Rotary Speaker Traces Skokie's Growth With Phone Directories

Changes which have occurred in the Skokie community as shown in the pages of the telephone directories were discussed at a recent Skokie Rotary Club luncheon meeting.

Dr. L.W. Ruttenberg, Club treasurer, introduced the guest speaker, Thomas E. Gause of the Reuben H. Donnelley corporation, publishing and services firm. advertising Chicago.

The story of the growth and progress of the community as told in the pages of the directories was discussed. In 1948 Skokie had a two column directory; there were 7,500 telephones. Today the Skokie directory has three columns; the community has 57,200 telephones.

Gause discussed the more than 100 classifications in the current directory which did not appear in the 1957 directory. Such new headings appear as "beds-concealed"; maintenance''; ''terrazza con-tractors''; ''sewer flooding control systems"; "doughnut shops", etc.

Gause brought with him a copy of the first Skokie directory, printed in 1909.

The end of an era as shown in the yellow pages was discussed.

The speaker had with him two directories from the 1930's: 1933 contained the heading "Soft Drink Parlors". In 1934, it was: "Soft Drink Parlors See Beer Taverns."

International Minerals Opens New Skokie Research Center

International Minerals & Chemical Corporation formally opened its $5 million administrative and research center in Skokie this week with a series of open houses attended by a total of more than 3,000 guests.

Employes played host to their families and friends at the new six-building headquarters Sunday. Community leaders from Skokie and North Shore area were Monday's guests and Chicago civic and business dignitaries visited the Center Tuesday.

There are 600 employes at the new headquarters center of International, which is a leader in the mining, refining, and processing of non-metallic ores and chemical derivatives, with 68 mines and plants and a product list that totals 60 items.

The center comprises five buildings just completed and a Research center built on the 21-acre site in 1951.

Designed by Perkins & Will, Chicago architectural firm, the center is the newest addition to the expanding greater Chicago skyline and is described as a new and unique concept in business environment.

Adjoining Harms Woods Forest Preserve on the west, the multiunit center fronts on a central plaza with a patio and reflecting pool, and is landscaped to create a campus atmosphere.

The center has its own heliport, located atop its administration building, which puts the city's major airports only minutes away. The central five-story administration unit is the first office building in the country with its own heliport incorporated in the original design.

The company started in 1909, producing phosphate and mixed fertilizer, and has grown from $5 million in annual sales then to more than $100 million now.

Cars arriving from Gross Point Rd. will turn into the south parking area for unloading, and students will enter the building from this point via doors 3, 4, and 5.

Drivers coming to pick up West Division students at the close of any school day are asked to use the same entries to the grounds as for morning delivery; driveway I from Oakton St. and driveway III from Gross Point Rd. They may park in the auditorium loop on the north side and in the south parking area on the south. Students will then depart for these loading points by the same building doorways they used to enter the building upon

Morton Grove Trustees Delay Auto Hotel Ruling

In a stormy four hour session in which Mayor Jack Koller and several council members came to verbal blows, the Grove Auto Hotel located in the Classic Bowl building at Waukegan and Caldwell was again denied a building permit by the Morton Grove village board Tuesday night.

Mayor Koller again urged that the motel, to be operated by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Alongi, be given a building permit. During the lengthy hassle, he won Trustees Shea and Breese over to his side, but Trustees Geise, Meyer, Reiter and St. Pierre voted against the permit.

Koller contended that the Alongis had done nothing illegal and were entitled to a permit. He felt that they would get it ultimately so why delay the verdict.

The dissenting foursome said they didn't want to be railroaded into making any fast decision, while denying the permit, agreed to take the matter up again for a final decision next Tuesday.

Their gripe was the way the motel entrepreneurs went about putting their project through. While the building at Waukegan and Caldwell was okayed for business purposes, it was not specifically okayed for a motel. The dissenting trustees contended that the Alongis shifted to a motel operation without getting the village board's approval.

Counsel Emanuel A. Rissman pleaded that the board give his clients, the Alongis, a permit as they were suffering undue hardship. He contended that the building commissioner and fire marshall had okayed building plans calling for a motel and on this basis the Alongis had sunk their life savings of $25,000 into the proposed auto hotel.

What caused the lengthy session were delegations of property owners who contended that it was not right for the board to issue a permit for one type of business, only to find that the permit was being utilized for another purpose. Specifically, in this case a permit was given for small shops and business offices. Later, without getting an okay, the building owners leased the space for an auto hotel of 17 units.

What finally satisfied the property owners was a pledge by the board to have a ruling ready and passed next Tuesday night specifically stating that no interior or exterior structural changes can be made on any new construction in the village, without getting a permit from Mayor Koller.

This ruling will be a "stopgap" measure until the new zoning law and building code, to be unveiled next week, is finally adopted after public hearings and debates are held.

Portland Cement Opens New Laboratory

The Portland Cement Assn. Monday unveiled its new Skokie structural laboratory, a unique facility which may have a revolutionary effect on future structural testing laboratories. Instead of housing testing machines, the laboratory is a giant testing machine in itself, capable of exerting test forces greater than 10 million lb.

The key to the laboratory's capabilities is the 56 x 120-ft. test floor. It is designed, using design methods, to act as a hollow concrete box girder in the longitudinal direction and a Vierendel girder in the transverse direction. The overall depth of this girder is 12 ft. with the first floor slab joined to the basement floor slab by 8-1/2 ft. high webs. The first floor slab is pierced by a total of 690 holes, on 3 ft. centers, by means of which loads are applied and test specimens are secured. All test loads are produced by hydraulic jacks.

This design gives the laboratory an almost limitless flexibility. Any structural element from a short girder to a full-size floor slab or roof shell can be loaded to destruc-

The laboratory is situated at 5420 Old Orchard Road.

(Editor's note: For a comprehensive feature and picture story on the new structural laboratory, and its amazing capabilities, see next week's Villager.)

City-Village Dispute Goes Before the Circuit Court

Griffin Cites Curfew Laws For Children

Skokie Police Chief William C. Griffin this week called attention to two local ordinances intended to protect youngsters from any criminally inclined strangers in the village.

One ordinance deems it a misdemeanor for anyone to "loaf or lounge" in Skokie. A fine of 3 to 10 dollars can be given offenders.

A second ordinance cited by Chief Griffin calls for youngsters under 15 to be off the streets by 8 p.m. unless accompanied by a parent or adults (unaccompanied youngsters can be on the streets till 9 p.m. in summer time - from March 1st through August 31st).

Employed youngsters are exempt from the curfew law.

Children out "after hours" are to be taken to their home, according to the ordinance.

Whenever one-eighth of the electors of any city voting at the last preceding municipal election petition the corporate authorities thereof to submit the question whether the city shall incorporate under this act to a vote of the electors in the city, the corporate authorities shall submit this question to a vote of the electors of the city at an election to be held in the city within 60 days from the date of filing such petition.

A spirited and expensive court battle seemed assured for Skokie today over the wording of the foregoing passage of the Illinois Statutes.

Sponsors of a petition for a referendum on whether Skokie, now a village, should become a city went to Circuit Court this morning for a writ of mandamus ordering such an elec-

Skokie trustees last Tuesday night tossed out the petitions, saying 1,139 of 2,748 signatures turned in by the pro-city people were invalid because these persons had not voted in the last municipal election. Scheduled to hear the case was Judge Harry Fisher.

Sponsors of the petition say their interpretation of the law is that anyone registered to vote in the last municipal election is eligible to sign.

The Skokie board said the wording of the law clearly indicates that signees must actually have voted in the election.

Harry Levick, chairman of a group called the Skokie Civic Federation, formed to push the referendum, said several attorneys have given opinions that the former interpretation is However, L. O. Green, veteran civic leader who heads an organization which has vowed to fight any such change in government, said:

'The law is specific in that valid signatures are only those of persons who have voted. The trustees had to follow the law. It seems a shame to put the village to the expense of all this legal business, for no good reason."

It was learned that the procity government people had asked Judge Fisher to order the village of Skokie to pay the costs and attorney's fees of their court fight.

Charge Dale Boy With Manslaughter

A court will determine whether Jeffry Bruce Dale, 13, deliberately shot his mother, Erna, 42, in their Skokie home Aug. 18.

Young Dale reportedly was charged with manslaughter Tuesday by the Cook County grand jury. The action followed lines of a recommendation by a coroner's jury Aug. 27.

Mrs. Dale was shot twice in the head as she lay on a davenport in her living room. The youngster claims the shots were fired accidentally.

However, Chief of Detectives Martin J. Conroy of Skokie says the boy changed his account of the slaying three times. In addition, certain doubts have been raised as to how two such accurate shots could have been fired accidentally.

Authorities said that Jeffry had a record of vandalism, petty theft and burglary a year or two ago while the family lived in Niles. The Dales recently moved to 4908 Carol Ave., Skokie.

If convicted of manslaughter, the boy would face a penalty of 1 to 14 years.

CTA SUED

A Morton Grove man, injured in an auto-bus collision last January 7, has filed a $40,000 lawsuit against the Chicago Transit Authority.

He is Sheldon M. Richman, 7432 Arcadia, who suffered injuries to the spine, neck and chest in the accident at 20 E. Van Buren street, Chicago.

The bus collided with the rear of Richman's car as both vehicles were westbound on Van Buren, the Superior court suit charges.

PING PONG DROP

Skokie residents are advised that on Wednesday, Oct. 1, they should keep their eyes on the ball-that is, the ping pong ball.

About 5,000 ping pong balls will be dropped over Skokie by airplane on that day. Recipients will find that by cutting into these balls, they will find small, white slips, These slips will carry gifts for you from 20% off on purchases to actual free merchandise from shops in the Lincoln-Oakton area.

Trustees OK Scooter Law

In an effort to thwart any possible accidents or fatalities to scooter drivers, the Skokie village board Saturday passed an ordinance that all drivers of such vehicles must be at least 16 years old and must have an auto driver's license.

Additionally, the new village law forbids scooter drivers to carry passengers.

Effective Sept. 20, the law calls for fines of not less than $25 nor more than $200 for persons convicted of disobeying the "safety scooter" law.

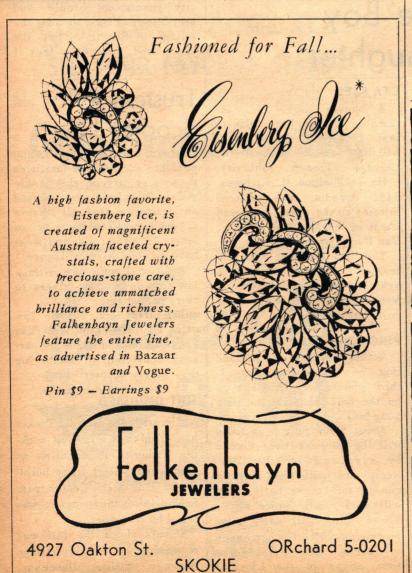

SUIT DISMISSED

Circuit Judge B. Fain Tucker has dismissed a lawsuit seeking authority to demolish an abandoned 3-story frame building at 7749 Niles Center road, Skokie, after the structure was razed by its owner.

Dismissal of the bill was requested by Skokie Village Attorney William Hennessy, who filed the suit last July.

Community Chest Drive Off to 'Good Start'

"The Niles Township Community Chest and Council is off to an auspicious start," said Chest president Norman Schack of Skokie today.

But, he continued, "it is the follow through that Counts."

"Hundreds of Workers have been furnished the material and information necessary and if each will thoroughly cover every one of their prospects, victory will be assured," Schack said

Calls are now being made on professional men, industry, business establishments and every residence in the town-

Niles Township continues to enjoy a phenominal growth and with this tremendous development come greater demands on the agencies, demands which can only be met if and when the community as a whole comes to their aid with increassupport for their larger budget needs, said Schack.

"Favorable reports are already being received at the Campaign Headquarters" at 4411 Oakton Street, Skokie, said Lincoln Shonkwiler, general campaign chairman.

The drive began last week. As the Community Chest drive goes forward, more of the citizens of the Township are "joining up" to help put the drive over the top. Such a man is Joseph C. Bahover, who has volunteered his help to Kay Thompson, proprietor of A-1 Employment Service, Skokie, chairman of the township business and professional division.

Here are key persons in this year's Chest drive:

John L. Scherer, chairman of the industrial division, of Avon Products Inc., Morton Grove, is assisted by area chairmen L. R. Anderson, Lincolnwood, Les. S. Bryant, Morton Grove, H. K. Sattazahn, Niles, and J. Kappleman, Skokie.

The business and professional division, under the direction of Kay Thompson, has for area chairman Dennis Rivelli of Dennis, Clothes for Men, Leon Penzik of Skokie Poultryland, for Business, and Dr. Raymond Bro, dentist surgeon, Skokie, for the professional men.

Out at Old Orchard, the business and professional men will be visited by Leo W. Martin, chairman, and a number of other Old Orchard folks to help him cover the field.

Myron Greisdorf, chairman of the large residential division in the entire township, is assisted by Thornton B. Stearns and Dr. Arthur Glickson, Cleveland; John L. Hagman, East Prairie; Barry D. Oller, Fairview; Mrs. Norman H. Jacobson, Golf; Arnold Bolnick, Lincoln; Charles O'Brien, Lincolnwood; Seymour Primer, Roman Lach and Ed Colby, all of Morton Grove; Jack Slade and Jerry Sill, Sharp Corners.

It was her uncle, Tom Vosnos, who escorted her down the aisle and gave her away when Elizabeth Nancy Vosnos joined hands and heart in holy matrimony with Dean Thomas Pappas on Aug. 17, in a late afternoon ceremony in the Church of the Assumption, Chicago.

Sugar'n Spice

by Sheryl Leonard

The greatest treasure in the world is a friend. That's why we're so delighted at having Gladys Erickson back in the States after a tour of Europe.

Gladys, who received all kinds of honors in Greece, is the type of warm, vibrant, vivacious person who makes friends with the great and lowly alike.

For the un-informed, she is also just about the greatest newspaper women in the business.

And yet, with all the attendant excitement of her trip, she found time to think about her friends and brought back some exquisite gifts.

A beautiful filigree ring from Athens . . . dainty, precious cameo earrings from Rome . . . a "modern art" hankie from Paris.

We shall wear these lovely gifts with pride, as we wear Gladys Erickson's friendship.

We're still Dan Sorkin's 8:15 to 8:30 fan every morning. We particularly like the bit where Dan recommends using the "yellow pages" to find everything one needs for a wedding. "Gowns, flowers, photographers, jewelers, shot - gun dealers...."

A few months ago, we had the opportunity of of taking some pictures and doing a story on a kindergarten bike parade from the East Prairie School in Skokie.

One little girl caught our eye. There was a sweet, pensive quality about her face that made us want to photograph her alone. This we did and the picture was published.

But when school started this week, Joan Carol Fish was not among the throng of hustling, bustling little ones. No longer will she be riding her gaily bedecked bike, defying the wind with big hairbows in her hair.

For someone else saw the sweet purity of this child and two weeks ago He called her unto His arms.

The little heart could not stand the strain of what should have been a routine eye operation.

We shall always be grateful for God's hand that guided ours to single out this one child, from so many, to photograph. What was a picture of a charming child in a newspaper, became a treasured memento for a mother.

I walk along life's highway And as I travel all alone I dream that I might be a queen Upon a royal throne Or, perhaps a lovely lady Dressed in costly finery An actress or a dancer Someone great, who might be me I think how very wonderful If I could just be where All was shining silver And gold sparkled from my hair Than I smile, for these things Can hold no real desire They are as empty embers Lying dead upon a fire Let others have their costly things There's nothing more I prize Then memories of a wondrous love I found within your eyes Yes, you can have your throne, my queen Your silver shining bright I'll take the rainbow after rain And dreams of him tonight.

A NEW ERA FUR FASHIONS

by Lee K. Thorpe President, Thorpe Furs

Women are on the threshold of a new fur fashion era. Changes are occurring not only in the silhouette, but also in the kinds of fabrics and furs available. This is the year in which women may enjoy the excitement of glamour and the sophistication of style.

There is a silhouette for every figure and for every age group: empire, chemise, trapeze, oval. There are bold colors in exotic combinations.

Yes, designers are enticing the style conscious woman, offering her high-spirited fashion.

Women need no longer follow any one line to be in style. This year there are no restrictions.

If a woman looks chic in a slim line she has her choice of chemises; if she needs more fullness there is the trapese; if she can carry bulk, there are the new widths with their deep-cut

A woman may choose the pattern that flatters her-her costume may balloon at the hemline, blouse at low or mid-body level, be shirred or pleated high at the shoulders. She can decide to enhance or disguise her waistline by wearing the empire or relaxing in a low belted shift.

Fashion news is shape! But remember, not everybody can wear every line, even though she may be a professional model. The average girl or woman must look into the three way mirror and see more than the clothes, she must see herself in the clothes.

She will know which garment to buy when she feels a glow of self-confidence and begins to smile with self-assurance.

Wide trapeze skirts make legs look young and neat. The collarless, bared neckline, trendsetter of last year is not only in fashion but flatters the woman with a short neck. Tall women can pamper their height with some of the largest collars ever made.

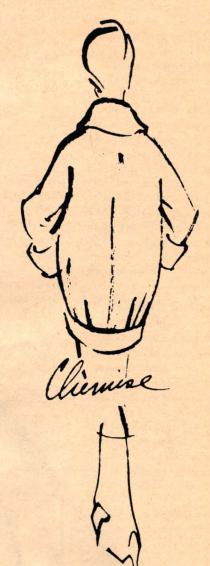

The average woman can seek out her own fashion and still achieve the perfect fashion combination - elegance and at-ease comfort. She can feel relaxed and yet look sophisticated. Generally speaking the waist line lifts. It may be high belted or nipped close to the bodice, in self belt materials or contrasting satin. The high waist is a firmly established fashion, but an inch or two below the waist is with us too.

Coats share the fashion spotlight at last. There are slim coats, coats with pleated backs and cape effects, with collars that can be converted to cowls, shoulder yokes, trapeze shapes with a low belt at the hipline, low necklines and big necklines, collarless coats and larger fur-trimmed collars, modified cocoon wraps, slim shoulders or wide rounded shoulders-yes coats are fashion news.

The fur industry is appealing to the woman with a quick eye for the new fashion. Furs offer the new big bulk look as well as the slim shape. Today women can benefit from the genius of fur designers and dressers and dyers who have combined their talents to offer the greatest selection of furs in all price ranges, in new and fresh color tones, in every wanted fur.

Persian lamb appears in black and grey and brown. Black broadtail lends itself beautifully to shirring and drapery.

Beaver glows in rich sparkling natural browns or in half a dozen exciting hues which may be redyed in later years to other flattering tones.

All lengths are available, from the 22 inch jacket to the 45 - 46 inch coat.

Important are the extravagant linings, the fur buttons, the stimulating fur on fur combinations. Furs designed like dresses and fabric coats are taking the high road. Fall and winter furs are no longer limited to coats.

Small pieces have come into their own, in many furs other than mink-Persian lamb, beaver, Alaskan seal, fox. Stoles are changing their shape: there are scarfs and pencil stoles and boas. Mink has many new offerings; there are forty different variations within the 8 basic color shades. Styles range from the narrow extra long garment to the very short.

Some fur highlights I predict are: Mouton trimmed with fox; Persian lamb in black trimmed with detachable collars of mink or fox; spotted furs from cat to leopard, self trimmed, as well as fox or beaver trimmed; natural or dyed sheared racoon with mink trimmings; pony in black and brown; broadtail-processed lamb in many colors, although I think black is best; skunk and all other long-haired furs are good either as trimming or in coats; squirrel in natural hue as well as all the new brown and heather tones; nutria and alaska seal in breathtaking patterns; toasty beige otter highlighted with mink.

Of course, there is ermine and that famous newcomer to the fashion world-chinchilla. All in all there is a wonderful era of fur fashions now to enhance every woman's beauty and make her even more proud of her natural charm.

Ground and Grout

by TOM BRANAGAN

We have been taken to task by Helen Johnson, one of our readers, who urges us to "try to maintain good grammar."

In a recent Letter to the Editor, Warden Ragen of Joliet declared: "You can always be sure of a warm welcome at Stateville."

Our accompanying editor's note said: "We're not sure who (this) paragraph refers to."

The Villager's chiding correspondent said: "Fifth grade English classes learn never to end sentences with a preposition." Miss (or Mrs.) Johnson softened her criticism by telling us that generally she admired the paper.

We admit an infringement on one of classical grammar's traditional standbys. However, we must point out that some experts on language advocate throwing this particular rule out the window. They include author Rudolph Flesch, whose "The Art of Plain Talk" worked a minor revolution in the nation's college composition classes and newsrooms a decade ago. Flesch's theory – to state it over simply, perhaps – is that in language, as in anything else, the shortest distance between two points is a straight line.

He feels that communication between persons - and this includes the printed page - too often is cluttered up with archaic language practices that get in the way of ideas.

Think about it for a while: Doesn't it seem more direct to say "We're not sure who this paragraph refers to" rather than "We're not sure to whom this paragraph refers"?

We assume there are other precincts to be heard from. (Or should it be: We assume there are other precincts from which to be heard?)

In our Aug. 14 issue, which gave extensive coverage to Morton Grove Western Days, we ran an oldtime parade photograph and invited readers to tell us when and where the picture was taken.

Fustest with the mostest was Mrs. A. L. Robinson of 8718 Fernald Ave., Morton Grove, who wrote: "My father, Charles Blischke, who is now dead, is in the picture. It was taken Aug. 2, 1903, on Callie Ave."

Mrs. Robinson adds: "I was born and raised right here in Morton Grove 63 years ago and remember when we had six houses."

It is perhaps not entirely modest of us to do so, but we shall also include this postscript: "Thank you for the pleasure we get out of your paper. It is read from cover to cover."

Second prize goes to Dorothy Kuester of 8538 Callie Ave., who had the location pinpointed more precisely, but was off a bit on the date. She wrote that the photo was taken "at the corner of Lincoln and Callie in Morton Grove." She guessed the year was 1907, adding: "I have lived on Callie Ave. 40 years, and it has changed some."

Reproduced herewith is the photo in question.

Congratulations go to Bill Rudd for the idea he came up with (or is it "with which he came up"?) to go along with the opening of his new Cities Service station at Main and Skokie Blvd.

He issues "litter bags" for the contents of ash trays and other trash that collect in every automobile. Then, when you pull into Bill's place, he's got a big barrel handy in which (!) to dump the bag.

He's shown below handing one of the bags to a customer.

Remember the recent series we did on the near-miraculous medical work going on at Baxter Laboratories in Morton Grove? One of the articles described at length the "artificial kidney machine" that Baxter had developed.

A graphic account of how the machine was used in a dramatic and successful effort to save the life of a girl who had taken an overdose of a drug was carried recently in Chicago daily news-

The girl's blood was drawn from her body and run through the machine in a purifying process lasting five hours. This eliminated poisons the drug had deposited in the blood stream and undoubtedly saved her life, doctors reported.

(Incidentally, the Baxter people tried to buy 500 copies of the Villager issue which carried the original account, but unfortunately we couldn't oblige. After making our distribution through the mails and on newsstands, we generally have only a few left over.)

Advertising man Ben Glassman of Skokie believes whole-heartedly in "spreading the word"-in bold type, if possible. This is in the tradition of dedicated ad men. Anyway, when his wife Joan had a birthday recently he headlined it on the front pages of various Chicago newspapers, as per the scene below.

We don't know how Ben manipulated those headlines - and we also don't know how wife Joan took such blatant publication of her age.

ALL PHOTOS, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF HATS BY MARIE WHICH WAS PHOTOGRAPHED BY W.C. MARTIN OF SKOKIE ARE BY NORMAN KNABUSCH.

Gals Really Go HIGH HAT

Hats are rising, with soft silhouettes costarring with brilliant colors in fall millinery.

Globular is another shape new hats take as the tall shares with the bloused to balance new ready to wear. Softness is the rule, with many hats that can be folded like a handkerchief.

Empire is the word for millinery as in dress. High drum crowns of Directoire inspirations, empire poke bonnets, bloused mob caps, modified postillion crowns with close side rolled brim—all can ride on the empire band wagon.

The lofty toque with manipulated crown, draped, pouffed or tiered is still with us. Mediums from furry bodies to real fur, from satin to golden brocade and lame, go into these new soft, high hats.

Returning is the pill box with new height and roundness: Revival of small hats is marked in new versions.

And there are feathers – all over everything – making for a truly, effeminate look.

Tatiana's green and rose printed velvet with green ostrich plume and single rose to decorate the front a la Parisian is worn by Bonnie Smith.

Hats by Marie features this side draped, soft crown Simonetta velvet charmer. A Borreallis jeweled pin dashes across the side bow. Marie Buffehr of Skokie, models her own Model Hat Co. creation. Sold locally, the hat comes in almost 30 different fall shades.

A Chicago design by Luci-Puci is modeled by Mickie Ellis. A multi-colored feathered-wig hat in tones of blue, iris, green and petunia.

On the left, Vickie Choconas models a Maison Virot, Paris, 1895 version of a befeathered chappeaux. On the right, Mrs. Lawrence Dobson, regional director for the Fashion Group of Chicago, models the current version in a Tatiana, black velvet cap, with two long ostrich plumes attached by a black velvet bow.

Emme's evening beret, modeled by Nickie Ellis, has black net completely covered with black jet discs. A black satin bow is in the center front of this attention getting "wig."

A MAN'S A MAN

Every man at some time or another likes to achieve that "rugged look." Now, with ruggedwear jackets and short coats in great profusion on the fall fashion scene, he'll have his chance.

Among these are feather-weight washable nylon and poplin blends lines with fleece and pile. For colder days, there are big suedes with rich linings and bold fleece collars.

Some of the collars are of real raccoon or

The now familiar suburban and car coats are going conservative with regular buttons replacing the novelty fasteners of yesterday.

In sweaters, the Scandinavian influence seems to be here to stay with bulky bigness and a hand-knitted look-

However, the gentleman must keep in mind that sports wear - jackets or sweaters - is not for business wear.

He has, in his "out-of-office" time, such handsome items to choose from as the striped wool tweed sports coat with yellow wool challis lining. It has a matching wool challis ascot. Or there are the blazers in three and four-button styles. Navy, of course, is perfect in fine wool flannel. Navy with maroon stripes are quite big.

There are the highly individualized two-button sports coats.

As for colors - almost anything goes. Tweeds in topcoats just cry for subdued burnt orange on brown and bright reds to burgundy on grays. Brown and black stripes team up as do blue and black. Sports jackets go green-muted and olive. Black and white bold herringbone patterns in wool warm up to suburban coats.

Sweaters flash brilliant yellows, reds and

For those who prefer it, "Ivy" returns in the traditional "natural shoulder" tuxedo with flapped pockets and center vent. Most Ivy advocates prefer the notched lapel jacket.

The man who must wear a suit to business will be right in the trend that's been building up the last two or three years. That is that casual clothes just don't belong in business or the daylight world of affairs, or vice versa.

But even if the man wants to keep things informal, there is the consolation of built-in comfort along with the elegance trend.

New suit models combine the best of the English tradition with the Continental detailing, together with America's own fames ease of fit.

For the dressier look, there are subtle weaves of fine worsteds, blends of silk and worsted, and suggestion of iridescent glow created by blends of mohair and silk yarns.

Colors are in medium to dark shades of gray, blue or brown.

The shoulder look is a natural one. Stripes are popular, but are neat and small.

An lvy blazer suit in midnite blue with metal blazer buttons and red paisley lining sets the fall theme at the Dennis Store for Men in Skokie.

Dennis Rivelli is his own best model as be carries a cotton poplin campus coat that is plaid lined...a must for school, town or office.

Right:

The newest in top coats is a new short length. Notable is the lack of breast pocket. In warm, practical, lightweight wool. The brushed felt hat is a Dobbs' two-color style.

Smartly styled and multi-purposed is this Co-Ordo sports suit modeled by Jack Geren, Skokie police officer. The good looking jacket comes in maroon and black stripes, charcoal grey stripes, char-grey plaid and char-brown plaid. Pants are of a solid matching color of all wool. The outfit is featured by Larry's Men's and Boy's Shop in Skokie.

FASHION DECREES:

NO WAIST

According to fashion forecasts, it looks like the ladies are going to go waist-less this season. Waistline demarcations will wander from high to low, but seldom will hit the normal waistline.

The Women's Wear Daily's analysis for The Villager of fall-winter fashion trends shows that although the trapeze and the chemise stand out as the two main silhouettes, high waist treatments promise to be most important in developing the two shapes.

Compromise silhouettes with fitted fronts and loose backs are in evidence. Variations on the straight sheath include hemline flounces, tunic effects, drapery and an ensemble built around the unfitted shape.

Costumes are still important. Most emphasis seems to be on the diversified shapes and lengths of jackets.

For cocktail and evening dresses, skirt width is more pronounced than in daytime clothes.

Fabrics were never more luxurious, including soft satin and metal brocades, warp printed velvets and satins, moire, crepes, chiffon and taffetas.

In sportswear, the chemise plays an important part, with torso outlined, silver slim hips and very narrow skirts.

A youthful, flattering look rapidly gaining popularity is the "double trapeze"—the skirt, either pleated or gored and underscored with stiffening, topped with a short boxy overblouse or jacket.

Fall knitwear - sweaters, dresses and coats - all subscribes to the slim and unfitted line, varied sometimes by a bloused or oval back, a high or low waistline marking big collars and pleats occasionally.

In sweaters, the long, unfitted silhouette prevails. There is much interest in shaggy surface yarns.

Mr. Stanley of Skokie features this walking suit by Monarch. Model Nancie Henry effectively wears the panorama tweed suit with new mohair loop surface. The coat, which can be worn separately, has a cocoon back, shaped by open darts. The skirt, in true fall fashion, is pencil slim.

Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, begins at sundown Sept. 14, thus starting a 10 day period when Jews throughout the world observe the religious New Year. The period culminates with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, on Wednesday, Sept. 24.

Following are schedules of temples and synagogues throughout the Niles Township

Sixteen inch softball increased in popularity and participation as 17 teams competed in three different leagues, compared with 9 teams in two leagues last year.

LLT Tickets Go on Sale

Jack Alogna, past president and season ticket manager for Lincolnwood Little Theatre, announces that residents of Lincolnwood will be given priority in the purchase of season tickets. The season will consist of the production of three Broadway smash hits, "Harvey," "Country Girl," and "The Desk Set."

A special letter with order blank for season tickets is being sent to all Lincolnwood homes. The price of a season ticket is four dollars and represents a savings over single ticket price. The season ticket also allows the purchaser the selection of preferred performance nights.

All productions are held in Lincoln Hall Auditorium which has a limited seating capacity. At present it is possible to run each play for only three evenings.

The popular Friday and Saturday performances are usually sold out. This being Lincolnwood's own theatre, Lincolnwood residents have requested and deserve the preferred dates on a season ticket basis.

MG Theatre In Festival

Tryouts were held for the Morton Grove Community Theatre's one act play, "Warzel Flummery." The play will be presented at the North Shore Little Theatre One Act Play festival on Friday, Sept. 26 and Saturday, Sept. 27, in the North Shore Country Day School, Green Bay and Dundee Rds., Winnetka.

During the festival, six drama organizations from the North Shore will present one act plays. Tickets for the festival are $1 and are good for both evenings.

On Sept. 13, a party will be held in the Green Room of the Winnetka Women's Club building, Oak and Maple Sts., Winnetka, for members particiin the festival. Prospective members and regular members are urged to contact Mrs. Shirley Sluizer, OR 3-1251 to make reservations.

Dr. and Mrs. Ray Bond who are touring Russia, informed The Villager in a recent letter, of having heard Adlai Stevenson speak in a Baptist Church there. Embassy we left Moscow Monday night by train for Kiev. the Green City. It is the capital of the Ukraine, prosperous republic with 48 million population. Kiev was occupied by the Germans for over 700 days. Another overnite train ride brought us to Kharkov where we were greeted by a band and floral pieces. We were disappointed to find they were greeting instead a troupe of 80 Polish actors and actresses.

"From Kharkov we flew 1500 miles to Tbilisi in Georgia where we found mountains and fruit and an appearance like southern California. Here we were taken 60 miles to Stalin's birthplace, Gori, also to a collective farm. It was a farm of 5500 acres but 900 farmers. They work on the incentive system as many units of work per month as they care to do being compensated accordingly.

"Another train ride from Tbilisi brought us to fabulous Sochi, the greatest resort city in the USSR.

"The Russian people have been very friendly and helpful even to privileged Americans under present tense conditions. Men and women have given us seats for example in public transportation. They have always been patient with our inability to speak their language or make them understand.

"We are both well and safe."

Ready By-Laws for New MG Homeowners Group

Permanent by-laws of the Central Civic Organization, Morton Grove property owners' group, have been approved by the by-laws committee and will be submitted to the membership for adoption at the September meeting of the organization, according to Donald J. Buckley, president.

A regular meeting of the group is scheduled for Sept. 24 at Luxembourg Gardens restaurant, he said.

The CCO membership, totaling nearly 150 home owners, elected new officers at its last meeting. In addition to Buckley, they are: Philip Marzulla, vice president; Charles Clary, Sr., treasurer, and Mrs. Sumner Nudel, secretary.

Membership in the organization is open to residents of Morton Grove living north of Dempster Street and east of Austin Avenue except for the area east of Central between Dempster and Church, whose residents are represented by the North East Property Owners Association.
