VILLAGER VIEWS:

If there's no place else to put it. . .

Shortly after noon on the day after the twelfth day of Christmas the 71st session of the Illinois Assembly met to hear Governor William G. Stratton's far-reaching legislative program for 1959.

After listening to Stratton, the lawmakers retired to plan the presentation of their favorite bills.

The most curious of the proposed bills will be the one dealing with branch banking, sponsored by Rep. Paul J. Randolph (R., Chicago).

As nearly as we can discern, Randolph's bill will not have the backing of downstate and suburban congressman.

They feel as we do, that branch banking's monopolistic tendencies are unhealthy for suburban economies.

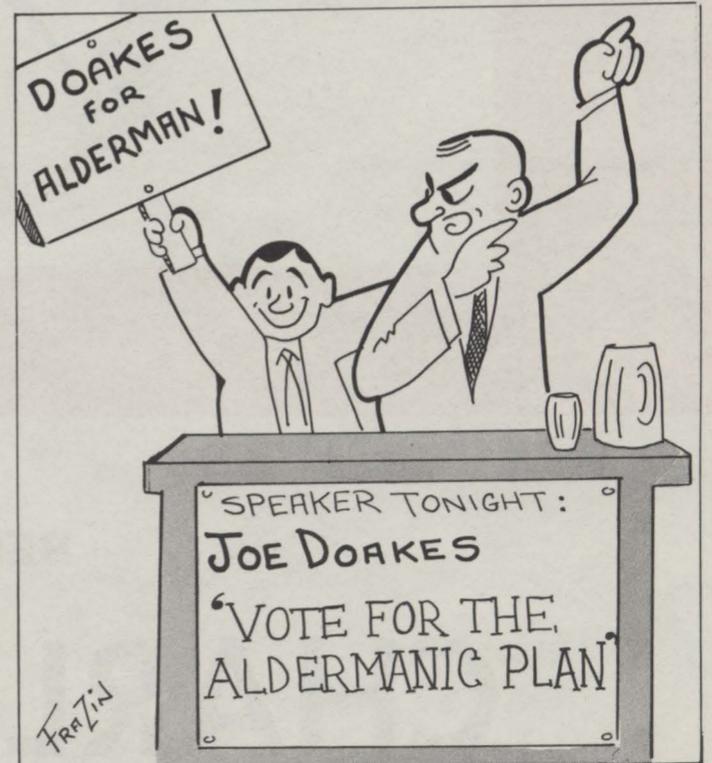

In California, for example, the Bank of America grew to such enormous proportions because the state did not legislate against branch banking that depositors unhappy with the B. of A. have no other place to put their money - except, perhaps, their mattresses.

Therapeutically speaking, this might not be harmful since medical researchers claim that our sleeping pads are much too soft.

Some green on our backs might be additionally beneficial during these cold nights if we could compound the money with mustard plasters.

The city-or-village hassle is all over now, but we thought our readers still might get a kick out of the cartoon reproduced below. It was prepared prior to Tuesday's city-or-village vote by Julian J. Frazin of 4907 W. Crain St., Skokie. Frazin is an attorney - and an artist and humorist as well, it appears.

Not now, you idiot . . .later!

SKOKIE VOTERS TURN DOWN CITY

Martin "Scotty" Krier (seated) is surrounded by jubilant workers following Tuesday's defeat of the proposition to change Skokie's village government to a city-ward system. Krier's Township Regular Democratic Organization vigorously opposed the proposed change.

Fear of Higher Taxes Apparent Key to Defeat

Skokie stuck to its village form of government Tuesday. Voters turned back, 7,773 to 6,526, a proposal which would have made the community a city.

The election climaxed a vigorous campaign waged by local governmental "outs," who formed the Skokie Civic Federation to push the change and thus possibly gain a toehold in village administration. They built their campaign around the theme that neighborhoods needed "someone to see" — a nearby alderman — who would be more directly responsible to their wishes.

The so-called "ins" and their friends, notably Martin "Scotty" Krier's Niles Township Regular Democratic Organization and the Independent Republican Club, fought back fiercely. They labeled the city movement a "high-tax" measure which would only serve to divide the community and prevent its progress.

The city proposition would have abandoned the present

"at large" system of electing village officials in favor of a system of eight wards, with two aldermen elected from each ward. There currently are six village trustees.

In addition, a mayor, clerk and treasurer also would be elected at large in a city system. The mayor — or village president — and clerk likewise are elected at large in the village system.

The vote was comparatively heavy, considering blustery weather which developed in mid-afternoon and probably persuaded a number of voters to stay at home. Snow began falling about 3 p.m. and by poll-closing time — 6 p.m. — a storm was raging.

The issue was a heated one from its inception — the presentation of petitions for the referendum last August by members of the Skokie Civic Federation. Village trustees ruled they were unacceptable because they did not contain the signatures of one-eighth of the residents who actually had voted in the last village election.

The Civic Federation, saying that the state statute covering such elections meant only that one-eighth of the eligible voters must sign, carried the case to the courts. The late Circuit Judge Harry Fisher agreed with the federation and so, later, did the State Supreme Court.

There was no question but that the Committee to Keep Skokie a Village — the "ins" organization — made hay of the high-tax issue. It brought forth comparative tax figures of villages and cities and offered a strong case for the economy of village administration.

In the end, it was this argument — following as it did last month's heavy "NO" vote against an 8½ million dollar high school bond issue — that carried the day. "Lack of proper representation" — rallying cry of the Civic Federation — simply was not a powerful enough theme.

Martin "Scotty" Krier said in his victorious campaign headquarters Tuesday night that the election result was a "tremendous victory for our traditional village system." He added:

"I interpret the vote to mean that Skokie people intend to resist any danger of high taxes."

Skokie Police Round Up Teen-Age Burglary Gang

Skokie police have arrested a gang of teen-agers who admitted 150 automobile larcenies and ten home burglaries over the last two years.

The arrests began with the capture of three of the group after almost a week-long wait.

The 24-hour police stake-out began when John Gabbis, 4958 Church St., Skokie, called police on Jan. 12 to report he saw two boys carrying bundles into an abandoned house at the rear of his home.

After the boys left, Gabbis and police searched the house and found jewelry, whisky, and a cowboy hat and boots in the basement.

Detective Sgt. Martin J. Conroy and Juvenile Sgt. Robert Krueger set a 24-hour watch over the abandoned house.

On the evening of Jan. 16, Detective Richard Colhoff noticed three boys entering the house.

He phoned for more police and arrested the boys.

After questioning by Sergeants Conroy and Krueger, the three implicated four more boys.

The boys admitted burglarizing 10 homes and breaking into about 150 automobiles in the last two years.

Four of the boys were from Skokie, two from Morton Grove and one from Glenview.

Reiter and Koller Clash

The garbage and refuse problem for Morton Grove remained unsettled at the Tuesday evening meeting of the village board.

A motion by trustee Joseph Reiter to accept the Glen-Golf company was refused by Mayor John A. Koller. Reiter appealed the rejection and demanded a vote but the Mayor refused to consider the appeal.

Glen-Golf is asking $65,000 annually to pick up handle the disposal service for the village. Mayor Koller maintained that the village could do the job cheaper, for less than $50,000.

Reiter insisted that the committee had studied the question from all angles and was certain that Glen-Golf could do the job.

The only firm bidding against Glen-Golf was a Schiller Park Company that Reiter said had not provided proper service.

Tony Marino, a partner of the Glen-Golf firm, told the Mayor that if he thought three men and one truck could do the job, he would bet the village two of his trucks that the work wouldn't be done satisfactorily.

"If you can clean up the village on that basis, I'll give you two of my trucks," he said.

The boys are scheduled to appear in Juvenile Court.

The Chicago Mental Health Foundation bowling league has become the first summer league to sign up at Orchard Twin Bowl, now under construction in Skokie, according to foundation president Mrs. M. H. Leon of Wilmette. Officials

Park District Basketball

The American Legion's second half surge crushed Blumenthal Sales in opening the second round of play of the Skokie Park District's Senior Cage League. Holding a scant 29 to 23 half-time score, Legion broke the game wide open shortly after the third period began. Leading the drive was long Larry Van Mersberger as he contributed 19 of his 23 points in the last half. Final score: 66-48.

Harry Heller's National Athletic Club downed Olund Construction in a high-scoring game 78 to 69. Ted Goldberg hit 31 points for N.A.C. and teammate Stan Projansky hiked his league scoring lead to 156 points as he hit for 25 points. Dale Cagney and Bob Durgan scored 24 and 20 points respectively for Olund.

A tall Longtin quintet displayed scoring balance and a tight defense to stall the fast stepping Independents and hand them their first defeat of the second round in a close 55 to 53 battle.

The scoring balance of Longtins was enough to offset the 20 points scored by Jerry Belkow, the Independent's outstanding forward.

Nilehi Trojans Lose Again; Evanston Wildkits Win 63-44

by MIKE RUBY

If the Nile Trojans had played four first quarters last Friday, they would have won themselves a basketball game. As it was, they were outscored by a substantial margin in each of the other three and lost to the Evanston Wildkits 63-44.

The Trojans, who outscored their opponents 13-11 in the first quarter, were outpointed 20-13, 16-8, and 16-10 in each of the last three quarters.

High point man in the game was Ron Henrici with 17-16 in the first half. Close behind were three Evanston men: Jack Stickney, 16; Fred Gablenz, 15; and Dan Holman, 14. Holman, a fast 5 foot 9 inch guard, passed brilliantly throughout the game. Ron Lis, Trojan guard, was limited to eight points, a far cry from the 30 he hit against Morton.

The Trojans again were weak at the free throw line, hitting for only 50 per cent while their opponents hit for 67 per cent.

Next on the varsity schedule is an away game with Waukegan Friday.

The soph game was a different story, with the Trojans pulling out a 37-36 win.

The Nilehiers jumped to a 10-5 lead at the end of the first quarter, but relinquished this and were losing 18-15 at half. In the third quarter, the Trojans moved ahead and stayed there.

Top players for the Trojans were Larry Mills, Bronson Davis and Jim Reicherts.

Famed Soprano Mimi Benzell To Appear in Skokie Feb. 28

Mimi Benzell, world famous coloratura soprano, has signed for a special benefit performance on Feb. 28 for the Niles Township Jewish Congregation of Skokie.

The concert will be held in the new West Niles Township High School auditorium in Skokie, which has a seating capacity of 1,500. The concert will begin promptly at 8:30 p.m.

All proceeds derived from the ticket sales will go into the special "Children's Fund" of the Temple. All seats are reserved, and ticket donations are $3.50 & 5.00.

This is the first attempt to bring 'cultural arts' to the fast growing suburban community of Skokie. It is the hope of Rabbi Sidney J. Jacobs, spiritual leader of the temple, that this will become a community project, and a sell-out for this initial effort to bring people, such as Miss Benzell, out from the city.

Tickets for the concert are now on sale at these following locations:

- First National Bank of Skokie
- Niles Township Jewish Congregation
- Old Orchard Bank & Trust Company

OKs Construction On Small Lot

Judge John A. Sbarbaro of Superior court has ordered Skokie to allow construction of a home on a "landlocked" lot at 8724 N. Harding in the village.

The lot, only 30 feet wide, is in a single family residential (R-1) zone where 55 feet of frontage and 6,600 square feet of land area are required under the village ordinance.

The vacant lot was termed "landlocked" because it's flanked on both sides by homes. Thus, there is no additional available land the owner can purchase to widen the narrow lot, the court said. The lot is 119 feet deep.

A variation to build was denied by the village zoning board of appeals in August, 1958. But Judge Sbarbaro said the plaintiff is entitled to relief sought "as a matter of law."

The court said the effect of the zoning requirements amounts to a taking of the lot without due process of law and without any just or adequate compensation. Judge Sbarbaro noted the lot was subdivided by a plat recorded in 1925, many years before enactment of Skokie's zoning ordinance.

Plaintiff was Exchange National Bank of Chicago, as trustee.

Caucus Party Will Name Skokie Candidates Jan. 25

The final meeting of the Caucus Party Nominating convention of Skokie will be held Sunday, Jan. 25, at 1 p.m. in Highland School, 9700 W. Crawford. Under the direction of Chairmen Bernard P. Harrison, 8848 LaCrosse, the convention will select its candidates for the forthcoming Skokie elections.

Harrison, together with Mrs. Richard Doney and Frank Hall, convention officers, say they hope the Skokie Caucus Party, the Skokie Regular Republican Club, and the Skokie Regular Democratic Voters Club can unite behind the slate of candidates chosen by the convention.

At the same time, G. Ray Jackson, chairman of the Skokie Caucus Party, has announced that the next quarterly regular meeting of the Skokie Caucus party, which had previously been scheduled for Jan. 27, has been moved forward. The meeting will be held immediately following the nominating convention, at approximately 3 p.m.

NAMED PRESIDENT

Walter E. Fischer, a former Skokie resident, has been named president of the Lake County Title Co., Inc., wholly-owned subsidiary of Chicago Title and Trust Co. The appointment is effective Jan. 6.

Police Dampen Burglary 'Date'

Lincolnwood police arrested a Chicago couple on a Sunday evening burglary date.

Notified that a burglar alarm had sounded at the Resillo Press Pad company, 6950 Central Park Ave., police found a girl backing an automobile into the rear lot of the factory and her date moving a 500-pound safe from the building.

The enterprising lover was caught after a two-block chase.

Caught in the act, he identified himself as James Young, 28, of 821 N. Keeler Ave.

His girl friend, Gloria Van Overbake, 32, of 1027 N. Orleans St., told police she was on a date. She said she was backing the car into the parking lot so they could neck in privacy.

Police officer Miland Suess, Robert Verhoeven, Francis Klein and Donald Smith made the arrests.

Young admitted breaking into a washroom window and moving the safe from the building but he gallantly refused to implicate Miss Van Overbake.

"She was along only for the kissing," he insisted.

Police want to know how they were going to manage

Ike Lauds Hospital Campaign

The Skokie Valley Community Hospital campaign office is in receipt of the fol-communication from President Eisenhower concerning the $4,250,000 Building Fund campaign now in progress:

"It was good to learn of the plans for the new Skokie Valley Community Hospital, and we herewith send along best wishes for the success of your project. I often speak of the important of our people's health and the role which modern medicine plays in preserving and strengthening this health."

In sending his greetings, he re-affirmed his faith in the ability of individual communities to solve their own problems. The President said:

"I speak of this because all of us can sense a disturbing disposition of the part of many groups throughout our land to seek solutions to their problems from sources outside themselves. Because life today is more complex, we seem in every difficulty always more ready to lean upon government than upon ourselves."

"Such an approach to our individual and group problems can never retain the health and vigor of America. There are ways in which government, local, state and Federal can properly help. There are Federal matching funds for certain phases of medical facility and research construction, but for government to take over all responsibility in this critical field would signal the onset of a grave infection of our nation's spirit."

$760,000 has been received to date from industrial corporations, commercial establishments and individuals in Skokie, Glenview, Golf, Northfield, Lincolnwood, Morton Grove, Northbrook and other North Shore communities which the new 155 bed hospital will serve. Construction is expected to begin this fall.

HEARING

Judge Thomas E. Kluczynski has scheduled a hearing January 22 in Circuit court in the condemnation suit of Lincoln School District No. 69 in Skokie to acquire 25 parcels of land for use as an elementary school site.

that around a safe with a 36-inch girth.

Donald Schweitzer, production engineer for the laundry equipment manufacturing company, said there was no money in the safe, only office records. Schweitzer of 8209 Harding Ave., said nothing else in the factory had been touched.

Chief M. Lester Flowers said both had minor police records.

They were held on $2,500 bond and will appear in court Saturday.

Government to Start on New Skokie Post Office

The Post Office Department is ready to go ahead with construction of a new post office in Skokie.

Rollin D. Barnard, deputy assistant postmaster general, so advised Trustee Fred Wakefield, chairman of the village streets and sidewalks committee, in a letter this week.

The building will be situated at Madison St. and Niles Center Rd.

Barnard's letter to Wakefield said:

I believe you will be pleased to know that Invitations to Bid on the construction and lease to the Department of a new Post Office in your community will be issued early next week. Bidders' packages, which contain all information necessary for bidding, will be in the hands of the Regional Real Estate Manager in Chicago and subsequently to the Real Estate Officer assigned to the case by the latter part of the week. When proposals are actually solicited, a 60-day advertising period will be specified.

Notice of this bid solicitation will be posted locally, as well as publicized in the newspapers.

Thank you very much for your interest in the development of this new, modern postal facility in Skokie.

Teachers Ask for Pay Raise

Niles Township High School teachers have submitted a request for more money and other benefits.

The request was given to the high school board last week by officers of Local 1274 of the American Federation of Teachers, which represents the teachers.

The teachers ask a basic yearly salary schedule starting at $6,000 and extending to $12,000 in eight steps or less for persons with a Bachelor of Arts degree. Another $1,000 yearly would go to those holding a Masters' degree.

The Superintendent's Advisory Council will make its recommendations on the teachers' request within a few weeks.

The board also is exploring the possibility of an education-industrial cooperative program for top students in science.

Miss Zelman is a '58 graduate of Evanston Township High School. Her fiance is in the field of electronics. A June wedding is planned.

Sugar 'n Spice

by Sheryl Leonard

For weeks we counted calories. We wasted money purchasing tasteless "non-caloric" goodies. But undaunted, we valiantly fought our battle of the bulge.

Then the thrill of victory won. A female remarked that we "looked positively tiny." This is an adjective never before used in connection with our particular type of figure.

But how fleeting is victory. Along came the Skokie Valley Hadassah Taste and Test Luncheon. We did not realize this was a subversive group determined to undermine the will power of dieters when we accepted their invitation to be one of their "taste" judges.

The food was delightful, delicious and most inviting. The wonderful offerings were attractive as well as much too palatable.

We tasted and tested to the tune of about a few thousand calories. The Hadassah women are probably the world's greatest culinary artists.

The only thing left for us now is to sign up for a re-match with our wrestling partner—Kid Calorie.

While the Diner's Club is internationally known, the Dyer's Club, although local, is equally prominent.

Members of this unique organization meet every other Thursday evening in Alex and Stephanie's Beauty Salon on Oakton St.

Charter members are Ann Johnson, Doris Martins and Joan Beach. The only requisite for joining is the adoption of the club's motto:

"Hail, Male! We Gladly Dye for Thee!"

Like an enchanted castle in the middle of a dense and forbidding jungle, is the charming "Golden Deer."

Located at 936 Rush St. in Chicago, it is a complete contrast to the fast moving activities on that strip. Candle lights, soft music, wonderful food, it caters to those who like to enjoy their dinner leisurely.

Larry Beneitone, former University of Iowa athlete, sets the pace for his charming, below street level spa. No flashing neon lights or blazoned banners mark the spot. Just a tiny golden deer.

We concede to the attractiveness of doorknobs placed in the center of a door. However, we must admit they are quite disconcerting.

Every time we turn one of these center knobs, we expect the door to slide up like the one on a garage.

These are the facts, ma'am: A friend, known for her propensity for maintaining apartment aquariums, noticed that one of her gold fish had leaped out of the bowl. As the wiggler struggled on the floor, the "keeper of the bowl" shouted frantically, "Stand back, give it air!"

"GIVE ME YOUR HAND, MY DEAREST FRIEND LET ME FEEL THE WARMTH OF YOUR GREETING AS I TELL OF ALL THAT HAS HAPPENED TO ME SINCE THE LAST TIME OF OUR MEETING" THEN AS I SPOKE SHE LISTENED HER EYES UNDERSTANDINGLY HEARD WITHOUT CENSURE, ADVICE, OR EVEN ACCLAIM SHE LISTENED TO EACH TUMBLING WORD OH, THE JOY AND THE WONDER OF HAVING A FRIEND TO WHOM YOUR SOUL YOU IMPART WHO HELPS YOU PERFORM A CATHARSIS OF ALL THE ACHE IN YOUR HEART.

International Night at Cleveland School

"How Johnny Learns in France, Denmark and England," will be the topic for a panel discussion at Cleveland School. Monday, Feb. 9, at 8 p.m. Representatives from these countries will discuss elementary and junior high school educational systems in their countries.

Guest speakers will be Henning Svanholt, Vice-Consul of Denmark; Marcel Fauriol, French Commercial Attache for the Midwest, and Miss Ann Pierce, an exchange teacher from England, now teaching at Evanston High School.

Mrs. Marian Lago, principal for the upper grades at Cleveland School, will moderate the panel.

Mrs. William Klinke, 8109 Keeler, and the seventh and eighth grade mothers will be in charge of refreshments, which will be served at the conclusion of the program. Foods from the countries represented will be featured.

Hostess at the French table, will be Mrs. E. Huguelet, 7922 Karlov; at the Danish table, Mrs. K. Gunnar Anderson, 7839 East Prairie Rd., and at the English table, Mrs. Thornton B. Stearns, 8103 Kostner. The program is under the direction of Mrs. Ernest O. Eisenberg, international chairman, 8307 Keeler.

The evening will also mark the 25th Anniversary of Boy Scout Troop 31, and honor awards will be presented.

Seventh and eighth grade students are invited to attend this highly informative meeting, with their parents.

Art Study at Timber Ridge

The Timber Ridge Parent Teacher Association, through its recreation chairman Mrs. Murray Jans, has arranged with the Art Institute of Chicago for Miss Margaret Vanes, a graduate of the Education Department of the Institute, to present an art education series in the school. The goal of this series is to teach the children to be able to appreciate good art by understanding it.

At the first lecture, on Jan. 27, Miss Vanes will discuss several pictures. The groups of children will be arranged on the basis of age, and as the age advances Miss Vanes will be able to go into greater detail.

On her second visit to Timber Ridge, on March 31, Miss Vanes will bring ten or twelve reproductions from the Art Institute with her. She will take them to each class-room and discuss them at length with the youngsters. The pictures will be on display at the school for a week after this session so that the children can study them further.

Swingin' Time at East Prairie

Jan. 24 and 25 are the nights scheduled for the presentation of the East Prairie PTA's spectacular musical "And A-W-A-Y We Go." The show is under the guidance of Richard Marx, who has developed from East Prairie district a group of actors, singers, dancers and musicians.

The performance on Saturday will start at 8:30 p.m., while Sunday's curtain rising will be at 7:30 p.m. Tickets may be obtained by contacting Annette Beer, OR 5-5685.

Co-producers are Edith and Jim Berick. Specialty numbers will feature Pat Harris, Tillie Holland, Bertha Lazar, Evelyn Warren, Rico Boren, Bernie Ekstrom, Harriet Gufter, Marge Nathan, Les Mehlman, Lillian Boren, Ada Barach, Phyllis Gilson, Helga Schrimmer, Bob Kaplan, Annette Beer, Perle Hill, Thelma Lampert, Shirley Seigel, Bea Kaplan and the East Prairie Kitchen Band.

Music will be provided by a group composed of Dan Gutter, Jim Theyes, Gilbert Swig, Dorothy March, Margaret Phelps, Ruth Scott, Bob Morris and Don Marvine.

Ella Marx, Ruth Scott, Liz Bailey and Eileen Pagenkopf make up the featured quartet.

The show is the major fund raising project of the year.

PTA Council To Hear Ralph Johnson

The Skokie Valley PTA Council will hold a meeting, Thursday, Jan. 29, in the Lincoln School, Lincoln and Babb, Skokie, in the multi-purpose room at 8 p.m., open to the public.

On the program will be Ralph Johnson, principal of Upper Lincoln School and legislation chairman for section 3 of the Lake Shore Division-Illinois Education Association who will talk on "Financing Our Schools."

A film strip entitled "Voyage Ahead" deals with current problems relative to financing of our school systems.

Mrs. Benjamin Goldstein, 8141 Kolmar, legislation chair for Council and Nilehi PTA, arranged the Council program.

Mrs. Alexander Lavin, 5018 Pratt, president of the Council urges all PTA presidents, delegates, chairmen and others to attend this meeting as it is important to all.

After the speaker and film there will be a question and answer period and everyone is asked to join in and ask questions on "Financing Our Schools."

Mrs. Robert W. Loudon, Northbrook, Dist. 21 Director will be at the Council meeting.

Honors for Skokie Men

Skokie neighbors David Malfar, an attorney, of 8426 St. Louis, and Herman Pollock, an accountant, of 8555 Lawndale, have been honored for their combined 15 years of service to the 12-year-old Community Discount Department Stores of the Chicago area:

At a year-end Christmas party for its approximately 200 part-time, full-time employees, and advisory staff, Community Discount Department Stores introduced its new special pins for service, and Malfar and Pollock were among the first 19 to receive these new awards.

PERCY

His Philosophy
Of 'Democracy
In Business' Pays Off
For Huge Lincolnwood
Photographic
Equipment Firm

... in his office

by BETTY NEFF

When Charles H. Percy took over the presidency of Bell & Howell company at the age of 29 he was a phenomenon of the business world. Today, 10 years and innumerable honors later, the boy wonder has fulfilled his youthful promise.

Percy has been one of those apparently star-blessed prodigies who has succeeded at everything he has attempted.

He worked his way through New Trier high school and the University of Chicago, where his qualities of leadership were quickly recognized. At the university he was president of his fraternity, Alpha Delta Phi; president of the Inter Fraternity Council; president of Owl and Serpent, senior men's honorary society; captain of the university's Big Ten championship water polo team, and university marshal to Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins, the highest honor given to a senior.

While attending the university, he entered Bell & Howell's cooperative training program, working his way through almost every department. Upon his graduation in 1941, he assumed full-time employment with the company and a year later—at the age of 23—he was elected to the board of directors.

In 1943 he entered the Navy as an apprentice seaman. He was discharged in 1945 with the rank of lieutenant senior grade and a commendation on his "efficient administration and supervision... (and) his initiative and cooperation" from Rear Admiral V.H. Ragsdale.

When he returned to Bell & Howell at the ripe old age of 26, he was made corporate secretary and given responsibility for the company's industrial relations and foreign manufacturing programs.

His boss, Joseph H. McNabb, was of the old autocratic executive school. Young Percy, on the contrary, felt that bridging the gap between labor and management—explaining management's position and listening to labor's problems—was a key to sound-business practice.

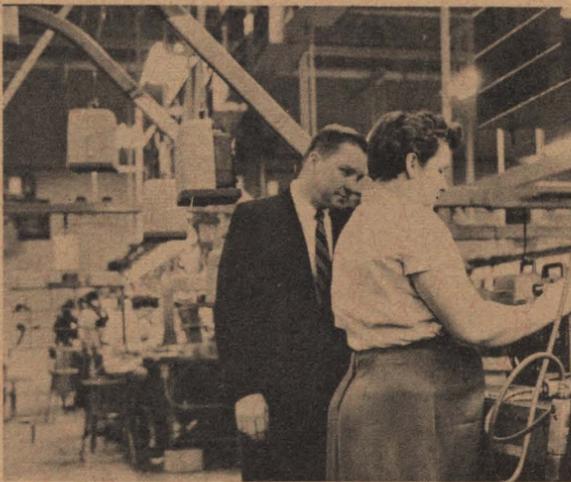

When McNabb died the board of directors, whose ages averaged 66 years, elected the 29-year-old Percy president. That same year he was named one of the 10 outstanding young men in the United States by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Thus, in a span which finds many men still unsettled on a career, Percy had attained such executive eminence as is granted to few even twice his age.

'Expect The Best'

"Chuck" Percy is a man of ideas, and he puts those ideas to work.

Nuclear to his success in the business world is the high value he places on other people. He definitely does not believe in the adage, "If you want a thing done well, do it yourself." Percy can—and does—delegate authority, and under his leadership this policy reaches right down to the bottom level of employment.

"I believe that the faith we place in people is seldom disappointed," he said in explaining his philosophy of management. "To expect the best of a man is almost assurance that you will receive it. When I give a man a job to do, I leave that job to him. It is his responsibility—his is the credit or the blame for what he makes of it.

"Generally, no two people do a thing in the same way. Every man brings to a problem a fresh point of view and a new approach. The value of individual effort and thinking can never be overestimated. At Bell & Howell company our production workers often have solved problems on the job that management has wrestled with unsuccessfully.

"Once a man knows that his opinions are respected, that his ideas are valued, his energy and mind are turned to constructive interest in his work. I do not believe in men doing the work that machines can do. Nor do I believe in hiring only the work of a man's hands when he is eager to give his heart and his mind to his job."

Percy brought democracy to Bell & Howell. His first move as president was to invite all 2,000 employes and their families to a meeting at which he laid it on the line with respect to company problems, profits, costs and other data.

This first "family night" has become an annual affair, but Percy didn't stop there. He instituted monthly meetings with foremen, giving them information to pass on to all employes. He and other top executives went "back to school" for intensive courses in the company's business, ten hours a day for three days. He began writing a column for the company newspaper.

Percy believes that no worker should be asked to follow orders blindly. An elaborate communications program has been set up under his direction, and it's not a one-way street. Workers' opinions are valued and many suggestions which originated "in the ranks" have been adopted, to the mutual profit of company and employe. (The company pays one-half of the first years' savings resulting from a worker's suggestion to the worker.)

Know Thyself

Unusual, too, is the company's merit rating system. Soon after Percy took over as president, he began making informal surveys of employes' attitudes.

He found that a common problem was the workers' feel that they didn't know where they stood with their bosses.

Today, each worker knows exactly how he is doing—and, characteristically at B & H, his boss knows how the worker Feels he is doing. At least once a year, each person rates himself, filling in a standard form. He analyzes areas where he feels he is doing exceptional, acceptable or sub-par work. At the same time, his immediate superior rates him in the same way.

An informal meeting between employe and superior follows, and the ratings are compared. The system permits the superior to let the employe work out his own positive plan for improvement, rather than giving the "boss" the purely negative task of criticism.

Merit rating is company-wide, and includes Percy himself. Two or three of his vice presidents rate him annually and then discuss with him areas for personal improvement or growth.

Percy has worked hard to make delegation of authority a top to bottom principle so that top management may be rid of burdensome day-to-day details and be free to perform its true function—long-range planning.

Percy once described a typical day in the life of a top administrator thus:

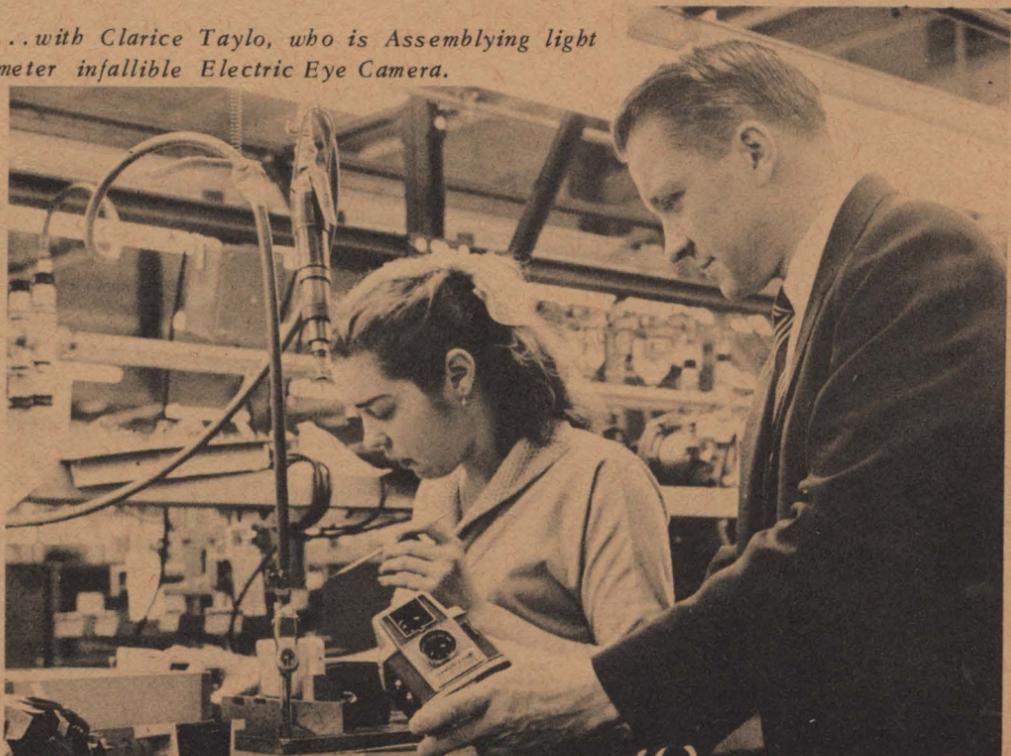

"The morning mail comes in, including a request for a speech before a local association. A shareowner writes for information on dividend policy. A group of teachers wants to tour the plant and exchange ideas with company executives. The phone rings steadily.

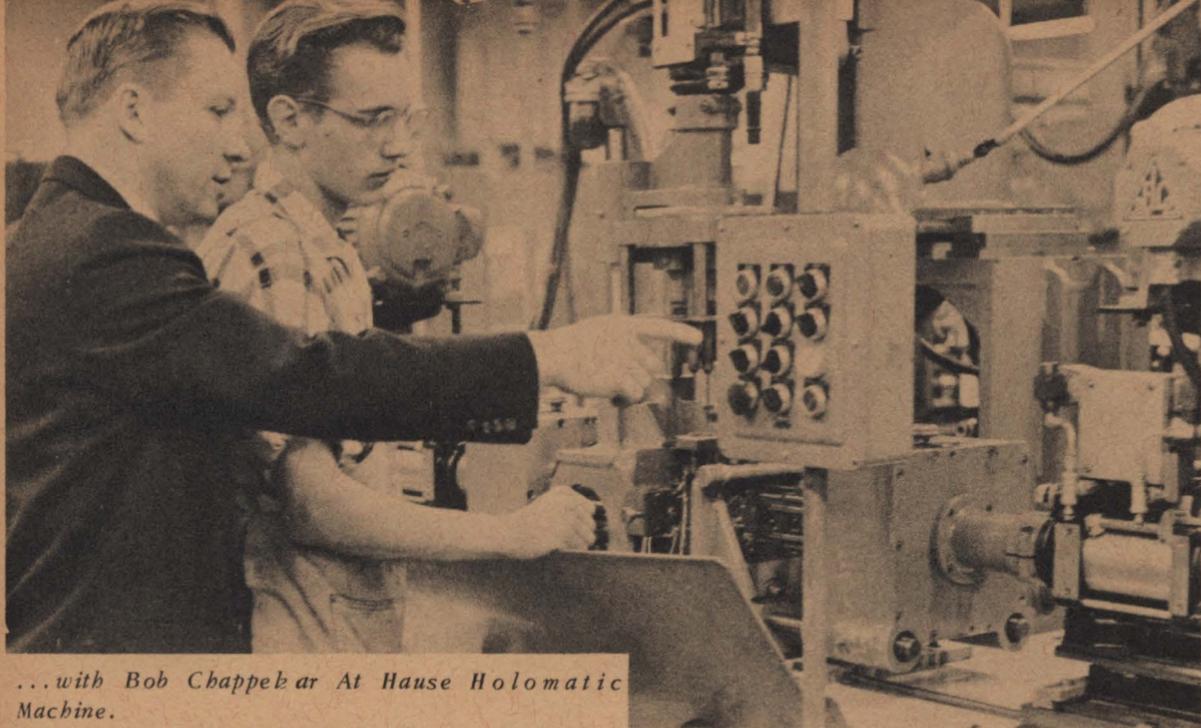

"An irate customer can't get service in Mule Shoe, Texas. More mail, and then meetings. Back to the office to decide what to do about a pressing budget problem. Review a new product release. Turn down gracefully (impossible!) a request to introduce a friend to the director of purchases; discuss two new appointments in the manufacturing division and a major capital equipment acquisition. End of the day. Into the briefcase goes the balance of the day's mail (or yesterday's) along with reading matter marked 'must.'"

After Percy took over the reins, this sort of frustrating day gradually became at least partly a thing of the past for top management. Through a program of trial and error, a new kind of management strategy was evolved, based on delegation of authority. Management now devotes most of its attention to long-range profit planning.

A 60-month, or five-year, program is the heart of the system. After careful study of general economic factors and the company's own performance record, a series of future goals—high, but theoretically attainable—are set.

Within the long-range program, short-range planning for the ensuing year is worked out. Continual scrutiny and revision keeps the operations on target.

When the recession came along last winter and spring, B & H stepped up its timetable for issuance of several new photographic items featuring emphasis on automatic, foolproof picture-taking and projection. As a result, there was no recession at Bell & Howell.

"Over 60 per cent of our sales for the first half of 1958 were in new products introduced in the past two and a half years," Percy said.

Sales for 1956, 1957 and the first half of 1958 totaled $121,525,758—only a little less than the total of $127,087,629 accumulated during the seven years of the postwar boom in photographic sales from 1946 through 1952.

Only this month the company introduced an electric eye still camera, the first completely automatic still camera of its kind to reach the market. The camera automatically sets the lens for proper exposure and for distance.

Civic Responsibility, Too

In addition to the far-sighted leadership which has characterized his career at B & H, Percy is in civic and political affairs. Among his outside posts are:

Member, business advisory council of the U.S. Department of commerce; vice-chairman, Republican National Finance Committee; president, United Republican Fund of Illinois; board member, Committee for a National Trade Policy; trustee, University of Chicago; director, Fund for Adult Education of the Ford Foundation; member, Special Studies Project, Rockefeller Brothers Fund, Inc.; life member, the photographic Society of America; member, National Conference of Christians and Jews; director of the Economic Club of Chicago and of the Executives Club of Chicago, and member of the Chicago, Commonwealth Club, the Commercial Club of Chicago, the Chicago Club, the Glenview Club and the Kenilworth Club.

In 1954, he served as Illinois chairman of Brotherhood Week, and in 1956 he attended the presidential inaugural ceremonies in Peru and Bolivia as a personal representative of President Eisenhower, with the rank of special ambassador.

He has won awards and citations for public service from the University of Chicago Alumni association, the World Trade Week committee, the National Sales Executives, Inc., and the Foreign Traders association.

Percy lives in Kenilworth with his wife and five children, three girls and two boys. For recreation, he enjoys photography, skiing, swimming, golf, tennis, fishing and hunting.

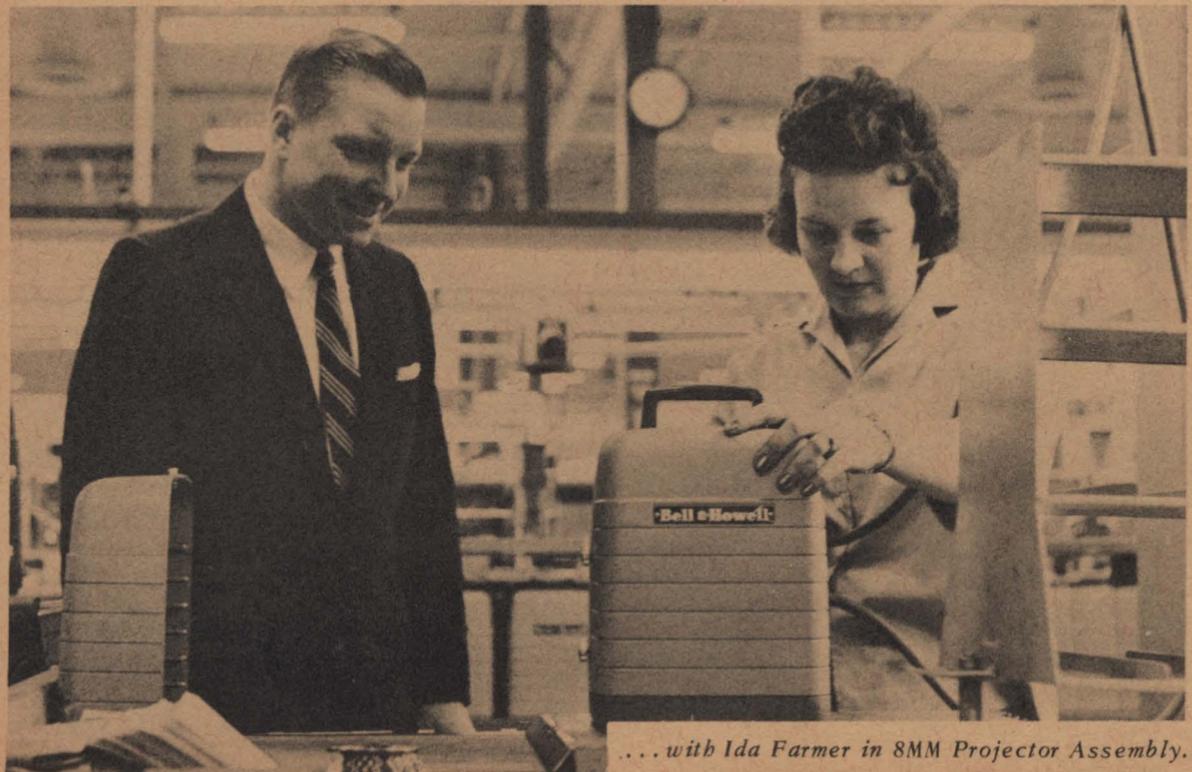

But the core of his energies is devoted to B & H. And his uncommon drive is reflected in the continuous expansion of the company. Net sales have grown from $17,608,553 in 1948, when he assumed the presidency, to $52,218,476 last year.

The figures would seem to emphasize Percy's success at what he conceived his job to be when he took over.

A small plaque, serving as a constant reminder, has hung behind his desk throughout his 10 years as chief executive of B & H. It reads:

"My job is to build Bell & Howell for the future."

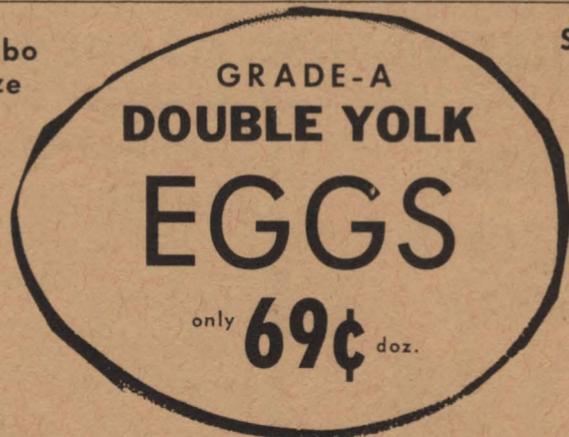

Today Chuck Percy is still doing just that.

A transplanted Englishman is teaching American businessmen how to make sense to their employes.

He is George J. Rogers of 9226 Newcastle Ave., Morton Grove, economic counselor and director of American Free Enterprise Productions. His mission is to create mutual understanding among all levels of a business or industrial organization, thereby eliminating in-plant friction and promoting higher productivity and—as an end result—greater profits.

How does a stranger go about telling the president of a firm how to run his business?

"In this country, consulting has become an accepted practice," Rogers said in a recent interview. "The average businessman is so very long-range problems, that he doesn't have very much time to sit down and just think.

"In those areas where you have research or study required, where ideas have to be developed, they (top executives) usually have to rely on outside assistance. The important thing is that they reach the point where they know they need the help."

Executives usually come to the "help wanted" conclusion by trial and error, he said.

"Suppose they are continually having problems in the plant," Rogers explained. "Productivity isn't high enough, or there is all kinds of friction in the company. They try 101 ways to overcome it and they eventually find that the patchwork approach to these problems doesn't work.

"Then they begin to look for something that has a basic overall application, such as changing the employes' attitudes. It's at this point that they start looking for professional help in that area."

In the study of his Morton Grove home, Rogers checks a point in one of the reports to stockholders he prepares for various companies.

What English Language?

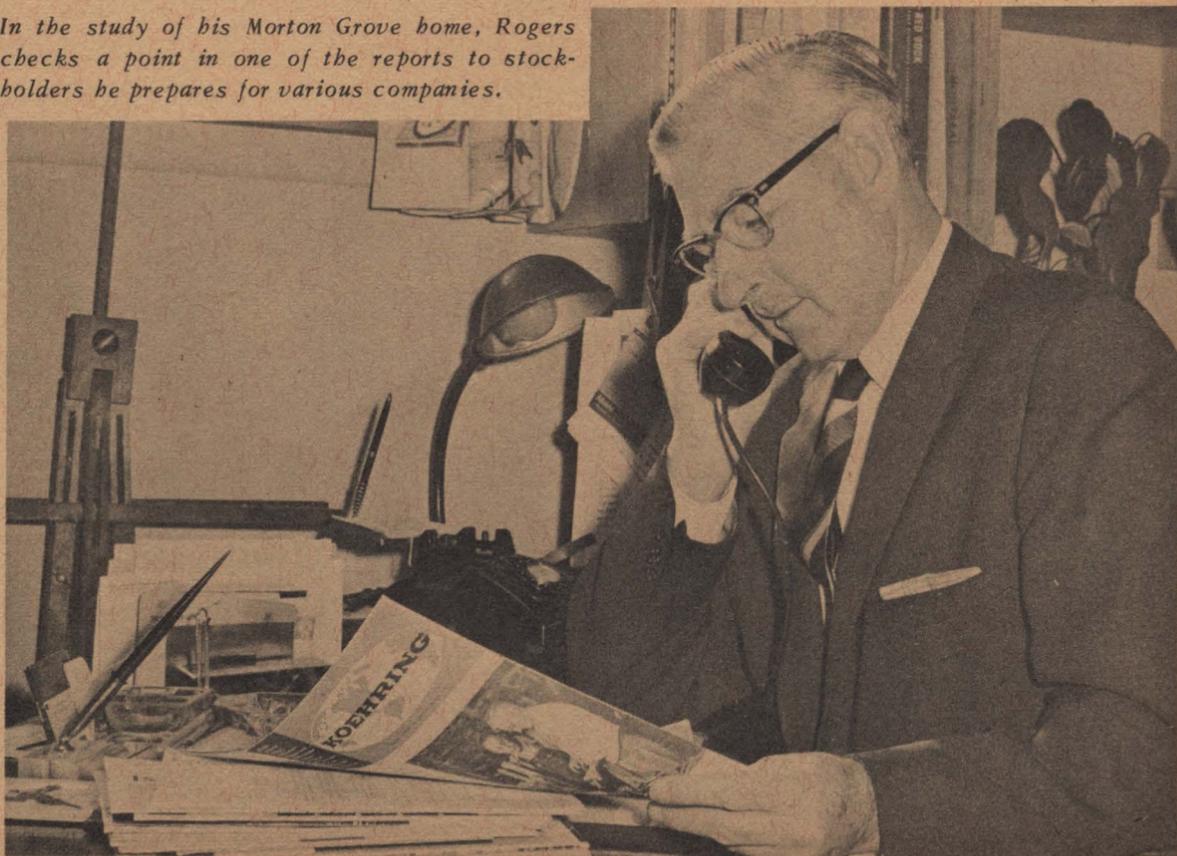

Each firm's problems are individual, and Rogers attacks them as such. But a cornerstone of his approach is his conviction that many problems can be solved by semantics—the science of the meaning of words.

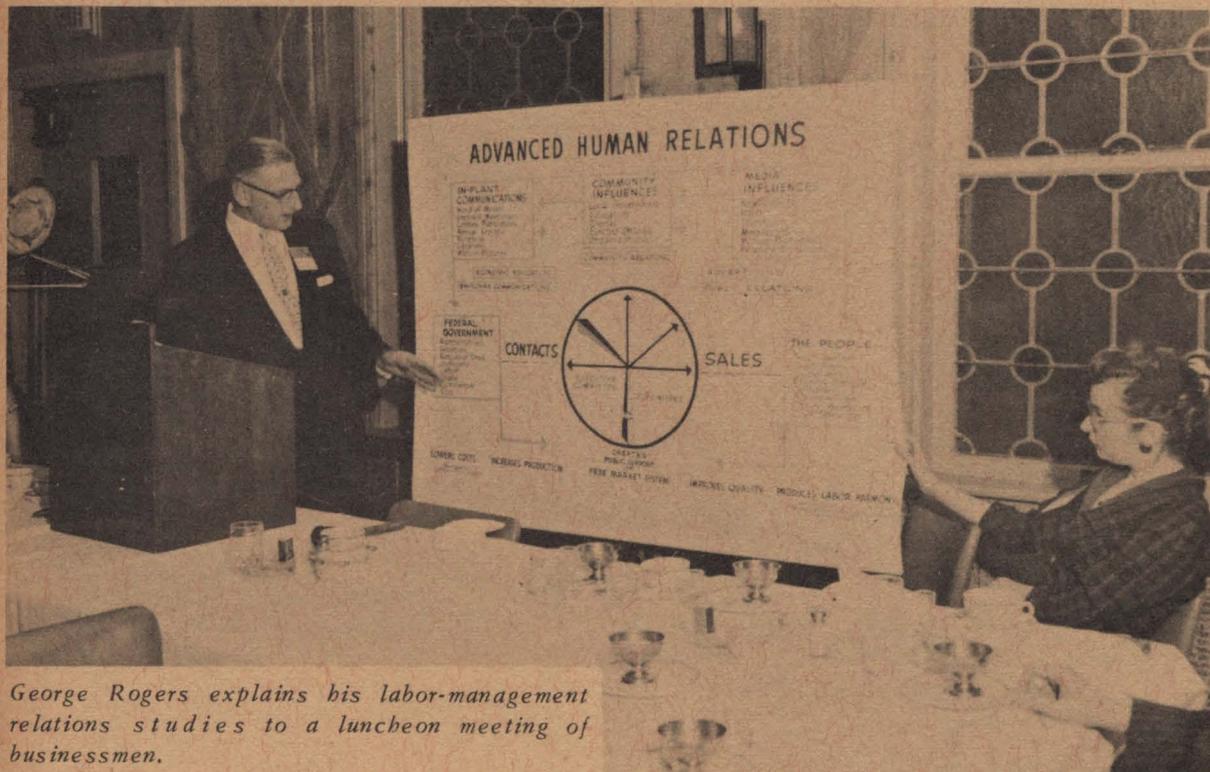

"We think of the English language as one language, but it actually is a tremendous number of different languages," he declared. "Your doctor has one jargon, your chemist another. Executives, supervisors, and employes all have their own.

"One of the great difficulties that executives have had is in expressing a thought in the language of the employes—and instead of expressing it in terms of the self-interest of the company, they should be expressing it in terms of the self-interest of the employes."

Rogers got interested in what he calls "applied human relations" when he was a young man operating his own business in Canada.

He had migrated to Canada when he was 22. England was undergoing tough times in the post-World War I period, and Rogers felt the New World offered more opportunity than his native country.

George Rogers explains his labor-management relations studies to a luncheon meeting of businessmen.

Royal Insurance Company of Liverpool, so the insurance field was his first place of employment. He worked for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company and the Excelsior Insurance company, as well as a Canadian branch of his old firm, Royal, in Ottawa. Then he became an employer.

"I had lent a man some money to go into business and he was losing the money, so I had to go into the business myself," he laughed.

It was a fateful move in more respects than one. Rogers learned what life from the boss' side of the desk was like—and he also met his future wife.

The firm he headed dealt in wholesale cosmetics. Adele Mahaits operated a beauty shop and was a customer of Rogers' company. (She won the grand prize for finger-waving in an international competition in New York in 1940.)

The romance bloomed slowly—was it characteristic British deliberation? At any rate, they were married in 1950 in Chicago and are parents of a son, Albert, seven.

Joins GE

Meanwhile, he had been gaining experience in employer-employee relations. In 1941, he joined General Electric company at Toronto as publications manager, in charge of 13 weekly newspapers.

"That's where I did my first original basic research," he said.

General Electric backed his ideas by establishing a new human resource development program. Rogers was in charge of the half-million-dollar study, dealing with human relations problems and new techniques in inter-personal communication.

A fundamental concept emerging from this work was that all human friction results from a lack of knowledge or understanding of the actual facts of any given situation.

While working at GE, Rogers had occasion to consult with the American Economic Foundation in New York, a non-profit national program dealing with human behavior and economic education. General chairman of the AEF was Fred Clark of New York, and Rogers wound up on Clark's staff.

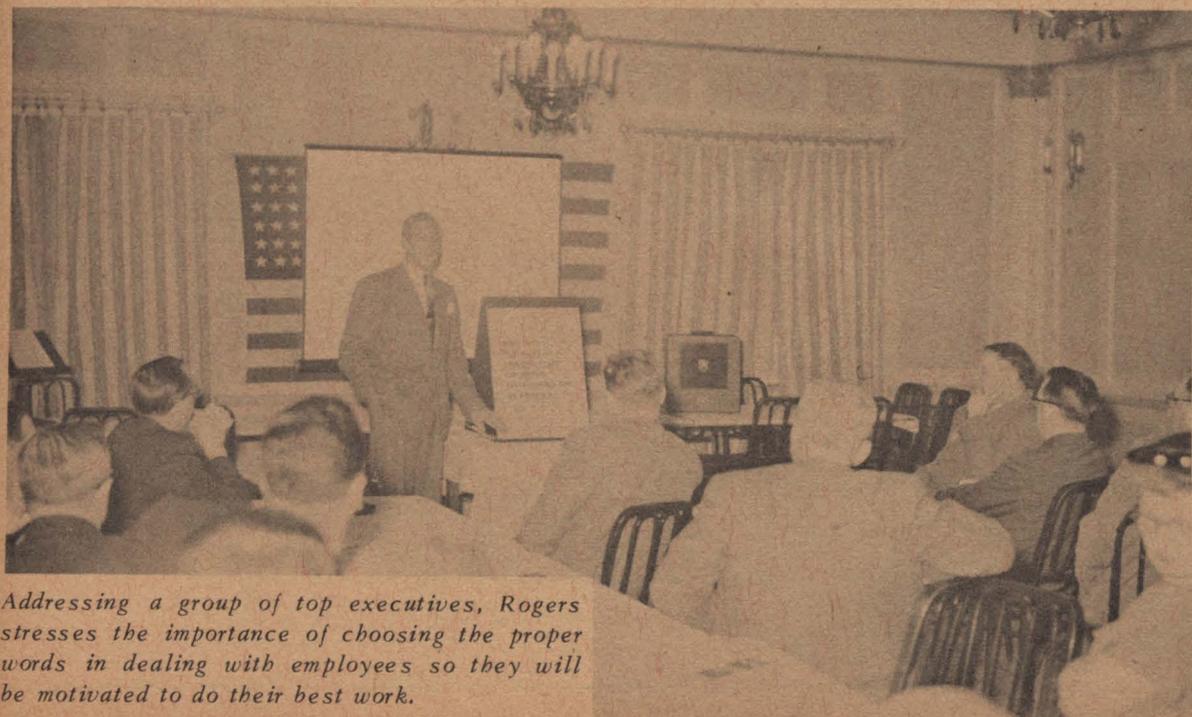

The Foundation was conducting experiments in semantics, tests which showed that certain words—used commonly by millions—could be proved to be the cause of misunderstandings. Many of the words had acquired different meanings for different social groups, or had no meaning to all for some.

Rogers first was assistant to Clark, then program director, and later was assigned to open the Foundation's operations in the midwest. He conducted economic education and employee behavior seminars for officers of many corporations. And eventually he decided to go into the economic consulting field on his own.

"I have learned that friction between management and labor is based on what we call economic illiteracy," he said. "People just don't understand the other person's position and it results in some very foolish things."

"If tomorrow morning everyone in this country woke up and didn't know the difference between right and wrong, we'd have chaos. Basically,

Addressing a group of top executives, Rogers stresses the importance of choosing the proper words in dealing with employees so they will be motivated to do their best work.

BEAUTIFUL TRADITIONS

The Orientals represent our oldest civilization and adhere to many beautiful traditions and customs today.

The Chinese New Year is a day of honor and celebration among them. On this day they have their feast and festivities, but most significant of all is the tradition they have of undertaking to pay off all indebtedness and obligations prior to that day.

Friendships which have been strained or broken are restored as far as humanly possible.

It is only then that they bow before Confucious or Buddha stating that their debts have been paid, friendships restored, etc., and then ask God's blessings for the New Year.

Isn't this type of New Year celebration sane and sensible?

Rogers and his wife, Adele, enjoy their pet parakeet. The economic counselor doesn't worry about semantics when teaching the bird to talk.

that's what has happened in this country as far as economics goes.

"What I'm trying to do in the simplest way possible is to explain how industry operates and to explain how the people living in this country can get the most for probably the least amount of effort — and you don't do it by fighting each other, you do it by cooperation."

Don't Loaf, Cooperate

By "least amount of effort", Rogers does not mean getting paid for doing nothing.

"This is elementary and childish," he stated, "but no one in this country can be paid for more than he does and still contribute to the building of the country. He has to take it away from somebody else or have a momentary advantage, but eventually he pays for it.

"If you pay employes more than they earn, you must charge the customer more than the value of the product or service. The customer has a right to freedom of choice — and his choice always will be NOT to buy the product — so the normal end result is unemployment.

"There is one way we can overcome a mass unemployment situation. If the government will print more money and give it to the consumers, the consumers are willing to buy those overpriced products and that's exactly what goes on today. Every time you have a wage increase you either have unemployment — which is almost what we had recently — or you have inflation.

"And the terrible thing about it is you don't have to have inflation; it doesn't produce any more goods."

Rogers' work requires considerable travel. He conducts seminars for top management, writes company reports to stockholders, and recently was commissioned by a publishing house to write a series of 52 booklets — one for each week in the year — to be distributed throughout a number of industries.

The booklets will be sold as a set and mailed once a week to executives. They will deal with such subjects as the roles of different groups in the economy, internal cost reduction, productivity, and similar facets of American business life.

"A very small part of my work could really be classed as original," Rogers said. "What I have been doing is simply concentrating on this one problem of communication. Everything I hear and read falls into place, and I simply rearrange these things into a pattern that gives them a uniqueness they didn't have up to now."

As for Rogers, his hobby is stamp collecting. Here he peruses a page of stamps from his former home, Canada, in one of his well-filled albums.

THE HELLYER SAY

by Art Hellyer

Back in 1949 Clara Ann Fowler spent an afternoon on the air with me in Milwaukee. She was a sweet, unaffected, pleasingly-plump little gal from Tulsa who had just captivated the country with her first hit recording. It was the first of the multi-voice, by one person, records and the label told us it was Patti Page singing "Confess." Yes, Clara Ann Fowler, Patti Page, was the singing rage, and all those who came in contact with her fell under her spell. I can recall three or four different times, when Patti was appearing at the Towne Room, calling for her in my little Austin in mid-afternoon. We would drive out to Wood Veteran Hospital and spend the afternoon entertaining the GI's.

As emcee of Patti's radio shows from the Towne Room, I got to know her quite well, and Elaine would come down and spend the evening, and the three of us would chat by the hour between shows. I remember one time when Eddie Hubbard, even then a big name here in Chicago, came up to hear Patti and we all sat around the bistro until 4:30 a.m., Eddie and I playing guitars, and Patti leading the vocalizing.

One evening recently, on TV, I saw a skinny blonde with her silvery hair piled on top of her head. She said her name was Patti Page. It is hard to believe the changes that have come over this gal in ten years. I saw a pseudo-sophisticate, a girl from the golden west putting on eastern airs. Gone were all the down-to-earth Oklahoma qualities that made us like her so well. She's still Patti Page, but she sure isn't Clara Ann Fowler. I choose to remember her as she was in 1949, not as she is in 1959.

The same night we saw Lauritz Melchior on "This Is Your Life". Seeing Mr. Melchior made me realize that it is the truly great who remain most humble. I can't help but feel that this is the reason they remain truly great.

"Out in Arizona where the badmen are, and the only thing to guide you is an evening star", there's a gentleman named Homer (Uncle Dick) Grigsby. Seems Uncle Dick has ridden the Arizona ranges for 74 of his 90 years, and he feels qualified to speak on the subject of television westerns.

Uncle Dick was recently interviewed by a reporter from the Arizona Republic, and he had this to say: "These television programs of today are a bunch of bokum. These modern writers would have people believe most of the old-time range riders were gunslingers and no-goods. We didn't have time for crooked or underhanded shenanigans in those days. We worked from dawn 'til dusk, and most times we were too busy minding our own business. Why, the only reason we carried guns was to shoot snakes or wild animals, and sometimes kill a boltin' horse if it got going after we were thrown and still had one foot caught in the stirrup."

Uncle Dick finished his tirade with this statement, "The only time I ever saw a gun drawn was by some greenhorns from back east who came west filled up with ideas from those novels written back in Chicago."

So there!

Skokie Receives Traffic Award

Chief of Police William C. Griffin of Skokie has received word from the State Division of Traffic Safety that the Skokie police department has won honorable mention in the 1958 Inter-city traffic accident improvement program for cities in the population class of over 50,000. The Chief received an attractive wall certificate for outstanding participation in the Program.

Rockford, Moline, North Chicago and Lake Forest won first place in the program in their respective Illinois population group cities, receiving a magnetic traffic accident investigation board awarded by the Allstate Insurance Company of Skokie, co-sponsors with the state of the program.

'Three Cheers' For Skokie Fire Laddies

Dear Sir:

On January 13th at about 5:30 p.m. we called our Fire Department at 8340 Hamlin to report we had noticed a smoky odor in the house for the last day or so and wondered if it might be dangerous. Before we had time to realize what was happening two fire trucks and the Captain's car were here. The men of Engine 2 and Truck 1—Captain Jaeger, Lt. Burke, and Firemen Suckow, Bicknase, Guirsch, Siemsem, Baumhardt, and Tedschi—entered our home in a most orderly manner, made an extremely thorough search, and reported nothing of a serious nature.

These men were highly considerate and careful, and even spread a tarpaulin on the floors to protect the carpeting! It is certainly a comfortable feeling to know such capable and thoughtful protection is only moments away!

Three cheers for our wonderful Skokie Fire Department!

Very truly yours,

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Solotke

Barber Shoppers Donate To Hospital and School

More than one hundred members of the Skokie Valley "Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America" dug deep in their pockets to donate money for both the Skokie Valley Community Hospital and Orchard School for Retarded Children last week.

Shown in their singing headquarters of the Knotty Pine restaurant are from left: Bill Dowas, Sgt.-at-Arms; Jim Weides, vice-president; Harold Weber, representing the Skokie Valley Community Hospital; Pete Lanlum, president; Gene Lattner, representing Orchard School; Jules Kastens, secretary, and Bill Bittenbender, treasurer.

Jim Weides, v-p of the barber shop singers, is writing a check for Harold Weber, representing the Skokie Valley Community Hospital; While Peter Lahlum, president of the chapter, writes a second check for Gene Latter, representing Orchard School for Retarded Children.

Rabbi Weinstein Speaks at NTJC

Rabbi Weinstein

Rabbi Jacob J. Weinstein, spiritual leader of K.A.M. Congregation, 920 East 50th street, Chicago, will speak on "The Reconstructionist Viewpoint on God" before the Institute of Jewish Studies of The Niles Township Jewish Congregation on Monday, Jan. 26, from 9:20 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. in the synagogue, 4420 Oakton St., Skokie, Rabbi Sidney J. Jacobs serves as moderator of the series.

Schultz's Skating Soiree

Children throughout Niles Township turned out for a skating party sponsored by Bill Schultz and the Regular Democratic Organization at Terminal Park, Skokie, last week. To keep nearly a hundred children whirling about the rink in only slightly above zero weather kept a good many neighborhood wives busy.

Operating the refreshment table are from left: Mrs. Mel Hoffman, 5021 N. Suffield Ct., Mrs. Ed Eisen, 5016 Suffield Ct., Mrs. Wm. Schultz, 9036 Skokie Blvd., all of Skokie, and Mrs. Jack Schultz, 3710 Knollwood, Glenview. They served nearly 500 hot dogs, 20 gallons of hot chocolate, 400 candy bars, and 300 candy cigarettes.

Schultz was popular "dad" of the day as he awarded 110 prizes to holders of lucky ticket numbers. Skokians Nana Johnson, 9342 Kenneth, was the happy winner of a model rocket kit.

New Christmas skates received a time tested trial as Alvin Magida, 8657 N. Karlov, leads son Martin about while Mrs. Bruno Leimontas, 10 Smithwood Drive, Morton Grove, takes daughter Joan by the hand.

Donna Zee, 4250 Suffield Ct., received a fluffy toy dog.

Township Traffic Deaths Take Sharp Turn Downward in '58

Traffic deaths in Niles Township have taken a sharp turn downward, according to figures released by the Niles Township Safety Council.

"An improved official program combined with better citizen support has begun to pay off," said Leonard J. McEnnis, Jr., spokesman for the safety council.

"Thirteen persons lost their lives in traffic in the township in 1957," continued McEnnis,

"but only three were killed in traffic last year."

Niles showed the greatest reduction. Eight lives were lost there in 1957, while 1958 was a deathless year in traffic for them. Only one person died in traffic in each of the other villages.

"Even though the total number of traffic accidents increased last year," McEnnis pointed out, "safety officials believe a good part of the rise is due to the increase in traffic within the Township, and also to better accident reporting. But even with this rise in the total number of traffic accidents, injuries decreased by nearly 500."

"Niles Township is certainly to be commended for its traffic record for 1958," asserted McEnnis, "But even the three lives lost here last year were three too many. If every citizen really supports our local officials in their efforts to keep him alive in traffic, maybe 1959 can be a deathless traffic year for all of Niles Township," McEnnis concluded.

Niles Knights Hold Smoker

The Niles Knights of Columbus, an organization for Catholic men 18 years of age and older, is having an open smoker for prospective members tonight, Jan. 22, at 8:30, in the Rathskeller of the Niles Bowl, 7333 Milwaukee Ave.

All interested and qualified men who are living in the Parishes of St. John Brebeuf and St. Isaac Jogues churches are invited.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Frank McGillen, who will discuss "What it means to be a Knight of Columbus."

'BIG BLAST'

Two Skokie members of the 322d Logistical Command will be among 2,100 personnel of the Army's active and Reserve components and Army National Guard participating in the 1959 "Big Blast" exercise, and will take part in the comprehensive command post exercise, "Big Blast X", at Fort Sheridan on Jan. 23, 24 and 25. They are Colonel John A. Muzio, 8329 Tripp Avenue, and Captain Frank A. Bartilotta, 8326 N. Kildare St.

Cub Scout Project

In a planning session for the first Pine Wood Derby conducted by Cubscouts of Pack No. 6, sponsored by Timber Ridge School PTA, Manuel Solutke (leaning toward table) throws in a few helpful pointers. Basic racing kits are supplied by Boy Scout headquarters, but a helpful hand from the "dads" ease the task of turning a block of pine into a sleek racer.

Cubs will win prizes for beauty, speed, and track distance of the racers at a contest February 13 in Nilebi west. There will also be a Blue and Gold dinner for nearly 70 Cubs, their parents and guests.

The Wolf Cub Scout book is always a ready ally to Cubs Frank McCullough Jr, Den 7, 3900 Lyons and Robert Solutke, Den 9, 3651 Springfield, Skokie under the assistance of Den dad Munuel Solutke and Cubmaster Frank McCullough.

Cubmaster Frank McCullough, 3900 Lyons, Skokie, points out the next step in the completion of a race car. The young racing experts from Den No. 3 are: James McCullough (left) and Richard Hochschild, 3924 Lyons, Skokie, who appears to have a few ideas of his own on the final shape of the car to come.

Sbarbaro Orders Small Lot Building Permit

Judge John A. Sbarbaro of Superior court has entered a summary decree commanding Skokie officials to allow construction of a home on a 40-foot wide lot at 4219 Bobolink Ter. in the village.

The ruling was entered in a case filed in August, 1958, by Allan Hurwitz, the owner.

The court said the pleadings on file show there is "no genuine issue as to material facts and that the plaintiff is entitled to a decree as a matter of law." Hurwitz was represented by Attorney Sheldon Pelofsky.

In May of last year, the village zoning board of appeals denied a variation of zoning regulations over the lot, located in a single family residential zone where a frontage of 55 feet is required.

Hurwitz was unable to acquire at a "reasonable price" additional frontage from adjoining land to meet the lot area and width requirements demanded by the zoning ordinance, the court said.

Bridge Class

The Skokie Valley YMCA announces a series of ten instructional two hour lessons in contract bridge beginning the week of Jan. 26. Instructors are fully qualified, having achieved the rank of Life Master.

The scheduling of classes is arranged at the hour most convenient for the student or group, and each participant is placed according to experience in either beginner, intermediate, or advanced classes. In order to assure adequate attention,

District 68 School Board Asks Nominees

Persons desiring to run for the District 68 school board as a caucus candidate have until Jan. 28 to get their applications in.

This was announced today enrollment is limited.

All classes are held in the Skokie Valley YMCA headquarters 6200 Touhy, at the site of the Leaning Tower. For additional information, please call NILES 7-6161.

by the district organization—the "nominating committee for school board members of district 68." The group formerly was known as the "School District 68 Caucus."

Officers of the nominating committee are Walter Greaves, chairman; Roy F. Cogen, vice chairman, and Evelyn Martin, secretary-treasurer, to whom names may be submitted. Her address: 5230 Suffield Ct.

Incumbents whose school board terms expire are Marion Osborn and Neville Grabow. Holdovers are Ben Yoshioka, Harold Harris, Nathin Nahin, Albert Fox and Herman Block.
