Silo and Roy Famous Pair No More

by Tom Musbach

The high-profile breakups of Ellen and Anne, Melissa and Julie and Bob and Rod saddened many fans, but those broken bonds just can't compare to the devastating news about the breakup of Roy and Silo.

The two males had been the poster children for gay penguin love, blazing a trail for other proud penguins, including the six who resisted "reparative therapy" earlier this year in Germany.

Silo and Roy

But the Central Park Zoo celebrities are calling it quits after six years, with reports that Silo has fallen for a female penguin named Scrappy. The same-sex-household wrecker has even begun building a nest with Silo, according to the New York Post.

What a victory for the ex-gay movement. If conservatives can co-opt "The March of the Penguins" as a testament to monogamy, don't be surprised if ex-gays turn Silo into the next John Paulk.

Wayne Besen, author of "Anything But Straight: Unmasking the Scandals and Lies Behind the Ex-Gay Myth," noted a few traits Paulk and the penguin have in common.

"They waddle and had bad relationships with their fathers," Besen said. "Without a masculine figure in his life, [Silo] took up homosexuality."

Many will say Silo and Scrappy just want some privacy so they can start their new heterosexual life in peace, but there's no chance. There will be Newsweek covers, "700 Club" appearances and tearful testimonials.

Kansas Can't Single Out Gay Sex

By JOHN HANNA, Associated Press

TOPEKA, Kan. - Kansas cannot punish illegal underage sex more severely if it involves homosexual conduct, the state's highest court ruled unanimously Friday in a case watched by national groups on both sides of the gay rights debate.

The Supreme Court said in a unanimous ruling that a law that specified such harsher treatment and led to a 17-year prison sentence for an 18-year-old defendant "suggests animus toward teenagers who engage in homosexual sex." "Moral disapproval of a group cannot be a legitimate state interest," said Justice Marla Luckert, writing for the high court.

The defendant, Matthew R. Limon, has been behind bars since he was convicted in 2000 of performing a sex act on a 14-year-old boy. Had one of them been a girl, the state's "Romeo and Juliet" law would have dictated a maximum sentence of 15 months.

The court said Limon should be resentenced within 30 days as if the law treated illegal gay sex and illegal straight sex the same, and it struck language from the law that resulted in the different treatment.

"We are very happy that Matthew will soon be getting out of prison. We are sorry there is no way to make up for the extra four years he spent in prison simply because he is gay," said Limon's attorney James Esseks, of the American Civil Liberties Union's Gay and Lesbian Rights Project.

National health groups and the National Association of Social workers had filed legal arguments supporting Limon's position. A conservative law group, Orlando, Fla.-based Liberty Counsel, helped prepare written arguments from 25 legislators in support of the law.

Limon and the other boy, identified only as M.A.R., lived at a group home for the developmentally disabled. In court, an official described M.A.R. as mildly mentally retarded and Limon as functioning at a slightly higher level but not as an 18-year-old.

My Neighbor Found Out.....

.....her dog could hardly hear, so she took it to the veterinarian. He found that the problem was hair in its ears, so he cleaned both ears and the dog could hear fine. The vet then proceeded to tell the lady that if she wanted to keep this from happening again, she should go to the store and get some "Nair" hair remover and rub it in its ears once a month.

The lady goes to the drug store and gets some "Nair" hair remover. At the register the druggist tells her, "If you're going to use this under your arms, don't use deodorant for a few days." The lady says, "I'm not using it under my arms."

The druggist said, "If you're using it on your legs, don't shave for a couple of days."

The lady says, "I'm not using it on my legs either. If you must know, I'm using it on my schnauzer."

The druggist said, "Stay off your bicycle for a week."

ONE OF THE SIDE BENEFITS OF BEIN' A LOUDMOUTH, I GUESS...

"Attention: Omaha area GLBT homeowners in trouble! There is a solution!"

Candice Zoucha - Omaha, NE

Many Omaha area gay and lesbian homeowners who have had trouble with credit cards and so on have found that there is one place in Omaha where they can be treated with respect.

No "better than you" attitude, no "b.s.", no guilt just for being gay or lesbian.

At last, finding financial help doesn't have to be like a "coming out" at Thanksgiving dinner with everyone pointing fingers, and finding fault.

Mindy Hahne, of Service First Home Mortgage in Omaha's Midtown area works at a GLBT friendly outfit that specializes in helping Omaha area GLBT homeowners in need.

Hahne says she takes great pride in being gay and lesbian friendly. And treating the folks she helps like family.

"A lot of people in the GLBT community don't realize that even without gay marriage, or civil unions, there are already several equal protections in place for gay and lesbians as real property owners! Maybe because no one else wants to tell you about them!" Mindy says.

"Being gay or lesbian doesn't have to be a barrier to equal treatment anymore!" Hahne says.

Hahne has helped many gays and lesbians over the years, many personal friends.

"I am the one person in town that specializes in helping gay and lesbian folks with debt consolidation, cash out, credit repair and so on!" Hahne says.

"These are good people with damaged credit reports and/or hard to prove income! Not through any fault of their own! I specialize in helping the gay and lesbian community get a fair shake from the financial industry!" Hahne says.

Hahne says she has a lot of connections to Wall Street money, "I have personal relationships with investors nationwide, even internationally! Fair-minded people who want to fund loans for people with past credit problems!" she says.

"Many of them have a social conscience! And they take pride in helping gay and lesbians in particular! Just like I do! They use my proprietary system as their own little bit of "social activism!" Hahne says.

These investors are people who buy "pools" of mortgages of 50 million dollars at a whack! 50 million bucks! It's taken me 4 long years and it's been really hard to find these "fat cats!" People who are "like-minded" about what I do for the Omaha gay and lesbian community!" Mindy says.

"Not only is it illegal to discriminate against the GLBT community, it's just plain wrong!" Hahne says. "The self-limiting perceptions held by some in the community are just as much of a problem as the crooked people who perpetrate the discriminatory practices themselves!" she says.

Hahne says, "It's my personal mission to change the mindsets! And to liberate everyone from the restraints!"

"I grew up in a house where we didn't have much money! And my parents understood just how money really works even less! Nowadays, it's a lot of fun for me to help people get control over their money and their lives!" Mindy says.

Mindy Hahne can be reached at 934.9248 x1010. "I'm really busy, so those who don't get a live answer from me need to leave a detailed message and then give me at least 24 business hours to return the call!" Silo and Roy... Continues from Front Page

"The ex-gay ministries are very excited about this," Besen said. "An anonymous source tells me that James Dobson called Silo and signed him up for a zoological 'Love Won Out' tour."

Gay activists like Besen will also watch Silo's every move, hoping to photograph him at a known gay watering hole.

The Central Park Zoo will become the new ground zero in the culture wars, with the ubiquitous vultures from the Rev. Fred Phelps' Westboro Baptist Church stopping by to remind the world just how much "God hates penguin fags."

Gay author and neuroanatomy expert Simon LeVay had a different take on Silo's "conversion."

"Bisexuality is a lot commoner than homosexuality in the animal kingdom," he said. "Maybe even commoner than heterosexuality, depending on how you look at it. Our close relatives the bonobos are a case in point -- rampant polymorphous perversity."

It goes without saying, however, that Focus on the Family and the Traditional Values Coalition are anti-bonobo.

With no end of the nastiness and manipulations in sight, LGBT fans will find a measure of healing when Roy finally agrees to tell his side of the story on "The Ellen DeGeneres Show."

Miss Susan Advises Judge Traditional

The following is an adaptation from Miss Susan's Etiquette Tips for the Socially Conscious Judge: A Guide to Honorable Conduct Toward Gays and Lesbians in the Courtroom, originally published in the St. Louis University Public Law Review in the Spring of 2005. The entire article will be published in the Gayzette in serial form over the next several issues by special arrangement with the law firm of Koenig & Tiritilli, P.C., L.L.O.

Dear Miss Susan,

Last week, Mr. P. and Mr. C., two gay men, came into my courtroom and asked me to change both their last names to Faerie. Not only that, but Mr. P. wanted to change the last name of his six-year-old son, Harry, as well. I have reviewed the name change laws for my state, and I know that I must refuse a name change if it is intended to perpetrate a fraud on the community. I think it is fraudulent for them to hold themselves out as a family because gay marriage isn't recognized in my state. Naturally, I was forced to deny their petition. They must think they need special rights or something because they filed an appeal with the state supreme court. Should I be worried about a reversal?

Love,
Judge Traditional

Dear Judge Traditional,

My crystal ball is a little cloudy today, but when I gaze into your future, I get the distinct impression that you could be overruled on appeal. Of course, I'm not a judge, so I can't rely solely on mysticism to support my opinions. Perhaps what we both need here is some clarity.

Your understanding of the law appears to be basically sound. Most jurisdictions prevent a person from changing his or her name for fraudulent purposes. Most jurisdictions also refuse to extend marriage rights to gay and lesbian couples. I suspect, however, that you may have mixed up these two propositions of law when you ruled on the gay couple's name change petition.

I hope it may give you some small comfort to know that you're not the only judge who confuses name change petitions with marriage licenses. In a recent New Jersey case, In re Bacharach, a lesbian petitioned the court to hyphenate her last name to include the name of her life partner. The trial judge was concerned that members of the public would mistakenly believe that the women were legally married. He felt that even the slightest "imprimatur" of legitimizing a same-sex relationship would violate public policy, so he denied the petition.

The Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court saw the case differently. The court noted that it is improper for judges to impose personal views on public policy when presiding over a name change proceeding. (In a rare moment of modesty, the court admitted that "judges have no monopoly on wisdom, no clairvoyance into the public mind and no right to impose personal views or values on the citizenry of our state.") Even if public policy were relevant, the court found that there was no public policy that would prevent same-sex partners from sharing a hyphenated surname.

Focusing on the heart of the trial judge's objection to the proposed name change, the court correctly pointed out that the legality of gay marriage was not at issue in Bacharach. Dismissing the trial judge's concerns about public confusion over the issue as "farfetched and inherently discriminatory," the court went on to state that arguments equating a name change with the legalization of gay marriage were "specious." The court then held that the proposed name change was not for fraudulent purposes and directed the trial judge to grant the petition.

The Bacharach opinion proved to be quite persuasive, and the reasoning was adopted by courts in New York, Ohio, and Pennsylvania in cases with nearly identical facts. My crystal ball notwithstanding, this emerging trend in name-change law is what leads me to believe that your case might be reversed on appeal. The lesson here is that name changes and marriages are entirely separate matters. Do your best to keep them straight in the future.

Before I close, I want to address one other concern. I sense that you harbor a deep-seated disapproval of same-sex couples who "masquerade" as families by adopting the same surname. I would just challenge you to open your mind to the possibility that they really are a family. Same-sex couples often regard a name change as a method of publicly expressing their commitment to each other. A married person who adopts his or her spouse's name is probably motivated by similar concerns. If you look closely, I'm sure you'll find evidence of other similarities between same-sex couples and other families.

Very truly yours,
Miss Susan

FISH CAN'T FLY

NOV. 12, 7PM
 MCC OMAHA

The trailblazing documentary Fish Can't Fly is back by popular demand. This documentary features interviews with people who have struggled to reconcile their spirituality and their sexuality, including some who survived the Ex-Gay movement. You will see the Ex Gay movement exposed for the travesty that it is and you will meet people who now proclaim their faith and belief as gay and lesbian Christians. Ex-Gay? No Way! Join us for a repeat showing of Fish Can't Fly at MCC-Omaha, 819 South 22 Street, at 7pm on Saturday, November 12.

CAUTION.....IDIOTS AT WORK

I was signing the receipt for my credit card purchase when the clerk noticed I had never signed my name on the back of the credit card. She informed me that she could not complete the transaction unless the card was signed.

When I asked why, she explained that it was necessary to compare the signature I had just signed on the receipt. So I signed the credit card in front of her. She carefully compared the signature to the one I had just signed on the receipt. As luck would have it, they matched.

*Kansas Law Story...

Limon's attorneys described the relationship with the younger boy as consensual and suggested that they were adolescents experimenting with sex.

Attorney General Phill Kline's office has described Limon as a predator, noting that he already has two similar offenses on his criminal record. Kline contended that such a behavior pattern warranted a tough sentence and that courts should leave sentencing policy to the Legislature.

His office had no immediate comment on the ruling.

Kansas law prohibits any sexual activity involving a person under 16, regardless of the context. The 1999 "Romeo and Juliet" law specifies short prison sentences or probation for sexual activity when an offender is under 19 and the age difference between participants is less than four years — but only for opposite-sex encounters.

A lower court had said the state could justify the harsher punishment as protecting children's traditional development, fighting disease or strengthening traditional values.

Friday's ruling said the Kansas law was too broad to meet those goals.

"The statute inflicts immediate, continuing and real injuries that outrun and belie any legitimate justification that may be claimed for it," Luckert wrote.

A New Brain

SNAP! Productions is pleased to present A New Brain, November 17 - December 11, 2005 at 3225 California Street. There will be no show on Thanksgiving. Curtain times are 8:00 pm, Thursday, Friday and Saturday; 6:00 pm on Sundays. The theater opens a 45 minutes before curtain time. Reservations may be made by calling 402-341-2757 or on the SNAP! website: www.snapproductions.com. Tickets are $15.00, general admission; $12.00, students, senior citizens, and TAG members. The November 20, 2005 performance will be sign language interpreted for the hearing impaired.

A NEW BRAIN takes us on a surreal semiautobiographical tour of a songwriter's struggle to find meaning in his life when confronted with the possibility of terminal illness. As the songwriter fights to survive, he's supported by his lover and his neurotic best friend, doted on by his very Jewish mother, surrounded by disgruntled nurses, animated hospital staff and tormented by a sadistic frog, who is his employer. Ultimately, the songwriter finds salvation in art and music and the people around him, allowing us to see that humor and joy coexist in our darkest moments. An old story perhaps, but one that A New Brain tells with a sense of humor and generosity that lift the show and our spirits at the same time. A New Brain is musical medicine from the heart meant to inspire and encourage-and that is just what it does.
