President Voices Support for Marriage Amendment Amidst Vocal Opposition

President George W. Bush threw his ideological weight into the looming battle over the civil rights of gay, lesbian, intersex, and transgender Americans. The National Transgender Advocacy Coalition (NTAC) decries these efforts to destabilize gay and gender-variant families in the hopes of garnering reelection support through religiopolitical bigotry.

In a televised interview with ABC News Primetime's Dianne Sawyer on December 18th, President Bush stated, "If necessary, I will support a constitutional amendment which would honor marriage between a man and a woman, codify that."

The President's reference to the proposed Federal Marriage Amendment (FMA), which has been introduced in both the House and the Senate, brings joy to those who would deny gay, lesbian, intersex and transsexual families the more than 1,000 federal benefits that accrue to heterosexual families. Even with this pronouncement, archconservative organizations such as the Family Research Council still criticized the president for offering any hope of government recognition of same sex family rights. Meanwhile, Bush's actions bring cries of outrage from those who would be victims of constitutional bigotry and discrimination.

"One would expect the President would exhibit more leadership and less tendency to buckle under to extremist elements that make up his party's base," said Vanessa Edwards Foster, Chair of NTAC. "Once again, we're bitterly disappointed." Foster added that the FMA will "throw intersex and transgender citizens' marriages into chaos, and may well deny them the right to marry anyone." "Many moderates in the GOP, and even conservatives like Vice-President Cheney, have voiced their displeasure with taking on such a specious bill," Foster added. "Clearly the knee-jerk right-wing political machine is alive and well and dominating America."

As tensions and rhetoric rise, the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force (NGLTF) has called for volunteers to participate in acts of civil disobedience. A widely distributed NGLTF announcement urges lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender or other fair-minded people willing to engage in direct acts of civil disobedience to e-mail their contact information to the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force at nglftf@nglftf.org in order to be included in planning actions across the country.

President Bush seemed to offer some wiggle room by adding, "Whatever legal arrangements people want to make, they're allowed to make, so long as it's embraced by the state." The proposed Constitutional amendment, however, says that no state law shall be construed to require that marital status or the legal incidents thereof be conferred on unmarried couples or groups.

Although Mr. Bush is not really offering anything to those not included in the heterosexual definition of marriage, Tony Perkins of the Family Research Council wrote, "I am concerned that the President thinks counterfeit institutions such as same-sex unions are OK and do not threaten to devalue the real thing. Counterfeit marriages called 'civil unions' pose a serious threat to the health of our culture, and while the President may believe this is an issue to be resolved at the state level, he should use his moral leadership to steer states away from such culture-threatening unions - not encourage them by showing indifference or political tolerance."

"The Federal Marriage Amendment would undermine United States' Constitution. There is a part seemingly forgotten by those who would deny anyone but themselves rights," stated Jerry McCracken of FTM Informational Network. "How is it that the 'Christian Right' are the only ones allowed civil rights in this day and age? Our forefathers must be turning in their graves at this assault on civil liberties."

"Marriage is a legal agreement more than a religious agreement," added NTAC chair, Foster, "but even considering the religious concept of marriage, why should one faith have precedence over other faiths which have no problem with same-sex unions? Allowing one religion the ability to change the constitution virtually sanctions it as the state-recognized religion."

.....The National Transgender Advocacy Coalition (NTAC)
The FMA is an attempt to make discrimination a guiding principle in the fundamental law of our land, the U.S. Constitution. The purpose of the president's declaration is to appease the uncharitable appetite of his religious right supporters. Organizations like the FRC clearly want no tolerance shown to GLBT families.

In this season of peace, it's time for all Americans - Christians, Jews, Muslims, atheists and pagans, gays, and straights alike - to call for an end to intolerance, and an end to Republican attacks on the family. NTAC urges all Americans to stand up for civil freedom and civil equality. Write and call President Bush, Vice President Cheney, members of Congress, church leaders, anti-gay organizations, and the media and tell them to end prejudice and to end attacks on gay, intersex, and transgender couples and their children. Comments for the president may be called in to (202) 456-1111. Congressional contact information may be obtained at the NTAC website at www.ntac.org

"The President should drop this FMA folly," added NTAC's Foster, "and focus on important issues such as bringing more jobs back to America!"

“Service is to be top priority”

Many of us who tend to do our weekend getaways at the clubs are either flattered or find getting checked for an ID is a nuisance.

I spent one weekend going out as I usually do every Friday in the Omaha area and am use to getting checked for an ID as I am only 23.

For some it is flattering to be checked as it can make you feel young while for others it can be a problem. I have never had trouble at any of the bars until one day I went into the “Joy.” They asked me for my ID which I produced. He then told me my ID was invalid, because of the expiration date so then I handed him my driver’s license that has not expired, but has no picture.

The reason it has no picture is I now live in Omaha and still have a residency in Oklahoma. When you have to renew your driver’s license via mail, because you are out of state they send you a license valid without photo and signature.

The doorkeeper then told me it was not a valid ID. It was not that he could not look at the expired license with the valid one and compare to see that all the information was the same.

After this the doorkeeper proceeded to tell me it was not valid, I told him that state of Oklahoma said it is valid, he then got real snotty and told me that the state of Nebraska does not recognize it, which is actually false. Every state recognizes another states valid driver’s license.

Luckily, I had a Las Vegas sheriff’s card on me and he took that. (Unless he lived in Nevada he probably never had seen one of these ID’s anyway.) Perhaps I should have made a bet with him over ID validity so I could have made some money on the side.

I do not blame the doorkeeper for doing his job. Heck I applaud him in keeping the bar from getting in trouble by letting minor’s in. The issue becomes the way he talked to me. The fact he was loud and obnoxious rather than just saying sorry, this ID would not work.

I never once got an attitude back and just like everyone else I am a paying customer. This doorkeeper should learn he is there to be of service to people; not to have an attitude. Luckily afterward I was able to speak to the owner who assured me he would make sure his doorkeepers would have better training on ID cards.

Perhaps it is in the best interest of any owner of an establishment or a bar to know what is a valid ID and what is not before putting them on the door by themselves. There are books that will show pictures of what all the forms if identification look like. Above and beyond I encourage all who work to remember there is never a need to be obnoxious and to remember when we are doing a job it is about service with a smile.

Massachusetts Gay Marriage Amendment Call Rejected

The state's highest court Tuesday rejected an attempt to force the Legislature to vote on a constitutional amendment to ban gay marriage.

The Supreme Judicial Court held that a single justice of the court was right last year to rule that the Legislature did not have to consider an amendment to the state constitution backed by Massachusetts Citizens for Marriage.

Massachusetts Citizens for Marriage, a Wellesley group, sued to force the secretary of state to deliver the amendment to the Legislature for consideration. But the Supreme Judicial Court said the secretary of state does not have the power to compel a legislative vote.

The anti-gay-marriage group had complained that the Legislature intentionally allowed time to run out on the 2000-2002 session without addressing its proposed constitutional amendment. Then-acting Gov. Jane Swift turned for help to the Supreme Judicial Court, which ruled she did not have to bring the Legislature back to vote on the amendment.

This is the second victory in two months for Massachusetts proponents of gay marriage. In November, the Supreme Judicial Court ruled that the gay marriage cannot be prohibited in Massachusetts. It gave the Legislature 180 days to craft suitable legislation to allow the marriage of gays.

.....will hold auditions for the play Stop Kiss on Monday, January 26 at 7 PM and Tuesday, January 27 at 7 PM at the SNAP! /Shelterbelt Theatre at 3225 California Street, Omaha, NE. Stop Kiss will run Thursdays-Sundays November 13-December 7, 2003.

Lara Marsh is directing this compelling play. The auditions will consist of cold readings from the script. All roles are available. We are looking for 3 men and 3 women.

Stop Kiss is a poignant and funny play about the ways, both sudden and slow, that lives can change irrevocably. After Callie meets Sara, the two unexpectedly fall in love. Their first kiss provokes a violent attack that transforms their lives in a way they could never anticipate.

"There's so much that is vital and exciting about STOP KISS...you want to embrace this young author and cheer her on to other works...the writing on display here is funny and credible...you also will be charmed by its heartfelt characters and up-to-the-minute humor. —NY Daily News. "...irresistibly exciting...a sweet, sad, and enchantingly sincere play. —NY Times.

For further information please contact SNAP! Artistic Director Michael Simpson at 346-1773.

Overheard on the Internet.....

The U.S. Episcopal Church election of its first openly gay bishop in New Hampshire has stirred interesting reactions.

"The actions taken by the New Hampshire Episcopalians are an affront to Christians everywhere. I am just thankful that the church's founder, Henry VIII and his wife Catherine of Aragon, his wife Anne Boleyn, his wife Jane Seymour, his wife Anne of Cleves, his wife Katherine Howard, and his wife Catherine Parr are no longer here to suffer through this assault on traditional Christian marriage."
