Love Creek Productions at the Not Home Theatre this Spring. As a writer for the CBS daytime drama "Guiding Light", Mr. Elverman won the Writer's Guild Award and was nominated for an Emmy. He is survived by his parents William and Honorine (Kelly) Elverman, sister Bernadette, brothers Tim and Dennis, sister-in-law Barbara and nephews Bill and Dennis, all of Wisconsin. A memorial service in N.Y. will be held in the near future.

ELWOOD—Robert Bailey, Jr. Age 38, died in this city on Tuesday, March 24, 1992 of complications related to AIDS. At the time of his death Mr. Elwood was an attorney of the firm of LeBoeuf, Lamb, Leiby and MacRae. He was a graduate of Northfield Mount Hermon School, Duke University and the Duke Law School, where he was a member of the Editorial Board of the Duke University Journal. Mr. Elwood was also a student at the Juilliard School of Music. Survivors include his mother, Lee Elwood of Belleair Beach, FL, sister, Jean Wheeler of Evanston, IL, brothers, John of Pittsburgh, PA and Christopher of Cambridge, MA, as well as their spouses and several nieces and nephews, and his long time companion, Deborah Wright. A memorial service will be held in his remembrance on Saturday, March 28th, at 11 AM in the Chapel of the Fifth Ave. Presbyterian Church at Fifth Ave. and 55th St. The family requests that any donations be made to the charity of your choice.

EMERY—Rick. Actor, singer, dancer, on April 7, at the age of 39. Beloved son of Adele and the late Dr. Bertram Brown. Devoted brother of Marie Falcin. Cherished uncle of Tracy and Kelly. Memorial service Sunday, April 12, 5 PM, "Plaza Memorial Chapel," 91st and Amsterdam. Donations to Equity Fights AIDS, 165 W. 46th Street, N.Y.C. 10036 in lieu of flowers. 92

EPSTEIN—Jan. 44, of Santa Barbara passed away at his home on Tuesday, January 18, 1994. Survived by his father Bill Epstein of Fla, brother David Epstein, a niece and nephew and his aunt Myrna. He is also survived by companion David West of Santa Barbara.

EDWARDS—Paul, born Steckman, 47. A homosexual, was violently and unnecessarily killed on March 26, 1994 in Smithton, PA. He was the wind beneath my wings and I will miss him everyday.

Liz Temkin

David Eckert, 47, Minister and Ally Of Gay Veterans

10-28-92

By BRUCE LAMBERT

David K. Eckert, a decorated Air Force pilot who became a minister and an advocate for gay and lesbian military veterans, died Sunday at the David Grant Medical Center at Travis Air Force Base near Sacramento, Calif. He was 47 years old and lived in Sacramento.

He died of non-Hodgkins lymphoma, said Beverly Eckert, his former wife.

In his 20-year Air Force career, Mr. Eckert won medals flying medical planes in the Vietnam War. Later, he was the commander of a WC-135 jet, a version of the Boeing 707, monitoring atmospheric radioactivity as part of enforcing a nuclear weapons ban. At his death he was a retired lieutenant colonel.

After retiring with an honorable discharge in 1989, Mr. Eckert acknowledged his homosexuality. He was a founder of the Twin Spirit Veterans Association for gay and lesbian veterans and gave Congressional testimony on veterans with AIDS.

He then completed seminary school and became the interim pastor of the Delta Harvest Metropolitan Community Church in Stockton, Calif., and was active in the River City Metropolitan Community Church in Sacramento. Both are nondenominational churches, many of whose members are homosexuals and lesbians.

Mr. Eckert was born in Texas City, Tex.

His marriage of 22 years to the former Beverly Bishop ended in divorce, but she said they remained close during the changes in his life.

He is survived by his companion, Bill Weaver of Sacramento, and two daughters, Elisa Anne and Angela Christine, both of Orangevale, Calif.

ELWOOD—In Boston, April 12, 1991. Robert A. Elwood, 38 yrs old, beloved son of Jean E. (Olsen) Elwood and the late Richard F. Elwood. Devoted brother of Richard, Theresa Stanley, Joseph, Frank, Jean Marron, and Steven. Loving nephew of Katherine Gurley, Eleanor Glynn and Joseph Olsen. Memorial Mass will be said at St. Margaret's Church, Dorchester, April 15 at 9 a.m. In lieu of flowers donations may be made in Robert's name to the Hospice of Mission Hill, 20 Parker Ave., Boston MA 02120.

Douglas Edwards, 44; Produced Film Events 2-2-93

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 5 (AP) — Douglas Edwards, who produced hundreds of special events for the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, died on Tuesday at Hollywood Community Hospital. He was 44.

The academy said the cause of death was AIDS.

Mr. Edwards was the guest director of the film department of the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. For the last 13 years, he was theater and special events administrator for the motion picture academy, producing more than 250 events, including a nine-city tour of the restored 1954 film "A Star Is Born."

Mr. Edwards was working on the academy's scheduled Feb. 10 tribute to the composer and conductor Johnny Green. He also produced the Olympiad of Animation during the Los Angeles Olympic Arts Festival and an all-star tribute to the actress Myrna Loy at Carnegie Hall.

He was editor of the professional journal Media Arts from 1983 to 1990 and national film critic and Los Angeles editor of Advocate magazine for four years.

He is survived by his companion, Gary Berkowitz, and his mother, Manuëlné Wadginski of Memphis.

C. Lamar Elmore, 48, German Wine Expert 10-2-93

Dr. C. Lamar Elmore, a former professor of German language and literature, died yesterday at his home in Manhattan. He was 48.

His death followed a long illness, said his companion of 15 years, Allan S. Hecht.

Dr. Elmore was executive director of the German Wine Information Bureau in New York City from 1981 to 1991. The bureau is the New York office of the German Wine Institute, in Mainz, Germany.

During his career in the wine business, Dr. Elmore wrote and lectured extensively on German wines.

After receiving a doctorate in German literature from the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore in 1975, Dr. Elmore was assistant professor of German at Haverford College and taught German language and literature as well as a writing course at Bryn Mawr and Vassar. He was a Fulbright Scholar at the University of Erlangen in Germany in 1971 and studied at the University of Vienna in 1965.

Dr. Elmore is survived by his mother, Lillian S. Elmore of Andalusia, Ala.; a brother, Jerome Elmore, and a sister, Marlene Melvin, both of Atlanta.

Jeffrey Ellifritz

Jeffrey Todd Ellifritz, 30, of Annapolis, Maryland, died on Saturday, March 6, 1993, at his home of complications associated with AIDS, according to his friend, Lori Morris of Bowie, Maryland.

Ellifritz grew up in Bowie, and graduated from Bowie Senior High School. A hairdresser, he worked at Miracles, in Crofton, Md. Previously, he was employed at Hair Flight, also in Crofton. Morris said Ellifritz was "a wonderful hairdresser" who loved doing hair for wedding parties and other special events. In addition, he volunteered his time with local Girl Scout troops and senior citizen groups.

Morris said Ellifritz was an optimist who "always believed there was a solution to every problem." He collected teddy bears, loved music, and was an avid traveler. Ellifritz and his partner, Bill Holland, spent much time in Florida, where they had hoped to move, Morris said.

In addition to Morris and Holland, Ellifritz is survived by his mother and stepfather, Jo Ann and Bud Jackson of Mitchellville, Md.; cousin, April Cardascia of Hughesville, Md.; other relatives; and many close friends. He was predeceased by his brother, Rodney.

A celebration of Ellifritz's life was held in Annapolis.

Ellifritz's remains were cremated. Half were interred next to his brother's remains in the Trinity Church cemetery in Upper Marlboro, Md. Half were interred in Florida.

Contributions in Ellifritz's name may be made to the Whitman-Walker Clinic, 1407 S St., NW, Washington, DC 20009.

Steve Emerson

Steven Neil Emerson, 37, of Alexandria, Virginia, died Thursday, March 25, 1993, at National Orthopedic and Rehabilitation Hospital in Arlington, Virginia, of heart failure, according to his longtime friend and roommate, Bob Ritsch of Alexandria.

Born and raised in Luray, Va., Emerson graduated from Luray High School in 1973 and attended James Madison College for two years. He moved to the Northern Virginia area in 1982, and settled in Alexandria in 1984. He worked at the General Services Administration as a senior supply cataloger in the Logistics Data Management Division.

According to Ritsch, Emerson's favorite activities included cooking, needlepoint, entertaining, and organizing regular game nights with his many friends where they would play cards or board games. He also enjoyed traveling in the western United States, particularly in the Rocky Mountain region where he was able to visit relatives and could indulge in his passion for Indian history and folklore.

"Steve was a devoted son and brother and a true friend to many, who will miss his keen sense of humor, his sensitivity, his love for the underdog, his affection for children, and his willingness to lend an ear and a hand to anyone in need," said Ritsch.

In addition to Ritsch, Emerson is survived by his parents, Deldee and Everett Emerson; two sisters, Sharon; and Cindy Emerson, all of Luray; longtime friends, Ken Wilson; Diane Harrington; and Rollin Levin, all of Alexandria; and many other relatives and friends.

A memorial service was held March 29 at St. Luke's Lutheran Church in Stanley, Va. His remains were interred in the St. Luke's cemetery.

Robert J. Emch

December 22, 1993

Robert J. Emch died peacefully at his home in Reno, Nevada, Dec. 22, 1992, after a long battle with AIDS. He is survived by his mother and father, Dorothy and Bud Staggs, of Kino Bay, Mexico; brother Bill of Whittier, CA; and lover Randy.

Robert was born in Whittier, CA, in 1950 and worked for the phone company in Southern California before transferring to Bay Area in the late 60s. He lived in the Bay Area until transferring with his lover to Reno in 1985. He was active in the Silver Dollar Court and the Reno Hellions. Bob will be missed by his many friends, both in Reno and San Francisco. He will be remembered as "H.B." by those of us who loved him most.

Love, Randy. ▼

DAN ERKKILA

Nov. 1, 1992, age 51

Flutist and composer. Won an ASCAP award for his work on the stage production of Danton's Death.

EDWARDS-Wilson Robert, Jr. Passed peacefully at home on March 15, 1994. Survived by his parents Agnes and Wilson Sr., his sisters Jeanne and Marcia, his brothers Marvin, Albert, and Joseph and his companion Terry McMullen. His life was hearty, his tears were silent. Funeral service at Redden's Funeral Home, 325 West 14th Street, NYC, on Friday, 10 A.M. Viewing today 2-5 P.M. and 7-9 P.M. Donations in lieu of flowers to "Heritage of Pride" (Balloon Arches) 154 Christopher Street, Suite 1D, N.Y.C. 10014. Memorial to be announced.

EGAN-James Died July 6, 1994 after a long struggle with AIDS. Born May 26, 1956, Jim is survived by long-time companion Jill Feigan, of NYC. His loss is also mourned by father Herbert of Venice, FL; brothers Donald of Valatia, NY and William of Rome, N.Y.; and sister Deborah Lucas of Albany. A 1981 graduate of FIT in Interior Design, Jim's work was often published in design periodicals and he was a frequent contributor to the Kips Bay Decorators Showhouse. His commitment to quality design earned him senior positions at Stephen Mallory Associates and Noel Jeffrey, Inc. Eventually he presided over his own firm, James Egan Design. For the many friends that Jimmy has left behind, we will never forget his unparalleled charm and humor. He has left a hole in our hearts that will not be filled soon.

Bob Entwistle

1951-1993

It's hard to imagine life without you Bob. You made such a difference to so many of us. Thanks for the flowers, the holidays, the laughs, the warmth, the patience. We still want you in our lives, so haunt us when you can. We're expecting it. And you know we deserve it.

Donations may be made in Bob's honor to the Elizabeth Taylor Aids Foundation, P.O. Box 17160, Los Angeles, CA 90017. Informal service at Bob's house on Sunday, March 7, 1 p.m. - 8 p.m. For directions call (510) 533-7521.

You're invited too, Bob. Hint. Hint. ▼

Jeffrey Albert Ehrnthaller

Dec. 8, 1962-May 31, 1993

As he wanted it, Jeff was in the home he shared with his lover, Brian Bouldrey, in San Francisco, when he passed away on Monday, May 31, 1993. The phrase "passed away" is somehow inappropriate when speaking of Jeff. Perhaps "away" is the troublesome word in that phrase. Jeff was always going toward everything, and toward everyone who had the honor of being his friend and his family. He grew up in Toluca, Illinois; went to junior college earning two degrees (computer programming, and a second degree in culinary arts). He worked as a chef at both Yellowstone, and Glacier National Parks before moving to San Francisco in 1985; upon arrival in The City, he worked at both Square One and Skates by the Bay as a pastry chef.

He is survived by his parents, two sisters, one brother, his maternal grandmother, and a countless number of dear friends. Always a successful communicator, Jeff would introduce himself over the telephone this way: My name is Jeff Ehrnthaller, let me spell it for you: "E-H-R-N-T-H-A-L-L-E-R." Now, it is our turn to spell it out for him: "A-N-G-E-L, A-L-W-A-Y-S W-I-T-H U-S." Memorial event June 20, 4-7 p.m., at Josie's, 16th and Market. ▼

Robert Louis Eisbrenner, 36, a

Chicago artist who specialized in miniature reproductions of furniture, died Dec. 12. He was a volunteer with several AIDS groups. A memorial service is set for Jan. 22, 6 p.m. at the Museum of Contemporary Art.

Gary Essert, 54, Dies;

Film Festival Founder

12-16-93

Gary Essert, the founder and director of the Los Angeles International Film Festival and the founder and chief executive officer of the American Cinémathèque, died on Wednesday at his home in Los Angeles. He was 54 years old.

He died of AIDS, said Barbara Smith, the managing director of the Cinémathèque.

In 1971, Mr. Essert founded Filmex, the Los Angeles International Film Exposition, with the help of such Hollywood figures as George Cukor. As the exposition's director, he developed it into the largest public film event in the world, screening several hundred movies each year. He left the organization after a dispute with the board in 1984 and the next year founded the American Cinémathèque, a sister organization to the Cinémathèque Française and the British Film Institute. He served as its chief executive officer until his death.

Mr. Essert was born in Oakland, Calif. He served in the Navy from 1957-61 aboard the U.S.S. Ticonderoga, and was a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles. From 1967-69, he operated The Kaleidoscope, a multi-media dance and concert hall. In 1975, he produced "The Movies," a documentary for the Motion Picture Fund and ABC. An expert on the exhibition of motion pictures, Mr. Essert designed the screening facilities at the University of California at Los Angeles and at the American Film Institute in Los Angeles.

Mr. Essert's companion, Gary Abrams, died in November.

He is survived by his mother, Jeanne Williams.

Patrick "Wolf" Engle

April 13, 1933-July 23, 1993

Our dear Wolf has died of AIDS. Wolf was born in Wisconsin, and there, on the farm where he was raised, he developed his special talent for flower arranging and gardening. He came to San Francisco during the Summer of Love, and made a permanent home here. He partook deeply of the riches this place had to offer, sharing his love of what made life beautiful with his fortunate friends. In his work, Wolf had a gift for bringing people and plants together, which he gave with great flourish at Fantastico, Goodman's, and Treetop Nursery, among others.

His passing is mourned by numerous brothers and sisters (his sister, Sandy, flew out to be with him during his illness) and friends, William Clark, Frank Garcia, George Silva, the Garcia family, and his friends at Springmeadow. A mass will be given in his memory on Wednesday, October 27, at 7:30 a.m., at the old Mission Dolores. For more information, call 431-8925. ▼

Jeff Eames

Edward Jeffrey Eames, 46, of Washington, D.C., died Thursday, August 12, 1993, at the Washington Hospital Center of complications associated with AIDS, according to his nieces, Julie and Christina Payne of Alexandria, Virginia.

Born in Terre Haute, Ind., Eames moved with his family to Springfield, Va., when he was very young. He graduated from Robert E. Lee High School in 1964 and earned a bachelor's degree in history from the University of Nebraska in 1968. Eames served in the U.S. Air Force for a few years before moving to D.C. He became a budget analyst at the United States Marshall's Office of the Department of Justice, where he remained for 17 years, until his retirement.

A member of St. Matthew's parish in D.C., Eames was a devout Catholic, according to his nieces. He was also an avid reader, especially of history and religion, who enjoyed stamp collecting, collecting and enjoying Callahan cartoons, and traveling.

"He had a sharp wit and warm smile," said his nieces. He was "intelligent, charming, and kind" and will be missed, they added.

In addition to Julie and Christina Payne, Eames is survived by his parents, Edward and Mary Eames of Rio Rancho, N.M.; two sisters, Susan Payne of Springfield, Va.; and Reda Eames of Centreville, Va.; grandmother, Mary Dworak of Omaha, Neb.; niece, Lori Webster of Centreville, Va.; nephews, Adam Kehl of Centreville, Va.; Brian Kehl and Cory Kehl of Panama City, Fla.; grandnephew, Ryan Webster of Centreville; and numerous aunts, uncles, cousins, and friends.

A memorial service was held Aug. 16, at St. Matthew's Cathedral, 1725 Rhode Island Ave., NW.

Contributions in Eames's name may be made to Food and Friends, P.O. Box 70601, Washington, DC 20024; Hospice of Northern Virginia, 6400 Arlington Blvd., Suite 1000, Falls Church, VA 22042; or the Whitman-Walker Clinic, 1407 S St., NW, Washington, DC 20009.

ENGLEHART-Of Jamaica Plain, Sept. 29, 1993. John Stephen Englehart, beloved son of John and Violet (Mahoney) Englehart. Brother of Michael of Revere, Robert of ME, Virginia Greider of NY, Kenneth of FL, Marion Kelly Green of Brockton, Madeline Baurley of NY, George of FL, Patrick of MD, Elizabeth of Norwood, Paul of Boston, and Kathleen of Midolatoro. Survived by his lifelong companion Richard Jubenville of Jamaica Plain. Beloved uncle of 16 nieces and nephews. A Memorial Service will be held on Tues., Oct. 4th at 11 a.m. at the Lucy Stone Chapel of the Forest Hills Crematory, 171 Walk Hill St., Jamaica Plain, MA. Relatives and friends are invited. Arrangements by Commonwealth Funeral Service of Boston.

Steve Endean "elevated Gay lobbying to a fine art."

Steve Endean, pioneer of Gay rights movement, dies

HRCF founder remembered as a 'visionary leader'

by Aras van Hertum

Steven Robert Endean, 45, a Gay civil rights pioneer whose determined efforts gave Gays a powerful voice on Capitol Hill, died Wednesday evening, August 4, at his home in Washington, D.C.

A close friend, Phil Atty of D.C., said Endean died of complications

HRCF, in a statement released yesterday, described Endean as a "visionary leader" with a "personal belief in the power of mainstream politics to achieve the goal of Lesbian and Gay civil rights."

"He was one of the great pioneers," said U.S. Rep. Barney Frank. "He was one the first coalition builders."

Endean came to D.C. in 1978 with a solid track record in Gay civil rights work in Minneapolis, where he had been involved in Gay activism since 1970. As director of the Minnesota Committee for Gay Rights, he successfully lobbied for passage of Gay rights ordinances in Minneapolis and St. Paul. He also won praise for his attempts to stop repeal of the St. Paul ordinance in 1978, and his efforts to push for a statewide Gay rights law.

In D.C., he took on the position of executive director of the Gay Rights National Lobby (GRNL) and revitalized the organization, which had a bank balance of nine dollars upon his arrival, into a high-powered Gay lobbying force.

● Noted fashion designer Perry Ellis dies of AIDS.

associated with AIDS.

Endean in 1982 created the Human Rights Campaign Fund (HRCF), which evolved into today's multi-million dollar Gay civil rights political action committee and federal lobbying group. He retired from the organization in 1991.

Continued on page 23

"It's going to be a long, hard fight," the Blade quoted him as saying in October 1978. "I'm prepared to be here for as long as it takes."

Among his major achievements as director of GRNL, Endean successfully persuaded a number of members of Congress to sign on as cosponsors of a Congressional bill to prohibit discrimination against Gays.

Endean also created a GRNL affiliate called the National Convention Project, which helped elect more than 80 openly Gay delegates, alternates, and standing committee members to the 1980 Democratic National Convention. The Gay delegates convinced Democratic Party leaders to adopt a plank calling for passage of the federal bill. It was the first pro-Gay plank to be approved by a major political party.

And in 1982, Endean set up HRCF to be GRNL's political action committee (PAC). In its first year, HRCF became the country's 17th largest PAC, raising an unprecedented $600,000 for political candidates supportive of Gay rights.

Then, in 1983, Endean's career took a nose dive. He came under continuous attack from a number of critics, chief among them David Goodstein, publisher of The Advocate, and Larry Bush, The Advocate's Washington editor. Reports surfaced that GRNL had accumulated $55,000 in debt and that HRCF had failed to prepare fundraising plans for the 1984 election cycle. Critics also charged Endean with failing to devote energy to lobbying for AIDS research funding.

In May, Endean relinquished control of HRCF and, when the criticism did not subside, announced his resignation as executive director of GRNL.

He briefly returned to the organization in 1985 to serve as a contracted lobbyist, before the organization's financial woes forced it to let him go.

In 1986, Endean founded a new organization, the Fairness Fund, which aimed to generate grass-roots support for Gay civil rights by organizing Gays to send thousands of telegrams and letters to their representatives in Congress. HRCF, which merged with GRNL in 1985, adopted the Fairness Fund in 1987 and turned it into the "Speak Out" program. Endean became HRCF's director of field operations.

He remained active with HRCF even after his retirement in November 1991, setting up a National Endorsement Campaign that sought endorsements of the federal Gay civil rights bill from celebrities.

Endean was honored on many occasions. The National Lesbian and Gay Health Foundation gave him its Harvey Milk Award in 1990. Former D.C. Mayor Marion Barry designated his 10th anniversary in D.C., Nov. 6, 1988, as "Steve Endean Day." And Texas Governor Ann Richards named him an Honorary Texan in April 1992.

Survivors include his parents, Robert Endean and Marilyn Endean Lowe, and his sister, Marry Ellen Barna, all of Minneapolis.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, Aug. 28, at 6 p.m., at MCC, 474 Ridge St., NW.

Contributions in his name may be made to the Human Rights Campaign Fund, 1012 14th St., NW, Suite 607, Washington, DC 20005; or to the Metropolitan Community Church of Washington, 474 Ridge St., NW, Washington, DC 20001.

ENDRESS—Stephen Michael, of NYC, on Oct. 21, 1994, of complications due to AIDS. A singer, writer, business manager, and therapist-in-training, Mr. Endress was born Dec. 25, 1950. He began performing as an amateur liturgical singer at the age of 10 with the Choir of Men and Boys of St. Peter's R.C. Church of Staten Island. Other groups included the Glee Club of St. Peter's High School, Chorus of College of Staten Island, Collegium, Museum of Richmond College, Richmond Choral Society. Mr. Endress served as cantor at St. Paul's Church and singer at St. Simon's, both of Staten Island, and at St. Ignatius Episcopal and Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, both of Manhattan. He attended College of Staten Island where he received a B.A. in Humanities in 1984 and studied voice with George Shirley. He later sang in NYC with New York Motet Choir, Collegiate Choral, and Stonewall Chorale. He served as President of Stonewall Chorale from 1988 through 1990 and helped design a series of community benefit concerts for lesbian and gay organizations and AIDS service agencies. He began his association with Holy Trinity Lutheran Church in 1977 as superintendent until 1985, then became operations manager until July 1992, and continued to serve as a volunteer operations consultant until his death. Mr. Endress trained as a mental health therapist at the Fifth Avenue Center for Counseling and Psychotherapy, and served as a clinical therapist for 1½ years while working towards a MSW at Yeshiva University's Muzewiler School of Social Work. Unfortunately, due to illness, Mr. Endress withdrew in 1993. He is survived by his mother, Mary T., of Santa Barbara, CA, his father, Erwin, of Harrisburg, PA, sisters, Kathleen Kasper and Maureen Cassano of California, and brothers, Michael and Paul of Staten Island. Funeral services will be held at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Central Park West and 65 Street, NY, on Oct. 25, at 11 AM. In lieu of flowers, contributions to the Memorial Fund at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church or the Stonewall Chorale, NYC.

CHRISTOPHER ESPOSITO

June 30, 1994, age 35

Musician and talent coordinator at the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel.

ENDO—Robert Akira Soei, Died 6 October 1994 in Paris, France from an AIDS related illness. Born 12 February 1948 in Los Angeles. Survived by his beloved companion of 21 years, Duane Wilder of Fort Lauderdale, Florida, by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Akira Endo of Los Angeles, and by his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. D. Yukio Endo and Laura of Thornton, New Hampshire.

Henry H. Eby

June 15, 1951 - Dec. 17, 1992

Gone but not forgotten. ▼

Jack D. Edwards

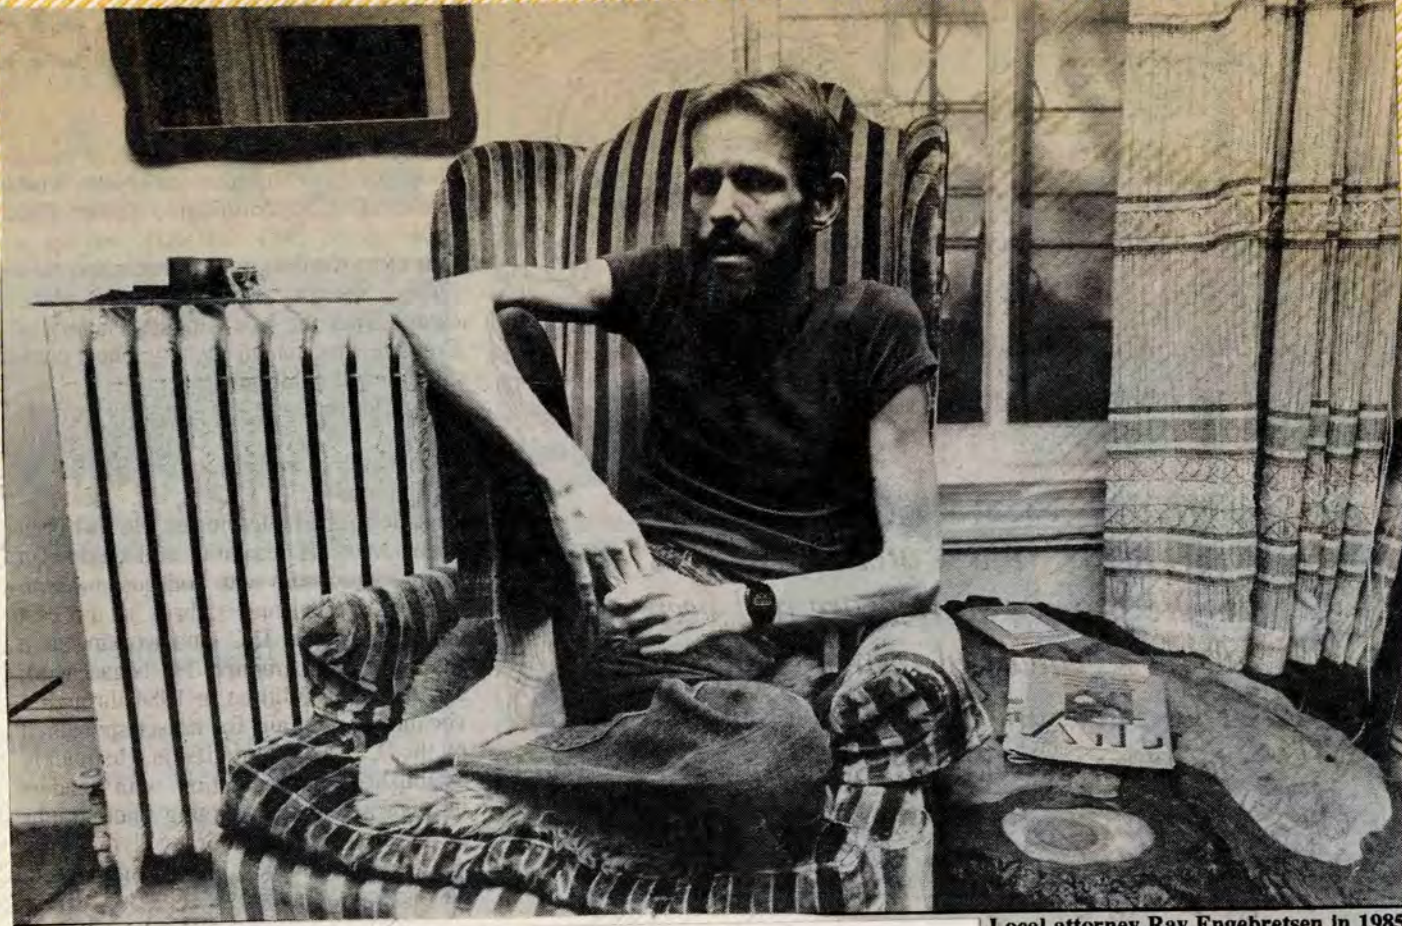

Memorial Service

5:30pm Saturday,

October 15

MCC 150 Eureka St.

6

Local attorney Ray Engebretsen in 1985

From the Book "Voices That Care"
 The Rev. John Heschle of the church of St. Anne in Morrison, Ill. is a AIDS Buddy
 Only known as Ed. Ed was diagnosed w/
 H.I.V. in 1987. Ed was stricken w/ pneumo-cystis, Kaposi Sarcoma, CMV-Retinitis, T.B. and Bronchitis. Ed died on 3-8-91 at the age of 43. He wanted his obituary to say that he died of AIDS. He talked this over with his parents, however, they did not grant his last wish.

Ross Doud Eckert 1-7-95

POMONA, Calif. (AP) — Ross Doud Eckert, an educator who sounded one of the earliest alarms about the risks of contracting AIDS through blood transfusions, died Friday of AIDS complications. He was 53.

Eckert, a Claremont McKenna College professor, received blood transfusions his entire life to treat hemophilia, and his interest in the safety of the blood supply began long before he was found to be infected with the virus that causes AIDS.

In 1984, early in the AIDS crisis, Eckert warned in an editorial in the Los Angeles Times: "Evidence is growing that acquired immune deficiency syndrome may pose a serious threat to our blood supply."

He served on the US Food and Drug Administration's Blood Products Advisory Committee from 1987-91.

Job M. Evans

Pet-Care Author, 53 1994

Job M. Evans, a dog trainer who wrote extensively about the care of pets, died on Feb. 19 at his home in Key West, Fla. He was 53.

The cause was AIDS, said his publisher, Sean Frawley.

Mr. Evans wrote five books about the training of dogs, beginning with "The Evans Guide for Civilized City Canines." His final book, "Training and Experience," is to be published later this year by Howell Bookhouse in New York.

He was the president of the Dog Writers' Association of America and this month was the recipient of the Ken-L-Ration Fido Award as the dog writer of the year.

He is survived by his parents, Dr. Leo Evans of Guayama, P.R., and Eileen Evans of Key West.

Jack P. Eckley

Nov. 22, 1955–May 19, 1993

After a brief yet valiant struggle, Jack left us with an emptiness in our hearts.

Jack is survived by his mother, Lucy, and twin sister, Jan. He also leaves his partner Erik Bron and many friends throughout the country. Jack was a graduate of Bowling Green State University and the University of Southern California, where he remained an avid Trojan fan.

His infectious smile and boundless energy was continuously offered to so many throughout the community. Jack was currently President of the Board of Directors of 18th Street Services, Co-Chair of the Russian River Gay/Lesbian Business Association, Board Member of the Cable Car Awards, and a former member of the Academy of Friends. Even with so many outside commitments, he always found the time to share with Erik, his many friends, and a 5-Star sports page. His most precious private time was shared with Erik as they moved to the Russian River over two years ago.

A celebration of Jack's life will be held on Sunday, June 6, at 5 p.m. at Pier 50, Olive Oil's. Contributions in his memory can be made to either 18th Street Services or Project Open Hand, 2720 17th St., SF 94110. ▼

Jim Eyerly

James O. Eyerly, 37, of Herndon, Virginia died Friday, March 11, 1994, of AIDS-related complications at Fair Oaks Hospital in Fairfax, Virginia, according to his long-time personal friend, Clinton Winter of Washington, D.C.

Eyerly was born June 17, 1956, in Norwalk, Conn., and his family moved to northern Virginia in the late 1960s. Eyerly graduated from Oakton High School in Fairfax County in 1974, and pursued an interest in theater, doing community theater in northern Virginia from 1974 until 1978. During this same time, Eyerly also studied cosmetology.

In 1978, Eyerly became a waiter at Mr. Henry's in D.C. and eventually worked his way up to headwaiter. In 1981, Eyerly moved to Naples, Fla., working in restaurants as a waiter, bartender, or manager. Eyerly left Naples in the summer of 1992 to move to Rehoboth Beach, Del., where he was a waiter at La-La-Land restaurant. Eyerly left Rehoboth that fall to move to Miami Beach, Fla., until this year.

Eyerly returned to northern Virginia in February 1994 "due to a failing heart and a desire to be with his family," said his sister, Carolyn L. E. Sagatov. "He enjoyed the support and love of his family until he died."

In addition to Sagatov and Winter, Eyerly is survived by a sister, Janet E. Overvold of Moorhead, Minn.; brother, Richard A. Eyerly of Reston, Va.; and four nieces and one nephew.

A memorial service was held March 15 at Sagatov's home in Herndon. Eyerly's remains were interred at Stonewall Memorial Gardens Cemetery in Manassas, Va.

EATON John J. Jr. of Braintree, February 22, Beloved son of John J. and Christina M. (O'Connell) Eaton. Beloved brother of Catherine Healey and Julie Eaton both of Braintree. Grandson of Robert P. Williams of Hingham. Uncle of Colleen and Patrick Healey. Funeral from the Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., QUINCY CENTER, on Saturday at 10 o'clock. Funeral Mass in St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point at 11 o'clock. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend. Visiting hours Friday, 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. Interment Village Cemetery, Weymouth. Donations in John's memory may be made to the hospice of the South Shore, 100 Bay State Dr., Braintree 02184. The Aids Action Committee or the Hospice of Mission Hill, Attn: Chris Horman, 254 South St., Waltham, MA. RS

EPSTEIN Entered into rest March 11, suddenly, Joseph H. of Delray Beach, FL, formerly of Newton. Beloved husband of the late Ida (Bernstein) Epstein. Devoted father of William S. Epstein of Woodland Hills, CA and Judith Epstein of Commack, NY. Cherished grandfather of Marc Epstein, Amy Holt, Aaron Epstein, Stacie Simon, Adam Epstein and the late Melissa Labow and great grandfather of 3 great grandchildren. Graveside Services at Sharon Memorial Park, SHARON, Sunday, March 12 at 1:45 p.m. Memorial Observance thru Wednesday at 115 Meadowbrook Rd., Newton Centre. In lieu of flowers, expressions of sympathy in his memory may be donated to American Foundation for AIDS Research, 373 3rd Ave, 12th floor, New York, NY 10017. Arrangements by Stankov Memorial Chapels, BROOKLINE. RS

From the Book "Voices That Care"

On 6-10-89, 38 year old Robert Enright died of Aids. He left behind his 2 Teenage sons, A group of close friends, and his mother Ruth Sims.

Carlos I. Espada of Boston, at 29

Carlos Ivan Espada of Boston, an artist, died Thursday at Beth Israel Hospital in Boston due to complications from AIDS. He was 29.

Born in Panama City, Panama, he resided in Boston most of his life.

Mr. Espada, who was briefly employed as an accountant, worked at ~~Blatter~~ magazine and Boston Profile TV show as a stylist and consultant. He was also a nurse's aide at Children's Hospital in Boston.

He was also a tennis champion in Puerto Rico.

He is survived by his parents, Elizabeth Rivera and Julio Martinez of Puerto Rico; four sisters, Myrna Roman of Atlanta, Sandra Propper of Paris, Elizabeth Cordovez of Virginia and Norma of San Juan, Puerto Rico; and a brother, Julio of New York City.

Funeral services were held in Puerto Rico.

Arrangements by J.S. Waterman & Sons, Boston.

William Edwards

William Edwards, 58, of Arlington, Virginia, died Sunday, May 15, 1994 at the Hospice of Northern Virginia of AIDS related complications, according to his lifetime partner, Harold Alexander of Arlington.

Edwards worked as a research chemist at the National Institutes of Health for several years. He went on to transfer to the Food and Drug Administration, where he worked in an investigational new drug program as a research specialist.

Edwards was born July 24, 1935 in Forest City, N.C. He graduated from the University of South Carolina with a degree in biochemistry. Edwards went on to attend Bowman Gray Medical School in Winston-Salem, N.C.

In addition to Alexander, Edwards is survived by a sister, Juanita Ballard of Charlotte, N.C.

A memorial service was held in May at Arlington Funeral Home. Edwards was cremated, and his remains will be buried in Rutherford County, N.C.

Contributions in Edwards's name may be made to the Whitman-Walker Clinic, 1407 S St., NW, Washington DC 20009, or to Foods and Friends, PO Box 70601, Washington, DC 20024.

EISBERG Jeffrey Leigh, on May 22, 1994, age 45, son of Rose and the late Jack Eisberg, brother of Howard, all of Kansas City, MO. and Gary of San Rafael, CA., companion of Donald Weiss. After an aggressive fight against AIDS, Jeffrey died at home as was his wish, surrounded in his last days by his devoted family of companion, mother, brothers, uncles, and friends. Graduate of the Wharton School and Harvard Business School "with distinction," veteran of the U.S. Army Reserves. His career included turning window shades into a fashion industry at Owens-Corning Fiberglass; participating in the AT&T divestiture at Booz, Allen, & Hamilton; leading the New York Times' first foray into videotext, ahead of the times, as President/General Manager of New York Pulse; guiding McGraw-Hill's FW Dodge division through technological change; and co-founding James Crow & Company. Jeffrey co-founded the HBS Gay & Lesbian Students Assn and the HBS Gay & Lesbian Alumni Assn. He co-chaired the 1989 NY Human Rights Campaign Fund dinner with the theme All Part of the Family. Contributions in his memory may be made to HRCF, POWARS, or an AIDS organization of your choice. Memorial service to be announced. Jeffrey was a man of incredible vision, unflagging integrity, humor, and sensitivity, and demanding of the best in others. What he might have done but for the scourge of AIDS is of great loss to all.

Keith Robert Elliott

April 10, 1952 - Oct. 19, 1994

Keith Elliott ended his six-year battle with AIDS on the afternoon of October 19 at his apartment in Hoboken, N.J., in the company of his mother, Virginia; boyfriend, Tom; and close friend, Regina.

Raised in the Bay Area, Keith moved to New York in 1979, where he studied at the Parsons School of Design. His first job after graduation was as chief production designer of the Vietnam War Memorial in New York City. In 1986 he was accepted into the graduate program in architecture at Harvard University, where he studied until his illness forced him to quit.

During the following years, Keith devoted himself to work on his apartment and the homes of friends. When he decided to discontinue his medications a few weeks ago, he invited his entire family and as many friends as his apartment would hold to join him in a party which lasted irregularly almost until the day he died.

He is survived by his parents, Robert and Virginia Elliott of El Cerrito; his brother, Julian Clift; his sister, Jamie Elliott-Slusarz; his sister, Anne Marie of Los Angeles; and his enormous extended family of friends around the world. ▼

Mats Ernmark

July 24, 1948 - Oct. 2, 1994

Mats Ernmark died from AIDS in Stockholm after returning to his homeland from San Francisco where he had been a resident since 1979.

Mats was an opera tenor and classical music enthusiast, having sung in Stockholm and for the San Francisco Opera and Symphony Chorus. He spread Swedish culture to San Francisco and started the San Francisco Swedish Chorus, giving many concerts and inviting Swedish singers and choruses from Sweden.

Mats also spread an interest in Swedish food to San Francisco and held many remarkable parties in his home, including Swedish Midsummer dinners and St. Lucia parties complete with opera song. His love of Sweden and the USA was expressed in many ways, and his humor, pragmatism and honesty will be missed.

Condolences can be sent to his parents: Lars and Guje Ernmark, Vesslevagen 18, 181 44 Lidingsö SWE-DEN.

Calvin Elliott

Alfred George Elliott III of Washington, D.C., died Wednesday, November 16, 1994 at Bethesda Naval Hospital in Bethesda, Maryland due to AIDS-related complications, according to his friend, Buddy Sutson of D.C. He was 31.

Known as Calvin to his friends, Elliott was born Oct. 7, 1963 in Portsmouth, Va. His family moved to Los Angeles, Calif., when Elliott was four years old. He attended school, became student body president, was baptized, and joined Greater Ebenezer Missionary Baptist Church there. In 1981, he moved to New York City to live with his grandmother, Rosalie Singleton. He returned to Los Angeles the following year, when he joined the U.S. Marine Corps. During his tour in the Marines, Elliott received a Rifle Marksman Badge, a Pistol Expert Badge, and a Good Conduct Medal. In 1985, at the end of his enlistment at Camp LeJeune in North Carolina, Elliott moved to Washington, D.C.

"Calvin was known for his entertainment style, his flair with clothes, and the way he valued friendship," Sutson said.

In addition to Sutson, Elliott is survived by his father, Alfred George Elliott Jr. of Portsmouth, Va.; mother, Ellen M. Elliott; sister, Denise Shondell Elliott; brother, Ernest Bell Jr.; grandfather, Colliis P. Goodwyn, all of Los Angeles, Calif.; grandmother, Rosalie Goodwyn-Singleton of New York City; grandmother, Mabel Hunt of Portsmouth, Va.; and numerous relatives and friends.

A memorial service was held for Elliott Nov. 25 in the chapel of the McGuire Funeral Home in D.C. Elliott's remains were interred Nov. 28 at Arlington National Cemetery in Virginia.

Gary Ebert

Aug. 9, 1953 - July 31, 1995

On Monday, July 31, Gary passed away at home from AIDS complications, surrounded by his family and friends.

A San Francisco resident since 1978 and a long-term survivor of AIDS, Gary worked many years at St. Francis Hospital and the Sharper Image. He was a volunteer with the Shanti Project and was well-known as a certified massage therapist.

Donations in Gary's name can be made to the AIDS charity of your choice. A memorial is scheduled for 2 p.m., Sunday, August 13, at 1154 Cole Street (at Alma), SF. ▼

EASON - David W., 38 years old of New Milford, CT, died of his new home in Key West, FL, on April 11, 1995 of complications from AIDS. Born on March 28, 1957 in Wilson, N.C. He graduated from Eastern Carolina University. In 1981, Mr. Eason founded and owned Dirtbusters of Closets and Spaces in New York City which continues to operate today. Mr. Eason is survived by his lifelong companion, David Slachter and his many loving friends. Contributions may be made in Mr. Eason's name to AID'S Help Inc. P.O. Box 4374 Key West, Florida 33041.

BRUCE EAKIN

May 26, 1949 - June 26, 1995

Queer
Anti-Racist
AIDS Activist
Educator
Artist
Righteous
Trouble Maker

Thank you for being my teacher
My friend

Love,
Janis

W. Frederic Evans

W. Frederic Evans, educator, musician and Quaker, died on April 21 of complications related to AIDS. A resident of Cambridge, he was 33 years old.

Frederic graduated cum laude in 1982 from Swarthmore College, PA, and did graduate work in linguistics at Brown University. From 1991 to 1992 he was an assistant professor of linguistics at Yale University. Following a move to Cambridge in 1992, he was employed by TERC, a non-profit educational company. Since 1982 he served as editor of the Lockweed Press, publisher of specialty calendars and books. In 1993 he was assistant editor of Wellspring, a newsletter published by the AIDS Action Committee.

From 1983 to 1991, Frederic lived in Providence and Lincoln, RI, where he sang and played several instruments with ensembles including Melusine (with whom he toured Europe in 1990), the Hubbards, the Smiling Dog Band and the Banished Fools. After moving to Cambridge he sang with Boston's Coro Allegro from 1992 to 1993.

Since moving to Cambridge, he has been an attender of Beacon Hill Friends Meeting in Boston. He has served on the Permanent Board of the New England Yearly meeting and the Board of Managers of Beacon Hill Friends House in Boston. From 1982 to 1984, he was co-clerk of the North American Friends for Lesbian and Gay Concerns. Throughout his involvement with Friends, Frederic was known for his work with children and teenagers in many youth programs.

Frederic is survived by his partner, Jon Bourgauff of Boston; father and stepmother Fred and Mary Evans of Pound Ridge, NY; brother David Evans and his partner Amy Parelman of Rehoboth, MA; aunt and uncle, Ann and Warner Berthoff of Concord, MA; step-brother Eric Jadow and his wife Jackie of White Plains, NY; step-brother Jon Jadow of Pleasantville, NY; and many beloved friends.

A memorial meeting in the manner of Friends will be held at 4 p.m. on Saturday, May 21 at the Cambridge Friends Meetinghouse, 5 Longfellow Park. Contributions in Frederic's memory can be made to the Beacon Hill Friends House Piano Fund, 6 Chestnut St., Boston, MA 02108.

Kenny Everett, 51

Popular British disc jockey

REUTERS 4-4-95

Richard Frank Elwart

Jan. 30, 1963 - June 26, 1995

Richard died peacefully, with his sister Anne at his side. He has gone to join his lover, Ray Showers, with whom he shared a very special life.

This energetic young man moved to San Francisco from Chicago in 1985. The ten years here were filled with growth and love.

He never tired of his numerous favorite activities, developing new friends as he went along. As an avid bowler, he participated in Gay Games III, winning a bronze. As Grand Duchess XIX, he tirelessly worked for various AIDS organizations, such as his personal favorite, the Godfather Service Fund.

Those of his friends and family whom he left behind remember him with joy and tears. Joy for what he gave to each of us; tears for no longer having him among us.

Richard is survived by his loving sister, Anne; his kind father, Frank; his brother, Jeff; and numerous dear friends. A remembrance gathering and celebration will be held Saturday, July 8. More information can be obtained by calling 863-3007. ▼

LONDON - Kenny Everett, one of Britain's best-known disc jockeys who first made his mark in the 1960s on pirate radio stations, died yesterday from an AIDS-related illness. He was 51.

Mr. Everett was poached by the BBC's Radio One pop network before moving on to his own cult television series.

Born in Liverpool, he grew up in the hub of the 1960s music scene.

ESHNER - Elizabeth M. (MacAlpine) age 74 of Weymouth, July 6, 1995. Beloved wife of the late Gustav Eshner. Mother of Sandee G. Eshner of Holbrook and Gustine E. Silva-Burke of Sellersville, PA and the late William D. Nealon and D. Bruce Eshner. Sister of David G. MacAlpine of Epping, N.H. and William and James MacAlpine both of Florida. Also survived by 6 grandchildren and 4 great-grandchildren. Funeral Service in the McDonald Funeral Home, SOUTH WEYMOUTH, at 809 Main St. (Rte 1B opp. So. Shore Hosp.) Tuesday at 11:00 A.M. Relatives and friends invited. Visiting hrs. Monday evening 7-9 P.M. Retired Nurse, former City View Nursing Home, Brookline. Family prefers donations be made in her memory to the Harvard AIDS Research Institute Programs, 8 Story St., Cambridge, MA 02138.

Dante Frank

Elia

August 21, 1994

While embraced by the love and support of his companion, Robert, his mother, Carol, and a broad and beaming, was legendary to those who knew him. Rarely did he fail to make strangers feel welcome in his presence. While some people glow with a warm ember, Dante was a burst of light. An irrepressible explosion of energy and motion. On the day before his death, nearly crippled with pain, he ventured around town, determined to do his errands. On the morning of his death, he was planning to embark upon a brief excursion to Santa Barbara with Robert.

In addition to those already mentioned, Dante is survived by his sisters, Cindy, Karen and Francie; and by an extended family that includes Audrey, Wayne, Michael C., Steve, Michael R., Mark, and several other close friends, in addition to his three beloved dogs.

Carol and Robert would like to extend their thanks to the Pacific Oaks Medical Group and the staff at Midway Hospital.

Donations can be made in the name of Dante Elia to the AIDS-related organizations of their choice.

— Submitted by Randall Riese few close friends, Dante Frank Elia died of complications related to AIDS at his home in West Hollywood on August 21, 1994. He was 31 years-old.

Born and raised in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, Dante's love of plants, flowers and the splendor of our natural environment — a passion innate within him since childhood — was reflected, to Emmy Award winning acclaim, in his chosen profession, that of a floral set designer for television and movies.

He was equally talented in the effortless ease with which he made friends. His smile,

Thomas Michael Ellison

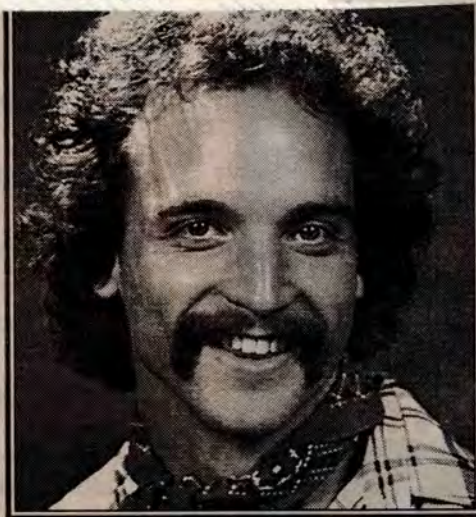

May 1, 1960 - March 3, 1995

Tom passed from this life into the next on Friday, March 3, from lung complications caused by AIDS. With Tom when he passed was his partner of four years, Steven Simmons, his mother and aunt from Iowa. Preceding Tom in death was an older brother, his father and Max, his beloved springer spaniel.

Tom attended the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland, and served his country two years on the USS Henry Clay. While at the Academy, Tom earned a B.S. in electrical engineering and practiced his genius at Software Research in San Francisco.

He came to San Francisco in late 1989, from Florida, to discover and make a new life for himself. Wasting no time, he worked tirelessly on the No on Prop K campaign in 1991.

Those of us blessed to have known Tom will remember him in our own way. He is and will be missed, but how could we ever forget him? ▼

August 19, 1991

Dearest Eddie,

You are always in my thoughts. You gave me reasons and insight on how to live life and enjoy what I had, and who I was..

Thank you for sharing the secret with me. I Love and miss you, Peter

Ed Erker

Edward F. Erker, 48, of Washington, D.C., died Thursday, March 16, 1995 of CMV meningitis at the Washington Hospital Center, according to his friend, Thomas Burton of Washington, D.C.

Erker was born in Walpole, Mass., on Dec. 10, 1946 and graduated from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst in 1968 with a degree in chemistry.

After Erker received a doctorate in pharmacology from Cornell University in 1975, he moved to Shiraz, Iran and worked as an assistant professor of pharmacology at the Pahlavi University College of Medicine for two years.

Erker moved to D.C. in 1977 to complete a post-doctorate degree in toxicology and to teach toxicology and pharmacology at Howard University Medical School.

In 1990, Erker graduated from Georgetown Law School and subsequently began working as a biotechnology patent prosecuting attorney for the law firm of Sterne, Kessler, Goldstein, and Fox.

He was a member of the American Bar Association, the Society of Toxicology, and the American Intellectual Property Law Association.

Erker's interests included skiing, hiking, travel, biking, and sailing.

Erker is also survived by his parents, Ann and Frank Erker of Walpole, Mass.; brother, David Erker; and nephew, Benjamin Erker both of Orono, Maine.

A memorial service was held Mar. 21 at Erker's family home in Massachusetts.

WHITE EAGLE

July 7, 1995, age 43

Tenor. A Lakota Indian, he sang at more than 4,000 concerts, including President George Bush's inauguration.

SCOTT EVERHART

July 5, 1995, age 36

Actor who appeared on All My Children and The Young and the Restless.

EASTON—Of Boston, on August 13, 1995. Peter Standish Easton. Son of Dr. and Mrs. Nelson (Mabel) Easton of Indianapolis, IN. Other survivors include his brother Nelson R. Easton, Jr., his sister-in-law, Myriam, and his niece Elizabeth all of Torrence, CA. Also, his cousin Frank Easton and his wife Christine of North Andover, MA. Also son of the late Anne J. (Mauren) Easton, Funeral Services will be in Indianapolis, Friday, August 18th. Expressions of sympathy in Peter's memory may be made to JRI Health, Home Care Project, 120 Boylston St., Boston 02116 or to AIDS Action Committee, 131 Clarendon St., Boston 02116. Arrangements by J.S. Waterman & Sons & Eastman-Waring of BOSTON.

EVANS Gregory T. of Boston formerly of Weymouth, age 32, due to complications relating to AIDS, August 17, 1995. Beloved son of Richard C. and Ann Marie T. (Giunchiglia) Evans of Weymouth. Loving brother of Ronald J. Evans of Poulso, WA and Jennifer A. Evans of Weymouth. Also survived by his companion Kevin P. Kish of Boston. Funeral from the McDonald Funeral Home, SOUTH WEYMOUTH, at 809 Main St. (Rte. 18 opp. South Shore Hospital) Tuesday at 8:00 a.m. Funeral Mass in the Immaculate Conception Church, East Weymouth, at 9 o'clock. Relatives and friends are invited to attend. Visiting hours Mon. 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. Interment Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree. Late owner The Closet of 125 Newbury St. in Boston. Memorial donations may be made to the Fenway Community Health Center, 7 Haviland St., Boston MA 02115.

DAVID W EDWARDS

July 4, 1954 — July 11, 1994

Love, Always.
Len

RODERICK EWING

Nov. 8, 1994, age 38
A photographer and actor, he appeared in episodes of TV's Quincy, M.E. and House Calls.

John R. Engeberg Jr.

Sept. 18, 1962 - July 21, 1995

John R. Engeberg Jr., beloved son of Beverly and John Engeberg Sr., passed away peacefully with his father and good friend, Cliff Morrison, by his side at the Ft. Miley Veterans Hospital in San Francisco from complications related to HIV disease. John was born in Takoma Park, Maryland; graduated from Bowie Senior High School in 1981; and attended P.G.C.C. before enlisting in the Navy. He moved to San Francisco in 1986. John is survived by his parents, Beverly and John Engeberg, and his brother, Leonard Engeberg.

A memorial service was held in Golden Gate Park at the AIDS Memorial Grove on July 25. A meditation was given by Fr. Edward Thylstrup; tributes to John by Jeffrey, Megan, Cliff, Donna Mae and friends/co-workers from FLAX; and the closing prayer by Pastor Dennis Anderson. A memorial service will be held in Bowie, Maryland, on August 13 at The Church of the Redeemer.

In the last few years of his life, John, a very creative artist, had focused on painting and developed a unique style with acrylics using an extrusion technique. His major subject was the highway and its relationship with the natural, rural landscape. ▼

Rob Eichberg, Ph.D.

April 20, 1945 - Aug. 11, 1995

Dr. Robert H. Eichberg, author of Coming Out: An Act of Love, died of AIDS complications in Santa Fe August 11. He was 50.

Dr. Eichberg co-founded National Coming Out Day in 1988. He also helped found the first political action committee working for gay, lesbian, and women's rights: M E C L A (Municipal Elections Committee of Los Angeles). In 1978 he founded The Experience (formerly known as The Advocate Experience), a community-based workshop which supports people to live with an expanded sense of truth, love, power and integrity.

Rob Eichberg is survived by his partner, Jon Landstrom; mother, Shirley Greenes; father, Norman Eichberg; brothers, Peter and Steven Eichberg; their families; and by the tens of thousands of people whose lives he personally inspired.

Services to celebrate Rob Eichberg's life will be held on Sunday, Sept. 10, at 1 p.m. at the Stephen S. Wise Temple, 15500 Stephen S. Wise Drive, Los Angeles, CA 90077. Donations in memory of Rob may be sent to: The Robert H. Eichberg Vision Fund of The Experience, 1223-B South St. Francis Drive, Santa Fe, NM 87505. For more information call Honey Ward at (505) 988-2000. ▼

Jake Efsen

Jakob H. Efsen, 49, died Monday, June 5, 1995 at his home in Washington, D.C., of AIDS related complications, according to his partner of nine years, Bradford Jewett also of Washington.

Efsen was born Feb. 5, 1946 in Aarhus, Denmark. His family moved to Red Bank, N.J., when Efsen was six years old.

Efsen obtained a bachelor's degree in geography from Rutgers University in 1969.

After college, Efsen joined the U.S. Peace Corps as a volunteer in the Republic of Korea from 1969 to 1972. Subsequently, he took a position at the Peace Corps' Washington office as a placement officer.

From 1976 until 1984, Efsen worked at the National Health Screening Council as health fair coordinator. Most recently, Efsen worked for the Washington, D.C. Department of Human Services in tuberculosis control.

Efsen was a founding member of D.C. Lambda Squares, a square dancing troupe. He was also a member of the Silver Spurs, a country and western-oriented service organization. He was also active with the Mount Pleasant Neighborhood Alliance.

In addition to Jewett, Efsen is survived by his sister and her husband, Ulla Kristina and Roy Burden; nephews, David and Kevin Burden; niece, Wendy Tuohy; great niece, Megan Tuohy; all of Monmouth, N.J.; a brother and his wife, Jens E. and Cathy Efsen; and nephew, Erik Efsen, all of Perth Amboy, N.J.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, June 24, at 2 p.m., at Christ United Methodist Church at 900 4th St., SW, in Washington.

RICHARD EDWARDES

April 18, 1956 — October 29, 1995

Richie,
It was very hard finding a picture of just you. Almost all of them had you laughing with family and friends. But then again — that was you — always surrounded by people — always sharing your love.

After 20 wonderful years together — I will miss you terribly.

Love Always,
John Attas

JEEP GUILLETTE EMPEROR II

November 21, 1962 —
December 4, 1996

Peacefully, after a courageous struggle. He will be greatly missed and lovingly remembered by family and friends including Maurie, Denys, Jamie, Kim, Jeannie, Steve, Melonie, Denys, Cissy, Nathan, Jordan, Melissa, Lauren, Mark and Keiko.

Always in our hearts.

Chris Ellingson 45

July 17, 1995

Chris Ellingson, an eight-year resident of San Francisco, passed away July 17 at University Medical Center in Las Vegas, after an eight-year battle with AIDS.

Chris was a member of the "Rude Fruit" bowling team and a credit analyst for Kransco Toys. For the last two years, he had been living in Las Vegas to be near family. He was chosen as a grand marshal of the 1995 AIDS Walk Las Vegas for his volunteer work at Aid for AIDS of Southern Nevada.

Chris is survived by his lover of 14 years, Mike Standard; his sister, Cathy Carrigan; brother, Curtis Sumner; and father, Roger Ellingson. He had many friends in the Bay Area and will be sadly missed. A memorial service will be held in San Francisco on Oct. 21. For details please call (702) 457-3425. In lieu of flowers, please make donations in Chris' name to Aid for AIDS of Southern Nevada (702-382-2326). ▼

A memorial service will be held for Eddie Dean Etchen on Saturday, October 21, at 2 p.m., at Westminster Presbyterian Church, located at 400 I St., SW. Etchen, 39, a resident of Washington, D.C. died Tuesday, October 17, 1995 at the Washington Hospital Center due to complications associated with AIDS, according to his friend, Larry Davis of D.C. His obituary will be published in a future issue.

EVANS—Brian J. Evans, 39, of West Hartford, died Monday, March 18, 1996 at his home, after a courageous battle with AIDS. Born in Boston, MA to Henry and Patricia (Prendergast) Evans. Brian made his home in West Hartford and taught in the Rocky Hill School System. Besides his parents he is survived by his Beloved Partner J. Patrick Rivera of West Hartford; seven brothers and sisters and their spouses; Stephen and Penny Evans, Patricia and Kevin Murphy, Greg Evans, Suzanne and Stephen Campbell, Lori and James Holman, Glen Evans, all of MA, Catherine and Steven Marconi of FL, several nieces, nephews, and cousins. A Memorial Service will be held at the convenience of the family. Molloy Funeral home assisted with arrangements.

Eric and John. John and Eric. For six years the names flowed together. Friends. Lovers. Partners. Buddies. Both HIV-positive.

Parties. Theater. Dinners. Seminars all shared. John getting ill, thinner, marches on Washington, we all worry. Eric still strong, vibrant. March '94—Palm Springs. John 40. John thin. John looks like a teenage boy. No muscle, but he still shines, smiles, and his sense of humor brings laughter to us all. Two weeks later... John dead.

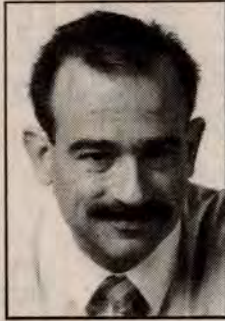

Eric comes home. Eric sad. Vibrant. Sell their home. Fight with in-laws. Greed. Passion. Picking up the pieces. Coughing. Doctors. Nothing. More doctors. Nothing. Eric thinner. Buys dream home. Rambling ranch. Eric weaker.

Friends help. Unpack. Hang pictures. Palm Springs visit planned. Trip canceled. Eric understands. Eric hospital... meningitis. Arrange to get him home. Friends clean house. Debate. Unpack everything. Sell car. Sell some furniture. Unpack some things. Set up home. Arrange schedule. Eric home. Visit weekly. Different friends stay over. One moves in. Many friends drift away. Visit weekly. Sit quietly while TV plays on and on. Braves. Prepare meals. Drop by for meals. Administer medication. Where are the parents?

Eric turns 37. Where are the multitude of "boyfriends"? Four gay men, eight lesbians, two straight people care, feed and worry. Hospital again. Home. More care. IV's. Nurses. Family visits. Home. Eric joyful. Thinner. Talk of John. Talk of Eric. Out for meals. Friends fly in. Good visits. Coma. Fighting on. Hospital. Home. Thinner. Fighting on. Fighting on. Fighting on. Death comes quietly. August 1995. John and Eric. Eric and John. We miss you both and pray you've found one another somewhere over the rainbow.

Tony Esposito

Anthony S. Esposito, 44, a resident of Arlington, Virginia, died of AIDS-related complications on Monday, January 22, 1996 at Fairfax Hospital, according to his friend, Richard J. Kinane of Washington, D.C.

Esposito was born June 11, 1951 in Derby, Conn. He held an associate degree from the Ohio Institute of Technology, now known as the DeVry Institute of Technology, in Columbus in 1971; a bachelor's from the University of New Haven in West Haven, Conn., in 1978; and a master's of business administration from Syracuse University in Syracuse, N.Y., in 1982.

Esposito moved to the D.C. area in 1984. He was chief executive officer for Planning for Data Processing, an Arlington business. He also worked as a writer and instructor for the General Services Administration and the United States Information Agency.

Esposito volunteered at the Whitman-Walker Clinic. Starting in 1990, he assisted with grant writing and volunteered in the clinic's food bank. From 1992-95 he helped facilitate a support group. Esposito was a member of the clinic's Volunteer Resources Steering Committee and the Schwartz Housing Management Services Committee. Kinane said Esposito is particularly well remembered for organizing annual holiday parties for residents, staff, and volunteers of Schwartz Housing.

Joseph Jerome Ellert

Oct. 28, 1950 - Dec. 25, 1995

Joseph (a.k.a. "Peg") of the constant smile, "Mr. Okey-Dokey," left his home, family and friends Christmas Day after a month-long bout of AIDS-related pneumonia.

Born in Indiana, Joseph obtained a journalism degree, served in the military, and was an accomplished pianist. He next resided in San Diego before arriving in San Francisco, where his obsessions burst forth in all their glory:

Gertrude Stein, Joni Mitchell, Betty Boop and Patty Duke; Galleria and Gift Center parties, The Ambush, Gay Freedom Day - Joseph could party with the best. Best of Broadway, Bruce Springsteen, Theatre Rhino, Nancy Sinatra, Gay Games - Joseph attended them all. Trips to Hawaii, PTown, New York (Stonewall) and his beloved Paris.

Joseph was a kind, devoted son, brother and friend, always concerned for others, never one to ask for things for himself. If others were happy, Joseph was happy. His family in Evansville - mother, Clarita; brothers, Mike, Pete, and David; and sisters Sara, Julie and Mary - and his San Francisco family (Picasso, Stud Muffin, Victor, Marge and Cuddles) will miss him deeply.

"They say...that when good Americans die they go to Paris." - Oscar Wilde ▼

Richard Erskine

Richard Erskine, 45, of Rehoboth Beach, Delaware, died Friday, January 19, 1996 at Milford Memorial Hospital in Milford, Delaware due to complications associated with AIDS, according to his friend, Steve Hoult of Rehoboth Beach.

Erskine was born Dec. 8, 1950 in northern New Jersey, where he was raised and educated. During the 1980s, he served as lighting technician and lighting director for the Saint nightclub in New York City, and later moved to Rehoboth Beach, where he became the lighting technician and lighting director for the former Strand nightclub.

More recently, Erskine engineered lighting for private dance parties and fundraising benefits in the D.C. metropolitan area, including parties at the Fifth Column on F Street, NW, Hoult said.

Erskine was predeceased by his father, Alexander Erskine.

He is survived by his mother, Lena Erskine; brother and sister-in-law, William and Lorraine Erskine; and nephew, Scott Erskine, all of Springfield, N.J.

Erskine is also survived by Bowie, his nine year-old Dalmatian. "His dog was his whole life," Hoult said.

Funeral services were held on Jan. 24, in Springfield, N.J. His remains were entombed at the Holy Cross Cemetery in North Arlington, N.J.

A memorial service in Rehoboth Beach, Del., will be held Saturday, Feb. 24, at 2 p.m., at the Epworth United Methodist Church, 20 Baltimore Avenue; a dancing celebration will follow at Cloud 9 Restaurant, 234 Rehoboth Ave.

Memorial contributions may be made to Family and Children Services of Delaware, Kent/Sussex AIDS Program, c/o Turnabout Division, 410 South Bedford St., Georgetown, DE 19947; the Metropolitan Community Church, Jeffrey D. Goeringer Memorial Building Fund, PO Box 191, Rehoboth Beach, DE 19971; or the Sussex County AIDS Committee, PO Box 712, Rehoboth Beach,

17

A Young Victim of AIDS Gets a Proper Goodbye

By SARAH JAY

Her mother died of AIDS, and so did her father, but it was not clear that Kai Evans was infected with the virus until she was 7 and caught chicken pox.

Although Kai had a mild case of chicken pox, her recovery seemed to be taking too long. So her great-and guardian, Sylvia Copes, took her to the hospital, where blood tests confirmed that she carried H.I.V., the virus that causes AIDS.

If she lost Kai, it would not be the first death Ms. Copes had endured. Married in 1965, Ms. Copes lost her first child to crib death after two months. Her husband died when her other children were teen-agers.

She, too, had health worries. Two years ago, she developed uterine cancer and underwent two months of radiation and chemotherapy.

Ms. Copes, 53, lives in the Bushwick Houses in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn, in the same fourth-floor apartment where she has lived for 22 years. When she moved in, the projects offered decent living conditions, she said, but in recent years several corners had become "drug city." She described passing her days in a sort of quiet rage, watching the next generation succumb to the streets.

Previously recorded	$3,628,486.19
Recorded Friday	$26,642.05
Total	$3,655,128.24

When she does venture out, she is limited to where the city buses can take her because the subways make her claustrophobic. It would be understandable if Ms. Copes became depressed, but she said she was too angry to be sad.

"You fall apart if you get that mushy feeling," she said. "It's the anger that keeps you going."

After Kai's H.I.V. diagnosis in 1993, Ms. Copes devoted her energy and money to making the girl happy, whether that meant buying her clothes or telling her lies.

"She thought I could move mountains for her," Ms. Copes said. "She thought that I could make her well. She'd ask me questions."

For instance, Kai might ask if she was going to get well, and Ms. Copes would say, "Of course, you are."

Eventually, Kai, who was an observant girl, pieced together the truth from what she saw and heard in the hospital. One Saturday last spring, she asked Ms. Copes if she had AIDS, and her great-aunt did not lie.

"She didn't cry," Ms. Copes said. "She just said she wanted to go home."

Kai died a few weeks later, in May 1995, and Ms. Copes's grief was compounded by another concern. "I did-

Ralf (Raphael) Esposito

April 1, 1943 - Jan. 29, 1996

Ralf died in Denver from a liver-failure AIDS complication.

Ralf was out at 15, always outrageous, and a constant, helpful friend for 25 years. As heir to a minor "Don" in the New Jersey trash business, childhood featured a tutor/bodyguard. Deals with other "families" allowed a normal high school and an associate's degree. He was an Air Force instructor in Vietnam until some Marines at Danang voted him "Most Desirable Bunkmate During an Enemy Attack." (He kept his security clearance.)

A Honeywell engineer in Denver in the '70s, Ralf got electronics patents. He published Out Front, a Denver gay paper for two years.

Ralf and J. Todd moved to SF in '80. Ralf worked for Imatron on medical X-ray scanners. At home, he built a robotic flea trap. Todd's job lured them to San Diego for '90. In '92, jobs and real estate took them back to Denver.

Ralf knew what kind of rat made the best pet, had food fights in the old Church Street Station, and would spout disgusting strings of un-PC invective when provoked. It was wild, kid, 'tho we would have asked for more. ▼ n't know how I was going to bury this child," she said.

For the last year, she had invested half of her $137 monthly welfare

Money to pay for a burial helps to ease a burden.

check on a family life insurance policy, but she could not withdraw money for another year. She had no other resources, so she contacted the Catholic Charities of the Diocese of

Thomas Cameron Eckley

April 17, 1942 - March 15, 1996

Tom was regarded as a "longtime survivor" of AIDS, having been diagnosed in 1989. Tom, an SF resident for 35 years, was born in Tekamah, Neb., to the late R.W. Eckley and Agnes Cameron Eckley.

Tom received his B.A. from Whitworth College, Spokane, Wash. His entire working career involved credit management, which included employment with Standard Oil/Seattle and Crocker Bank/SF. He was credit manager of U.S. Steel Corporation/SF for 13 years. Similar positions were held at Novell Inc./San Jose and Graphic Reproductions/SF. From 1977 to the present, he was resident manager of a landmark apartment building in Pacific Heights.

Following retirement in 1990, Tom was a volunteer at Project Open Hand, a docent for the Market Street Railway and editor of the HIV Newsletter at Calvary Presbyterian Church. Tom was also a motion picture extra.

Memorial services will be held Friday, June 28, 4:30 p.m., at Calvary Chapel, 2515 Fillmore St. (Jackson St. entrance), with a gathering afterward in Calvary Chapel lounge.

There are no immediate survivors; his ashes will be placed in the family plot in Tekamah. Donations in Tom's name should be made to Whitworth College, Spokane, WA 99251.

Brooklyn and Queens, which offered to pay for the funeral.

The charity is one of seven supported by The New York Times Neediest Cases Fund, now conducting its 84th annual appeal for donations. Each year, the fund helps thousands of New Yorkers, who are poor, sick or elderly. The Times pays all administrative costs so that contributions to the fund can go directly to the charities. This year's campaign ends Feb. 29.

As a result of Catholic Charities' help, Kai was buried at St. Mary's Hospital for Children, where she died. It may not ease the pain of the loss, but it is one less burden for Ms. Copes to bear, knowing that her niece had a proper goodbye.

John Martin Ekdahl

May 22, 1952 - April 20, 1996

Inn keeper, world traveler, ice skater and longtime Delta Airlines employee, John Martin Ekdahl lost his long battle to HIV disease, breathing his last breath surrounded by family and loved ones.

He is survived by his partner of 18 years, Steven Hyske; as well his mother, Edna; brothers, Michael and Fritz; niece, Sarah; nephews, Mike Jr. and Kevin; and a long list of dear friends and associates.

Originally from Calumet, Mich., John lived in Chicago and Phoenix before settling in Berkeley in 1979. An employee with Delta Airlines for more than 20 years, he traveled the world from Sydney to Santorini to Nairobi to Stockholm.

In 1985, John achieved a lifelong ambition to open up his own bed and breakfast inn, restoring and renovating a historic 1902 Berkeley Brown Shingle house to become the Elmwood House. A member of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce, John was also an active member of the East Bay Business and Professional Alliance, which awarded him their lifetime achievement award in 1995.

John's caring, gentle spirit will be sorely missed by those who knew him. The family asks that in lieu of flowers, gifts be made to your favorite AIDS charity in his name.

Bob Eastman

February 18, 1942 - March 14, 1996

Private Funeral and Interment
at Arlington National Cemetery

Memorials may be made to Food & Friends

"The world stretches out on either side,
No wider than the heart is wide.
The sky is high no higher than
The heart is high.
Peace."

Ruth Eshmont

Ruth Eshmont, 73, a longtime volunteer with the NAMES Project, died of cancer Aug. 3, 1999, according to NAMES Project Workshop and Education Center co-coordinator Bonnie Ulmer.

"She reached so many people and touched so many lives," Ulmer said.

Eshmont was born in Florida on Jan. 27, 1926, according to NAMES Project volunteer Dennis Cunningham. As a child, she and her family moved to Washington, D.C., where she lived most of her life. In the early 1980s she retired from her job as a reservations agent at Delta Airlines, where she had worked for 17 years.

Soon after her son, Bob Phillips, died of AIDS in 1988, said Cunningham, Eshmont began volunteering with various AIDS-related organizations in the D.C. area. She was one of the earliest members of the local NAMES Project chapter, which she joined in 1989 after sewing an AIDS Memorial Quilt panel in memory of her son. According to Cunningham, she worked at every national display of the Quilt between 1989 and 1996 and spoke about AIDS and the NAMES Project at outreaches and educational events throughout the area. She helped to organize a major display of the Quilt at Coolidge High School as well as the first display of the Quilt in North Carolina. She was particularly proud of that effort, Cunningham remembered.

In addition to her work with the NAMES Project, Eshmont volunteered at Northern Virginia AIDS Ministry and as a buddy at the Whitman-Walker Clinic.

She is survived by her husband, Lee Eshmont; a brother, Charles Hamilton Jr.; four children; 12 grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren; and numerous friends.

Funeral services were held Aug. 6 at the Lee Funeral Home in Clinton, Md.

Memorial contributions may be made to the NAMES Project of the National Capital.

W. Andrew Ross-Ebert

By Steven J. Caines
Special to PGN

W. Andrew Ross-Ebert, 31, re-dedicated his life from a career in interior decorating to that of an activist and educator who taught thousands of children in the South New Jersey/Philadelphia area about the danger of AIDS.

Ross-Ebert died May 18, 1996, of the disease at his home in the Barclay Farms section of Cherry Hill.

After being diagnosed as HIV-positive at age 22, Ross-

Ebert gave his first public talk in 1985 as part of a NAMES Project AIDS Memorial Quilt display in Philadelphia.

The speech provided the first hint of his powerful speaking abilities and his honesty. In it, Ross-Ebert discussed openly how he had lost his job in Florida as a regional sales manager for a New York City-based design firm when he decided "naively" to be honest with his employers. He also told of longtime friends retreating from his life.

But he also shared with the listeners how the disease had brought his family together as never before.

And he shared his real fears: "I am not as worried about myself as I am about my 2-year-old niece and my 4-year-old nephew. I worry if they will contract this deadly disease when they become sexually active; just because they were ill-informed and lead to believe that this is a gay disease."

The following year, Ross-Ebert spoke before family-life classes in Cherry Hill High School East, where had been a member of the class of 1982. Instrumental in getting him to speak was Joan Saltzer, now retired from East.

"He was very nervous and he told me he was concerned about how the kids would react," she recalled. "And he was worried about rejection."

The talk went very well, he was "a powerful speaker ... articulate, completely honest and open to any questions," Saltzer said. "And after class, the kids gathered around him"

In Memoriam

Stanley E. Eckard

Nov. 1, 1969 - April 21, 1996

Stanley E. Eckard, 26, of Washington, DC, formerly of Bedford, PA, died Sunday, April, 21, 1996, in Alexandria Hospital, from a heart complication.

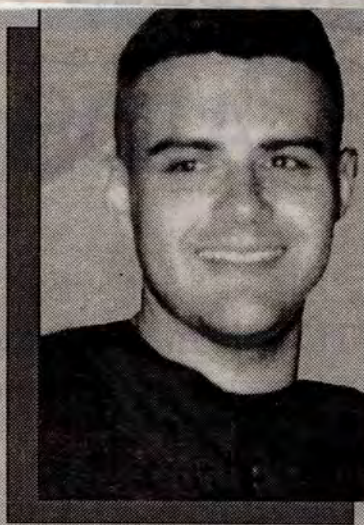

He was born Nov. 1, 1969, in Bedford, a son of James E. and Margery (Crawford) Eckard of Bedford.

Along with his parents, he is survived by a brother, Randy L. Eckard, and his maternal grandparents, Paul and Marry Crawford, of Bedford, and the Swartzlander family of Carlisle, PA. Mr. Eckard was of the Christian faith.

Stan studied music at the Curtis Institute, Temple University, and at Chateaugay, NY. He graduated from Temple University in 1992. He was also a nationally recognized oboist, and a member of The Philadelphia Orchestra and The Philadelphia Youth Orchestra.

Stan moved to DC in January of this year, and was an employee at JR's Bar and Grill. He enjoyed tennis, and while in DC, he played on the Capital Tennis Association.

Funeral services were held from the Timothy A. Berkebile Funeral Home in Bedford, with the Rev. Stewart W. McClelland officiating. Burial was in the Union Cemetery, Centerville, PA.

with questions and compliments on his presentation.

Soon Ross-Ebert was talking to groups of all kinds — elementary-school classes, high-school classes, church and youth groups, and school parent-teacher associations. At his peak, he was delivering messages to a number of classes in a day and then to a PTA group in the evening. But as the illness took its toll, he gradually had to reduce his speaking engagements to once a week and then to one every two weeks.

Occasionally, his openness was viewed as controversial by some parent groups and an occasional student.

"I can honestly say Andrew has saved lives by teaching kids about the choices they can make," Saltzer said. "At the end of the school year, nine out of 10 students in my classes would always say that Andrew had the most impact of any speaker during the year."

His mother, Virginia Polinak Ross, estimated that her son had spoken to 75,000 people in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware. In seeking out forums to deliver his message, Ross-Ebert had worked through Area Health Education Services in Camden and with the AIDS Coalition of Southern New Jersey, where he became the speakers bureau's main speaker for some time, and, finally, with the South Jersey Council on AIDS.

His life partner, John Ross-Ebert, recalled that Andrew Ross-Ebert had been filled with energy, and when he could no longer direct it toward his career, he "re-directed [it] to getting out the message about the disease to others," he said. "He was the outgoing Leo, with a very quick and sharp wit. He could penetrate most people's lines of defense and befriend them before they knew it."

Ross-Ebert delivered his last talk on AIDS in May 1995 at the Johnson School, where he had once been a student.

In his final years, Ross-Ebert pursued the unusual hobby of designing miniature houses and rooms and furnishing them with everything in proper scale — from furniture to people, and a trademark giraffe, his mother said. Many of the scale-model rooms were gifts to friends.

Joan Saltzer, who received one of the custom creations, said, "each room was designed to reflect what impact you had on his life. He gave me a room filled with children ... and said it was because of all the children's lives I had had an impact on."

Prior to his speaking career, Ross-Ebert attended the Maryland Institute College of Art in Baltimore. His favorite area hangout was Woody's.

In addition to his life partner and mother, Ross-Ebert is survived by two sisters, Susan Flynn and Ginger Vukas; and one niece and one nephew.

Memorial services were held May 28 at the Unitarian Universalist Church in Cherry Hill.

Memorial contributions may be made to Andrew's Closet, c/o Samaritan Hospice, 214 W. Second St., Moorestown, N.J. 08057-2372.

▼

of people	Page	Age	Name	Date of Death
1	10	43	White Eagle	7-7-95
2	9	46	Bruce Eakin	6-26-95
3	P 43		NORMAN Eales	4- -93
4	5	46	Jeff Eames	8-12-93
5	3	40	SEAN FARLEY	5-30-92
6	3	32	GORDON T. EARLS	1-31-92
7	9	38	DAVID W. EASON	4-11-95
8	10		PETER STANDISH EASTON	8-13-95
9	8		JOHN J. EATON JR.	2-22-95
10	9	42	GARY EBERT	7-31-95
11	6	41	HENRY H. EBY	2-17-92
12	3	47	DAVID ECKERT	10-25-92
13	7	53	ROSS DOUD ECKERT	1-7-95
14	7	39	JACK ECKLEY	5-19-93
15	7		Ed	7-8-91
16	10		Eddie	8-19-95
17	3	43	ROBERT EDMONDS	2-8-93
18	10	40	DAVID W. EDWARDS	7-11-94
19	4	44	DOUGLAS EDWARDS	2-2-93
20	6		JACK D. EDWARDS	10-15-94
21	1	42	NICHOLAS EDWARDS	4-16-92
22	3	47	PAUL EDWARDS	3-26-94
23	11	38	RICHARD EDWARDS	10-29-95
24	8	58	WILLIAM EDWARDS	5-15-94
25	5		WILSON ROBERT EDWARDS JR.	3-15-94
26	11	49	JAKOB H. EFTSEN	6-5-95
27	5	38	JAMES EGAN	7-6-94
28	2	49	JAMES W. EGAN	11-7-91
29	5	31	JEFFREY A. EHRNTHALER	5-31-93
30	11	50	ROBERT H. EICHBERG	8-11-95
31	2	45	ETHYL EICHELBERGER	UNKNOWN
32	3		LYNWOOD O. EIKREM	10-10-92
33	8	45	JEFFREY L. EISBERG	5-22-94
34	3	47	STEVE EISENDRATH	10-5-92
35	1	36	DAVID EISLER	2-16-92
36	10	31	DANTE FRANK ELIA	8-21-94
37	12	45	JOSEPH JEROME ELLERT	12-25-95

of people	Page	Age	Name	Date of Death
38	4	30	Jeffrey ELLIFRITZ	3-6-93
39	11		Chris ELLINGSON	7-17-95
40	A-34	31	DAVID ELLINGSWORTH	12-1-94
41	9	31	CALVIN ELLIOTT	11-16-94
42	3	70	Denholm ELLIOTT	10-6-92
43	8	42	Keith Robert ELLIOTT	10-19-94
44	A-34	38	Richard GRANT ELLIOTT	12-1-93
45	S-90		ALAN ELLIS	3-9-94
46	6		Perry ELLIS	86
47	10	35	THOMAS MICHAEL ELLISON	3-3-95
48	3	35	Eddie ELLNER	1-15-92
49	A-36	70	Denholm ELLOTT	92
50	3	48	C. LAMAR ELMORE	10-2-93
51	9	32	RICHARD FRANK ELWART	6-26-95
52	3	38	ROBERT A. ELWOOD	4-12-91
53	3	38	ROBERT B. ELWOOD JR.	3-24-92
54	3	40	BILL ELVERMAN	8-13-92
55	5		ROBERT J. EMCH	12-22-92
56	A-34	45	JAMES B. "Jim" EMERSON	12-1-93
57	4	37	STEVE EMERSON	3-25-92
58	1	47	ALBERT F. EMERY JR.	2-6-91
59	3	39	Rick Emery	4-7-92
60	3	32	MICHAEL EMPERO	1-22-94
61	6	44	STEPHEN R. ENDEAN	8-4-93
62	3		HAROLD P. ENDICOTT	10-17-92
63	6	46	ROBERT AKIRA SOEL ENDO	10-6-94
64	6	44	STEPHEN MICHAEL ENDRESS	10-21-94
65	11	33	JOHN R. ENGEBERG JR.	2-21-95
66	7		RAY ENGBRETSEN	85
67	5	60	PATRICK (Wolf) ENGLE	7-23-93
68	5		JOHN STEVEN ENGLEHART	9-29-94
69	8	38	ROBERT ENRIGHT	6-10-89
70	5	42	BOB ENTWISTLE	3-7-93
71	2	37	FRANZE T. EPPS JR.	7-3-92
72	3	44	JAN EPSTEIN	1-18-94
73	8		JOSEPH H. EPSTEIN	3-11-95
74	1	39	MAX EPSTEIN	91

OF PEOPLE	PAGE	AGE	NAME	DATE OF DEATH
75	12	37	ERIC	8-1995
76	10	48	EDWARD F. FAKER	3-16-95
77	5	51	DAN ERKKILA	11-1-93
78	8	46	MATS ERNMARK	10-2-94
79	12	45	RICHARD ERSKINE	1-19-96
80	A-39	32	JOSEPH VAN ESBALESTEROS	1995
81	9	74	ELIZABETH M. ESHNER	2-6-95
82	14		BOB PHILLIPS ESHMONT	1988
83	14	73	RUTH ESHMONT	8-3-99
84	8	29	CARLOS I ESPADA	4-28-94
85	A-35	35	BROTHER ELIOT ESPANA	12-1-90
86	6	35	CHRISTOPHER ESPOSITO	5-30-94
87	13	53	RALF (RAPHAEL) ESPOSITO	1-29-96
88	12	44	TONY ESPOSITO	1-22-96
89	5	54	GARY ESSERT	12-16-92
90	11	39	EDDIE DEAN ETCHEN	10-17-95
91	2		JOHN VAN ETTEN	10-20-90
92	1	54	JACQUELINE EUBANKS	11-18-92
93	2	28	ARTHUR EVANS	2-8-92
94	11	39	BRIAN J. EVANS	3-18-96
95	9	33	FREDERIC W. EVANS	4-21-94
96	10	32	GREGORY T. EVANS	8-17-95
97	S-89		JAYE D. EVANS	10-10-95
98	7	53	JOE M. EVANS	2-19-94
99	13	9	KAI EVANS	5-1995
100	9	51	KENNY EVERETT	4-4-95
101	2	41	PAUL EVERETT	1-12-92
102	10	36	SCOTT EVERHART	7-5-95
103	A-34	46	GUI R. EVERITT	12-1-93
104	2	37	RICHARD EWING JR	10-12-90
105	11	38	RODERICK EWING	11-8-94
106	8	37	JIM EYERLY	3-11-94
107	14	54	BOB EASTMAN	3-14-96
108	15/16	31	W. ANDREW ROSS EBERT	5-18-96
109	15	26	STANLEY E. ECKARD	4-21-96

OF PEOPLE	PAGE	AGE	NAME	DATE OF DEATH
110	13	54	THOMAS CAMERON ECKLEY	3-15-96
111	5	36	ROBERT LOUIS EISBRENNER	12-12-96
112	13	44	JOHN MARTIN EKDAL	4-20-96
113	11	39	JEOP GUILLETTE EMPEROR II	12-4-96
114
115
116
117
118
119
120
121
122
123
124
125
126
127
128
129
130
131
132
133
134
135
136
137
138
139
140
141
142
143
144				