Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I have enjoyed your first issues very much and hope to continue this pleasure.

My class of boys and girls also are taking a greater interest in their town after seeing the pictures so far presented. We are awaiting the "history" series. We are wondering how we can discuss them since many will be printed during the vacation months.

Best wishes to all of you.

Ralph Bartlett, principal
St. Paul Lutheran School

(Editor's Note: It didn't occur to us that we would be short-changing students by running part of our historical series during the summer. Undoubtedly other teachers have the same misgivings. About the only thing we can suggest is that the series be saved in entirety for classroom discussion next fall.)

Dear Editor:

May I first take this opportunity to thank you for the fine article which you ran the week following our building fund drive at St. Martha's. Thank you for your cooperation.

Francis R. Gauer

Dear Editor:

I think you have done an excellent job from the standpoint of both news and format . . .

Richard C. Lindberg

Dear Editor:

We feel that your paper meets the needs of both youth and adults. It is pictorial, informative and interesting in every detail. Kee up the good work.

The John Obermaiers
Morton Grove

P.S. Our daughter Carlyn's name was spelled Overmeir in a recent notice on scholarship.

(Editor's Note: If the Obermaiers -typesetter, please, PLEASE, get it straight this time - can overlook an error of this magnitude, then we feel we indeed have their confidence. Thank you, folks.)

Dear Editor:

In the short space of time the Villager has been in print you and your staff have been most cooperative in accepting and releasing publicity for the Grove Chapter of Women's American ORT. I would like to say thank you and that we are looking forward to working with you again next season.

Janet Puzek
Skokie

Dear Editor:

As the person who wrote on your suggestion card, "Hope Branagan applies the techniques learned in MacDougall's Medill classes . . ." I thought it only fair to tell you that after reading your first few Villagers I think you've got one terrific publication.

Mac (Prof. MacDougall) and others here were anxious to see your work and we all agree that the Villager is a beautiful job. Both format and content deserve praise . . .

(Editor's Note: Earning praise from the fellows who know this business well enough to teach it makes us feel somewhat giddy. We'll try to live up to their expectations.)

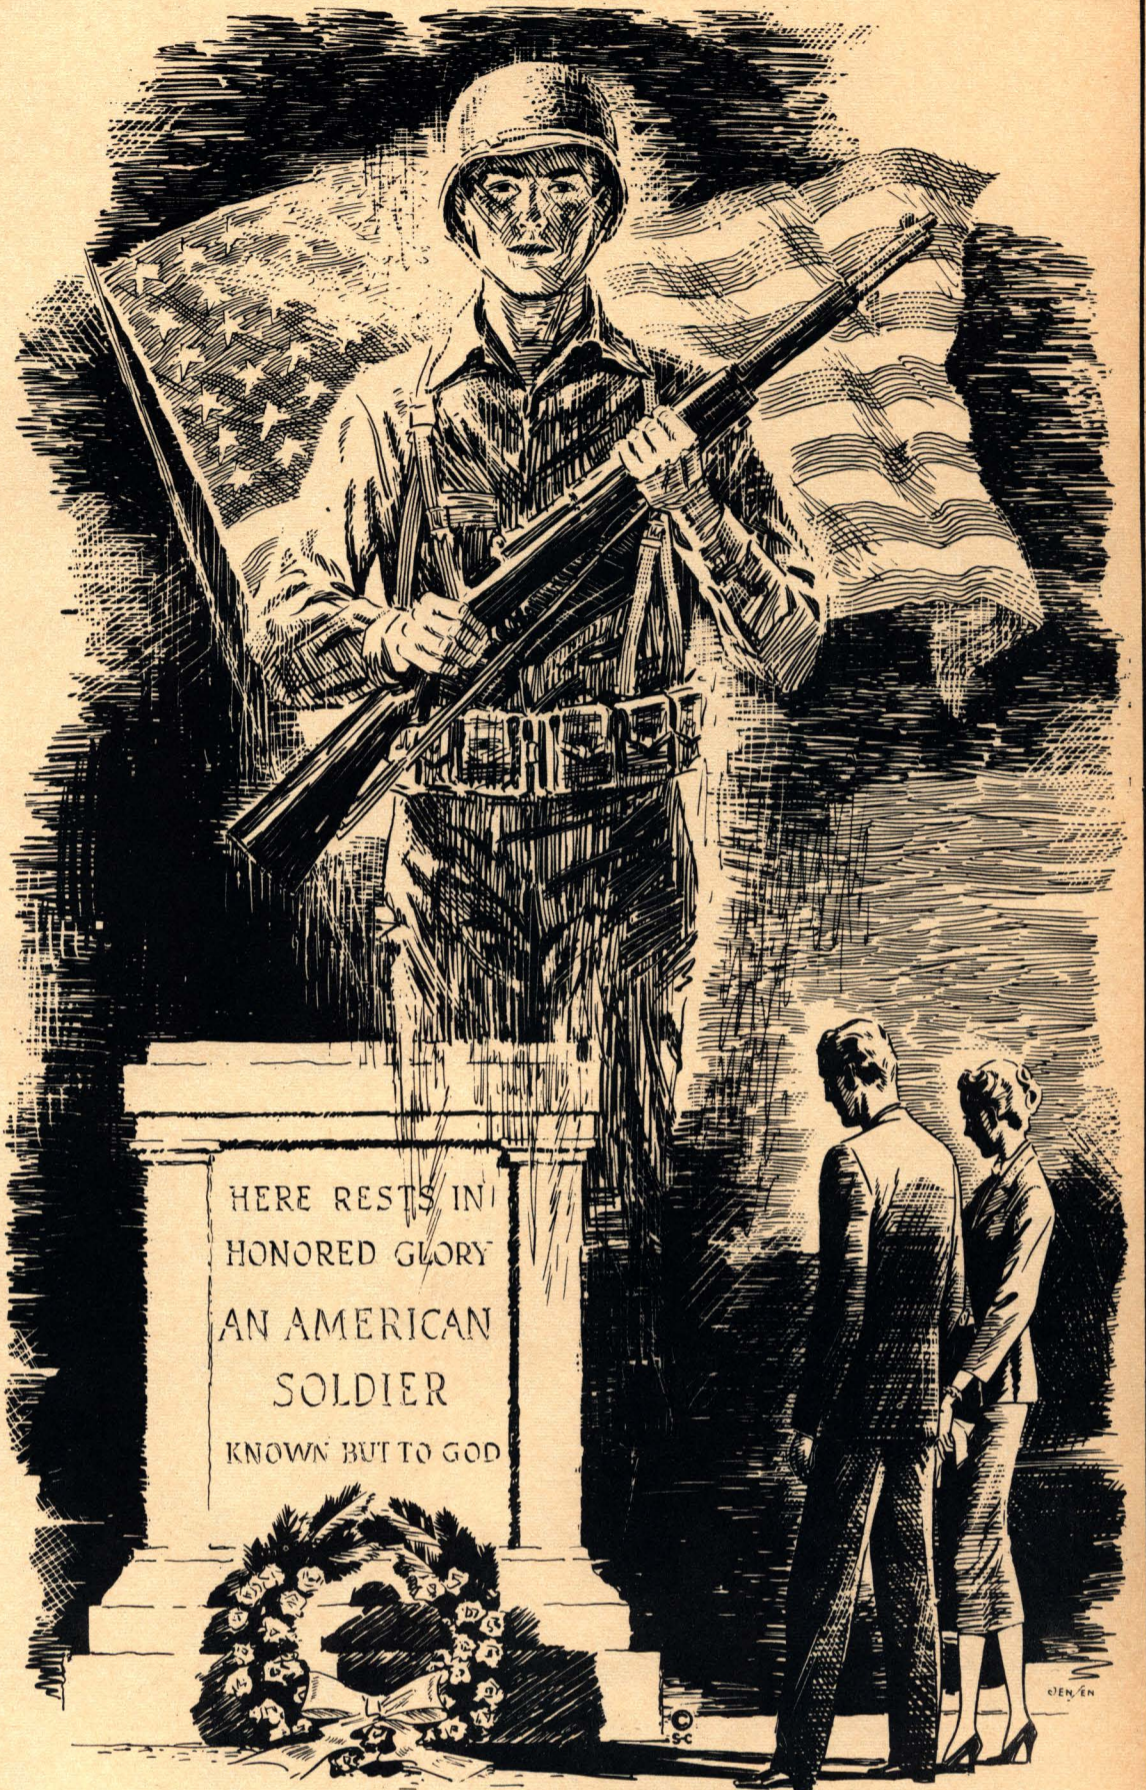

Dear Editor:

We have enjoyed your new paper, the Villager, and are happy to subscribe for a year. The name, the Villager, struck a note with us. For quite a few years we've been getting the Palm Springs Villager and have enjoyed that paper, too.

Our wish is for much success and continue the policy you have started . . . a good, unbiased paper.

Mrs. William R. Peterson
Skokie

(Editor's Note: This is the first notice we have had that some other publication has taken the Villager name. We had hoped to be entirely original. Matter of fact, before launching the Villager four of us used up a good three days choosing a name we thought would be unique. Perhaps it's just as well we hadn't heard of the Palm Springs Villager. We might have settled for something prosaic like the Star, or Herald, or some such.)

The stranger who is my brother

The unknown soldier who died to protect our freedom . . . his grave has become the symbol of all the many, many others who also gave their lives in exchange for our peace. Let us not forget these brave men for even a moment. And especially this Memorial Day let us pay them proper tribute.

The Delivery Van . . . with the Comfort of a Sedan

The Volkswagen Delivery Van has an amazing loading capacity - 170 cu.ft. (4.8 cu.m.) with a payload of 1,830 lb. (830 kg.). To give you a rough idea of what this means: you can stow in its body almost half a million cigarettes. Whatever goods are to be carried - you can load them with ease and speed either through the wide double doors, the large rear door, or through both at the same time. There is an entirely flat and unobstructed floor right to the engine compartment, enabling the driver to stack his goods even in the furthest corners - just as required. Whether he has to pick them up from a loading platform or the ground - he will always have the body floor within easy reach, saving him a lot of extra strain and effort.

Large publicity space

Cost-conscious businessmen have worked out that billboard space equal in size to the advertising area on the VW Delivery Van costs more during one year than the entire VW. That is why they are so anxious to utilize both panels and top for impressive publicity.

MEMBERS OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE of the ILLINOIS ASSOCIATION OF PARK DISTRICTS dined at FANNY'S Friday evening, May 16th, following their Mid-Year Meeting at Devonshire Park Community Recreation Center in Skokie. This meeting preceded the association's two-day regional meeting held at Skokie, Friday and Saturday, May 16 and 17. Headed by HENRY O. GLEISS, public relations expert and president of the Skokie Park District Board, also an association vice president, and MRS. GLEISS, the guests shifted their "droolings" over Skokie's outstanding park and recreation system to "droolings" over the epicurean delights found at FANNY'S. . . Director of Skokie's parks and recreation, ROBERT W. RUHE and MRS. RUHE were accompanied by their house guest, HENDRICK DEVOS of Pretoria, South Africa, who spoke with great appreciation of his experience in America, and in the RUHE'S home, and for the opportunity to study, firsthand, Skokie's outstanding park system. . . The State Association's able and distinguished president, MARVIN F. BURT, and his wife from Freeport, were special guests. MR. BURT is a Freeport lawyer, park commissioner, and state senator representing the 56th Senatorial District. . . Other officers present included: Vice President ROBERT H. WIEGMAN, JR., Morton Grove Park Commissioner and insurance executive, Attorney ROBERT A. STUART, trustee of Springfield District, who serves as association legal and legislative consultant, and MARJORIE M. DICKINSON, also of Springfield, the association's executive secretary and editor of ILLINOIS PARKS magazine. . . Association directors present included: WILLIAM J. COUDOUX, Forest Park commissioner (no one enjoyed FANNY'S spaghetti more than "BILL"); GEORGE C. FOX, SR., commissioner of the Lockport Township Park Board, recently elected "Man of the Year" by the Des Plaines Valley Improvement Association, which includes eighteen municipalities in the Cook-Will County area; and L. M. KRAUSE, commissioner of the East St. Louis Park Board and a successful contractor. . . Once a man gets interested in parks and in the State Association, he keeps in touch. The association's past presidents, still in active park service, serve as an advisory group to the executive board. One present was FERDINAND ARNDT, who served the Des Plaines Board as commissioner and president for many years, and the State Association as president from 1945-47. Now FERD is employed by the Des Plaines Board as director of parks. He has been particularly successful with their Golden Age program. Another was CLEM W. HULIT, president of the Canton Board, who was state president in 1947-48. It's most unusual if he doesn't attend a meeting of the association. Also present was W. W. BERG, Commissioner of the Keweenaw Park Board, and the association's immediate past president. He rarely misses a meeting.

Last, but not least, Past President LEO DONOVAN, president of Peoria's outstanding park district, and his NELLIE, were among those present. Their greatest regret is that they can't start life together all over again. It has been such a rich experience for both of them. Their many park board friends throughout the state, hope they will be attending association meetings TOGETHER for many years. Their sense of humor is priceless!

At 7:30 p.m., the guests, most of them commissioners serving their communities without pay, hurried back to Skokie to observe and learn more about what makes this park system "tick". The sessions closed Saturday at 4:00 p.m.

Two of the candidates who appeared before a packed meeting of the Niles Township Regular Democratic Organization last week: Bernard Peskin, left, running for state representative in the fall election, and Alfred J. Cilella, nominee for a Circuit Court vacancy in June 2 voting.

SIFT ARSON CLUES AT LAMAINE

Another Allgauer's? Lie Tests Requested

Detectives continued today to sift the ashes of the burned-out Villa LaMaine restaurant in Skokie for arson clues—and at the same time investigated the operations of its owners.

The plush spot at McCormick Blvd. and Main St. was touched off early Tuesday in a blaze reminiscent of the racketeer-inspired fire at Allgauer's Lincoln Ave. restaurant just two weeks ago.

But in this case, there were no witnesses other than the men who operate the Villa LaMaine—Christ Savos, 43, and his brother George, 41. Both live in the 6800 block of Lincoln Ave. in Lincolnwood. They say two masked men held them captive, then fired their establishment.

At Allgauer's, a number of employes were held at gunpoint while two masked intruders sprinkled gasoline around the plush dining place's interior, then set a match to it. The fire is believed by authorities to be the work of labor mobsters intent on putting owner Gus Allgauer—and other restaurant owners—on warning.

Sgt. Martin Conroy and Roger Milz of the Skokie detective bureau said the Savos brothers had been asked to take lie detector tests—and had agreed.

While investigators were not discounting the possibility that the LaMaine was "another Allgauer's," they also were checking other aspects of the case closely.

Two Skokie patrolmen, Ray

Kozub and Ron McMillen, found George Savos in his car behind the restaurant at about 2:30 a.m. His brother's auto was parked nearby, the patrolmen said. Savos told questioners he invited the officers to join him in the restaurant for lunch. Kozub and McMillen disagree. Another patrol car, headed by Officer George Dohman, checked the place again at approximately 2:50 a.m. Dohman reported Christ Savos' auto had been moved to the front of the building. The fire was reported by an anonymous caller at 2:56 a.m.

The brothers leased the restaurant in 1957 after a fire had destroyed a night club called the Cor-Main at the same site.

Damage in Tuesday's blaze was estimated at about $100,000. The brothers said they had $60,000 insurance on the restaurant's contents and $60,000 in business interruption insurance.

Memorial Rites

American Legion Posts, Veterans of Foreign Wars, clergymen, scouts and civic leaders will join in parades and services in Skokie and Lincolnwood on Memorial Day.

In Lincolnwood, the fourth annual Memorial Day parade will start at the Lincolnwood Village Hall at 10:30 a.m.

In Skokie, the parade will start at 9:30 a.m. from the American Legion Hall.

This is the interior of the burned-out LaMaine night club in Skokie, following an arson at the place early Tuesday.

Township Referendum

Residents of Niles Township will have an opportunity to advise the township board by referendum Monday, June 2, on two ways of spending $375,000 available in excess funds.

Both proposals envision what amounts to a township hall—but in one case a Fine Arts center would be added.

The referendum result is not binding on the board, but is expected to be adhered to.

The two projects remain from a number of other proposals—including a township hospital—that were presented at a previous mass meeting and in replies to brochures the board sent out to citizens.

The board then appointed a special 27-person screening committee to study the various suggestions and come up with two for submission to voters.

Mrs. Julia Molloy, principal of the Orchard School for retarded children, put forth one of the proposals on the ballot—a Niles Township Hall.

The hall would incorporate facilities for township administration, welfare, rehabilitation, and charitable activities, including facilities for the handicapped and aged. The building also would include a vocational training and guidance center, physical therapy and psychological counseling for the handicapped.

Mrs. Van Allen Bradley of Lincolnwood made the suggestion for a Fine Arts and Cultural Center of Niles Township.

Again, this would be considered a Niles Township Hall to incorporate facilities for Township Administration and offices available to welfare agencies, plus a Fine Arts Division. Mrs. Bradley's idea would enable both children and adults to participate in little theatre groups, music festivals, painting and sculpturing.

Village Clerk John Seeley of Skokie announced today a new census of the village will be started—and probably completed—during the month of June.

The census will be supervised by the U.S. Census Bureau and will be paid for by the village. Skokie has had this done every two years during its recent burgeoning growth.

In charge of the nosecounting will be John W. Camet of the federal bureau's staff.

Camet notified Seeley that he will be in Skokie June 2 to conduct interviews of interested enumerators.

Forms for persons interested in helping out with the census are in Seeley's office at the Skokie village hall.

The enumerators earn 6 cents per name and officials estimate each averages about 200 persons a day.

The overall charge to Skokie averages out to about 13 cents a name, Seeley said.

Camet estimated that approximately 80 persons will be required. He said he preferred they be between 25 and 45 years old, but that persons up to 65 years of age would be acceptable.

The last census, in 1956, showed 43,987 persons were living in Skokie—21,722 males and 22,265 females.

The 1950 census—only six years previous—showed the village had only 14,832 residents. The increase represents a population gain of a phenominal 196.6 per cent.

Camet said the census should be completed in three weeks—at the most, four—from the June 2 kickoff date.

In announcing the new count, Seeley said:

"It's obvious that a community which has grown as fast as Skokie must keep close track of just where it's going, population-wise. We must know where we stand at specific intervals."

Estimates place Skokie's population now at about 50,000—possibly higher.

In a gruesome highway smashup on Milwaukee Ave. just north of Niles last week, two young people lost their lives and four others were injured.

The dead were Ruth Lynn Olson, 15, of 8024 Merrill Ave., Niles, and Lester Laskowski, 20 of Chicago.

An auto driven by Laskowski collided headon with a milk truck driven by Francis R. Gallagher, 57, of North Chicago. Gallagher, who was uninjured, was charged with reckless homicide. Police said his truck veered over the center dividing line on the highway into the path of the auto, which was bound southeast.

The Laskowski auto caromed off another car before upsetting off the highway.

The injured, all recovering, are Larry Gaertner, 15, Niles; Mary Davis, 15, Park Ridge; Dorene Lee, 14, Des Plaines, and William Figolah, 19, Chicago. The girls and Gaertner were students at Maine Township High School.

The accident Wednesday occurred as the six young people were returning from a swimming party at a lake near Wauconda, Ill.

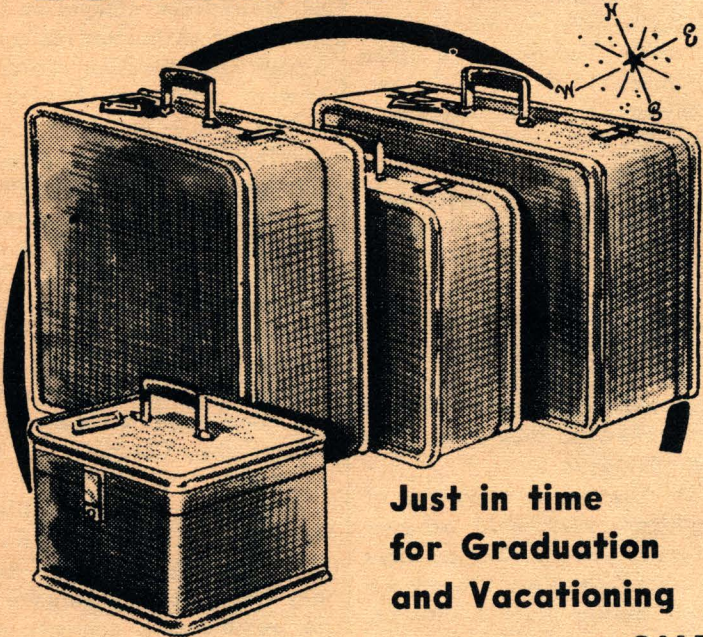

Miss Olson recently was selected runnerup in a contest for freshman queen at Maine high school. She was buried Saturday.

Pictures on this page were taken by Larry Nelson, operator of Nelson Printing & Letter Shop, 611 Milwaukee Ave., and a former newspaperman. They are exclusive to the Villager. The accident, which took the lives of two young people, occurred on the highway in front of the Nelson shop.

All that was left of 20-year-old Lester Laskowski's auto after it was struck by milk truck driven by Francis R. Gallagher, 57, on Milwaukee Ave. north of Niles last week. Laskowski and Ruth Lynn Olson, 15, of Niles, died. Gallagher was charged with reckless homicide.

Platters and Posies Beautify Morton Grove

Mrs. John Dalen, 8908 Austin Ave., Morton Grove, poses beside her tri-color award winning table setting, "Around the World." Her setting was based on Mexico.

"Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" is an appropriate title for this beautiful arrangement of candles, flowers and greens. It won a blue ribbon for Mrs. Kenneth Myers, 9124 Marmora Ave., Morton Grove, who poses beside her display.

The Juniors were very much in evidence with their artistic and beautiful exhibit. Judy Johnson, 10, of 9220 Newcastle Ave., Morton Grove, and her sister, Donna Johnson, 4, are fascinated with the pretty doll swinging from the blossom tree. All plantings and settings in this exhibit were created by youngsters.

"Platters and Posies" presented by the Garden Club of Morton Grove on May 15 and 16 in the Community Church of Morton Grove displayed the ingenuity of the exhibitors in addition to the beautiful flowers and table settings.

An unusual exhibit, selections for presentations were taken from song titles.

Pictured here are a few of the many attractive settings that brought forth admiring glances and comments from all who viewed them.

Simplicity and beauty combine to make this entry in the "Love is a Many Splendored Thing" category a blue ribbon winner for Mrs. Clarence Zehnle, 8835 Marmora Ave., Morton Grove.

A New Grandson For Julia Fuhr

Richard Frederick Fuhr, Jr., arrived on Wednesday, May 14, in the Evanston Hospital.

The new arrival weighed 9 pounds, 3½ ounces. He is the newest darling of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frederick Fuhr, 15 Overlook Dr., Golf, the others being his brothers Bob, 7, and Scott, 5½, and his sister, Suzie, 15 months.

Young Richard is particularly fortunate in having the very prominent Mrs. Julia Fuhr, 6136 Crain St., Morton Grove, as his grandmother. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Perry of Chicago.

On the shape of things: We find little consolation when well meaning folks tell us that "a woman has to have some curves." We would like to have a few straight lines.

So, we enrolled in a gym. When the instructor, Christine, put weights into each hand and told us to bend with these weights from side to side, we went along with the idea, dislocated shoulders notwithstanding.

Then came a gadget that you hang onto and pull down in back of your head. The next appliance of medieval torture came when we were told to lie down on our back as a weight was placed on our upraised legs.

The trick was to push the weight up and down. We did all right coming down, it was pushing the thing back up again that gave us trouble.

We tried to convince the young lady who had taken us in tow (literally) that we didn't want to develop, we were seeking some underdevelopment. She almost had us convinced that the same approach is used to build us to take off, when we suddenly caught a look at ourself in the mirror.

We saw the muscles before we realized they were on us! That did it.

A straight line may be the shortest distance to something, but we'll have to take a longer route since it looks like we're going to be stuck with the curves for a while.

On brogues: Kay Thompson, the versatile lady of the A-1 Employment Agency, has a natural gift for mimicry.

This was in evidence as she related to us the news of recent week-end visitors to her home from Belfast, Northern Ireland.

It seems that Tom and Venie Brown, the guests had to take a bus to get to Kay's home. Unprepared for the number of people on the bus and for the number of turns the bus takes as it makes its way into Skokie, the poor couple was quite perturbed.

With a thick, Irish brogue, Mrs. Brown confided to Kay, "Kin ye imagine—we got on a bus, and the poor driver just drove around and around. Poor lad didn't seem to know where he was going."

On Decoration Day: A time when tiny flags are placed... On graves here and afar... And flowered wreaths are set... 'Neath every cross and star... "It is for us the living,"... That we bring flower and fern... For the soul that lies beneath the sod... Can't know how much we yearn... And Decoration Day is when... I wake up in the morn... Singing "Happy Birthday" to my son... And bless the day that he was born.

On chapeaux: It looks like Marie Buffehr has done it again. Marie, who lives at 4306 Dempster St., Skokie, has acquired quite a reputation in the field of hat design, winning many national awards.

Her latest creations for summer are simply breathtaking. Her combinations of straw and "hot orange" colored silks are enough to make you want to go out and buy a whole outfit to go with the hat.

With Marie's creations, the hat is the focal point of the costume, not just one of the accessories.

Sue Backus to Represent Skokie Legion Auxiliary

Sue Backus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Backus, 5345 Galitz St., Skokie, was recently chosen to represent Skokie Unit 320 of the American Legion Auxiliary at the 18th Annual Illinois Girls State session to be held from June 17, to 24, at MacMurray College, Jacksonville.

In order to be eligible, Sue had to have an interest in civics and government, leadership, good character, self reliance, honesty, scholarship and cooperativeness.

A junior at Niles Township High School, she is a very busy girl. Last month, Sue was initiated into the National Honor Society, with an A average. At present, she is rehearsing daily for the spring play in which she has the juvenile lead.

FIRST DANDELION

by JANE WATSON

Today's flowers on my kitchen table Have beauty to which none can compare, For all that others may be botbouse grown And arranged with skill and care.

Dandelions brought in a grubby little fist, Then rammed in a jelly glass tight, And placed exactly in the middle of the table. Oh! My! They're a glorious sight!

The sparkling love in the eyes of the giver As every Mother knows, Makes the first dandelion of Spring The most beautiful flower that grows.

ODE TO AN EGG

by MISS ESSEL

Dear little egg With eye so bright, Why in the heck Can't they make you right?

You're either too soft, Or they make you too hard; Instead of in butter, They fry you in lard.

How sad and forlorn— And your eye is so red; I know this is due To the tears that you shed.

You would rather be boiled And placed in a cup. It sure must be tough To keep lying, back up!

Overheard on WCFL, Thursday morning, May 15: Danny Sorkin commented, "Someone placed a sign on a lawn in Morton Grove- 'cut your grass or else'- guess I'll have to get out and get my grass cut." (Didn't think we were listening, eh, Danny boy?)

Red's Loss - America's Gain

Czech Sculptress ■ brings her talents to U.S. and Skokie.....

A lot of Maria's work is done on her patio, in the bright sunlight. Here she is completing one of the forms that will be part of a 5 foot sculpture.

When the Communists drew their iron curtain down on Czechoslovakia, they didn't realize they were sending one of the world's foremost sculptresses to America.

In 1948, dark haired, petite Marie Wishner, was working for her government in the Czechoslovakian Embassy in Washington. When the Communists took over her native country, she asked for political asylum in the United States. This was granted and she became a citizen of this country a year ago. Her family still is in Czechoslovakia.

Maria comes by her talent naturally. Born in Prague, the granddaughter of a widely known painter and niece of the famed Czech sculptor Jan Stursa, she was making shapes with clay at a time when most little girls were playing with dolls.

As she matured, her great talent developed, and she went on to study in the Sorbonne in Paris and Charles University in Prague.

Her studies were interrupted when the Germans invaded Czechoslovakia and she was made to work for six years at forced labor.

In 1946, she went to work for the Czech government and came to the United States to work in the Embassy. The rest is history.

Her Art is Everything

Maria is not concerned with her personal background. She is interested only in her work and the desire to have it understood.

With microscopic attention to details, Maria Wishner works on one of her models in her studio.

STONE ART

Skokie Woman, Onetime
Forced Laborer, Possesses One of World's Unique
Sculpturing Talents

by Sheryl Leonard

In her studio-home at 3821 Fargo Ave., Skokie, she creates her own chemical compositions of glazes, using oxides as coloring. It is here that she has 3 kilns where she bakes her sculptured pieces.

All of her work is contemporary, and all of it is in stoneware, a highly (2,300 deg.) fired ceramic. She finds stoneware is highly resistant to chipping and difficult to break.

When Maria receives a commission for a 5 ft. sculpture, she starts out by creating a small model.

Her pottery is more like sculptured pieces, and her vases are created in such a fashion as to hold only one or two branches of flowers or leaves.

Many of Maria's large sculptured pieces are used by interior decorators who are seeking a definite work of art, and many of her creations are used in beautiful gardens.

Maria enjoys doing garden sculpture and feels there is a need for good, individual pieces.

Technique Important

There is a very definite process that must be gone through before a work of art such as hers is completed.

To begin with, Maria hard-shapes the figure she is going to work on out of clay. This is no ordinary clay, but special stoneware clay.

Then the figure is fired for about six hours.

It is taken out of the kiln, and the design is painted on with liquid wax. The colors that Maria creates herself and applies on all of her works are so delicately beautiful, they cause the observer to become overawed with admiration.

On top of this color, a glaze of liquid glass is supplied, and then the figure goes back into the kiln for another 10 to 12 hours.

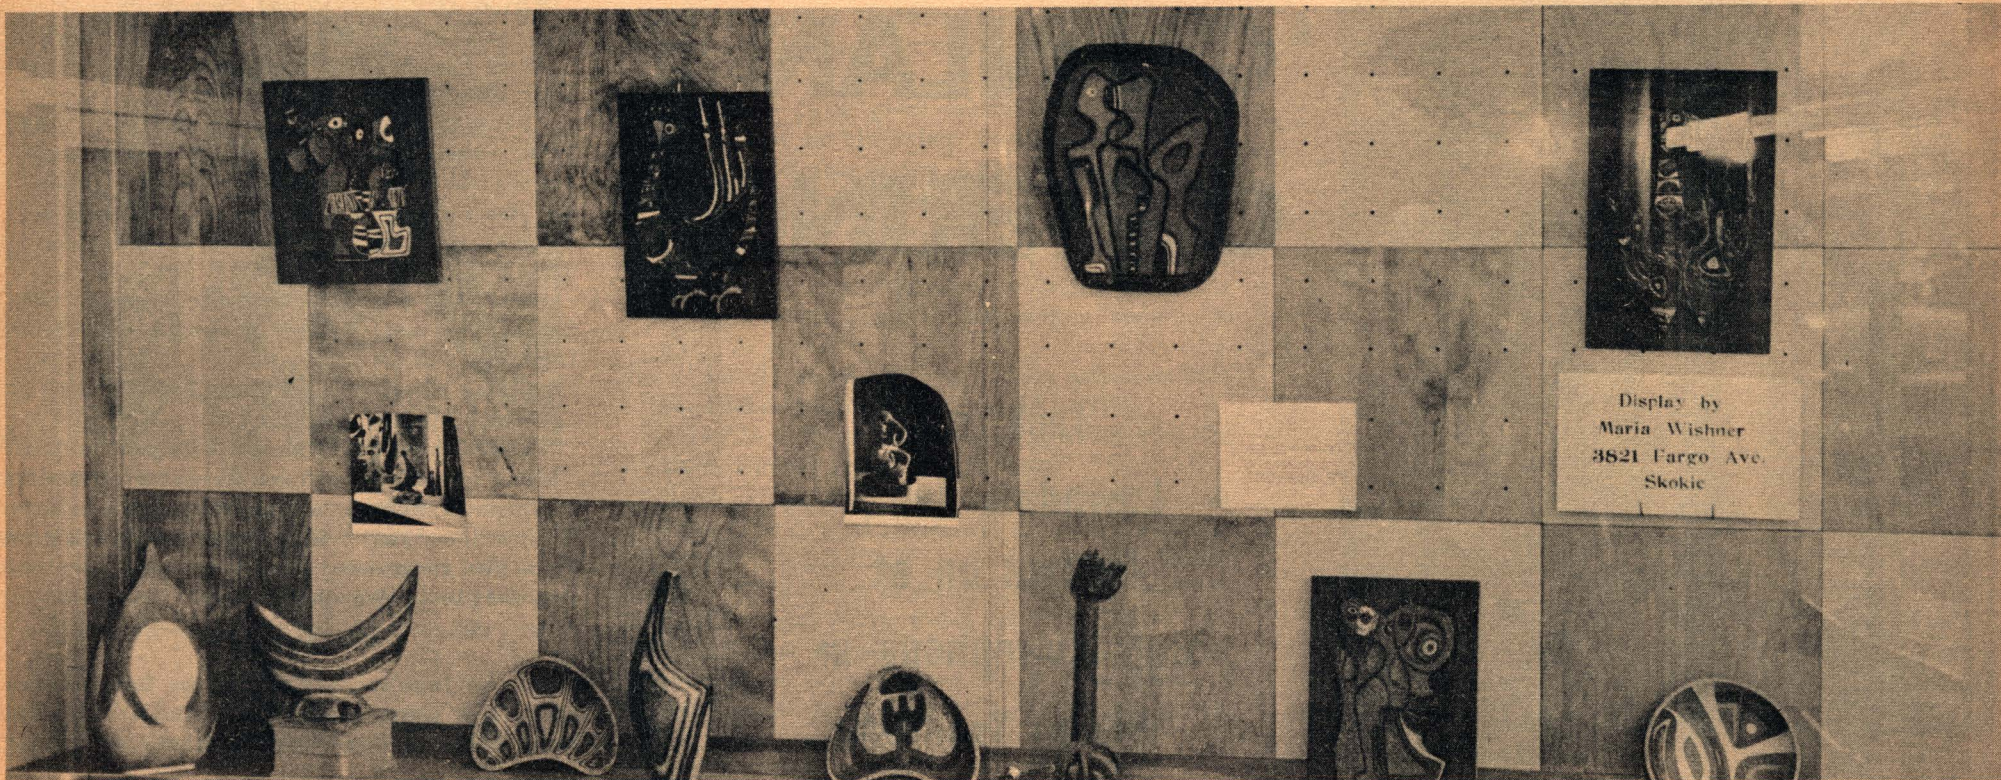

Her Works Exhibited

Maria Wishner's work has been shown at the Chicago Art Institute, the Art Department of the Chicago Public Library, the Evanston Art Center and numerous Chicago Art galleries.

She is at present exhibiting in the Skokie Trust and Savings Bank, 4400 Oakton St., Skokie.

She teaches the art of ceramics at the Max Strauss Center in Chicago.

From June 22 to 25, she will be participating in the Second Annual Conference of the American Craftsmen's Council at the George Williams

A few of the artist's exquisite creations are displayed in the lobby of the Skokie Trust and Savings Bank, 4400 Oakton St., Skokie. These works are centered around ceramic stoneware reliefs.

College campus. In addition to being chairman of the hospitality committee for this group, she will be exhibiting a group of her 5 ft. sculptures.

This conference will bring all of the foremost craftsmen from the nation together, and Maria's exhibit will be prominent among them.

Even though most of her work is done in large pieces, her earrings, cuff links, pendants and other jewelry are delightful and refreshing. Her clever designs, her beautiful coloring and her use of fine stoneware makes these small pieces treasured additions to one's jewelry collection.

Husband Understanding

While working in Washington, Maria married

Raymond Wishner, and with their charming youngsters, Joseph, 4, and Marc, 2, they make their home in Skokie.

Having an artistically creative wife demands a great deal of understanding from Raymond, and this he offers fully, knowing that what his wife has to offer the world of artistic culture cannot be suppressed.

Little Joseph is already showing signs of great artistic talent himself.

A vital woman, with a slight accent adding charm to her personality, Maria, when not in her basement studio, can be found out in the sunlight on the patio, hard at work on one of her beautiful sculptures.

Work Applauded

This modern artist has received national recognition for her "earthy toned, coarsely textured ceramics."

Her work has often been applauded for her handling of materials, and for the simplicity and beauty of her designs.

Maria points out that in order to judge the quality of stoneware, one need merely to strike it gently. The higher the tone that this brings forth, the finer the stoneware.

Like anything else that requires skill, she claims that only through constant practice and application can one become a truly great artist.

'QUINLAN COVERING'

Jack, of Lawndale Ave.,
Carries on at Cub Microphone in Wilson Tradition

by JOE MUSIAL

At the mike. Chicago Cubs announcer Jack Quinlan, of Skokie, calls the play while assistant Lou Boudreau, longtime big leaguer and former "boy wonder" as manager-player, looks on, ready to fill in details.

"Come on, you Cubbies!"

That's the oft-heard cry of Skokie's Jack Quinlan, radio voice of the Chicago Cubs. And those aren't just words—he's really pulling.

For like the late Bert Wilson, the man he succeeded at the Cub microphone, Quinlan lives and dies with the ebb and flow of Cub fortunes.

And, like Bert, he's always ready to see a silver lining. The Cubs may be losing by 10 runs with only one out remaining in the last inning, but Jack will still be in there, plumping for a rally.

Quinlan followed a man he matches almost precisely in temperament, a man whose youthful, friendly voice still seems to come to life when Quinlan speaks.

So it's only natural that Quinlan frequently finds himself spoken of as Wilson's radio double.

He doesn't resent it—is somewhat proud of it, as a matter of fact. But to Quinlan, a highly individualistic man, it's more a coincidence than anything else. That, and the fact that some of the other fellow's characteristics and philosophy are bound to rub off in an association as close as theirs was.

He Loves it

Like Wilson, too, Quinlan loves his job, tackling it every day with renewed vigor and enthusiasm. He doesn't consider it work at all. The only thing that comes ahead of it is his wife and three children. Says Jack:

"I love sports, I love broadcasting and I love baseball." It's as simple as that.

He got the urge to get behind a microphone when he was 7 years old (he's 31 now) and just drifted into it later on.

He made up his mind definitely when he was a Notre Dame undergraduate—and, incidentally, a member of the Irish varsity baseball squad.

At the time, he was working in the press box as a spotter for an announcer during a Notre Dame football game. He sized up the fellow and his job and came away convinced that:

"Broadcasting was fun, it was easy and it was the job I had to have."

It didn't take Jack long to get into the field. After leaving Notre Dame he caught on at WDZ in Tuscola, Ill., doing news and disc jockey shows.

His home town, Peoria, beckoned before long and he advanced to WMBD there as a staff announcer, later covering Bradley basketball games.

Peoria Proving Ground

Peoria, incidentally, seems to be a proving ground for Chicago sportscasters.

Quinlan succeeded Vince Lloyd there. Lloyd, now on the WGN-TV and radio sports staff, in turn had taken over after Jack Brickhouse left WMBD to do the Cubs and Sox games on Chicago television.

It was in Peoria that Quinlan met his wife Marilyn, a lovely Bradley University graduate. Marriage followed and so did Maureen, now 5, Suzie, 2, and Jack, 4 months.

Shortly after the Bradley basketball betting scandal broke in 1951, station WMBD dropped the broadcasts. Unhappy because he wasn't doing sports, Quinlan auditioned for a job at Chicago's WIND. He went to work there in February, 1952.

Quinlan worked on Cub games with Bert Wilson from 1952 through 1954 and also broadcast Northwestern football games and any basketball games and any basketball games the station decided to carry.

Wilson died in 1955 and Quinlan immediately took over as WIND's Chicago Cub announcer.

Aside from his family and sports, Quinlan has little time for non-radio pastimes.

"I like to swim and I used to play golf," says Jack, "But I had to give up golf. I'd start the season shooting in the 80s. Then I'd go up to the 90s and then I'd have trouble breaking 100. I'd wind up breaking the clubs, so I decided to quit."

Jack likes a good poker game. He also likes fishing, but seldom gets a chance because of his heavy summer schedule.

Quinlan moved his family to Skokie two years ago "and it's just great."

"That's what I love about Chicago," he says. "It's a great city and we have such beautiful suburbs in which we can raise our children. Believe me, you really appreciate it out here after you go to some of these other cities and see what little they have to offer."

Wife Sports Fan

One of Jack's blessings is the fact that his wife is a great sports fan. "And it's a good thing she is," commented Quinlan, for obvious reasons.

Quinlan doesn't take his family on any of the Cub trips around the circuit but he had his wife and two daughters at the Arizona training camp in 1957.

"I couldn't take them this year," he says, "because the baby was just too young."

Oddly enough, Quinlan's biggest sports thrill had no connection with baseball.

"I've had a lot of thrills," he said, "but the biggest would have to be the one Terry Brennan gave me. I was spotting in the press box in the 1947 Notre Dame-Army football game when Brennan took a kickoff and went 97 yards for a touchdown. I nearly jumped out of the booth. He scored two touchdowns that day and Notre Dame won 26-7."

How come Quinlan's voice and delivery seems so like that of his predecessor, Wilson?

"A lot of people say that," says Jack. "But I've never tried to imitate Bert. It's not good to sound like somebody else. You have to be yourself. But maybe I picked up some of his characteristics in working with him."

The comparatively youthful Quinlan has a deep respect for Wilson, who died in his 40s. Says Jack:

"Bert was a great announcer and did a great job in selling the Cubs. Remember, he was with a team which didn't win a lot of games. It's easy to sell a club like Milwaukee, which finishes high or wins a pennant, but when a team finishes with a record of only 60 wins and 94 losses, it's tough."

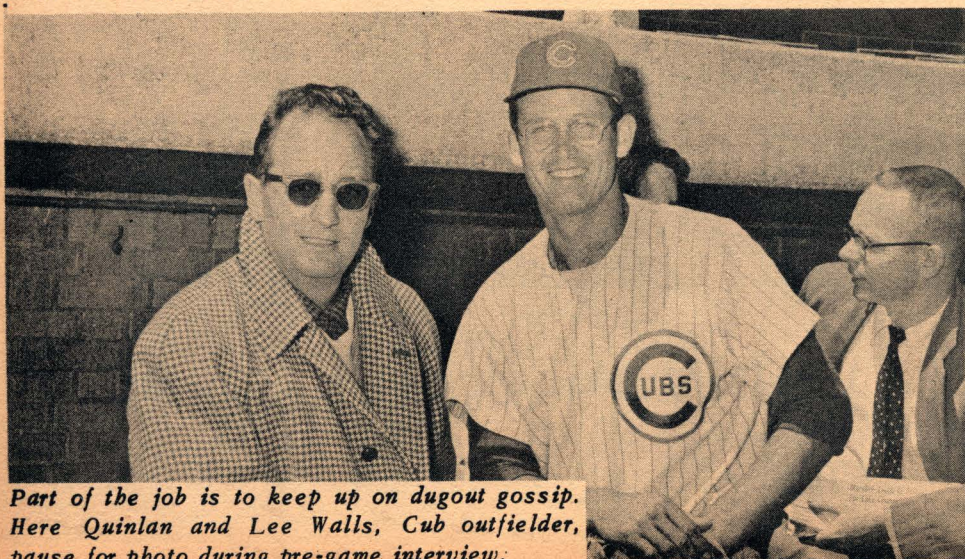

Stan Musial 'Greatest'

Who's the greatest player Quinlan has seen?

"That's easy," says Jack. "It would have to be Stan Musial. He's a great team man, a real pro and you never hear him moan about bad breaks."

Quinlan is a satisfied man these days but he was an extremely worried one several months ago.

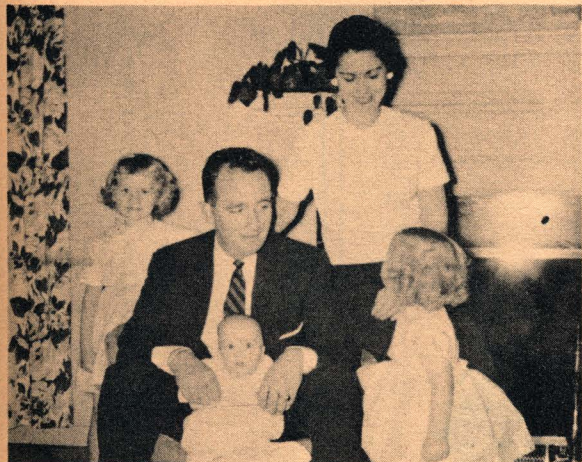

Before the 1957 season had ended, the Cubs terminated their contract with WIND and announced WGN would broadcast the games in 1958.

Part of the job is to keep up on dugout gossip. Here Quinlan and Lee Walls, Cub outfielder, pause for photo during pre-game interview.

Quinlan and Boudreau look a little worried as they view pre-game practice at Wrigley Field. Quinlan, like predecessor Bert Wilson, suffers through every Cub misfortune.

But home is where Quinlan's heart is and small wonder with this handsome family waiting for him. That's wife Marilyn with Quinlan, holding son Jack, 4 months, while Maureen, 5, holds shyly back and Suzie, 2, ignores photographer to get in a word with somewhat quizzical Dad.

"I didn't know what was going to happen," said Quinlan. "I learned they were auditioning for an announcer and, naturally, I applied. But they never called me in for an audition.

I learned later that, instead, they used one of the tapes of a game I did last year between the Cubs and Milwaukee."

Quinlan waited and waited but didn't hear from WGN. "I was really worried," said Jack, "especially when December came along and still nothing. But on December 13th—and it was a Friday—Jack Brickhouse called me and told me I had the job. That's one Friday the 13th I'll never forget."

Quinlan is a great mimic and although he makes use of his talent frequently when he's doing an off-season disc jockey show, he seldom uses it on baseball broadcasts.

"I'll kid around once in a great while during a game," he says. "After all, you have to do something when your team is losing 20-0. It's all right to put in a little humor then, but I don't try to be funny.

"Bob Hope has 20 gag writers and even he's not always funny, so why should I try?"

Jack's favorite recreation: "playing with the kids—I never get enough of them."

One of his few passions in a recreation room plastered with pictures of sports figures, trophies, baseballs from various games, broken bats, World Series souvenirs, helmets from Bear, Cardinal and Notre Dame football games, etc.

"I'm just a great fan," says Jack. "I cheer everywhere I go whether its at Notre Dame, a Bear game or any team I'm broadcasting for.

"I just love sports."

What about the rejuvenated 1958 Cubs?

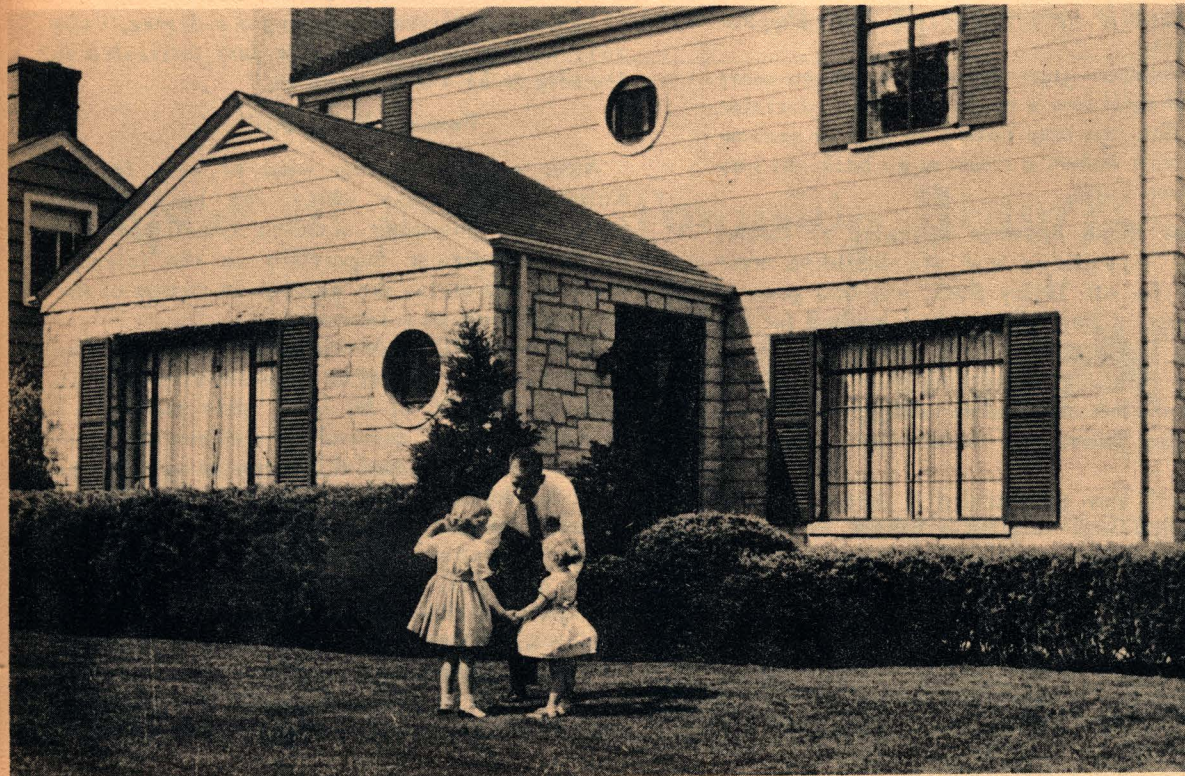

"They've shown me more spirit than any other Cub team," says Quinlan. "When they were losing 7-0 to Milwaukee, they didn't roll over and play dead. They came right back to tie it up and then won the game 8-7. Everybody likes everybody else and they get along well. A team needs that kind of cooperation.

"From what I've seen of the other teams in the league, the Cubs can finish fifth. If you can finish fifth, then you can finish fourth.

"So Come on You Cubbies!"

Although he's away from home a lot during the summer, Jack is no slouch when it comes to taking care of his kids. Photographer caught him as he picked up a crying Jack Jr.—and had the infant gurgling happily in a matter of seconds.

"Ring around the Rosy" is always a popular little bit with the girls and here Jack, a former varsity baseball player at Notre Dame, instructs his daughters in the finer points.

"Grandma" Esther Feil and young protegee Diana Simon go over some serious business at a regular meeting of Mrs. Feil's Brownie troops. She keeps girls busy with do-it-yourself projects.

grandma is a girl scout

by PAT KING

"Grandmother is a girl scout!" the three proud grandchildren of Mrs. Hugh Feil 7029 Simpson will tell you.

When children grow up and go off to raise families of their own a mother has a big decision to make. She can stay home and knit or become involved with women's clubs or go back out into the business world.

None of these answers appealed to Esther Feil. Her daughter and grandchildren were settled in far off Tinley Park, she had gone to school most of her life and had worked for the Telephone Company for years. She wanted to do something different, something that was a real help to the community and to young people. That is why she joined the Scouts—as a Brownie leader.

Mrs. Feil was accustomed to keeping busy. She attended Mrs. English's School for Young Ladies back in the state of Washington and took Liberal Arts Courses at Seattle College.

"I never bothered trying to get a degree," she says with a twinkle, "I was just interested in learning to be a useful citizen."

Former "Hello Girl"

After school Esther went to work for the Telephone Company where she held various fascinating positions such as Chief Operator, Force Adjustment Supervisor in the teletype division and during the war was in charge of the Message Room as a censor.

In between all these other jobs she found time to teach a Bible school in the summer, sometimes working with 50 or 60 little girls and only 2 helpers. Mrs. Feil enjoyed the children immensely and she remembered this when an appeal was made for Morton Grove Brownie Leaders.

When asked if joining the Scouts wasn't pretty tame after the stimulating work she used to do, Mrs. Feil was shocked, "Don't you know that girls of this age are the most inquisitive things and can throw you with the questions they ask and the things they say?"

"At first" she continues, "I was a little scared about working with girls this age but then I took myself aside and said, 'Esther, you're not going to let 15 little girls throw you.'"

Esther is proud of the fact that she comes from a Pioneer family of the West and, perhaps it was this sturdy background which helped her to pass the basic outdoor course at Camp Pine a few weeks ago.

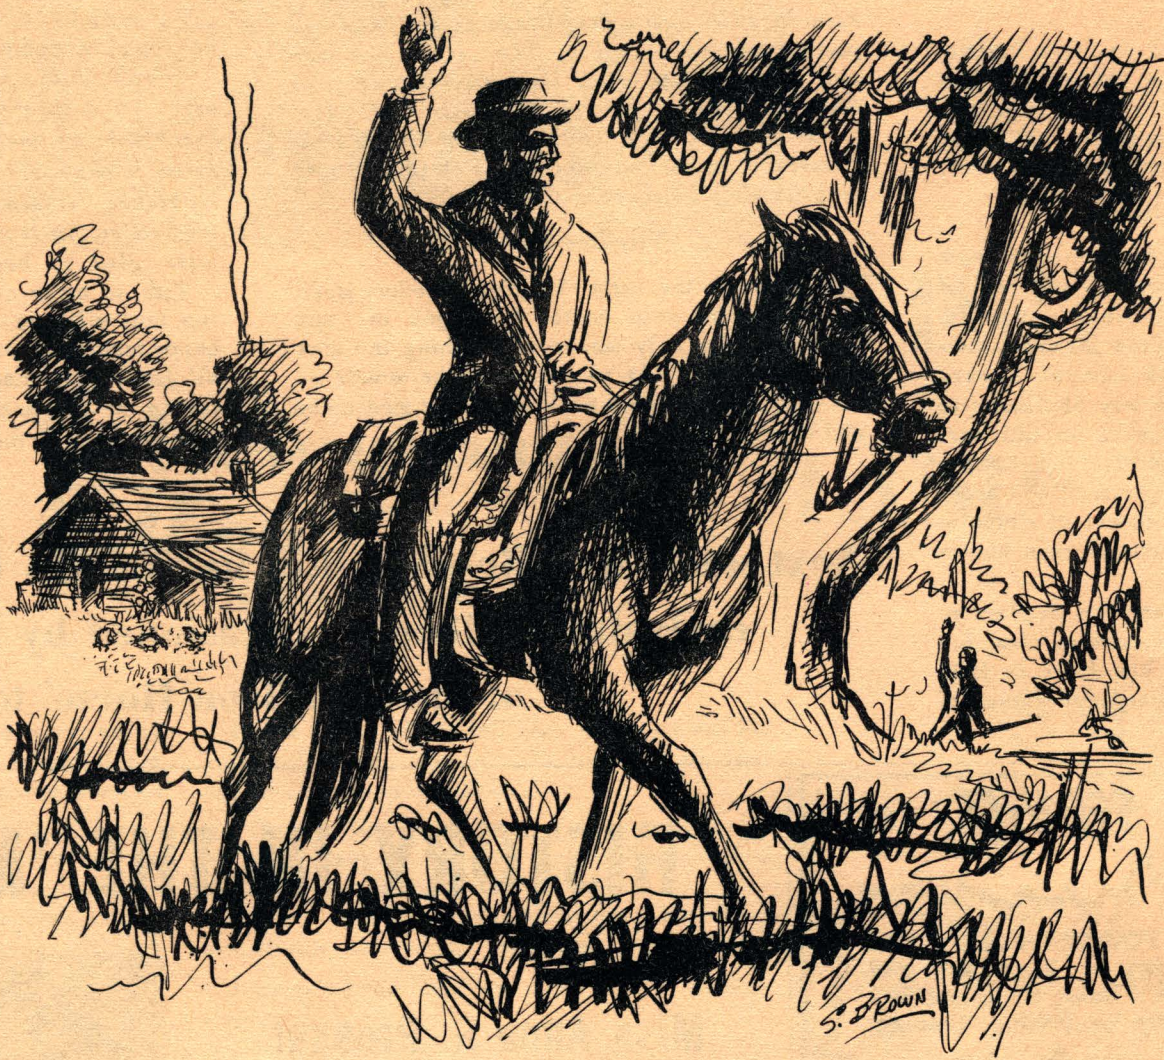

Husband Welding Engineer

Hugh Feil is an equally busy person since he travels extensively. In his job as a Welding Engineer he is a silver brazing specialist, a metallurgist in the field and a salesman.

The thing which makes being a scout leader so worthwhile, according to this active, happy grandmother, is that you have the opportunity to teach these youngsters to be useful citizens and to be of service to others.

This year Mrs. Feil's troop has been busy preparing to "fly up" to become intermediate Girl Scouts so it has been a time of study as well as one of fun activities.

Joining the Girl Scouts has done much for Esther Feil. She says since she just "can't sit" it has kept her on her toes, it has made her feel that she is of service to others and, in her own words, "it keeps me from being a mother-in-law!"

First Township Doctor

Chapter III of Niles Township History:

THE PIONEERS

by BERTHA M. ROSCHE

The story of Niles Township might have kept to the same slow tempo had not conditions in central Europe given it a different turn. All unwittingly Wilhelm I and Frederick Wilhelm of Prussia and Count Bismarck changed the course of history in this region.

From 1830 to 1848 Europe was a seething stew of wars and revolutions, of constitutions granted and withdrawn. The ruling families made determined efforts to hold their position and power by main force against the awakening masses. The people stirred with the new conviction that control belonged by right to them, not to the monarch.

The French revolution had aroused the common man, and the Declaration of Independence had repercussions in Europe. The great reigning houses of Hohenzollern, Hapsburg and Bourbon fought each other for territory, and their subjects were caught in the melee that swept the Continent.

Bismarck laid a heavy hand upon the smaller states to unite them under Prussia. This he succeeded in doing, but in the process wrought rebellion among the Germanic peoples. Disgusted with military service and exploitation, they turned to America.

To top off the general discontent, 1849 was a year of famine in Germany. The grain crop failed and the total potato crop rotted. The peasants were reduced to near starvation. This combination of evil forces, political and economic, precipitated the great German migration to the Midwest with its rich agricultural areas. Niles Township became a bit of transplanted Germany, and German it remained at least until the close of World War II.

Book Needed

Every life is a story. To do justice to the sturdy pioneers would require a book—a book which should be written before time blots out the records. In the space which can be allotted to this era of our history, roughly the '40s and early '50s, the narrative must be limited to a few representative men, and apologies made to the many Skokie descendants of the others.

The real founder of the village of Niles Center (Skokie) is considered to be Henry Harms, known in those days as "Farmer Harms", who in December, 1854, built a small frame house almost on the site of the present Municipal Building.

A native of Mecklenburg, he came to America in 1951. After working three years on a farm near Chicago he came here to buy one of his own. Later he engaged in the building trades and, along with another contractor, laid the foundation of the Chicago courthouse.

In Niles Center he filled many public offices including those of constable, street commissioner, supervisor and postmaster. Under Governor Beveridge he was drainage commissioner for Cook County and superintended the drainage project in Niles Township. For six years he ran a store, which was later taken over by his brother-in-law, George S. Klehm.

During the autumn of the Chicago fire he was running for County Treasurer and was thought to have been elected, but was unable to prove it to his opponent because the ballots burned.

Klehms Arrive

George C. Klehm, born in Dudelsheim, Hesse-Darmstadt in 1839, came to America with his widowed mother and his brother John in 1851. When they reached Buffalo she had only seven dollars left from the sale of her property.

For two years all three worked for farmers near Buffalo and then George worked at brick laying in that city, a trade to which he had already been apprenticed in Germany. Early in 1855 he came to Jefferson Park where he went to school during the winter months and later taught until he had earned his teacher's certificate in 1860.

He taught one term in Northfield and three in Niles Center. He moved here in 1864 and for forty years held numerous offices: street commissioner, postmaster, and for many terms town clerk and township treasurer. He served in the state legislature one term and in 1881 was elected to the Cook County Board, of which for some years he was chairman.

Michael Harrer, with his father Wolfgang and his brother Henry, came from Kaltenbrunn in the Oberfalz in 1845 and settled on East Prairie, later to become active in the township and in the village of Morton Grove. John Dilg was another early settler in Morton Grove, coming in 1856 and opening a store there two years later.

Lincolnwood Settlers

The earliest pioneers in Lincolnwood were George and Magdalene Proesel, natives of Bavaria, who came to the United States with their six children in 1844. From Bremen, Germany, their sea voyage took several weeks. From New York they came by way of Albany to Buffalo and up the Great Lakes to Chicago.

Mr. Proesel had $2,000 with him, and, coming directly to this area, bought a farm of 160 acres in Section 35, the northeast corner of Lincolnwood, a part of that open country then known as East Prairie.

At that time there were very few settlers to the north of him. He began at once to clear his land, and farmed there until his death in 1884 at the age of 82. He was the grandfather of Henry Proesel, who for many years has been village president of Lincolnwood.

Johann Tess, also from Mecklenberg, came here in 1856 and made a farm in the southern portion of the township. The village we now call Lincolnwood took its earlier name from him and was known as Tessville until 1935.

To Niles Center came Ernest Galitz from Pomerania in 1867, and the first Peter Blameuser in 1865 after 13 years in Chicago.

Only One Doctor

In Niles in the early '50s, Dr. Theodore Hoffman was the sole doctor for miles in any direction. His only means of reaching the sick was by picking his way through the woods on horseback, saddlebags packed with his medicines and instruments.

In later years he often told of the night he left a case late and missed the trail homeward. He wandered through the forests a part of the night until he saw a light. Following its rays, he found a cabin and aroused its occupants.

They took him in and he spent the rest of the night on a pile of shavings in a corner. The breakfast they shared with him was potatoes and bread, with no trimmings for either. In early days no pioneer refused shelter and food to a prospective settler, for those who had established homes were glad to have others locate near them.

With so many century-old names surviving in the four villages of the township, it is an unhappy task to choose between them and eliminate all but a few. Each name is a story of leaving-taking of the homeland and of privations and perseverance in the new country.

Next week Mrs. Rosche takes us through the early-day excitement occasioned by the coming of the first 'Iron Horse' to Niles Township

HISTORY IN THE 'MAKING'

Miss Anna G. Proesel
Paints Skokie as She Remembers It

Member of an oldtime Niles Township family, Miss Anna G. Proesel, shown above, currently is busying herself with a series of paintings depicting the scenes of her childhood.

Miss Proesel's roots are deep in this area. She is a fourth generation descendant of three pioneer families—Schmitz, Schabeck and Proesel.

Now she is trying to put down on canvas the memories she has of the community as it appeared when she was a youngster.

Our photographer caught her in her home at 5051 Main St., Skokie, as she worked on one of the scenes.

Contractor Inquiry Invited

This painting depicts the home for many years of Mary Schabeck—believed to be the first white child born in Skokie. Her birth date: 1853. The scene faces northeast and what is now known as Lincoln Ave. is the Indian trail you see depicted in the foreground. The present police building occupies roughly the same spot. The Schabeck home later was moved and is still standing on Laramie St., across from and south of the police building.

This picture, painted by Miss Anna Proesel, is of the 1910 era. She is the little girl in the buggy and with her is her uncle, Andrew Schmitz, who operated the tavern, shown across the street, now known as Duffy's Tavern. Next door was a bowling alley. In foreground is shown a part of the pig market, which was a big event in Skokie years ago. Twice a month, farmers would drive many miles to sell hogs here.

COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY

Ground and About

by TOM BRANAGAN

The full wrath of all the patron saints of Ireland was invoked upon the heads of the Villager's publisher and business director two weeks ago — and with good reason.

We accept full responsibility, shoulder all blame and hereby make public announcement that we will gladly prostrate ourselves before the injured party and beg forgiveness. At high noon, too.

Maybe we'd better start at the beginning:

Time: about 8 p.m. Place: The Fish Pond Delicatessen, 5109 Brown St., Skokie.

As the scene opens, we find 12 customers waiting in the outer part of the shop. It is a small place and 12 people jam it. They are obviously impatient: muttering to one another, looking at their watches, glancing indignantly toward the kitchen in the rear. A boy in his late teens, with white apron, hurries from the kitchen periodically, whispering words of comfort to the customers.

Enter one Martin Conroy, acting sergeant of detectives: a ruddy man in his thirties who shows promise of great girth in years to come. He has the bearing of a man of authority, one who is accustomed to respect. He has the full weight of the law behind him and he is secure in this knowledge.

Conroy leans expectantly on the counter, drums five big fingers absent-mindedly. Addressing no one in particular: "Where's the boss?"

Twelve impatient thumbs jerk toward the kitchen.

Conroy shifts his weight, clears his throat, drums the fingers of his other hand. Several minutes pass.

The detective, a man of action, decides he has waited long enough. He strides purposefully to the kitchen.

The scene changes. We are now in the kitchen. It is very small and is taken up almost entirely by two large tubs — one filled with shrimp, the other empty. Seated before these containers is one Michael Barrett, an Irish immigrant and proprietor of the Fish Pond.

He is bent over the tubs, his hands moving quickly as he takes the shrimp from the one tub, cleans them with a knife, and drops them in the other. He is muttering angrily.

At Conroy's entrance, Barrett looks up sharply, then returns immediately to his work at the tub.

The boy in the apron brushes past Conroy: "We need some more shrimp, Mike."

Barrett doesn't look up. He keeps the knife flashing.

Taken aback at the reception, Conroy fidgets a minute before speaking. Then:

"Could I buy some shrimp, Mike?"

Barrett says nothing for several moments. Then he raises his head and shoulders slowly and points the knife at Conroy. His eyes are baleful.

In his anger, words fail him. He holds out the knife helplessly. Then, slowly, his mein changes and he slumps in dejection.

"Everybody wants shrimp," he says simply. He turns back to the tubs and begins wielding the knife at a furious rate.

Conroy, who has a reputation for a cool head in difficult situations: "Something wrong?"

Barrett's head bobs up furiously. "Wrong? Everything's wrong!"

Conroy: "Like what?"

Barrett turns back to the detective: "Do y' see those customers out there?" Conroy nods.

"Well, they're all waiting for shrimp. It's been like that all day long. I can't keep up with 'em. If I'd have known ... I could have got more help. But I didn't know ..."

Conroy: "Know what?"

Barrett (his voice rising): "That the Villager was going to run that ad again."

The boy runs in again. "More shrimp, Mike," he says. Barrett sighs and renews his efforts.

Conroy: "Didn't you know the ad was appearing?"

Barrett: "No. No. No. I said 'run it the first week.' It was a special, like. A pound of shrimp french fried potatoes and salad. Two dollars and nineteen cents. I had a lot of customers, so I said 'run it two more weeks.' Business was wonderful."

Conroy: "Well, then, what's the trouble?"

Barrett (voice rising again): "The trouble is they ran it again! I didn't tell them to run it the fourth week! But do y' know what Branagan and Mc Ginty did to me? They .. ran .. the .. ad .. the .. fourth .. week!"

Barrett looks expectantly at Conroy, seeking some shimmer of sympathy for a man upon whom a crime of such magnitude has been perpetrated.

Conroy is silent; a little awed.

Barrett continues: "Do y' know what that means? Here I am, all by myself. Boom! The door opens. People come running in here first thing the ad appears. I can't get more help. There's just the boy and me. We do the best we can, but we can't keep up. We .. can't .. keep .. up!"

Barrett returns to his work, lashing fiercely at the shrimp. Conroy turns quietly and leaves.

A man of the detective's sensibilities knows when to get in line.

For those who think this account is over dramatized, we have only one suggestion: check with Mr. Barrett or Sgt. Conroy.

(The Villager indeed ran the ad the fourth time. It was a clerical error we are trying to square with Mr. Barrett.)

There is a message here which we're sure is not lost upon the good merchants of Niles Township.

Court Orders MG To Issue Builders Permit

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher has ordered Morton Grove to issue Skokie Town House Builders, Inc. building permits and a contractor's permit for construction for town houses at 5839-43-47 Lincoln and at 8331-33-35-37 Marmora in the village.

The firm's motion for summary judgment was granted by the court last week.

The construction firm filed suit in March, charging it once had the permits but that the village took them back. The company's attorney, Richard Weinberger, said the proposed town houses are similar in all respects to group or row houses permitted in a Class E commercial district, the zoning classification on its property. The court agreed.

After the company first had its permits the village zoning code was amended to limit construction of residential buildings only in residential areas.

Weinberger argued successfully that this in effect was taking his client's property without due process of law and also that their rights and rules to go by were crystallized on the day the firm made its original application.

Elks Lodge Organized

The proposed Skokie Valley Elks Lodge became a permanent organization on May 19. Karl Stark of Niles was elected permanent secretary and Richard Mc Cray of Glenview permanent chairman.

Plans have been made for the installation of the lodge on a dispensation by the end of June and the institution sometime in August. All signers of the petition for the lodge who are present and participate in the installation will become charter lodge members.

All Elks, former Elks and prospective Elks are invited to attend future meetings which are held on Monday evenings in the Luxembourg Gardens, 6211 Lincoln Ave., Morton Grove.

Trustees Back Plan Board New Skokie Bowling Alley:

Despite castigation from homeowners and spirited opposition within their own ranks, Skokie trustees approved a rezoning permitting construction of another bowling alley.

The action Saturday upheld a ruling of the village plan commission, returning the property—ten acres lying northwest of the intersection of Gross Point Rd. and Skokie Blvd.—to B-2 classification.

When Skokie's comprehensive zoning map was adopted by ordinance in 1957, a clerical error placed the property in B-1 zoning, which forbids bowling alleys.

Those approving the zoning correction to permit the 64-lane bowling alley: Trustees Miles T. Babb, William A. Krewer, Sylvester J. Reese and Fred W. Wakefield.

Against: Trustees Raymond V. Krier and Jum Smith.

On the previous Tuesday, Skokie village hall was jammed with citizens living in the area involved. Through spokesmen, these people vigorously opposed the proposed sports establishment as a "spawning place for delinquency."

The same groups showed up Saturday and, when the roll call was taken, voiced bitter disapproval. One woman shouted to the trustees: "I hope you burn in h---!"

Previously, Trustee Krier had taken the floor to say that he opposed the proposed alley on the ground that there were several bowling alleys in Skokie already, and a number of other sites were being considered. He said he felt that the present acreage, admittedly an eyesore, would be improved by other means.

Babb acted as chief spokesman for trustees favoring the upholding of the plan commission. He said he had investigated the claim that school children, especially those from nearby Sharp Corner School, would be affected adversely by such as establishment—and could find no basis for this fear.

"The local police authorities and juvenile officers say bowling alleys often can be a deterrent to juvenile delinquency," declared Babb. "If I thought this alley was going to be a harm to the Sharp School, I would be opposed."

Spokesmen for the majority trustees later said they "simply could not go along" with the argument that a threat to juveniles was involved.

They said properly supervised bowling alleys are a source of entertainment and relaxation for "whole families."

Trustee Fred Wakefield commented:

"Besides, you can't legislate against something because of alleged inherent danger. If so, we'd be outlawing everything from movie theaters to golf courses."

MG Legion To Parade on Memorial Day

The Morton Grove American Legion Post and Auxiliary are making plans for the observance of Memorial Day which includes a parade, memorial services and a tribute to the deceased members of the Post.

Members of the American Legion Rifle Squad of Morton Grove will place wreaths on the graves of the deceased members early Friday morning.

The Memorial Day Parade will begin at 10:00 a.m. from the parking lot of the American Legion Memorial Home, 6140 Dempster St., according to parade marshal Orlando Wolfenbarger. It will continue south on Georgiana to Capulina, west to Callie, south to Lincoln, east on Lincoln to the memorial statue at the Morton Grove library. A brief Memorial ceremony will be conducted by the members of the Post, after which the parade will continue east on Lincoln to School St., north on School to Dempster, west on Dempster to the American Legion Memorial Home.

Immediately following the parade, at approximately 11:00 a.m., Memorial Services will be conducted by the Post and Auxiliary inside the Home. The public is invited to attend.

Three Losing Candidates Together at Devonshire

The three defeated candidates for Niles Township Democratic committeeman are billed as speakers at a meeting called for the Devonshire Recreation Center in Skokie tonight (Thursday).

They are Tom Halpin, Manny Fefferman and Jack Korshak, all of Skokie.

The trio trailed Martin "Scotty" Krier, the veteran township committeeman, in the April election.

Purpose of the meeting, said publicity chairman Henry Wolf, was "formation of an independent Democratic club." He listed as co-chairman Mrs.

Jean Doney and Irv Rothholtz of Skokie and Sid Daskovsky of Lincolnwood.

Also listed on the program was State Rep. Paul S. Elward of Chicago. Elward is a vice president of the Democratic Federation of Illinois. Wolf said in a statement:

"The three chairmen have strongly emphasized that the form, structure and substance, both of the meeting and of the proposed Democratic club itself, will be entirely determined by those attending the meeting."

If American Coach Goes, 'Service Continuity' Asked

The Skokie board of trustees has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission for assurance that "continuity of service" will be provided the community should American Coach Co. go out of business.

The bus firm has been ordered off the streets, effective July 15, by the ICC. However, it is expected that the case will be tied up in the courts for some time.

A letter to the commission, written by village attorney William M. Hennessy, says: "American Coach Co., Inc., has been rendering a service which, although imperfect in certain respects, has been vital to the community. "It is anticipated that in the near future requests for certificates of convenience and necessity will be made by other bus companies for the purpose of being permitted to operate in and through the village of Skokie. In this regard, therefore, it should be noted that the American Coach Co., Inc., has been servicing the entire village of Skokie, supplying transportation in the more remote and less lucrative routes as well as main highways connecting with downtown Chicago.

American Coach, which has headquarters in Skokie, serves a large portion of Niles Township. Its president, Frank McCreary, has announced that he will fight the ICC order.

The commission accused the company of shoddy book-keeping, failure to comply with safety regulations and various unauthorized operations.

The letter went on to say that "it might appropriately be pointed out at this time that any carrier or carriers, which in the future might be authorized by your Commission to operate buses in the village of Skokie should, consistent with the necessities of the village, be required to supply adequate service not only for other important but less profitable ones."

Extra Day for Tax Payment

Niles Township tax payers will receive an extra day for payment of the first installment of their 1957 real estate taxes because the customary statutory penalty date of June 1 falls on a Sunday.

Arthur J. Loutsch, Niles Township collector, announced that the tax office at 7740 LaVergne Ave., Skokie will be open Saturday, May 31 and Monday, June 2 until 4 o'clock.

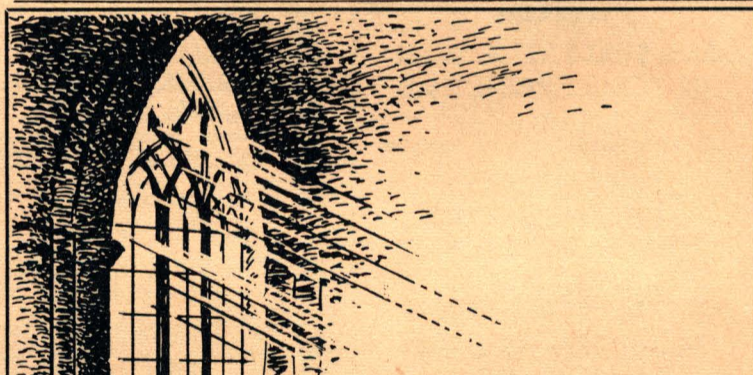

After the June 2 deadline penalty attaches and payments can then be made only at the County Building in Chicago.

THE BIKE and TRIKE SET'S

ANNUAL PROMENADE

Two-Wheel or Not

To Wheel - That is

The Question . . .

Mrs. Shirley Krone, kindergarten teacher, helps make some minor adjustments on Gail Mendelsohn's bike. Marcy Levin, left, and Lisa Netznik, right, get ready to join the parade.

Ready for the take-off. Youngsters in the morning kindergarten class of the East Prairie School fall into line before they begin their bicycle parade.

The morning kindergarden class of the East Prairie School held a bicycle contest Monday, May 19. A boy and girl winner were selected by a group of judges, and Mrs. Shirley Krone, the kindergarden teacher, presented each with a gift. The other youngsters who did not win also received prizes when they returned to their room.

Winner among the boys was Jeffrey Hill, 7424 Kilbourn, Ave., with a prize winning bike decorated to represent a birthday cake, complete with candles and gift wrapped packages tied to the bike.

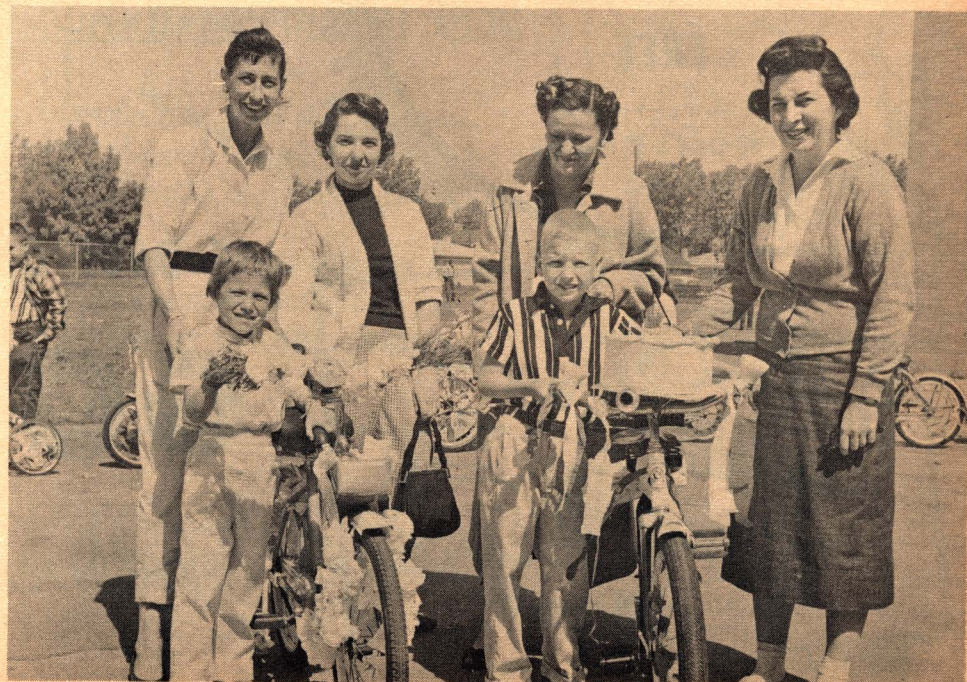

Winner among the girls was Gail Mendelsohn, 7401 Kolmar Ave., whose bike was decorated with pink and blue flowers and streamers. She wore an adorable pink and blue outfit matching the trimmings of her bike.

Judges were Mrs. J. W. Beer, 7420 Crawford Ave., Mrs. Joseph Kirshner, 7426 Lowell Ave., Mrs. Victor R. Rasmussen, 3839 Dobson St., and Mrs. David Hessell, 7410 Kolmar Ave. With so many attractive children and bikes from which to choose, their task was not an enviable one.

The camera catches the pensive face of Joan Carol Fish as she parades her bike before the judges.

A Date for Saturday Night

The average couple, on a Saturday night, usually attends a movie, a party, or spends a quiet evening at home. But a group of men and women of the Skokie Valley Post 3854, VFW, decided they weren't going to be average, so they held a party. However, this party was not for themselves, but for the patients out at Hines Hospital in Maywood.

About 325 vets joined these men and women from the VFW Post in a big Bingo party. Some of the hospitalized men came walking to the party, others were wheeled in on cots and chairs.

Leonard Lambert, commander of the Skokie Valley Post, acted as caller, and Mrs. Robert Gathemann named the plays. They played a little over an hour, and the prizes were all in cash, enabling these men to have a little spending money, something that is rare with them. One fellow confided he was going to buy presents for his family and send them home as a surprise.

Of course, all of the boys received cigarettes, and a good time was had by all.

Saturday nights can be terribly long in a hospital, with no place to go, and too often, no visitors. It was the knowledge of this that prompted the group to put on this impromptu Bingo party.

Among the hosts and hostesses that night were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Goverville, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gathemann, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ziegler, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Watt, Mr. and Mrs. John Olday, W. E. Mueller, Mrs. Richard Lederle, Mrs. Esther Lalas, Mrs. Marvin Kunstadt and Mrs. Hans Nowak.

After the party at the hospital, the group returned to the Post where a chicken fry awaited them, and an orchestra was playing. But there was no pleasure in the food or the music for them. Their minds and hearts were still filled with the sight of lonely, bedridden men.

Niles Eighth Graders Visit Capitol

The Villager is pleased to print the following dispatch from a young man reporting on his class during a trip to Springfield, Ill. on May 12.

by JIM SWINGER (Age 12)
Special Capitol Correspondent for the Villager

The annual Springfield trip our eight grade class at Niles Public School took was very interesting. The first thing we saw was Dickson Mounds. Here our guide gave a very enlightening lecture to any future archaeologists among our group. But even the ones that were not interested in archaeology found the lecture educational because it gave them a picture of life before written history.

When we were in New Salem we observed the type of houses and furnishings of the westward expansion. It also gave us an idea of Lincoln's life in New Salem.

In Springfield we saw Lincoln's home which typified the living conditions of that period. At the Memorial Museum we observed the collection of art and china.

While we were at the State Capitol we obtained a better idea of how our state government is operated. Our tour of the Capitol was arranged by State Representative Bill Carroll. When we went to Lincoln's Tomb it was very inspiring to observe the grave of the "Great Emancipator" and look upon the great memorial in his honor.

The eight grade class would like to thank the Niles School PTA and the room mothers for their financial assistance and the Niles Police Department and the chaperones for accompanying us on the trip.

Sbaron Crompier, Katherine McEnery and Mr. George Murphy, our principal, examine the state flag in the Secretary of State's office.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Kelley and Byrne are long-time friends of 4673 Morse, Lincolnwood, Illinois visited with Congressman Emmet F. Byrne, left, in Washington this week. Kelley
