Massachusetts Lawmakers Propel Gay Marriage Ban

In a suspense-filled final day of the legislative session, Massachusetts lawmakers kept alive a proposed constitutional amendment Tuesday that would stop gay marriage in the only state that allows same-sex couples to wed.

The vote came after weeks of mounting legal and political pressure on legislators from both sides in the debate.

With a combination of parliamentary maneuvering, flip-flopping and brinkmanship, lawmakers gave the first round of approval necessary for the amendment to appear on the ballot in 2008. The measure still needs the endorsement of the next legislative session.

If the amendment makes it onto the ballot and residents approve it, it will leave Massachusetts' 8,000 existing same-sex marriages intact but ban any new ones.

"This is democracy in action. It's not a vengeance campaign. It's not a hate campaign. It's just an opportunity for the people to vote," said Kris Mineau of the Massachusetts Family Institute.

If lawmakers had failed to act on the amendment Tuesday, the measure would have died, and opponents of same-sex marriage who collected 170,000 signatures to try to put the issue on the ballot would have had to start over.

The pressure on lawmakers came from all sides. Gay rights activists and Democratic Gov.-elect Deval Patrick called on the Legislature to let the measure die without a vote. Gay rights opponents -- and Massachusetts' highest court -- urged an up-or-down vote.

The state Supreme Judicial Court -- the same court that ruled in 2003 that same-sex couples have a constitutional right to marry -- declared last week that lawmakers had shirked their constitutional duties by refusing to vote on an amendment submitted by the people. But the justices acknowledged they had no authority to force action.

To advance to the next round, the amendment needed the approval of only 50 of the 200 members of the Legislature. On Tuesday, 61 lawmakers voted in favor, while 132 were opposed.

A few hours later, the lawmakers agreed to reconsider. But then they largely affirmed the original result, with 62 voting in favor of the amendment.

Earlier in the day, the governor-elect, who supports same-sex marriage, met with the leaders of the Democratic-controlled Legislature to argue against a vote, calling it a "question of conscience."

Patrick charged that the amendment process was being used to "consider reinserting discrimination into the constitution."

"This is not just another question for popular decision. This is a question, under the equal protection clause, about what freedoms the minority is entitled to," Patrick said.

Patrick takes the oath of office Thursday. His predecessor, Gov. Mitt Romney, a Republican who is considering a run for president, opposes same-sex marriage.

On Tuesday, crowds of marriage equality supporters and opponents returned to the Statehouse to press lawmakers on the issue.

Proponents of the amendment stood at the foot of the Statehouse steps with signs reading "Let the People Vote."

"Legislators are sent to Beacon Hill to vote on a matter, not to not vote on a matter," said one of the sign holders, Paul Ferro, 30.

Opponents of the amendment stood on the opposite side of the street, in front of a Civil War memorial, with their own banners. "Let the people marry," read one.

A person on the pro-equality side held a sign that read, "Start Acting Like Christians." An opponent yelled from across the street, "We are Christians, just like you!"

In November, seven states approved marriage bans, joining 20 that had done so in previous elections.

Other states are moving in the opposite direction. New Jersey's gay men and lesbians gained new rights last week when the state legalized same-sex civil unions there. Vermont and Connecticut also allow civil unions. (Steve LeBlanc, AP)

MCC-Omaha Church Elects Pastor from Colorado

Rev. Thomas Emmett, 34, of Colorado has been elected Senior Pastor of the Metropolitan Community Church of Omaha (MCC-O). Rev. Emmett, an openly gay man, seeks to grow the church and identify new and innovative ways in which MCC-O can serve the larger gay and lesbian community in Omaha.

Worship services are at 11am every Sunday morning and are open to everyone. Rev. Emmett will assume the pulpit full time beginning February 1.

Nebraska's first gay and lesbian organization, MCC-O is a Christian community consisting largely, but not exclusively, of LGBT people. We seek to bring the message of God's love to LGBT people and our heterosexual allies who may have said, "I'll never walk into a church again."

At MCC we believe in God's unconditional and inclusive love—absolutely no exceptions. Everyone is loved by God. LGBT people are an intentional part of God's creation, which God has called "Good!"

Contrary to the teachings of Jesus, Christianity has a long history of marginalizing, alienating, and discriminating against LGBT people. Many LGBT people have felt spiritually terrorized.

At MCC-O, LGBT people are in the majority, rather than a disenfranchised minority. At MCC everyone is "free to be me." In this progressive, diverse and joyful community, there is a place for everyone. We gladly welcome and affirm our heterosexual sisters and brothers to worship and struggle with us.

MCC-O proudly and boldly proclaims that marriage is for everyone—gay and straight alike. Most Christian churches will not marry gay and lesbian people; others are content to perform separate yet unequal ceremonies (reserving "marriage" for heterosexuals) and still others will only "bless" a relationship.

Together the congregation of MCC-O and Rev. Emmett will work to live the gospel, have fun, challenge the status quo, serve the community, build the church, and fight injustice.

A Twisted View on 'Flaunting' Gay Identity

BY LEONARD PITTS JR.
MiamiHerald.com

Today's topic: flaunting homosexuality.
Exhibit A: Doogie.

Meaning Neil Patrick Harris, who, in another life, was the title character in Doogie Howser, M.D., the tale of a boy genius who becomes a doctor. Recently, Harris was outed on a gossip website. His response in a statement to people.com said in part:

"I am happy to dispel any rumors or misconceptions and am quite proud to say that I am a very content gay man living my life to the fullest."

That was it. No muss, no fuss. The world continued spinning, the seas did not boil and the clouds did not bleed.

Still, one suspects that the news was greeted less than warmly in those bastions of social conservatism where, as one gentleman indicates in the new movie Borat: Cultural Learnings of America for Make Benefit Glorious Nation of Kazakhstan, they hope to make it legal to string homosexuals up by the soft parts. Indeed, one suspects that the most -- pardon my language -- liberal response in those parts would be something along the lines of, "Fine, he's gay. Why couldn't he keep that to himself? Why do they have to flaunt it? I don't go around announcing that I'm straight!"

PERCEPTIONS OF FLAUNTING

Put aside that Harris was forced into his announcement by an individual who called him out online. Put aside, too, the fact that one "flaunts" one's heterosexuality whenever one publicly canoodles with a sweetie of the opposite gender.

Concentrate, instead, on this notion many social conservatives have that homosexuality is best dealt with by being ignored, denied, kept from public view. Why, they ask, in letters to editors and websites done up in red, white and blue, must homosexuals "flaunt" their "deviant behavior"? "Flaunt" meaning to acknowledge in any way, no matter how small, their sexual orientation.

Which brings us to Ted Haggard. Until earlier this month, he was senior pastor of New Life Church in Colorado Springs and president of the National Association of Evangelicals, an influential preacher who had George Bush's ear. Neither the church nor the NAE has been known for its friendliness toward gay people. So there was quite an uproar when Mike Jones, a gay prostitute, dropped the bombshell allegation that he'd had a three-year sexual relationship with the preacher. Haggard initially denied even knowing Jones but then recanted, admitting that, on at least one occasion, he sought a massage and bought meth from the gay hooker.

On Nov. 2, Haggard stepped down from the NAE presidency. Two days later, his church fired him. He has confessed to "sexual immorality" and will spend the next three to five years in "restoration," a process that reportedly involves confrontation, counsel and -- you can't make this stuff up -- rebuke from "godly men."

Homeowner Alert!

Former Bank Auditor Says...

“Credit Card Users Are Paying Too Much...”

—Free Report Shows Omaha Gay and Lesbian Community How To Save Thousands Of Dollars On Unnecessary Interest Payments.

Homeowners with substantial credit card debts are missing important savings opportunities by failing to act immediately. Unknown to most financial planners and CPA's, this free consumer report reveals how to save thousands in unnecessary interest payments and finance charges.

“Unbelievable”, said one homeowner. “I can't believe how this simple little trick is able to save me thousands of dollars a year.” Banks and credit card companies hope you never read this report because they want to keep charging you interest on a balance that will take more than 30 years to pay off. Consumers have been fooled by offers of low teaser rates to induce them to transfer balances, only to see their rate double or triple a few months later. This report explains how to avoid being tricked by the tactics of these large banks and credit card companies and how to turn the table so you get the interest, not them.

NOTE: The revised version of this report was recently released and the response has been overwhelming. A toll-free 24hr/day recorded message hotline has been set up to handle the expected volume, but you are urged to call right away. Quantities are limited. Call 1-800-475-9610...press option 1...ext 8605, leave your name and address, and the report will be mailed to you.

Kyle's Bed & Breakfast by Greg Fox

YOU NEVER TALK MUCH ABOUT YOUR FAMILY.

NOT MUCH TO TELL KYLE.

MY MOTHER SPLIT WHEN I WAS FIVE TO BE A ROLLING STONES GROUPIE... AND MY FATHER WAS AN ABUSIVE IDIOT.

THANK GOD I HAD A STEP-MOTHER WHO WAS A SAINT.

WHEN YOU SAY YOUR FATHER WAS ABUSIVE...

IT WASN'T SEXUAL. BUT IT WAS STILL...
...BAD.

HOW BAD? WHAT CAN I SAY? MY DAD WAS A LOUSY DRUNK.

HE WANTED TO BE A BOXER WHEN HE WAS YOUNGER.

BUT HE PISSED AWAY HIS CHANCES AT THAT IN A SCUMMY TORONTO BAR.

THAT ALWAYS FRUSTRATED HIM.

SO HE TOOK OUT HIS FRUSTRATION BY USING ME FOR BOXING PRACTICE.

IN CASE YOU'RE WONDERING... A DRUNKEN, MIDDLE-AGED MAN AGAINST A SEVEN-YEAR OLD KID, WELL...

...IT ISN'T EXACTLY AN EVEN MATCH.

BREYER... I'M SO SORRY! HOW DID YOU EVER MAKE IT THROUGH THAT?

I PLAYED HOCKEY.

I GOT BIG... AND STRONG. UNTIL I WAS ABLE TO PUT THAT SON OF A BITCH IN HIS PLACE.

IT'S ONE OF THE REASONS I MOVED DOWN TO THE STATES... I DIDN'T WANT TO LIVE IN THE SAME COUNTRY AS THAT BASTARD.

BUT, DON'T WORRY, KYLE.

ABOUT WHAT?

ME. EVER HURTING YOU. THE VIOLENCE STOPS WITH MY FATHER. I WOULD NEVER HURT YOU.

I KNOW YOU WOULDN'T.

I'M A PEACEFUL PERSON. I CAN'T EVEN WATCH BOXING MATCHES ANYMORE.

WHAT ABOUT HOCKEY?

THAT'S DIFFERENT.

HOW SO?

I CONSIDER THAT THERAPY ON ICE.

UM... O.K....

VASELINE

A man doing market research for the Vaseline Company knocked at the door and was greeted by a young woman with three small children running around at her feet.

"I'm doing some research for Vaseline. Have you ever used the product?"

She said, "Yes. My husband and I use it all the time."

"If you don't mind my asking," he said, "what do you use it for?"

"We use it for sex," she said.

The researcher was a little taken aback.

"Usually people lie to me and say they use it on a child's bicycle chain, or to help with a gate hinge. But, in fact, I know that most people do use it for sex. I admire you for your honesty."

Since you've been so frank so far, can you tell me exactly "how" you use it for sex?"

The woman said, "I don't mind telling you at all. My husband and I put it on the doorknob and it keeps the kids out."

TWO QUESTIONS TO CONSIDER

This all raises two questions. One: Between this guy, the late gay-bashing former Spokane mayor, James West, Pat Robertson biographer Mel White, and Michael Bussee and Gary Cooper, leaders in the "curing homosexuality" movement until they fell in love with one another, can't we now safely assume that any conservative who rants about the homosexual agenda is a lying hypocrite gayer than a Castro Street bar?

And, two: Wouldn't you much rather be Neil Patrick Harris than Ted Haggard just now? In other words, wouldn't you rather be a content gay man living life to the fullest, than a closeted gay hypocrite living lies to the fullest? Especially since lies are so frequently found out.

That's the fallacy social conservatives miss. In a culture that allows gay people room to be gay people, there is no need of lies. In a culture that does not -- i.e., theirs -- lies are rampant. And that's unfortunate, not simply for the person in question, but for all the people in his or her life.

And here, I'm thinking of Gayle Alcorn. She and Haggard have five children. They've been married 28 years. That's a long time to sleep next to a lie.

I bet she wishes he had "flaunted" his homosexuality a long time ago.

Center Movie Fan Night Tuesday January 16th

Are you a movie fan? Well, don't sit home and be bored. Come enjoy a great free movie at the GLBT Center! Join us on Tuesday January 16, 2007, at the Rainbow Outreach Metro Omaha GLBT Center, 1719 Leavenworth. The GLBT Center opens at 6:30pm and the movie starts at 7:30pm. Popcorn and beverages will be provided. The movie selection is: Bear Cub (running time approx. 95 minutes).

An amusing and touching film about reinterpreting the idea of "family," Bear Cub tells the engaging story of Pedro (Jose Luis Garcia-Perez), a charming and attractive gay dentist living an active single life in Madrid. He offers to take care of his adorable 9-year-old nephew Bernardo (the remarkable David Castillo) for two weeks while the child's mother travels abroad with her latest "hippie" boyfriend. When Mom suddenly becomes detained in India, however, Pedro must become the boy's caretaker. And to further complicate matters, the boy's grandmother begins a custody battle for the child. Never overly sentimental or sensational, director Miguel Albaladejo (Manolito Four-Eyes) has crafted a funny and charming audience pleaser that inspired the Chicago Tribune to proclaim the film "striking and refreshing."

We'll see you at the GLBT Center Tuesday, January 16!

Gays in the Military: What's the Deal?

How typical

Mike McManus

"When I was in the military they gave me a medal for killing two men and a discharge for loving one." - Epitaph of Leonard P. Matlovich, 1988

The "Don't ask, don't tell" policy has been in place since Bill Clinton signed it in 1993. Since then, over 10,000 soldiers, sergeants and officers have been discharged due to their sexuality.

This policy is in fact the only law in America that authorizes the firing of an American for simply being gay. Not only is this an embarrassment for those being fired but a bigger embarrassment and shame to our country that is doing it.

To its credit, the U.S. Armed Forces is known for leading the rest of the country in most human rights campaigns. It eliminated the racial bar against African-Americans when many organizations still discriminated heavily. It accepted women as equals to men and learned that they could complete and were able to accomplish any tasks assigned. However, the armed forces are in a stand still over the matter of sexual orientation.

This is where I ask myself the question, "Why?" I hardly doubt that my sexuality would determine how well I shoot a gun, or how true I could be to my country. What are they afraid of? Is the fact that I prefer the intimate company of a man over a woman something that affects my patriotism to my country? I hardly doubt it; if anything this proves the lack of patriotism my country has for its people.

In the past, gays and lesbians were not permitted in any of the armed forces of the world. Fortunately for them, most countries have abandoned their anti-gay policies in recent years. Among these countries are Austria, Australia, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Germany, Ireland, Israel, Japan, the Netherlands, Norway, Spain, Sweden and the UK. The most-known hold out? Well, it's the land of the free: the USA.

The concept behind "Don't ask, don't tell" is to give "a decent regard for the legitimate privacy and associational rights of all service members."

The U.S. knew it would be frowned upon when it was one of few countries that still banned gays from the military, so the policy was put in place to hopefully create a positive reaction. Thankfully the reaction was not to the favor of the U.S., and for good reason.

Under the Don't ask, don't tell policy, "homosexuals in the military are often cut off from counseling, and other mental health services because physicians, psychologists, and others are not required to keep confidential any conversations they have during therapy."

Some therapists and doctors routinely report gay and lesbians they find to their commanding officers for investigation, creating fear in the rest who are still fighting. Many gays and lesbians who are the victims of harassment or assault never dare report the incidents out of fear of being ejected from the military. This makes homosexuals prime targets for hate crimes by the soldiers our nation sends to defend us.

The Boston Globe recently sponsored a national poll covering such issues as homosexuals in the military. It polled 760 American adults and found that 79 percent of the subjects felt that gays and lesbians should be able to serve in the military. The Globe also reported that "large majorities of Republicans, regular churchgoers and people with negative attitudes toward gays think gays and lesbians should be allowed to serve openly in the military."

I don't think there is much more to say about the issue of gays in the military, because frankly, I don't think it should be an issue at all.

One's sexual orientation is no reflection of their courage. Those who fight for freedom shouldn't face discrimination from the government they protect. Ultimately, the military should be promoting honesty among its service members, not secrecy.

The "Don't ask, don't tell" policy needs to be done away with for many reasons. With our nation at war it is imperative to have the best and brightest fighting for freedom. We need the most qualified and competent people defending us, regardless of their sexual orientation. U.S. soldiers actually already serve with openly gay service members from other countries. This joint service has created no problems for American personnel. The British military, our strongest ally in Iraq, has openly gay service members working alongside American forces, with no problems at all.

Thirteen years and over 10,000 discharges later I don't think it's wrong for me to say that something needs to be changed. Never should anyone have the right to refuse service or employment to an individual because of the person they love, especially the government.

I briefly dated an individual who was involved in the military. Things were great and I thought we had something special, but it all ended. He said he had too much to lose, and didn't want to jeopardize his future with the armed forces. He has since ignored the person he truly is to serve a country that chooses to ignore the people like me that he once truly loved.
