The world, a city, a school . . . Skokie, Illinois, the United States of America, the North American Continent, the Western hemisphere . . . a school, a crowd, a face, the universe . . . Focus.

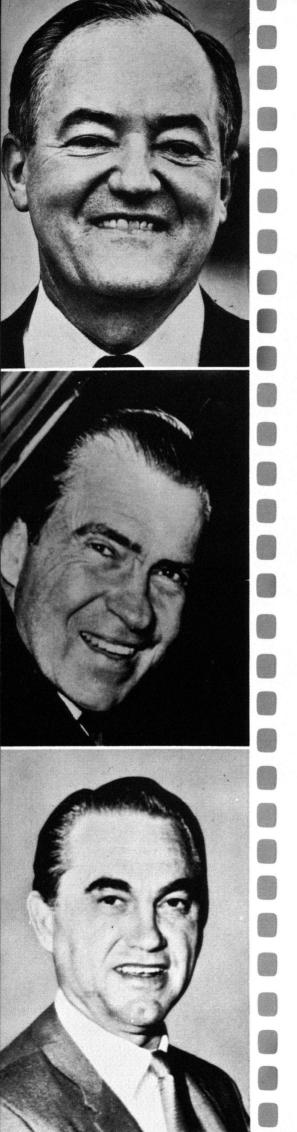

A nation elects a new President . . . Czechoslovakia fights for the right to rule itself . . . a woman weeps for her dead soldier . . . an old heart pounds in a new home.

September, and the student is placed into a world of books and homework assignments, of French Club meetings and Student Senate breakfasts. Yet students can only glance at these events and search for their place among them. They see the world through the eyes of Apollo VIII and still the events are not distinguishable. They read the Sunday headlines about a war in Viet Nam and then invite Bill Kurtis to tell them more. Through the windows of the Maierhofer school buses they see a world of towns named Niles, Morton Grove, and Skokie. But soon their vision becomes blurred and their eyes strive to see further beyond.

The world, a city, a school, a crowd . . . Focus—Saga 1969.

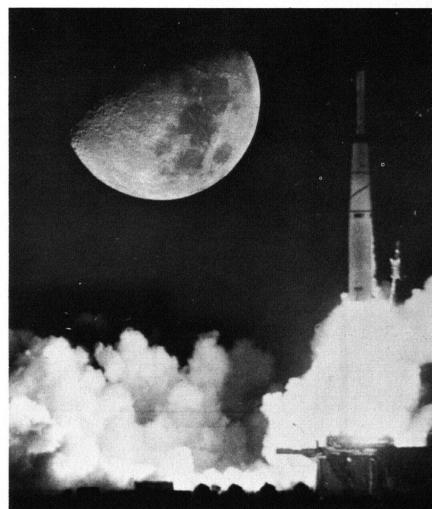

The world watches.

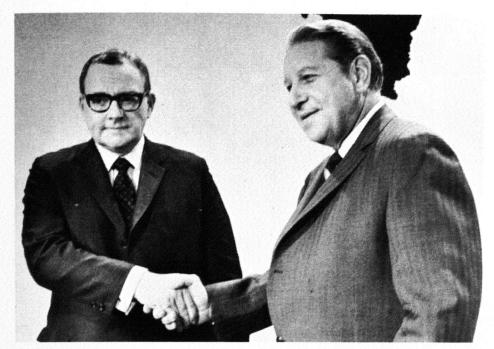

A new President comes to the White House. A former first lady marries. An athlete grasps for victory in Mexico as the US reaches for the moon. A flag is raised in Viet Nam to the strains of "Reveille" while another flag in another country waves in defiance. The world watches.

Chicago . . . Illinois.
The town that's called the convention capital of the world, where the Picasso towers over Loop citizens with its bird-like, woman-like figure. A city which celebrated with its state 150 years of existence. A city whose skyline alters quickly, yet the reality of its problems remains the same.

Chicago, Illinois.

A matter of perception.

Small things grow through the lens of a camera. Everyday objects can become things of beauty. A garden hose becomes a creeping snake. Was Columbus wrong—is the globe really flat? What can lie on the otherside of a simple door? It's all the way you look at things.

A matter of perception.

Niles North is color.

It's the color of excitement at the homecoming pep rally. It's the color of theatrical lighting and makeup in the "Miracle Worker." It's "purple and white, fight, fight, fight" as the cheerleaders shout. It's the lighted floor at prom reflecting the many moods of different people. It's the color of pride at your graduation.

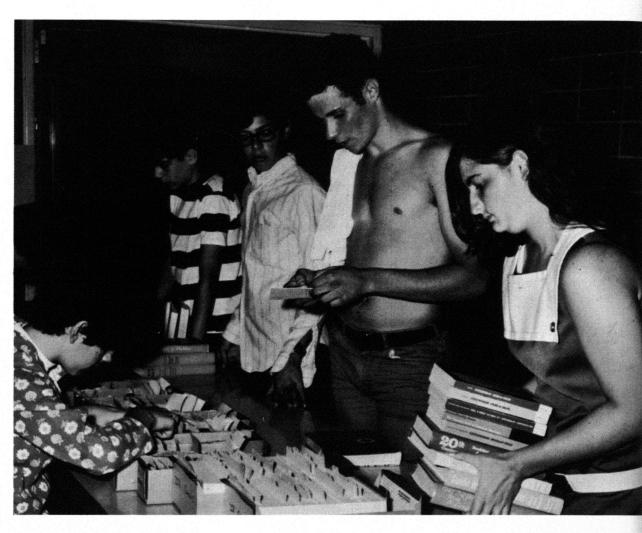

Niles North is color.

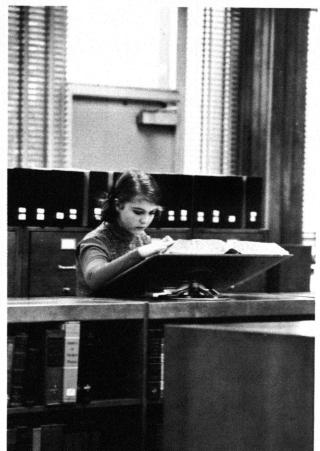

The intangible experience...

Waiting in line for textbooks in 90 degree heat. Reading Huck Finn and wondering what it's like to drift down the Mississippi. Learning that the square of the hypotenuse is equal to a²+b². Weighing a beaker in chemistry or learning to drive in a classroom. Cramming for finals and wishing they were over. Thinking, reading, trying, doing. It starts in September but never ends. The intangible experience...

It's how you play the game.

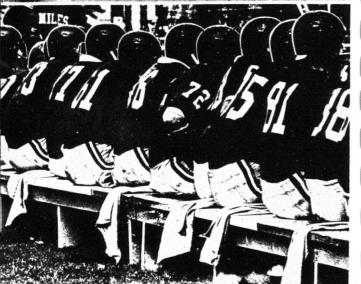

Sports can best be remembered by the long hours of practice and the sweet spoils of victory. Remember your friends who went out for all the sports their freshman year but often had to accept the challenge of sitting on the bench? Then came the thrill of your coach congratulating you for a good play or a great race, followed by a white sweater with a purple 'N'.

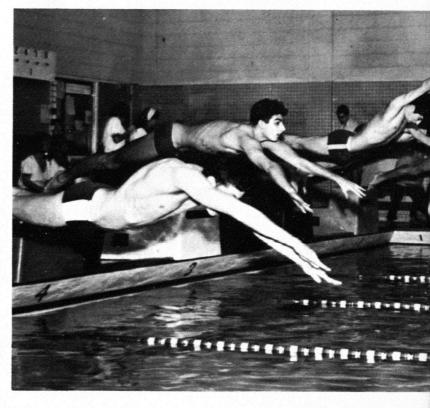

It's how you play the game.

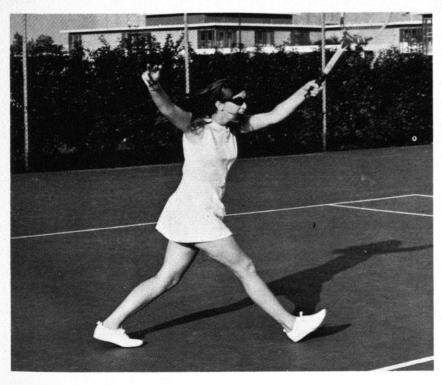

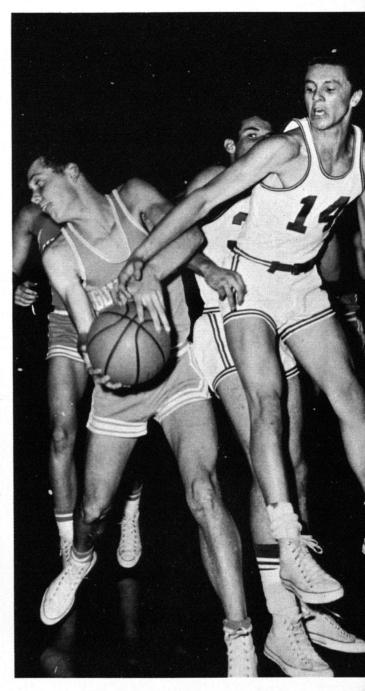

Feeling groovy.

It's the little things that count. Little things like eating six pies only to win another. It's taking out your frustrations by smashing a car or dancing to the beat of a drum. Little things like homeroom shows where the actors laugh harder than theaudience. Things like hitting a sour note or working five days on a homeroom float and ending up in last place. Life, I love you.

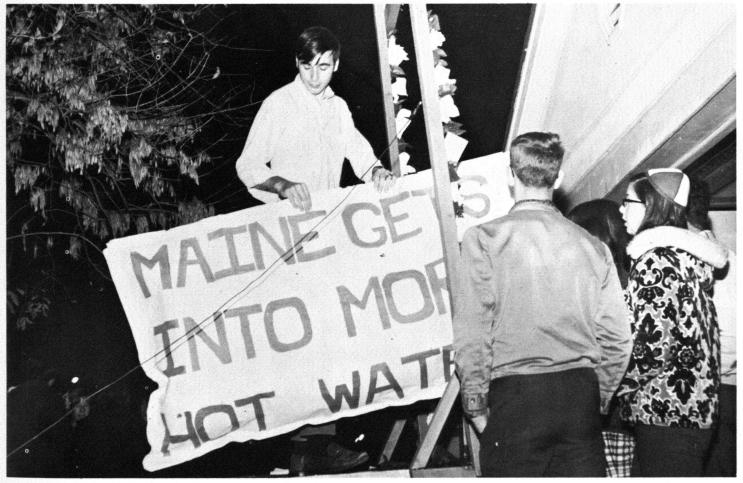

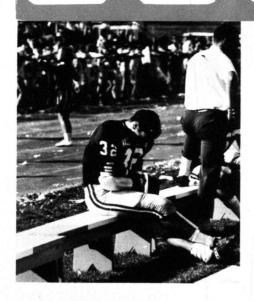

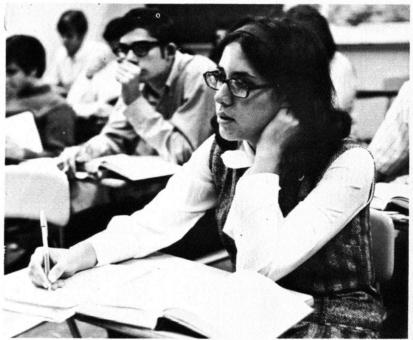

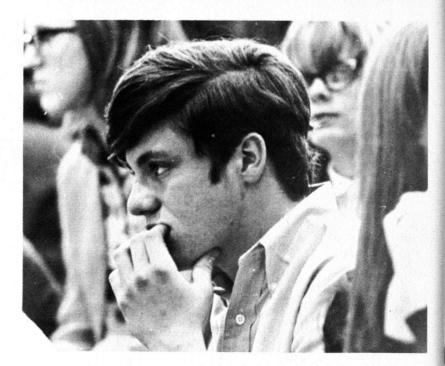

Freshmen--four years later.

How much later are you? Four years and the time of your life is just beginning. But the many memories of that year, your senior year, will remain. You can say, "Look at Bill Blumenthal eating a lobster." How many times have you seen Ricki Korey argue with Howie Friend? The events will fade, but the faces won't. Faces you can't forget like Chris Carlington's or the transcendental appearance of Dave Meyers. The pain experienced by Mike Gitelis and the frustrations of Ned Chamlin. The coolness of thought expressed by Nancy Sacks' eyes. . .

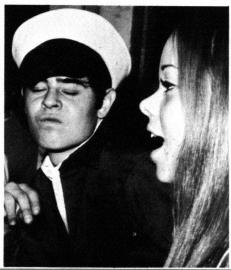

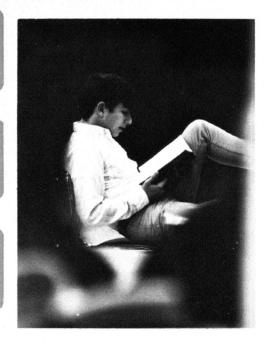

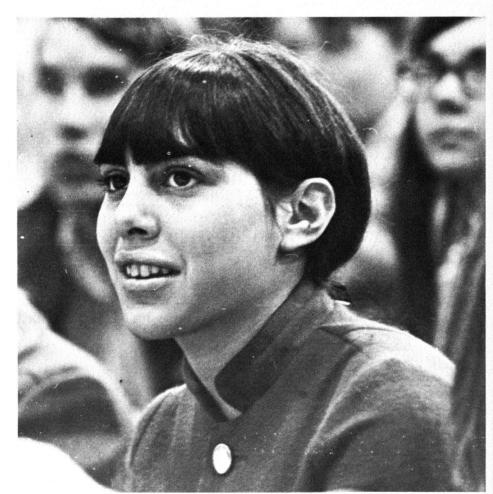

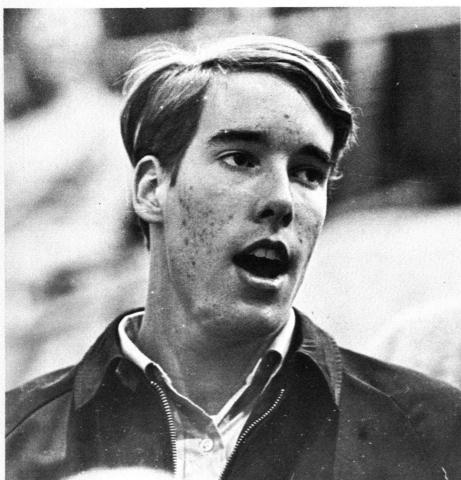

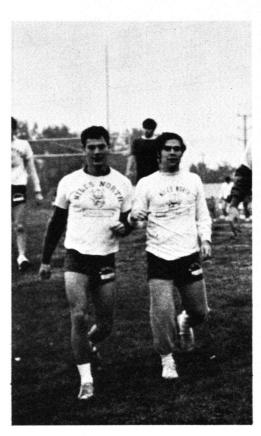

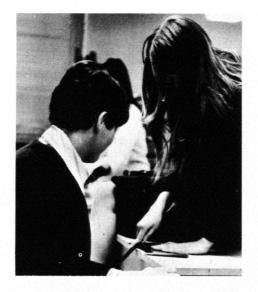

...and the nonchalance of Cary Sandman's studies. Remember the Coke machine that everybody wanted but nobody liked, and how Greg Jacobs and Howie Zindell cut across the track when the coach wasn't looking? Seniors.

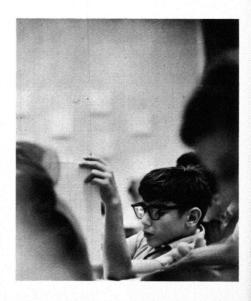

Freshmen--four years later.

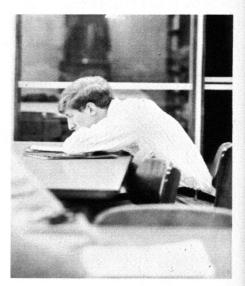

Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors. The time of being a freshman is being new and wanting to belong. It's a bewildering feeling that soon disappears as the school becomes more than a place to learn. But being a freshman lasts only a year. Friends are made, interests are found, activities are joined. That bewildering feeling once experienced as a freshman disappears and full acceptance as a sophomore is felt. The junior year is a time of confidence and responsibilities which have to be met. The junior is a leader as well as a learner. A place has been found.

Parts of the whole.
A face, a crowd, a school, the United States of America, the universe...Focus. This is the end of the beginning. The rest remains to be seen.

New Superintendent introduced to Niles

Dr. Charles Szuberla Superintendent of Schools

Mr. John Bristol Assistant Superintendent

Dr. Merton Haynes Assistant Superintendent

Although new to Niles Township, Superintendent Charles Szuberla is not new to the field of education. Coming to Niles from a long line of fine schools, Dr. Szuberla has had many years of experience.

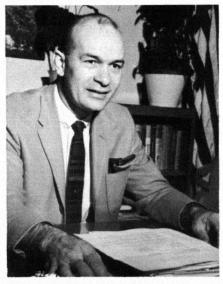

Superintendent Szuberla's principal concern is that "Niles schools center about the objective of achieving an individualized educational opportunity for our students." He cites as first steps towards this goal the development of the Work Study Program and Northi's hall system, where smaller schools are incorporated in one large building. The Superintendent would like to see this goal achieved in all Niles schools.

Board adapts to faculty, student needs

BOARD OF EDUCATION: Standing: Dr. Irwin Ginsburgh, Mr. Richard Hoke, Mr. Fred Lifton, Mr. Angelos Poulakidas. Seated: Mrs. Herman Medak, Mr. Meyer Kamin (President), Mr. Verne Loeppert.

The Niles Township Community High School Board of Education is composed of leading members of the community dedicated to the advancement of the three educational institutions. The Board seeks to create a system which readily adapts itself to the specific needs of all students and faculty members. In exerting its influence over the three high schools, the Board is responsible for the various textbooks in use, manipulation of the curriculm, the presentation of the annual budget, and the employment of new personnel. In its never-ending quest for quality education, the School Board has sought to promote policies designed to enchance scholastic environment and has traditionally upheld the high standards and ideals of the Niles Township Community High Schools.

BOARD members discuss issues relevant to the student body at their monthly meetings.

Serving as a vital link in a difficult chain of communication between faculty and parents were the members of the Niles North Parent Teacher Association. This demanding obligation was more the fulfilled through freguent meetings, the annual teas, and the informative monthly publication NORTHERN HI-LIGHTS.

Northi's PTA members involve themselves in school matters.

The Niles North Booster Club served as a mainstay of school spirit through the promotion of interest and participation in a wide range of athletic events. Its members sponsored the annual banquets and award and trophy presentations which brought faculty, parents and students together in support and recognition and athletic achievement.

Principal urges student leadership

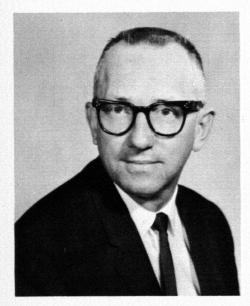

DR. GILBERT WELDY Principal, North Division

Dr. Gilbert Weldy has seen this past school year as "an experiment in student leadership and responsibility." After four years of observation, a full scale Student Responsibility Program was introduced to Northi. "Trying to make education meaningful for each student" is the goal and concern of the newly launched experiment. Optimistic about the future, Dr. Weldy hopes that a modular system of study can be developed resulting from the accomplishments of the SRP.

Hall directors promote spirit, guide school in transition

Mr. Ray Carrell Hall A Director

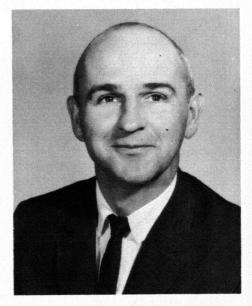

The students of Niles North welcomed three new administrators to the staff this year: Mr. Ray Carrell in Hall A, former Industrial Arts Department Chairman; Mr. Harold Trapp, former guidance counselor; and Mr. Jack Morris, a newcomer to Northi. Besides promoting a growth of hall spirit and individual distinction in their respective halls, each administrator had specific duties which pertained to the school as a whole. Transportation, building usage, and publications were among the duties held by Mr. Carrell. Mr. Morris had supervision over athletics, textbooks, and data processing. Mr. Trapp's duties included the library and homeroom programs. Mr. Baptist was in charge of student activities and various aspects of scheduling in addition to his other responsibilities.

The hall system, unique to Northi, provided the students with the benefits of a closely-knit academic atmosphere while enabling them to take part in a wide range of activities. It is this arrangement which served to enchance the educational experience of Northi students.

LEADING discussion of freshman reading selection in Miss lenore Peters.

With the addition of two new courses, Northi's English program acquired a wider range of student interest. The senior reading and composition class, taught by a team of four instructors, was considered by the English Department to be the most intensive team project ever offered at North. A second achievement was the initiation of an individualized reading class in which students were given a daily period of uninterrupted reading time.

significance today examined in new elective

Russia's growing significance in the world today was the reason for initiating a modern Russian history course in the social studies curriculum. As an elective for juniors and seniors, the course attempted to trace the backgrounds and explain the importance of Russia in today's world. A revision in the freshman non-western course was attempeted on a limited basis. A committee of three instructors evaluated the course and updated the curriculum and teaching methods employed.

Physical science courses debut

While novice scientists were struggling with courses such as earth science, more experienced students pored over labs in biology, chemistry, and physics. Independent experimentation was made possible to students under the science seminar program, which this year acquired a supply center. Additional resources were made available to Northi students through science classes held at other Niles Township schools. The newest program in the science curriculum, an introduction to physical science, was developed on a national basis to implement the teaching of science to inquiring minds.

With so many universities offering third-year studies abroad languages are becoming increasingly important to the high school student. The Foreign Language Department modified its audio-lingual approach this year by placing equal stress on the listening, speaking, reading and writing aspects of language instruction. French instructors experimented with team teaching at the fourth-year honors level so that future advanced-placement students could get a "head start" on the APP reading material.

Key-punch machine added to math facilities

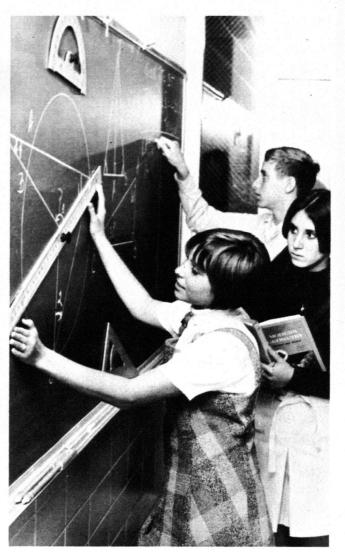

Computer programming was launched as a full-credit course this year by the Math Department. The class was equipped with its own key-punch machine for student use and the finished programs were sent to Niles West to be run through a computer. Mathematics classes at the highest levels profitted from the addition of a complete series of films explaining abstract concepts used in calculus. Many students also obtained out-of-class assistance from math instructors in the specialized study centers.

Major emphasis is put on understanding the creative process in the Art Department's instruction. Working towards the philosophy that active creation is the sum total of one's emotional and intellectual being, such methods as the exchange of classes and teachers, guest speakers, photography classes, and movies were employed. All art courses continued to focus on the student's vision by increasing his sensibilities, values, and attitudes.

The Boys' Physical Education Department taught one of its newest classes outside of the gym—the experimental health course for freshman and sophomore boys. This program was designed to parallel. The girls' eighteen-week health curriculm. Several innovations were also made in the athletic training that the boys received. The gymnastic program for upper classmen included circus stunts which were taught with the help of special films. Instruction in weight conditioning was expanded, including new emphasis on isometric and isotonic methods.

Under an expanding girls' physical education program, required skills were mastered in the first two to three years. This enabled senior girls to participate freely in scheduling the activities they perferred. The girls' health course grew into nine weeks of instruction for both boys and girls at the freshman and sophomore levels. This new program acquainted students with the variety of health services and projects within the community and made them aware of the attitudes and facts of sexual behavior and drug use.

Business courses adopt team teaching

It was "business as usual" this year with several additions in the Business Education Department. One new course was office occupations, a class that attempted to relate the student's high school training to the outside world of business through afternoon practice sessions. A team-teaching program was inaugurated for the general bookkeeping and record-keeping classes, while the department's notehand course entered its second year. An increased number of boys participated in business courses this year.

Keeping in step with today's technology, the Home Economics Department has shifted the emphasis of its instruction from the traditional homemaking skills to the strategies of wise budgeting and purchasing. Home management teaches the fundamentals of economics-consumption and investment. Child Care II, an experimental laboratory course, holds classes three days a week at Jane Stenson School to bring students in direct personal contact with children between kindergarten and sixth-grade age. To supplement sewing abilities, sensible wardrobe planning is taught in all clothing classes.

Aeronautics, work-study enter curriculum

During the past two summers teachers from the Industrial Arts Department spent time at technical institutes to gain new information about their various fields of instruction. As a result, the department updated its curriculum and facilities. For the new aeronautics course, the school acquired a flight simulator which enabled students to practice navigation and flight problems without ever leaving the ground. A new work-study program was initiated which enabled industrial arts students to be placed in trades and semi-professional fields where they put to work the knowledge gained in their classes.

The Skokie Police came to North this year to talk to students in the first phase of the driver education curriculum. In the classroom students studied rules of the road and mechanics of the car. Students were also given a demonstration of the breathalizer, a device used by local police to detect alcohol on a motorist's breath. Prior to beginning simulated driving in the drivo-trainer, students were administered the recently expanded fifty question permit test. Three new automobiles, including a sports coupe, completed the fleet of cars used for phase three of the curriculum-behind the wheel instruction, which this year expanded its training time to a three week period.

New opportunities tempt special students

Special education students participated in several regular classes in school this year. The girls took modern dance while the boys participated in a biology course. All students took typing. With the help of such technological advances as motorized wheelchairs and automatic page turners, students were able to receive a complete education.

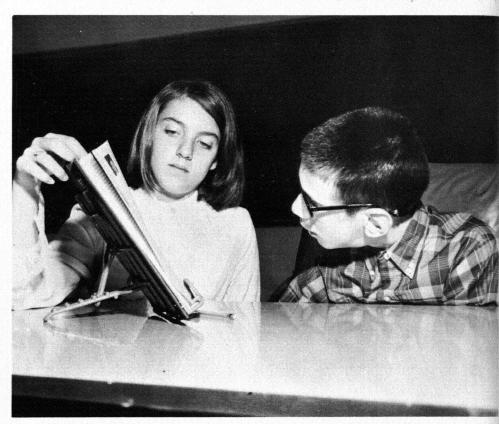

The department helped the volunteer monitors and assistants to understand special education. Wheeling students to and from elevators and aiding them with art and reading assignments acquainted these volunteers with the many aspects of special education.

Northi music students were offered various courses to choose from this year. These courses provided students with an opportunity to learn without having to anticipate a test at the end of their studies. One of these classes was marching band, which held practices outdoors in fall weather. Other students were able to practice in individualized soundproof booths.

For students who wanted to explore the "why," classes in music theory were offered. The Music Department also offered glee clubs, choir classes and orchestra in addition to participating in the humanities program.

Saga '69

Striving for a yearbook of today to contain memories of the past for reference in the future, Saga '69 selected the theme of "Focus." The yearbook employed candid shots and color pictures to illustrate the various activities and people at Niles North. Many new photographic techniques were employed in order to increase the artistic quality of the book. High contrast pictures were used on all of the division pages and throughout the entire book. The opening section was enlarged so that Saga '69 could focus on the active role our school plays in our society, our community, and our world. The yearbook staff, in need of a better working room, moved its office this year. In the new location, the study carrels provided a working area and office for each yearbook section. A separate typing room and improved facilities gave the staff more room for group and individual planning for Saga '69.

Student Senate's varied activities, encompassing every facet of Viking life, were designed to educate the student about the outside world, involve him in student government, and improve his relationship with the faculty and administration. Senate initiated the lecture forum to give outside speakers an opportunity to lecture on topics concerning today's world and to promote more interest and awareness within the student body. The Mock Election, sponsored by Senate, gave the students an opportunity to listen to speakers representing the four major presidential candidates and to ask them questions afterwards. Trying to involve the students in the foreign exchange program, Senate sponsored an International Weekend when Northi students housed foreign exchange students residing in Chicagoland. New to Senate this year was Mr. Joel Baker, the school social worker, who became Student Senate sponsor in November.

Hall Councils promote spirit

Striving to get as many students as possible to participate in all of its activities was the main purpose of Hall A Council. The activities ranged from selling miniature Viking footballs to supporting the newly formed Human Relations Committee. Hall A Council boosted Viking enthusiasm by initiating a spirit competition between the halls. The hall with the greatest attendance at sports events was elected the best. Hall A also sponsored a sockhop after the Niles North-Niles West basketball game to celebrate the end of the semester. The theme was Funker's Fling.

"Let Out Frustration Day" was the first event of the month sponsored by Hall C Council. Through the efforts of the Council members, Hall C also built a float for the 1968 Homecoming Parade. The Donkey Basketball game, initiated last year by Hall C Council, was the event of the month for November. Hall C worked towards the unification of all four halls by introducing interhall tugs of war, sled races, and food eating contests. To end the year, Hall C Council sponsored a dance featuring two live bands. The first marathon dance contest ever held at Niles North was the main attraction of the dance.

Selling daisies, Northi pennants, and AFS candy were some of the fundraising activities sponsored by Hall B Council. They held for the second year, the Turnabout Dance, a girl ask boy affair. Hall B Council also sponsored a carnival booth and maintained all bulletin boards in Hall B. Two long range objectives of Hall B Council were uniting the four homerooms and promoting hall spirit. To achieve these goals, the Council undertook the job of helping the administration plan the homeroom schedule and encouraged every member of Hall B to build a float for the Homecoming Parade.

HALL D COUNCIL: Standing: S. Rockowitz, J. Apostle, C. Lewis, A. Simon, S. Green, D. Bernstein, I. Fierstein, S. Schmidt, J. Caplan. Seated: M. O'Connell, G. Rotfeld, J. Levine, S. Miller (Vice-President), P. Wahlstrom (President), M. Bosley, M. Weiner, P. Azriel.

Hoping to raise money, Hall D Council sponsored bake sales, a student breakfast, a Sock Hop following the first home basketball game, and a carnival booth. Some of the proceeds from these events were given to charity organizations. The members of the Council maintained the bulletin boards in Hall D as one of their many school activities. The boards depicted dates of club meetings, dances, and athletic activities. Council members also helped to draft a new Hall Council Constitution and provided plaques honoring past and present Hall D Council sponsors and officers.

Leadership, citizenship, service, and scholarship are characteristics of a high school student chosen as a member of the National Honor Society. Each year National Honor Society initiates three per cent of the junior class and seven per cent of the senior class at the honors assembly in May. Seven students from Niles North qualified this year as National Merit Semi-Finalists. Having taken the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test in January of their junior year, their scores comprised the top one half of one per cent of all the students taking the test in the nation. new look

A new editorial system was initiated by the staff of the North Star enabling each of the seven page editors to work on different pages of the paper. Innovations included the use of creative photography and the introduction of out-of-school features and interviews. Some of these feature articles included an interview with Joel Daly and Fahey Flynn (ABC news team), a visit to the zoo, and an interview with Barney Pip, a leading dis jockey. Makeup took on a new look by switching from L-shape to box makeup which gave the paper a magazine-type layout. This year the first page of the North Star incorporated News Nuggets, a column designed to handle short new stories. Besides the annual senior issue, the North Star published a special eight page Christmas issue containing a two page picture spread and a larger sports section high-lighting the Holiday Sports Tournament.

The National Thespian Society, an honorary theatrical group, strove to improve theater at Niles North. To become a member a student is required to work one hundred hours on dramatic productions in at least two areas of the performing arts. After attaining membership students must continue to work on theatre productions. Highlighting the year for the thespians was their banquet where awards were presented to outstanding members. For the first time, pictures of the fall play were published in a drama magazine. Drama Club's main purpose is to help students interested in the performing arts. The club aids those people who have never had a chance to express their talent. Drama Club increased its number of meetings this year and scheduled field trips to theatrical productions.

Operating the lighting, sound, and curtains in the auditorium is the responsibility of Technical Services Club. Club members keep the stage and the movement of stage equipment during dramatic productions in order. Their work facilitated the smooth operation of the fall play, variety show, and spring musical. The club operated the lights for the Swim Show and all the technical facilities for groups outside of school who use the auditorium. The music broadcasted before school and during lunch periods is also provided by Technical Services Club. The addition of female members gave the club a new outlook this year.

Math, Biology, Radio-Electronics Clubs

ANNOUNCER Randy Wolff sits by public address system apparatus.

Math Club spent most of its time preparing its members for the National Mathematics Test sponsored annually by the Mathematics Association of America. Part of the preparation consisted of viewing films on different aspects of mathematics. Lessons of operating short-wave radio were one of the major projects of the Radio-Electronics Club. Demonstrations concerning circuitry were given to orient the students with electronic procedures. The purpose of the Biology Club was to stimulate interest in the biological sciences outside the classroom. In achieving this goal, the club went on nature hikes, visited the Museum of Science and Industry, and invited a pharmacist to speak on drugs and narcotics. The PA announcements were read each morning by Randy Wolff.

Under the guidance of a new sponsor, Mrs. Twyman, the Human Relations Club brought children from the Lawndale area of Chicago to Niles North to tutor them in all the fundamental skills necessary for school. These skills varied from learning to recognize the different colors of everyday objects to mastering the geography of the United States. One special project the club undertook was making Christmas ornaments to decorate a tree which the children brought back to the Lawndale YMCA. Niles North's literary magazine, Calliope, was larger this year than it has been previous years. The magazine printed essays, short stories, plays and poetry in English and foreign languages contributed by the student body. Photography and art work were also accepted. All entries were judged by the editorial staff and those that qualified were used. The material printed in Calliope was edited and arranged by students whose works were published the preceding year.

The Ski Club was formed this year in answer to the demands of Northi students. To inform members about the fundamentals of skiing, a field trip was taken to the International Ski and Winter Sports Show at Navy Pier. Other trips included outings to ski resorts, and plans were made for a trip to Aspen, Colorado. Performing with the marching band, the twirlers displayed their skill as well as helped to promote enthusiasm for the Viking teams. Twirlers also participated in the grande finale of Norsecapades, the school talent show.

Coin and Chess clubs grow

Several speakers came to Niles North to present the policies and views of this year's presidential candidates, Nixon, Humphrey, Wallace and Gregory. A member of the Communist Party and a member of the Yippies were also represented. The Current Events Club sponsored these guest speakers prior to the national elections, because the club recognized the need for the student body to have a greater understanding of the political scene. Discussions concerning basic school problems, such as in-school suspensions, were popular topics which the Enlighteners Club tackled this year. The members used their wide-ranging backgrounds in social studies to analyze the vital issues pertaining to civil rights and other current problems challenging our country and the world. Interschool tournaments were the main activities of the Chess Club. These tournaments gave the members the experience necessary for them to become proficient players. Members of the Coin Club met frequently to exchange and auction their coins.

The Home Ec Club dedicated itself to demonstrating the importance of home economics in today's world. Working towards this goal, the members visited the Merchandise Mart and Marshall Fields where they were given a behind-the-scenes tour. Guest speakers at the regular meetings explained and demonstrated techniques of flower arranging and cake decorating. Girls' Service Organization members served as usherettes at all choral, band, and orchestra concerts, the Niles North Forensic Tournament, and the various dramatic productions presented at Northi. This year freshmen were permitted membership in GSO, thus enabling the club to better serve the school. Art Club, striving to increase student appreciation of art, sponsored several unique activities. One of their first meetings was a Paint-in where students were given the chance to release their frustrations through creative efforts. Plans were also made for an art exhibit at Niles North featuring the art work of students from many of the north suburban high schools.

SELF-EXPRESSION is exhibited through the facial expressions and hand motions of Michele Dribin, Ira Stover, and Linda Fields, competitors in a forensics tournament.

Giving as many students as possible the opportunity to learn about the techniques of logical argument is the main goal of the Niles North Debate Team. This was reached through a a division of debaters into three groups: Varsity, Junior-Varsity, and Novice. Participating in most Illinois High School Association tournaments, debaters argued this year's topic; "Resolved: That the United States should enact a system of compulsory service for all citizens." The team highlighted their season by events held at Northern Illinois University in November and Rockford College in December. The Forensics Team deals with individual events where speakers present speeches of both an interpretive and original nature. The members must posses both personality and poise in order to compete successfully at the Forensics meets. With the exception of special coaching sessions, the majority of the team's activities take place at other schools. Forensics hosted a contest at North in November and the state district tournament in February.

Latin, German, and Russian Clubs

It is the conviction of the Latin Club that the problems facing America are similar to the problems that faced ancient Rome. By understanding the problems of Rome and their solutions, Americans can better solve the problems of the nation. Therefore, the Latin Club studied the culture and history of Rome. The club visited the Chicago Criminal Courts building to observe a felony trail since Latin is often used in legal jargon. The Russian Club wrote and directed the skit entitled "The Little Red Natasha," as well as a variety show which they presented to the freshman and sophomore homerooms in February. The production featured jokes and songs in Russian and their translations in English. The aim of the German Club is to acquaint students with the culture of Germany. In order to familiarize themselves with the art, literature, and music of the country, the club sponsored several movies and field trips.

To encourage the appreciation of Spanish literature, the Spanish Club sponsored a poetry writing contest. Members also invited a folk singing group to perform Spanish songs at one of their meetings, and went on a field trip to La Cafe Margarita, a Spanish restaurant in Chicago. They uniquely celebrated Christmas by having a pinata and Spanish entertainment at their holiday party. A Walt Disney cartoon in Spanish was the featured attraction. French Club sponsored varied activities this year to foster the use of the French language. The club sponsored their annual pot-luck dinner where everyone donated a French dish. A French Club exchange was held so that French students from other schools could visit Northi and exchange ideas for their clubs. The club raised money by having concession stands at basketball games and bake sales after school. These funds were used to finance their banquet, the culmination of the club's events for the year.

The Niles North Pep Club has taken an active part in creating an atmosphere of school spirit through the display of purple and white that constitutes their new uniforms and buttons. The club organized a card section at this year's Homecoming football game.

Newly formed this year, A Cappella Choir greatly stressed the individual efforts of its members. True to its name, A Cappella Choir sang most of its music without any musical accompaniment. Having fewer than fifty members, the choir sang either six or eight part classical music, thus distinguishing itself from the Niles North Concert Choir. A Cappella Choir performed at Oak Lawn High School in Chicago and at many Niles North concerts. They also took a field trip in the fall to see the musical film "Finian's Rainbow." Stage Band consisted of the top brass players and a drummer from the Concert Band. They played popular jazz music and performed at school concerts and homeroom shows. Stage Band also accompanied the acts in Norsecapades, the school talent show The Clarinet Choir was another important instrumental group at Niles North that performed at many concerts.

Northi's folksinging group, Norsingers, was formed this year by students in the music department. The group sang modern folk songs and was accompanied by guitars and a piano. Norsingers performed at school concerts and outside of school. Valhalla Singers is Niles North's girls' ensemble group. Althrough some classical music was performed, Valhalla concentrated mainly on show tunes and popular music. Elizabethan chamber music was emphasized by Madrigal, a mixed chorus group. The singing group performed at concerts and went caroling at Christmas time. All three singing groups competed in the Illinois High School Association Competition. The String Quartet, one of Northi's instrumental groups, performed at school concerts and assemblies.

CHEERLEADERS' spirited pom-pom routine stirs up Viking enthusiasm.

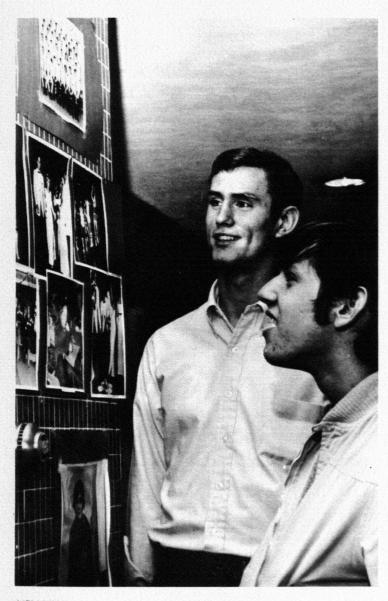

"Chow Maine" at Homecoming 1968

The recipe for a perfect Homecoming '68 was given to Niles North Vikings by the wise Confucius. His "Chow Maine" began with a large amount of excitement and spirit. The weekend, lengthened by an Institute Day on Friday, was one of color and variety. Burning of the Hawk effigy, a brunch for alumni, and a colorful parade enriched the formula. Maine South added eleven Hawks, who battled our varsity gridders to a score of 26-7. At the half-time ceremonies the newly formed Vikingettes and the skilled Marching Band performed. The Far-Eastern flavor of Oriental Autumn, the Homecoming dance, and the coronation of Queen Jody Cassman climaxed the festivities.

MEMORIES come to life as graduates view pictures at alumni brunch.

DAYS of hard work now seem worthwhile as the parade begins.

A girl, locked in a world of dark and silence since early childhood, and a young woman, once blind herself, who struggles with infinite patience to illuminate the girl's darkness. This is the story told in William Gibson's touching play, The Miracle Worker. The determination of the teacher, Annie Sullivan, to make Helen Keller "see" at first brought only bruises and frustration. Then the miracle occurred. The endless finger game finally gained meaning and Helen found the way to communication and understanding.

Hall teams clash in donkeyball

Playing basketball is a task in itself, but riding donkeys while doing so adds a whole new dimension to the game. This year, for the second time, Hall C organized a Donkey Basketball game in which students from all halls competed. Most found it difficult to stay on the backs of the belligerent donkeys. The four teams vied in a series of hilarious matches, out of which Hall A emerged the victor.

HELPING to finance exchanges, Dominique Glaszmann sells chocolate to Oeytip Monkong.

Becoming acquainted with people of other nations is always a most valuable experience, and this year Northi was fortunate enough to host four foreign students: Dominique Glaszmann of France and Anders Lidholm of Sweden, sponsored by the American Field Service and Rotary International respectively, and Hella Warnholz of Germany and Oeytip Monkong of Thailand, financed by private funds. Highlight of the year's foreign exchange activities was International Weekend, coordinated by the AFS Committee of Student Senate, during which North was host to fifty foreign students from the suburban area.

COMBINING facial and vocal expression, Robert Roth talks on lowering the voting age.

Three seniors were selected as the most effective speakers at North in this year's American Legion Oratorical Contest. The judges, outstanding persons in the field of speech and communications chosen from outside the school, awarded the first place gold medal in the competition to Judy Levitus. Placing second was Robert Roth, and Mark Gruen took third. The winners, reciting original speeches, were among twelve students who competed in the contest.

Out of the twelve schools from the north suburban area competing in the Illinois High School District Forensics and Drama Tournament, North students won two events and placed in one. Danny Simon, incomedy reading, and Manon Beiser, in verse, took first and third places, respectively. The play, "The Lesson" won a first place gold plaque for Niles North after a victory over six other schools entered in the dramatics division.

The spirit of the robust and hearty people in turn-of-the-century America came to life again as Niles North presented Rodgers and Hammerstein's colorful musical, Oklahoma! The play, which takes place in the rugged and untamed Oklahoma Territory, depicts the humorous rivalry between the farmers and cowmen. Against this lively background, the story of two involved love triangles is unfolded. Flirtatious Ado Annie is caught between the affections of peddler Ali Hakim and her country beau Will Parker. Laurie Williams also finds herself unable to choose between surly Jud Fry and the handsome Curly, who she eventually realizes is the only man for her. The climax of the show came as friends waved goodbye to newlyweds Curly and Laurie, who rode off in a genuine "surrey with the fringe on top!"

GRAD Jan Ogron pauses for a moment of thought.

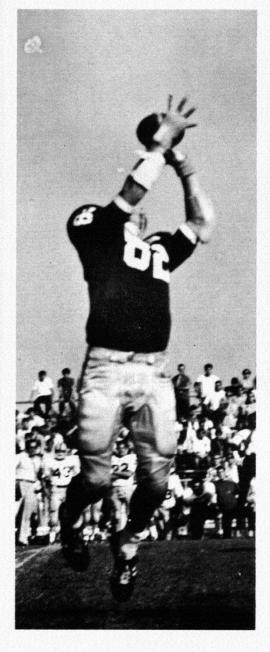

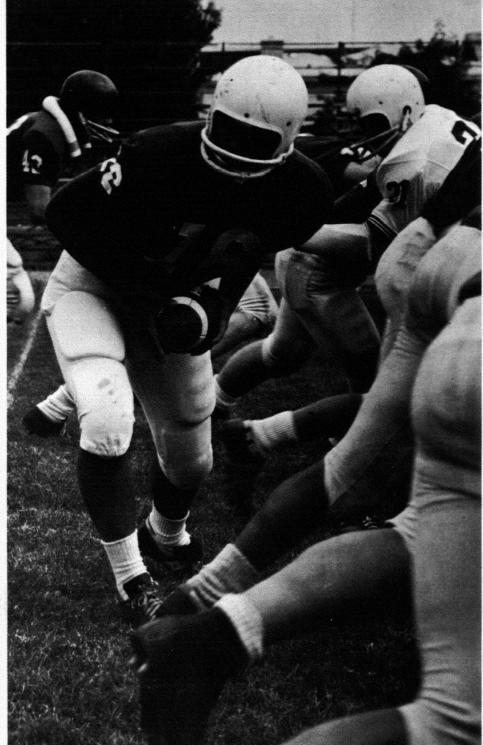

The victory at New Trier West demonstrated that the Viking football players could coordinate their efforts successfully on the field. At home, however, the offense seemed to dissolve as it approached the goal. This was partially due to the injuries of quarterback George Phelus and running back Mark Bresnik, making it necessary to revamp scoring strategy in midseason. Consequently, the efforts of the team and especially Jeff Epstein, Mark Samuels, and All-Conference Larry Babb weren't enough to break the traditional 1-7 football record.

"B" prosper

Underclass football was winning football this year at North. Sophomores earned a fourth place in the conference with the help of Coach Browning, Coach Henderson, and Coach Richardson. The combination of quarterback Scot McKay and halfbacks Jeff Arden and Marty Harrison proved powerful and promising. The 4-2-1 and 2-5 slates of frosh "A" and "B" teams were achieved with the guidance of Coach Braddy and Coach Kmet. Freshman players who helped initiate a winning tradition in Viking football are Keith Schirmer, Steve Serra, and Joel Chernoff.

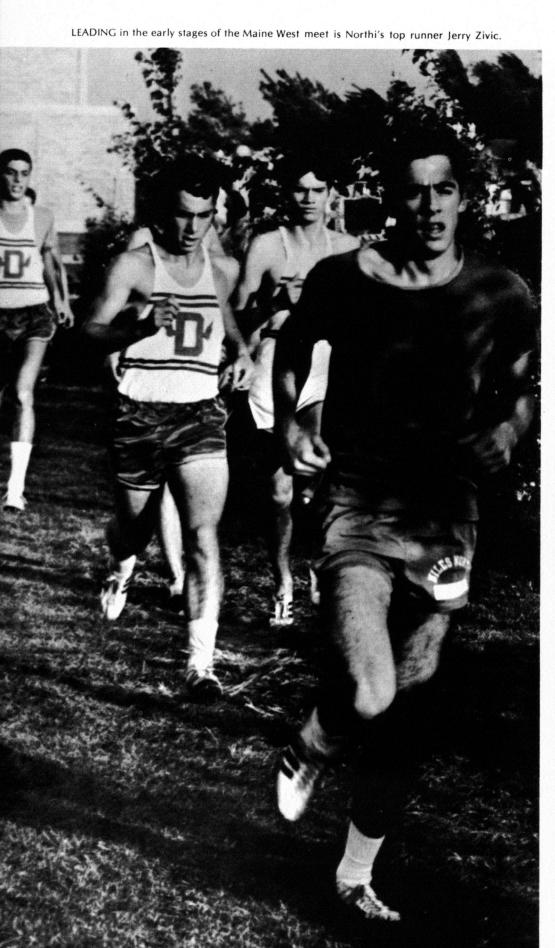

ANTICIPATING the call of quarterback Keith Schirmer are the Niles East and North Frosh

JOGGING together are Doug Megow and Rick Turim.

BOB FRIEDMAN ingores fatigue in an effort to widen his lead.

The cross-country team, winning the double dual against Niles East and Niles West, was worked into excellent condition for their first meet by Coach Robinson. However, the loss of captains Jerry Zivic and Steve Gitelis due to illness left the squad with only two seniors and a discouraging record of 2-8.

THE REWARD for a well-run race is the slip with a one-digit number for captain Steve Gitelis.

Township, conference, and district champions, the varsity wrestling squad compiled a record unparalleled by any other sports team in the history of Niles North. Seven wrestlers qualified for the sectionals. Gary Goldman, Ken Pinsky, and Ben Aronowitz placed eighth, second, and eighth at Urbana. With five returning underclassmen, Coach Weber's alert squad should repeat its achievements next year.

PENSIVE Ken Pinsky developed a style bettered by only one in the state.

MUSCLING his opponent to the mat is Ben Aronowitz, eighth in state.

ROSS FRIEDMAN'S determination has kept him on the varsity roster for three years.

HAL GOLDMAN not only was one of the outstanding wrestlers for the sophomore squad but also made an excellent showing on the varsity level.

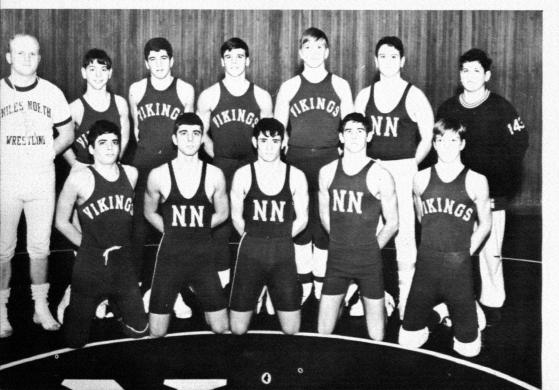

JV squad finishes 8-3

A respectable second place in the Central Suburban League was earned by the junior varsity wrestling team. Despite the fact that almost half of the team consisted of sophomores, Coach Richardson's grapplers lost to only three teams. Highlighting the season was an overwhelming defeat of wrestling state power Mundelein. Jeff Perelman and Mark Behrman were the prime wrestlers.

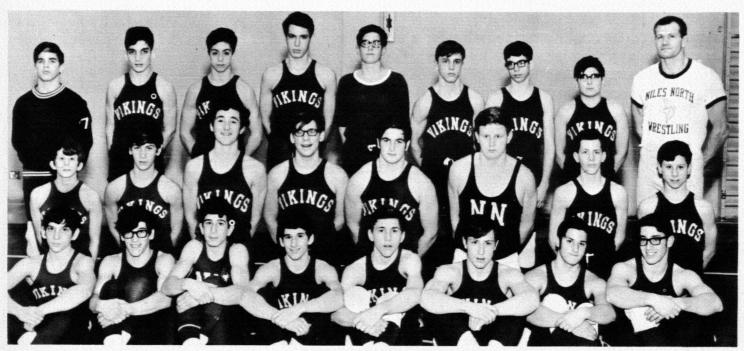

JEFF RICE attempts a predicament.

ANOTHER five points is added to the Northi frosh team score by Joel Brumlik.

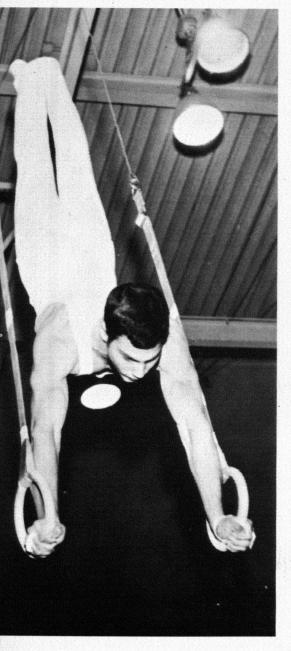

Paralleling the success of the varsity, the sophomore wrestling team had a perfect record of twelve wins and no defeats. Deerfield was the only squad that came within twelve points of the Vikings in dual competition. Coach Browning's freshman squad took third in the Niles North tourney and fifth in the league. Exceptional wrestlers Danny Lazarus and Alan Summers were still able to compile records of 13-1 and 13-2.

Despite the loss of seven inches in height, Coach Florence's basketball team complied an even record of eleven wins and ten defeats. The lack of height was remedied by the sharpshooting accuracy of forwards Ken Sticken and John Peterson. Junior Mike Sachs, at 6'5", responded satisfactorily to the pressure placed upon him as the team's tallest man. Steve Huscher contributed 100 points to the squad total from the free-throw line, setting a new school record. With Steve, Mike and sixth man Pat Keefe returning, the coaching staff has confidence in next year's team.

Coach Lund's sophomores were plagued with the same problem as that of the varsity—a deficiency in tall forwards. A continuous full-court press was used, but it failed to stop the big teams of Rockford Guilford and Deerfield. However, guards Dennis Malone and Scott McKay did spur the Vikings to defeat the Glenbrook teams.

Leading Coach Ackman's frosh "A" squad to a 9-6 record were guards Dennis Cooper and Ken Schirmer. The team's full-court press caused their opponents numerous turn-overs. Outside shooting balanced the rebounding and scoring provided by the forwards. Other top players for the team included Larry Howell and Joel Chernoff. Coach DiPasquale's frosh "B" performed admirably considering their lack of tall forwards. Scott Brown and Fred Crivlare were the team's top performers.

Second taken by swimmers at CSL meet

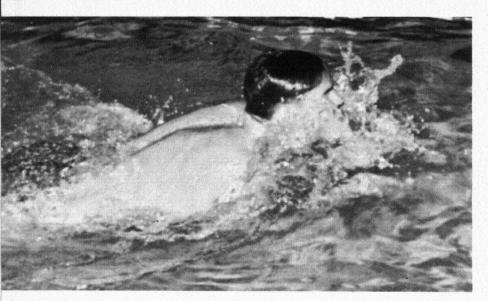

Coach Rusk's swimmers opened the season a victim of injuries and illnesses. Their dual meet record read 12-3, giving the fish a tie for third in the CSL. However, the team missed taking the conference meet by only seven points on a judge's decision. In state, Ron Vender dropped three seconds off his time in the individual medley winning sixth place, while diver Gary Dworski took fourth. Also outstanding were the team's juniors and sophomores who provided necessary depth to the team.

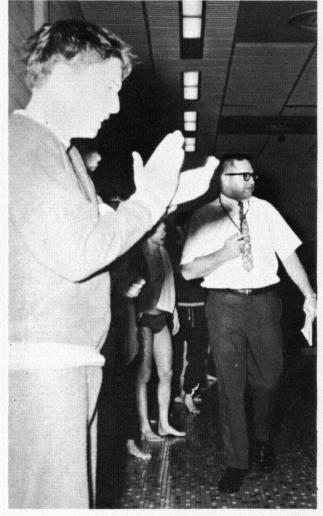

GARY DWORSKI, fourth in state, was the first high school diver to attempt the difficult and dangerous reverse two and a half somersault in tuck position off the one meter board.

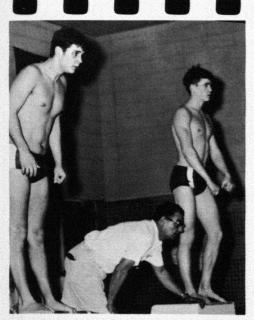

STATE qualifier and team work horse, Herb Rotfeld stretches for a few extra inches in the first seconds of the 100 yards backstroke.

THE RECORD which he had set in breastroke was broken again this year by Perry Wien.

Northi intramural program diversifies

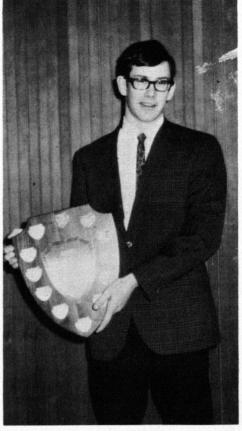

Intramurals at North were designed to give all students a chance to participate in sports. This year the competitive aspect of the program was emphasized. Broadening the athletic foundation, such activities as the donkey basketball game and intramural It's Academic have been incorporated into the competition between homerooms.

JEFF LIBBY works out during free-play.

INCLUDED in the intramurals were homeroom head counts at football games, giving valuable points to classes with the largest attendance.

GAA creates a new scope of activities

The agony of pulled muscles from extensive practice and the thrill of the winning point summarizes an active year for the Girls' Athletic Association. With the initiation of Vikingettes and Timers' Club, GAA's membership rapidly increased in size and enthusiasm. The gymnastic teams and Auroris clubs added grace and charm to the GAA atmosphere through the production of their spring show. Striving for success, the tennis and badminton teams represented Northi in interscholastic competition. Along with its traditional bake sales, co-ed nights, bowling, and volleyball activities, GAA also created an after school co-ed swim. An awards banquet was held honoring its many outstanding participants to climax the year.

Freshman, JV cheerleaders gain experience

Through the building of a well-established four squad system, qualified girls were able to participate on any squad according to individual ability. Pre-Varsity Cheerleaders took an active role by channeling excitement at all Sophomore football and Junior Varsity basketball games. The Junior Varsity squad contributed by arousing spirit at all underclassman events, usually held on Saturday mornings. The Freshman Club, originally organized to teach the girls the fundamentals of cheerleading, changed its appearance this year through the purchase of uniforms.

Striving for the perfection of stunts and cheers, the Varsity cheerleaders find their job a tedious one. With the aid of North's school mascot, Victor E. Viking, the cheerleaders control the excitement and arouse the pep of the many Viking fans. Taking time out from practices, the cheerleaders sponsored their annual car wash, earning enough money to send the entire squad to the United States Cheerleading Association camp. This past summer the squad took a fourth place in competition with squads from forty-three other schools from around the nation.

Spirited Vikingettes enter scene

HIGH STEPPING Vikingettes march in homecoming parade.

Fans at North had something new to look at this year during half-time aside from cheerleaders, twirlers, and the marching band. The high-stepping Vikingettes entered the scene. This group, designed after the Fenger Titanettes, was organized last summer. Two outfits were designed for the group—a short flared A-line jumper for their performances and a purple vest and skirt for school attire. The twenty girls performed original dance routines with the assistance of the Viking Marching Band. These routines were done to such popular songs as "Step to the Rear," "My Heart Belongs to Daddy," "Colonel Bogey," and "Heard it Through the Grapevine." Making their debute at the Niles North-Niles West football game, the Vikingettes continued to give performances at pep assmeblies and special events.

Lear Lexlye, Sophomore year hax sure been eventful? It'also been a lot of fun (+ problems-Jerry, David etc.). I can't believe we got to be really good friends only 2 years ago - it seems like I've known you forever. Maybe well agt English together again next year that would seally be lunney, It for high school has to admit we have had a few "different" experiences xithe we've been there. It's opines so fast, I hate to even think about it. I hope things work out for you & Bob (I'm sure they will). He sounds really gest. Best of luch with hem t everything else.

With three years of working and planning for prom behind them, Class Board members assumed a host of new responsibilites as seniors. One of Senior Board's little-known functions was the sizing and distribution of caps and gowns to all graduating students. Senior Board was also responsible for the presentation of a class gift to the school. To raise money for its contribution, Senior Class Board sponsored several activites, including the teacher dance and a senior button sale. Carrying their school spirit into noneconomic endeavors, the Board organized a senior class picnic, senior prank, cut-day, and bermuda day.

BUDDHA reigns over homecoming dance.

The Junior Class Board set a dual goal this year — to raise money for the festive junior-senior prom and to promote class spirit and unity. Attempting to find new and successful fund-raising projects, Junior Board sponsored a concessions stand at the Holiday Basketball Tournament and sold bright purple shoelaces. Among other traditional projects was the sale of white homecoming mums and programs listing all the players' names at home football and basketball games. Climaxing an active year, the Board used its substantial profits to finance the prom, which was held at the Continental Plaza on May 30.

Money-making projects highlighted Sophomore Class Board's activities this year. In order to finance a lavish prom for next year's upperclassmen, they collected dues from all sophomores. Fund-raising efforts included the annual carnival and car wash. The Sophomore Class Board initiated a button sale which aimed at promoting school spirit bringing in profits. The board's support extended to football games where members manned a refreshment stand throughout the season. Having started with such a sound financial basis, this year's board is looking toward the future when they will plan Prom 1970.

Freshman Class Board had the most difficult task of any school government organization--uniting students from various junior high schools to form a strong representative body. Despite their slow beginning, the Board was nevertheless able to meet the many challenges which they faced. Having no funds to back them, they built up their treasury by collecting dues from all freshmen. The Board then sold antenna toppers and entered a booth in the annual Sophomore Carnival. These projects not only added to the Board's receipts, but also displayed their spirit and eagerness to become active members of the Viking crowd. Freshman Class Board ended the year satisfied with the success of their activities and well prepared to finance next year's carnival.

Saga 1969...and the memories remain.

Endword

Capturing the student's awareness of world as well as school events was the major objective of Saga 1969. Many people were involved this year with creating a tangible yearbook from abstract ideas, but we would especially like to thank . . .

Mr. Leonard Witts, representative from the Norman King Company, whose talent resulted in many of the graphic designs found in the book . . . Root Photographers with special thanks to Mr. Len Novak and Mr. Lee Seely for their creative photography . . . The Chicago Tribune, United Press International, and World Wide Photos for supplying pictures of world events . . . Hall C Council and Norsecapades who donated money to the book . . . E. R. Moore company for lending caps and gowns for use in Special Events photographs . . . Miss Andrea Klein, assistant Saga advisor, who contributed greatly to the business aspect of Saga . . . Mrs. Mary Howell, former yearbook advisor, who was always available for consultation . . . Miss Maureen Armbruster, Saga advisor, whose time, effort, and knowledge of journalism is reflected throughout the pages of Saga . . and finally to the staff who truly made Saga 1969 . . .

We thank you all.
