Statement of League of Women Voters of Shreve to the Library Board of Directors

March 8, 1947

After studying the subject for some six months, the Local Government Workshop reported to the general League membership at a series of three meetings in February. The following statements represent the viewpoint of the League on the various topics that were discussed. An evaluation of the Library's holdings or its personnel was not in the scope of this study. We thought you would be interested in the opinions of our group.

We think that Shreve needs an enlarged main library. The need for an expanded main library was felt to be more important than branch facilities. (The fact that a branch library would not be a duplicate main library seemed a new idea to most people.) There was no strong feeling that essential services were lacking and an enlarged main library was seen as the means of providing space in which to house services that are not provided at present such as record listening facilities and a film library. A strong feeling was expressed for Sunday library service.

We think library services should be accessible in other parts of the community. In view of the Citizens Committee recommendation that one or more branches in rented quarters could be started out of current revenue, there was strong feeling that this service be instituted. Increased use of school libraries was felt to have merit with or without public library sponsorship. The Bookmobile received praise, but their shortcomings were discussed and they were not seen as a substitute for branches.

We are willing to have the tax rate increased 1¢ per hundred in order that the main library may be expanded and branches established. There was strong feeling that a referendum should be held and that if a referendum were held, the public should be given opportunity to express its views on the planning.

For the most part, our meetings indicated a lack of information about library procedures on fairly routine matters such as borrowing pamphlets and requesting materials not available in the library. The majority felt there was not enough publicity about either library operations or library programs and plans. A correlation was seen between such publicity and the level of community interest in the library.

The fact that the enabling legislation governing villages of over 50,000 creates the need to appoint two library directors every four years received a lot of attention at our meetings. We think that a new ruling on the statutes should be sought from the attorney general. There was strong feeling that a citizen's group could help by encouraging people to be candidates for Library Director in the years there is a general election. There was a strong feeling that an election in which all non-partisan bodies participated (schools, park board, library board) was one worth considering. It would be more economical and it might focus more attention on those bodies than their elections currently receive. The consensus was that although the enabling legislation as it relates to the appointing of library directors does create problems, the main problem is citizen apathy. The legislature encourages this apathy. Everyone felt that candidates for library director should not be political partisans.

On the subject of liaison between the public library and the schools, the consensus was that a formal relationship is necessary to alleviate student problems. Most felt that the primary responsibility rested with the schools and that it would be rather difficult for the public library to tell the schools how to manage its teachers. We think that citizen action is necessary to bring this liaison to pass. We think that school libraries should be more available for student use during school and after school. The fact that the public library serves the whole community and not primarily the student population needs to be made clear.

Although we were not able to discuss specific building plans because these are not available, the consensus was that room for future expansion be factored. There was no objection to a two story structure. A possible setting was not considered important and economy was deemed of considerable importance. Although there was no great feeling of urgency on the subject of downtown redevelopment, most people felt that the Library's Board of Directors should be concerned with possible changes in the neighborhood of the Library and that the Village and the Library should plan together and act militarily.
