

SG Probes Parking, Gazebo

By Carol Mitchell

Possibilities of building a gazebo on campus and a study of faculty-student parking lots were discussed at Student Government meetings Friday and Monday.

Student Government met Friday to make up for the meeting postponed Nov. 8 for the pep rally. Vice President, Mike Kelly presided.

Monday

Rep. Cindy Buri reported on her meeting with President Wilbur Ball to discuss the possibility of a gazebo on campus. She reported that Dr. Ball favored the idea and was interested in the possibility of a bell tower at the same location.

A committee was formed to check on the teacher-student parking lots after several students expressed their opposition to the recent change in campus parking. Russell, Bernard Rhody and Joey Brem will compose this committee.

"Any students on campus interested in helping us review this new parking arrangement is more than welcome to meet with us at the next student government meeting. We would really appreciate some student body support", Brem said.

Several students pointed out that teachers in the H-PE department were holding MWF classes past 10 a.m. making it difficult for students to make club meetings.

SG sponsor, Don Bynum explained that the morning activity hour is for students to use as they wish and that a recommendation to the administration might be the solution to this problem.

The recommendation will request that teachers be reminded to let students out early enough to change clothes and be ready to leave the building at the bell.

Sophomore Tim Martinez explained his dislike for the new teacher-student parking assignments by the HPE building. He will be working with the committee on this situation.

The Baptist Student Union was accepted for active club status.

A mini-concert will be held in the Student Center on Nov. 24. "Rosewood," a group of four Baylor students who play at the Water Works, will entertain students.

Friday

Carol Kirkland, treasurer, volunteered to type the minutes of the Texas Junior College Student Government Association (TJCSGA) Executive meeting held here in October.

It was announced that the Region 2 TJCSGA meeting will be held at Blinn Junior College Dec. 3. Several representatives plan to attend.

Niel Russell was sworn in by Kelly. Russell will serve as the Inter-Club Council representative.

To Alleviate Overcrowding...

More Faculty Parking Allotted

Twenty new parking spaces have been given to faculty and staff. The new spaces are a result of action taken by Student Government and George Andreason, director of administrative services.

Andreason said he only had one space to every two faculty and staff. He said he did not care where the spaces were located on campus, but he definitely need them. He said we needed 20 more spaces to accommodate the faculty.

Andreason counted spaces all over campus and decided the 21 places in front of the Health and Physical Education Building would help alleviate the problem. He has also assigned lots to the different buildings, which means each faculty or staff may only park in his assigned lot.

Some will not be happy with this decision because it may involve a little more walking between the car and building.

Andreason said he felt his decision is the best that he could make at this time. He hopes by putting in these new spaces it will help the overcrowding problem in the lot behind the Applied Science Building.

"There are plenty of parking

Committee Nominates White For TJCTA President -Elect

Dr. Michael White, teacher aide coordinator, has been nominated for president-elect of the Texas Junior College Teachers Association (TJCTA).

"I'm very excited about it, and of course, I would like to win," Dr. White said.

Dr. White received notice of his nomination last week. The nominating committee met in Corpus Christi Oct. 30 to choose a slate of nominees for the state offices of the organization. The election of state officers will be at the end of March at the state convention in San Antonio.

Dr. White has served on the executive committee of TJCTA as treasurer and has also served as state membership chairman.

"I like the direction it's (TJCTA) going and would like to keep it going in that direction," he said.

Dr. White said that he had received support for his nomination from the faculty and from members of the organization at other junior colleges.

"It's a lot of work, but I think it will certainly be good for our school," said Dr. White.

Services Council Suggests Fines Hike

Talk centered on parking violations as the Student Services Council met Thursday. Dr. LaVerne Wong, dean of student services, presided over the group discussion of fines and other business. Don Bynum, director of student activities explained the problems he and his staff are having because of unpaid parking tickets. The huge increase in the number of tickets this year compared to last year was another problem listed by Bynum.

A motion was passed by the council to increase the fines that are now in effect. The proposal will be considered by the dean of student services and then by President Wilbur Ball. The council proposed that for a first offense the fine be raised to $3 if paid within five class days. If the fine is not paid by then, $5 will be charged.

Other business discussed was the feasibility of more pep rallies. Bynum will investigate this.

Unfinished business touched on by the council consisted of the spring break poll. Talk also centered on the Student Center cafeteria and the acquisition of a cold drink machine which is now in operation.

Dr. Wong read a letter from Hugo Malanga, traffic and transportation planner of Waco, thanking MCC for its concern over the new traffic lights installed on North 19th.

The council reviewed resumes from 37 eligible nominees for Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges.

Corpuscule Collectors To Visit Campus

A campus blood drive will be held by Central Texas Red Cross from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Thursday in the Student Center. The blood drive is sponsored by Student Government and other campus organizations.

Volunteer student representatives will be assisting Red Cross officials. Central Texas Red Cross will also bring a complete staff of trained nurses to check blood pressure and evaluate each donor.

In previous blood drives on campus the maximum amount of units donated ranged from 75 to 85 units. Student Government has set this year's goal at 100 units. Reaching this goal would provide the Red Cross with a larger supply which is always needed during the holiday season.

Campus clubs will compete to donate the most units. Students interested in participating for their club can sign a sheet with their name and the club name. To get credit, they must be an active member before the donation procedure. A trophy will be awarded to the club who gives the most blood. The entire donation procedure takes about 30 minutes.

Blood donors must weigh over 110 pounds and be from 18 to 65 years of age. Donors must allow 8 weeks between donations. Those who wish to donate blood are advised to eat certain foods such as meats, vegetables, fruits, juices, crackers, toast, milk, tea or coffee within 4 hours prior to donating. The Red Cross also asks donors to avoid fatty meats and fried foods before donating.

OEA Offers Cakes

The Office Education Association (OEA) Club is now taking orders for homemade cakes for Thanksgiving. Pints and quarts of home-produced honey have been donated to the club for sale.

Orders, which can be placed in Don McCauley's office or with a OEA member, must be in by Friday.

Deliveries will be made Nov. 24. Ten varieties of cakes are available at $2.50 and $3 each.

UT Scholarship Available

The University of Texas at Austin is continuing its Achievement Scholarship Program for freshmen minority students. A student must be entering UT for the first time and meet admission requirements.

The scholarship is $1000 per academic year for a maximum of four years. Interested students may contact Sandra Rosemore in the Counseling Office.

Club Plans Trip

Members of the Astronomy Club are planning a trip to Arecibo, Puerto Rico to visit the world's largest radio telescope. They will leave the Monday after the end of the spring semester.

An invitation to visit and photograph the facility was extended to the members after Dr. Harlan Smith, one of the world's top astronomers, viewed "A Childhood's End"; "A Childhood's End" is a multi-media production that was made by several members of last year's Astronomy Club. Dr. Smith contacted Dr. Frank Drake, director of the radio telescope at Arecibo, and told him of the club's plans to make a documentary about the historical and technical aspects of the telescope.

Members will spend five days and four nights in Puerto Rico. After arriving in San Juan, they will travel 40 miles to Arecibo, which is in the mountains.

Club members will be responsible for paying their airfare; the club will hopefully be able to pay for any other expenses, said Wayne Duncan, sponsor.

Sponsors going on the trip will be Gary Duncan and Melvin Hood.

A. S. K. In Parade

Members of the Afro Student Kindred will participate in the Paul Quinn Homecoming Parade Saturday. They will be taking State Home children.

BEOG Checks

The last disbursement of Basic Educational Opportunity Grant (BEOG) checks for the fall semester will be Tuesday in the Financial Aids Office on the second floor of the Student Center.

Council To Meet

The Inter-Club Council has called a meeting at 10 a.m. Friday in the Tartan Room.

"A Better You"

A Better You (ABY) is a club helping 18 faculty, staff and students lose an average of 16 pounds this semester. The club is sponsored by Mrs. Blanche Willis, director of health services.

"The group offers help in diet and nutrition planning, weight, goal setting, encouragement and recognition of weight loss," said Mrs. Willis.

There are no dues, just help at being "A Better You." Faculty, staff and students can join any time during the year by coming by the first aid room on the ground floor of the Student Center, she said.

Mark DeVries as Mak brings home a stolen lamb for his wife Gill, played by CaSandra Cossey, to hide in a scene from "Second Shepherd's Play," the first of a double feature opening Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theatre. The play is a comedy set at the time of the birth of Jesus. The second feature is "Everyman," considered to be the greatest of all morality plays. For reservations and information call 756-6551, ext. 283. All seats are reserved and free to students, faculty and staff. Performances will be held Thursday through Saturday.

Orators To Participate In SWTSU Speech Festival

The MCC speech squad travels to San Marcos Friday for the Southwest Texas State University Speech Festival (SWTSU). Ann Harrell, speech instructor said 13 students will compete in the 28th annual festival.

She said that this year's tournament has made several changes to expand the scope of activities and to accommodate a broader section of the forensic community.

Mrs. Harrell, who has taken a speech team to the SWTSU festival for the past five years, termed this year's squad as "young, but having a tremendous amount of potential."

Entering competition will be Kathy Miller, Kay Stiffler, Neil Russell, Paul Hill, Trevor Duffer, Joel Derting, Joe Martinez, Susanna Guerra, Becky Rose, Martha McConnell, Donna Richter, Carol Minchue and Tina Whitley. Events include oral interpretation, persuasive speaking, debate, readers theater and extemporaneous speaking.

Parking Space Allotted

spaces for all students on campus, even without these 20," said Andreason.

Last Monday, campus police began issuing courtesy tickets to students parking in the spaces in front of the HPE

Building. The courtesy tickets were only a warning.

By contract The Art Center is allotted 30 parking spaces for their visitors and employees; they currently have 14 spaces. Within the next two or three weeks the other 16 spaces will be put in.

Andreason said, "We (MCC) have nothing to do with this contract because it was made with the Art Center. The Art Center is totally separate from MCC. We have got to give them these extra 16 spaces." This will mean a little more inconvenience to the students.

Students Get 'IDEA' On Faculty Evaluation

By Marilynn Jones

Students will have the opportunity to evaluate their instructors on a new evaluation form; the new form is called Instructional Development and Effectiveness (I.D.E.A.).

"This is the first week students have been issued the I.D.E.A. forms. Instructors will be giving the evaluation sheets to their classes until the end of this semester," said Dr. Ronald Smith, dean of instruction.

I.D.E.A. is an evaluation instrument produced by the Center for Faculty Evaluation and Development in Higher Education. It is associated with Kansas State University.

"I.D.E.A. is a means of getting the students' input and perception of what the instructor is doing in the course and how it relates to the objectives in the course," said Dr. Smith.

"The evaluation will be more on the instructions of the faculty member rather than the faculty member. The reason for this evaluation is to improve instructions. Based on what we learn from Kansas State we will develop ways of improving instructions in the class," said Dr. Smith.

The college has done evaluations for a long time, but this one will be more useful. This is the first year I.D.E.A. has been used. A great deal of research has been done and there will be some recommendations to come out of this. The recommendations will be based on what the students say and what course the instructor is teaching.

Questions for the evaluation are based on course objectives.

"Something may be a weakness in one course and in another course it may not matter at all," he said.

I.D.E.A. is not necessarily being given in all classes. All full time instructors will participate in the fall or spring semester or both semesters. The instructors might not evaluate every class in the fall or the spring, he said.

The students will get a sheet of 39 questions and a response card. Students are to respond by marking the appropriate place on the card in pencil.

"There may be some other items that will appear on the forms for courses such as hospital and clinical training and cosmetology. The center has helped provide ideas for the extra questions in each subject area. The response card allows for 20 extra questions," said Dr. Smith.

"This is a trial project for two year period. It was recommended by the faculty and is not imposed by administration. I.D.E.A. says more than the instructor is good or average. It says the instructor is good or average and this is how you can do better," said Dr. Smith.

Students do not put their name on the evaluation card. The evaluation will not be back from Kansas State until the spring semester after students have already received their fall semester grades, he said.

Transfer Soukup Impressive

By Glenn Vrba

Question: Who is 6 feet 4, weighs 210 lbs., has red hair and moustache, and is currently starting for Coach Johnny Carter's Highlander basketball team? Give up? Who is's none other than Jim Soukup, the Highlander's freshman post man.

Soukup is a graduate of Houston North Shore High School where he was a three-time all-district performer during his high school career.

He averaged 26 points and 17 rebounds a game his senior year and was selected to the All-Greater Houston elite squad during that same year. Also, he garnered the award of most valuable player in his district (20-4A) in his final prep season.

After high school, Soukup had the problem of choosing between MCC and Lamar University in Beaumont. He chose Lamar, but quickly became disenchanted with the school. Right before his first season there, Soukup reinjured his right knee and did not see any action. Thus, he dropped out after one semester and saved his eligibility for MCC.

The injured knee was found to have a cancerous growth that was eating a hole in his kneecap. This was solved by trimming the cartilage so that it covered the hole. It took Soukup six months to recover from the operation that has hopefully ended his knee problems.

Soukup has positive ideas about this year's team: "I think we have a super team. I see no reason why we can't go far, for we have a close, united team and we work well together. I'm really looking forward to the rest of the season."

Coach Carter has been extremely impressed with Soukup: "Jim is a constant hard worker, and he is always pushing himself. He's a smart, aggressive defensive player and is a sound fundamentalist. As an offensive player, he has good post moves and is quick for his size."

One might say that Soukup looks at his future the way everyone should. When asked about his plans for the coming years, Soukup said, "I'm just taking my years one at a time, trying to do my best. If I do my best in these two years at MCC, I feel I can get some offers from some four-year colleges."

As a sideline from his basketball talents, Soukup enjoys plants, and has many growing in his apartment.

Highlanders Fare Well At Hillsboro; Defeat TSTI And San Antonio College

By Roger Busby

The Highlanders slipped and slid to the Hill Junior College Classic this past weekend. The unexpected sleet and snow storm that chilled Waco and Hillsboro failed to do the same to Coach Johnny Carter's Highlanders.

The Highlanders heated the whole house overriding their opponent TSTI 87-43.

With Vinnie Johnson leading the way (32 points in little more than a half's action) Carter's forces pressed TSTI into mistake after mistake and in the process drilled the baskets. Sam Worthen tossed in 15 points while Johnson added his 32. Glenn Minnex hit 8 points, Ed Marshall accounted for 9 more, and Jim Soukup and Martin Schwartz each had 6.

Ron Sanfallipo came off the bench and contributed 4 points and aggressive defensive work. Burt Burrows, the leader in Carter's depth on the bench, pushed in 3 points. The scoring was rounded out by John Hightower and James Howard with 2 points each.

The Highlanders out rebounded the inexperienced TSTI team, 41-29. Johnson led with 8, followed closely by Soukup, 7; Worthen, 6; Minnex and Marshall, 5 each; Grimes and Schwartz, 4 each; and Hightower and Burrows, 1 each.

The opponents were paced by Bill Keese and Don King, 12 and 14 points respectively, while five others couldn't produce more than 4 points each. Keese, Don Phillips, and King all had 6 rebounds.

The weather remained the same for the Saturday night MCC-San Antonio College (SAC) matchup. The scheduled night cap featuring Hill and TSTI was cancelled because of expected icy highways. The ice on the highways never appeared, but the Highlanders once again formed ice on their opponents' basket with a devastating, pressing defense and came away with a 91-56 decision.

Minnex provided the fire power, as Coach Carter expects him to this year, with 18 points and 9 rebounds. Worthen followed closely with 16 points and 2 bounces-off-the-boards. Jim Soukup played his usually fine game by adding 13 points and 5 rebounds.

Carter got exceptional, well-rounded play from both starters and bench.

"We played real good defense. We did some things we should not have done, but we played like we are going to have to play to do well this year," he said.

Johnson got into foul trouble early in the first half and played only about 20 minutes of the game. "He played a good ball game," said Carter. "His scoring was down, but he played aggressive defense and rebounded well. The response that we got from our bench was what we were needing in that type of situation. We came out of it in good shape."

Johnson tallied 10 points and 3 rebounds while being banged around quite a bit. The response from the bench that Carter referred to was the strong point.

Hightower played a good game while putting in 8 points with 3 rebounds, starter Marshall and Sanfallipo added 6 points each, while Grimes and Swartz each added 4 points and 3 rebounds. Burrows, Al Mann and Howard each tallied 2 points with Burrows accounting for 4 rebounds.

S.A.C. was lead by Bill Bailey with 13 points. The next highest S.A.C. scorer could produce only 8 points against the Highlanders press. S.A.C. was forced into 26 mistakes many of which were converted into Highlander points.

Coach Carter pointed out, "We'll play tougher competition this year, but we played well Friday and much better Saturday. Our rebounding was good but it needs to get better. Our press looked good Saturday. We'll score on people. It's our defense that will win for us this year. In that respect I was fairly well pleased, however, we can and should improve."

The Highlander's home opener is tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. with Tyler Junior College.

MCC Invades SHSU Friday For Tourney

Coach Johnny Carter's Highlanders will take on Angelina Junior College at 2:30 p.m. Friday in first-round action of the Sam Houston State University Tournament in Huntsville.

Depending on the outcome of the contest with Angelina, MCC will play the winner or loser of the Henderson-Wharton game Saturday.

Four major college teams, including Dallas Baptist and the host school Sam Houston, will also participate in the tourney. However no junior college team will play a major college squad.

Freshman Jarvis Aims To Fill Backcourt Role For MCC

By Terry Tacker

A successful basketball team, ask any coach, needs a responsible playmaker who can lead the team and set up the offensive plays. Last year's Highlassie squad was blessed with a outstanding guard, Carol Remus. Remus, now at the University of Texas, left her role as playmaker to Groesbeck-ex Kathy Jarvis.

Jarvis, a physical education major, is excited about the Highlassies' fast start, and she expects a profitable year.

"I believe our strong point is that all the girls are working for the success of the team, not just themselves. We have good height and defense. Our outside shooting is not what it should be, but we are working on that," said Jarvis.

Although not blessed with much height, Jarvis was a four-year letterman for the Groesbeck Goats. Her sophomore year, Jarvis made all-district honorable mention. She switched from defense to offense her junior year, and this move gained her all-district laurels both her junior and her senior year.

MCC's friendly people and her desire to continue playing basketball brought Jarvis to this campus. She likes the college game more than high school basketball.

"You have to get in shape and stay in shape, but it is enjoyable to play both offense and defense," said Jarvis.

The 5'2" freshman revealed her goals for the basketball season simply as "doing whatever I can do to help the team and hopefully reaching the regional tournament. But first we have to do well in conference competition."

Coach Pam Davis' Highlassies do not run too many plays leaving Miss Jarvis thinks this attitude will change.

"Well, of course, we have to win games. People are not going to support us unless we will win. We didn't have much experience last year, but this year is going to be different. All the players believe we are going to have a successful season."

'Lassies Posponed

The basketball game between the Highlassies and Henderson County, which was to be held Tuesday night, was postponed due to conflicting schedules of the teams.

with the main concern of bringing the ball upcourt against opposing teams' presses. "Our offense is built so that when I cross midcourt, everyone moves. At that point we can do different things to get easy shots," said Jarvis.

With women's basketball in just its second year here at MCC, the student's reaction to and support of the team has been below par. But Jarvis

Scoring Points

By Terry Tacker

THE MCC CLASSIC FOR WOMEN'S BASKETBALL TEAMS was cancelled this past weekend due to several conflicts. Dallas Baptist has dropped their women's basketball program, and Navarro let it be known that they were not participating in the two-day tournament. The Baylor Bearettes were sending their junior varsity instead of their main squad, and finally the snow storm prevented fans to reach the games, so the whole affair was cancelled. Thursday at 5:45 p.m., the Highlassies play Mountainview in Dallas. The University of Texas women's team, which includes former Lassie star Carol Remus, takes on MCC at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Highlander Gym... THE TEXAS LONGHORN CONQUEST of 34-7 over Texas Christian Saturday, did little to brighten the sagging Horned Frog football program. TCU players were hoping to win two of their three remaining games against the Longhorns, Texas A&M and Baylor. TCU administrators and athletic officers are firmly committed to restoring the football program to competitive respectability. The Horned Frogs were picked by many to win their first game of the year, against SMU, but lost decisively, and their season has been going downhill ever since. Head coach Jim Shofner has now committed to resignation after the last game. The Frogs have financially lived to fight another day because they've been scheduled against traditional powers in order to offset sagging attendance at home. A check from a Nebraska or Tennessee game amounts to around $160,000. North Texas head football coach and athletic director Hayden Fry, doesn't agree with TCU tactics of playing powerful teams to make money. "I swear I don't understand the TCU situation. They won't even discuss a game with us when it could become a natural rivalry. They go off and play that tough non-conference schedule and get so banged up that they have no chance in conference." Only one thing is certain about the TCU program; whoever takes over as head coach will have one of the biggest rebuilding jobs ever faced by a football coach...

SPEAKING OF NORTH TEXAS FOOTBALL AND FRY, the head man of the Mean Green is still having problems trying to schedule games with Southwest Conference teams. "Only two Southwest Conference schools, Texas and Baylor, will even return my telephone calls," said Fry. "Their goodness for those two. They are interested in trying to work out something with us. The others try to ignore us." Some SWC schools may still question the play of North Texas and the backing from the students the Mean Green receive. NTSU has lost games to SMU and Florida State, certainly not football powerhouses. But on the other side of the fence, North Texas definitely outplayed Oklahoma-State and the University of Texas before losing both games.
