Mr. Harry L. George,
St. Joseph, Mo,
Dear Sir:

Enclosed you will find photo of the Indian drum From all indications the trunk of the tree was hollow, I got the drum from the James tribe of Indians after their corn dance, at that time they was using it, and it has rawhide cover or head at both ends. The regular price of this drum was $25.00 and I was sure if you was interested in such an article that you would take me up on the price I made you. Twanty dollars Net is the best I can do and you pay the express. The freight would amount to as much as the express as you would have to pay for 50 or 100 Lb.

Yours truly,

W. A. Wright
