Foreword

In presenting this volume of the Wichita to the public we are seeking to arouse a deeper interest in the people of Cameron by picturing to them the practical school life of the students.

It is our aim to give the main features to explain the Cameron of today. In order to do this it is necessary to select topics of the various fields of activities we have in school; educational, religious, athletic and social. These are the topics which the following pages will illustrate.

A young man to himself did say,
This thing I'll surely play,
I'll not stay here another day
In this C. S. S. A.

Unless the girls I get to see
And talk to on the sly,
I'll do it now what ere may be,
"I'll do it now or die."

To keep his word the youth now tries,
He is determined now,
And quickly to the porch he hies,
To execute his vow.

And to the maidens he does chat.
To law he is defiant,
Although he knows it is to that
The lawyer owes his client.

The President comes out the door,
And grabs the young man's arm,
And pushes him from off the floor
As if to do him harm.

And in an angry manner said,
"Depart from here at once,
And did you think that I was dead,
Or were you such a dunce.

To sit here on this porch and talk
In everybodys sight;
Now off this campus you straight walk
And come not back to-night."

The curtain falls upon the scene,
The actors disappear,
And from the drama one may glean
This proverb plain and clear.

When cats away, the mice do play;
This thing is certain for
The big cat may happen back some day
And the mice they play no more.

PROPHECY

Many years after graduating from Cameron, I was again in the state of Oklahoma and among other places visited Geronimo.

I asked a policeman who was leaning absent mindedly against a lamp post for directions to the best hotel. When he turned to me I discovered that it was the little rosy-cheeked boy—Grady Merck, who had graduated in the class of '22. After expressing our surprise I congratulated him upon his attaining his ambition. He then directed me to the largest hotel in Geronimo.

As I stepped into the elevator I stumbled over the boy's feet. Of course I was surprised to look into the face of another member of the class of '22, Ralph Roberts, for I remember having fallen over his feet at school. After informing him who I was he told me, with tears in his eyes how he had acquired such an elevating position.

Once in my room I rang for the maid. Something about the brisk way in which she served me caused me to recognize her at once as Zelma Williams another of my school mates.

That evening I heard that a famous singer was to be at the theater, so I decided to go. I was seated in my box when the curtain rolled back, and there, amid the dazzling lights, arrayed in spangles, ruffles and jewels, stood the greatest singer in the world. Her eyes alighted on me and appeared to be glued. Then to my great astonishment and surprise I recognized my old school-mate—Ella Kepler.

The next day I was seated in the lobby of the hotel, when a man appeared on the threshold. He was clothed in a suit of brilliant blue, a large diamond tie pin protruded from his shirt front, and one could tell at a glance that he was a great personage in that part of the country. As soon as his hat came off I knew that I had found another of that band of happy Seniors, Truman Maxey. Of course I felt greatly honored to shake hands with the rich "oil magnate". He seemed greatly agitated about something and upon inquiring the cause he told me that some one had broken into his house and carried off his best set of nickel-plated spoons. He was on his way to see a great detective, who lived as a hermit among the hills. As I had never seen a hermit, I begged him to take me along. He finally consented, and we were soon on the road.

On the way we overtook a tramp who was trudging dejectedly along. Truman asked him to ride and imagine our surprise when he began talking of a play he had been in while attending Cameron. I asked what his name was and he informed me that he had forgotten what his real name was, but his pals all called him Andy. Of course we knew then that he was Andrew Sparlin, another link in the broken chain. I asked him if he knew anything of the other care free Seniors of 1922, and he replied that Thelma Crain dancer in Ardmore, and Beulah Wood had gone to China to teach the little Chinks that Lologna is better than rats and mice, and that they must learn to eat rice with a spoon instead of a stick. Lelen Huffer was a Red Cross nurse and had gone to the war to watch over her soldier lover. Berle Banks by reason of his last year's work at Cameron had gone money mad. He was the most successful banker in Honolulu. Jesse Salter was living on a farm in northwestern Oklahoma and was making a name for himself raising chickens. Those were the only ones Andy had heard of while on his rambles, and we parted from him after giving him the price of a meal.

We were now at the great detective's house, which was nothing but a large cave. A sepulchral voice bade us enter and come straight ahead. The hermit advanced to meet us saying, "My friends you cannot imagine the joy it gives me to see some one from the outside world again." A sudden revelation came to me. That theatrical voice gave him away. The great detective, the second Hawkshaw, was Leonard Clyburn. I asked him why he was living here in seclusion and he said, "I grew tired of living in the world where every one contradicted me, so I built this place where I know I can say what I please.

Truman remained to consult the hermit concerning his loss and I drove back to Junction City and stopped at the cafe to talk to Thelma or Ted as she was always called. Upon my inquiry as to the fate of our class mate Zelma Mae Brown, she informed me that Zelma Mae had grown terribly fat and thru the magic of her violin was becoming second only to Kresisler. Richard Maxey had risen to the position of janitor at the Pershing school. This did not surprise me, for I knew he would do something great some day; he was always so industrious. Flora Belle Robinson and Gerald Pickett had joined the Salvation Army and were out collecting lost souls from the by-ways and hedges. Ernest Henson had become head waiter at the Pullman cafe. Roy Woodfin was an itinerant preacher and was sweeping everything out of his way with a run away team.

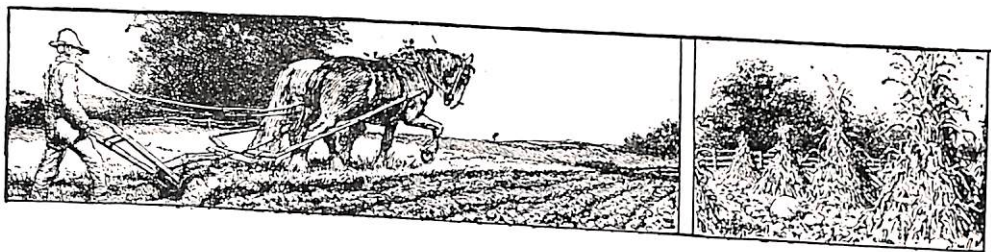

I remained with Ted for the night, and next morning received a caller. It was none other than Dorothy Rowell a very imposing matron. She was escorted by her very timid little husband who always seemed to regard her with awe and always said, "Yes, dear" when she spoke. I recognized him as Lee Rhoades.

As I left the hotel I met a tall lank fellow who begged for "just one nickle to get a strawberry soda." I knew at a glance that the poor fellow was Worth Fulbright. He had worked in the soda fountain so long that he has become a fiend to the deadliest of all drinks, the "Soda".

The next week found me in Los Angeles, California wondering when I would see the remaining six graduates. One evening as I was strolling along the beach, a queer looking steamer came in. The Captain, a medium sized fellow, came down the gang plank first, then a tow-headed boy. A head appeared from one of the port holes and shouted, "You can't shoot me, I'm a gosh darned oil man." The Captain shouted to the tow-headed boy to pound the human peg into his cell. With a shudder he started to obey, when I made my appearance. I knew I would have nothing to fear when I gave them my name. That fierce looking be-whiskered captain was just old Beo Reecer, the tow-headed boy was Dale Wickizer, and their prisoner was little Ray Steen. I asked them why they were in such bloody business; they replied that they were merely staging a play for the movies. The play being over, the small band of players came over to me, and, oh joy, the leading man was Owen Norris and another actor was Howard Plimmons. I accepted their invitation to dinner and while at the table the waiter appeared with a huge tray of dishes filled with soup. Catching his toe in the hem of his apron he fell full length spilling all the soup right into my lap. The poor thing tried to apologize, but stopped in the middle of a sentence and gazed from one to the other, then began to cry. While inquiring as to the cause of his grief, we discovered that it was Harold Pearcy another of our Seniors.

The players escorted me to the train I was taking for my homeward journey and gave me many farewell messages to carry to the other members of our class of '22.

Senior Class History

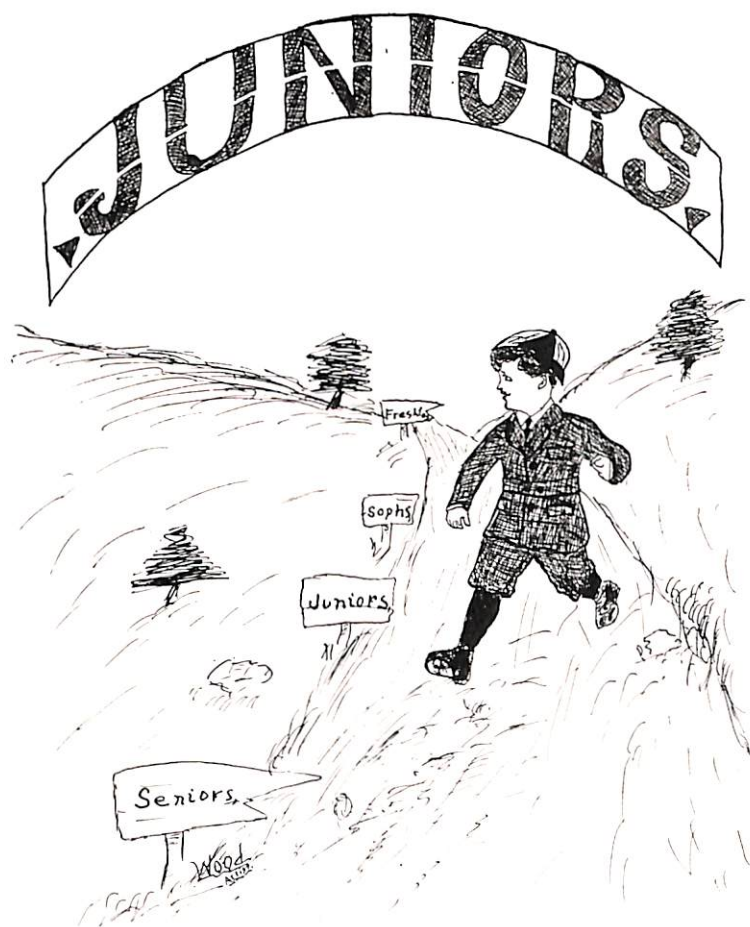

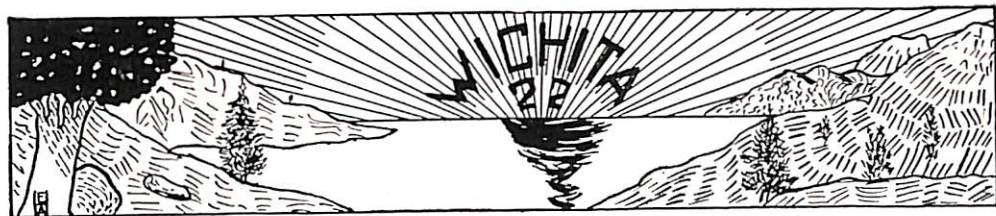

When you turn through the pages of this book, the product of the Senior Class of '22, years from now we do not wish you to consider that you have found the full history of that class. You have only found a brief history of our school life. You will get a better idea of our position in life and our daily work by consulting the class prophecy.

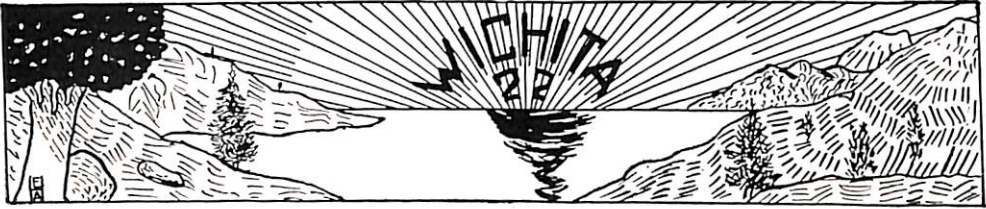

Only those who were determined to get an education and saw a successful future for the educated, entered high school from the rural communities in the dark days of September 1918, when the world had been in war its fifth year, when homes were broken up and prospects for finishing the education were not bright. This class did not start as a record breaker in numbers but we did have material. The four year standbys from that year are: Beulah, Dorothy, Worth, Ray, Andrew, Zelma, Flora Bella, Beo, Harold and Ernest.

During our Sophomore year our varied talent began to manifest itself. We were a new force in the making. Our small class of two dozen weathered that stormy year without attracting special attention in any one direction. Our chief accomplishment was the ridding the farm of all the bugs which were usually fed to a few pet mice. We were strengthened this year by: Ralph, Mary, Roy, Ella, Berle and Gerald.

Under the new administration with new ideas and great plans for organizations and lateral activities, we certainly did grow as Juniors in giving new life and as leaders in the new movement of school life. The old order had passed away and the Juniors were at the head of the new. We left nothing for the dignified Seniors that we could not do. We lost a few but gained Richard, Truman, Thelma Crain, Grady, and Dale, keeping our twenty-four. We finished this third year full of pep, enthusiasm and good feeling, determined that each should bring back a live classmate to make the class of '22 really a class of 22 or more. Our class letter during the summer kept up the spirit.

Again we entered Cameron bringing Zelma Mae, Helen, Howard, Leonard, Thelma Vinson, Jesse and Owen, making a total of twenty-eight. Every day of this year was measured by an accomplishment of the Seniors. We enlarged upon our Junior program of being leaders. But that is not all of the story; we have improved in work accomplished. If a write up for a paper, a poem, a speech, a teacher, a little literary decorating or anything that helped along with school work and activities was needed, a Senior was ready to shoulder the burden. We have worked side by side with very little friction. We feel that our class meetings have set a new standard of harmony among Seniors. We have formed friendships that will never be broken or forgotten. We have LIVED not merely existed. Our history is written on the invisible, non-eraseable sands of time, and we are proud of the achievements recorded therein.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY.

We the class of '23, symbolized by the four link chain of success, first met at Cameron on September 6, 1919. Although we were ridiculed for being green, it was not long until we had proved that we were as good as any of them, and all we wanted was an equal chance. When that year was passed we looked back over our records and found that we had supplied the school with two football men, five baseball men, the most experienced man in boxing, two cartoonists, several vocalists, the leading pianist, and a number of students who made good grades. We had also proved to the upper class-men that we were one of the most illustrious classes in school considering the time we had been there, and we were each and every one prepared and anxious to take up the next step toward success.

When the school year of '20 and '21 opened we were glad to see that we had several new members, but were sorry to see that we had lost enough old members to make about the same number in our class that we had the preceeding year. Instead of the small number we had in our Freshmen year taking part in school activities we had six football men, three boys and three girls on the respective basketball teams, seven baseball men and some of the best literary talent including orators, readers, comedians, some good musicians and above all the athletic and literary talent we had some of the best nurses and cooks in school.

When our class had met in the fall of '21 we and every one else learned that we had more pep and real Cameron spirit in us than ever before. When we began to select leaders and committees for the various organizations there was always a place for the Juniors. In spite of the fact that we were the most heavily worked class in school and had about as few members as any other class we were always ready to respond to any call with readiness when we thought that we could help out in any of the school activities. We are hoping that every member of our class will pass this year with far better grades than ever before, and that every one will "call again" next year to help make the largest and best graduating class that ever left the doors of Cameron. The way that we can do this is for each person to win one, and there is no question but that we can have a real class.

JUNIOR SONGS

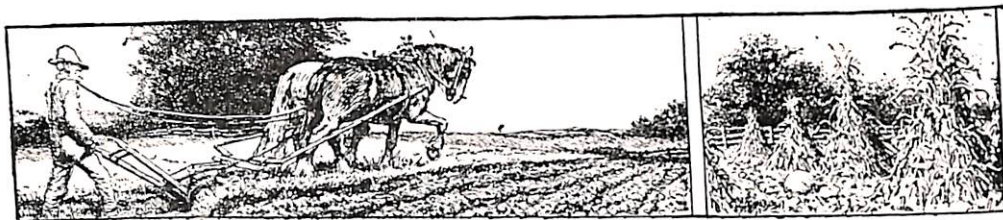

The Cameron Juniors known for bluffing fame,
Did bluff the teachers till it was a shame.
Wick called the teachers in from far and wide,
They held a consultation to decide;
Resolved to see they cut their cheating out.
But from the Juniors came a husky shout.
You're not going to scare us. No sir-ee,
If the scheme doesn't work we'll try some other spree.
We're going to bluff our way right straight through Cameron.
Lordy, won't that be fun,
We're going to introduce some new stunts to the wire;
We'll make them open their eyes.
We're always done our studies here to please,
We're going to take them with us when we leave,
We're going to bluff our way right straight through Cameron.
They warned the Juniors that they had one chance
To pass if they should stand for common sense.
"Quit your bluffing or be on your way",
Said they turned and left them in dismay.
They heaved a sigh, and thought they'd rather die.
Their school-mates gathered 'round and began to cry.
They said, "No use to weep, be of good cheer,
If we can't do it now we'll take another year.

All the kids of C. A. C.
Are very fond of learning,
So many come, they fill the rooms
There's hardly room for turning.
The faculty of C. A. C.
Are very fond of scolding,
And when they try to teach us things
They think we need remodeling.
The freshies green and Seniors too,
Are always up to meanness,
In everything they try to do
They always show their greenness.
All the kids will keep it up,
All the kids are dandy,
All the teachers love us so
They always keep the rulers handy.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY.

The first day of school 1920 found a large number on the campus. Many of us who were then Freshmen were asking, "What's this?", and "What's that?". We were ridiculed and called horrid names by our upper class-men, but all this we took as a joke. We were armed with a good supply of energy and brains. This we successfully proved before the end of the school year. We were well represented in the Literary Societies as well as other school activities. We organized with a class of thirty-eight members.

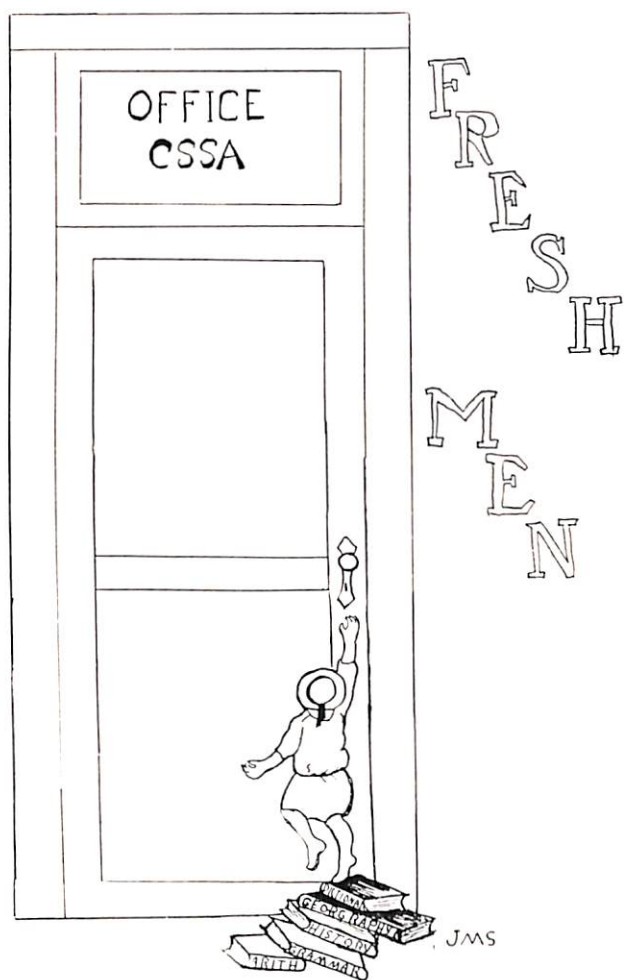

At the beginning of the school year 1921 there were Forty pupils enrolled as Sophomores. Other pupils kept enrolling, and by the middle of the year there were Forty-five in the class.

The fact that the Sophomores have contributed much to the school activities accounts for our success. Both the boys and girls had some splendid basketball players. We were well represented in football; also in the glee-club, and debating.

There is often the feeling that students who take part in the student activities, and carry their school work creditably, do not have time to be employed outside. The Sophomores have proved that the student who works in school, and has the highest standing is the one who seeks employment after school. Almost one-third of the class have outside duties.

However delightful and worth while the first two years of school have been, we are still looking forward. Next year we will take the place of the Juniors, and by 1924 we hope to have the largest and best graduating class that has ever been known in the history of Cameron.

FRESHMAN HISTORY.

We, the largest Freshman class ever to be enrolled in the history of Cameron, have come with the determination to work and show the other classes that we are not so green as all Freshmen are supposed to be.

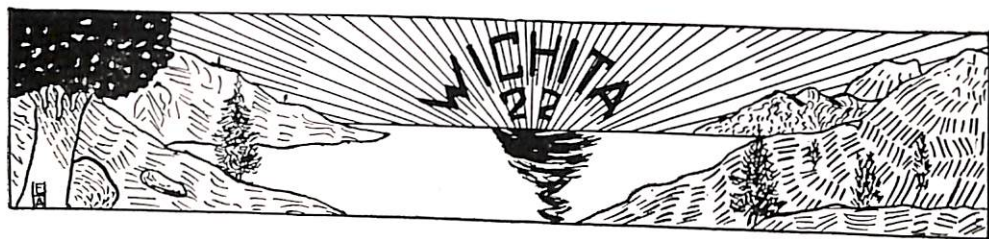

Our first meeting was held in the auditorium on September 16, 1921. After a count it was found we had sixty-eight in our class. Next we elected our officers, who are respectively: Ray Fletcher, President; Glen Hager, Vice President; Esther Wickizer, Secretary; Peter Ferrell, Historian; Leslie Dawson, Sergeant-at-arms. The violet is our flower. Our colors are black and maroon. Our motto is, "Watch our smoke."

Since then everybody had worked hard and the other classes have become aware that some of our number possess great talent. The fact that we have taken part in all school activities has brought our first recognition. For instance, we are taking a large part in the music movement. We had four representatives on the football team who were: Ray Fletcher, center; Leslie Dawson, guard; Harry Hilbert, tackle; Cecil Rhoades, guard. We have also distinguished ourselves in literary work and debating. We have had representatives every debating night.

When we first came to school everybody who was in the higher classes went to throwing bouquets at us, such as this: "The sheep are in the meadow the cows are in the grass, but all the silly little geese are in the Freshman class." But now they treat us as the coming men and women of the future whose work will be the glory of the future Cameron School.

In the future when we as upper classmen look down upon the green Freshmen, we may talk and think of the times when we were Freshmen and dreaming of the future, we may even secretly wish for the good old times of our Freshmen year. Anyhow we are yet Freshmen, have our hopes before us, so "Watch our smoke" in the future, and goodbye for a long time.

You would hardly think from the size of some of the members in our class that they are going to be teachers, but the old saying "Valuable articles are not always in large packages" fits well here.

The Teachers' Training Class this year is the largest that has ever graduated from this school, and we feel sure it is the most efficient.

Our director, Mr. Moss, has been with us three years and in that time he has proved to us that he is experienced and to our minds no one else could handle the job as well.

The Teachers' Training course consists of six weeks' training in Physiology and Sanitation, Grammar, Reading, Penmanship and Spelling, Arithmetic and Geography; the study of the mind, Psychology, the science of teaching, Pedagogy.

A two-years' State certificate is the reward for those completing the course.

Cameron has had for several years two literary societies. The Delphic Oracles and The Literati. These societies have from the first been actuated by a desire to develop individual talent, promote leadership in group organizations, make Cameron a more lively place and to show to the outside world that we can really entertain and demonstrate a few of the things that mark an educated people.

Last year the societies were graded. The society receiving the highest grade was awarded a trophy. The winner of this coveted possession was the Literati.

This year both societies were ready to get into the game early. Mr. Pickhardt was selected as sponsor of the Delphics and Mrs. Chitwood was chosen sponsor of the Literati. The programs given all emphasized a particular point. They were as follows: Literati, October 14, Riley; November 11, Armistice Day; December 9, Whittier; January 13, Mark Twain; February 10, Lincoln; March 10, Irish; April 7. Delphics, October 18, Bryant; November 22, Thanksgiving; December 22, Christmas; February 3, Burns; February 28, Washington; March 24, Cleveland; April 21, Spring.

One who has viewed the programs will say that the mere rendering of a number was not half the program. The keen competitive spirit caused each society to invent new methods and devices for announcing and rendering the numbers and for making the stage more attractive. Each society possessed a cartoonist who was willing to prepare a poster which contained a drawing representing the object to be emphasized and the program. The keenest rivalry existed between the "Tatler" and "Delphic World", the two papers published by the societies. With all the competition, the best of feelings prevailed between them. On February 17, the societies gave a school party which will probably be an annual affair.

Both societies approached the end of the year full of hope and enthusiasm, and at no time was either society thought to have the advantage in the race for the trophy. Both societies were confident of the impartiality of the judges and were willing to accept defeat without resentment.

THE DEMETRIANS.

The Demetrians were organized in the early part of the year. The officers elected were as follows: Clemmie Wood, President; Loi Philips, Vice President; Nona Fite, Secretary; and Letha Ball, Treasurer.

The girls have been doing excellent work and expect to continue it in the future. The women of Lawton have shown us many favors by helping in our meetings; we appreciate their kindness and their splendid talks. By their help we intend to make these meetings a success.

Mrs. Wickizer has been acting as our sponsor, she has been a great help to us and to her we owe our thanks.

DEBATING.

Debating has reached its second anniversary at Cameron, and wonderful progress has been made. Everyone has done his share in developing and putting pep into the debating societies. Those that put as much work in debating as in their other subjects have received even greater returns. Every boy participates and all are pleased with their reward.

This work affords much valuable training, not only in parliamentary drill but in good logical thinking. It enables a young man to delve deep into the fundamentals of any great question that may arise and, if called upon, to present his views on the subject in a clear forceful manner. To sum it all up, we can say that debating is one of the great fundamentals of an education.

The boys were organized into five societies with a student at the head of each and three executive officials besides the main sponsor, Mr. Pickhardt. Each section met every Wednesday night, and each student had a chance to speak from three to five minutes on the question assigned. At this meeting each section elected a speaker to the general debate which met the following Monday night to debate on the same subject. After gathering all the information possible in the sectional debate and elsewhere these representatives could give real Stephen A. Douglas speeches. After these speeches the subject was opened for general discussion by the assembly. The United States Senate never had a more enthusiastic session.

The enthusiasm reached its highest point at the end of the debating term; when, each society elected two men to debate on opposite sides of the question in a contest. After three heated debates the winning section was decided from the individual grades of the teams. The victorious section, number three, received as their reward the privilege of hanging their picture in assembly hall. The presence and participation of the girls in these final debates made it more interesting.

Cameron is looking forward to a time in the near future when her debating team gets on the warpath and roams Southwestern Oklahoma for scalps. With present rate of development it is our prophecy that by next year Cameron will be supreme in her part of the State as far as riding out and bringing in the scalps is concerned.

CHASING A CAT.

When a cat gets in the kitchen,
 We know what we have to do;
 It means work for the hashers,
 Cooks and dishwashers too.

We use stove-pokers and broom-sticks,
 Or most any kind of tools.
 I expect we would look to strangers
 Just like a lot of fools.

We chase it around the kitchen
 'Till we are all quite dizzy,
 We get it into the dining-room
 And then we all get busy.

Over tables and under chairs
 We sure give it a chase.
 Yet all that we accomplish
 Is to get things out of place.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE.

“Nothing lovier can be found
In woman than to study household good
And good work in her husband to promote.”
Milton: Par. Lost.

The course in Domestic Science as given in the Cameron State School of Agriculture is a thorough and comprehensive study of cooking, sewing and household management. These subjects are treated as arts, and in addition to the practical information and scientific knowledge gained, effort has been made to instill in the minds of the students the realization that home making is indeed the highest and most valuable of arts; one not to be lightly regarded or considered as drudgery.

This is an age of specialization and the woman of to-day would no more attempt to enter the profession of home making without definite scientific training than she would expect to engage in any other work without years of training. Nor is she any more content to use the house-keeping methods used by her grandmother than the modern business man would be to use the inefficient business methods of his grandfather.

All the improvements and inventions to lighten woman's labors are demonstrated in this course, and the student's ideals as to what constitutes a modern efficiently managed home are raised. In addition to cooking and sewing the students are taught how to spend the family income to secure the best results possible. There is seldom a home into which illness does not come, so the course prepares the home maker for all such emergencies. This course is indeed a course in "homemaking". A true home means more than the mere boundary of its four walls.

"Home! The place where a world of love is shut in, and a world of strife shut out."

The Young Peoples Union was organized on Sunday night January 16, 1921. Its purpose was to gain for the student a better knowledge of the Bible and its teachings, to sing and to promote social features in general. When the year of '21 and '22 started it found every old student and a greater part of the new students one hundred per cent strong to organize a Young Peoples Union. They wanted to have a place to spend their Sunday evenings where they could accomplish something rather than go to town, to the show or some place where it would take their money and still not help them in a beneficial way.

The union of this year was a great improvement over that of last year, for we were so late last year in getting organized that we thought it not wise to subscribe for a lot of expensive literature and not to use much of it; it was also a new feature in the school and we first had to learn to work together. At the first of this year we subscribed for some literature used by the larger and more advanced organizations, and it has been said by different people that we had one of the best organizations in the state. There is no reason why we cannot have the best for we are all here together working as brothers and sisters and have a number of good leaders and an excellent song service.

As we look back over the year's work we can see that there has been developed a group of Christian leaders and workers that will certainly be valuable to the vicinity in which they will in later years reside. We are certain that some of these people will attain some of the highest positions in Christian work, for they are such willing workers in their youth and they cannot help improving. We have been very much pleased and more benefited by having some very good talent come from Lawton to speak to us, and by hearing some of the more advanced and more experienced people than our own little group we have a better chance to build to a higher plane in life. From the stand-point of success the Young peoples Union will rank with the best of the other school activities.

Mr. Moss had charge of the plays and worked with untiring effort to make them the success that they were.

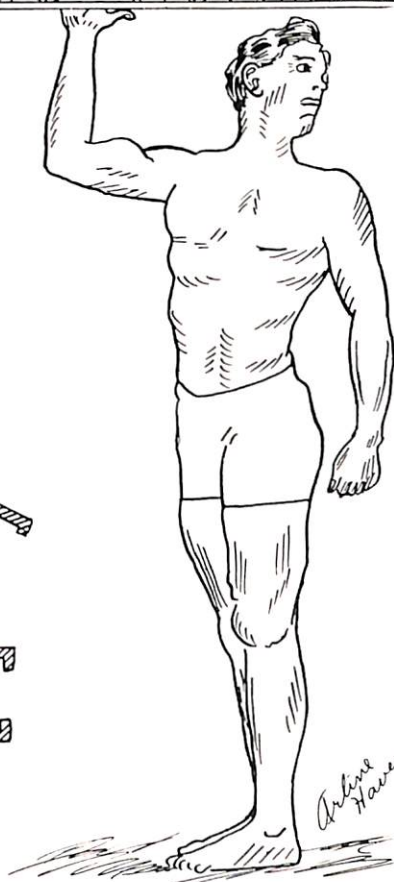

The "Private Tutor" was also staged at Stony Point, Hulen and Chattanooga. It was everywhere a success and went a long way toward giving the people of the surrounding country an idea of what Cameron can do.

The Seniors made a success of their play despite the flu epidemic, the failure of the furnace to perform its duty, and overwork.

All proceeds of the plays went to the small but growing library.

ATHLETICS.

There is nothing more wholesome and upbuilding to the human being than good athletics, it builds up the body both physically and mentally.

Athletics in Cameron is so arranged that it may include every individual in the school.

FOOTBALL

Football started off with a rush. Many men were on the field the first day, therefore we had lots of fine material to make two good teams.

When the men were on the gridiron they thought of the school that backed them; heard the yells and cheers; with full force they plunged into the fray; the goal was reached and the battle won.

The records show that we were not afraid of any team our size, that we kept 57% of our opponents from getting a score, and that we won 71% of the games. With a Jolly coach the team made a reputation that will be hard to excel.

GIRLS BASKETBALL TEAM

The girls' basketball team of 1922 was one of the best teams which Cameron ever had. The nine girls and the coach, Miss Carl, were very faithful and worked together whole heartedly. The second team was also loyal to the school and practiced with the girls of the first team helping them to perfect their game. Games were played between different classes and groups. These were very close and interesting. The games played with teams of other schools were all in favor of Cameron. The team included all types of girls, long, short, fat and lean. To this fact and the good playing and loyalty of each member we owe our victory.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

The boys taking basketball were organized under the only possible successful plan consistent with the disadvantage that we have. The season opened January 9, with everybody realizing that something had to be done. All the boys were organized into six teams with a responsible leader. They played among themselves under the league system. A record was kept and a summary of it is as follows:

Teams	Won	Lost	Pct.	Teams	Won	Lost	Pct.
Buckwald	6	4	600.	Baxley	6	5	545.
Clyburn	6	4	600.	Morrison	5	6	454.
Merck	4	3	571.	Johnson	3	7	300.

BASEBALL

As the Annual goes to press baseball is under headway, and promises to be a stronger feature in Cameron than in previous years. We intend to have a game with other teams once a week plus a game among ourselves every day.

On Saturday, April 1, we beat Carter Store by a score of 4 to 2.

TENNIS

Tennis has developed very rapidly in the last few years. A tennis club of both boys and girls was organized. We have four good courts and sufficient equipment.

A tennis tournament among ourselves was held last year and there will be another this year.

FOOTBALL GAMES

After two weeks' training we played a practice game with Lawton's second team, winning from them by the score of 42 to 0.

On October 7, we went to Ryan, a long tiresome trip of 65 miles. After 4 minutes of playing Berle Banks our center suffered a fractured limb which prevented him from playing the rest of the season. Ryan made the first touchdown in about 6 minutes of playing. Our chief gains were made by a fake place kick, fake forward passes, and long end runs. The final results of the game were 36 to 26 in our favor.

The next week we went to Walters. The wind was high which made the aerial playing impossible, and made the game hard fought. The game was featured by Sparlin's plunges and Sharp's short end runs. Merck mistook the referee for a runner and turned him on his head.

When Ryan came to Lawton to play the return game, we were in the best of condition. The student body backed us 100%, which helped to make this game an easy victory. Lee was at his best with his 30 yard long end runs.

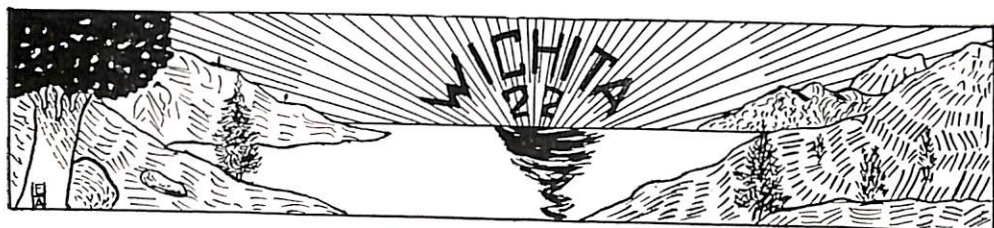

Our game with Mountain View was our easiest victory. The aerial service was the main feature. Merck and Roberts each made a touchdown with a forward pass. At the half Mr. Moss promised the team a feed if they would make the score 40 to 0. Nothing seemed impossible so they came through with the desired number.

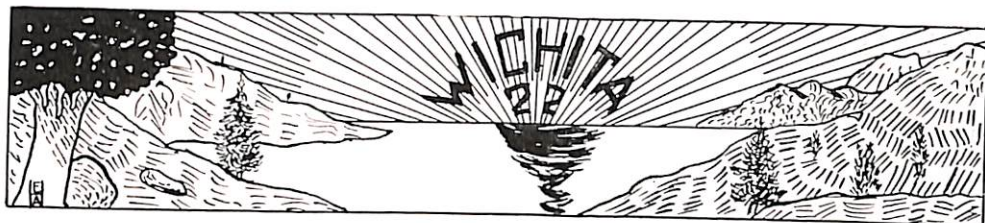

The next week we went to Chickasha with a record of four victories and no defeats. We met our "Waterloo" because we were outclassed in speed, weight and training, but not in grit as was demonstrated when the last quarter proved our game.

After our defeat at Chickasha, Snyder proved an easy victim. It was a bad day so we only played 10 minutes quarters. Pepple and Roberts were out of the game but Ted and Hilbert made up for this. Ted caught a pass for a 60 yard touchdown and Hilbert made four straight tackles. Buck was also going good; he made two out of four touchdowns.

Our turkey-day game was one of our best games although we were the losers. The first of the game was largely an exchange of punts. Pepple went out in the first four minutes. The 100 mile ride seemed to have taken the life out of all of us except "Red", he was in every play. Lee made several good gains but could not go over the line. Our only touchdown came in the last quarter when Merck and Roberts together caught a pass across the goal line.

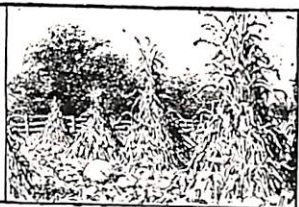

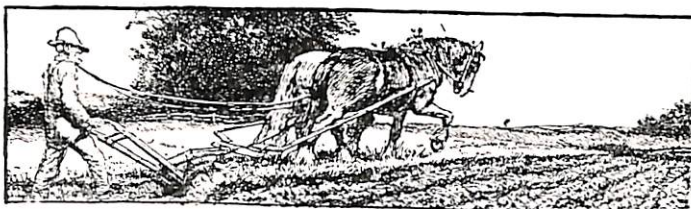

The Hollis boys kept us over night and gave us a weiner roast in the street. We did not feel very bad to lose to such a good and strong team as Hollis.

GIRLS BASKETBALL TEAM.

WYNONA DECKER.

Guard.

Wynona was champion guard at Edmond two years before she came to Cameron. She has shown her ability here and was a loyal supporter of our team.

ZELMA WILLIAMS.

Center.

This is Zelma's second year to play on the team and her last year in school. No one ever put more fight into the game than she, and when she got the ball on the ground no one could take it from her.

ARLETTA ROWELL.

Guard.

Arletta was a guard who worked and meant, "We Will Win". She stood up for her rights and no forward could get around her. This is her second year on the team.

ZELMA MAE BROWN.

Forward.

Zelma Mae's basketball career was a success. This was her first year in Cameron and will be her last, as she entered in the Senior class. She was a forward whose plays the guards could hardly understand.

OLLIE LYNCH.

Center.

Ollie is so tall and has such long arms that she never failed to hit the ball. She was the only Freshman on the team, and has a good chance to make the team three more years.

CLEMMIE WOOD.

Forward.

Clemmie was always in the game and played with the right spirit. She has been loyal to the team for two years and will be for one more.

DOROTHY ROWELL.

Guard.

Dorothy was the business manager of our team and also played guard. When she guarded she meant business. She has played on the team for two years, but graduation takes her from us.

VIRGIA SMITH.

Forward.

Virgia was a faithful worker on the team. She was quick and when once the ball was in her hands it meant two more for Cameron. This is her second year on the team.

ALICE MURPHY.

Center.

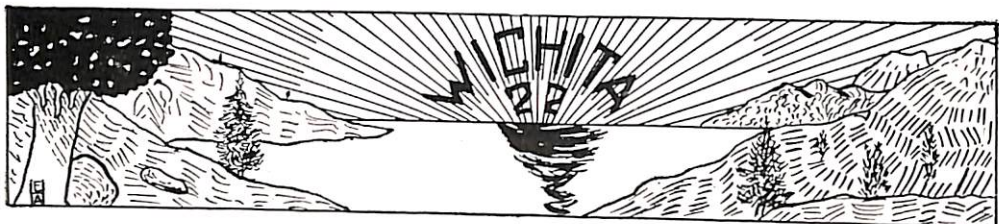

Alice, the Captain of our team, will be with us one more year. She loves basketball and proved it by being always the first one out to practice.

MISS CARL.

Coach.

Miss Carl was loyal to our team and will be remembered by all of us. She made the work pleasant, and we hope she will be with the team next year.

GIRLS TEAM OFF FOR LAWTON.

NOW LET US SING—

When the muses play, (as poets say)
 On vibrant strings
Of the mystic lyre, its chords inspire
 And thoughts take wings.

As legends run, the great god Pan
 Played songs on reeds
And all who heard, their souls were stirred
 To noble deeds.

And when Orpheus played, beneath the shade
 Of an olive tree
His occult powers charmed birds and flowers
 And calmed the sea.

These gods of old with harps of gold
 Are out of date.
Not so the art—it cheers the heart
 And seasons fate.

So if you're blue and friendless too
 You need not fear.
Just sing a song. It won't be long,
 Till skies will clear.

If you're in love and the turtle dove
 Arose and flew,
Don't go and drown or hang around,
 You'll soon come to.

Don't let it show; you're grieving so
 Because you lose.
Go catch a train—forget your pain
 And sing!—the blues.

Where joy is found, concord of sound
 Is always there—
Air castles grow—soft breezes blow
 And banish care.

BOYS AND GIRLS GLEE CLUB.

We realize at Cameron that music is one of the essentials of an education, and that the art should not be monopolized by the select few. Every individual receives music in some form.

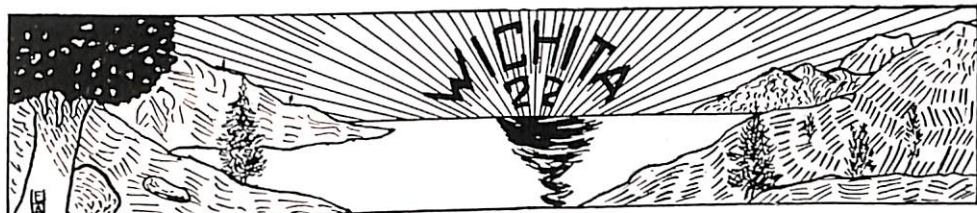

In addition to band, orchestra and private lessons, we have both boys' and girls' glee clubs, and twice a week community singing in which everyone takes part.

RETROSPECTION.

When Seniors finish high-school days,
And parting each go different ways,
There is at parting as in starting,
Some hesitation.

Sometimes they hide their heads and grieve,
When time declares that they must leave,
The active life and routine strife
For education.

Then too there's much to say in praise
Of student life and student ways.
They had their fun, more ways than one—
They lived in clover.

They teased the teachers, killed the cats,
Hid each others' coats and hats;
Then toiled at night by coal oil light,
When day was over.

There's something in the Seniors' style
That makes the under-classmen smile—
That stately air, the Seniors wear
A provocation.

And yet they'd like to take his place.
There's envy written in their face,
When down the aisle the Seniors file
At graduation.

SENSE and NONSENSE

We don't want to buy your dry goods,
We don't like you any more;
You'll be sorry when you see us
Going to some other store.
You can't sell us any sweaters,
Four-in-hands, or any fads,
We don't want to trade in your store
If you don't give us your "ads".

Flora Belle: "While I was home the bed bugs got in my watch and stopped it."

Gerald: "Well, how did a bed bug ever get in your watch?"

Flora Belle: "Between the ticks."

I stood upon the mountain and looked down on the plain;
I saw a lot of green stuff ' and thought twas waving-grain.
I took another look and thought it must be grass.
But oh! upon my horror it was the Freshman Class.

Lives of Seniors all remind us,
We should strive to do our best,
And departing leave behind us
Note-books that will help the rest.

MEDICINE PARK COMPANY

MEDICINE PARK, OKLA.

They met on the bridge at midnight,
They'll never meet again,
For one was a cow east-bound,
The other a west-bound train.

Whenever the teacher gives us questions,
We take them like a man.
Instead of running round the bushes,
We get them if we can.

* * * * *

Retha: "Do you think hairnets attract the men?"

Carrie: "Well, many a poor fish had been caught in a net."

* * * * *

Nona: "I nearly missed Young People's Meeting the other night. Somebody locked the door on me."

Zelma Mae: How did you get out?"

Nona: I thought about having a date with Worth and it made me feel so little I just crawled through the key hole."

* * * * *

Thelma Vinson, to the doctor: "I feel all worn out."

"Too much exercise," said the doctor as he looked at her tongue.

* * * * *

Pickhardt in history: "Roberts, who said 'Give me liberty or give me death'?"

Ralph: "Solomon."

Pickhardt: "What's on your mind?"

Ralph: "I was thinking about Solomon's having 700 wives."

* * * * *

Mr. Moss: "Jolly, what ever led you to be a bachelor?"

Jolly: "Oh!, first one woman and then another."

We give this recipe for making home brew. Chase a bull-frog two miles and gather up the hops, strain it through an I. W. W. sock to keep it from working, add one grasshopper to each pint to give it kick. Consume to slow music.

Loi made a little cake;
Made it all for Harold's sake.
Harold ate crumb by crumb,
Then he heard the Heavenly drum
Saying softly, "Harold come."
And Harold went.

The ones who think our jokes are poor would straight way change their views,

Could they compare the ones we print with those that we refuse.

We don't want to write more poems
For we're sure this is enough,
And if you judge them rightly
And you find they're all quite blue
But should your hopes be blighted
And you find they're all quite blue
We'll see that you're not slighted
By the class of '22.

When the goat has reached its designation
We hope we've filled your expectation,
And as we bid you a fond adieu,
We end the volume of '22.
