"All the world's a stage.

And all the men and women merely players; They have their exits and their entrances: And one man in his time plays many parts, His acts being seven ages.

And then the whining school

With his satchel and shining morning face, Creeping like a snail unwilling to school." We, the students of Niles North, are now performing in Act Two of the play which we call Life. Each of us must go through this stage, learning the lines required of us and improvising where necessary. Though the ultimate success or failure of the play cannot be accurately determined until the final curtain has been drawn, our actions now form the basis for our future roles.

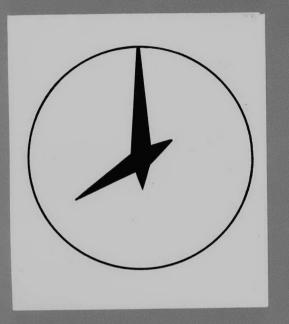

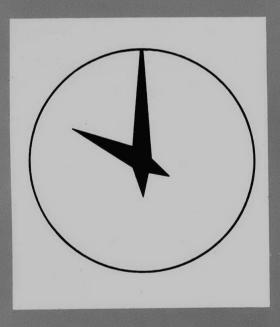

Like a dull actor now, I have forgot my part, and I am out, Even to a full disgrace.

ACT II

Scene i. Setting: A hall at Niles North. Curtain rises. A teacher and a student are standing in the middle of the hall.

Teacher: Students taking courses on a pass/fail basis seldom put in as much effort as students who take the course for a grade.

Student: I can see your point . . . Narrator: Students and teachers see eye to eye on many issues

(Curtain falls)

Scene ii. Setting: Remains the same. Curtain rises. A teacher is stopping a student who has been walking down the hall.

- Teacher: May I see your I.D. please? Student: Why? What have I done? I can still hear the music playing.
- Narrator: . . . but not on all. (Curtain falls)

The actors come and go, but the stage lives on.

ENGLISH

English courses are geared to develop the student's skill and understanding of the many facets of the English language. A variety of courses offered in the English department ranged from literature courses such as American Novels Between the Wars to courses in human culture such as Humanities. This year a course entitled Science Fiction was offered for the very first time.

"The main thing that I like about our English department is its diversity. I have been able to take the courses that I really need and also the ones that I am the most interested in." — Judy Thomas

By sponsoring activities throughout the school year, class boards were able to make enough money for their own purposes.

Freshman Class Board held a bake sale and a turnabout dance, of which both were successful. Afterwards the board donated the money to a given charity.

Co-chairpersons of Sophomore Class Board Lori Schaffel and Robbi Lustig felt that class board tried to make school a place to enjoy and participate in high school activities. Sophomore Class Board sponsored the annual Sophomore Class Board Carnival.

A dance marathon, sock hop and a school spirit week were some of the ways Junior Class Board raised money for the annual junior-senior prom, which they sponsored.

Senior Class Board had many sales, including one for Valentines Day carnations. They also had other activities such as concerts, including one with Allyotta, Haynes Jermiah.

Forensics

If it's an interesting subject, the members of Forensics have probably talked about it. They can make any subject informative and exciting. Students compete against different schools and speak on certain topics. A few of the categories of discussion are; prose reading, radio speaking, verse reading, and oratorical declamation. "Forensics is a powerful tool for experience, for the learning and for the fun of it. It is a tool which drives some to win, some to aspire and some to drink." —Rob Frankel

The National Forensics League is an honorary society composed of students who have made a certain number of points at the Forensics meets. Students get points by placing at the meets.

Concert Band

Under the direction of Dr. Lawrence Wathen, Northi's concert band performed marching routines during home football games. In formation with the Vikettes, the band played music for their pom-pom routines. The concert band also performed at home basketball games.

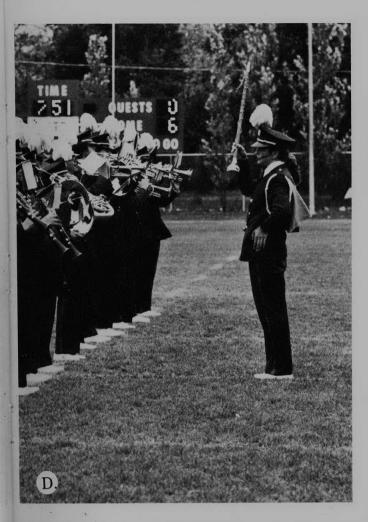

Working toward perfection, the concert band met as a class for three mods everyday. During this time they practiced diligently and ignored the bitter weather as they marched outdoors.

Intermediate Band

Four of the more musically orientated clubs at Niles North included the Intermediate Band, Orchestra, Chamber Choir and German Band.

Meeting as a class, both Intermediate Band and Orchestra were considered to be major academic subjects. During the year, each group performed in two outstanding concerts. "Intermediate Band helps to develop a person's natural musical talents."—David Blachman.

Chamber Choir was a very talented singing group which performed both with and without the members of the other music department clubs.

The German Band's purpose was to learn and master music from Germany. This provided an insight into that country's culture.

Students who wished to learn about the intricate world of business joined together and formed the Future Business Leaders of America. Their main goal was to discover what a general business practice requires.

Auroris

Girls interested in modern dance formed the club, Auroris. At first the club met once a week, but when it got nearer to "show time" the girls met twice a week. They presented a dance show in April. Sophomore member Cheryl Johnson said "we experimented with different styles at first and then for the show we picked our own music and choreographed our own numbers."

Again remaining a large and busy club, GAA (the Girls' Athletic Association) sponsored coed nights and other activities for NN students. They were not able to have their usual GAA overnighter because of lack of supervision.

Once again officiating at boys' and girls' sports were the Timers. They timed for such activities as boys' and girls' swimming, girls' volleyball and others. Many new members joined the club. The girls held candy sales to raise money.

Membership eligibility to join N Club at Niles North was open to those boys who had earned at least one major varsity letter in any given sport. The basic objective of the club was to gather the varsity athletic programs together and work toward a major goal of raising school spirit. The boys attended various athletic activities together throughout the year. "This year N Club is aiming toward a goal of earning enough money so that we can attend a weekend at a Dude Ranch." —Steve Friedrichs

Teaching and learning at the same time was the goal of the senior P.E. Leaders. Having been trained in sophomore and junior years, the boys and girls who attained the level of senior leaders were the most outstanding students in the physical education department. Having students assist teachers in their classes was the idea of the program.

"Mame", "76 Trombones" and "Sweet Georgia Brown" were just a few of the songs that this year's Vikettes made up routines to. The Vikettes performed during pep assemblies, all home football games and some home basketball games. Hard work at practice sessions, three days a week, gave the Vikettes a polished effect. Aiding the Vikettes was Mrs. Monica Delrahim, their sponsor.

The 1974-75 Vikettes also had to collaborate with Dr. Larry Wathen, band coordinator, who plays their music. The varsity squad attended cheerleading camp over the summer and brought back to Northi a new style of cheerleading. Still using precision timing, they introduced a freer style of cheering.

"There's no rule in the book that says that cheerleaders should only cheer for winning teams. We've backed Northi teams and have tried to instill our school spirit in other students." — Cara Taussig, Kathy Ledvora.

Freshman Cheerleaders

Cheerleading clinics were held at the end of September and the twelve freshman girls that were to represent Niles North were chosen. The girls divided into two squads of six each that alternated cheering for frosh A and B teams.

The squads held practice once a week under the direction of Miss Maralyn Kempf. ## Carnival provides excitement for all

Stuffed animals, balloons, and goldfish were some of the many attractions at the annual carnival sponsored by the Sophomore Class Board.

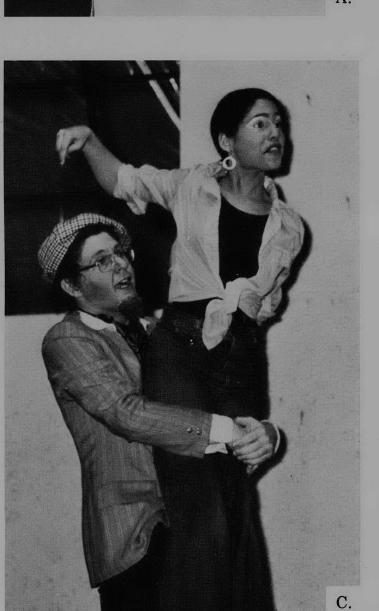

Proving to be a great moneymaker for various school clubs, organizations and groups of friends, the carnival showed the hard work and effort that was put forth. Original and creative booth ideas ranged from singing with a mouth full of peanut butter and crackers to shooting at candles with a squirt gun.

Participants at the carnival included students as well as members of the community. Parents and children tried their luck at the different booths. Summing up her evening, Vicky Siegel said, "The carnival was a great way to spend a Saturday night."

Play displays warmth, humor

"Barefoot in the Park," written by Neil Simon is a realistic comedy about the problems a newlywed couple living in a New York apartment encountered.

The production, under the direction of senior Lynn Chausow, consisted of a small cast of five characters who worked diligently during evenings.

Senior Ben Donenberg, who characterized Paul, claimed, "What I enjoyed most was being able to use my creativity in a comedy role and making people laugh."

Although the turnouts were not that large, it was evident that "Barefoot in the Park" was a success. The efforts of the actors were well spent as they easily brought out the fun and warmth of the play.

Homecoming stirs school interest

Cries of "Push Maine Westward," were heard throughout the festivities of Homecoming '74. This year senior Judy Coheń was the homecoming director.

Chairwomen came up with many new ideas to ignite spirit. During school, a skit was performed by chairwomen, committee members, and football players. To inspire greater participation and enthusiasm, an effigy was built.

According to chairwoman Lynn Kaplan, "Much involvement was displayed by the many students working on the effigy." During the pep rally, members of the faculty and students demonstrated their spirit. Excited students attempted to rip the Maine West Warrior apart.

Always an important part of the festivities is float building. Working together, students were able to express creative ideas as well as cultivate new friendships.

Pep Assembly promotes spirit

Homecoming '74 held an extra special meaning to many at Northi. It commemorated the tenth anniversary of Niles North's first homecoming.

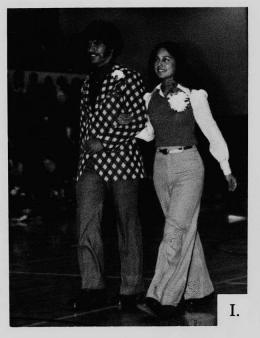

As in the past, Coach Frank Houlihan's spirited words generated much enthusiasm throughout the student body. Urging students to support the Vikings was guest speaker Bill Frink, Chanel Seven sportscaster.

An exciting part of the program was the coronation of Dawn Packer as homecoming queen. Describing the program, Judy Cohen, homecoming director commented, "The pep assembly was well organized and diverse enough to keep everyone interested. I felt its highlight was the slide presentation, depicting the first Niles North homecoming. The entire school seemed to enjoy it."

Homecoming offers variety of events

Homecoming day began with Northi's traditional parade. Unicyclists and clowns were some of this year's added attractions. The prize of $100 for the best float was won by Sophomore Class Board.

Describing student spirit, chairwoman Shelley Waxburg commented, "I think that students showed their school spirit through creativity in decorating floats and cars. I know that the students working on them had fun and enjoyed themselves. They definitely made the parade a great success. I felt that more of the student body could have participated in the parade, but was happy when some took the time to be clowns."

After the parade, students and alumni had brunch while they reminisced. Though defeated by a close margin, the Vikings exhibited much skill during the game. Culminating the festivities was an Alliota, Haynes, Jeremiah concert sponsored by Senior Class Board.

C.

- A. Adding a touch of humor to this year's parade are the Niles North clowns.
- B. Proudly displaying their "Warrior" are the Niles North cheerleaders and Northi mascot Jackie Rubin.
- C. Unicyclist Michelle Doppelt offers a new dimension to the parade.
- D. Chairwoman Andrea Williams welcomes Reid Romer, '72 and Ron Schoos, '73.

Northi presents 'Butterflies'

An unusual amount of skill was displayed in this year's fall production, "Butterflies are Free," by Neil Gershe. The play focused on the problems of a blind man, Don Baker, who had enough courage to move into an apartment that he would manage by himself.

Northi's production was under the supervision of Mr. Fred Fett. The director was Mr. Michael Sanders, who was assisted by Lynn Chausow and Dawn Packer.

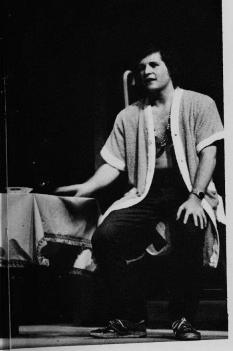

Not only did the cast members enjoy acting in the play, they also found it very rewarding. As stated by Paul Shapiro, who held a leading role, "I feel that 'Butterflies are Free' has furthered my acting career because it gave me the chance to portray a handicapped person, which is always a challenge. Actually being Don Baker made me appreciate the values of human sight."

- A. Enjoying each other's company are Don Baker (Paul Shapiro) and Jill Tanner (Ida Ginsburgh) during an unusual picnic in Don's apartment.
- B. Depicting the role of a heroin addict in the play that he is currently directing is Ralph Austin (David Freireich).
- C. Trying to convince Don that a blind man should not live away from home is Mrs. Baker (Diane Sucherman).
- D. Mrs. Baker describes the difficulties of living with a blind man to Jill.
- E. Despite Mrs. Baker's grave cautions, Jill and Don realize that they mean a great deal to each other.
- F. By using his sense of touch, Don tries to imagine Jill's facial features.

Legend of Arthur Still Lives on

B. .

This year the magical tale of King Arthur and the Round Table was brought to life when Niles North's drama department presented the majestic story of Camelot. The tale of Camelot revolves around King Arthur's hope to establish a Round table for all the knights throughout the land. The table was to be a symbol of the power that would reign in Camelot forever.

Extravagant costumes, well applied makeup and special lighting effects aided in the enhancement of the production. To relieve the burden of long rehearsal hours and several performances, double casting was employed. The combined efforts of directors, cast members, and crews achieved the atmosphere necessary to relate the special enchantment that Camelot symbolized.

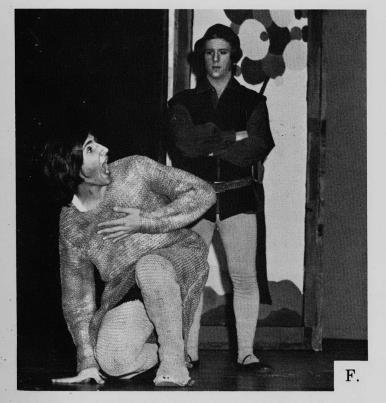

Describing the rewarding experience of participating in Camelot, Lynn Chausow said, "Creating the role of Guenevere was exciting. Camelot will live forever in my mind and others that made this fantasy a brilliant memory."

- A. Sandy Epstein applies the finishing touches to Debbie Guthman's makeup.
  B. Questioning St. Genevive about her misfortunes is Queen Guenevere (Dawn Packer).
  C. Guenevere (Lynn Chausow), fearful that Arthur may discover their love, finds com
  - fort in Lancelot's arms (Greg Edelman). D. Guenevere adds to the spirit of the May Day Picnic by singing "The Lusty Month of
  - May." E. Merlin (Paul Shapiro) tries in vain not to succomb to the alluring voice of the fairy, Nimue.
  - F. Squire (David Morton) looks on as astounded King Arthur (Robert Frankel) recovers from Sir Lancelot's mighty blow.
  - G. Sir Dinidan (David Freirich) acquaints Pellinore (Paul Shapiro) with Camelot's court and surroundings.
  - H. During the last dress rehearsal the female leads take a joint curtain call.

Camelot .

"Camelot was an enjoyable, educational experience. It opened my mind to the many aspects of a musical and gave me a chance to start developing my talents in other areas besides acting." —Ben Donenberg

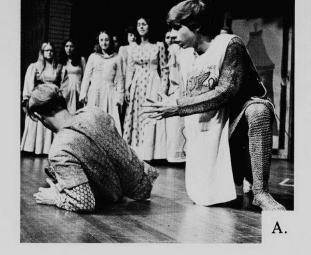

"Being given the opportunity to appear in such a mammoth production as Camelot was in itself an honor. It's like being allowed to play in the Super Bowl or a musician being allowed to play in the Chicago Symphony Orchestra." —Gregg Edelman

"Camelot was, in my opinion, one of the best productions ever to grace the stage of Niles North. I can't express all the pride I feel in having been part of such a great experience." —Dawn Packer

"The crews all worked together as a close-knit group. They had a lot of fun working together to make a great show for all who came to see Camelot." —Joanne Zeal

Greek tragedy comes to NN

A special recognition was awarded to this year's winter play, "Antigone." In district competition, the play received a first place award.

"Antigone" was presented in a similar manner to plays performed in ancient Greece. Throughout the entire play, only one set was used, and cast members wore masks.

An original music score was composed by Mr. Richard Green, music teacher. The play was under the direction of Mr. Fred Fett, English teacher, senior Holly Grobstein and junior Diane Sucherman. Remembering the many hours devoted to the production, junior Paul Kadetz remarked, " 'Antigone' was a fine show. Having a chance to do such a classic was a great learning experience."

- A. Attempting to persuade King Creon (Ben Donenberg) that she was obligated to bury her brother, Polyneices, is Antigone (Lynn Chausow).
- B. Reciting their lines in unison are members of Antigone's chorus. C. Gregg Edelman and Paul Kadetz perform
- the burial ritual on Hamon (Steve Malone).
- D. Forbidding his son Hamon to marry Antigone is King Creon.
- E. Chorus member Dale Libkin raises her hands in prayer to Zeus.
- F. Ismene (Ida Ginsburgh) tries in vain to dis-suade Antigone from burying their dead brother, Polyneices.
- G. Student director Holly Grobstein adds a few last minute details to a costume.

GAA sponsors co-ed nights

Stressing athletics and physical fitness were the main goals of the Girl's Athletic co-ed nights held throughout the school year. The co-ed nights provided an opportunity for boys, girls, teachers and coaches to compete against each other on various sports activities.

However, competition was not all that was involved; students enjoyed practicing routines and testing their skills on the trampoline, uneven bars, and balance beam. Ping-Pong tables were also set up and the pool was opened for those who wished to relax by swimming.

Co-ed nights were enjoyed by all those who attended. Junior Leslie Leeb relates, "I think co-ed night is a really good way for kids to get together and do something a little bit different."

- A. The water seems a bit too cold for these two swimmers at G.A.A. co-ed night.
- B. Co-ed night offers a good chance for Laura Zaruba to perfect her seat drop.

- F. Leslie Leeb returns a volleyball serve as teammate Tina Kalodimos watches.
- G. Mr. James Olsen, Hall C principal, looks on as Lynn Jordan attempts to score a point in a Ping-Pong match.

North is off to see the wizard

This spring "The Wizard of Oz" came to Niles North bringing with it all the excitement and enchantment of the much renowned movie. The play focused on Dorothy, a farm girl who journeyed to the mystical land of Oz. There she encountered many experiences and learned the valuable lesson that "There's no place like home."

Students devoted many long hours working on the production. The play was directed by Lynn Chausow. Paul Kadetz was the choreographer with Ida Ginsburgh assisting him. Musical direction was under Mr. Richard Green assisted by Barb Poitras and accompanist Bob Sheade.

Finding the children's production a rewarding experience Cindy Frankel commented, "Being in the 'Wizard of Oz' was a lot of fun. It was a great experience and especially exciting for me because it was my first lead role.

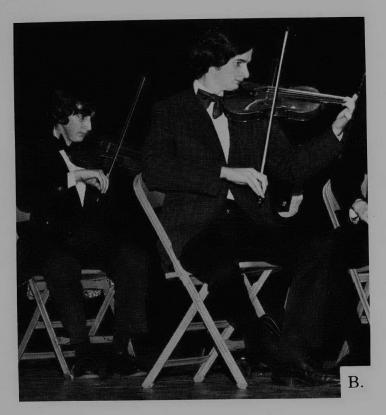

- A. Director Lynn Chausow helps the scarecrow (Jim Schallman) perfect his movements as Dorothy (Cindy Frankel) looks on.
- B. Assistant Set Crew Chairman Jeff Guthman works on scenery for "The Wizard of Oz."
- C. During the first week of rehearsal, Paul Kadetz, the choreographer for the play, teaches the chorus some new steps.
- D. The good witch (Dawn Packer) reassures Dorothy that the clever wizard will find a way to send her home.
- E. Aunt Em (Cathy Baldasso) stares off into the distance while Dorothy pleads with Uncle Henry (Lee Smolen) to help find Toto.
- F. Following the yellow brick road are the lion (Gregg Edelman), the tinman (Avi Simon), Dorothy and the scarecrow.
- G. The wicked witch (Erin Kleifeld warns Dorothy of the evils in store for her.
- H. Lead cast members are ready to rehearse their songs as Bob Sheade gives the key and Mr. Richard Greene directs.

Holiday Concert brightens season

Sounds of the holiday season echoed throughout Northi's auditorium when the Music Department presented the Niles North Holiday Concert.

Classical songs such as "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" led the concert. They were followed by popular selections including "The Way We Were."

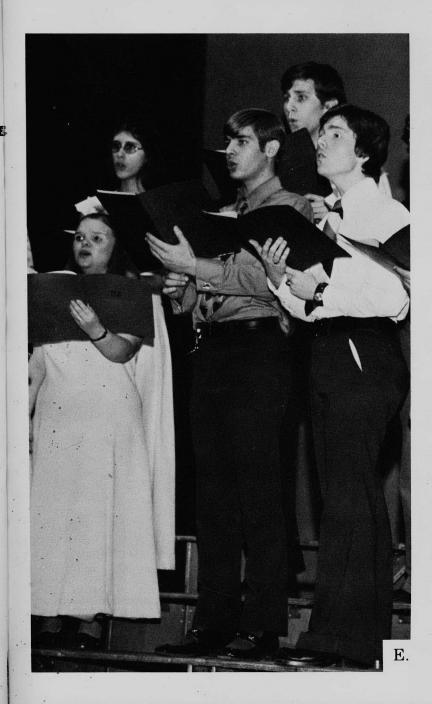

The Concert Band, Chamber Orchestra, Girl's Chorus, Madrigal Singers, Choral Union and the Viking Male Chorus all took part in the performance.

The show, which allowed the various Northi musical groups to exhibit their talents, combined all of the choruses together for the finale.

Noting the effort put into the program Claudia Lifton remarked, "The Holiday Concert was fun and exciting for everyone involved because each group was able to see how the hard work of the other musical groups paid off."

- A. Directing the Combined Chorus is Mr. Rich Green, Northi music teacher.B. Before the concert, Avi Simon and Orin Oberlander tune up their violins.
  - C. Niles North Band members Jean Thiry, Leslie Leeb and Marla Cohen skillfully perform on their clarinets.
  - D. Carefully following his music to prevent missing his next cue is Robert Aaron.
  - E. Chamber Choir entertains the audience with the song "Allon Gay Bergeres."
  - F. Deep concentration is a necessity when playing a musical instrument as bass fiddler Larry Green illustrates.
  - G. Ushering in the Christmas spirit are members of Girls Glee as they sing a number entitled "Sleigh Ride."

Special programs enrich Northi

Each year Open House gives parents an opportunity to learn about the education their children are receiving. By following a modified form of their child's schedule, parents were able to become acquainted with teachers and develop an understanding of Northi's curriculum. Offering some interesting diversions were some sports demonstrations and a P.T.S.A. plant sale.

With the interest of educating students culturally as well as academically, members of the faculty, administration and students invited the Free Street Theater to perform at Niles North. Commenting on the outcome of the program senior Elyse Gersten said, "Our main goals were to entertain the students as well as expose them to a culturally oriented situation. Overall, I think the presentation of the Free Street Theater was successful except for the student body's lack of participation."

- A. With the aid of an overhead projector, Mr. Barry Deardorff describes a course outline to interested parents.
- B. Selling plants at Open House helps the P.T.S.A. raise extra funds.
- C. Paul Lisnek shows his father the many facets of the Science Resource Center.
- D. Displaying Saga's bulletin board to Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Schiff is Honey Goldberg, Northi's yearbook editor.
  E. One of the coordinators, Ms. Pat
- McGuinness, participates in the program.
- F. Two singers from the company perform one of the many original numbers that the group has composed.
- G. Members of the Free Street Theater greet Niles North students.

Prom—finale of school year

One of the nicest traditions still kept at Northi is prom. "Just you and me," the theme of Prom '74, held a special meaning for those who were there.

Throughout the night, couples relaxed as well as danced to the music of the Johnny Holliday Orchestra. A memorable event of the evening was the coronation of prom King Mark Metler and Queen Jeanne Lusk.

Remembering Prom '74 sophomore Andi Bresler said, "Prom is a very special occasion. Climaxing the school year, it was evident that Junior Class Board worked hard to make prom meet everyone's expectations".

- A. Harry Zoberman welcomes Joel Greene and Rhonda Leaf to Prom '74.
- B. Admiring Sue Rivkin's graduation gift is Junior Class Board member Marla Cohen.
- C. Andrea Bresler smiles while watching Max Shaftal serve some punch.
- D. Though far from the traditional waltz of past proms, modern dances practiced at Prom '74 apparently are just as much fun.
- E. Former King and Queen (Mike McDade and Mari Schroeder) crown their successors (Mark Metler and Jeanne Lusk).
- F. Mark Metler and Jeanne Lusk enjoy their first dance as king and queen.
- G. Proud to be chosen court members are Ellen Hoffing and Greg Wolflick, Cara Taussig and Gary Pivar and Queen Jeanne Lusk and King Mark Matler.

Class of '75 looks ahead

Graduation is a time for laughter, tears, joys and sorrows, a time to look back over memories and a time to look forward toward future experiences. No doubt four years of education at Niles North has left an imprint on the graduates. To most, their experiences at school will be an extremely valuable asset for them as they go out into the world, meeting new people, facing problems and building their futures.

Describing his feelings about graduation senior Larry Berg said, "Graduation can be looked upon as the end of a part of one's life. However, it must be remembered that every end brings a new beginning."

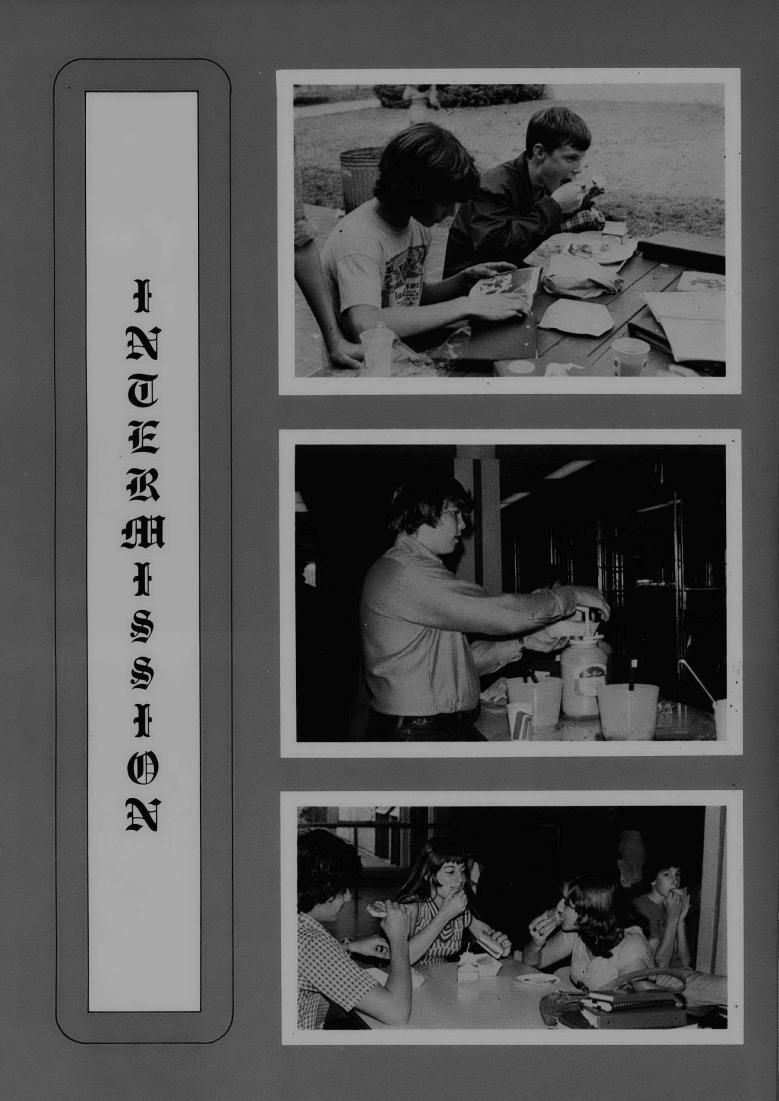

- A. Practicing for their big moment are Ron Dictor and Terri Rudd.
- B. Dr. Gilbert Weldy, Northi principal, com-pliments the graduates on the success that they have achieved at North.
- C. Northi graduates discuss future plans.
- D. Making certain that Ron Dictor adjusts his hat properly is Marcia Roitman. E. Breaking the solemnity of commencement,
- graduates find a few minutes for fun.F. Larry Berg and Ron Dictor congratulate each other after the ceremony.G. Caught up in the excitement of graduation,
- Shelley Waxburg joyfully tosses her hat up in the air.

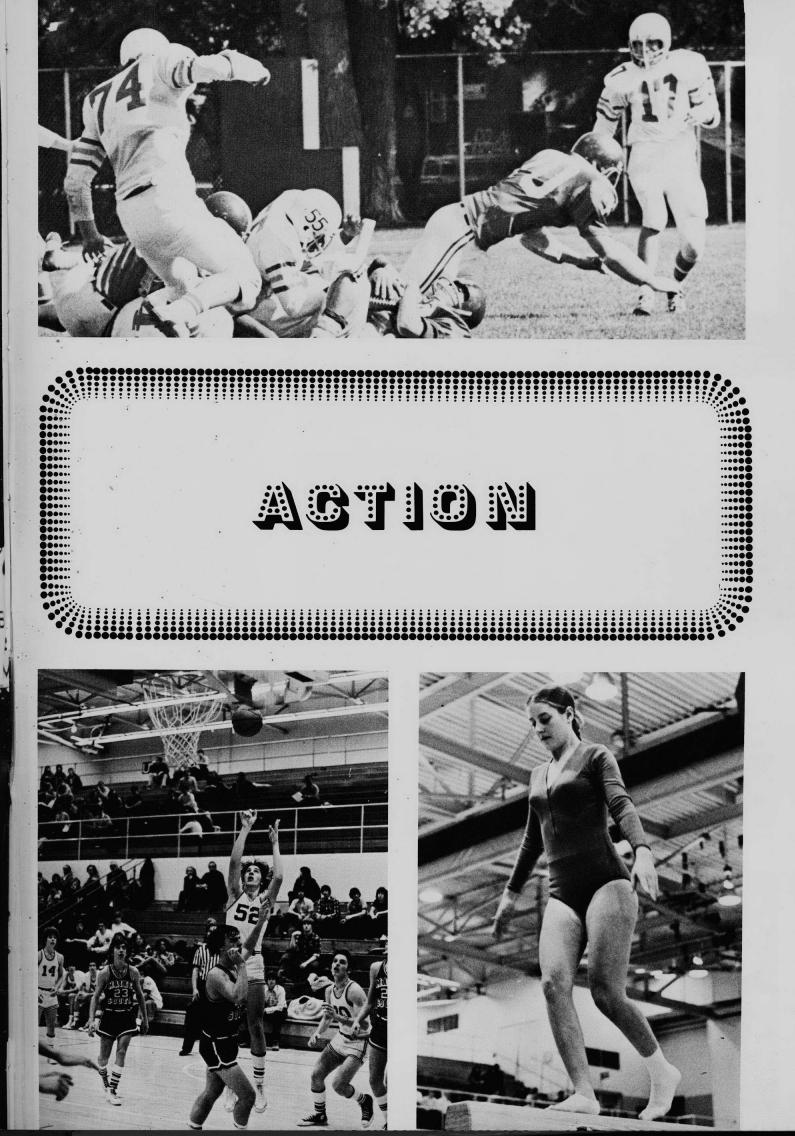

In every play, there is an intermission during which the actors are given a chance to refresh themselves and to deviate a bit from their script. We at Niles North, actors in the play of life, also need time to relax and to do with as each of us sees fit.

  B. NILES TOWNSHIP SCHOOL BOARD OF EDUCATION—Standing: Mr. Fred Minkus, Mrs. Evelyn Rosenzweig, Mr. James Gottreich, Mr. Ben Lipin, Mr. George Hanus, Mr. Eric Moch. Seated: Mrs. Shirley Garland (president), Supt. Weeley Gibbs Wesley Gibbs.
- C. Dr. Gilbert Weldy, Principal D. Mr. George Baptist, Assistant Principal.

This year the school began to fulfill the recommendations proposed by the North Central Association. Despite these concerns, the administration did not forget the students' role in the school.

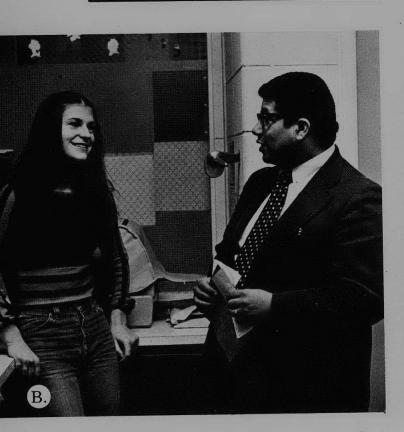

"Niles North High School provides an extraordinarily varied curriculum. In addition, virtually every commonly known high school club, hobby or extra curricular activity is provided. Students have a great deal of responsibility to seek out and take advantage of these offerings. Our experience to date suggests that generally very wise choices are made. There are some students however, who may seek to complete the irreducible minimum requirements for graduation and ignore the other opportunities. The price paid for the students freedom of choice is some students taking from the school less than a full measure of what is available. The years pass all to quickly and those who fail to see the future significance of their high school performance, err in a way that could only be called tragic," said Dr. Gibbs.

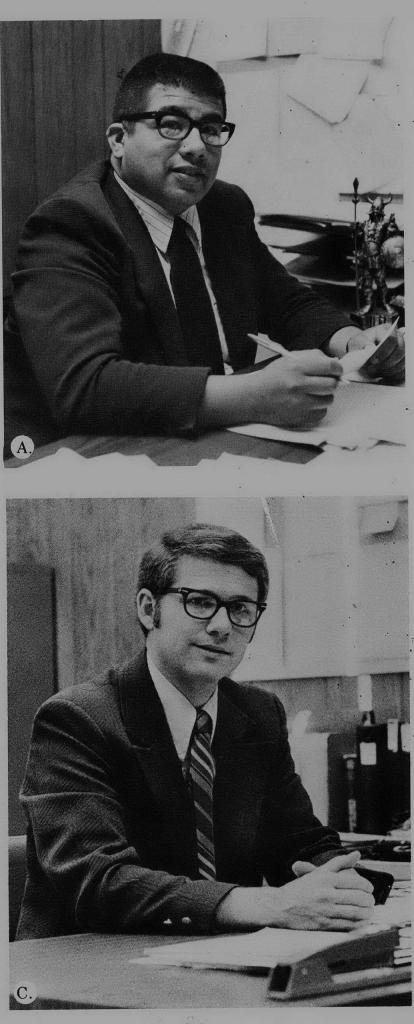

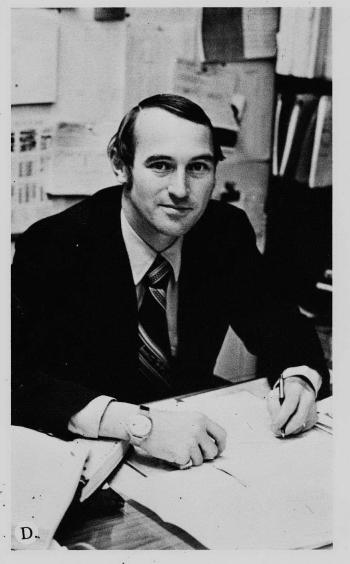

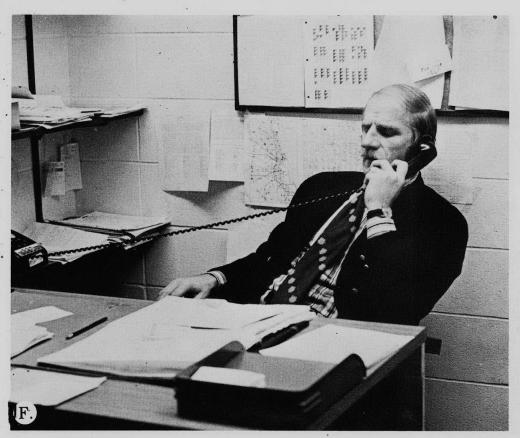

- A. Mr. John Ramirez, Director of Physical Welfare.
- B. Conferring with Mr. Ramirez about his newly ac-quired position as Director of Physical Welfare is junior Susan Smigla.
- C. Dr. Don Marcotte, Director of Student Services. D. Mr. Leonard Ackman, Dean of Students.
- E. Relating a humorous story to Mrs. Stezskal, Hall
- B secretary, is Mr. Ackman, Dean of Students. F. Mr. Charles Balciulis, Dean of Students.

Two faculty members who previously taught at Niles North held new administrative positions this year. In these roles, Mr. John Ramirez and Mr. Leonard Ackman were contributing to the educational process in a different way than they had done in past years.

Mr. Ramirez is the Director of Physical Welfare, whose role it is to organize the Boys' Physical Education department, as well as all extracurricular sports activities.

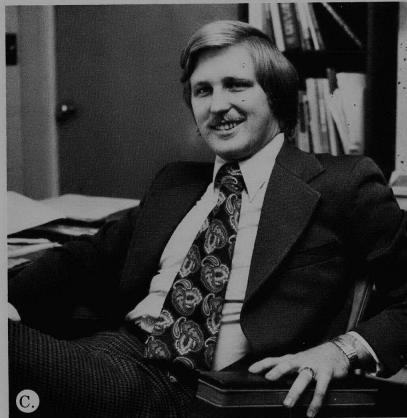

The position of Dean of Students was assumed by Mr. Ackman. The basic educational philosophy of Mr. Ackman is that, "The first and possibly most important job that a young person has is that of obtaining an education, because one's performance on this job will dictate the types of jobs one will obtain in the future."

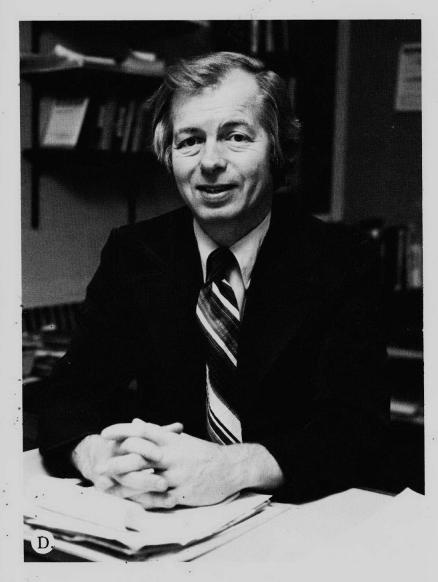

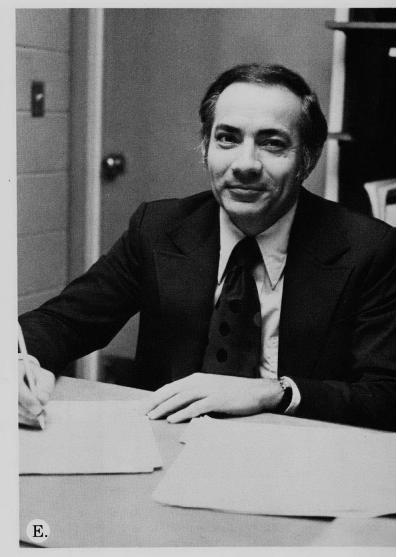

- A. Dr. Charles Thompson, Hall A principal.
  B. Parents, as well as students, seek the aid of Mr. Morris, hall principal.
  C. Mr. Griff Powell, Hall B principal.
  D. Mr. James Olsen, Hall C principal.
  E. Mr. Jack Morris, Hall D principal.
  F. Mr. Powell, hall principal, advises students on a project they are undertaking.

In addition to the administrative duties a principal must perform, the four hall principals at Niles North also had to head advisory committees on various subject offerings and student affairs in the school. As a result of the North Central Association's (NCA) evaluation last year, the principals had to consider each of the criticisms made by the NCA and attempt to follow through with these recommendations.

Mr. Griff Powell, the new Hall B principal and head of the Library (LMC) Advisory Committee, said, in reference to the dissatisfaction with the LMC expressed by students, "I'm always concerned about how students feel on anything, but I've only had two or three verbal complaints. I don't think students can dictate policy to professionals, but I'm concerned that each person should be treated appropriately and fairly." A. Having already completed the act which encompassed the high school years, faculty members were better able to aid students in successfully completing their own parts. Their role as directors was further enhanced by the continuation of modular scheduling, which allowed students to seek out individual teachers for advice and extra help.

This year, all faculty members were involved in the follow-up recommendations of the North Central Association which visited Northi in the Spring of 1974.

"Having been involuntarily transferred to Northi from Easthi three years ago, I have become increasingly aware that it was probably the best move I have ever made. The students I associate with here are some of the hardest working I have ever met. Finally, I enjoy teaching." —Stanley Carey

Publisher: Inter-Collegiate Press, Inc., Shawnee Mission, Kansas Photographers: Root Photographers, Chicago, Illinois Credits: United Press International for pictures on pages 6, 7 and 13. • Using Shakespeare's quote, "All the world's a stage," as the basis for Saga '75, we have presented the high school years as just one act in the play called Life. In this particular play, every character is subject to both happiness and sorrow, to good times and bad.

Being a part of this performance, the production of Saga '75 was no exception to the rule. Each deadline brought with it the familiar cries of, "What should I do? None of these pictures fit on this page!" and "How many times do I have to type this copy over?". But the new friendships made and the pride felt in helping to produce a yearbook tended to override most of the difficulties we encountered.

. At first, the thought of having just one editor, a new publishing company, and an advisor who had never worked on a yearbook and predominately inexperienced staff made me wonder how successful our attempt to produce Sage '75 would be. But the staff was quick to eliminate my doubts. When all the underclass portraits had to be retaken (as a result of circumstances beyond our control), the staff worked together to finish in less than two weeks a task which they had previously had over a month to complete. Without a staff such as this, we could not have produce a successful end product. I do not feel that I will ever be able to thank them enough for the unselfish devotion which they exhibited throughout the year.

Of course, many other people were instrumental in helping to make Sage '75 a reality. I believe Mr. Stanley Carey, our advisor, alreadys knows how much we are indebted to him for his help. I would also like to acknowledge Root Studios, who supplied us with pictures throughout the year and Mr. Ray Gilgenbach our representative from Inter-Collegiate Press, who familiarized us with the ways of the new publishing company. My special thanks are extended to Miss Carol Thompson and Miss Maureen Armbruster for sharing their knowledge of journalism with the yearbook staff; to Mr. John Ramirez for his help in scheduling sports pictures; to Jody Rein for designing the cover; to Barb Jacks for her help with the artwork; to the members of the Technical Services Club whose skill in working the auditorium lights was needed for the pictures on the end sheets; and to the staff members' parents who were so understanding when we had to work late at night.
