"LET her works praise her in the gates."

* * *

"AND if at once we may not
Declare the greatness of the work we plan,
Be sure at least that ever in our eyes
It stands complete before us as a dome
Of light beyond this gloom—a house of stars
Encompassing these dusky tents—a thing
Near as our hearts, and perfect as the heavens.

Be this our aim and model, and our hands
Shall not wax faint, until the work is done."

* * *

"OUR claim must rest upon its justice
And conquer by the power of truth."

"NO, NOT a slave; for you were born to reign.

'Tis a compulsion of a higher sort,
Whose fetters are the net invisible
That hold all life together. Royal deeds
May make long destinies for multitudes,
And you are called to do them.
