

Energy Crisis Not 'Put On', Says Andreason

By Debbie Garrett

MCC's Energy Conservation Committee began about two years ago with the growing concern over a possible energy crisis. The crisis has struck again and appears to be getting worse with each day.

George Andreason, director of administrative services, said "the nation is in the midst of the greatest energy crisis ever and we must realize that it is not a put on by the oil and electric companies." Andreason said, "Unless the nation begins to mine coal again it is possible that in 10 years there will be nothing left to conserve."

The thermostats in all the buildings here are supposed to be set at 68 degrees in the winter and 78 degrees in the summer. Balancing air control is difficult in many buildings, said Andreason.

MCC's average electricity bill is about $140,000 for one full year. The committee is hoping for a savings of 15 per cent a year from now on.

The committee consists of faculty and administrative persons in each building. These members "monitor the buildings checking thermostats and the usage of lights.

A few committee suggestions are during the activity hour all unused rooms should have the lights turned out, and any other time when a room is not in use. Also, blinds can be used for adjusting temperature control and balancing. When the sun is shining open the blinds, so that the solar heat may penetrate in the room. When it is gray and cold outside, close the blinds to prevent the cold from entering the room. Blinds may also be used as a tool for more and better lighting.

Another aspect of the committee is lowering the water temperature. This curdown will also alleviate the high bills.

Over the last year the school has been shutting down all heat in the winter and air conditioning in the summer inside buildings on campus during the night. The controls are turned back on about one and a half hours before classes in the morning.

The committee meets about every three months. Andreason conducts inspection tours of the buildings and reports any malfunctions there might be or that may arise.

Instructor Chronicles Local History

By Terry Tacker

One of the most popular trends in America today is the nostalgia craze. One example of this "reflecting upon the past" can be found here at MCC in the form of an English teacher's spare time project.

Instructor Jeannette McGinnis has co-authored "They Found The Black Lands—A Genial Record of Moody, Texas And Surrounding Area." The 300-plus page book is in the process of being published by Texian Press and will be available to the public in July.

Moody, population 1,500, lies in the southwestern part of McLennan County. Both authors, Mrs. McGinnis and Mrs. Hazel Alexander Potter, were born in Moody and today live in the town.

The book, which covers all known inhabitants of Moody from the 1800's to 1950, took three years to write.

"When we started, several people said complications would stop us and at times it appeared they would be right. But the overall response from the people was really good," said Mrs. McGinnis.

After the idea of the book was conceived, the authors sent word to Waco, Temple and Moody newspapers that the book was to be written and asked that anyone having any information about Moody to send the information to them.

"After it was all over, we had phone calls and letters from every state in the United States. And people are still calling us," said Mrs. McGinnis.

Included in the work is the birth, marriage, death, place of burial, cause of death and ancestors of Moody residents. "It is a fantastic record of people; we even went as far back as the first ancestor who came to Texas," said Mrs. McGinnis.

The purpose for the book, which will be distributed by the authors, is for people to read and enjoy and also as a memorial to those who are dead. According to Mrs. McGinnis, "it's hard to know where you are going unless you know where you came from."

The response is quick when one asks Mrs. McGinnis if the project was worth the time and energy. "It gives me extreme self-satisfaction to see people work on their own family tree and to watch the excitement of the people. People in Moody know each other better now because of the book."

The book will arrive in limited numbers, and interested persons may order a copy from either author.

Representatives, Officers Take SG Oath Monday

By Amy Dunkle

Eight new representatives and two officers were sworn into Student Government at its meeting Monday by President Mike Kelley. They are Vice-President Vint Carpenter, Treasurer Mark Henson, representatives Martha Kudelka, Keith Glass, Donna Goates, Rita McNamara, Dennis Kutscherovsky, James Bush, Donna Towns and Mark Lasseter.

A registration committee was formed to work at the Friday Region Texas II Texas Junior College Student Government meeting Feb. 11. Members are Laura Langford, Paula Roerick and Martha McConnell. Forty dollars was appropriated for refreshments during the meeting.

New members Donna Goates, Donna Towns and Martha Kudelka were appointed to the Scrapbook Committee. The scrapbook will be entered in state competition later in the year at the state Texas Junior College Student Government Association convention.

Martha McConnell, chairperson for the Pre-registration Procedures

Committee explained the projected procedures outlined for pre-registration. This procedure will eliminate standing in lines for hours at registration.

Bernard Robde was appointed chairman of the Games Room Committee after the resignation of Mark Henson. Robde reported that the Government Hosts Region SG Meeting

MCC will be host school for the Region II Texas Junior College Student Government spring general meeting. Registration will begin at 10 a.m. Friday in the Student Center.

Representatives from 11 junior colleges are expected to attend.

The 11 junior colleges are MCC, TSTI, Blinn, Weatherford, Hill, Ranger, Cisco, Temple, Navarro, Central Texas and Southwestern Assemblies of God.

Officers for Region II are President, TSTI; Vice-president, Hill Junior College; and secretary, Blinn Junior College.

Friday's keynote speaker will be Ferrill Hunter, Vice-President of Development Success Motivation Institute. He will speak on "How to Motivate Your Senate and Yourself."

For the afternoon workshop "Leadership Skills for Effective Meetings" will be presented by Sally Lacher, coordinator of special projects for student services at TSTI.

Over the past seven years, MCC has held every office in the State Association of Junior Colleges. This year MCC holds the office of state secretary. The other offices held were President, Vice-president, Treasurer, Parliamentarian, Host School and Editor of the Bulletin.

billiards tournament is now being played.

Afro Student Kindred and Student Government are sponsoring a rhythm and blues mini-concert Friday in the Student Center. The band, "Natural Time", plays at Nite Life during the week.

Because of resignations, a new Clocks For Classrooms Committee was formed. Joe Martinez, Vint Carpenter and Laura Langford were appointed. The committee is trying to get clocks for all classrooms without them now.

Student Government will conduct a survey Wednesday at 10 a.m. to find out how students feel about the proposed 12 to 1 p.m. activity hour.

Kelley introduced the suggestion from the Highlanders to "play music before basketball games. Reasons for not already playing music at home games were discussed. It was reported the cassette recorder player was stolen at a basketball game before Christmas, but Student Government decided to arrange for music to be played at games as soon as possible.

The Miss Waco Beauty Pageant was discussed. Anyone interested in being sponsored by the Student Government may talk to Don Bynum or Mike Kelley.

Carol Degrate and Paula Roerick will represent MCC at the TJCSGA Executive Board meeting Saturday in the Administration Board room.

Students, Fans Asked To Control Emotions

During Monday night's MCC-Weatherford game in Highlander Gym, the crowd control situation was on the edge of getting out of hand.

Student Activities Director Don Bynum and Athletic Director Jimmy Clayton have voiced their concern over the situation and feel that the students should be informed of the consequences if a problem does arise.

"The crowd at Monday's game was not uncontrollable. It was real good spirit, there were a few cup-throwers, but as a whole the fans reacted well under the situation," said Bynum.

The two primary concerns of host schools at a basketball contest is to protect the officials and protect the visiting team. If these situations are not met, the whole school and individual teams could be put on probation.

Both the Highlanders and Highlasses have good chances to reach the regional tournament, so the students should take this into consideration before exhibiting physical violence.

recently proposed a rate increase for the city of Waco. The proposal if passed would mean an increase of 25 per cent for residents and 40 per cent for schools. MCC would be affected by this increase because the school is serviced by TP&L.

The committee is now looking into the possibility of installing a computerized power management program in the future. Sensors would be placed in all buildings and these sensors would feed back to the central computer. The sensors would be able to determine if the building needed a change in the air control. The central computer could automatically shut down or increase the amount of air flow through the buildings and could also regulate it in cycles.

Andreason said, the savings would be about 10 to 25 per cent and the program would pay for itself in two years.

Movie Review

True Story Features Silent Phantom Killer

By Bryan Davis

Showing at the Lake Air Cinema Theater through this week-end is the motion picture, "The Town That Dreaded Sundown."

The best thing going for this film is the fact that it is true. The plot concerns the mysterious psychotic killer who terrorized the town of Texarkana, Ark., in 1946. Striking periodically, usually preying on young couples "parking" in secluded areas, the masked killer turned the otherwise normal city into a town that "dreaded sundown."

The killer's feet slowly creeping upon his unsuspecting victims, their pleas for help and their brutal murders are frightening and real. However, there is no suspense because the narrator says at the film's beginning that the killer is never caught.

Another plus for the film is enough humor sprinkled in to keep the movie from becoming too ridiculous. Add to that the fine local scenery and you have the good side of the film.

Now for the bad points. The acting in this film is so bad that you almost think the victims deserve everything they get. Ben Johnson, who plays a Texas Ranger in the film, is advertised as an Academy Award Winner (The Last Picture Show). He deserves to look like a poor imitation of the "Sockless, masked dancer" on the "Gong Show." The acting here certainly deserves every "gong" it gets.

The phantom killer himself have his "Oscar" taken back for this performance. Dawn Wells, (you'll remember her as Mary Ann on "Gilligans Island") who also receives star billing, could not have been on screen for over five minutes. Her largest line consisted of, "Floyd, did you break something?"

Despite the performances, "The Town That Dreaded Sundown" has its frightening moments. This, and the few points of interest, make this otherwise "low budget" flick watchable.

Coyotes Upset Carter, Highlanders

The Weatherford Coyotes handed the Highlanders their second conference loss of the season as they defeated the Orange 77-76 Monday night in an overflowed Highlander Gym.

MCC coach Johnny Carter was ejected from the game with 8:22 remaining. The reason for the ejection was the three technical fouls called on Carter during the course of the game.

The Highlanders had four more field goals 35-31 than the Coyotes. But Weatherford converted on 15 points from the foul line while MCC had a mere six points from the charity stripe.

Weatherford's four-cornered offense was working to perfection throughout the game. The Coyotes shot 57.4 per cent from the field while MCC hit on 50.7 per cent of its attempts.

MCC still maintained sole possession of the conference lead since Hill was defeated at Ranger by the same score as the MCC-Weatherford contest.

MCC Rips Grayson

Ten Highlassies got into the scoring act as the MCC women's team defeated Grayson 76-52 Thursday night in Highlander Gym. The win upped the Highlassies' conference mark to 2-1 on the year.

The Grayson women, their tallest performer being 5 ft. 7 in., were forced to shoot from the outside the entire game. Highlassie post Jackie Swaim used her superior height advantage to score at will against Grayson's 2-1-2 zone defense.

MCC, with Swaim scoring the first seven points of the game, built up a quick 31-11 lead.

Coach Pam Davis then inserted substitutes into the contest.

Grayson, now 1-2 in conference action, fell behind as much as 25 points, 63-38 with 11:13 remaining. Davis then inserted her subs again, coasting to the final 24 point victory margin.

Golfers Lead Field

The MCC golf team is in the process of participating in three-round competition against Temple Jr. College and the University of Texas freshmen performers.

The first 18 holes were played on the Morris Williams course in Austin. Monday, the action shifted to the Lake Waco Country Club course with the final 18 holes played Tuesday in Killeen at the Municipal Course there.

After the first wo rounds of competition, MCC has the lowest score at 933. Texas is second at 947 and Temple trails the field with a 979 total.

Kirk Branum from the University of Texas has the lowest individual score. Steve Bowman and Bobby Heath each have carded a 151 for the lowest MCC score. The remaining Highlander's scores read Mark Knutson with a 153, David Sann 157, Dave Davis 158 and Burt Atkinson has a 159.

MCC Rips Weatherford

By Terry Tacker

Revenge was sweet for the MCC Highlasses Monday night in Highlander Gym as Coach Pam Davis' crew defeated Weatherford 71-51. The win avenged an earlier 83-76 loss at the hands of the Super Gold Gals in Weatherford and also moved the Highlasses into a first place tie in the Northern Texas Junior College standings with a 3-1 mark.

The game was a reversal of the earlier match between the teams. This time MCC jumped out into a quick lead, 8-0 with 15:36 left in the first half. Claire Morris, who is quickly becoming the Highlasses' most improved player, scored six first half field goals and also forced three turnovers by Weatherford. The Lassies widened their lead to 22 at halftime, 41-19.

Darla Wardlaw, Weatherford's 5 ft. 7 in. guard from Hale Center, was not nearly as effective as she was in the game at Weatherford. Wardlaw, who scored 24 points in the first meeting, tallied only four points for the evening. Also, the Super Gold Gals could muster a meek eight field goals in the first 20 minutes.

MCC built its biggest lead of the night, 57-27, with 11:20 remaining. Weatherford outscored the Highlasses in the second half 33-30 but the game's outcome was never in doubt after the first half.

Jackie Swaim, Region V's

leading scorer and rebounder, had 21 points for the game. Morris finished with 16 and Ellen Lindemann turned in her third impressive performance in a row, scoring 10 points. Gaye Loewe and Sharon Whitney had eight points apiece.

MCC's season record is now 16-6.

MCC 41 30-71
WC. 19 32-51

MCC scoring—Swaim, 10-1-21; Morris, 8-0-16; Whitney, 3-2-8; Loewe, 3-2-8; Lindemann, 5-0-10; Wallace, 1-0-2; Johnson, 2-2-6.

Swaim Named All-Tournament

Women Place 3rd In Baylor Tourney

The MCC Highlasses, the only junior college team in the field, surprised spectators by winning third place in the three-day Baylor Beurette Invitational Basketball Tournament with a 68-58 win over Angelo State.

The host Bearettes captured the first place trophy with a 83-64 victory over the Texas Longhorns.

MCC's Jackie Swaim was named to the all-tournament team along with Baylor's Suzie Snider Eppers, Karen Aulenbacher and Babette Metcalf, Texas' Kathy Burns, Kim Basinger, Linda Andrews and Retha Swindell. Also making the prestigious team were Texas A&I's Sandra Jimenez and Texas-Arlington's Sheila Conley.

Swaim, freshman from Azle, scored 84 points, ending as the Highlasses' leading scorer in two games and tying for the lead in the Texas game.

MCC opened its participation in the tourney with a 77-48 win over Trinity. The action took place only hours after the Highlasses had disposed of Grayson County Thursday in Highlander Gym.

The Highlasses jumped out into a quick lead against Trinity and continued to stretch their lead until the final buzzer. Swaim tallied 26 points on eleven field goals. Claire Morris was the only other Highlassie to finish in double figures as she ended with 10 scores.

Following the late night action against Trinity, MCC was forced to play early Friday morning but they came out in fine shape, beating Tarleton State 82-60.

Nine MCC players scored with Claire Morris leading the way with 29. That point production was Morris' best of the season. Swaim finished with 23. Sharon Whitney and Pat James finished with eight and seven points respectively.

Friday night in Marrs McLean Gym, MCC lost to Texas University for the third time this season, this time by twelve points, 87-75. The Texas women were ranked 15th in the nation among major college teams when they entered the tournament. MCC played well against the Longhorns and perhaps would have won if it were not for Swaim getting into early foul trouble trying to guard Texas' 6 ft. 2 in. center Swindell. The Lassies were only behind by seven 43-36 at halftime.

Swaim, Morris and Whitney each finished with 13 points for MCC. James and Ellen Lindemann scored 10 points for the Highlassie cause.

It certainly was not the Highlasses' most impressive show of the year, but MCC did upset number three seed Angelo State to capture the third place trophy. Swaim again led the way with 23, followed by Morris with 14 and Carolyn Johnson with 12.

Both teams started with a cold shooting hand. The MCC press forced many Ramette turnovers and this proved to be the difference in the Highlassie 32-19 halftime.

The Highlassie defense forced Angelo State to shoot from the outside more than any team likes to. Swaim had six first half steals and Morris used her deceiving quickness to steal four Ramette passes.

The second half brought about more MCC offensive movement. MCC extended its lead to fourteen at one point, but Angelo State closed the gap to ten against the MCC substitutes.

Landers Bust Cisco 91-73

Sophomore Vinnie Johnson tallied a school record 48 points to lead the Highlanders to a 91-73 win over Cisco.

The 48-point performance surpassed the previous record of 45 points, set by Johnson earlier this season against Navarro. The Brooklyn, NY native connected on 18 field goals and 12 free throw attempts.

Jim Soukup was the only other Highlander in double figures with 14 points.

Win 20th Game

The Highlander full court press defense forced 33 Viking turnovers, to lead MCC to a 104-96 win over Grayson County Thursday night in Highlander Gym.

The win, coupled with Cooke County's 70-62 win over Hill, enabled MCC to gather sole possession of the first place slot in the Northern Texas Junior College Athletic Conference standings.

The cat-quick Vikings led by their point guard Keith Foster gave the Highlanders real fits for 35 minutes of the game. But eventually MCC's depth and tough defense was just too much for the 4-2 Vikings to handle.

Houston freshman Jim Soukup played perhaps his best game of the year, scoring 18 points, all by the field goal route. Soukup also stole the ball five times during the first half when the game was nip-and-tuck.

The Vikings held their last lead of the game 28-26 with 9:43 left in the opening half. MCC built up a seven point lead at halftime and eventually stretched that lead to eleven, 71-60 with 12:48 left in the game. But MCC could never quite put the ballgame out of reach because of Grayson's one-two punch of Foster and Sugar Ray Marshall.

Grayson cut the MCC lead to 77-73, building up momentum in the valiant comeback try. Vinnie Johnson then scored six consecutive points and MCC was home free from that point.

Johnson was the game's leading scorer with 36 points, outdueling Foster by two scores. Sam Worthen with 16, Soukup with his 18, and John Hightower with 10, rounded out the Highlanders finishing in double figures.
