School Board Posts Open

The newly elected Chairman of the Niles Township High School District 219 caucus, Raymond L. Osborn, 8652 Kedvale, Skokie, announces that a letter has been sent to all the organizations participating in the caucus, urging the recommendation of potential candidates for nomination by the caucus for membership on the Board of Education and the Board of Trustees.

The Board of Education of Niles Township Community High School will have three vacancies to be filled at the election in April. The terms of William Warren Meyer of Skokie and Dr. John H. Speer of Morton Grove will expire at that time. Also, the unexpired term of Raymond Kliphardt for one year, which Mr. Ernest Eisenberg of Skokie was appointed to fill, will be vacant. The regular term of office is three years. The other members of the Board are William Wise of Skokie, Clarence Anderson of Morton Grove, Kenneth Littrell of Skokie, and Dr. F.J. Saunders of Skokie.

The Board of School Trustees (which covers all the school districts in the Township) will have a vacancy for a six-year term when the term of Norman Jones, of Golf, expires in April. The other trustees are Walter Herbster of Lincolnwood, and Lester Klevay of Skokie.

Stop Signs Are Approved

Skokie Trustee Jum Smith reports that the Illinois Division of Highways has approved the erection of stop-and-go signs at the intersection of Niles Center Rd. and Skokie

Smith, chairman of the village board's safety committee, said the signs should be up by the first of the year. The village is preparing to advertise for bids on the signs immediately.

However, Smith said the state had turned down the village's request for similar installations at Touhy and LeClaire, another heavily traveled intersection. State officials said traffic at the corner did not warrant the signs.

Also turned down was a village request to lower to 30 m.p.h. the speed limits on Dempster st. and Touhy Ave. Smith said. The limit on Dempster is 40 m.p.h. and on Touhy 35.

LINES DRAWN FOR SCHOOL VOTE

Who is she? The woman circled in the above picture, if she will come to the office of the Villager, 4846 Main St., Skokie and identify berself, will be the lucky recipient of $50.00 worth of merchandise at any store of her choice—if the store is an advertiser in this issue. The $25.00 award was unclaimed last week, so it goes to $50.00 this week. If unclaimed by 1 p.m. Monday, Nov. 24, it will be added to next week's award to make the value $75.00. Win or lose, it always pays to buy and read the Villager.

Skokie Trustees Veto Howard Johnson Motel

Skokie trustees voted unanimously Tuesday night to reject a Plan Commission recommendation that a motel be permitted on Skokie Blvd., just north of the Gross Point Rd. intersection.

The Howard Johnson interests had intended to erect a motel on the site, which is near the Sharp Corner school.

A "straw poll", conducted among voters in the Skokie Blvd. - Gross Point Rd. area, the site of the proposed motel, "voted" overwhelmingly against its construction Saturday.

A total of 1,887 "voters" turned out between 1 and 7 p.m. Saturday, with 97.5 per cent voting against the motel. Of those voting, 1,833 voted "no"; 50 voted "yes"; and 4 ballots were spoiled.

A breakdown to how the poll went, shows the following figures:

-School	Against	For	Spoiled
Sharp Corner	597	22	2
Jane Stenson	492	22	1
Devonshire	405	1	1
Highland	339	5
Totals	1.833	50	4

"Voting" at Sharp Corner School last Saturday, in the straw poll conducted by the school board on the matter of the motel, is Sidney A. Jones, of 4144 Greenwood, Skokie. "Election Clerks" are Mrs. Kate Silverman (left, partly hidden) of 9344 N. Kildare, and Mrs. Leona Deutchman of 4757 W. Grove, both of Skokie.

A lively battle for votes shaped up today as lines were drawn between forces for and against a proposed $8,625,000 bond issue for high school expansion in Niles Township.

The high school board of education's plan to acquire a portion of the Evanston Golf Club for an additional school site was the key issue in the Dec. 13 referendum.

The golf club membership announced last week that it will not sell the property coveted by the board – a 31.4-acre tract at the southeast corner of Dempster St. and Skokie Blvd.

President M. William Wise and other members of the school board (District 219) replied that if the voters approve the bond issue and if the golf club will not sell the property, then the board will immediately acquire it by condemnation proceedings.

In its notice announcing the Dec. 13 vote, the school board listed three separate propositions:

1. Should $6,500,000 be spent to acquire the golf club property and build thereon an additional (third) high school?

2. Should $1,000,000 be spent to acquire approximately 55 acres between Harlem Ave. and Waukegan Rd., south of Dempster St. in Morton Grove, as the possible site for a fourth School building?

3. Should $1,125,000 be spent to build additions to each of the present high school buildings (Nilehi east and west divisions)?

(The propositions appear in full on Page 29 of this issue.)

Although strong opposition to the overall program was expected to develop from economy-minded residents of the high school district, most heated disapproval came from the golf club membership and

M. G. Chamber Lists Bill George As Speaker

Morton Grove Chamber of Commerce will have an open general membership meeting Wednesday, Nov. 26 at 7 p.m. at Vosnos Restaurant, 8800 Waukegan Rd.,

Guest speaker for the evening is the defensive captain of the Chicago Bears, Bill George.

(For a closeup on Bill George, see separate story in the feature section, this issue.)

among persons whose homes abut the golf club property.

Attorney Marshall McMahon, former president of the golf club who has led opposition to the school board program, told a reporter:

"We are not interested in selling. A lot of other property can be acquired. There are literally hundreds of acres available in Niles Township which are more suitable and a lot less expensive." He said the area northeast of the intersection of Gross Point Rd. and Skokie Blvd. was a good example.

Wise disagreed. He said appraisers had advised the board the Sharp Corner area property "would cost us twice as much as the golf club site."

This estimate, said Wise, was based on prices quoted by the owners of the property and on present and prospective earnings there.

He said the golf club site also was chosen because of its nearness to the township's area of heaviest population.

He said this would mean a savings of $70,000 a year in transportation costs.

Wise made the point that a golf club architect had estimated the course could be re-arranged easily to accommodate elsewhere the two holes that the school grounds would infringe on. However, McMahon said: "You can't stop at two or three holes. You'd have to revise several others. The architect said this alone would cost $350,000 to $500,000."

What the school board was talking about in the way of a price for the golf club land wasn't disclosed.

However, board members said they were confident the figure could be covered in the $6,500,000 figure allowed in the proposed bond issue for land and building.

The board met Monday night to reconsider the whole matter – after learning that considerable opposition to their program was developing. They decided to let it stand as is.

Leading Jewish Thinker, Dr. Kaplan, to Speak in Skokie

Dr. Mordecai M. Kaplan, foremost thinker in American Jewish life today, will deliver the sermon at the Sabbath Eve service of The Niles Township Congregation on Friday evening, Nov. 28.

This will be the official Sabbath Eve service of the national convention of the Jewish Reconstructionist foundation, which is being held in Chicago over the November 28-30 weekend.

Because of the special character of the Nov. 28 service and the huge throng of worshippers which is expected, the facilities have been engaged of the 1,558-seat, recently completed auditorium of the West Division of The Niles Township High School, Oakton street and Edens highway, Rabbi Sidney J. Jacobs, the senior Jewish clergyman in Niles Township, will officiate at the service and will present Dr. Kaplan to the congregation.

Aptly called an "adventurer in ideas," Dr. Kaplan holds an unique place in American Jewish life. He has influenced the direction of Jewish living and the trends of Jewish knowledge.

For more than forty years he refined and shaped ideas of Jewish life as mentor to Rabbis, teachers and laymen in classrooms of the Jewish Theological seminary, as lecturer in various universities, and as writer of monumental works, the first of which was his prize-winning 'Judaism as a Civilization,' published in 1934.

To apply the teachings expounded in his book, the Reconstructionist movement was founded. From its very outset a ferment in Jewish Reconstructionism evolved by Dr. Kaplan and his followers has three major aspects: religion, ethics and culture, these forming the civilization of a social group which must live independently in Israel and as an integrated spiritual community in the United States.

Blvd. near the Sharp Corner school.

Johnson interests, who proposed the establishment, undoubtedly would conduct the operation special problems for a school neighborhood. For one thing, the transient nature of its clientel could be a disturbing factor.

In an impressive display of organization, members of the school district's board of education and its PTA's mustered a "no-motel" vote ofmore than 1,800 Saturday. Only fifty okayed the motel - and these votes were interpreted as favoring a motel over possible townhouses.

Which leads to an interesting question: What finally will be suitable for the "triangle" north of Sharp Corner and east of Skokie Blvd. It is zoned for residential purposes, but obviously will not attract single-family homeowners. Skokie Blvd. is much too busy a street and there already are a number of commercial establishments in the area.

The high school board has nixed it as a site for construction of another high school.

But while we feel a motel so close to the school could be detrimental, and support the Sharp Corner people in this regard, we must take exception to another less-publicized movement in the area. Although a huge new bowling alley has been approved for the "dump" section of the district northwest of Skokie Blvd., and a considerable distance from the school, there is a great amount of pressure being put on Mayor Ambrose Reiter not to approve the transfer of of Cook County.' a liquor license to it.

This strikes us as being unfair and unrealistic. The transfer of such licenses has, in the past, been taken for granted. The owners of the new lanes had every right to believe that when they petitioned for, and were granted, the right to go ahead with their enterprise they would be extended the privilege of maintaining a bar in standing who can afford a license and has a

Their plan is to bring the highest type of on a high plane, a motel by its very nature poses operation to the new lanes. To treat them as if they were trying to foist some kind of illegal operation on the village is ridiculous.

The question of whether or not the bowling alley should have been constructed is not at issue. It is an accomplished fact.

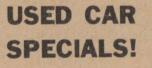

And to deny them the right given to every other bowling alley in the area is discriminatory. The serving of beer and other beverages at bowling lanes is something that adult bowlers expect. If school children are going to be wrongfully influenced by the serving of such beverages at the new alley, then certainly they are being so influenced by the thousands in Niles Township every day. For we see them by the dozens going into these places with their parents. The parents seem to see no harm in exposing their own children to these influences. Obviously, there is no harm-anymore than there is in serving drinks at the many family-type restaurants in the com-

We are in receipt of a property owners' association newsletter which discusses the subject with some vehemence. It refers to "this re-zoning blight" put forth by "Harris Chicago Syndicate", calls on Mayor Reiter to "enforce the will of the people" and to "rise above the profiteers and the politicians, to protect the people." Skokie, it says, has become the "Liquor Center

This type of thing can only excite further emotion in an already emotion-charged issue.

The facts are that children will not be harmed by the transfer of the license, that if people need protecting they need it from 45 other liquorserving establishments also, and that as long as Skokie is not a dry town any person of reputable proper place to use it is entitled to do so.

Offer Funds In Zone Fight

Village trustees of Niles last week discussed, but reached no decision, on whether funds should be accepted from two home owners to pay court costs on a zoning question.

Local homeowners David Calder and Charles Pickup, living next to the property at 8333 Ottawa, asked that trustees review the zoning board of appeals' decision denying a request for a variation on a 30 ft. lot, the property in question. They offered to furnish funds to take fight the case in court.

A representative from the village attorney's office told trustees he wanted more time to consider the legality of such outside financial aid.

The beautiful Joyce C. Hedstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton G. Hedstrom, 5225 Arcadia Ave., Skokie, became the bride of Marshall L. Ogne, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Krueger, 3251 Keating Ave., Chicago, at a late afternoon ceremony in First Evangelical Free Church, Chicago. The Rev. Arley L. Bragg officiated.

A large screen of huckleberry as background, intertwined with white mums and gardenias, with candelabras decorated with ivy and white gladioli decorated the church.

Mrs. Marvin Engel was matron of honor and Mrs. Jack Wendt of Woodstock, Miss Neva Lind, and Mrs. Jerry McCandless of Grove City, Pa., acted as bridesmaids.

The Misses Susan Hedstrom and Louella Krueger were junior bridesmaids and Nancy Hedstrom acted as flower girl.

Attending the bridegroom were Stanley Johnston of Wheaton as best man; Ronald Michalsen, Gordon Michalsen and Kenneth Hjarpe of Crystal Lake as ushers and Randy Hedstrom and Brian Ogne as junior ushers.

The bride wore a gown of silk organza with a tiered bouffant skirt, the last tier forming a chapel train. The ruffles were daintily embroidered and edged with lace.

Her crown was pearl orange blossoms with an elbow length veil. She carried a cascade of white roses with ivy streamers.

The bride's attendants wore ice pink silk organza frocks and carried cascades of deep purple asters with ivy streamers.

A beige lace sheath was worn by the mother of the bride and she wore a beige orchid corsage on her purse.

Sugar'n by Sheryl Leonard

Somehow seeing the flag at half mast, witnessing a firing squad give a salute, or hearing "Taps" on a bugle, never ceases to leave a lump in our throat.

The pity of it all is that those who died and who gave part of themselves for their country are so quickly forgotten.

It takes a Veteran's Day, or Memorial Day to bring this into focus. Fortunately, the veterans' groups and legion groups work constantly toward remembrance.

If the average citizen could spend one day in Hines Veteran's hospital, or any vet's hospital, it might bring a new awareness of the plight of many of these men who must spend the rest of their lives in a bed or a chair.

There is nothing we can do for those wives and mothers who suffered complete loss except to pray that God has eased some of their pain during the years.

But it's the ones who are left with whom we are concerned. Give it a thought. While in the midst of compiling your holiday gift list, jot down a note for the vets out at the hospitals.

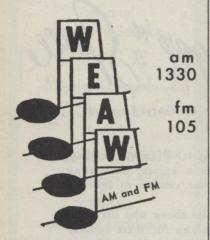

Stella White, veteran radio commentator, will celebrate her 5,000 broadcast on Friday, Nov. 21. Miss White, currently heard on WEAW (1330 on the dial) from 9:30-10:30 each weekday morning, presents "a woman's view point in a man's world." A wonderful and very talented woman, we wish her the very best.

Mrs. Charles Wells, 5351 George St., Skokie, is doing her bit to get a turkey in every pot on Thanksgiving. She won six of them at the C&W Tap recently, kept two and gave four away.

There is enough ego in our makeup to appreciate learning that this column is a "first-must" with some people. For this we are deeply grateful. We are especially indebted to "Gen" Lindberg of Northbrook who also makes it her business to read whatever book we happen to discuss. We love you, too, "Gen."

Memo to Mrs. Ellen Borden Stevenson: "Shux, ma'am, why bother dispossessing your poor, old mother from that silly little mansion. If you get real desperate, you can come and share room and board with us. We don't have a modern mansion it's more on the medieval side. We have radiators instead of duct work and some of our light fixtures (the ones we used to replace the gas jets) are still lit by pulling a chain, but the plumbing is inside. And since we sure do admire your ex-husband, we'd like to lend a helping hand. So feel free to join us. But you'll have to leave some of your cars at home. We have a wooden garage on the alley side of the lot, but we jest never did get around to putting on a door.

At Hines I walked through rooms Where stood beds row on row And saw so many different faces That tried hard not to show That they might be lonely But surely you can guess Spending one's life in a helpless state Can't bring much of happiness.... Different races, every creed..... In that long corridor.... But each man's face I saw.....God's own image wore..... So make remembering an ill one.... Your next giving goal Bring a small ray of light Into a lonely soul.

'FOR THE DEFENSE'

Morton Grove's Mild-Mannered Bill George is 'Public Enemy No. 1' for National Football League Ball Carriers

by MORT KAPLAN

Leo Harvey George is ten months old and weighs in at a roly-poly 26 pounds. He comes by his robust physique naturally because his "pop," 29 year old Bill George, is a rugged 6 ft. 21/2 inch 235 pounder.

Aside from the distinction of being Leo's dad, Bill George also happens to be the defensive captain and star linebacker for a group of professional football players known as the Chicago

Leo doesn't seem to be the least bit interested in playing defense, like his father.

"He crawls around like a fullback," according to 'dad'. "Head down, banging into everything."

"Hope he changes his mind," adds George, Sr. "I watch Rick (Casares, Bear Fullback) take all that punishment every Sunday."

Not so concerned with the baby's football prowess for the time being is Mrs. Bill George. The former Lucy Trussler, now pert charge-d'affairs-domestic in the George household, is more occupied with tending to their comfortable Morton Grove ranch home and supplying her two boys with plenty of nourishment.

"Neither of them is much of a problem as far as food is concerned," she chided. "It doesn't make much difference what you serve as long as there's plenty of it."

Coincidentally, Bill and Lucy were both born in Pennsylvania less than 150 miles apart. Yet, it wasn't until both migrated to Chicago, he working with the Bears and she as an airline stewardess, that they met. Lucy was introduced to Bill through a friend who had been dating one of Bill's teammates."That's how she roped me," kidded the broad-shouldered Bear captain.

Waynesburg to Winston - Salem to Morton Grove

George was a star on the high school team in his native Waynesburg, Pa., and although he established quite a reputation as a schoolboy fullback, it wasn't Bill George the college scouts came around to see. Playing in the same vicinity was Leo Koceski, who went on to a fine career at the university of Michigan. "The scouts," explained Bill, "came to see Koceski and any other big linemen that might be around. Pennsylvania has a reputation for growing them big, you know. About one hour after I heard the scouts were inquiring, I became a lineman. Practically the next thing I knew, I was playing at Wake Forest college in Winston-Salem, North Marmora avenue, Morton Grove is a long way from Wake Forest, where George, incidentally, was also an intercollegiate wrestling champion, but by now it's safe to assume there are almost as many Bear fans of the block as there are football fans. Bill and Lucy George bought their brown-brick domain from the Gene Schroeders last May. Schroeder, you may recall, played end for the Bears up until last season.

"We love it here," enthused Lucy. "It's a wonderful community; everything a young family could want for environment, including grand neighbors." The next-door neighbors, the Paul Germains, feel the same way about their neighbors, the Georges. "Some of the women on the block," says Paul Germain, "get together for some socializing every week and as for Bill, he's out there pulling up weeds just like the rest of us."

A Great Talent

When Bill George isn't tearing up weeks, he's either tearing up the turf at Wrigley Field or causing opposing coaches to tear their hair at the sight of his bone-crushing tackles and defensive brilliance.

The man with the two first names have been thwarting enemy offensive patterns since he joined the Bears in 1952, after a brilliant college career which saw him win All-America mention. He capped his collegiate play with an appearance in Soldier Field, Chicago, as a member of the College All Stars.

The likeable Bear stalwart may not have inspired the phrase, "Let George Do It," but he's been maintaining it in the grand manner since turning "pro", and is recognized as probably and save a touchdown. Officials ruled it an incompleted pass and the Bears went on to win 21-15, in game at Wrigley Field last year.

the greatest linebacker and middle-guard in professional football. He has been selected for the All-National Football League squad three times and for the past three seasons has been named to the Western division all-star team in the annual East-West Classic.

George modestly asserts that he's been "over the hill" for the past two seasons, "but the coaches haven't found me out yet." Apparently, neither has anyone else, because, in addition to making his living by allowing no opponent to cross his path...with a football...he calls signals in defensive coach Clark Shaughnessy's intricate alignments. It's George's job to know, in addition to his own assignment, every defensive pattern and adjustment that the team may be called upon to make and he's the one who must call upon them to make it!

Brawny Bill is unstinting in his praise of Shaughnessy and George Halas, head coach, as well as the rest of what he believes to be the most brilliant coaching staff ever assembled. George considers himself fortunate in having come under the tutelage of fine football mentors throughout his entire playing career.

Anecdotes and Banquets

He recalled his old coach at Wake Forest, "Peahead" Walker. "Old 'Peahead' was a great humorist as well as a fine coach," laughed Bill. "Someone once asked 'Peahead' how he separated a lineman from a backfield man and

'Peahead' said he sent his boys running into the woods. Those that ran around the trees became backs and those that knocked them over became linemen."

This anecdote is part of the good-humored George's banquet material and now, he confided, he couldn't use it at the Morton Grove Chamber of Commerce Dinner on November 26, "Guess I'll just have to borrow some material from Freddie Williams," he grinned. Williams, giant Bear tackle, is also the club's locker room humorist, in addition to being one of the most under-rated players in the game, according to his teammate.

George described an incident when the Bears were being mauled by the New York Giants in the league championship game in 1956. .

"All week the coaches and newspapermen were comparing rival quarterbacks. We were warned about how crafty Charley Conerly and Don Heinrich were. We were behind about 37-7 when the Giants sent a play between Fred Williams and me. The Giant halfback went about 45 yards for a touchdown. I'll never forget it; Fred turned to me and said, 'You know, Bill, those Giant quarterbacks can't be so smart or they'd have been sending that play through us all day."

That is another one the Bear captain can't use at the banquet.

Wasn't the soft-spoken athlete worried about all those calories that invariably accompany banquet appearances? "Not at all," he revealed.

"It only gets rough during the off-season when you're not doing as much to keep active. Then, I may shoot up to about 250 because, aside from working around the house, the only other real exercise I get is golf. I'm a snake-killer you know." George, we have it on good authority, is considerably better than that.

The trace of Eastern accent is camouflaged in the ready wit of this affable Pennsylvanian. It fits perfectly with the informal "lived-in" pattern of the home, especially the "wreck room" where the George soirees are held. These frequent get-togethers usually include many of his Bear "mates" and their wives, among them the Larry Stricklands, Stan Wallaces (George's "roomie" on the road), the Fred Williamses and George and Betty Blanda.

There is a cameraderie among the players much the same as the New York Yankees share share in baseball. It reflects in social as well as professional relationships. Bill is quick to point out that this is nothing extraordinary among athletes just as it's normal in business. But it results in a more natural harmony and cohesiveness on the playing field, he believes. He feels that jealousies and strained feelings among members of the same team contribute to a club's downfall. Bobby Lane and Tobin Rote, when both were with the Detroit Lions, reportedly felt the frictions of two star quarterbacks on the same team. It showed in Detroit's play and Layne subsequently was traded to Pittsburgh.

"The wives are friends, too," adds Lucy. "Betty Strickland usually picks me up the Sunday of a game . . . after arrangements have been made for the baby-sitter." Finding baby-sitters, for some reason, poses no problem for a star athlete's family.

Preparing for Battle

What is a day in the life of a pro football player like? During the week-the Bears are off on Mondays - they hold drills and skull session but no scrimmaging, according to George.

"No point in risking injury unnecessarily," be explains. "I'm usually up between 8 and 9 a.m., whether it's for practice or the day of a game. Generally, I meet some of the fellows for breakfast near Wrigley Field. We take it leisurely and arrive at the park in plenty of time to "kibbitz" around in the locker room. Then, Ed Rozy takes over with the tape and liniment, etc." Rozy is the Bear trainer and himself a Niles resident.

"Ed knows about as much as a doctor," declared Bill, who gives the veteran "healer" credit for keeping the team in peak physical condition. "Then the coaching staff goes over the last minute details with us and we're ready to go."

... And there is something to be said for the Chicago Bears when "they go," but when they lose, Bill George is an unhappy man. As bad as he feels, though, a few others among his personal rooting section feel equally bad. Bill's easygoing nature (off the field) enables him to get over his disappointments and prepare for the following week's game, but no so with Lucy, a wildly enthusiastic rooter, nor with Bill's sister or mother Zeraph, back in Waynesburg. They are, perhaps, the keenest of all the Bill George fans. "Mom dies when we lose," he acknowledges. Bill, the baby of the family, also has two brothers; Albert, now a marine and Nick, an automobile dealer in North Carolina.

Pro Football's "New Look"

George feels there are many factors contributing to the recent surge of interest in pro football. Among them, he cites TV and vast amounts of publicity; modernized rules and officiating; great league balance and a great scientific application by the coaches.

About the officiating, George thinks it's excellent as a rule, no matter how much complaining there is during the heat of battle. He compared the game to pro basketball, where the whistle impedes the progress of the game considerably. He said an official who has called a penalty will automatically "walk it off" or abstain from doing so when it is obvious as to what choice the team captain would make. "That way the official doesn't have to wait 'til the captain gets off the seat of his pants and gets over to discuss the matter." The captain still can stop the official if he chooses opposite.

George credits wild enthusiasm for the sport and attendant newspaper headlines with precipitating some of the recently publicized altercations involving fans who have streamed to the field. He picks the Bears, naturally, as the most loyal fans, and the Baltimore Colts as having the noisiest.

Is pro football dirty? "There's a fine line between rough football and dirty football," answered George. "I really can't say there's much dirty football, but an eager player may continue his motion after a whistle blows because it may be impossible to stop short without risking personal injury. This may not be obvious to the fans who will boo at what may seem like piling on or roughing the passer or some such thing. For this reason, it's important for the player to protect himself on the field at all times, even when you think the play is dead. You have to be ready for anything.

"Clipping is probably the easiest way to get seriously hurt. Someone comes up at an angle to block you and you don't see him. You might cut away in the opposite direction just as he launches his block.

George counts his blessings that no injury has shelved him for long, aside from the usual bumps and bruises. He encountered only a troublesome knee injury in recent years, now well healed. It hasn't hampered him any, a fact to which opposing players will readily attest.

His teammates sometimes kiddingly call him "Greek"...knowing well that he is of Syrian extraction "It started," mused Bill, "when I came up to the club as a rookie. 'Bulldog' Turner (famed Bear center now a coach with the team) thought I was related to a coach he'd known in the Southwest conference, who happened to have the same last name; and who happened to be Greek. I made the point that I wasn't Greek but Syrian. I may havé been a little too emphatic and fellows like 'Bulldog' and George Connor (also a former Bear) had some fun at the expense of a rookie."

The Future

George, a keen diagnostician of the game, hasn't given too much thought to his football future. "As long as the coaches think I can do the job for them, I hope to be with the Bears," he stated. "After that, I really don't know. I have a wonderful job here in the community with Interstate Steel Company, a fine organization. They're treated me swell and I think I have a real future

As for the future of the George clan, Lucy's grandfather and grandmother are both from a set of twins. Bill would bust his buttons if he could walk into the clubhouse and announce a pair of new born tackles some day. Of course, the possibility of a couple of cheerleaders also exists, and Bill agrees he would love it just

A grand addition to Niles Township is the Bill George family, linebacker Bill ... cheerleader Lucy . . . and Leo.

'O K Corral' Completes 30-Year Cycle

In those three decades, Orphan Annie's Barbecue went out of business and the building became a taxicab stand. A lot of changes have taken place in the neighborhood, Mrs. Rymer observed. She recalled that there were few houses in the area at the time and the "El" used to run trains out here.

For a short time the building was a residence. After Ed Boss, owner of Orphan Annie's went out of business in the depression, it was a dwelling and a family lived there, but Mrs. Rymer doesn't recall who dwelt there.

A "due and diligent inquiry" would have shown that the plaintiff is not out of business, the suit said.

It added the report went to many concerns doing business with the plaintiff and that many suppliers demanded immediate payment of their accounts, "although not yet due."

The firm's attorney, Harry Greenstein, set forth in the suit that the Dun and Bradstreet report injured the plaintiff's good name and reputation, also that the plaintiff suffered a great loss of business and the confidence and esteem of its suppliers, customers, and prospective customers.

NORTH SHORE

Local realtors and brokers have been urged to fight for the life of the Skokie Valley North Shore line branch, according to Roderick Fox, chairman of the Evanston-North Shore Board of Realtors' transportation committee, Mr. Fox said that lack of commuter service in that area would seriously hurt property values.

"Buyer interest and comments and actual sales in Skokie, Glenview, Northbrook, Northfield, Deerfield and other towns, along the route indicate a growing reluctance to consider properties; the abandonment of the Skokie Valley branch of the North Shore line would have a definite depreciating effect on real estate values," Fox said.

BATON ART:

Editor's note; The following is the seventh in a series of lessons on baton twirling by Ann Lenox, counselor for the "Cougarettes" Sons of the American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps.

'PASS UNDER THE LEGS'

by ANN LENOX

The pass under the leg movement is actually completing a two hand spin under the legs.

First do a two hand spin followed by a pass around the back. When the baton is grasped in the right hand, start the front hand spin action.

As the baton is being brought to the front, raise the right leg, remembering to point the toe downward. As the baton starts to revolve over the thumb, stick the right hand, with baton, under the right leg.

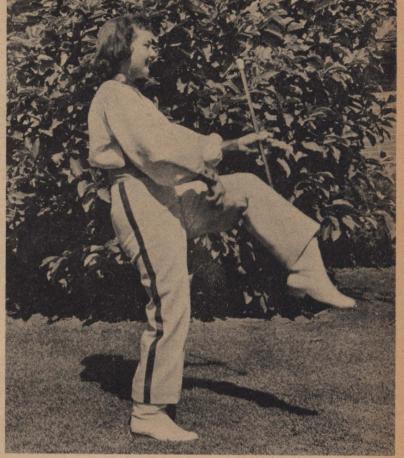

Catch baton in left hand palm up and complete the circle or the two hand spin action of the left hand. Take baton back in the right hand palm down, and you should be back to first position.

Now start the front hand spin action again raising the left leg, as the baton is ready to roll over the thumb, under the left leg, catch baton palm up in the left hand and complete the two

This is a very eye-catching trick and can be repeated as many times as desired. Remember to raise the leg high, point the toe and do not bend at the waist.

> Next Lesson "Summary"

Mary Kay Houndt demonstrates the ease with which one executes a "pass under the legs" movement in the art of baton twirling.

BOYS' TOWN IN KOREA

-AND A QUESTION ASKED OF NILES TOWNSHIP

by Sheryl Leonard

It's a familiar picture – the one of a little boy, his clothes ragged, his feet shoeless, carrying another youngster on his back. The caption with this reads: "He's not heavy, he's my brother."

This symbol of Boy's Town in America has now penetrated into the remote province of Jamsil in Korea.

After VJ Day, thousands of Koreans came back from their long exile and millions more of North Koreans fled to South Korea seeking the freedom and security they could not find under the Communists.

This mass movement to South Korea caused turmoil, confusion and disorder to the newly born Republic of Korea.

The streets were soon echoing with the cries of orphaned children left homeless and without food. However, their cries were heard by the Rev. Woochul Simon Ri of the Seoul Vicariate, who decided to do something about those cries.

Father Flanagan Arrives

It was at that time that Father Flanagan, famous founder of our own Boy's Town, visited Korea, and with the Rev. Ri, started the movement that was to become the Boy's Town of Jamsil, Korea.

At first, Father Ri started with five orphans whom he had found wandering around the Seoul Railroad Station. He took them to his church for

With the formal approval of the bishop and encouragement from the Catholic Church, some farm land was obtained and a few desolate houses repaired and put to use to care for more of these boys.

After a year, housing for 60 boys was completed and by the end of 1949, sickroom, medical room and chapel were finished.

New Terrors with Korean War

It seemed as if their work was hardly begun when the Korean was broke out. About 20 youngsters were left in Boy's Town while the others were taken to refuge in South Korea.

The hardships and deprivations these youngsters suffered were many since Kum Sa-ri, the village where they went, was on the black list of the Communists.

Upon the restoration of Seoul, the boys were all returned to Boy's Town.

Today, Father Ri is working almost miracles in caring for his young charges. But the need for clothing, medical supplies, housing, educational and recreational facilities, is great.

Pfc. Leuth Relays Story

A lot of help is given this Boy's Town by our own GI's stationed in Korea. It was though one of these men, Pfc. Richard Leuth of Glenview, stationed in the area where Boy's Town is located, that the story of the need to help these

They may not be professionals, but these four members of Boy's Town in Korea really emote during a performance—barefeet not withstanding.

Voices cannot be heard on a photo-but this group of Korean Youngsters gather together in song, grateful for the roof over their heads and a place they might call home.

orphaned youngsters came to the exclusive attention of The Villager.

Leuth's aunt, Mrs. Bill Gould, 4420 Concord Lane, Skokie, came to The Villager office with the hope that this newspaper could be instrumental in getting one or more of the philanthropic groups in this area interested in the desperate plight of these boys.

Following are excerpts of a letter received from Father Ri, Director of Boy's Town in Jamsil, Korea. The Villager has not changed any of Father Ri's sentiments or spelling, in its sincere hope that some group will take the message expressed in these quoted excerpts into its heart and do something about it.

Says Father Ri: "The boys are almost parentless and war orphans, although I have some boys not parentless but were wandering the city with the moral dangers and with the poor livelihood.

"Sometimes I take them when I find these poor wandering the city, sometimes the Fathers and Sisters take them in, sometimes the boys come in themselves, sometimes GIs bring them in, sometimes government and public officers send them and sometimes the people take them in.

"This social work aims to accommodate orphans and destitute boys to give intellectual, moral and physical training and to brighten their future so as to enable them to be of help and service to society.

"I have many financial necessities to furnish the expenses, by example, for school payments, constructions and reparations, dispensary, equipments, coal to cook and to warm in winter, laundry, etc.

"Until now, the boys have no much the equipment of the recreations or amusements, as we were so much busy to make the necessary houses for their life, and we had no much money to spare for the amusements.

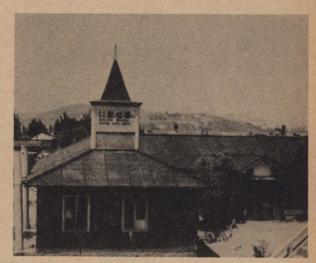

"The provision of the cloths must be helped. The cloths the boys have now became almost to be rags. It is not enough to wear for all the boys and we must provide more for the new boys who will come in winter.

"I have the boys now at 151 from 6 years old to those under 17. Every middle school boy can write, read and speak English and few boys speak very nice English as they were sometime before by GIs and are corresponding with Americans who are interest to adopt them.

"Corresponding with your generous askings, I remain very happy and glad with my best prayers for you that God may bless you and all yours.—Rev. Father Woochul Simon Ri, Director of Boy's Town, Sung Sim Won, Sacred Heart Institute, Jamsil, Korea."

In front, Henry and Lee, two of the vast family of Boy's Town, and standing in back, Ray Hayes, American GI who did so much to help this project, and Father Lee.

More than just a tower on a building, this tower in one of strength and compassion - proclaiming this place a haven for orphaned youngsters.

Pfc. Richard W. Leuth of Glenview through whom the story of these orphans was brought to the attention of The Villager.

Impressive Statistics Mark Trojan '58 Record

The Trojans of Niles High placed third in the suburban league, with 5 wins and 3 losses, scoring 160 points to opponents 99 points, a recap of the 1958 season reveals.

Niles High gained 1,196 yards in 323 rushing plays; completed 62 of 113 passes for 843 yards, for a passing percentage of 55. The Trojans scored 7 touchdowns on passes and 15 on running plays. They made an even 100 first downs and gained a total of 2,039 yards. They lost the ball 6 times on fumbles, and recovered 12; opponents intercepted 6 passes, but the Trojans intercepted 14 of their opponents' aerial attempts. The Trojans blocked one punt and were 100% successful in holding the line to prevent any blocking of their punts.

Quarterback Barry Mink was the leading ground gainer, moving ahead for a total of 1,207 yards. He made 448 yards on 55 rushes for an 8.1 yard average and completed 55 of 101 passes for a total of 759 yards, or a passing percentage of 55%.

Fullback Denny Dobrowalski carried the ball 26 times for a total of 135 yards, a 5.2 yard average against New Trier.

Left halfback George Willard carried the ball more times for the season than any other player, lugging the leather 71 times for a 3.4 yard average gain. He scored most touch-downs in one game with three against Highland Park, all on successive carries. Willard made the longest gain of the season – 73 yards on the receiving end of a pass.

Ron Lis punted 33 times during the year for a 32 yard average. His best kick was 52 yards against Evanston.

Right halfback Les Berens was leading scorer, with 6 tallies or 36 points to his credit. He led the team in total yardage, with 608 yards gained rushing. He received 19 passes for 357 yards.

Ron Henrici, kicking specialist, booted 17 of 24 extra points and had more game time than anyone else on the squad. He was second in pass receiving, with 139 yards gained on 14 passes successfully completed. THE HELLYER SAY

by ART HELLYER

I have started my umpteenth diet in recent years and like all the others, it is undoubtedly doomed to failure. The last diet I tried included sharing our dog's food. I haven't lost any weight, but I am barking better. I got so hungry on one of our camping trips last summer that I had to broil a couple of tent stakes. I hope you read the government report recently concerning reducing pills, chewing gums, liquids, and machines. According to the men who conducted this survey, the implied promises are misleading and deceptive. They went on to say that the only way one can reduce is to just plain give up food. In conjunction with that, here's a little saying that might help: a moment in my mouth, a few hours in my stomach, and a lifetime on my hips.

Had a letter from my aunt the other day. She tells us that Uncle Headlock was rushed to the hospital where he took a turn for the nurse.

Did you know that population-wise, the North Shore suburbs are growing faster than any other area in Chicagoland? Did you know that ther e are no hospital beds in Skokie, Lincolnwood, Morton Grove, Northfield, Northbrook, Glenview, and Golf? Did you know that this is an area of more than 125,000 persons? Did you know that one out of every eight persons will be hospitalized this next year according to a national survey? A group of civic-minded citizens asked themselves the foregoing questions and decided that these communities needed their own hospital facilities. That is why one of your neighbors will call on you soon. He will ask you to contribute toward the building fund. Even though hundreds of thousands of dollars have already been pledged by business and industry in this area, there will still remain about $750,000 to be raised from the 30,000 families who will be the primary users of this hospital. Ask yourself this question: "How much does it mean to me to have a hospital in my own community?" I think it most imperative that we all make a generous pledge. We need the Skokie Valley Hospital.

If you're not completely disenchanted (as I am) with the 1959 cars, maybe this will help change your mind. A loop garage has announced a 15 percent reduction in parking fees for cars less than fourteen feet long. Which reminds me of how Elaine and I met. It was in a parking lot where we first scraped up an acquantaince.

Reverend Frederick Gratiot, pastor of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, was surprised one Sunday recently to see that one of his male parishoners had returned to the flock. Father Gratiot greeted the errant one just as though he had been there every Sunday. However the man felt an explanation was in order. "Father, I've been spending Sunday mornings in a saloon. Isn't it better to sit in a saloon and think of church, than to sit in church and think of a saloon?"

FRANK NEWTON

OUR SCOUT LEADERS

by FRANK NEWTON

Scout Executive
Northwest Suburban Council
Boy Scouts of America

If you look around any of the 23 Northwest Suburban communities you will find a man engaged in one of the most exciting games in the world.

He speaks a language most of us have forgotten. If he quits, or moves away or dies, the job he holds is one of the most difficult to fill.

The community pays little attention to him, but if he does his job well he has the personal satisfaction of knowing that he has contributed as much as or more than anyone else in developing the type of citizen we consider ideal.

He has rediscovered the language of boys. On his shoulders is the main responsibility for the success of the Boy Scout movement. He is the Cubmaster, Scoutmaster, or Explorer Advisor.

They say of the Scout Leader that the job he holds to earn his bread and butter is a necessary evil that makes possible his Scouting activity.

In cold fact, he can and often does average 20 hours a week at Scouting.

The excitement comes from leading boys — by all odds the most energetic, enthusiastic and imaginative animal ever to grace the earth — in a program remarkably designed to present the toughest challenge to both man and boy.

Of course by itself the program can be nothing. Few understand its real possibilities when they join. The first glimpse of the job, like the first uncertain relationship with the boys themselves, can be monumentally discouraging. Boys do not suffer adults to become "one of the gang" readily. Some Scout Leaders never achieve it; the very best grumble about opportunities that knocked in vain.

And yet the love of a father for a son is the only real skill needed. The job would be crushing if it were not a game; it would be impossible if it did not reward in equal measure as it demands.

Because the job is so big, every Scout leader at times feels discouraged. His influence is indirect. The failure of the moment often results in triumph later on, but he never sees it. The lessons learned so casually in camp or meeting place become part of a boy's character. There is no way of saying of an adult – that trait, that decision had its root in Scouting. One can only guess that the out-of-doors plus the faithful companionship of an understanding adult in a program tested for decades in the fires of boys' imaginations has a powerful influence.

The Scout leader who is and must be Scouting personified to the boys deserves honor and appreciation from the community. His contribution is unique.
