Dear Jenni,

It's really been a great year starting with homecoming '68. I will always remember you and your pep talks. Some of them really worked.

Good luck in the future & I hope I will see you next year. I really do. I will miss you.

Love,
Steve Friedman '70

Dear Jenni

So that's your name? To a musically minded senior, Good luck.

I am grateful for you helping me my first year in the music dept.

It has been a pleasure knowing you. See above

Dr. Parker terminates his rewarding career

DR. CLYDE PARKER
Superintendent of Schools

Dr. Clyde Parker, Superintendent of the Niles Township High Schools for the past nine years, was born in a coal mining town, Dugger, in Indiana. He is married and has two daughters and five grandchildren.

After graduating high school, Dr. Parker attended Franklin College in Indiana where he received his Bachelor of Arts Degree. He earned his Master of Arts Degree at Indiana State University and later earned his Doctorate Degree at Indiana University. Dr. Parker was also awarded an Honorary Doctorate Law Degree from Upper Iowa University.

The capable educator has been in the field of teaching and education for 42 years. He has held the position of Superintendent of various schools for the past 35 years. Furthermore, he has been active in both the Iowa State School Administrators Association and the American Association of Administrators.

Dr. Parker has also taught at Augustana College, University of Colorado, and Indiana University.

Dr. Parker feels that his major contributions to Niles Township include not only the additions to the East and West buildings and the establishment of North, but more importantly the "development of a program of fine secondary education that compares with education anywhere in the country." The resigning Superintendent's most rewarding experience was the "satisfaction of knowing that you are doing your best for youngsters in the community."

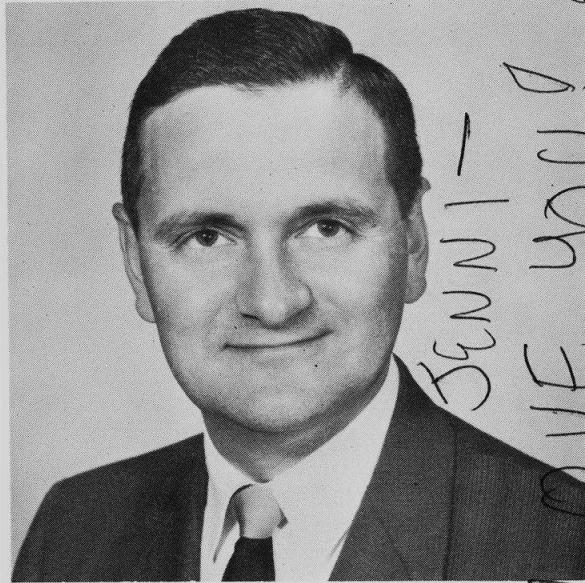

Finally, Dr. Parker believes that his "years at Niles Township have been exhilarating, exciting, and . . . (he) wouldn't trade them for anything in the world . . . a swell bunch of students-able, capable, and with a great desire to achieve."

East Administrators initiate action

The class level administrators were responsible for the operation of every phase of student life. Their responsibilities included disciplinary tasks, attendance policies, student guidance, parent-teacher relations, and student services. The newest member of the administration -- Mr. Charles Van Cleave, a former mathematics teacher at East, assumed the important position of director of student accounting and administrator of the freshman class. In addition to their disciplinary roles, the other three administrators held vital positions: Mr. Ihne, the position of second vice president of the P.T.A.; Mr. Bothhof, as director of student guidance; and Mr. Colver, as director of student services. The achievements of these men were recognized by the North Central Evaluating Committee when they stated that one of the school's most favorable aspects was the "statesmanship of the East Administration."

Niles East Students:

Congratulations to the staff of Reflections for this wonderful edition of our yearbook. I know it represents a tremendous amount of work on the part of those involved and certainly their efforts are much appreciated.

Activities such as the planning and publishing of this yearbook are an integral part of our school. We feel strongly about the importance of our overall activity program and the total development of our students. A school without an activity program is like a room without windows.

Good-luck to the graduating seniors of Niles East. We wish for you a most meaningful life and success in your future endeavors.

Honors Societies synonymize achievement

Quill and Scroll is the honorary journalism society for high school students who are members of the newspaper or yearbook staffs. To be eligible for the society, a student must have written 220 inches of published material or have been recommended by his journalism instructor.

The National Honor Society is composed of Juniors and Seniors who have maintained a "B" average. Lists of the names of those eligible students were sent to teachers at the conclusion of each school year; the students who received a sufficient number of recommendations were then chosen to the elite society, a group dedicated to encourage scholarship, high character, leadership, and service. At the annual academic awards assembly, the elected students pledged to uphold the ideals and principles established by the society.

One of the most complete high school foreign language programs was offered at Niles East this year. Languages that were presented to students, who enrolled in this excellent program, included French, German, Latin, Spanish, and Russian. Students primarily learned to converse during the initial two semesters of the language sequence they selected. In the second year programs, they vastly increased their foreign vocabularies. Third year courses enhanced the students' knowledge of the history of the country whose language they studied; while preparation for advanced placement examinations was the major goal of fourth year classes. Finally, some fortunate students enhanced their foreign language studies by journeying to France and Mexico during the summer months.

The English department attempted to increase the students' abilities to understand and to communicate with others through classical literature and that of one's own creation. As in previous years, courses in creative writing, drama, and journalism were offered to English students whose interests and talents demand expression. New to the curriculum this year was a humanities course which encouraged students to connect ideas presented in English with those presented in history, art, and music. While Shakespeare, Dickens, Hawthorne, and Thoreau continued to increase understanding in the traditional English courses, more students became involved in the special interest courses that are also an important part of one's English education.

The social studies department initiated several changes this year and contemplated more improvements for future years. For the first time in several years a course in Latin American History was offered to interested seniors. The possibility of instituting a course in Modern Russian History was also discussed. A Human-Relations Club, which would study the problems that an urban community faces was planned for next year. The enrollment in Sociology, Psychology, Economics, Political Science, and Family Living increased because of the nine period day that permitted more students to study in these formerly unfamiliar subjects. Finally, the social studies department, which continued to answer the "hows" and "whys" of our active world, participated in the newly instituted Humanities program.

As the action of modern occupations expands, the need for a mathematical background becomes vital. The excellent program at East fulfilled the needs of those students whose occupational interests demanded several years of math, by offering trigonometry, analytic geometry, calculus, and other advanced courses. In addition to these offerings, the mathematics department provided instruction in the basic arithmetic areas, the intermediate level of algebra, and the regular sequences of algebra and geometry. Finally, students had the opportunity to test their mathematical skills by competing in the state-wide test of mathematical skills that was administered in February.

Guidance schedules achievement

The guidance department was the hub of the students' achievement through action. The primary tasks of this capable staff entailed the scheduling of East's 2200 students and the administration of college entrance examinations. Representatives from various colleges were invited to attend conferences with interested students, and films concerned with college life were shown to aid the student in his selection of a college that would fulfill his individual needs. Another responsibility of the guidance staff was to inform qualified seniors of available scholarship and loan programs. However, the counselors did not only serve college-bound students. The department assisted those students whose post-high school interests were in vocational and military areas. These students increased their knowledge and understanding in occupational areas by attending conferences with representatives of local industries and professions.

Increased enrollment forced remodeling and enlargement of the science facilities at Niles East this year. Six rooms were revamped; new tables, cabinets, gas jets, and plumbing were installed at a cost of approximately $70,000. Science courses that were available included the three levels of biology, physics, and chemistry. For those students who wished to delve deeper into the study of scientific laws and phenomena, the excellent science seminar program was also offered. To cope with the increase of students in all science classes, five new instructors were added to the staff. These new facilities helped several students to discover the answers to their scientific questions about natural occurrences.

As a consequence of increased enrollment, expansion of the art department was required. Therefore, two new instructors were commissioned, and extra supplies were requisitioned. Forty percent of the art students, many of whom selected art because it offered relaxation during the active day, were enrolled in first year art courses. However, art programs were also offered for the remainder of the four year sequence. Oil painting, photogram experiments and etching were provided for the student who wished to enhance his pre-college artistic background. The improvement of these courses helped to culturally develop the high school student for today's active world.

Music marches to success

The music department was radically changed and expanded during the 1967-68 school year. A new instructor, Mr. Rusch, was added to the staff to alleviate the burden placed on the other instructors by the increased number of music students. Since 1966, enrollment in Mixed Chorus tripled, and the number of intermediate band members doubled. The addition of a marching band sparked the half-time festivities at all home football contests. The combined choruses, the orchestras and bands, Lorelei, and other music organizations expertly performed at the Winter and Spring Festivals. The success of the entire music department was exemplified by the Concert Choir which performed at several out-of-school engagements including the Illinois Junior Miss Pageant. For all involved, the music program was synonymous with creativity, personal satisfaction, and enjoyment.

I'm - I've been in concert bands for two years in the third. I know you've gotten new and pretty good highly of your play. Most of your year most important and at school college. Then we've all set up the great look back to the hope we can always remain friends - come what may. Are always better -

Drivers' Education steers toward safety

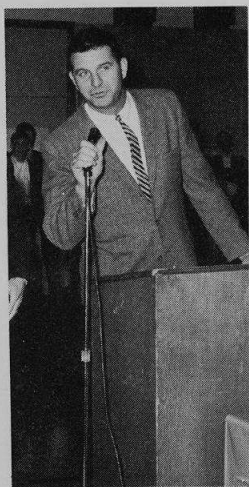

MR. WILLIAM WARNER
Department Chairman

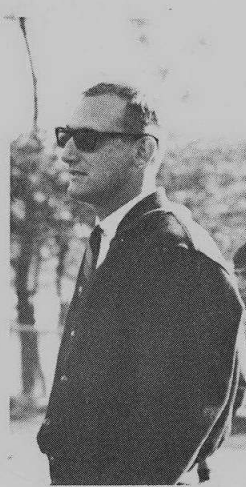

The drivers' education department profited greatly from the institution of the nine period day. The extended school day permitted more students to enroll in Behind-the-wheel, the actual driving experience phase of the curriculum. Students received their classroom instruction during one of their study periods rather than during their physical education classes as in previous years. This phase of the training program taught students the importance of developing safe driving habits and the rules of the road. When the students were sufficiently prepared, they were administered the required state road test at a state examination center.

Business Education processes the future

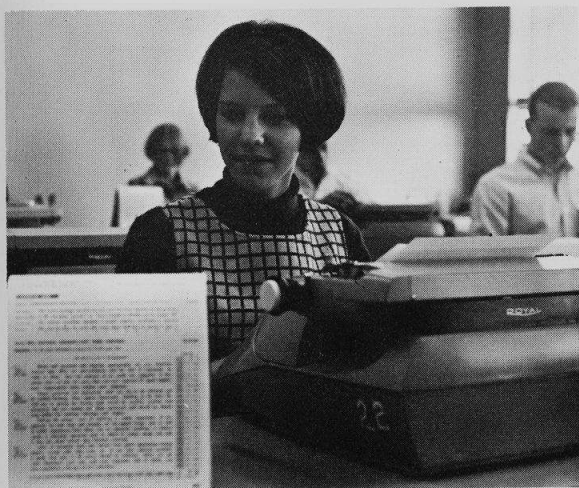

The business education department established courses which enabled the student to enhance the quality of his work and prepare himself for future vocational interests. For the student who sought to develop the appearance and quality of his work, basic typing and shorthand courses were offered. Many students whose interests lay in various vocational fields, enrolled in the advanced secretarial, data processing, and accounting programs which prepared them for post-high school work experiences and future college courses. To adequately provide the young secretary and future businessman with the skills they require, electric typewriters, modern data processing machines, and the newest dictation devices were utilized. The Future Secretaries and Future Executives Clubs further helped the students to pursue their business interests.

Home Economics stirs creativity

Clothing, foods, and child care were taught in the home economics department to prepare young ladies for the responsibilities of the homemaker in today's active world. Students learned how to efficiently proportion their time and money, how to prepare and serve delectable meals, how to sew and properly preserve clothing, and how to care for and discipline infants. The most modern electric appliances, kitchen equipment, fabrics, and sewing machines were provided for the girls to actually practice these skills. With the development of these domestic skills, each girl gained knowledge and enrichment which will be of value during her entire life.

Industrial Arts drills craftsmanship

The students at Niles East whose interests were in the industrial arts field had an extensive selection of manual arts courses from which to choose. These students, most of whom are planning to continue their vocational training after graduation, were offered courses in the areas of metal, woods, industrial drawing, and printing. The department also expanded its photography program, and many female as well as male students took advantage of this improved program. No matter which ramification of the excellent industrial arts curriculum the prospective manual artist selected, he greatly developed his dexterity as he produced craftsman-like articles.

This year, unlike previous years, freshman and sophomore girls were placed into categories according to their individual abilities. This arrangement permitted the instructor to better understand her classes' strengths and weaknesses. The leaders program, in which girls aided the instructor in conducting class activities, was continued for the eighth successful year.

The boys physical education classes continued to have boys vigorously join in mass calisthenics. The department attempted to vary the late fall curriculum by furnishing outdoor activities whenever the weather would permit. Adaptive physical education courses for both boys and girls provided adequate activity for those who could not participate in the regular classes.

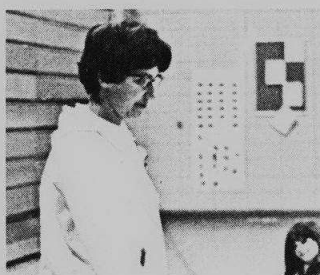

Girls physical education classes perform daily calisthenics before they engage in specific activities.

MR. GERALD FERGUSON

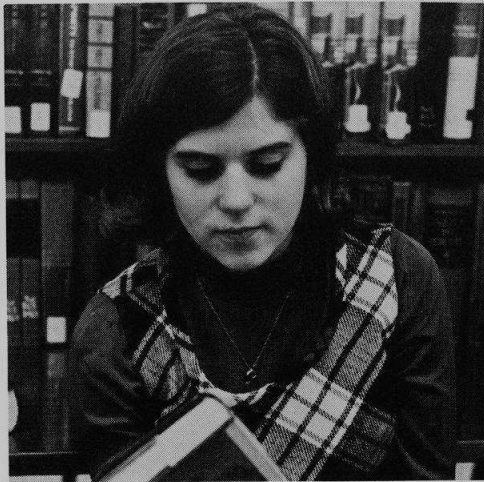

Mrs. Raad exemplifies the friendliness, efficiency, and vivaciousness of the entire office staff.

Many students benefited from the services of the special education department during the school year. For those who suffered from hearing and speech disorders, the respective correctionists were available. Students who were bed-ridden during the year were taught by the homebound instructor. The reading laboratory instructor helped students to improve their reading skills and proficiency in vocabulary; abilities that were tested in the important college entrance examinations, SAT and ACT. The audio-visual aids department enabled students to assist the teacher by operating movie projectors, overhead projectors, and duplicating machines. Students were afforded the opportunity to gain valuable work experience as they concurrently attended school through the work-study program. The nurses' office was opened during every period of the day to remedy the immediate emergencies and the not so urgent stomach aches. Finally, the library, which had a complete selection of reference materials, periodicals, and reading books, was opened before, after, and during school for quiet study.

Reflections '68

Underclassmen editor Sandy Edelman arranges for one of more than 1600 portraits that compose her section.

The theme of Reflections '68 was Achievement through Action. Unfortunately, because of a scheduling problem resulting from the new nine period day, not all staff members could get scheduled for the same period and, at times, there was too much action. Most communications were restricted to note writing, and it was a constant mystery to editors as to what problem the next day would bring. However, by some miracle the book was completed and all of the panic and worry is just a laughing remembrance.

Reflections '68 enjoyed the largest circulation of any Niles East yearbook in the last four years. The successful sales drive was just one of the highlights of a most unusual year that was climaxed by the gala banquet. Action was the basis for the yearbook, and action was the method of its production.

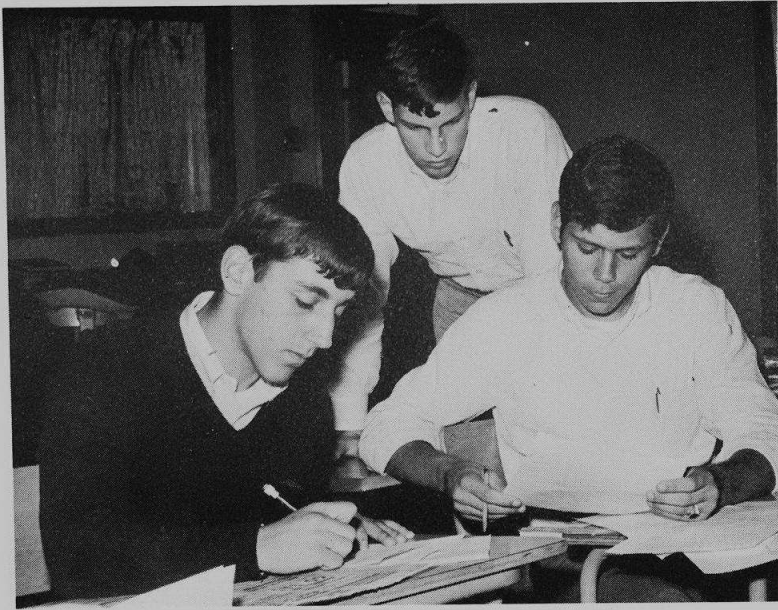

However, the last try turned out all right. Cheese?

NILEHILITE voices action of school

During journalism workshop, Eric Palles, sports editor Steve Vetzner, and editor-in-chief Marc Ellenby correct a late-breaking sports section article.

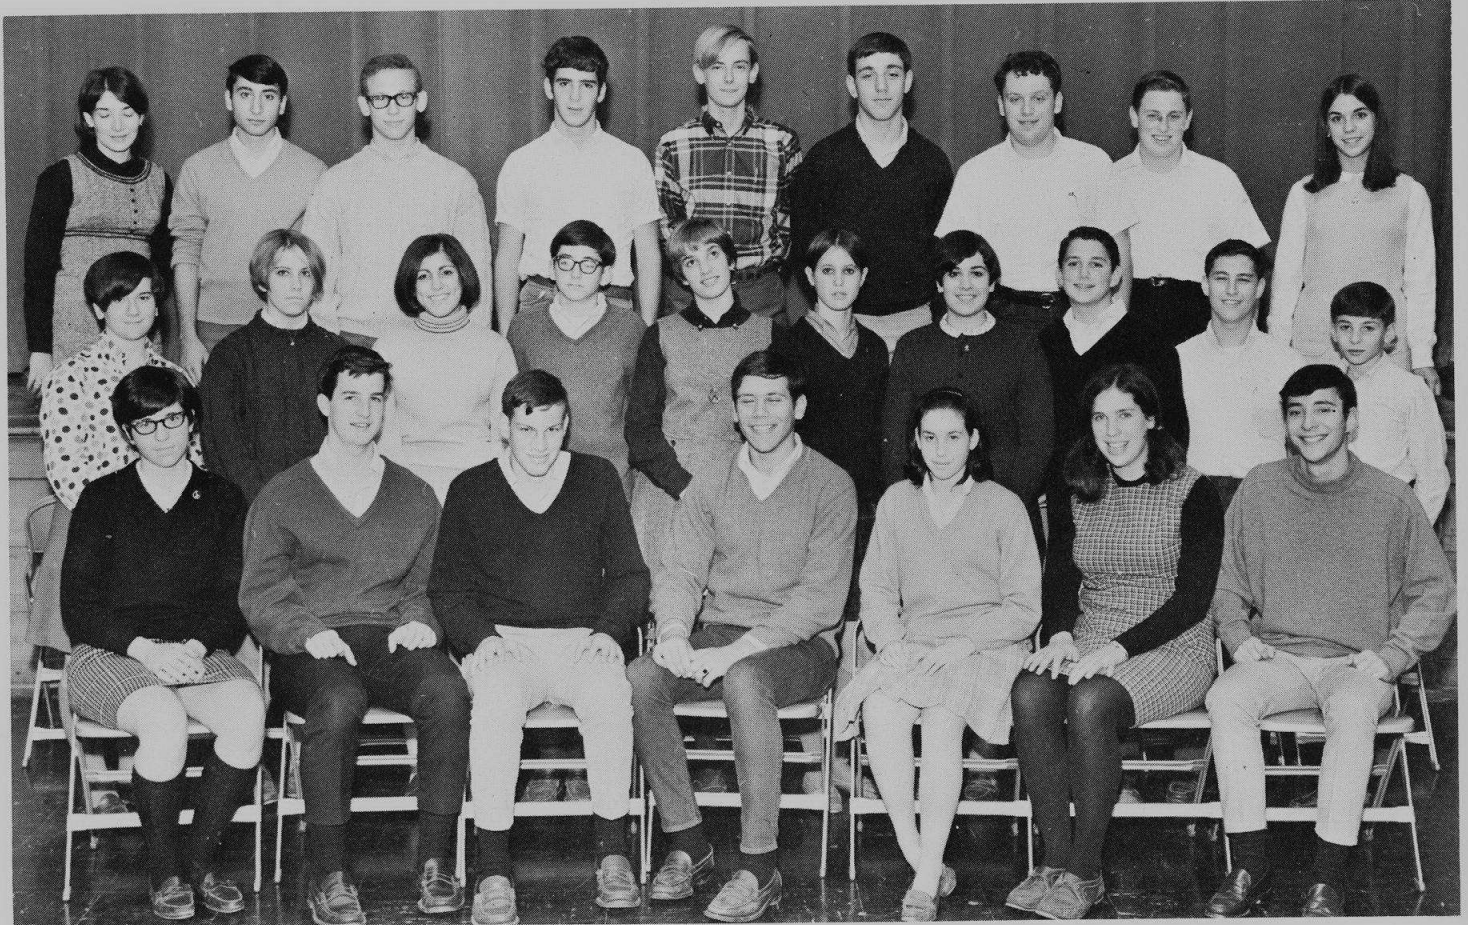

1968 was a transitional year for the Nilehilité. No longer was it merely the mirror of school events; rather, the Nilehilité took an active part in the life of the school. Opinions were expressed in print so that everyone could be aware of them. Teachers, students and administrators let their views be known via the Nilehilité.

However, this new active role did not detract from the journalistic value of the newspaper. Once again the Nilehilité received a first place rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

The sports section was also improved by the use of a variety of outlooks. Athletes, coaches, and fans gave information and opinions that enhanced the sports copy.

The hard work put forth by the staff and editors of the Nilehilité was rewarded with the knowledge that they had given the students of Niles East a voice in the affairs of the school.

GOLDEN GALLEON storms Niles

To many students the Golden Galleon is something that one's English teacher makes one buy. However, the Golden Galleon is really the result of the literary efforts of the students at Niles East. To become a member of the staff, one must have a work published in the Galleon. This can be a poem, essay, short story, or drawing pertaining to the theme. The theme of this year's Galleon was from "The Tempest," by William Shakespeare. Selection of works for Golden Galleon was made by the editors and main staff who met every day during school. After making the selections, the book was put together, and Golden Galleon was readied for printing. The distribution in May showed that the students at Niles East are both creative and imaginative.

Pep Club cheers the action at Niles

Coach Odlivak introduces Mr. and Miss Trojan during the pep rally prior to the football game with our rival, Niles West.

The newest organization at Niles East this year was the Pep Club. It was designed to increase school spirit. Gold and Blue, the pep club, succeeded admirably. The day before the first football game with Niles West, Gold and Blue sponsored a Mr. and Miss Trojan contest. This was originated to see who could design the best gold and blue costume. Styles ranged from gold and blue undershirts to gold and blue hair.

The Pep Club had special seating at home games and they helped to lead the cheering-stands. There was no doubt that the support of pep club played a large role in the renewed school spirit and the great success of our athletic teams.

Hurray for Niles East!

This year's Student Council, the voice of the student body, portrayed the theme of "action through leadership." As president Hal Brody explained, "Student Council is no longer a passive communication between the students and the administration." With the new nine period day, the council was able to meet every day and more projects resulted. Furthermore, this year marked the first time that both representatives and alternates were scheduled for Council. Through the leadership of the Student Council, new and important ideas were brought to the attention of the administration.

These issues were bus problems, dress code, and cafeteria complaints. The advantages and disadvantages of the nine period day were discussed.

Many school activities were also sponsored by Council. The freshman orientation and the freshman mixer were Council projects. This year's mixer was the most successful freshman dance ever sponsored by Council. Council participated in a bundle drive with Niles West, had a float in homecoming, and ran a booth in Panic '68. Through its many new ideas and activities, Student Council was once again one of the school's most active organizations.

Sophomore Cabinet achieved success by working diligently. They started the year at a disadvantage; they did not have a sponsor. However, through the perseverance of the cabinet officers, representatives and a sponsor were chosen. This cabinet had the experience of freshman year, but sophomore year still served as a year for learning. Sophomores were proud of their prize-winning float. They also built a booth for the spring carnival, Panic '68, and had other fund-raising events. A major responsibility of Sophomore Cabinet was the job of selling class rings. Students received this project with great enthusiasm. Sophomore Cabinet prepared the members for the responsibility of Junior Cabinet and Prom.

Roth, E. Abrams, K. Kramer, C. Ponoroff.

Once again Junior Cabinet proved it is one of the busiest of all school organizations. They started the year by entering a float which took 3rd place, in Homecoming competition. Next, Junior Cabinet sold their "Super Class" buttons. The dance after the Highland Park basketball game was also a great success because of the return of the "Dayz and Nytes." Through the efforts of Junior Cabinet, the songs of Tommy James and the Shondells echoed throughout the auditorium last February 22, to the delight of the student body. In the spring came Panic '68, and Junior Cabinet entered a booth. With the funds earned from all of cabinet's activities, the Juniors sponsored the Junior-Senior Prom held at the Highland Park Country Club. The Prom climaxed a year of hard work and projects accomplished through the efforts of Junior Cabinet.

Dave Levin and Wendy Lake put up a poster advertising the 1967 Homecoming Dance, "Into a Wonderland," a major project of Senior Cabinet.

Whew! was the word for Senior Cabinet as four years of hard work were culminated this year. Senior Cabinet was constantly involved in projects. They accomplished a goal that every senior cabinet in previous years had tried and failed to do; they secured the right for seniors to have a lounge during their study halls. The senior lounge was a great step forward for Senior Cabinet, as this lounge was run without any help from the administration or teachers. In addition Senior Cabinet built the Queen's float in the homecoming parade and was in charge of the spring carnival, Panic '68. There was no doubt that Senior Cabinet had much to do, and there was also no doubt that Senior Cabinet accomplished all that it set out to do.

Executive Board is so dedicated that they seem to be part of the school. They are: M. Bishop, S.S.M.; L. Halperin, S.S.D.; T. Novak, coordinator; S. Glickson, S.S.H.

In its fifteenth year, the Student Service Organization continued to be the symbol of student responsibility at Niles East. Students proved that they were capable of running study halls, monitoring the hallways, and supervising the attendance procedures in the library. In addition, S.S.O. had a prize-winning float in the homecoming parade, and was a constant source of school spirit by making buttons and signs before each football and basketball game.

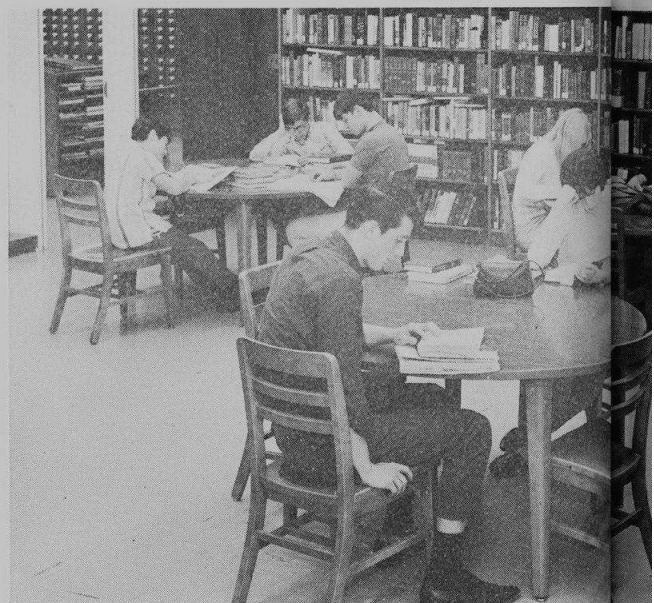

Led by the executive board, each branch of S.S.O. was unified in the general goal of serving the school. S.S.O. also gave the students an opportunity to participate in the governing of the school.

Language Clubs: Action through knowledge

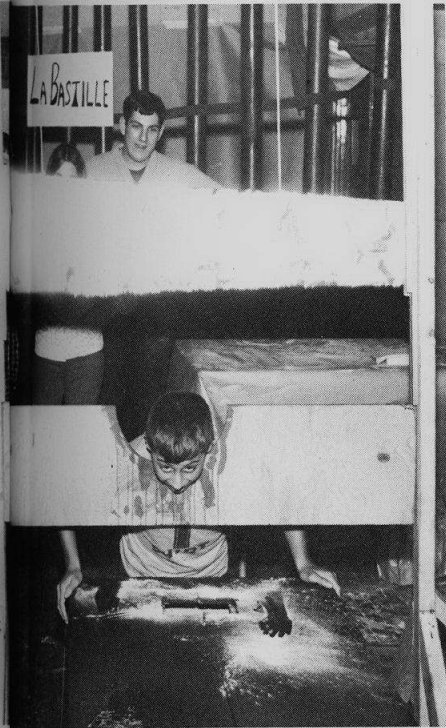

To the chagrin of some, belonging to German Club entails the paying of dues.

Officers Eileen Klehr, Mike Rich, Mark Bishop, and Scott Glickson are not exactly the Bolshoi Ballet, but they do represent Russian Club.

H. Kleiman, S. Mayrent, and D. Kosh surround Marcella Feldman, foreign exchange student, whose stay at East they helped to make comfortable.

French Club's "La Bastille" is a terror at the annual carnival Panic.

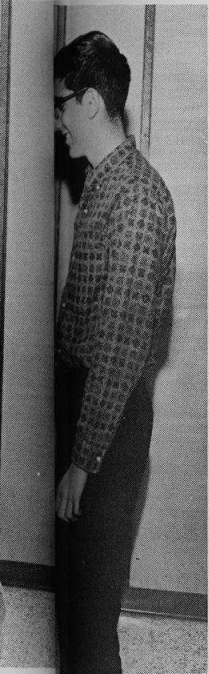

Latin Club dons ancient costume for the coronation of a new queen.

Language Clubs and the American Field Service gave the interested student a fuller understanding of the land and people of his language choice. However, individually, these clubs were as diverse as the countries themselves.

The American Field Service's main responsibility was providing for a foreign exchange student. To raise funds to support the exchange student, A.F.S. held a candy sale. A.F.S. also had to find a home for the exchange student. This year's student, sponsored by the Niles East chapter of A.F.S. was Marcella Feldman, from Buenos Aires, Argentina.

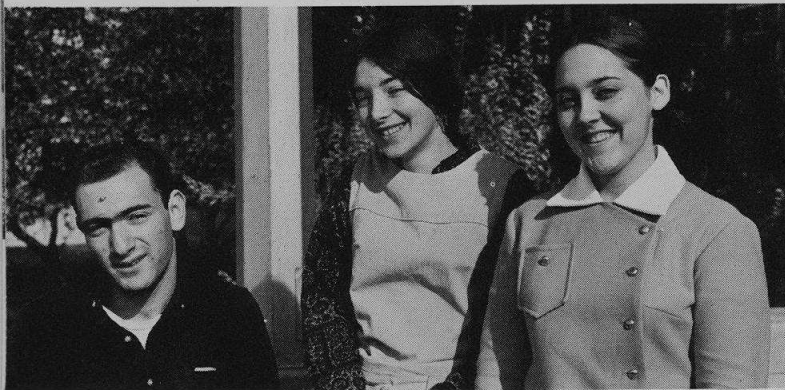

German Club played German games, read German magazines, and entered a booth in the spring carnival. Latin Club learned the customs of the ancient Romans, and indulged themselves in imaginative dress. French Club went to French movies, French restaurants, built a booth for Panic '68, and built a float for homecoming. Russian Club tried to understand the people of the Soviet Union by studying their culture. Spanish Club went to a play, ate Spanish food, and planned a trip to Mexico. All of these groups gave the student valuable insight into the people and customs of foreign countries.

Action through Special Interests

Engaged in the fine art of Debate are Norm Silber, Joel Feldman, Ken Fleischer, and Brian Krasner.

"Congress should establish uniform regulations over criminal investigation procedures." This was the subject discussed all year long by the Niles East debate team. East showed winning performances in almost all neighboring meets. Another successful fine arts organization is the Art Council. The members of Art Council studied art not as a subject, but as a force that affects their lives.

The field of dramatics arts was represented by Thespians. Thespians had a major role in all of the school's dramatic events. The Chemistry and Physics Club pursued the interest of science, saw films, took field trips, and made reports that enabled them to build a tic-tac-toe computer.

Both fine and applied arts were well represented as special interests for the students of Niles East.

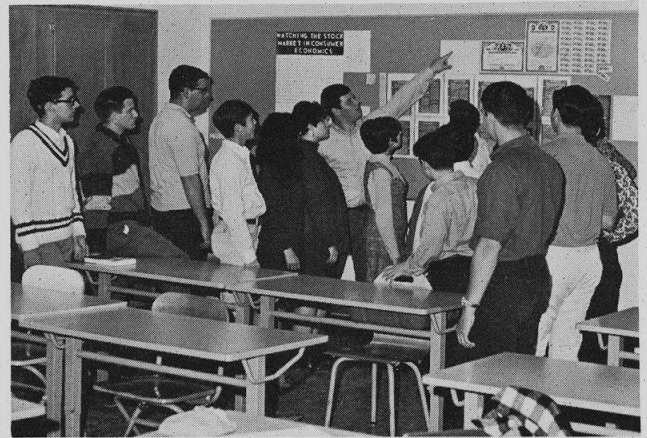

Vocational Clubs explore the action in the future

Niles East was fortunate to have vocational clubs which offered students the opportunity to gain insight into their future careers. Students in the Investment Club invested in a variety of stocks through an exchange. Future Teachers went on field trips, had guest speakers at meetings, continued with the previous Teachers Aid Program, and this year started a library which contains college catalogs and counselor information. Future Nurses Club was an organization mainly for those girls interested in continuing in the field of medicine. The group took tours in neighboring hospitals, had guest lectures, and saw films. They also participated in school functions. The Future Nurses donated food to needy families and sponsored a bake sale.

Service Clubs provide extra aid for the school

A.V.E. officers Bill Oppenheimer, Davida Schiffman, Steve Schaffel are responsible for the running of audio-visual machinery.

Officers of Girls Service Organization, S. Uhler, D. Kleinschmidt, and B. Jackson establish worthy projects for the needy people of the community.

Ushers Club officers H. Portman, M. Wolters, and E. Roth are in charge of ushering at many school sponsored events.

Technis officers Al Goldman, Mitch Goldstein, Mike Kaye and Rich Harris see that light and sound are provided for school-sponsored programs.

No, it's not a fight; it's just a game of roll-over at a typically subdued Student Union.

Student Union Board Officers are in charge of scheduling and planning the eight unions that are held throughout the year. BACK ROW: S. Pecter, B. Kaiz, P. Nemeroff. FRONT ROW: M. Szuchmacher, K. Kass, T. Baren.

The service clubs at Niles East were excellent examples of the work of many of the students.

The Student Union Board spent a lot of time and effort arranging entertainment for the Student Unions. Many great dances were the result of the work of the Student Union Board.

The Ushers Club kept order at many of the school sponsored activities. They passed out programs and arranged seating.

Technis provided light and sound at almost all school functions. Members of this organization learned the technicalities of back-stage equipment.

Every student at Niles has seen movies in class. A.V.E. was in charge of all audio-visual material. These busy students were always helping to run projects and deliver audio-visual materials.

Girls Service Organization raised money to help needy people in the community. They were especially successful in raising money for orphanages.

Many students explored the action in music. Vocal classes were offered to introduce students to the department, and those who showed the desire and talent were selected as members of the Concert Choir. The Choir sang for a veteran's hospital, an orphanage, and a beauty pageant. Before and after school, room 118 rang with sounds of barbershop harmonies of the Troymen and Lorelei rehearsals for special engagements.

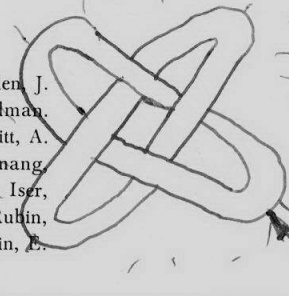

The instrumental groups expanded and provided enjoyment for talented students. Intermediate Band members strove to be elected for Concert Band or the Concert Orchestra. The orchestra played for school festivals and the musical. The Concert Band formed a Marching Band and Niles East took great pride in having these students represent the school at all home football games. From the new marching band, superior members were selected to play in the Pep Band at all home basketball games.

Dear Jenni,
 No time! No ends a year of madness. Only two more years for me to go, just think, more for you. Won't you always remember the goosebumps you've gotten from festivals? How about the memories of "My Fair Lady" reflections. What will come next? Oh, well, have a nice summer & I'll see you next year.
 Love, Gary

Dear Jenni,
 Thanks
 for putting up with me. We have one thing in common.
 We're really a good kid in spite of all.
 I hope we can become better friends over the summer.
 See ya soon

The unmatched spirit and work of the Homecoming Committee made East's 1967 "Through the Looking Glass" a homecoming to remember. Alice herself spoke to the school in an original radio skit, and the overwhelming spirit of Niles East screamed with pride at the traditional Homecoming Pep Assembly. After school Friday, October 21st, began the long, but fun-filled hours of last-minute float building.

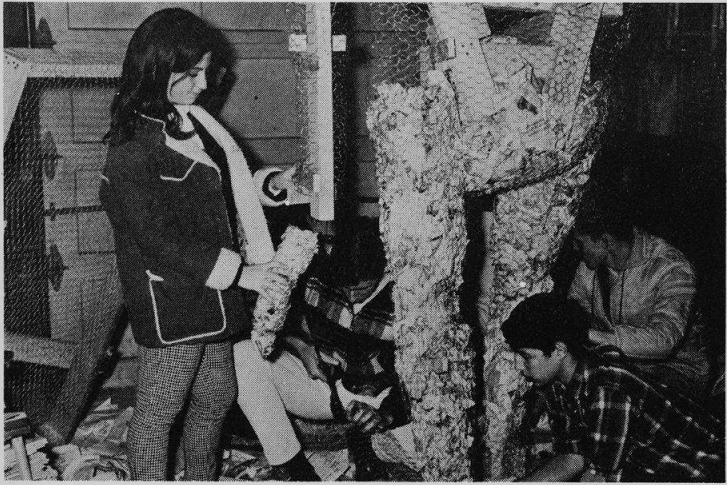

Old Orchard Theater parking lot was a scene of excitement the chilly morning of October 22nd. Everyone experienced the same relief and thrill as the floats left the parking lot to move through the streets of Skokie, eventually on to the football field. Though the mighty Trojans were defeated on the football field, the spirit of a wonderful homecoming lingered on through the entire weekend.

Into a Wonderland climaxes Homecoming weekend

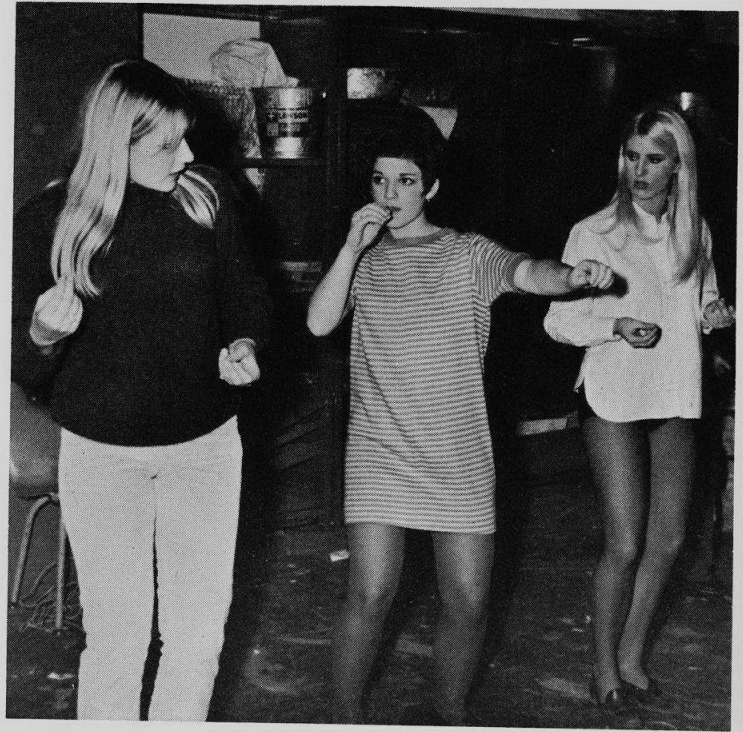

Students entered "Into a Wonderland" of white rabbits and Mad Hatters Saturday evening, October 22 at the 1967 Homecoming Dance. Couples danced to the music of the "Chicagoans" in a room that created an atmosphere like the dreamy wonderland of Lewis Carroll's Alice. The dance was climaxed by the crowning of the '67 Homecoming Queen, Katie Harmening, and her court of five other girls, escorted to her throne by members of the varsity football team. The dance represented the careful planning. "Into a Wonderland" was a successful climax to an eventful 1967 Homecoming weekend.

Thanks for the Memories pays tribute to old movies

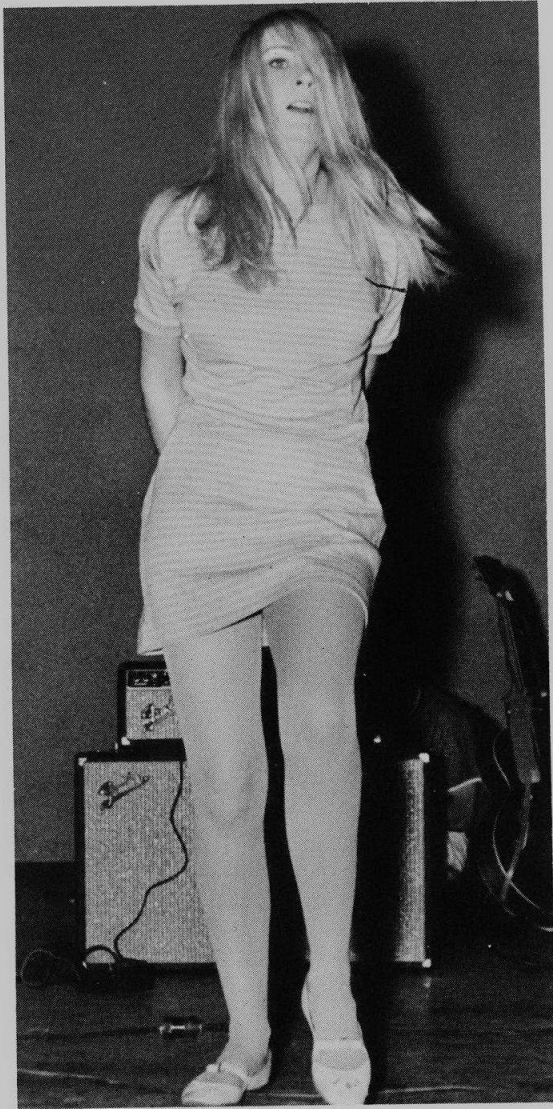

'Thanks for the Memories,' the 1968 Reflections Revelries, payed tribute to great motion pictures in America. The show began with Niles East's own version of a silent movie, a slapstick comedy film produced by a group of students about 'A Day in the Life of Harvey Nilehi.' The silent movies led to the speak-easies, where students danced to the Charleston and sang old-time favorites like 'Toot Toot Tootsie.' In a review of memorable movies, seniors presented their own version of 'East Side Story.' The show ended with a look at Beach Party Fiasco, modern movies and songs which included go-go dancers swinging to the sounds of 'Satisfaction' and 'My Girl.'

Also working behind the scenes of Reflections '68 was the stage band which provided accompaniment for the musical numbers, Director Mr. Proffit, Band Conductor Mr. Provost, Dance Director Mrs. Marshall, and Technical Director, Mr. Kent. The aid of all these people together with the originality and variety of the show made Reflections '68 a memorable one.

Dear Jenni,
 Surprisingly enough, he doesn't have any food in his hands!! It's been great fun in 2 orch & etc. Have a great time at Northwestern - see you in the fall

Winter Music Festival adds to the holiday season

The spirit of the holiday season rang forth from the Niles East auditorium on Sunday, December 17th, 1967. Under the leadership of directors Mr. Earl Auge, Mr. Leo Provost, and Mr. Richard Rusch, the many facets of the ever-growing music department combined to present the annual Winter Music Festival. Among the participating groups were the instrumental organizations which included the Concert Band and the Concert Orchestra. Featured in the vocal spotlight were the Girl's Glee, Mixed Chorus, Lorelei, and the celebrated Concert Choir. All the groups, who also sang highlights of the program for the school, gave an outstanding performance which added to the spirit of the holiday season.

Mr. Provost and student listen attentively as the music department presents highlights from the Winter Festival.

Dear Jerry,
 You seem to be so awfully sweet I can only be sorry that I didn't get to know you much better. But I'm leaving department will always rework in band.

 aspirations fulfill, and all the other successes and happiness you desire come to you.

"A Thousand Clowns" is a struggle for individualism

Nick (Mike Madnick carefully explains to Sandy (Eileen Klehr) and Albert (Robert Cooper) the anatomy and workings of his doll, Bubbles.

The '68 winter play cast and crew under the direction of Mr. Proffit experimented this year with their production of "A Thousand Clowns." Double casting was the new system, and the couple Eileen Klehr, 'Sandy,' and Chuck Dribin, 'Murray,' played on Friday night, and exchanged places with Randy Margules and Steve Melamed on Saturday night. This exchange gave both a challenge to the other players and a chance for variation in the roles.

The play relates the plight of Murray Burns, the genuinely self-made man, and his struggles to retain his nephew, Nick, and his individualism in a world that seemed intent on taking both. As the plot evolves, Sandy, a former social worker enters Murray's life, giving up both her job and her fiancé for him. The strong bond of love and warm humor between Murray and Nick, together with Murray's love for Sandy combine to make a moving and tender play.

Back stage of "A Thousand Clowns," a member of the make-up crew carefully assists Eric Palles in applying his make-up before he goes on stage for the play.

Sandy finds herself gradually slipping into Murray's pattern of life.

Murray (Chuck Dribin) explains to his brother Arnold (John Rest) his way of life.

Murray (C. Dribin) impatiently listens to a lecture from his brother.

Oh dear, Col. Pickering was not here.

Backstage, the "Music Man" is a scene of confusion and frantic work as actors get ready for the play.

Mayor Shinn (Bob Beazly) impatiently discusses River City affairs with his wife (Debbie Gurwitz).

The Music Man Professor Harold Hill (Phil Brushaber) horrifies the River City Citi-zians as he tells them they've got trouble.

"Music Man" rings out from the Niles East stage

Marian (Carol Propp) and Emerilis (Donna Dowlin) sing "Goodnight, My Someone."

Seventy-six trombones led the big parade of stars on March 17th and 18th in Niles East's production of "The Music Man," the '67 Spring Musical. Under the direction of Mr. Earl Auge, Mr. Jerry Proffit, and Mr. Richard Tendick, the cheerful musical told the story of Professor Harold Hill and his attempt to deceive the town's people of River City, Iowa. From the moment the professor stepped off the train in River City, his scheme was to deceive the River City-zians by selling them musical instruments without providing them with a music teacher. Gradually, though, as Harold finds himself getting more involved in own schemes, he falls in love with Marian the Librarian, who not only loves him, but who also tries to reform him. The story ends on a happy note for the professor, for just as the town is on the verge of discovering him as a phony, in marches River City's new band, decked out in new uniforms with dazzling new instruments that they proudly play to the amazement and delight of Harold.

*I saw Pody, Believe it or not that's me. That was a good musical, but MFL was many times better, especially since I knew you.
 Luck always

The entire cast of the "Music Man" gets together at the end of the play to sing the finale.

Prom king and queen, Bill Christensen and Ricki Kagan, surrounded by Court members Helene Zimmerman, Steve Plotkin, Bob Ficks, and Linda Lascoe, reign over the dance at the Pick Congress Hotel.

'Tender was the night' as happy couples weaved across the floor at the 1967 prom. On the chosen evening of May 26th, the strains of Don Carone and His orchestra filled the Pick Congress Hotel. The gold room created a beautiful atmosphere for the crowning of the prom king and queen, Bill Christensen and Ricki Kagan. The prom was the proud result of hard work and intricate planning on the part of the Junior Cabinet. A successful post-basketball dance and a concert featuring the New Colong Six and the Cryin' Shames were among the fund-raising projects. While prom marked the end of the senior's high school activities, it was only the beginning of a wonderful weekend.

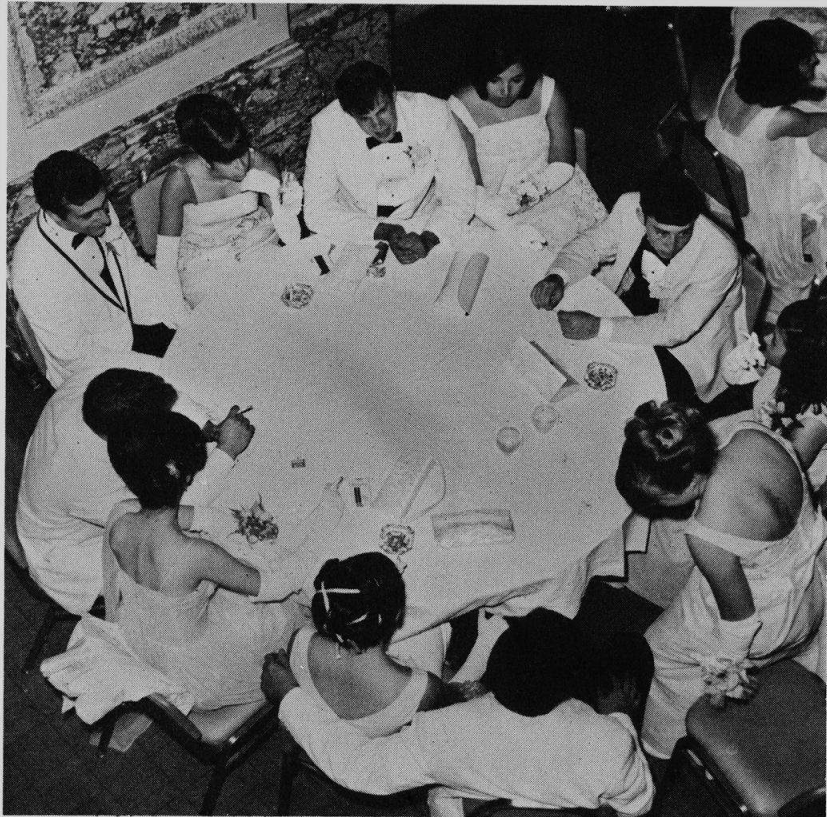

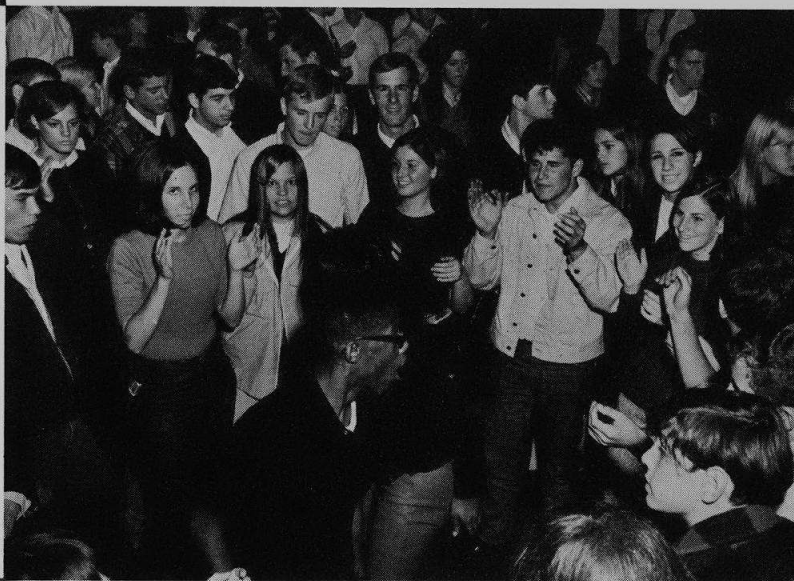

One of the honors of being Prom King and Queen for Bill Christensen and Ricki Kagan is leading the traditional Coronation Dance.

Varsity harriers pick up pace

Senior Arnie Rotkin overcomes one more obstacle in his journey to finish first place for Niles.

Plagued by a lack of participants, this year's varsity cross country team finished with a record of one and nine. The harriers' performance was better than their record shows. They lost two meets by only two points, and another by five points. The team came back for revenge and defeated the victors of the three close duel meets by placing fifth in the League. The outstanding event of the season was the Ridgewood Invitational, in which the team placed eleventh. This was a comeback for the harriers, who placed ahead of Niles North. Although no one from the team went to the state competition, it should be noted that even our two roughest competitors failed to produce qualifiers for the highly selective state tournament.

On your mark, get set, go- the cross-country team enters a meet.

Varsity Cross Country: C. Denis, G. Garbo, B. Gardiner, R. Settler, R. Roth, D. Schubert, J. Letzkus, A. Rotkin.

Frosh-Soph look to future

Roy Settler finds entering the chute difficult after a grueling two miles.

Harriers Jerry Letzkus and Bob Roth leave their adversaries far behind as they round the fourth post and sprint to victory.

The unimpressive performance by this year's Frosh-Soph harriers was not because of their lack of work. Again, the lack of participants seemed to be the cause of their placing seventh in the Suburban League. Two prominent sophomore members of the team, Bruce Glickson and Ken Kravitz, finished with one and two records. Bob Allen was an outstanding freshman participant of the cross country team, and with an increase in the number of Freshman harriers next year, Coach Winans predicts that the cross country record will surely improve.

A football renaissance

A dream becomes reality as the entire Trojan football team sweeps Coach Harkema into the air after defeating Niles West's Indians for the first time in Trojan history.

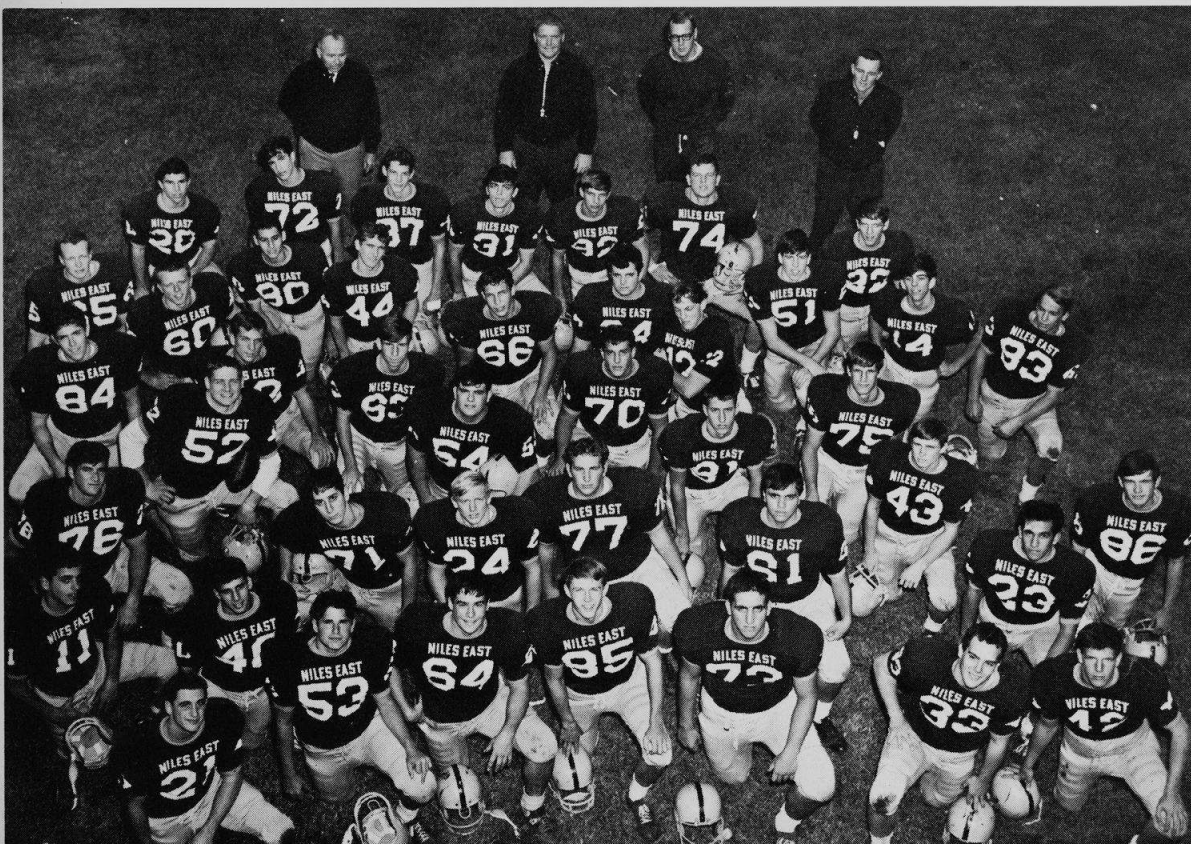

With cries of "Hit" ringing in their ears and no where to go but up, the Niles East football team took the gridiron this year. Led by their new coach, Jim Harkema, the Trojans compiled their best record in years and generated the first real football excitement felt here since the school split into two divisions.

The most thrilling moment of the season came in the opening game against Niles West when the Trojans beat the Indians. The following Saturday the Todd Bonner-Mario Corona combination proved to be too much for the Oak Park defense, and Niles sent the Westsiders tumbling.

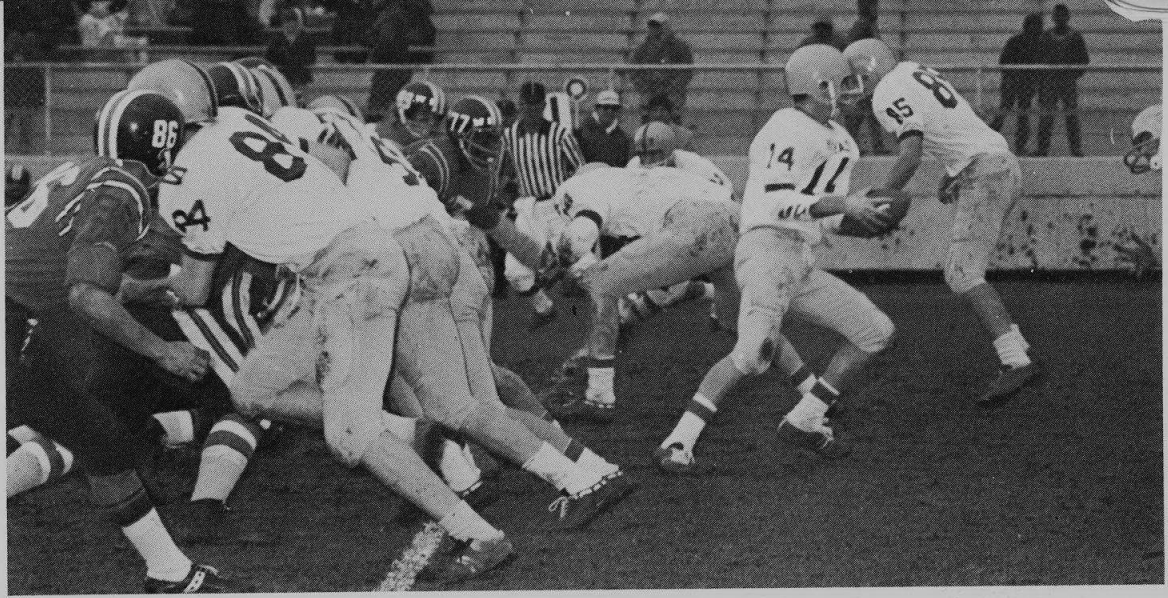

The Men of Troy picked up their second Suburban League win at Highland Park. Although the season's final game ended in defeat it was no disgrace as the Trojans became the only team to score fourteen points against the powerful Evanston squad.

The success of the 1967 varsity gridmen was made possible because of the individual effort of every member on the team. The Suburban League coaches recognized the outstanding efforts of Mario Corona and Pat Lustman by electing them to the All-Suburban League team. Mike Meyerhoff and Ron Harling were given honorable mention by the coaches. The school recognized the team by awarding a letter to every senior on the squad.

A scene that is now typical at East; the Trojan line exploding into the Kit defense.

Sophs sparkle in 2nd half

After making a sensational 2nd-half comeback to tie the game in their season opener against Niles West, the Sophomore gridders seemed to be on their way to a successful season.

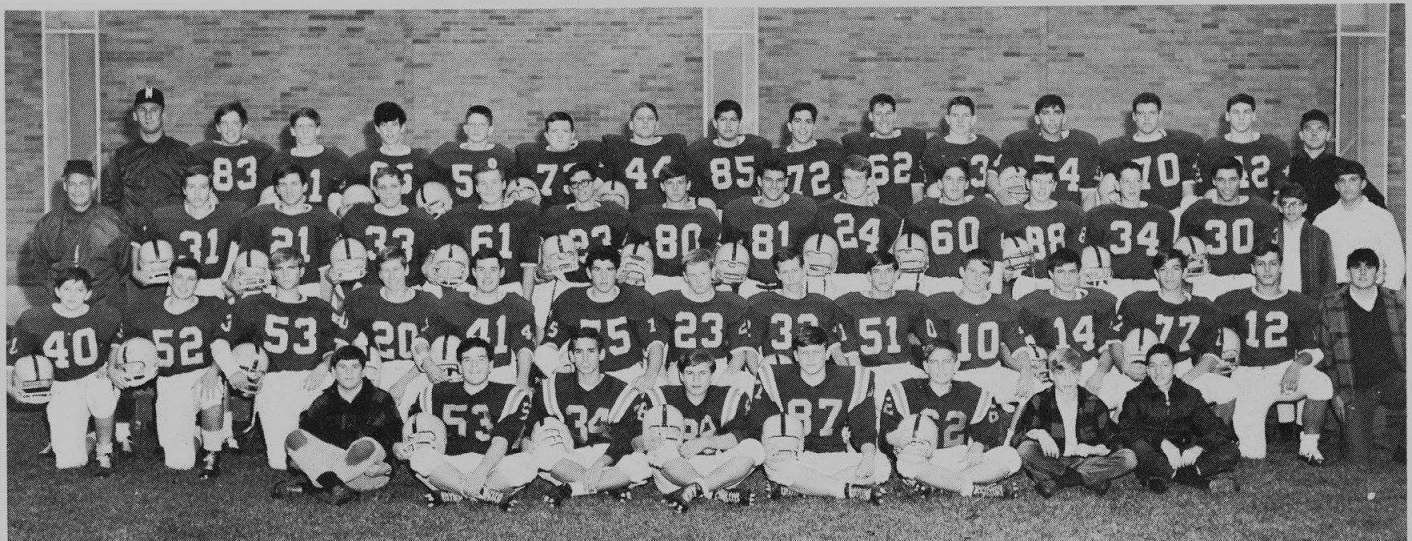

But following their deadlock against West, the Trojans met only once with victory, an impressive 38-0 battle with Morton. In hard-fought battles, the men of Troy failed to muster more than six points in each game, and on Homecoming, their attempts to register any score were futile.

The sophomores seemed to have their brightest moments in the second half, not only during their match with West; but in all their games. Their defense was consistently able to dampen any scoring attempts by the opposition. Stars as quarterback Pete Jungwirth and halfback Frank Siemsen, frequently helped Troy plunge into the end-zone as did linebacker Dan Hanley, who made 76 tackles during the season.

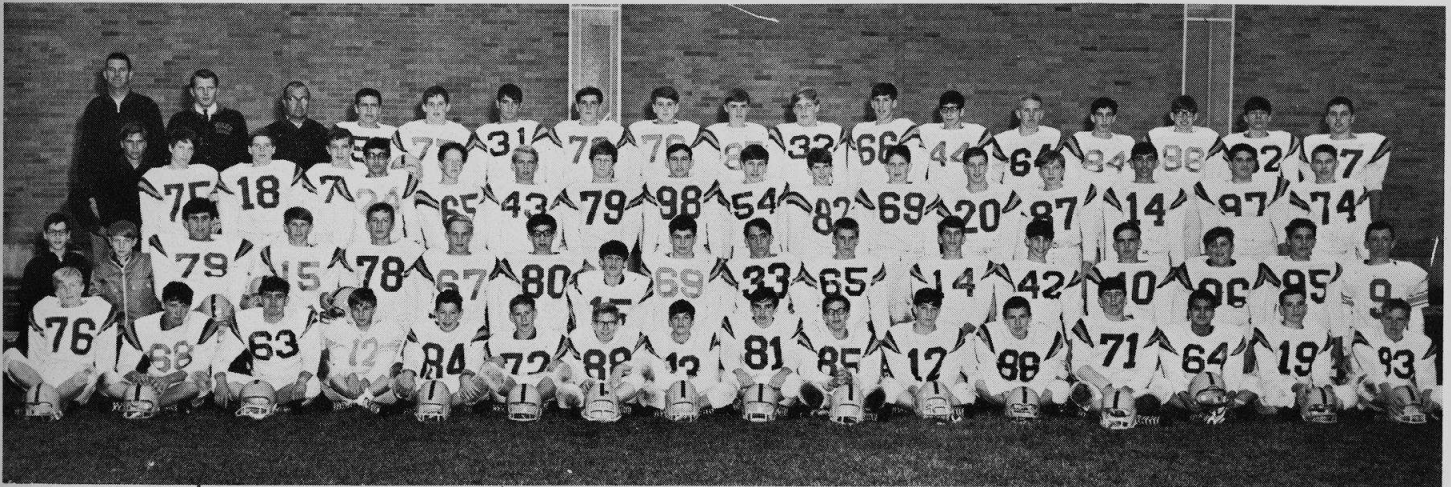

Evanston learns that all-Suburban Halfback Mario Corona can't be stopped when he smells a touchdown.

Another Husky understands the cry of "Hit" when an unidentified Trojan crashes through his interference.

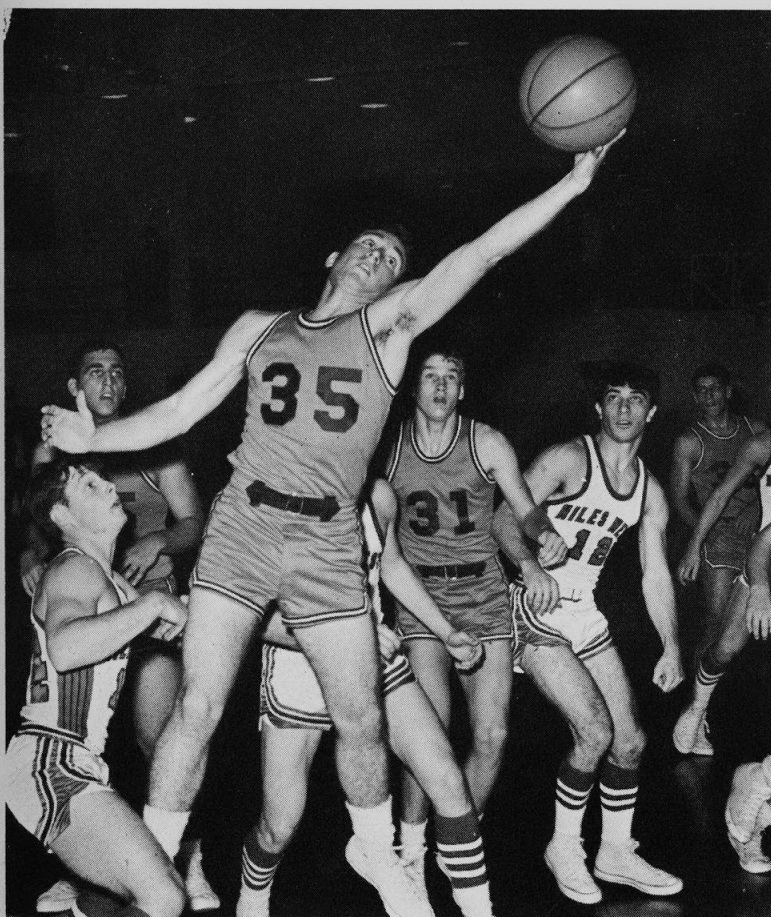

Undefeated in seven games, the Frosh "B" exemplified the "New" spirit at Niles East. They launched their conquest of the League at Oak Park, when they overwhelmed the Huskies 24-12. The turning point of the season was at Highland Park, when they took the effective passing attack of Rich Cleven and Jay Newmeister and beat the Giants 26-12. Until now the season had just been a prelude to a more devastating finale. The young Trojans were going to Evanston to play for the championship. At the end of the first half the gridsters found themselves on the short side of a 7-6 score. In the past other Trojan teams would have become apathetic and fallen to the wayside, but not this year. The team fought back and left the stunned Kits with a 12-7 defeat to capture the first championship that any East football team has ever won.

Senior Manager Rick Daitchman looks for Nick Paoulatos and Jay Nelson to help him.

Varsity Cagers crowned township champions

Senior Earl Wolf leaps high in the air and hooks another two pointer over a West guard. Earl played a large part in the victory over the tribe.

For the second year in a row, Niles East's cagers rolled to a prosperous season, solidifying the feeling that the school has embarked upon new era.

The 1967-'68 season was almost identical to the previous year. The Trojans finished with a 12-10 overall record.

Hampered throughout the season by a lack of height, East overcame this difficulty by prolific shooting and scrappy defensive play.

Leading the way for Niles were seniors Scott Glickson and Mark Bishop. Glickson was the top rebounder of the team and an honorary mention on the All-Suburban League team. Bishop finished third in league scoring and is considered to be the finest player to perform in the school's history. Mark was a second team All-League election.

The Trojans started off the season with three straight wins and the township championship. Two weeks later the cagers captured their first conference win when they nipped Highland Park in the last five seconds of play.

In December the Trojans were on hand to defend their Holiday tournament crown at Niles North. After easily winning their first round game over over Maine East, Troy was tripped up by Niles North. However, the Trojans wipped Woodstock to take a third.

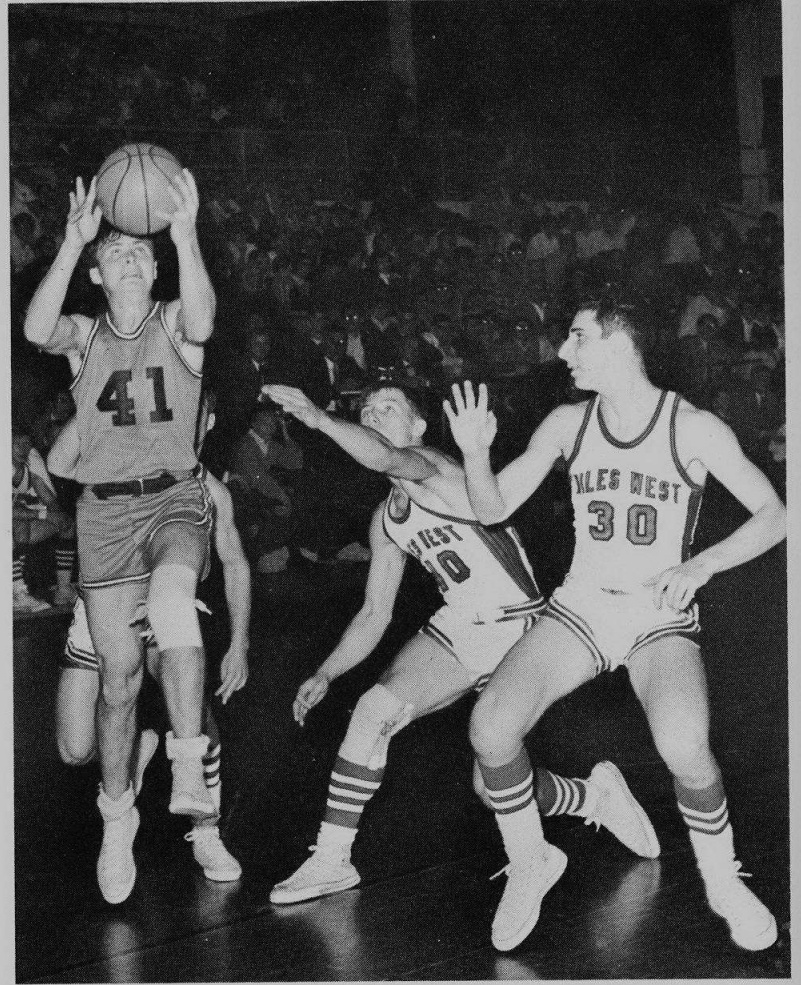

Although Coach Pooley has lost his five starting seniors in graduation, with juniors Bob Vossel and John Hutter returning next season, he feels the varsity outlook is a bright one.

Sophomores display courage

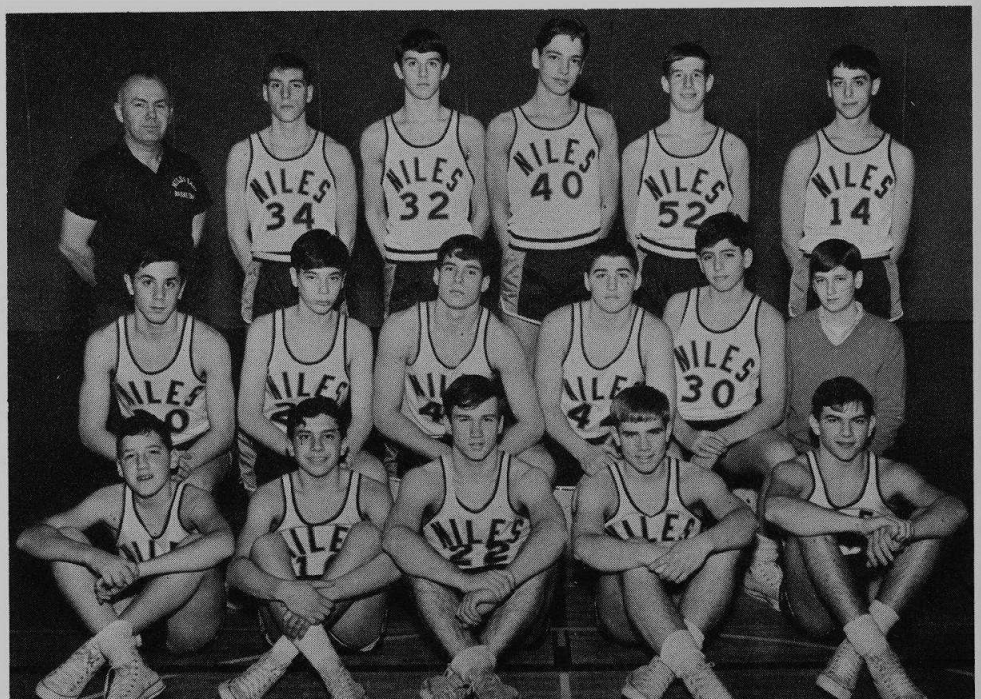

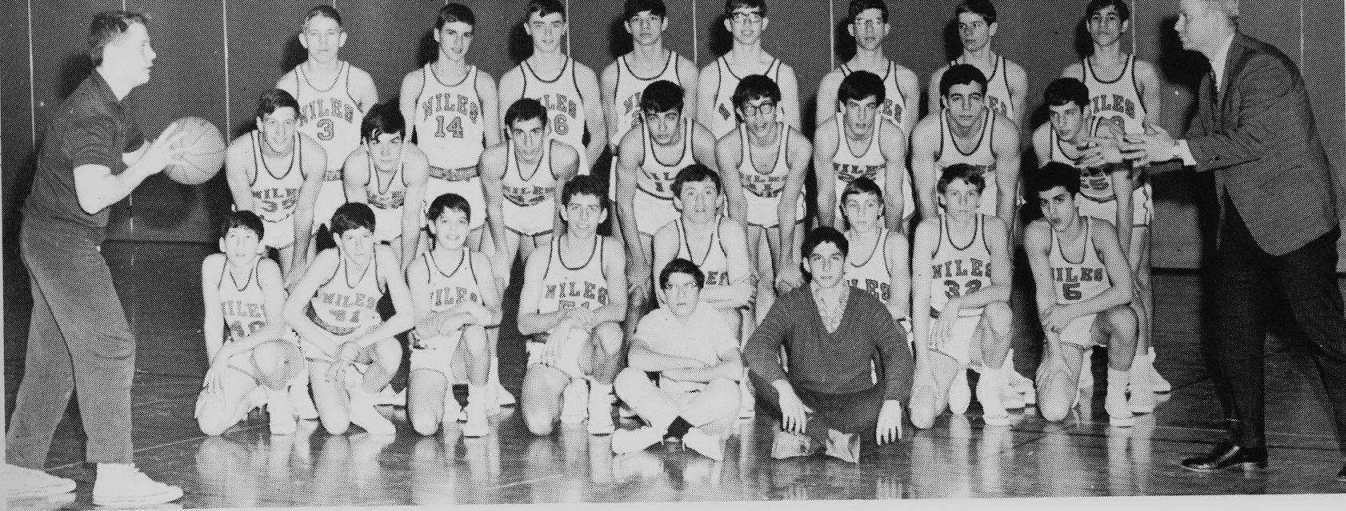

Returning letterman Scott Glickson finds himself in an awkward position from which to shoot.

Senior guard Mike Cummings drives in hard against Niles West as his Indian opponents stand helpless.

Freshman look to future

Senior Mark Bishop leaves enemy cagers behind as he takes a break away pass up court for a lay up.

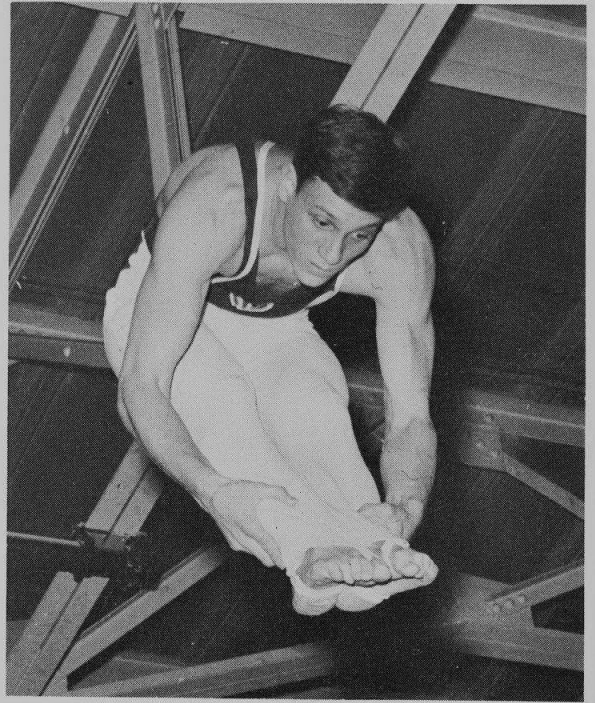

The Sophomore basketball team encountered a disappointing season. The cagers had a 1 and 13 record in league competition. Varsity coaches, however, feel optimistic about next year. With players like Bruck Glickson and Norm McCray returning, the varsity outlook is bright.

Although the Freshman "A" and "B" teams finished with poor records, much promise was shown on an individual level. The "A" team, hurt by two major midseason dropouts, finished seventh in the Suburban League, with a 2-10 record. The "B" team failed to fare any better than their "A" team counterparts, posting a 4-11 overall record. Warren Eliat and Mike Maylahn led the Trojans to victories over perennial rivals West and North. The coaches feel that these teams have potential that can be realized through hard work and desire.

Varsity gymnasts take fourth in state

This past year, Coach Sokalski commented that the varsity gymnastics team has had a good dual meet season with a nine and four record and fourth place rating in the Suburban League. Many men deserve acknowledgement. Lee Sandler took a second-place score at the league meet on the trampoline. Seymour Rifkind had all first place ratings in three all around events and took first place on the parallel bars. Jeff Levin took third on the parallel bars. Hector Mandel, the coach said, had a fine duel meet record. Bob Quintinales has been a fine contributor to the varsity scoring. Those who had reinforced the scoring attack were Dave Levin, Rich Nagel, Mike Zissman, Steve Kite, and Junior Gary Deutsch.

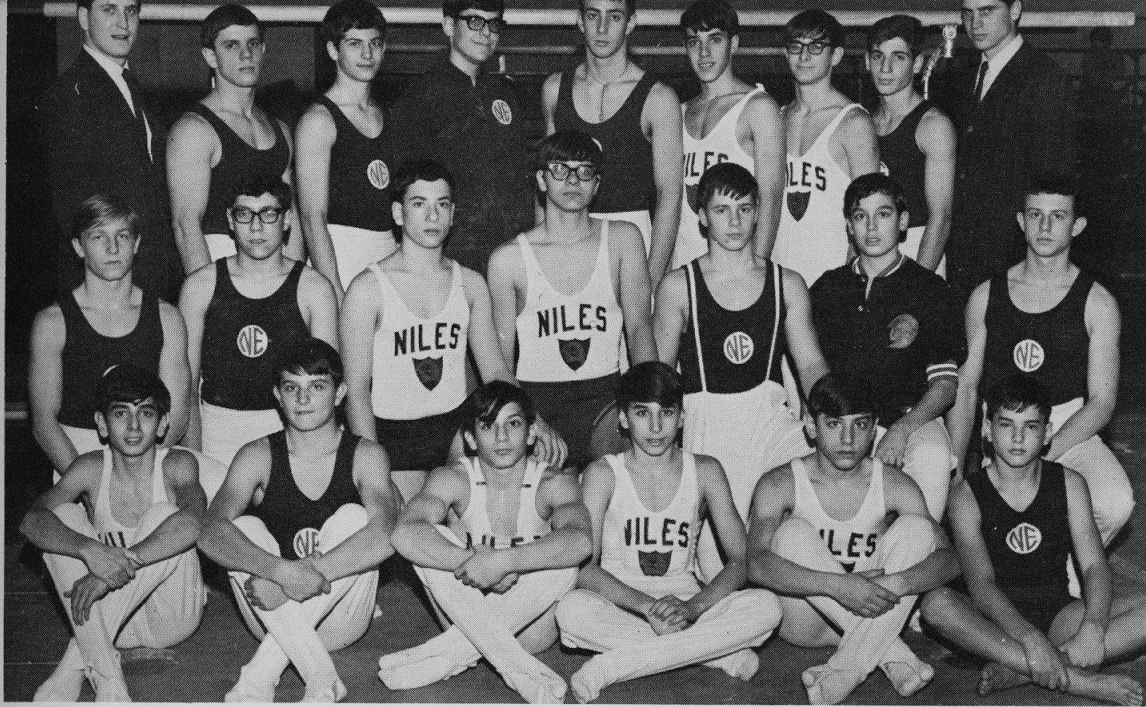

On March 16, Niles East took fourth place in state competition. Junior Seymour Rifkind contributed to the success by taking third on parallel bars and eighth in all around. Also on parallel bars, Steve Kite ranked sixth place and Jeff Levin took seventh. Hector Mandel represented our team on the trampoline by taking ninth place. With the excellent sophomore team, assisted by returning juniors Seymour Rifkind and Bob Quintinales, Niles East can look forward to another successful season.

Senior gymnast Lee Sandler perfects his routine before a meet.

Underclassmen have talent and poise

Junior p-bar man, Seymour Rifkind, displays perfect form in his state contending routine.

The Freshman team began this year with a large number of participants. Because of injuries only nine boys finished the season. Among these boys, David Cech took second place in the Waukegan Freshman Invitational in the all around event and fifth in the Suburban League meet.

The Sophomores finished fourth in the league. Led by Wayne Sandler and Dave Simon, the team had a final record of eight and five.

Senior Jerry Raiber begins his difficult dismount on the horse.

Trackmen have versatility and depth

Senior broad jumper George Joslyn finds himself high in the air during practice.

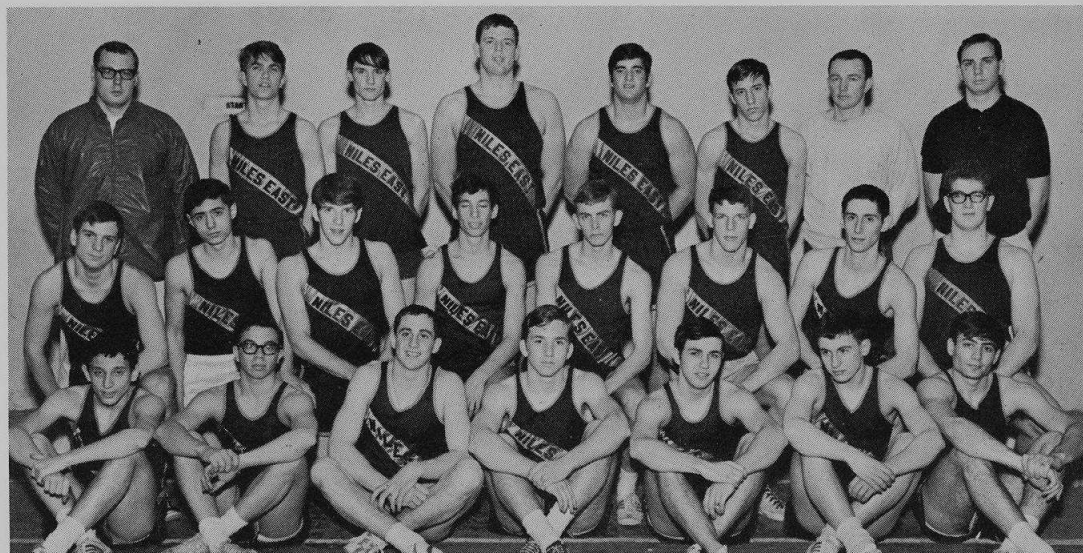

The Niles East cindermen began to pick up momentum as the '68 season progressed. The strength of the team lay in the versatility in the runners and the depth at each event. The two milers, Jerry Letzcus and Bob Roth, who ran one and two against Glenbrook North, consistently scored valuable points in each event. Outstanding individual performances in the quarter mile and fifty yard dash were turned in by Bill Gardiner, George Gargano, George Joslyn, and Mike Rich. Coach Oatly felt that Mike's overpowering speed, 5.5 seconds in the fifty, gave him an excellent chance for state honors.

in other events, Rich only once failed to win the With only early season losses, close battles against Proviso and Maine East, coaches Oatly, Harkema, and Ristow were optimistic about the upcoming outdoor season.

All state hopeful Mike Rich practices his hurdling form. Mike has been clocked in the fifty yard dash in 5.5 seconds.

Frosh - Soph find enthusiasm and desire

Enthusiasm, willingness to work, and a desire to win; these are the qualities a winning team needs. Coach Oatly instilled these feelings within his young trackmen. This year's team was led by the four lap relay team which took second place in the Suburban League meet. This was an unusual accomplishment for a Niles track team, but it is a tradition these men can establish. With sophomores like Jasper Tavallaci and Pete Jungworth next year's varsity track team should be a threat to the league.

Unnoticed in recent years, the varsity swimming team splashed into the limelight this past season. After finishing in sixth place in the Suburban League, the mermen envisioned a state championship. Leading the way for the tanksters was junior Jim Hawkins, who became the state district champ and was favored to become the 1968 breaststroke champion. He qualified fifth in the finals with a time of 1:04.7. Another excellent performance was turned in at the preliminaries by freestyler Paul Katz. His 22:4 time qualified him for a second place. In the finals, Katz placed sixth with a time of 23:1. It must be noted, however, that fourth, fifth, and sixth places were very close together. The Trojans finished up the finals when Katz and Hawkins teamed up with juniors Wayne Thomas and Lee Bollow in the 200-yard medley relay. The relay team took fourth place, posting a time of 1:44.9. The men of Troy swan for 43 points that afternoon and on March 1, 1968 placed ninth in the state meet. Since the strength of this year's team lay in juniors, next seasons varsity swimming picture is a bright one. With the return of Jim Hawkins, Paul Katz, Lee Bollow, Wayne Thomas, and a talented sophomore, Jim Simon the varsity mermen may become the next state champions:

Jim Hawkins practices the breast stroke during a practice session. Jim took third place in the state competition this year as a junior.

Varsity Tanksters: ninth in state

The sophomore swim team suffered in meets because their four best swimmers, Jim Simon, Rich Schubery, Alan Witt, and Dan Kalin, swam varsity most of the season. Coach Larson felt that these boys had potential and wanted to give them varsity experience.

The 1967-68 wrestling season was a time for gaining experience. Coach Hassman took over the coaching reins and found himself with a Varsity team comprised solely of underclassmen. In the won-lost column the team was not successful, winning only one dual meet, but the experience gained will prove to be invaluable. The season was not without its highpoints, the quadrangular victory over Glenbrook, New Trier, and Wheeling, and Phil Figa's 9-4-1 record helped brighten the otherwise dismal year.

Next year's squad will be a coach's dream—a team of seniors and juniors all with one year of Varsity experience under their belts. Led by Bill Stapelfeld, Figa, and a solid Heavyweight line-up, the Trojan wrestlers have a bright future.

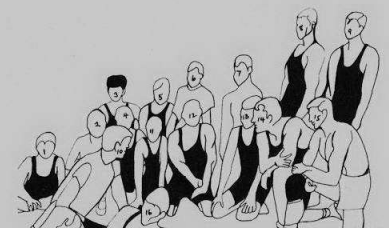

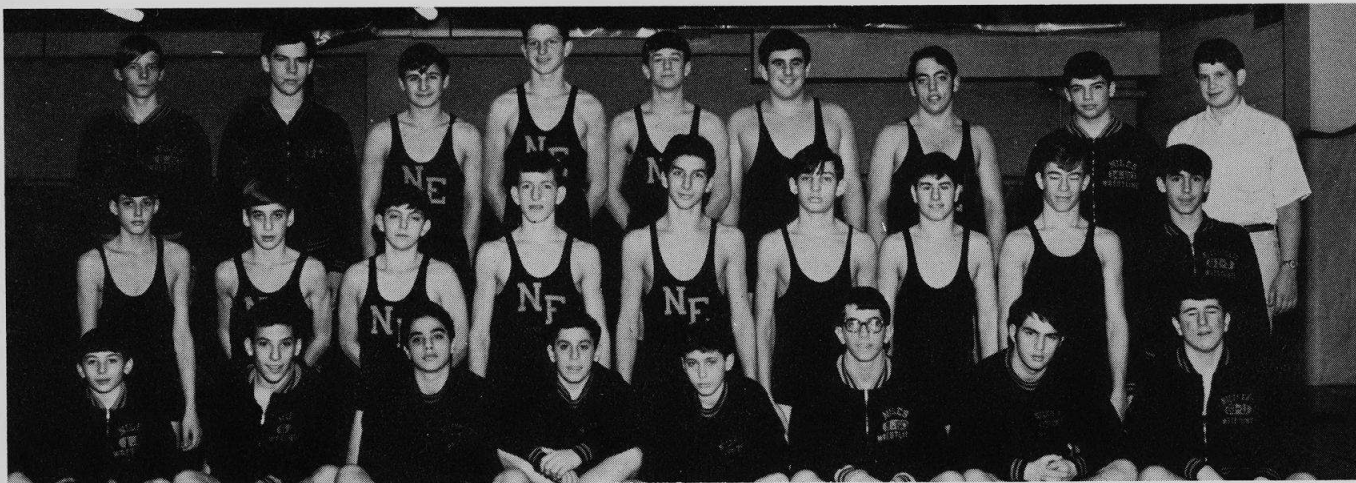

With muscles taut, Tim Gunderson struggles to stay on his feet.

The sophomore wrestling team posted a 1-13 season record. The lone victory was, however, a rout of Oak Park in which seven of ten Trojan wrestlers were victorious. Mike Ross led the team with ten victories. Ken Kravitz and Harold Witkov each won nine matches. Jack Kandel won four of his last five matches. These grapplers should help strengthen next year's Varsity team.

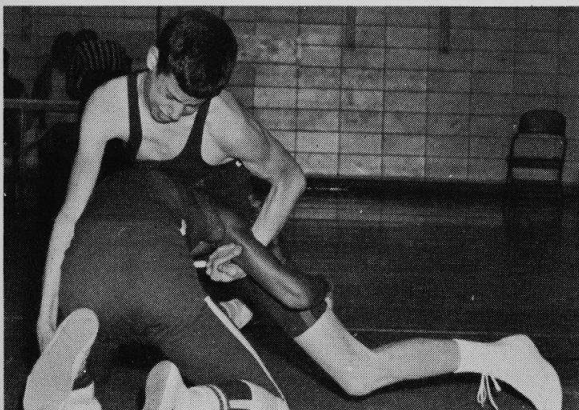

With his opponent under control, Bill Schmitzer begins to work for one of the many pins he scored this season.

"On guard," cries Larry Narker, as his piercing eyes size up his opponent during their practice session.

The varsity fencers once again finished high in state competition. Led by the most valuable player, Marty Fraeman, and junior Tom Phillippo, the team finished fifth in state. Since there were no senior participants this past year, Coach Keen expects his juniors to have a highly successful season and a possible state championship in the upcoming season.

Headed by president Mark Bishop and vice president Scott Glickson, the N-Club, 65 members strong, had a very active year. The club raised funds by holding two car washes and helped the individual classes raise money by sponsoring an "Ugly Man Contest." Many school sponsored events used N-Club assistance. The ushers at the basketball games, the Booster Club's Wrestling Event, and the hall monitors for Parent's Night, were all N-Club members. The lettermen's support made it possible for a team of Trojan coaches to compete in the Skokie City Basketball League. It wasn't all work and no play, however, as club members attended the Purdue-Northwestern basketball game in January. It also must be noted that former N-Club member, Neal Kamin was awarded the first Al Beck Memorial Award now given annually to an athlete who displays academic ability. The 67-68 N-Club served the school well, and typified the new wave of spirit that swept Niles East this year.

Coach Odlivak confident that

Senior first baseman Phil Leibowitz, an all-league hopeful, illustrates his long stretch before a game.

If spirit, ability, and power were determining factors in the success of a baseball team, there was no reason why the 1968 Trojan diamondmen couldn't capture at least the Suburban League title. Led by talented pitchers, seniors Dave Diamond and all-Suburban League Don Siegal, the entire team was confident that they had the ability to win. Assisting Diamond and Siegal, who won all of the team's Suburban League games last year, were promising juniors Al Mitchell and Theo Prousis. The team got hitting from junior Rich Becker and seniors Bob Gottlieb and Phil Leibowitz. If the spirit of the team prevails, if the pitchers can continue to baffle opposing hitters, and the batters can continue pounding out runs, it seems that 1968 could be another good year for East baseball.

An all-Suburban league pitcher as a junior, senior Don Siegal won all of Niles conference victories last year.

Coach Robert Baumgartner was looking for a first place Suburban League finish for his sophomore baseball squad. The team was banking on good pitching and overall defense to accomplish this feat. Offensively they were led by the hitting of Ralf Sataloe and Rich Rothstein.

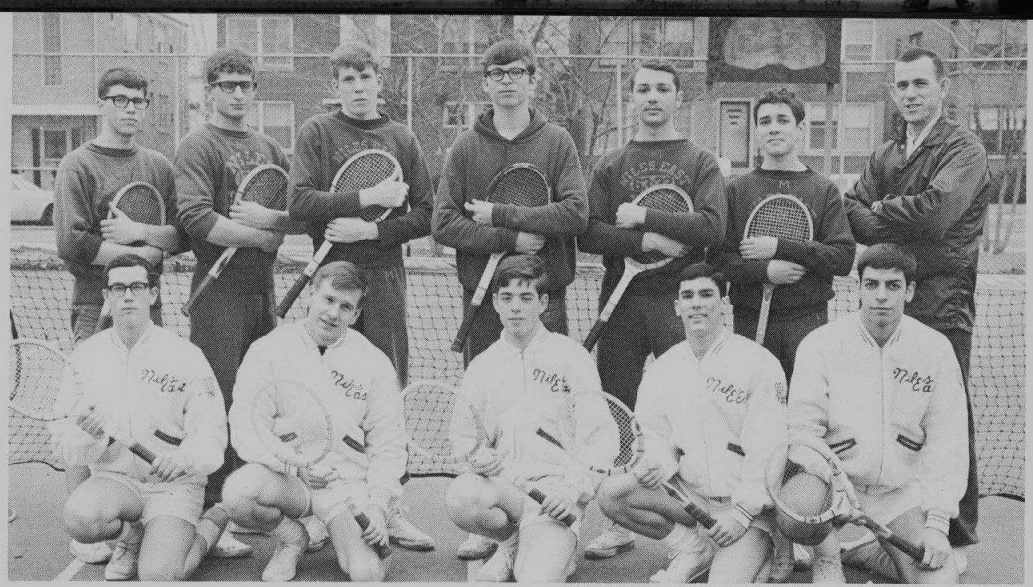

On the freshman level, Coach George Yursky said that pitching was the key. Great catching and a fine infield gave this team a balanced attack and the look of a winner. Perhaps more important than any of these factors was the enthusiasm and spirit which both teams displayed.

Last year as a sophomore, Rich Becker was the first string catcher and led the team in batting.

District champs prepare to open season

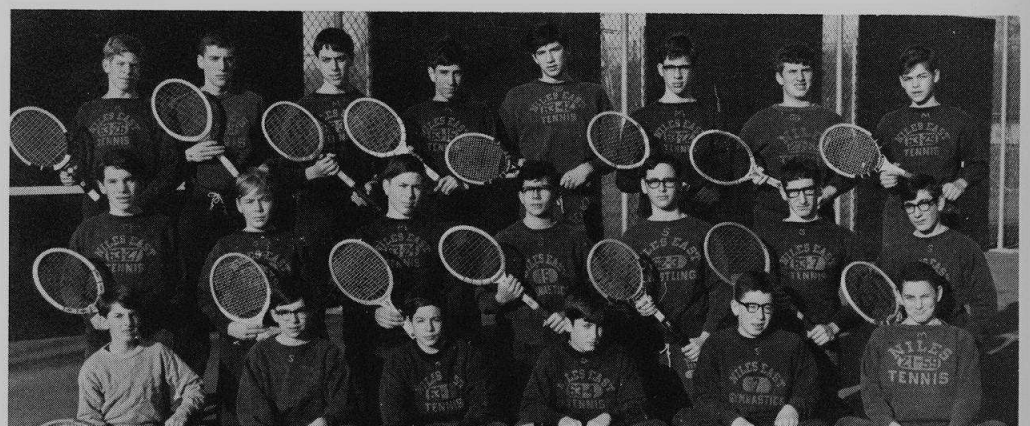

The coming of spring marked the beginning of a building season for our varsity tennis squad. Coach Morrison relied heavily on the talent of juniors Ernie Miller and David Wiggins to add to the winning ability of seniors Mark Bishop, Scott Glickson, and Bob Newlin. The team intended to equal last years first place District Championship.

The Frosh-Soph tennis team of Coach Len Winans promised to develop some fine varsity netmen. Tony Paugoulatios and Marc Berger are among those who contributed to a successful season.

Linksters ready to go

This years' varsity linksters were optimistic about the upcoming season. Led by returning letterman Bob Gats, who last year had a season average of 89.7, the team tried to improve upon last year's record. Other returning seniors Bill Bruch, who shot a 93.3; and Don Clevin, who had a season average of 94.8. It must be noted that this year Suburban League meets were nine hole events, not the customary eighteen. This had a beneficial effect on our golfers.

Unexpectedly but delightfully for Coach Lueck, an unusually large number of freshmen and sophomores came out for golf this past season. Coach Lueck then picked his seven starting linksters. He took his young Trojans, three times weekly, to Arlington Country Club where he stressed the fundamentals of the game.

Intramural program

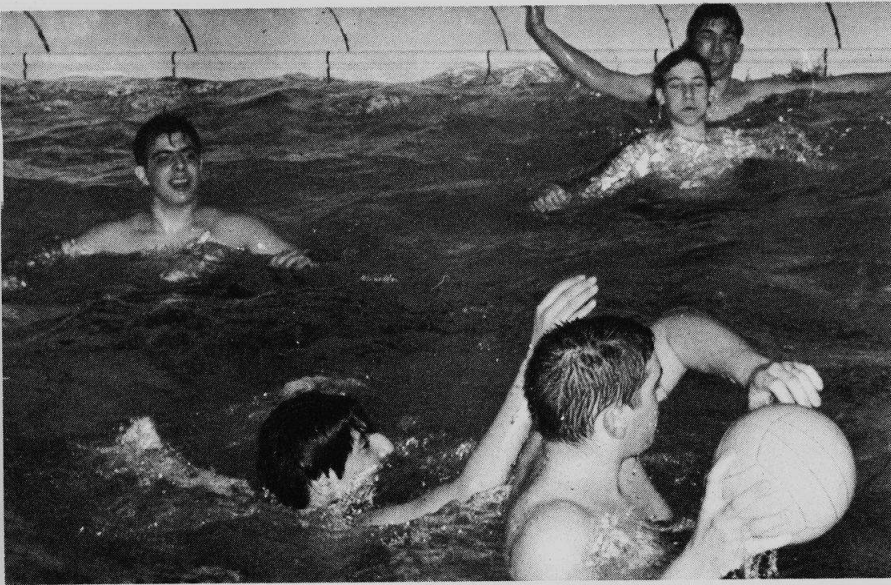

Physical conditioning is a major aspect of intramurals.

The purpose of intramurals is to provide an opportunity for the mass of students to participate in school sponsored sports activities. In the intramurals program, the student can find recreation, social contacts, team and school spirit, improved health and physical fitness, team and individual competition and leadership. Eligibility requirements are minimal so that as many students as possible may participate in the program. This past year, Mr. Marshall Edwards, faculty advisor to the intramural program, said the program has allowed boys to take part in: gymnastics free play, recreational swimming, basketball, physical conditioning, tennis, bowling, and water polo. Approximately 500 boys participated in the intramurals program during the 1967-1968 school year.

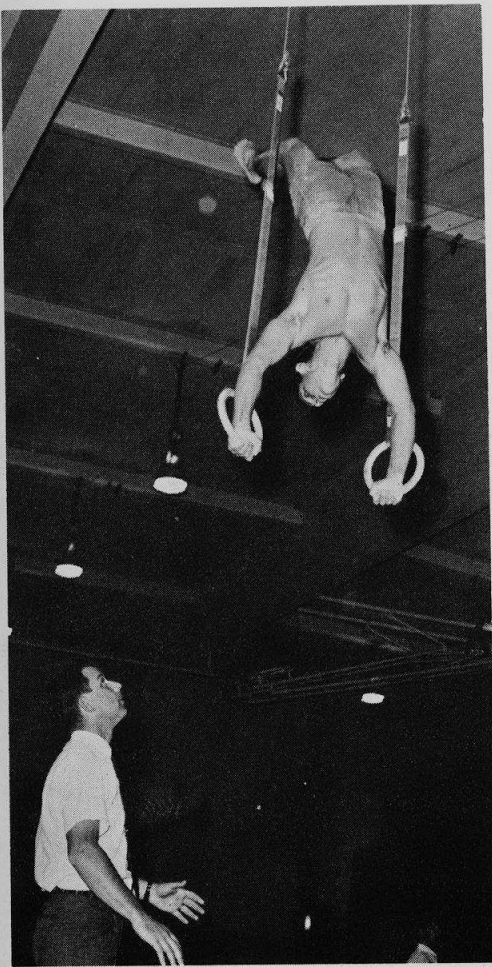

The intramural track program is an exceptionally fine one that is also used by many athletes keeping in shape for their sport.

has the action

Many boys find water polo one way to ease tension after a long day at school.

Mr. Plock gives instruction to a gymnastic enthusiast.

Once a week after school, intramural bowling goes into action.

This year, the Girl's Athletic Association expanded its program of activities. In addition to after school activities, G.A.A. sponsored two co-educational recreation nights. Teachers and students were invited to practice their volleyball skills or to swim. The after school intramural program offered both basketball and badminton in addition to the usual activities of tennis, free swim, volleyball, and softball.

Also included in G.A.A., are several organizations for girls with special talents. Ripplettes, a girl's swimming club, sponsored a water show in which rhythmic swimming, water ballet, and colorful costumes were highlights. Members of Orchesis danced in both the Reflections Talent Show and the annual musical. A master ballet lesson by the New York Ballet Company was also held for Orchesis members to help improve their techniques. The gymnastics team participated in several interscholastic meets and produced its second annual show. New this year were several field trips in which members of the gymnastics team participated.

Physical development and self-understanding are the two goals of the Girl's Athletic Association. To encourage this, a deserving Senior girl was presented with a G.A.A. scholarship at the annual awards assembly at the close of the school year.

As directors, G.A.A. officers channel the interest and activity of the Girl's Athletic Association's members. Jeanne Jungwirth (Vice-president), Shelli Friedman (Secretary), Kathy Kamin (President), and Cindy Ellis (Treasurer).

"Pep! Pep! Pep! We've got it . . ." could be the motto of another Trojan team, the Niles East cheerleaders. Possessing an endless supply of enthusiasm and energy, they are present at every basketball and football game. Any Freshman, Sophomore, or Junior girl may try out in the spring for the next year's squad if she is physically and academically eligible. The present Senior Varsity cheerleaders are responsible for sponsoring a three day clinic in which aspiring cheerleaders learn the cheers, jumps, and techniques necessary. The girls chosen practice diligently through the summer in order to be ready for fall sports at the beginning of the new school year. This past fall Booster Club made a generous donation to purchase new basketball uniforms for the Varsity squad. The gold and blue uniforms were worn for the first time on Parent's Night. This year the new sticker buttons were sold by the Freshman, Sophomore, and Varsity cheerleaders during the basketball season. This was another way in which the cheerleaders fulfilled their purpose of encouraging the Trojan teams and promoting school spirit and unity.

Gail Moffett's frenzied dancing draws stares from onlookers.

The Freshman Class entered high school hoping that Niles East would fulfill its expectations. Early in the year, the Freshman Mixer provided the Class of 1971 with the opportunity to meet new people and join in the action at Nilehi. They continued to participate in the activities of their school on Gold and Blue Day and at the first pep-assembly.

The Frosh did not want to be neglected. They were determined to make their Class an important and an equal part of Niles East. The Freshmen made their first contribution by cheering the "B" football team on to its undefeated season, and the Suburban League championship. The Class learned about school government by participation in their class cabinet and Student Council. By June, the Freshmen had found their own place in the whirl of activity that is Niles East.

Frosh take the first step up the ladder of achievement.

Marcy Kipnis finds thinking of boys more exciting than adjectival clauses--especially on a Friday afternoon.

"Looking back; looking ahead" was the motto of the Sophomore Class. They looked at their Freshman companions and saw in them reflections of the way they looked just a year ago. Throughout the year, Sophomores were active building floats, selling class rings and buttons, and entering a booth in the school carnival, Panic '68. By participating in school clubs and activities, the class of '70 became more and more aware of their surroundings.

Sophomores gained new status. No longer having to awaken early on a Saturday morning, they could watch the Sophomore gridmen fight it out at a more respectable hour. Now the Sophomores look ahead to a year of achievement and action as upper-classmen.

"Therefore the earth will NEVER collide with the moon," explains Debbie Gold.

While members of the Class of 1969 were experiencing their third year at Nilehi East, many of them relived the chaos of Freshman year in the newly instituted nine period day. During the year, the Juniors were introduced to a new alphabet—the APP, PSAT, SAT, and ACT. This "alphabet" was just some of the college preparatory tests administered in the Junior year. The Class sold "Super Class" buttons to promote class loyalty and aid in financing the Junior-Senior Prom held during the spring. The Juniors entered a class "B" float in the annual Homecoming parade, "Through the Looking Glass." In addition to sponsoring the post-game dance after a grueling basketball game with Highland Park, the Class also promoted a highly successful concert featuring Tommy James and the Shondells. The Junior Class of '69 experienced an exciting, action-packed year before stepping into their role a next year's Seniors.

Seniors

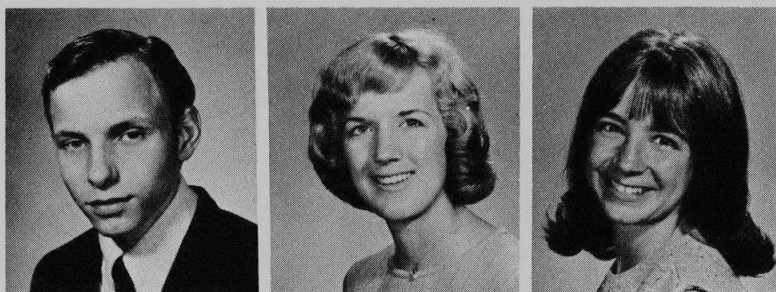

Gale Johnson demonstrates the strength of the female sex by defeating Mark Brachman.

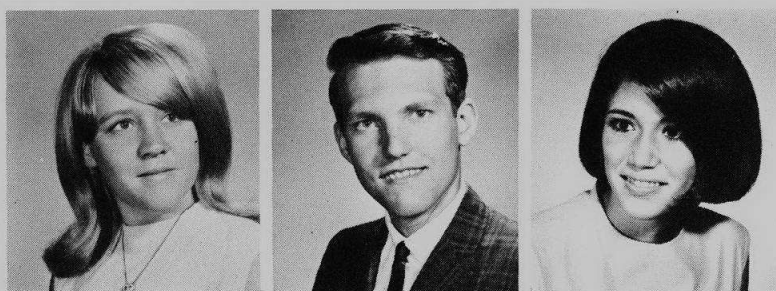

The Class of '68 wore "Great '68" buttons as Freshmen, gold and blue beanies as Sophomores, looks of envy as Juniors, and finally "caps and gowns" as Seniors. Seniors led the action at East as they presided over the many facets of the school. As members of the class were recognized for scholastic achievement at the annual Academic Awards Assembly, they recalled Ellen Aprill's being named 1967 Presidential Scholar in her senior year. Eighty seniors participated in an experimental course, Humanities. They sponsored the Homecoming Dance and were treated to the Prom. Seniors frequented the student lounge and were easily recognized by their "Niles East" tee-shirts. Campaigning for the Senior lounge, chanting "Seniors, Seniors" at Pep Assemblies, and having Senior Bermuda Day, became a blur of activities as graduation approached; the seniors contemplated past successes and looked to further Achievement through Action in college or business.

*As the mainspring of the watch continues to unwind,
The school moves to complete the cycle of the year.
Yet the action will continue through the summer
until the rewine rewinding in September*

Acknowledgement

Capturing the action of the school requires the work of many people whom we wish to acknowledge. Our sincere thanks to Mr. Art Colver, administrative adviser, and to our sponsors, Mr. Ray Kittredge and Mr. Mel Pirok, who guided our pursuit of the action.

For their technical aid we thank the Norman King Co., publishers, Root Studios, photographers, and the student photographers who contributed their creative ability.

Our appreciation is especially extended to the section editors, Nancy Alexander, Sandra Edelman, Gail Estrin, Ellen Fabian, Barbara Kruglick, Richard Loochtan, Joyce Nicholas, Bill Oppenheimer, and Curt Rodin, and their staffs for delving into the activities and creating the achievement through action.

Gratefully,
Nancy Dunn

Dearest Jennie,

How is that for a wish?!
 You know, we really have something going here -- this year and last year both.
 Now! Have we had some dilemmas, excitement, disappointments, unexpected surprises, hurts and a lot of happiness and fun. I want to, first of all, wish you adventure, because no one should be without that - ever. Next the best of luck always. And thirdly, only the best of love -- don't settle for anything less.
 I'll see you over the summer.

Luv,
 Connie

Dear Jennie,
I don't think any two people have ever been as close friends as we are.
I'm sure will be friends for the rest of our lives (at least I hope so). We've remained friends for It's so hard to write to you because I time. I hope that continues, too. This year started out like an explosion and is ending up in smoke.

Oh well, maybe things will work out after all. We've had a lot of friends in common as well as enemies - April is a pretty package. We're still got Northwestern to look forward to and next year (yeh!). I hope next year starts out like this year and ends a lot better.
I know this all sounds silly and true, but what else can I write. Love always,
Debbie - your friend

Dear Jennie,

Dear Jennie,
Doubtless you realize that we have not always agreed on everything, Senator Dirksen and all that. But you must also realize that I respect you highly, perhaps have even some affection for you, even if you always seem to be too busy for me. As for the future, may you have the best that anyone can bestow upon you. Looking forward to the future, perhaps both of us at Northwestern. With fondest love,

Hi! Jim (Jennie)

Well this has really been a crazy year. All the way from getting locked inside a mushroom at Homecoming to the plot behind the book we're writing. I'm really glad I've gotten to be good friends with you. This summer we've really got to work to keep the group together. I hope they'll all be just as much fun as this year. I hope everything turns out for the best with you.

Your Friend,
Nack

Dear Jennie,
I really don't know you to well, but I enjoy your company, and friendships. I will always remember the fun we had working on the float. May God bless you and keep you safe always,
Love Always,

 Dear Jennie,
 It's too bad we couldn't meet under more fortunate conditions than sociology class. Keep practicing your music, and you might get it some day! Good luck senior year.

Dear Jennie,
 First let me suck in a good breath. I feel funny signing your yearbook now because things are by no means over. I don't even know what to write to you. This year you've been a very special friend to me. Remember freezing on the ladder to put the Trojan's nose on. Things have been a blast this year. What will I do without you next year, of course it will be easier for me to see you than for you to get to me. Good luck with the Publishing House and all the people in the "many lines (loves?) of Jennie Rodgers." I hope things turn out for you the way you want it. What more can I say other than repeat the whole year? All I can say is except Best of Luck and see you at the Music House this summer. (I'll especially ask for you) Have fun.

 Have fun in Humanities

Dear Jennie,
 It's been a fantastic year in music. I'm glad you were in the class. It was nice to see a person who really knew something in that class. Best of luck in the music dept. I'll be back in the music dept. next year waiting everyone.
 Love,

'The Ivy Walls of Learning'

What We Have Learned

YES, SENIORS, it's all over. The jaunt through what everyone told you would be "the four happiest years of your life" is now only memory. Through your quest for knowledge, you have learned many things that will provide you with inspiration for the coming years.

You learned in the past four years that if these were the happiest, you will probably put yourself out of misery at the age of 25.

Henry David Thoreau taught you civil disobedience while administrators warned you to "keep your bassoon in tune."

You learned that freedom kills and knelt to weep and pray for your loving administrators and teachers who saved your life by depriving you of any.

'Memories Are Made of This'

You learned that your senior portrait would make you look a lot better than you really are. This was extremely heartening because your I.D. picture made you look so much worse.

AS FRESHMAN, you learned that Goldwater was a warmonger who would escalate the war in Vietnam. You slept more securely after that election.

You learned that potato chips, as well as cigarettes, are illegal.

You learned that buck-buck, as well as Red Rover, is a no-no, and that chicken fights are for chickens only.

You learned that Niles East is a great place — to graduate from. But also to remember fondly.

Most importantly, you learned how to fight for what you believe in. You learned to take a stand on the important issues: early dismissal, dress codes, and police brutality in the cafeteria.

And outside this sphere, a world moved on.

Now you're part of that world. It belongs to the class of '68, to do with as it sees fit. And Niles East has already told that class what they can do with it.

RFK Identifies With Youth

By Bob Cooper

OF THE INFLUENCE that late Senator Robert F. Kennedy had on America, the most profound impact was on young people. The college and high school classes of '68 were swayed by the man with the shock of wavy brown hair.

Newspapers daily proclaim the phenomenon of a "generation gap." The cry of "Don't trust anyone over 30" can be heard across our land. Yet Robert Kennedy, a man over 30, was a person whom the young trusted. He sensed their growing dissatisfaction with our present policies and youth's distrust of their parents' generation.

In the March 11, 1967, issue of the New Republic, Robert Kennedy discussed this aspect of American Life in an essay he wrote, "What Can the Young Believe?"

"More and more of our children are almost unreachable by the familiar premises and arguments of our adult world. The first task of concerned people is not to castigate or deplore — it is to search out the reason for disillusionment and alienation, the rationale of protest and dissent — perhaps, indeed, to learn from it. What are they dissenting from — and what do they tell us about ourselves?"

SENATOR KENNEDY referred to the war in Vietnam as "a young man's war." He pointed out that the young men today who did not know of World War II or Korea are shocked by the war in Vietnam that is not felt by their parents. "However the war may seem to us, they see it as one in which the largest and most powerful nation on earth is killing children (they do not care if accidentally) in a remote and insignificant land. We speak of past commitments, of the burden of past mistakes; and they ask why they should now atone for mistakes made before many of them were born, before almost any could vote. They see us spend billions on armaments while poverty and ignorance continue at home; they see us willing to fight a war of freedom in Vietnam, but unwilling to fight with one-hundredth the money or force or effort to secure freedom in Mississippi or Alabama or the ghettos of the North. And they see, perhaps most disturbing of all, that they are remote from the decisions of policy; that they themselves frequently do not, by the nature of our political system, share in the power of choice on great questions shaping their lives."

Yet, Kennedy pointed out that the problems of the nation's youth should not be traced solely to the war, to any individual, the Administration, or to a political party. "The challenge is deeper and broader."

HE DISCUSSED why the young feel disillusioned with careers in business. "Part of the answer is that the great corporations play so small a role in the solution of America's vital problem. Civil rights, poverty, unemployment, health, education — these are but a few of the deep crises in which business participation, with a few important exceptions, has been far less than might be expected from such an important part of the society."

Senator Kennedy also concluded with the major problem confronting young people, their feeling of losing their individuality.

"... the language of politics is too often insincerity. And, if we add to the insincerity and the absence of dialogue... we can understand why so many of our young people have turned from engagement to disengagement."

Senior Editors Offer Fond Memories

HAVING RECEIVED first-place ratings from both the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and the National Scholastic Press Association, the NILEHILITE editors move on to graduation and next year.

All of the editors feel that the year has been profitable, but Editor-in-Chief Marc Ellenby says that "we have had our ups and downs." (staff note: mostly downs).

"I have enjoyed editing the NILEHILITE. I feel that we have accomplished some things this year that haven't been done in the past" (staff note: understatement of the year).

Important Link

"First we spoke out for student rights in two special issues. Also our editorials dealt with subjects affecting the entire student body (staff note: like washrooms). In my opinion, the NILEHILITE this year has served as an important link between the administration, faculty, and students."

Marc continued, "We ran an interesting paper that was very widely read, and students often complemented the other editors (staff note: how true!).

"I THINK the most important thing in writing a column is making sure that it is palatable," explained feature editor Bob Cooper. "If I wrote a story with the title 'Discourse on Myopia,' even I wouldn't read it."

Power of the Press

"People sometimes underestimate the power of the press. There is a tremendous responsibility that goes along with writing for the 2,000 students at this school. A student council candidate can make a speech but one's written opinion lasts forever," the three year member of the NILEHILITE staff explained.

"I REALLY THINK we've tried to have a diversified feature page.

Carol Horvitz has tried to point out significant topics affecting students in relationship to society, and I've tried mainly to focus on our school environment."

Team Anchorman

"To me being sports editor was being anchorman on a relay team and then having stones thrown after you had won the race. You're never sure what people will say and aren't sure how good your page it," reflected Steve Vetzner after completing his second year as Sports Editor.

"Actually everything was great; there were good moments and bad. Writing a column for every issue wasn't the most enjoyable thing to do, and sometimes it wasn't the most enjoyable to read. People expect you to be kind to everybody and I haven't been. But you can never please everybody all of the time."

Graduation Greet 485 Seniors

TODAY, 485 seniors marched to the tune of "Pomp and Circumstance" and received their diplomas at Niles East's 29th annual commencement exercise.

Opening introductions and greetings were delivered by Niles Township's new Superintendent Charles Szuberla, and Senior Class President Sam Warshawer presented the Welcome.

SCHOLASTIC achievements of this year's senior class were recognized in remarks delivered by Principal Raymond G. Tyler in his last formal address as principal. Mr. Tyler will be leaving Niles to become Director of Personnel and Administrative Research effective July 1.

VALEDICTORIAN Shelley Kramer also delivered an address, after which the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Richard Rusch, concluded the ceremonies with the Triumphant March from "Aida."

In addition, three juniors, Michael Arenson, Ariadna Cherniavskyj, and Steven Zimmerman became seniors for a day when they received their diplomas, completing their graduation requirements a year early.

MIKE PLANS to attend the University of Illinois, at the Chicago Circle campus next year when he will major in science. Ariadna will also be studying at the Circle, although she is undecided as to her major subject. Steve will be studying theoretical physics courses at Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Boston, Mass.

All three students feel that college will have a great advantage over high school by offering a variety of courses not available at Niles.

"JUST A FEW more hours, that's all the time we've got," think Seniors as the practice marching in their caps.

Bon Voyage As Jean Jungwirth Sails to Norway

"TACK FORMATEN."

These strange words are a Norwegian thank-you which is said traditionally after each meal. Jean Jungwirth will be speaking these words often this summer when she spends about nine weeks in Norway on an exchange program sponsored by the American Field Service.

Jean first learned of her selection as an exchange student when it was announced on the P. A. at school. "I was in Latin class," she explained "and could hardly believe what was being said. I had to ask Mrs. French, my teacher, what the announcement meant. Once I realized I was going to spend the summer in Norway, I went wild!"

Her family also was extremely excited but "immediately began worrying about mundane things," she added, "such as buying clothes and learning the language."

Jean sails from New York June 20 and expects to arrive at her summer home July 1. Although thrilled at being accepted, she is a little apprehensive and worried about being a good ambassador.

Selected on the basis of grades, teachers' and counselors' recommendations, extra-curricular activities, and personality, Jean underwent a double elimination, once at Niles and again through the New York branch of AFS.

MORE THAN 130 Nilehi students received scholarships and special academic awards this year from national and community organizations as well as numerous colleges and universities.

Mike Treitman '69 and Roger Kimball '68 were named the first annual Salesmanship Award winners, Mr. Stuart Olney, salesmanship teacher, has announced.

Honoring the best all-around salesman, this award is to be presented to one student from the salesmanship class each semester. Roger was selected last semester's winner and Mike was chosen this semester.

Judged by Mr. Olney on the basis of in-class sales presentations as well as test grades, both boys received a special certificate along with a wooden plaque which will remain in the room.

After the preliminary selection, four East finalists were exchanged with four finalists from West, where they were judged once again. "The winner is generally selected from this group," Mr. Olney explained. "In the future," he added, "we would like to incorporate all three schools in the contest."

"Hopefully, the award will stimulate more students to take our salesmanship class. Eventually, we plan on expanding the course to include actual door-to-door selling."

Mike Treitman '69 proudly displays the plaque he won as best all-around salesman.

East Students Reap Scholarships

Fourteen Glimpse College Life Attending Summer Institutes

AS MOST HIGH school students relax at the beach and forget homework until next fall, 14 East sophomores and juniors will be glimpsing college life for several weeks this summer at special university institutes.

Sophomore students participating in this program include Adriana Mandell, attending the Midwestern Music and Art Camp at the University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kansas; Janet Migdow, Journalism Camp of the William Allen White School of Journalism, also at the University of Kansas; and Gary Rushakoff, the 1968 Summer High School Speech Institute at University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

BOTH SOPHOMORES Joel Nitti and Alan Spitz have received Conservation Scholarships sponsored by the Junior Women's Club to attend Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, and University of Illinois, Urbana, respectively. Junior Mark Render was awarded a Skokie Rotary Club scholarship to the Summer Institute in Music at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, Illinois.

JUNIOR PARTICIPANTS in the college summer institutes are Martin Fraeman, Engineering Science, National High School Institute at Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois; Steve Melamed, Junior Lawyers' Institute at Willamette University, Salem, Oregon; and Ellen Miner, Communication Arts Institute at University of Denver, Denver, Colorado.

OTHER JUNIORS include Renee Samelson, American Freedom Institute at Washington University, St. Louis, Missouri; Norman Silber, National High School Institute in Speech at Northwestern University; Valerie Ward, Midwestern Music and Art Camp at the University of Kansas; and Miriam Zolt, Summer High School Music Project at Northwestern University.

Junior Jennifer Podgers also will attend the Summer High School Music Project at Northwestern University by a Skokie Junior Woman's Club grant.

Best Student Salesmen Named Award Winners

Mike Treitman '69 and Roger Kimball '68 were named the first annual Salesmanship Award winners, Mr. Stuart Olney, salesmanship teacher, has announced.

Honoring the best all-around salesman, this award is to be presented to one student from the salesmanship class each semester. Roger was selected last semester's winner and Mike was chosen this semester.

Judged by Mr. Olney on the basis of in-class sales presentations as well as test grades, both boys received a special certificate along with a wooden plaque which will remain in the room.

After the preliminary selection, four East finalists were exchanged with four finalists from West, where they were judged once again. "The winner is generally selected from this group," Mr. Olney explained. "In the future," he added, "we would like to incorporate all three schools in the contest."

"Hopefully, the award will stimulate more students to take our salesmanship class. Eventually, we plan on expanding the course to include actual door-to-door selling."

MR. ROBERT BOTTHOF, sophomore class administrator.

Botthof Leaves on Sabbatical: Strives for Doctorate Degree

MR. ROBERT BOTTHOF, who is the present sophomore class administrator, will be striving for his doctorate in school administration during the next full academic year at Indiana University in Bloomington, Indiana.

Mr. Botthof spent last summer studying at Harvard University. This study became the administrator's inspiration for next year's sabbatical.

"I LIKED returning to the academic world," he explained heartily. "I enjoy doing stimulating, intellectual work."

Mr. Botthof, who plans to return the following year, has spent 13 years at Niles East, including five years as a science teacher, four years as a counselor and four years as a class level administrator.

IN ADDITION to studying next year at Indiana, Mr. Botthof will also serve as a member of the faculty staff.

MIKE TREITMAN '69 proudly displays the plaque he won as best all-around salesman.

Do Not Pass Go

Th-That's All Folks!

by Bob Cooper

IT'S TIME for me to leave Niles East and her ivy covered walls of learning. I must give a fond farewell to her cozy classrooms, locked washrooms, pep assemblies, daily bulletins, and zestful P.A. announcements. Before I say good-bye, however, I would like to comment upon my four years at East.

On being a freshman: It's not as bad as anyone would lead you to believe.

On the daily bulletin: A clever way to get the morning off to a super dull start; a necessary evil.

On being a sophomore: Buy a copy of Monarch Notes for "A Tale of Two Cities." Monarch Notes are much better than Cliff's.

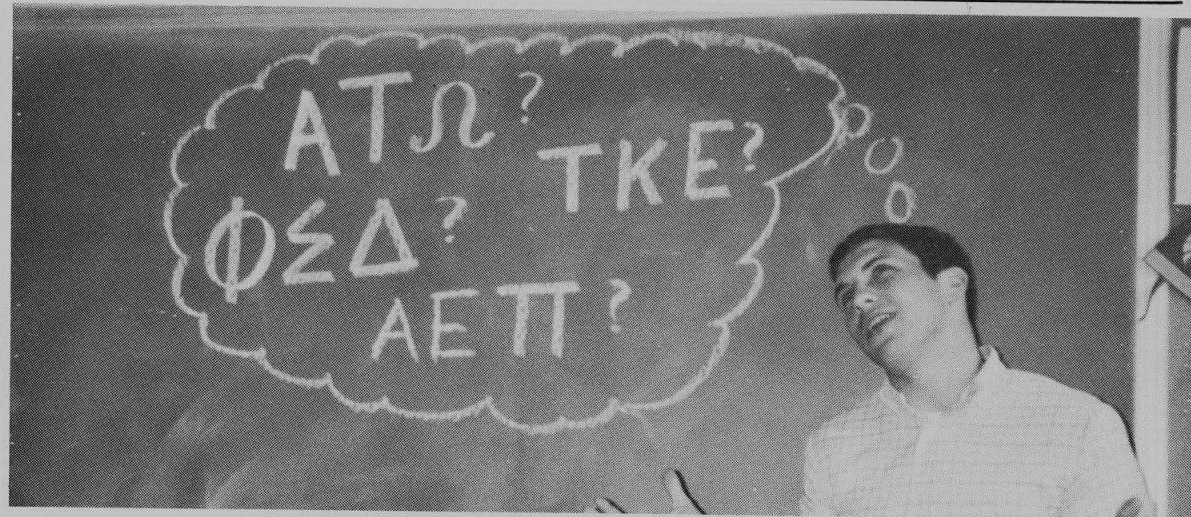

On being a junior: Don't hire Lawrence Welk and his Champaign Music Makers for your concert.

On "school spirit:" When a speaker has little to say, he talks about "school spirit."

On getting a potato chip machine in the cafeteria: Supposedly there's a state law that prevents potato chip machines from competing with the cafeteria's Grade A lunches. The Grade A lunches could use some competition.

On the nine period day: It enables the student to have further time for independent study, to explore new concepts, to develop new ideas, in other words to goof around.

On pep assemblies: A lot of drums and shouting but you get to miss class.

SENIOR MIKE Stein ponders over what fraternity to pledge.

Collegiates Debate Plans; Greek Life Questioned

THERE ARE 97 social college fraternities and sororities in the United States. Almost all are designated by two or three Greek letters ranging from Alpha Chi Rho to Zeta Tau Alpha.

There is a constant debate among students as to what offers better campus living, Greek life or being an independent.

Frats Advantages

Senior Jeff Simon who will be attending the University of Illinois in Urbana feels that fraternity life offers many advantages. "I've pledged Pi Lambda Phi because this house has a particularly outstanding group of scholars and will offer more of the comforts of home with much closer contact with people with similar interests to my own."

Frats Limiting

Senior Tony Novak who will attend Grinnel College disagrees. "Many of the progressive schools are moving away from the fraternity as the basis of social life because it is so limiting. Fraternities are generally segregated with members usually being of similar racial, religious, and economic background. A member therefore usually has little chance to meet and have any kind of relationships with people whose background is different from his own."

GIRLS GENERALLY felt either undecided about joining a sorority or said they would not.

Senior Laura Migdow who also will be attending the University of Illinois in Urbana explained, "I'll have to see what campus life is like. If I feel I need the security of a sorority I will pledge."

Valerie Klein who will be attending the University of Tulsa in Oklahoma said that for the time being she won't pledge. "I'd like to meet different kinds of people not just the clique of those in a sorority."

SENIOR BETTY BUSH feels she may join a sorority at the University of Oklahoma because it offers a better social life. She pointed out however "Sororities dictate to you too much and they're all very status conscience."

The discussion continues. Minds, plans, and ideas change. The question, "Which is better for me, Greek life or life as an independ-

LOUIS XIV the best dressed guy.

'Names People Play'

IT'S THAT time of year again when the NILEHILITE takes its senior survey. Responses to this questionnaire were not confined just to East seniors but included personalities from around the world.

Which boy has the best sense of humor? One sensitive senior voted for "Silent Cal" Coolidge. Who has the best smile? "Graduate" star Dustin Hoffman. The guys with the prettiest eyes, Mr. Bryam and Paul Newman each collected one vote.

Who's got charm enough to be most popular? Fredrick the Great! Too bad he wasn't that popular among Prussians. For best personality English teacher John Palm racked up a vote.

THE MADEMOISELLES around the globe were not ignored. For the best dressed girl Lady Godiva received a walloping three votes.

For the most mature girl in the school, "no one" got 11 votes, "none" received one vote, and "none in this school" had one ballot cast.

There must be a lot of girls with pretty eyes as 56 candidates were nominated which is roughly 20 per cent of all senior girls.

SINCE WOMEN'S Wear Daily has named the ten best dressed women in the country, the NILEHILITE feels it should name the five best dressed girls determined by the senior survey. They are Laura Migdow, Rochelle Apple, Bonnie Gagerman, Gail Estrin and Terrie Dempers.

Who's the best dressed male? Louis XIV scored with one vote. His pink satin pants must have done it.

Let's Turn on the Thumbscrews

by Eric Palles

HE SHRIEKED with terror as he awaited the next crack of the whip. His eyes rolled with pain, anticipating the cruel leather cutting into his soft skin.

He cried for help but there was none. Through watery eyes he tried to perceive his antagonists but saw only hooded figures.

The whip stung mercilessly again and again until finally he dropped into a blissful faint.

When he awoke, he was in a well-lighted room. A bespectacled man stood in front of him, puffing a cigarette in a black cigarette-holder. The man paced back and forth, his black boots thundering on the bare floor. When he spoke, he spoke with a German accent. "You should realize zat ve have highly scientific methods of torture." His face lit up with a warm smile.

THAT SMILE was the last thing he remembered because it was with the same warmth that the bespectacled man applied the thumbscrews and it was only after intense pain that he fainted away once more.

When he awoke to find his arms stretched over his head he realized that he was on a rack. He heard the notches creak and felt the increased pain in his ankles, chest, armpits and wrists.

HE LOOKED up to see an Oriental gentleman standing over him, looking somewhat like Sessue Hayakawa. His manner was polite as he said, "Pardons, but it is old Oriental custom to torture prisoner by ingenious method. First we drop water on your head until we drive you cuckoo, then we put bamboo shoots under your fingernails and set them on fire. You will please to be quiet . . ."

The next thing he remembered he was in another room where assailants beat him for an hour and a half with baseball bats.

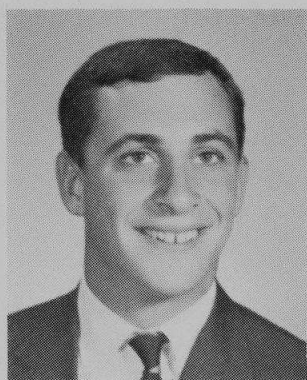

AFTER THAT followed torture upon torture. He was hung by his toes for two days. He was tied to four horses riding in four different directions. He was chained to a television set that played non-stop for 72 hours. He was made to listen to warped records of Lawrence Welk and Tommy James and the Shondells.

But his spirit could not be broken by mere sadism. He passed the initiation with flying colors and soon became a proud member of the fraternity.

'To Look For America . . .'

"YEAH, SO then what did you do? I mean after the prom and going to Rush Street and watching the sunrise. . . ."

"That sounds really great. I bet you're really going to miss him next year. Where did you say you were going to school, I mean college."

("Let's be lovers.

We'll marry our fortunes together.

I've got some real estate.

Here in my bag."

So we bought a pack of cigarettes,

And Mrs. Wagner's pies,

And walked off

To look for America.)

"I want to be a teacher or something, too. You get the whole vacation in the summer, and it's perfect when the kids are in school. You'll have to write me from Denver and tell me about it and everything. I'll be Downstate. I've heard that the skiing is fabulous in Denver and the guys are cute. . . ."

"Wow! this is so great a time. I can't wait to get to school, I mean to COLLEGE. Then I'll really be free. Of course, there's a lot of work and no one beating you over the head to do it, but I'll work hard next year. Do you think it'll be hard? . . ."

("Kathy," I said

As we boarded a Greyhound in Pittsburgh,

"Michigan seems like a dream to me now.

It took me four days

To hitchhike from Saginaw

I've come to look for America.)

"Do you really feel that way? I mean, that if you meet a guy and all, then you'll just marry him and drop out of school and start having babies? I don't know. I mean here we are graduating from high school to go to college or to get a job. What for? Most of us will probably end up being housewives, anyway.

"But still . . . To maintain a home, we'll probably need that second income. That's why I want to be a teacher, preferably the primary grades. I think little kids are so cute. I really do. I always thought that you did, too.

"Oh, if you don't get married, then you'll be a teacher . . ."

("Toss me a cigarette I think there is one in my raincoat."

"We smoked the last one

An hour ago."

So I looked at the scenery

She read her magazine;

And the moon rose over an open field.

"Kathy, I'm lost," I said,

Though I knew she was sleeping

I'm empty and aching and

I don't know why."

Counting the cars

On the New Jersey Turnpike.

They have all come

"Well, good-bye. Have a good summer and have fun in college. I hope you find what you're looking for.

by Carol Horvitz

Have you noticed the grey skies and rain this year?

Four years ago was an exciting time: we were graduating jr. high, preparing to enter that large frightening place called high school. Four years of perhaps growth and change and now? Where are we? We have all more or less learned a great deal—we learned how to cut and how to get by. . . .

Have you noticed the grey skies and rain this year?

The luckiest among us have learned what it is that they need to know. The luckiest of the lucky have begun to teach themselves about their own souls. Others have spent four years cramming their brains full of information: algebra, grammar, U.S. history, French moods, how to take shorthand, geometry, biology, who killed Desdemona and why. . . .

Have you noticed the grey skies and rain this year?

And so we are waiting . . . waiting to grow up. Imitating but waiting. The first cigarette, the first time drunk, the first time out all night, the first date, the first kiss, the first long dress, the first driver's license. In spite of school and material firsts, the real things come too. They do not let you wait, they just come whenever they feel like it . . . the death of someone close, the awareness of serious hang-ups of kids your age: sex, pregnancy, abortion or untimely marriage; the freak-out of a friend. . . .

Have you noticed the grey skies and rain this year?

"Vision '68": you are standing on the verge of the springtime of your life. Or else you have found it. Running to football games and movies and Gulliver's for pizza. Or, if you prefer, to meetings, parties, poetry readings, parks, and beaches. You have learned how to put your makeup on and how to style your hair or else, if you prefer, how to be carefully messy and comfortable . . . to appear unconcerned with such worldly matters.

But, have you looked for the grey skies and rain this year?

Scholars See Key to Success As Full Realization of Potential

DID THIS YEAR'S valedictorian and salutatorian ever think that they would end up at the top of their graduating class when they entered high school?

"To be honest," replied the valedictorian Shelley Kramer, "I never really thought I'd be number one in a million, billion years. Even at the end of freshman year, I was satisfied with less than full realization of my potential."

Larry Halperin, the salutatorian, had a similar response, "When I first started high school, I just went to my classes and did what I had to to get by. I didn't take home my algebra book, and I got B's without doing anything."

However both students changed their attitudes about their work once they realized that they were capable of doing better.

"WHEN I TOOK HOME my book, and I saw that I could get an A, I started to try hard in all my classes," explained Larry. "It was a case of success breeding success. When I saw what I could do, I just had to try my hardest to make sure I realized my potential."

"Realization of potential" seems to be the key phrase for Shelley, too.

"You work to realize the best of your potentials," she emphasized, "and then the grades will come by themselves. You can't just work toward a grade. It is knowing that you've done the best you possibly could that is satisfying; the grade itself is not."

Larry admits that often his motivation for studying was purely the grade.

"I FEEL I studied hard in high school, but unfortunately not the right way," he confessed. "I learned the material perfectly the night before the test, got A's on the tests, and then forgot what I had crammed in the night before; I had to restudy for all my finals."

"But," he added, "this year I've changed. I really try to learn meaningful relationships within each subject that I'm studying, instead of just cramming facts."

TO THESE STUDENTS, there is no substitute for studying.

"Studying pays off," stated Shelley. "Complaining and talking about grades does not."

Shelley wishes that high school were regarded more as "an important experience unto itself, rather than just as preparation for college."

AT ANY RATE, Niles East proved to be good preparation for these two. Both will be attending Harvard University in September. (Radcliffe College is the women's school of Harvard.)

'68 farewell festival

Last Days Spent in Fun

"THE CLASS OF '68's most memorable experience should be all of the end of the year activities," remarked Senior Class President Sam Warshawer.

Seniors began their "farewell festival" over two weeks ago with the annual senior bike and bermuda day. "Actually," Sam explained, "the bike day was temporarily discontinued in recent years because of the traffic problems it created, but these were solved and we were able to continue holding this event."

For those who had not been struck with senioritis, the academic awards assembly was held. Seniors, as well as other students, were awarded with academic pins, National Honor Society induction, departmental awards, and scholarships. Next came the most dreaded experience to some, one which may permit a portion of the Senior class to go through senior year all over again, the final exams, held for four days ending a week ago Tuesday.

RETALIATION to the exams was in the form of the senior class prank. Two weeks ago yesterday, teachers arriving at the school parking lot were "informed" that they must park their cars outside a three-block radius of the school. "Policemen" would strictly enforce this rule. Any teacher who did not obey these rules found that part of their car was missing when he went home in the evening.

After classes had concluded, the class of '68 happily, but nostalgically took part in the final activities of the year. Unfortunately, due to a lack of interest, the class picnic scheduled for this past Wednesday could not be held. However, the graduation practice began on scheduled. Today, the senior class brunch, together with the skits, the class will be the final appearance of the Class of '68 as a group before the graduation ceremonies on Sunday.

"THE END of the year activities require much work, but the results are really worthwhile," reflected Sam. "Not only are these activities a great tradition, but they liven up the year and provide time for the class to meet as a group and recall the events of their four years at Niles. Special senior activities are a memorable climax to our exciting high school careers."

SENIORS direct teachers to park outside a 3-block radius as part of the class of '68's prank.

"HI—I'm Shelley Kramer, this here's Larry Halperin. We score high!"

Memories . . . Memories . . . Memories . . .

"THANKS FOR THE MEMORIES" hums the senior class of '68. They started Niles East with a frosh button which read "Great '68" and leave the ivy halls of learning with the button "Th-th-that's all folks."

The NILEHILITE received hundreds of responses. Notably thirty told how they were pushed in the boys' washroom, and five seniors said their most memorable experience was filling out this dumb form. Here then are the best of the senior memories:

Susan Lipner: The time Mr. Palm and Mr. Miya surprised me in Humanities by telling me that they didn't believe I was Sue Lipner. I still don't know if they believe me!

Bonnie Koestner: When I climbed up the 50 foot ladder above the stage with Phil Brushaber, almost fell off, and got back down 30 seconds before Mr. Auge appeared.

Cary Fleischer: Freshman year, when I placed 51 out of 52 runners in the Suburban League Cross-Country meet, I accidentally tripped the guy who came in 52nd.

Donna Kaplan: The last day of school junior year, when 8 friends and I rode to and from O'Hare Airport on bicycle through construction and over highways and losing only 2 sandwiches and 3 girls.

Scott Glickson: When Gary Minkus got the wrong uniform for the basketball game at Proviso East senior year and had to try to squeeze his 38 inch posterior into a pair of 30 inch shorts.

Tobey Rosenzweig: My boy friend was dragged into Mr. Miller's office for holding hands with my best friend.

Marsba Fink: The feeling of pride and loyalty that I felt for my school as I stood dying of embarrassment as I was proudly announced as Niles East's first Miss Trojan.

Pat Lustman: On a pleasant May school day, Pat Arney and I decided to play golf. We played 18 holes and then decided to take in a Cub game, which the Cubs of course won. Very self-satisfied we returned home only to find that my golf clubs and Pat's uncle's clubs (he had borrowed them) had been stolen. It was great fun explaining this.

Lie Chong Wong: Trying to get used to eating meat and solids with a fork and knife instead of with my hands, as was the custom in my native country.

Sol Shniderman: When I was in the library 5th period and fell asleep in a study booth and Miss Garri-gan woke me up 7th period.

Mike Rich: The time Mr. Burgener was demonstrating a lab in front of the class and he spilled about a million lead shot pellets all over the floor and the whole class had to crawl on its hands and knees for two days trying to pick them all up. It was a whale of a lot of fun.

Edward Garber: During geometry class one day, I bent over to pick up a protractor I had just dropped, but my chair went with me, and I got stuck in the chair. It took three boys to lift me.

Kenneth Kass: When I was a sophomore and Coach Odlovak 'asked' me to go with him to the wrestling room because I hadn't tucked in my shirt.

Rich Harris: When, this year, I had to talk to Coach Byram and found him smoking in the P. E. office. It shattered all my faith.

Mario Corona: After beating Niles West 14-7 in football, George ("chee-cha") Gargano and I were jumping around on the football field, when Mr. Oatley came over and picked us both up bodily off the ground and started yelling.

Ronald Koval: During my four years at Niles East, I never ditched a class, but got caught for it twice.

Bob Gats: Forgetting to feed Mr. Roth's frogs one week, I returned to find two of them deader than doornails. Both were dehydrated and stunk horribly. I was then removed from my job as frog feeder.

Jim Kaufman: The day I pushed Mr. Moshak off his chair because he slapped me in the face while the rest of the class poked me with their pencils and fists.

Larry Gardiner: One day I had to to the bathroom and I couldn't find one that was open. I went to the nurse's office to use the john in there, and she sent me home.

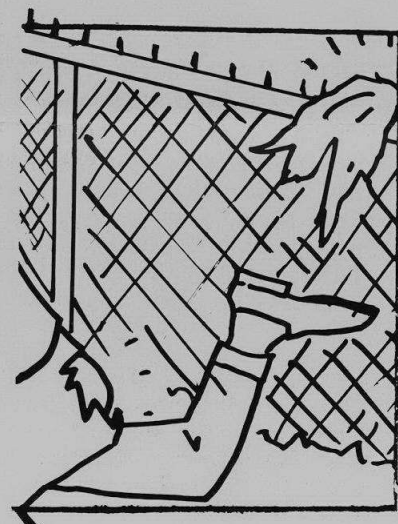

Harriet Fulkowski: Junior year, when I was changing for gym, I realized that I still had on my pajamas underneath my clothes.

Lynne Lieberman: Hearing Mr. Oatley try to explain to the class what sexual intercourse involves.

Janice Feldman: The day when Miss Lundquist was absent junior year, a bunch of us played strip poker and told the substitute it was our normal procedure.

Andrea Goldstein: When I made a left turn into oncoming traffic in driver's ed. Mr. Pooley never fully recovered.

Jeffrey Lisnek: Coming home from a gymnastics meet sophomore year, we were having a snowball fight in the back of the bus. When Mr. Sokalski came back to see what was going on, he got hit right in the face.

Roger Kimball: After one football game, Gary Minkus and Bruce Hayman were whipping each other with wet towels in the shower room. Mr. Yursky, taking drastic steps, lined the two boys up on the wall and prepared to whip them himself. The expression on their faces was unexplainable; it seemed as if they were ready to cry.

Nancy Alexander: In Fundamentals of Movement Class during sophomore year in gym. I was jumping rope and tripped over the rope, breaking my toe.

Hal Brody: My first encounter with police brutality with Mr. Dorsey during a study hall, sophomore year.

Luann Witt: After making a speech in public speaking class, I was asked by Miss Faurot to push the collar of my dress down to show everyone my hives from being nervous.

Ira Levenshon: When Mr. Miller honored me and my friends by his presence while we were eating lunch at Burger King.

Jack Silver: During freshman year Jill Mise surprised me with an egg down my back. The next day, I brought TWO raw eggs with me to school. One went down her back and I gave her an egg shampoo with the other.

Richard Kirshner: The day three of the guys and I decided to leave school and I was hit by a car crossing Lincoln Avenue, missing one month of school instead of one day.

Gary Harris: Freshman year on the B football team, I was given the opportunity of carrying the first ball of the season . . . and I fumbled.

Joan Squaler: Last year, Choir sang downtown for the NCBA. The balcony on which we were standing got so warm that I fainted. Miss Immel was there, and after I was able to get up, she brought me to the front of the balcony where I sat until the concert was over. P.S. I carry smelling salt to all choir engagements now, and whenever we sing, I open them just in case.

Sue Isaacs: Walking past the tennis courts during sophomore year, I felt something fall in my hair. When I put my hand up to see what it was, I found that a bird had eliminated on my hair.

Sue Sawitz: Driving down the street with a life-size horse on the top of Sharon Pollack's car after an art show and being stopped by the police and asked to explain.

Joyce Nicholas: When I wrote my phone number all over my folder so that a certain boy would get the hint to call me — he got the hint.

Ellen Fabian: Standing up in the cafeteria to fix the zipper on my skirt one day, I thought no one was looking. I pulled it down and then up and looked across the room to hear all the boys yelling, "Take it all off, Ellen!"

Alan Gerstein: The day I was reading Playboy Magazine and I found Mr. Byram in a Kawasaki Motorcycle ad.

Debbie Gurwitz: During Music Man when I was supposed to faint and Bob Beazley was supposed to catch me. Bob didn't, however, and I landed flat on my seat with my hairpiece flying off my head and into Katie Harmening's lap.

Diana Kneip: Having to go down to the boys' auto shop in my gymsuit

Toby Smith: Freshman year, on the way to my first Homecoming Game, my friends told me about a shortcut, where you climb over a fence . . . part of my pants are probably still hanging on that stupid fence.

Henry Rade: Ditching gym for 6 weeks and having my grade go from a "D" to a "C."

Steve Rosen: Watching "Professor" Ramgren demonstrate the proper method of sitting down and missing the chair by two feet.

Bernice Sudak: The day we ordered a pin for a Girls' PE teacher as a thank-you. However, when we picked up the pin, it was a boy playing tennis, not a girl.

Sheryl Stone: When I got a wire basket stuck on my head during golf in gym senior year. The funniest part was walking into the nurse's office with my gym suit on and the basket on my head. After trying to pull it off, Mrs. Taylor had to call one of the custodians to saw it off. After he stopped laughing, he finally got me out of it alive.

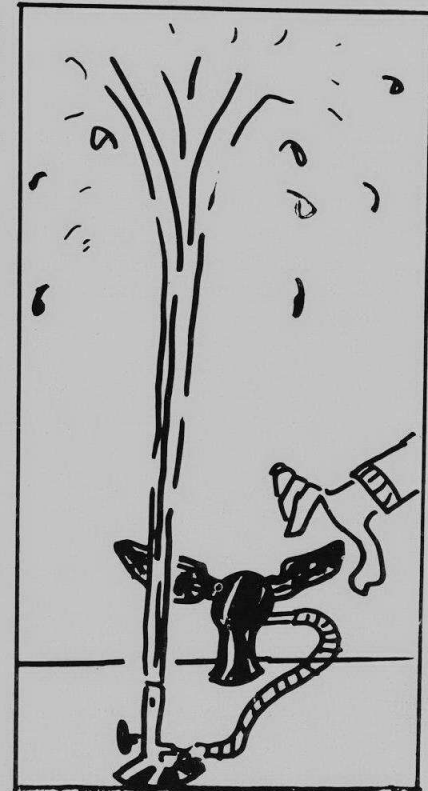

Jeffrey Giles: My most memorable experience was taking Latin with Mrs. French.

James Thomsen: NONE.

Gail Henich: During a basketball game junior year, a little boy kicked me while I was in mid-air. I didn't understand why everyone was laughing so hard until I realized that I was sitting on the floor in a very unladylike position.

Sue Katz: When I was accused by Mr. Odlovak of "promiscuous activity" when I was walking back from walking a boy to his physical education class.

Dave Kosh: The time in Mr. Ramgren's chemistry class when I connected the bunsen burner to the water main and couldn't understand why the burner wouldn't light until I felt the spray rebounding from the ceiling.

Gay Burdeen: While sitting in Desiree one morning, the place was raided by the police; we got taken to school in prowl cars.

Linda Ludmer: Freshman year, when I was looking for 16S but thought it was 165 and sat in the boys' lockerroom for study hall.

Gail Russell: My last year at Niles East was all one big memory—it was great.

Harassment Takes Practice

As seniors move from high school to the nitty-gritty of college life, there are a few things they should know.

They should realize they are leaving a school system that gives the student representation. No more will they have zealous Student Council representatives to harass administrators for potato chip machines. No more will they vote for people to complain about the cafeteria procedure.

Delegations will no longer exist to argue whether the human toe is so provocative that propriety dictates that socks be worn with sandals.

Yes, the student movements in high school are no longer applicable. Senior girls who fought for culottes will be fighting for open dormitories. Boys who once appealed detentions will choose curriculum and faculty.

To achieve these goals in college, students can no longer depend upon their student council. They must learn to deal directly with the dean. The most obvious thing to do is to take over the dean's office, an action both amateur and trite. Here, then, are a few more suggestions for would-be protesters who wish to harass the dean.

Kidnap the dean's wife and children and hold them for ransom.

Steal the dean's pass key to the faculty washroom.

Put your school's football stadium on coasters and roll it into the cafeteria.

Steal the dean's security blanket.

Spike the water cooler in the faculty lounge with LSD.

Spike the LSD in the faculty lounge with sugar.

Spike the sugar in the faculty lounge with salt.

Forget the whole thing.

These methods may seem crude, but there is no other effective way to deal with administrators. Violence is all they understand. Spare it and spoil them forever. Then there won't even be a potato chip machine left.

Win or Lose: 'We're No. 1'

No-Hitter Puts Troy on Road to Peoria

WHATEVER HAPPENS on Thursday and Friday of last week, this past year in baseball will definitely be remembered by graduating seniors and underclassmen. It was the time when Niles East fans could really say: "We're No. 1."

Even if Troy's varsity diamondmen don't capture a state championship, the past few weeks they on Lincoln Ave., The Invincible Team of Destiny, this year's team had what it took to take that treasured march to Peoria.

H's Unbelievable

East fans still find it hard to believe. It is quite hard to believe that a cellar dwelling team can suddenly capture the district, regional, and sectional championships and at publication date be just three wins from a state championship.

Just a few weeks ago it seemed that the Trojans would never come close to a state baseball title. Currently holding down the cellar in Suburban League, wins were hard to come by and the furthest thing seemed to be a state title, at least to East fans.

The diamondmen believed in themselves and started to jell at the proper time. The last few weeks were filled with heroics, the kind that make a title team.

A week ago last Thursday and Wednesday, East's diamondmen were at their zenith after capturing the district and regional titles. They overpowered Glenbrook North 8-3 and Wheaton North 4-0 to capture the Maine West sectional, enabling them to go to Peoria.

Had Lost to Glenbrook

In that first game, the Trojans were encountering a team they had already lost to once. But that was early in the season and many people agreed that East was a vastly improved team. Grenbrook jumped on starting pitcher Donnie Siegel for three runs in the early innings. Undaunted the Trojans came back to score four runs and behind fine pitching by Siegel went on to win.

In the final game of the sectional, Niles was facing a fellow cellar-dweller, Wheaton North, who had beaten highly ranked Waukegan the previous day.

Perfect was the word for the day as Senior Dave Diamond pitched the best game of his career and no-hit Wheaton, striking out six along the way.

Cinderella Team

And so Niles had suddenly vaulted into the limelight. By any means they are a Cinderella team who had never been expected to make it this far.

They are led by a coach, Mr. Nick Oddivak, who doesn't like to see his team lose. Oddivak has plenty of pride and his implanted it into his players.

First Base Coach Mr. Karl De JoJng is a genial person well liked by his players. Both men have had a big part in leading the team this far.

Herbics were abundant the past few weeks. Rick Rice continued in a game after painfully hurting his knee while in the process of making a great play. Larry Rudd was almost knocked unconscious in a pre-game warmup but played in the game.

What does Niles have? Guts, Hustle, and Desire and a few other ingredients necessary to a team. This is what has led the Trojans so far and even if they don't win a title they will have left their mark for those reasons. But because of those reasons they may capture a state championship.

As Coach Oddivak said "We aren't going to Peoria just to say hello." And they aren't expecting to come back empty handed.

SPECIAL BULLETIN

At press time, Thursday evening, the NILEHILITE has been informed that the Trojans defeated Lane Tech by a score of 10-8.

played like champs and to East students were the No. 1 team in the state.

Call it what you will: the Miracle

Penetrations

I'm Through

by Steve Vetzner

IT IS with great relief and probably greater relief by my readership that this is to be my last column. This also ends my experience with sports writing.

After two years of sports writing I find myself getting a little disgusted with sports and some of the people involved in it. Sports for some reason seems to be totally devoid from moral and ethical issues. It has no relationship to what is happening at the present moment, and what needs to be done. The Olympic boycott is a good example of this.

OLYMPIC BOYCOTT CONTROVERSY

For the first time Negroes in this country are realizing their relationship to amateur sports. Because there are so many excellent black athletes they are largely represented on the Olympic team. But after they have competed and performed on a par with fellow athletes, where does it leave them?

Are their positions in society improved? This is not the real issue, though. The real issue is whether black athletes should compete when their positions in society is less than it should be.

What draws my ire is that people in sports have failed to realize this and continue in their self-centered ways.

What is wrong with sports that it has failed to observe this problem and see the injustices that exist.

TAKE STOCK

Sports should take careful stock of itself and use its resources to clear up its own troubles and also the troubles that exist in its country.

SO MUCH for sports in general. What about Niles East sports. After looking over the past two years in sports I see great advancements at Niles. This past year Niles placed in the top ten in state in four sports and had one individual state champion.

For any school this is great. But I get the feeling that many are not satisfied with this. They want to be great in everything. I feel that as it stands now East's sports are in a good situation. Less concern should be put toward sports. It is a fallacy to believe that sports does that much to improve the school.

SPORTS OVERALLY STRESSED

It is very possible to overdue sports to stress it too much, too make too much out of it. This is what I think happens at Niles.

The recent baseball situation is a good example of this. Everything that happened was spontaneous. There was a good school spirit, not because it was pushed but because our team was a winner.

That's what promotes good school spirit: a winner. And if East doesn't have a winner it shouldn't be regarded as a tragedy.

During these last few weeks of school there has been great school spirit. The reason: East has a winner that is close to a championship. This is what promotes school spirit, nothing else.

During the past two years, I have been told that I haven't been doing enough to promote school spirit. This, I feel, was not my job. My job was to report the news and to comment on it. It was not my job to be a cheerleader.

I hold nothing against the school, merely against the institution of sports.

SENIOR hurler Don Siegel is scheduled to start for East in the Trojans' drive for the state title.

'67-'68: The Year in Review

THIS PAST YEAR Niles East experienced one of its most successful years in sports. Although not great in every sport, East's athletes were good enough to capture one fourth place, two fifths, and one ninth in state competition.

FALL: In recent years, football has been regarded as East's worst sport. But on to the scene this past year came a new coach with some new spirit, Mr. Jim Harkema. Along with this new spirit came the word "HIT," something teams in the past hadn't done.

In East's first game, the Trojans did hit and the reward was a 13-7 win over Niles West. Unlike past years winning did not last just a weekend, as the Trojans continued to roll over Oak Park in their next game. Niles finished up with a 3-5 over-all record and were close to victory in several other games.

For their efforts, Trojans Pat Lustman and Mario Corona were awarded all-league selections while Mike Meyeroff and Ron Marling were Honorable Mentions.

WINTER: Basketball continued to enjoy success as the roundballers hustled their way to a 12-10 over-all record and captured the township championship as well as a third place finish in the Niles North Holiday Tournament.

The Trojans had a 6-8 record in the Suburban League and finished in fifth place for the second year in a row. Stars for the team were Seniors Mark Bishop and Scott Glickson, thought by many to be the best performers to play for East in a long time. Bishop was placed on the second all-league team as an honorable mention at season's end.

Once again state competition proved to be a profitable endeavor for the Gymnastic team to display their talents as they placed fourth in the annual state meet. Seymour Rifkind contributed to the success by taking third on the parallel bars and eighth in all-around. Also in parallel bars, Steve Kite placed sixth and Jeff Levin took a seventh. Hector Mandel placed ninth on trampoline.

Unnoticed in recent years, the varsity swimming team splashed into the limelight this past season. Although they finished sixth in the Suburban League, the mermen had several strong individuals and for awhile felt that a state championship was near.

Leading the way for the tanksters in state competition was junior Jim Hawkins, who finished third in the finals. Freestyler Paul Katz finished a close sixth while the 200 yard medley relay team composed of Katz, Hawkins, Wayne Thomas and Lee Bollow took a fourth place. This was enough to put the Trojans in ninth place, the best they've done in a long time.

SPRING: Until the last several days spring sports was dominated by one person, Mark Bishop. Bishop one of the best athletes to perform at Niles in a long time took the state championship tennis title and led East to a fifth place finish in state competition. Bishop was also Suburban League champ.

Baseball until recently was enjoying a mediocre season when suddenly the team caught fire and won their districts, regionals and sectional to place them on a trip to downstate and a possible championship.
