

H.M.S. ARGONAUT
BRITISH PACIFIC FLEET
c/o FPO SF CALIF.
29 MARCH 1945

Dear "Prof" Staughton:

Just recently a change of duty came my way quite unexpectedly while on an all to brief leave of Twenty-one days. I did not get chance to get home on my leave but I do consider myself rather lucky in being able to see my wife on the West Coast. However, the fortunes of war are quite unpredictable so here I am once again in the Forward Area after having my "Stateside" sojourn cut very short.

At this time "Prof" I just want to give you my change of address and to let you know that my present duty is that of a U.S. Naval Communications Liaison officer with the British Pacific Fleet. As you can well imagine the duty is very interesting both from a Technical viewpoint and from a purely social aspect of serving with British officers and men. Incidentally my latest travels have taken me to Brisbane and Sydney in Australia and also for a brief visit to India - if this war continues much longer the Far East will be almost as familiar to me as our own Staten Island.

Sorry I must cease so abruptly -

Warmest Regards
Bob

p.s. My address is exactly as shown as the beginning of this letter

B.
