THE HELLYER SAY

By ART HELLYER

Mrs. Jean Knapp, president of the Skokie Valley Business and Professional Women's Club, recently guested on our morning radio show (WEAW.....8:15-9:00 A.M.). The next day we received a letter from one of our listeners and I thought this might be the place to answer it. A Dr. M. Hobie asks me if I believe in clubs for women. Yes, I do, if everything else fails.

We sipped java early one a.m. last week with Bill and Joe Osmanski, former great full backs of the Chicago Bears. Bill scored the first touchdown in that fantastic 73-0 rout of the Washington Redskins back on December 8, 1940. The brothers made mother Osmanski mighty proud when they starred with the 1946 world champion Bears. They are both soft-spoken New Englanders who wouldn't harm a fly, and huge though they are, it was difficult for Elaine and me to imagine them ripping tremendous holes in the opposition line and bowling fellow humans over like tenpins. Dr. Bill and Gordon Tech coach Joe seem to feel that Galimore, Casares, and company are going to do well this year. We sincerely hope they're right. As of this moment the Bears look better after their first four games that they have for many seasons. I still tremble a bit though when I think of the Baltimore game a few weeks ago. The two best defenses in pro football met headon. Final score.....51-38.

Perhaps I should have cleared this with Sheryl Leonard because she seems to be in charge of book reviews for our beloved newspaper. Before you and the finance company share ownership of your next car be sure to read "The Insolent Chariots" by John Keats. As Sterling Quinlan's book is to TV, so this one is to the automobile. The author tells you what Detroit thinks of you, the purchaser. He discusses today's built-in obsolescence of design, the appalling brutality of Detroit's relations with its serf-dealers, and the dealer's view of his customer as the ultimate chump. Even if your only ride in a car has been in the trunk you must read this book.

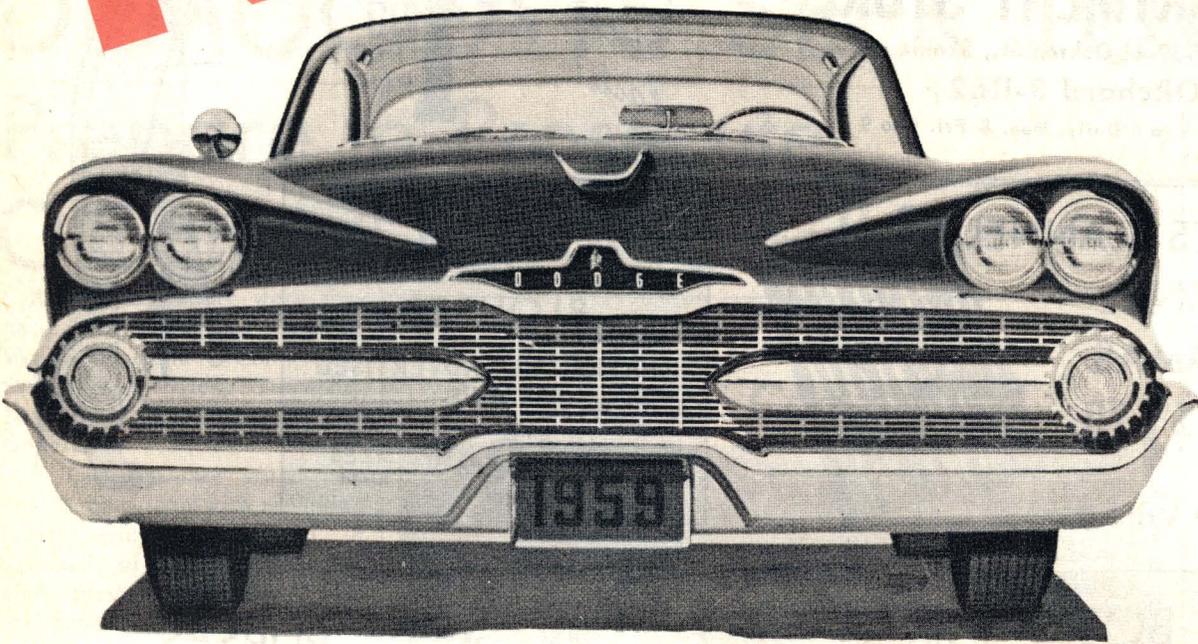

I have another letter here that says, "Dear Mr. Hellyer: Do automobiles grow on trees?" No they don't. They come from plants.

Have you heard about the wealthy Skokian who went to England and bought a new Rolls Royce complete with chauffeur. He brought it back to our fair city, but a month later was spotted by friends, strolling down Park Avenue in New York. They asked him what he was doing in the east. "I've just put my Rolls and the chauffeur on the Queen Mary for England," he said. "It's time for the thousand mile check."

If Skokie keeps adding gas stations we'll soon have a new village slogan - "Two cars in every garage, and a gas station in every block."

DEMOCRATS SEEK TOWNSHIP SWEEP

Prepare to Prosecute O'Connell and Godell

by TOM BRANAGAN

Authorities today were preparing to prosecute Police Magistrate John O'Connell of Skokie and Niles Township Justice of the Peace Sidney Godell.

A Cook County grand jury has charged them with misusing their offices. O'Connell is accused of malfeasance and embezzlement and Godell with malfeasance.

Both men denied any improper acts. O'Connell told reporters he felt that the charges stemmed from "pressure to put over the judicial 'reform' constitutional amendment in Tuesday's election." He said he was confident he would vindicate himself, that he and Godell were "whipping boys."

State's attorney's spokesmen said O'Connell is accused of embezzling $8,423.18 in fines collected in 1955, 1956 and 1957. The money should have been transmitted to the state treasurer.

O'Connell turned over $8,423.18 after officers of the state's attorney's office completed their investigation.

The malfeasance charges stem from failure of Godell and O'Connell to produce records pertaining to their judicial operations and to testify before the grand jury, said the state's attorney's office.

Authorities made no immediate announcement as to their possible successors in office, if any.

O'Connell and Godell, both Republicans, have figured in a number of lively local political battles. The most recent, also a joint venture, was a court action directed against the village of Skokie, whose trustees had decreed that they should pay $100 a day rental for courtroom space since they, in effect, conduct a private business in hearing state police cases. The matter is still in court, although O'Connell and Godell have negotiated a "gentleman's agreement" with the village fathers for space in the village hall.

Godell, an advertising man, has been a justice of the peace for several years. O'Connell, a lawyer and president of a savings and loan association, also is a veteran of the police magistrate's post.

'Secret Circle' Winner (Another Coming Up)

The lady in the circle in the above picture will find something to cheer her if she pauses at the Villager office before 1 p.m. Monday, Nov. 3, deadline for claiming $25 in trade with one of the advertisers in this issue of the paper. If it is unclaimed by 1 p.m. Monday, Nov. 3, the $25 in trade will be added to next week's award, which will then amount to $50 in merchandise and will be cumulative up to $100 if the individual pictured in the "Secret Circle" photo fails to identify himself or herself.

Last week's winner, Chester Middaugh, of 7444 Kilbourn, Skokie, elected to get $25 worth of groceries from the new K. & K. Village Meat Market, 6013 Dempster, Morton Grove. Bon appetit! Mr. Middaugh.

Remember: It always pays to subscribe to and read the Villager.

George R. Coleman (right) of The Villager advertising staff, presents $25 credit memorandum to Middaugh in The Villager office. That's Mrs. Middaugh on the left. The merchandise award is the second in the weekly "Secret Circle" promotion being conducted by the Villager.

The possibility that for the first time in history Niles Township would "go Democratic" enlivened Tuesday's otherwise calm election picture.

Voters will go to the polls to select a U.S. representative for this district, plus a number of state and county officials.

Also on the ballot are propositions to pay a state bonus to Korean war veterans and a "judicial amendment" to revamp the state's local courts—doing away with the present justice-of-the-peace system.

Democratic officials were optimistic that the township would swing into the Democratic column this year—an amazing development, if it comes about, considering the heavily Republican complexion of the area in the past.

Martin "Scotty" Krier, township Democratic committeeman, said "all indications" point to a Democratic victory locally. He recalled that in last spring's judicial election, Democrat John Gutknecht, running for Superior Court judge, outpolled his Republican opponent—a history-making verdict for the township.

Krier said that in addition to regular growth of the party locally, there is a "growing dissatisfaction" with Republican national policies that should aid the Democratic ticket

The Republican committeeman, Arthur Simmons, disagreed, saying the township "definitely will go Republican." Simmons, a state representative seeking re-election, said the GOP margin would "approach 2 to 1 over the Democrats."

Simmons said he felt that recent charges against two Skokie court officers, both Republicans, would have no noticeable effect on the outcome of the vote locally. The two, Justice of the Peace Sidney Godell and Police Magistrate John O'Connell, have been charged, Godell for malfeasance and O'Connell for malfeasance and embezzlement, in connection with the collection of fines.

However, the indictments were expected to have some affect on the Blue Ballot proposition to revise the judicial system. Proponents of the proposition were using the case as an argument for so-called "court reform."

Of most interest in Niles Township was the race for three state representative posts. The incumbent Republicans, Simmons and publisher Bill Carroll of Park Ridge, are opposed by Democrats Bernard Peskin of Northbrook and Harry L. Kinser of Des Plaines in this, the sixth district. Thus one of the candidates will be eliminated.

Simmons is considered a top vote-getter for the GOP slate. Peskin and Kinser were hammering hardest in Carroll's territory, hopeful that both would sweep in on a Democratic tide.

Peskin, a comparative newcomer to politics, has developed strong support on the basis of a well organized and forceful campaign on school and public institution issues. A youthful lawyer, he is considered by party regulars to be one of the area's most promising political prospects.

For Kinser, this is the se-

Fire Laddie Anderson Quits, Reconsiders

A Skokie fire department lieutenant submitted his resignation as an officer, then decided to think it over after a meeting with Chairman Ed Lynskey and other members of the village fire and police commission.

Lt. John Anderson, 34, said in a letter to the commission and to other village officials that he considered the fire department inefficient in many respects. He said he did not want to continue as a lieutenant, but that he would like to stay on the force.

Anderson met with the fire and police commission Tuesday night and said later he would reconsider the resignation. The commission arranged to meet with Anderson and other members of the department to hear any complaints of inefficiency.

The Chicago Daily News quoted Anderson as saying the deaths of Mrs. Marilyn Hughes and her two children in a fire Oct. 2 were "the last straw" that led to his resignation decision. However, Anderson told the commission he did not make this statement to the newspaper, according to Lynskey.

Democrats Acceptable Socially Now, Says Senator Douglas

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill), in a Skokie appearance that keynoted a Democratic rally Monday night, declared that "Republicans have lost their 'secret weapon' in the suburbs."

That weapon, he said, was the belief "that Democrats heretofore were thought socially unacceptable."

Douglas drew a standing ovation from the crowd, estimated at 500, as he entered the Nilehi East assembly hall. Police officials said several hundred other persons showed up but left because they were unable to find parking facilities.

"Ask your Republican friends who was the worst mayor of Chicago", Douglas said.

"They'll have to answer, 'William Hale Thompson'."

"Ask your Republican friends who was the worst governor of Illinois—and there is likely to be competition for this—and they will have to answer 'Len Small', although there are some close seconds," Douglas added.

"At the national level we have that walking air conditioner from New Hampshire, Sherman Adams," Douglas said.

The senior senator from Illinois said people are turning to the Democratic party because the GOP has broken every promise they have made to the voters.

He cited that it was the 1957 Democratic Congress that cut Ike's budget $5 million and again in 1958 cut it $6 million.

Douglas pointed out that the three labor leaders is ill repute—Beck, Hoffa and Hutchinson—are all registered Republicans.

Republicans said they would stabilize the cost of living—and they haven't, the Senator declared.

"The Republicans have accomplished the amazing feat of having a recession and inflation going at the same time," he added.

Other speakers at the rally included Sheriff Joseph Lohman, candidate for state treasurer; Bernard M. Peskin, candidate for state representative; Robert Jerome Dunne and Bernard Korzen, running for re-election as judge and clerk, respectively, of the Probate Court, and Francis S. Lorenz, candidate for county treasurer.

Daniel Ryan, running for re-election as president of the county board, and other top Democratic leaders also made brief appearances.

Simmons' Record Cited In Bid for Re-Election

Supporters of Arthur E. Simmons cite his background and record as qualifications for re-election as 6th district representative in the state legislature.

A statement issued at GOP campaign headquarters said:

"In his current term, Simmons has supported the anti-racket picketing bill, opposed legalized gambling, and has worked on educational legislation, military and veteran affairs and on state licensing procedures.

"He is a supporter of the 'blue ballot' constitutional amendment. He is a member of four house committees, including education, election and re-apportionment, military and veteran affairs, and licensing.

"He is also a member of the Randolph Commission, which is studying suburban problems as related to Chicago metropolitan expansion."

Simmons' background includes the village presidency of Skokie, positions as village trustee and clerk of Niles Township, among other important community offices. He is Republican committeeman for Niles Township and president of the real estate firm of Arthur E. Simmons, Inc.

representative from this district, incumbent Mrs. Marguerite Stitt Church, Republican, is considered a heavy favorite over another young lawyer, eyepatch-wearing Laurence Kusek of Park Ridge.

Sheriff Joseph Lohman, running for state treasurer on the Democratic ticket, has made a number of appearances in the area, scoring his opponent, Warren Wright, a forceful campaigner himself, for, among other things, accepting "Orville Hodge money" in previous campaigns.

P.J. Cullerton, appointed county assessor in the wake of the Frank Keenan scandal, has been an effective campaigner in this, his first exposure to suburbia. A 25-year veteran of the Chicago city council he has built up a huge following in the city and has won approval (but not endorsement) from the Chicago Tribune—a rare accomplishment for a Democrat—for his handling of finance committee matters.

Robert Jerome Dunne and Bernard Korzen, Democrats running as a team for judge and clerk, respectively, of the Probate Court also are widely respected in the normally Republican suburban areas and undoubtedly will have some influence on Democratic plans for inroads against the GOP.

Republican Charles F. Chaplin, the genial former Northbrook mayor running for president of the Cook County board of commissioners against incumbent Daniel Ryan, was expected to lead the GOP vote-getters in the suburbs, but to fight a losing battle against the equally genial Ryan and the huge Chicago Democratic vote.

Of more than passing interest was the race for sheriff, where Jack Muller, the famed traffic cop, is running as an independent against Peter J. McGuire, Republican, and Frank Sain, Democrat. Muller's name is a household word (sometimes a bad one) while the other two candidates are comparatively unknown. The three-way contest shapes up mostly as a test of the value of personal publicity as opposed to party organization. Abetting Muller's chances is the fact that neither McGuire nor Sain is a particularly effective campaigner.

Otherwise, the election shaped up mostly as a Republican vs Democratic party battle. Generally, both slates were wisely chosen—with the exception of one of the Democratic choices for sanitary district trustee, Vince Garrity, who as a public servant appears to be a good disc jockey.

Parade Marks GOP's Final Campaign Week

A musical caravan, with lots of music, handshaking, waving, but virtually no speeches, marked a Republican parade through the Niles Township area Tuesday.

Arthur E. Simmons, candidate for reelection to the state house of representatives, led the group to the Lincolnwood village hall, where Simmons introduced Lincolnwood mayor Henry Proezel, who welcomed the candidates and their retinue.

Among those present were Warren Wright, candidate for state treasurer; Gerald W. Smith, running for state superintendent of public instruction; John W. Carroll, candidate for state representative, and Congresswoman Marguerite S. Church.

Next stop was Skokie, where they paused at village hall for a word of welcome from Mayor Reiter and members of his group. There was more handshaking, waving and music—but no speeches.

The motorcade then took a post-prandial peregrination through the various precincts of Skokie, winding up about 2:30 p.m. at the Old Orchard shopping center.

Next stop was the Morton Grove village hall, where they shook hands all around, waved and then followed a Morton Grove police escort through town.

cond time out. He lost a bid for state representative two years ago, largely because most Democratic strength in the district was organized by Krier's township organization behind the successful candidacy of Thomas J. Halpin of Skokie. Halpin was dropped from this year's ticket after he deserted the regular township organization and attempted, unsuccessfully, to unseat Krier as committeeman.

Some things a woman does while driving:

She sets the rear-view mirror so that she can see herself rather than what's going on behind her.

If she's on the way to work in the morning, she can also navigate while putting on makeup, nail polish, combing her hair and readjusting her seams.

Sometimes, if the music on the radio is good, she'll keep time with her foot and move her shoulders about to the rhythm. Or, she might possibly sing along with the recording artist.

Of course, if the windows of the car are closed, the sight of a moving body with lips mouthing unheard sounds can be quite ridiculous.

If the driver is like us, she will be what is known as a "stop light" reader. This means you keep a book beside you in the car and when you are stopped by a red light, you utilize those few moments to do some reading.

The average female driver is quite capable of keeping an eye on the road, an eye on other traffic and a hidden third eye on the children in the back seat when she turns around to tell them to "sit down and stop fighting or I'll beat the daylight out of you when I get home."

All of these things a woman motorist is able to accomplish only because she is basically a good driver.

Some things a man does while driving:

Nothing. Outside of having mastered the art of being able to drive with only one arm, the average male driver needs all his faculties to know what he's doing.

High fashion has not only penetrated the salon, it is making its way into the home, the shop, the office and now the bistros.

Some of the smartest dressed gals we have seen are the pretty hostesses at the Blackhawk Restaurant. In empire blue tweed wool sheaths, they look more like mannequins than hostesses.

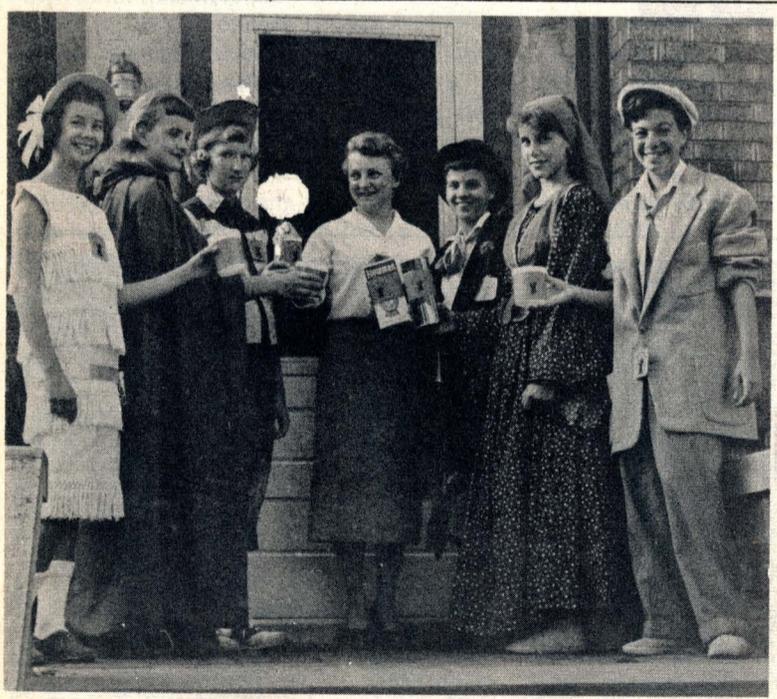

That ace photographer, Norman Knabusch, has been trying to talk some of the female employees of The Villager into posing for photos while operating a hula-hoop. The only gimmick - no hoop.

Read an article recently that explained how a widow can keep from being lonely - by keeping active and thinking of others.

This is fine. However, loneliness is not a state of physical being, rather a state of mental existence. It's amazing how busy a person can be, how much they can laugh and even enjoy themselves, and yet be terribly, terribly lonely.

When we are lonely, it is not for crowds or things, but rather for an individual. While activity can lessen or cover up the loneliness, it can never completely erase it.

If I hear a funny story..... And laugh a bit too loud..... If it seems I'm always smiling..... As if there never was a cloud..... If I can take as well as give it..... When it comes to repartee..... If I give one the impression..... All I want to do is play..... If folks think I'm sometimes brazen..... Inclined to act a bit blase..... Like most women I'm an actress..... And don't really feel that way.

When you see these smiling faces at your door - be generous. Among the many youngsters who will be collecting for UNICEF instead of for themselves on Halloween are these girls from the eighth grade of Upper Lincoln School. Left to right, they are Lauri Taylor, Dianne Petersen, Marsha Johnson, Mrs. Arthur E. Petersen, 7860 Niles Center Rd., who is making her donation, Holly Lassen, Carol Fink and Rochelle Amado. Costumes young people throughout the area will be "trick or treating" for UNICEF, the program that aids children all over the world.

A "Skokie Styled Hoedown" has been planned by the Brotherhood of Temple Judea, for Saturday, Nov. 1, at the Devonshire Community Center, 4400 Grove St., Skokie.

The main doorprize will be "Holiday for Two," at Oakton Manor Resort on Lake Peewaukee, Wis. Refreshments will be served. For tickets contact Edward Warren, 8841 Kilpatrick, OR 4-1398.

Aids Wife — It's a Boy!

Edwin Baron of the now famous "five-day sleep" experiment with the Gary housewife, galloped to the rescue of his wife this week.

Mrs. Baron, taken to the Michael Reese Hospital over the weekend for a caesarean operation, suddenly developed a heart condition, high blood pressure and a fast pulse which made it impossible for doctors to proceed with the surgery.

Baron hypnotized his wife and the next day she went back to the operating room where she chatted and waited for the first cry of their new son, James — weighing 7 lbs. and 6 ozs.

Baron, who heads the Hypnotism Institute of Chicago, has helped many prospective mothers to have their children with the help of hypnosis, but hadn't thought of using it on his wife until the complications set in.

The Barons live at 6626 Keating Ave., Lincolnwood.

When the Chicago Mental Health Foundation, Michael Reese Hospital held its 'Taste 'N Test' luncheon recently, it had the assistance of such capable hands as those of left to right, Mrs. Lewis Lilienthal, 4938 B Crain St., Skokie, Mrs. Richard Berns, 4409 Lunt, Lincolnwood, and Mrs. Ernest Fritzshall, 9441 Kenneth, Skokie, program chairman.

Marching Along Together

-- FOR THIRTY-THREE YEARS

'KINGS JESTERS' - GEORGE HOWARD AND SKOKIE'S FRITZ BASTOW AND JOHN RAVENCROFT - HAVE NICE WORK, IF YOU CAN GET IT.

When it comes to the ideal working day, a couple of Skokie men would appear to have it made.

They're on the job from 8:45 to 9 a.m., and from 3:45 to 4 p.m. each week day—a total of 30 minutes "working" time. But it's not all beer and skittles.

Francis L. "Fritz" Bastow of 5010 Louise and John A. Ravencroft of 4952 Coyle are members of the "King's Jesters" trio which attained fame in the 30's. They have never worked apart from one another in 33 years, but the nature of their work has varied. They began as instrumentalists in a small band, gained nationwide attention as a vocal group with Paul Whiteman, and now are chiefly engaged in acting on WBBM's zany Gold Coast radio program twice a day.

The third member of the trio, George Howard, lives in Chicago during the week and spends weekends in Rochester, Indiana, the home town where the Jesters got their start in 1925.

It was back in the era of raccoon coats and bathtub gin that the three high school friends teamed up as members of a band directed by George Howard's older brother, Ayrton. Bastow played guitar and banjo, Ravencroft clarinet and saxophone, and George Howard drums.

"We used to sing for our own amusement traveling to and from band jobs," Bastow recalled. "John had had training in harmony singing and we just picked it up. When we played college towns, we would do a lot of serenading and we got a lot of practice that way.

"In those days, singers used megaphones and the vocals weren't important to the band. Singing started to come into its own when records became popular."

Start Upward Climb

In 1929, as the financial world began to topple, a pianist named Ray McDermott heard the trio and persuaded them to go to his home town of Cincinnati and audition for radio station WLW. The audition resulted in two radio contracts, and the "Howard Trio" left the band and began what they thought would be a permanent job with the radio station.

"Those were the days when people used to call up from 20 miles away and say, 'You're coming in fine!'" Bastow smiled.

The trio was with the station just a year when their big break came.

Paul Whiteman's band had just made the movie, "The King Of Jazz", and its famed singing trio, the "Rhythm Boys," had remained on the west coast. (One of the Rhythm Boys was Bing Crosby.) Whiteman was looking for a new trio when his band was booked into a Cincinnati hotel.

"He either heard us on the air or someone told him about us," Ravencroft reminisced. "Any way, he called us; we sang for him, and two weeks later we joined the band.

"He was 'King of Jazz' and at first they were going to call us 'The King's Jazzsters,' but we did a lot of comedy material and someone suggested 'The King's Jesters.' The name stuck."

It stuck too well.

What's In A Name?

Whiteman's band, and the Jesters, came to Chicago and the singing, clowning trio won a number of radio contracts here in addition to their appearances with the band. Their popularity zoomed, and when Whiteman wanted them to sign a new three-year contract with no raise in pay, they declined.

so much of a performer's time, and he pays for every minute over that."

Washed Out By Soap Operas

When soap operas got a foothold in daytime radio, the Jesters decided to form a band and play hotel and dance dates.

"There was an established price for music and none for actors at that time," Bastow remarked, "so they could hire all the actors they wanted for $5 a show. We were used to several commercial shows a week, and we got down to two a week, we thought we'd better try something else."

The depression was hitting the entertainment business, and the hotel dining rooms—"which were nice lush places to play," Bastow said—weren't able to afford the big bands any more. The Jesters organized a small group, six men and a girl, which could offer variety—they furnished the floor show as well as dance music.

They played engagements at the Brown Hotel in Louisville, the St. Francis in San Francisco, and the Terrace Gardens in Chicago, among others. This cycle lasted until 1940, when they went back into radio as a singing group because music was coming back into its own on the air.

They had four commercial coast-to-coast shows a week with what is now ABC but was then the Blue Network of NBC. That lasted just a year when the young man starred on the series, Walter Patterson, was called into service.

"We contacted our old friends at CBS," Ravencroft said, "and Ben Bernie was just starting a show for Wrigley. That was our entrance to WBBM again, and we've been there ever since."

"So he got another trio, and we lost our name," Bastow said ruefully, "But we still had radio commitments. The first morning we went down to do the show, the studio informed us we couldn't use our name because Whiteman had wired them and said if we did, he would sue CBS.

"The name had gotten pretty big, and we went to lawyers to get it back, but we found we couldn't do anything about it. It set us back badly. We floundered around under many different names, most of them given us by various sponsors—the Pabst-ett Jesters, the O-Cedar Melody Men, the Realsilk Jesters, the Song Fellows. None of them caught on."

Meanwhile, Whiteman had given the "King's Jesters" name to another group, which failed to become the hit the Ravencroft-Bastow-Howard trio had. So Whiteman gave them the old "Rhythm Boys" title and sold the "King's Jesters" name back to its first owners. They had been nameless, really, for eight months, and their bookings had suffered.

Business picked up again, though, and the group was busy mostly in radio, until 1935. The winter of 1933-34 was particularly prosperous, when they were appearing regularly on six coast-to-coast commercial network shows a week.

"We also were perhaps the first singing group on the Breakfast Club," Ravencroft said. "That was considered punishment in those days—people didn't believe in morning radio. We used to come in from our work in hotels and it was such a short time before the show that we'd go to work in our tuxedos.

"It was nothing then to stay at the studio all night long trying to hammer out an idea to please a sponsor. Nowadays the sponsor is allotted

The present "Gold Coast show" began 12 years ago, and the Jesters have been with it for 11 of those years. They had always done a lot of clowning in their musical act, but their chore on Gold Coast is almost exclusively acting and has been all along.

"I wonder how we had the nerve," Ravencroft mused.

Both Ravencroft and Bastow moved to Skokie 13 years ago because they wanted a good school system for their children. Their ties to one another are strong. Each man married a girl he had known in high school back in Rochester,

1756 Campbell, Des Plaines and Marie DeRosa, of 6651 Tower Circle drive, Lincolnwood. Accompanist is Sid Nierman.

Indiana, and for a time the two couples lived in the same apartment building.

Bastow and Ravencroft even own a car together to travel to and from the studio. John drives one week, Fritz the next, and they share expenses.

They leave home each day at 7:20 a.m., rehearse about half an hour, and do the show. Then they glance over the next day's scripts and return home about 10. They leave again at 2:30 for the 3:45 show and get home around 4:50. And that's the day's work.

"Nice work if you can get it," the interviewer commented.

"Nice work if you can keep it," Ravencroft retorted. "There's a good deal of tension to it — 10 new scripts a week, and the short rehearsals, never knowing what character you will be thrown into and not being actors to begin with — and there's the split second timing. It's not such a breeze as it sounds."

Both Bastow and Ravencroft are grandfathers. Bastow's daughters are Jane Trausch, 25, of Glenview, and Susan Bach, 21, of Fort Wayne, Ind. Susan is the mother of 2½-year-old Andy. Ravencroft's daughter, Sandra Carnelli, 26, lives in Highland Park with her husband and two-year-old son, Craig. His son, John A. Ravencroft III, 21, is a senior at the University of Illinois.

Here're the boys as they were in 1925—thirty-three years ago—when they were called "Howard's

Both men are happy to see "the good old tunes" being played again.

Rock and roll? "We had rock and roll for many years before they ever called it that," Bastow declared. "We used to do it after hours in the hotel dining rooms but we never put it on the air. because it wasn't considered fit for the air. We thought it beneath the dignity of music to treat a good tune that way.

"In our time they thought about us and our jazz as they do about rock and roll now. We weren't accepted by many people then, but the kids liked it. Man, they really fought us on that 'noise', as they called it."

Now jazz is respectable, and the trio that formed so haphazardly years ago is still going strong. On November 4 Bastow, Ravencroft and Howard will have been together 33 years.

Man and boy; instrumentalist, singer and actor—they still feel here's no business like show business. And where else can you find the 30-minute day?

As part of Paul Whiteman's famed aggregation in the thirties Bastow and Ravencroft are shown as part of the group in front of what looks like the Edgewater Beach Hotel. Bastow is fourth

Hula Hoopla Waning? Not Yet!

The hoopla over hula hoops has had everybody gyrating lately, and young Tommy Dickert is one of the real experts.

Seven-year-old Tommy, a second grader at Fairview South, isn't content with one hoop—He's an expert at keeping two going at once. Photo No. 1 demonstrates his technique. A minimum of body motion is a sign of expertise in this free-swinging sport.

Picture No. 2 shows Tommy, son of the Howard J. Dickerts of 5047 Farwell, as a real hipster. Although the hula is thought of as a feminine accomplishment, two young ladies study Tommy's style with a mixture of disbelief and bafflement.

In Picture No. 3, Tommy is the center of feminine attention, none of it very congratulatory. Are those expressions envious, or are the girls making mental notes for the time when they can get their hands on two hoops at once?

Tommy's mastery of the twin circles isn't confined to body motion. In Picture No. 4, he executes a neat one-armed hoop-de-do, again provoking incredulity in a young lady.

JUDGE PORTER HANDS DOWN DECISION ON WOMEN

Simon S. Porter, the distinguished Justice of the Peace for Niles Township, really "laid down the law" to a group of 70 ladies recently.

He addressed members of the R.B. Rayburn Research Foundation at the Cork Restaurant in Skokie.

The greying jurist opened his speech by defining women and, incidentally, newspapers. Said Porter:

- "Women are like newspapers. Here's why -
- "1. They all have a definite form.
 - "2. They always have the last word.
 - "3. Back numbers are not in demand.
 - "4. They have great influence.
 - "5. You can't believe everything they say (Why, Si!)
 - "6. They're thinner than they used to be.
 - "7. They get along by advertising, and
 - "8. Every man should have his own and not try to borrow his neighbor's!"

This established, Porter went on to instruct the ladies on fashions. Using the illustrations appearing here, he offered the following salient observations:

BATON ART:

Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series of lessons on baton twirling by expert Ann Lenox, counsellor for the "Cougarettes" Sons of the American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps.

TWO HAND SPIN

The two hand spin is most important as it is the general foundation for the majority of all hand movements.

The baton is held in the right hand, ball to right, palm down, slightly above waist level. The fingers are wrapped around the shaft in a firm yet relaxed grip. The thumb is cupped underneath the shaft and touches the first finger.

The left hand is held palm up and above the right hand. To start the baton revolving, turn the wrist to the right and the baton will revolve one complete circle before it turns completely over the thumb. The left hand, which should have been standing by, palm up and above the right hand reaches in and grasps the baton just as it completes the roll over the thumb of the right hand.

half a circle.

The baton now in the right hand should be back to the first position of this lesson. Practice on this movement until there is no break in the continuity of the action. Also practice until a fair rate of speed is obtained.

"Pass around the Back"
 Next Lesson

Diane St. Pierre demonstrates the ease with which a "two hand spin" can be executed. Note that the fingers are wrapped around the shaft of the baton in a firm yet relaxed grip.

Home of the Month:

EXTENSIVE USE OF WOOD MAKES TRI-LEVEL OUTSTANDING

Cream colored face brick, white shingled roof, and attached double garage makes this tri-level home by B. Stromberg Construction Co., Inc., attractive as well as practical.

by SHERYL LEONARD

Honey toned ash paneling, combined with many other unusual and fascinating features, combine to make the model home constructed by B. Stromberg Construction Co., Inc., 5831 Dempster St., Morton Grove, one of beauty and practicality.

The balance of color and design starts with the cream colored face brick and white shingled roof of this tri-level home.

A green front door blends in color harmony with the white and green McKee door on the double attached garage.

Geraniums invite attention in the brick planter just outside the front door.

Slate Floor in Entry

A Jeweltone slate floor in the reception hall takes care that outside soil is not brought into the home. Unusual, too, is the fact that this entry provides easy access to every room in the home without having to cross one room to enter another.

From this attractive foyer, one can enter the living-dining area, the powder room, the kitchen, the activity room or the bedrooms on the upper level.

The living-dining room is situated in the back of the home, permitting private viewing of the outdoors through the 16 foot Thermopane ceiling to floor windows.

Ash Wood Makes Impact

The impact of the brown ash wood paneling is immediately felt in this room as it blends into the coloring of the ivory 12 foot Norman brick fireplace, with its raised hearth and log storage under the hearth.

Copper "bull's eye" spots in the sloped ceiling provide attractive and restful lighting.

Palmquist Furniture of Morton Grove, which furnished this model home, used contemporary furnishings in bronze, beige and burnt orange, with mahogany woods, as a perfect setting for this room.

The use of black Syrocco accessories on the brick wall of the fireplace added a distinctive touch.

A door from the dining area part of this room leads directly to a spacious porch.

Hand Painted Artistry

Ernest Noack, the artist whose work appears in many of the unusual homes in this area, created a Japanese scene on one wall of the powder room off of the entry. Here the ash wood is treated in a platinum finish bringing a light note to the cabinets that blends with the Formica counter top, white fixtures and grey accessories.

On the other side of the foyer is the cheerful, attractive and so very practical kitchen and breakfast area.

Japanese blossoms and butterflies, hand painted on a salmon colored background by Noack, grace the upper walls of the breakfast area, with the lower part of the wall paneled in the ash wood.

Built-in Units

A counter top cabinet separates this area from the kitchen where built-in Revco stainless steel double ovens, refrigerator, and freezer provide all the facilities for easy, gracious living.

Again the ash wood, this time in a platinum finish, gives a constantly meticulous look to the cabinets whose lack of hardware (they open by finger grip only) provides a clean, symmetrical look throughout the kitchen.

Pionite covered counter tops have tiny touches of gold dancing through the white back ground.

Six stairs down and one enters the recreation

The Formica topped long bar has a long, large shelf in back of it, complete with built-in sink.

Completely Utilitarian

The entire lower level of this house provides more than ample space not only for entertaining, but for utilitarian purposes.

The utility room houses a dryer, washer, heating unit, incinerator, and other appliances that go with the home itself in order to insure practical living.

This spacious lower level has a complete bath, with wood paneled walls, white fixtures and glass enclosed shower stall.

On the way upstairs to the upper bedroom level, one passes the sliding door guest closet at the stairs.

A black wrought iron hand rail goes along the seven stairs leading to the bedrooms, and at the head of the stairway is an attractive built-in planter. Twin copper lights illuminate the deep green plants.

Blue ceramic tile, yellow Formica counter tops and white fixtures are reflected in the full mirror over the sink in the bathroom. Yellows and browns are combined in the hand painted wall.

A sliding door opens on a built-in linen storage unit, and a built-in book shelf provides a conversation piece for this lovely bathroom

Bedrooms Bright and Spacious

Cream walls, clear oak flooring and triple sliding door closet makes the bedroom a wonderfully spacious, bright, room.

Turquoise and brown provide charming color for the simple, elegant lines of the bedroom suite.

Another linen closet is found in the hall separating the bedrooms.

A second bedroom is pleasantly finished with cocoa walls and brown, yellow and burnt orange accessories.

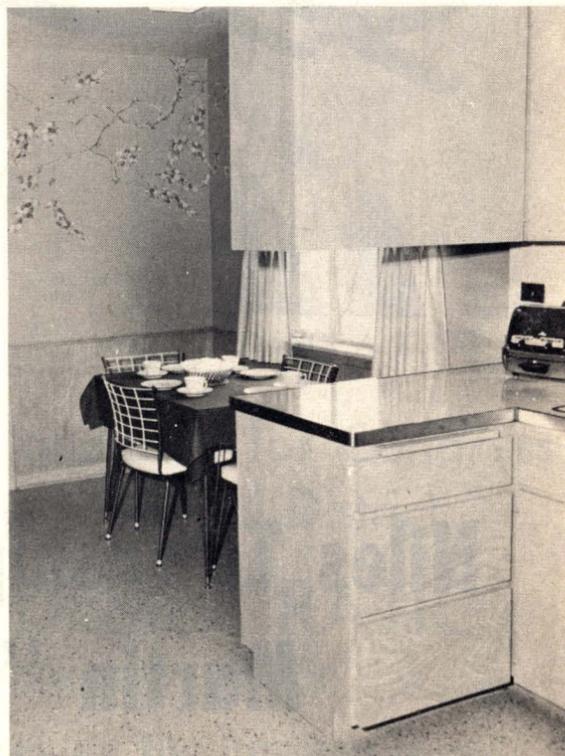

A third room can be used as a bedroom or a study. A sliding door closet, oyster white walls, peach and tan furnishings turn this room into one with a double purpose.

Throughout the house, all ventilated sash are in aluminum, and casement windows in the bedrooms lend charm as well as practicality.

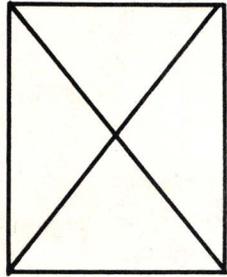

In order to do justice to this lovely, gracious home, it should be built on a lot having at least a 90 foot frontage.

The builder states he can duplicate this house for $37,500, including all of the built-in units, utilities and other equipment that are part of the house.

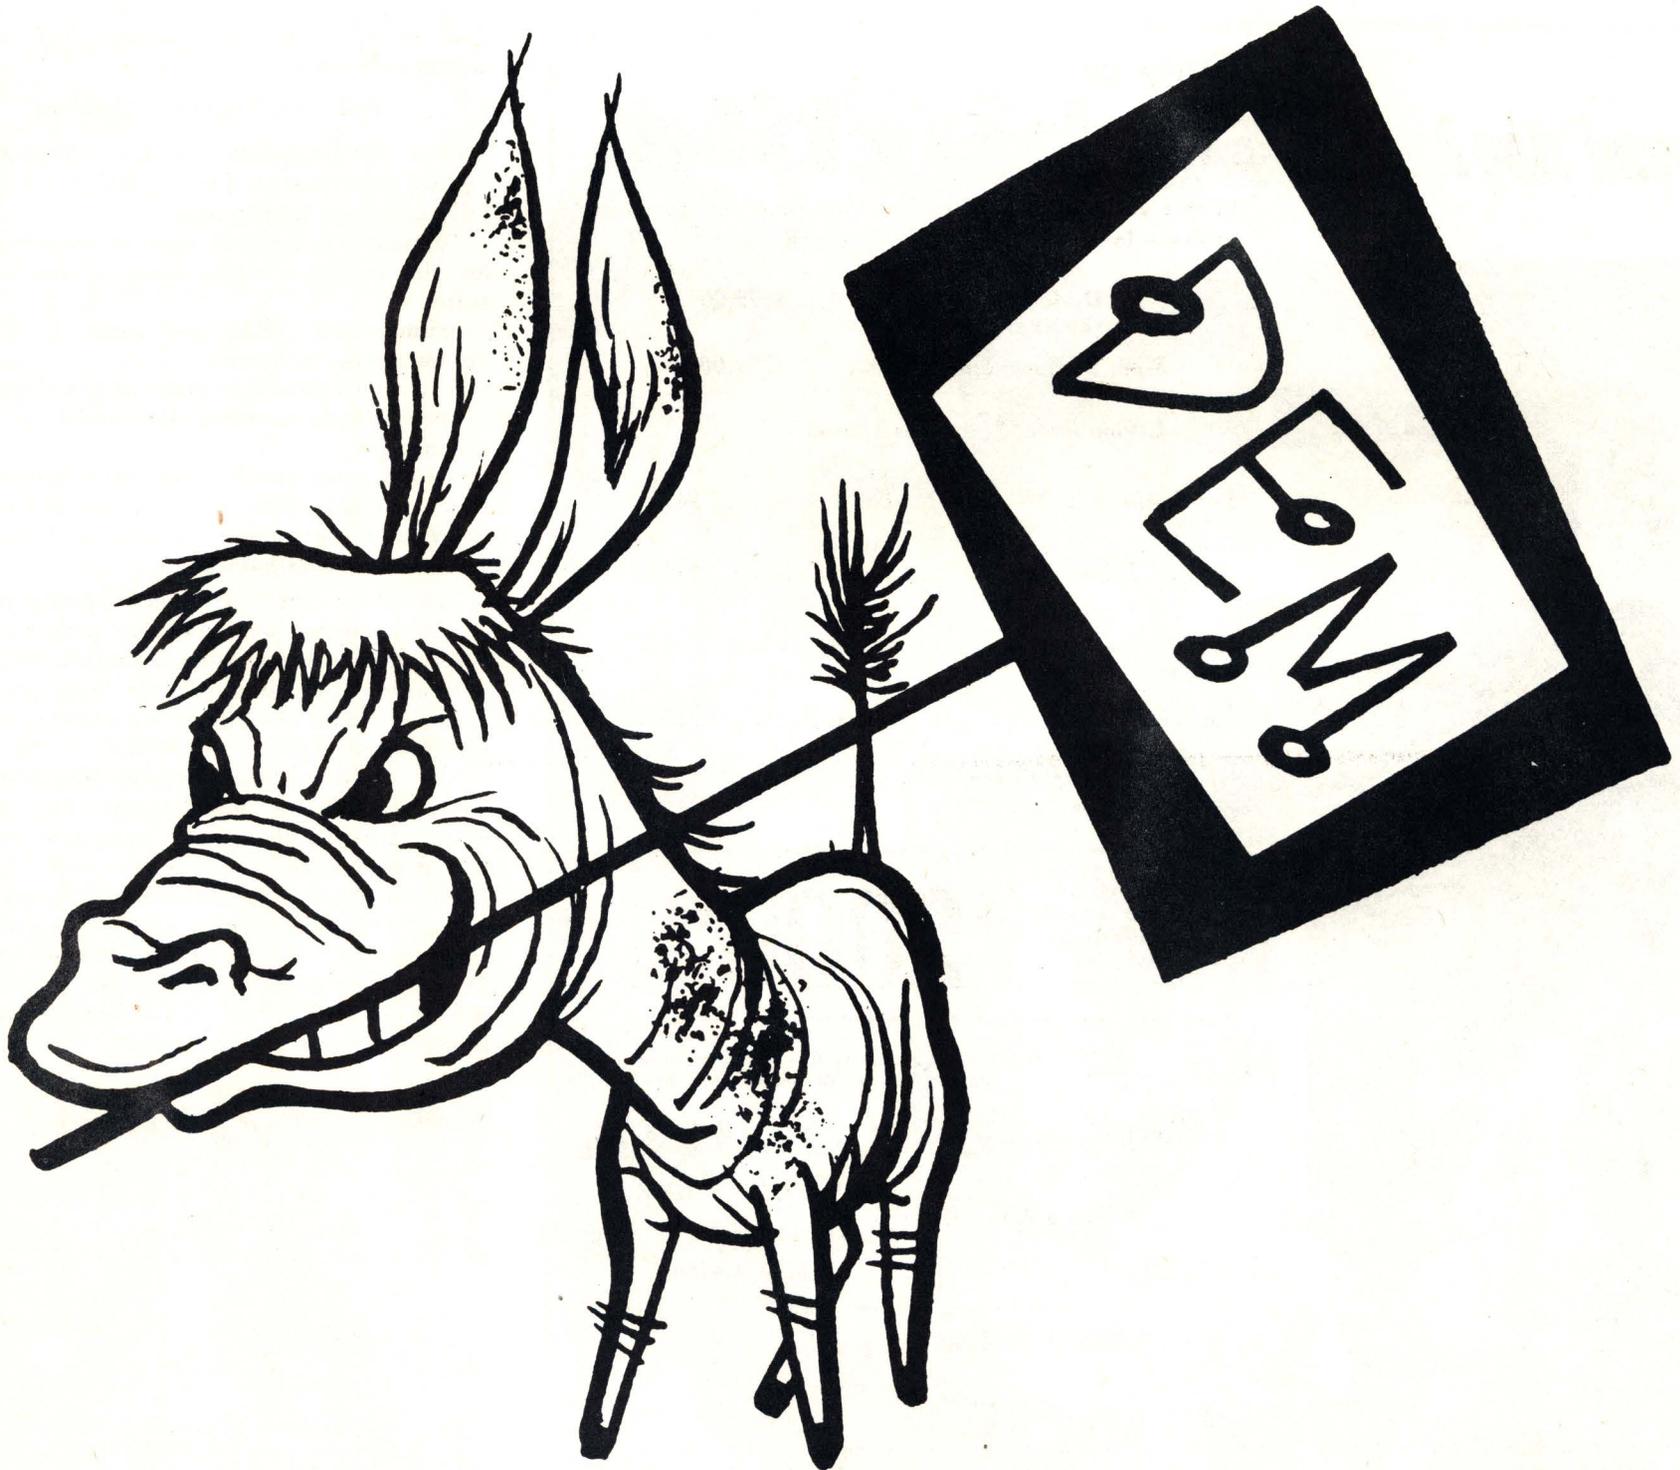

While not in what is called the "luxury priced" class, this home is well planned, cleverly designed, with an overall treatment of wood paneling and hand painted walls (just enough to add a touch of color), to provide luxurious living for almost any size family.

The breakfast room and kitchen off of the foyer combines the use of the ash wood with hand painted salmon colored walls by Noack.

LEE K-THORPE OPENS NEW FUR SALON

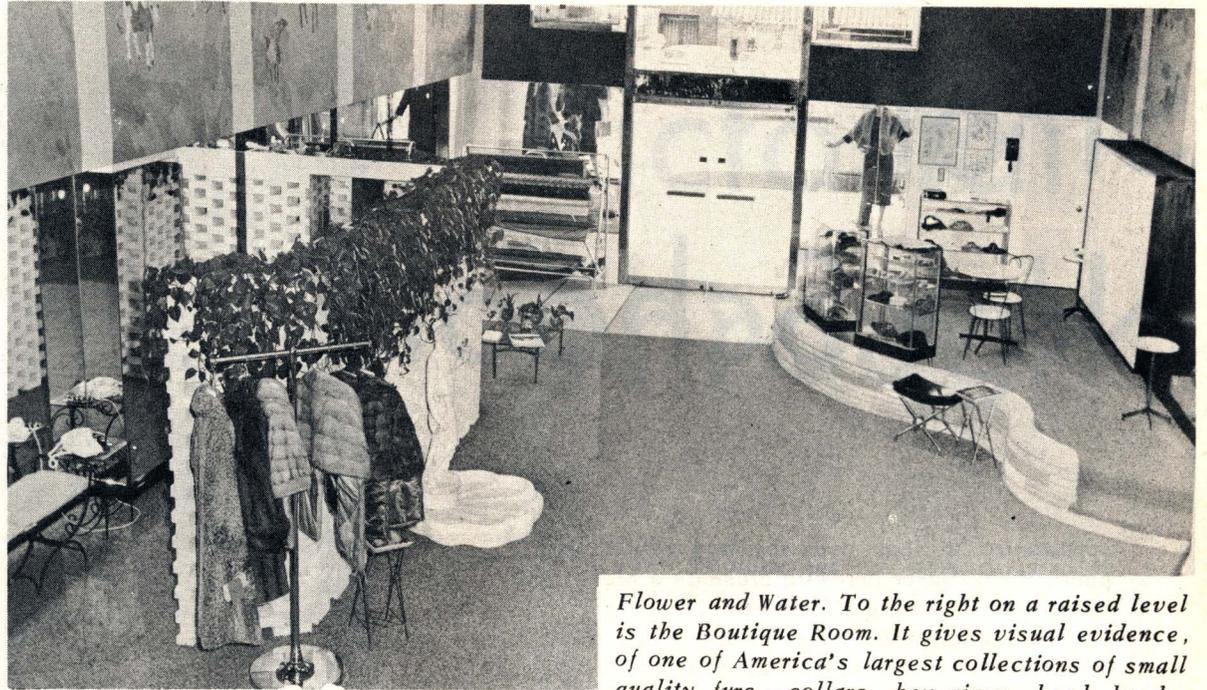

Thorpe Furs of Evanston, Chicago and New York City held a grand opening last week of its newest fur salon in downtown Evanston at 1606 Sherman Ave. The new address will also be the new main store of the 63-year-old firm which is the largest in metropolitan Chicago outside of the loop.

The former headquarters and fur salon at 710 Main St., Evanston, will be retained.

A Skokie resident, Jack Fisher, 9156 Kilpatrick, is general sales manager of the salon. The firm's president, Lee K-Thorpe of Evanston, is well known in the Niles Township for his civic activities, particularly as president of the North Suburban Human Relations Council.

Photos on this page show various interior views of the salon. In addition, the store contains basement workrooms where the manufacturing and repairing of fur pieces is carried on, and three storage vaults which are temperature and moisture controlled.

Total storage capacity at both Evanston stores is now 12,000 units. A new supersonic alarm system operating on the

It gives visual evidence of one of America's largest collections of small quality furs - collars, key rings, head bands, fur muffs, fur earrings, ties, purses and fur flowers. At the top of the picture at both the left and right can be seen the hand-painted murals depicting a world panorama of furs with respect to their natural habitat. The oils were painted by Thorpe's brother, Irving Louis Kriesberg of New York City.

This is the interior of the new Thorpe Furs salon in downtown Evanston. The view is from the mezzanine looking toward the entrance. To the left is the Corinthian Court, enclosed by white laced brick and with full mirrored interior. Philodendron plants are cascading down the wall. The white statuette is the Goddess of Thorpe had been looking for a downtown Evanston location for several years.

In reaching his decision, the nationally known furrier felt that the Evanston location was centrally located to serve his customers from the 36 north shore communities and also out-of-state customers who can utilize Evanston railroad facilities.

National C. of C. Delegate Shows Film In Morton Grove

"Need for accomplishments which cannot be obtained by an individual working alone is one reason for the existence of a Chamber of Commerce," Richard A. Anderson, regional representative, U.S. Chamber of Commerce told the Morton Grove Chamber of Commerce last Wednesday at its monthly meeting at Roberts Colonial Hotel.

Anderson brought with him a color sound film, descriptive of chamber of commerce work, which was enthusiastically received by the members and their wives.

A successful association of commerce just have a program of work geared to community work; an adequate budget; and an active membership. With only the first two points, a "dormant" chamber results, Anderson said. He urged more active participation by members in the work of the Morton Grove group.

Next meeting of the group will be Wednesday Nov. 26 at 6:30 p.m. at Vosnos Restaurant when Bill George, a Morton Grove man and a lineman with the Chicago Bears, will speak. There will be no meeting in December, due to the holidays.

Christmas plans were discussed, with a contest scheduled between businessmen and residents, with $100 bonds as prizes. Details will be revealed at a later date.

Henry J. Barbour holds a "positive selling" plank as he builds a "platform for better salesmanship," which was his topic October 28 when he addressed the Skokie Rotary Club's noon luncheon at Vosnos Restaurant. Barbour, is former advertising and public relations director for Fairbanks, Morse & Co.

Third quarter sales were $13,700,474 against $13,540,455 a year ago.

Skokie Builder Gets Court O.K.

A Skokie builder has won a court victory over the City of Chicago in a rezoning mix-up over a building permit.

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher has ordered the city to reinstate a permit issued to builder Jack E. Green, 5611 Dempster, Skokie, for construction of a duplex at 3212 Hollywood Ave., Chicago.

The city had revoked the building permit July 29, 11 days after issuing it. The permit was issued on the basis that the property was in a duplex zone.

Actually, the property since April 9 has been classified as a single family residential zone. It was rezoned by the city council.

Judge Fisher held the permit was a valid one and that Green has the right to erect the structure in accordance with plans and specifications submitted to the building department.

The excavation and foundation footings were completed when the permit was revoked, the court was informed. Green said at the time he had almost $10,000 already invested in the project.

Local Banks Get Big Bond Issue

A $270,000 bond issue to complete the sale of bonds for the construction of a new junior high school in District 73½, was purchased jointly by the Skokie Trust and Savings Bank and the Old Orchard Bank and Trust Co.

The new junior high, to be located at East Prairie and Oakton, is expected to be ready for use by the fall term in 1959.

According to Dr. Homer O. Harvey, school superintendent of District 73½, bonds are placed on open bidding, and it is the first time that local banks were the successful bidders.

New Chevy Features Styling Transformation

A complete styling transformation, along with more safety features, more comfort and better performance is announced for the new 1959 Chevrolet passenger car line, available at Mancuso Chevrolet.

The cars, which went on nationwide display last week, represent one of the most imaginative designs ever to come from the automobile industry, according to General Motors Corp., the manufacturer.

In shape, detail and styling is reflected the influence of a "space-conscious" age. Lines sweep rearward in a virtually level plane. Tops are flatter and visibility is dramatically increased.

Here are some of the 1959 mechanical highlights:

1. A new six-cylinder engine, the "Hi-Thrift", so called because of its added economy.
2. Larger braking surfaces, benefitting by flanged drums and 27% more lining to provide surer stops.

3. Turboglide transmission of advanced design.

4. Easier steering and inclusion of a second, shock-resistant universal joint.

5. A new acrylic lacquer, a nine-step metal finishing process to add depth to color for remarkable luster longevity.

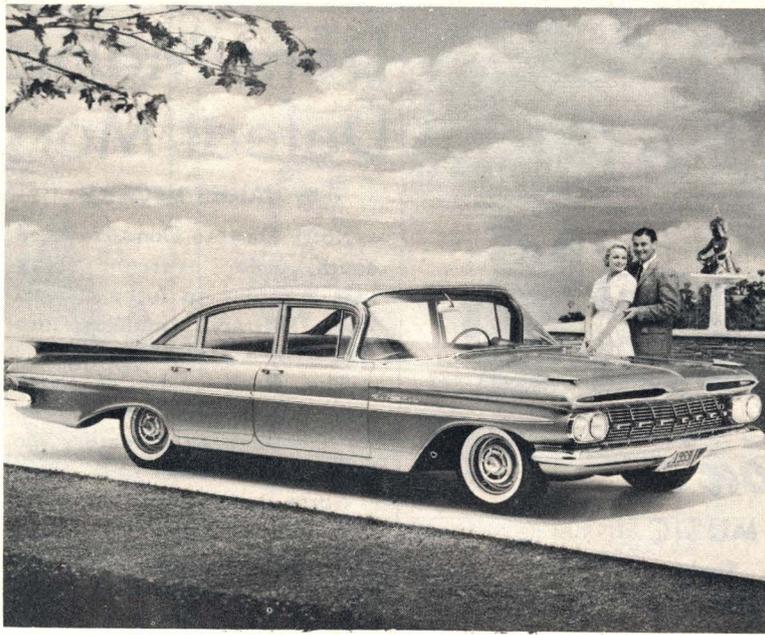

6. Improved visibility. Glass now extends higher into the roofs and curves farther inward.

7. Improved electrical system, which battery charging circuit now separate from the generator-to-load circuit.

Mancuso announced that the following persons were winners of doorprizes during festivities surrounding the showing of the new Chevy models:

- L. Katz, 7206 Lake, Morton Grove, a bicycle; Ray Haben, 8057 Niles Center Rd., Skokie, a watch; Helen Bourgerie, 6856 N. Tripp, Lincolnwood, dishes.

Chevrolet is also offering this Bel Air model in its 1959 line. It is available as either a two-door or four-door sedan, with improved brakes, suspension system and handling advancements. New acrylic paint finish is said to hold its brightness for up to three years under normal conditions.

This is the Corvette, described by Chevrolet division of General Motors as the first of the postwar "dream cars" to become a production reality. This 1959 model, as in the previous five years, the company states, will be built exclusively as a two-seater.

TELETYPE CONTRACT

A contract for $2,170,000 to the Teletype Corp. of Chicago, 5555 W. Touhy, Skokie, has been approved by the Civil Aeronautics Administration, Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen announced.

The contract is for high speed telegraph equipment to service the 11-city weather networks at a speed of 600 words per minute to meet the demands of the new Jet airliners, Sen. Dirksen's office explained.

GETS AWARD

Elaine Korsan, 5343 Main St., Skokie, employed as a secretary to vice president H.F. Walton in the home office of the Allstate Insurance, has received a gold pin commemorating her five years with Allstate.

Dons Maintain Win Streak; Defeat Morgan Park 27-7

by JAMES McCABE

Notre Dame's Dons traveled south under overcast skies last Saturday to force Morgan Park Military Academy into retreat by a 27-7 score.

The frosh team of Notre Dame made it a clean sweep for the Dons by defeating the Morgan junior team 21-0.

Notre Dame played the game with two of their first string linemen, Tom Carroll and Dick McCafferty, sidelined with injuries. This, however, failed to stop the Dons from completely overpowering the smaller Morgan squad. Halfback Anderson accounted for the first score of the game for the Dons, taking the ball from the four yard-line. Jim Dippman kicked the extra point to make the score 7-0.

After a scoreless second quarter, fullback Harry Carlson charged through the Warrior secondary for a 20-yard touchdown run. Dippman again converted for a score of 14-0, at the end of the third period.

In a busy fourth quarter, quarterback Tony Zack carried the ball over for a touchdown. Dippman's conversion made the score 21-0. Later in the same period, halfback Dave Hickey took a pass and went for the final Notre Dame score of the game. A running attempt for the extra point was unsuccessful.

With moments left in the fourth quarter, Morgan Park's quarterback Djias started a passing attack from the 50-yard-line. The drive was capped on a score by fullback Harrison. The Warrior's extra point was made by Morgan Park halfback Peters to make the final score 27-7.

Notre Dame had a good showing in the stands. The game made the Dons record to date 6 won and 1 lost, the latter being the opener to North Chicago.

The Dons meet Joliet Catholic High at Joliet this Saturday at 2 p.m., when they hope to continue their winning streak.

Bulldogs 'Bite' Trojans 19-13 at Waukegan

Niles Twp. High school was beaten 19-13 by Waukegan High School at the victor's home field last Saturday in what coach Basrak described as "one of our poorest played games of the season."

Nilehi scored first in the second quarter when Les Berens, right halfback went over for a touchdown, but the extra point was missed by end Ron Henrici, kicking specialist Nilehi then led 6-0 but after the kickoff to Waukegan an intercepted pass by Waukegan resulted in the Bulldogs first score in the second quarter, and they made the extra point to make the score 7-6. In the same second quarter the Bulldogs scored again on a pass, but missed the kick to make the score 13-6 Waukegan's favor.

In the third quarter the Trojans scored another touchdown when Barry Mink, quarterback scored on a running play. Henrici made the extra point this time to tie the score, 13-13.

In the fourth quarter the Bulldogs scored on a pass to make the score 19-13 when they failed to make the extra point.

It was Waukegan's homecoming and there was a good representation from Nilehi by students and parents. Score gives Nilehi a record of 3 wins and 3 losses in the suburban.

This Saturday the Trojans play New Trier at Winnetka.
