Success marks Games

By BRENDA LIGHTFOOT

The MCC Dance Company team was the big winner in this year's Highland Games.

The Student Government team came in second overall, and the "Cruzers" rounded out the top three.

The games were "successful," said Greg Clark, director of student activities. "There was real good participation, and the students seemed to enjoy the team aspect." Most of the students who participated were members of a team, but some individuals participated in events such as the stone throw, pie eating contest, jalepeno pepper eating contest, caber toss and the mile run.

The games lasted longer than they were scheduled to last, and Clark attributes this to many "last-minute" sign-ups.

To help overcome the time problem, the volleyball event in next year's games will be limited to five minutes or seven points, whichever comes first.

The Dance Company won first place in four events, including the egg toss, the three-legged race, the women's Highland Run, and the caber toss, where they also took second and third places.

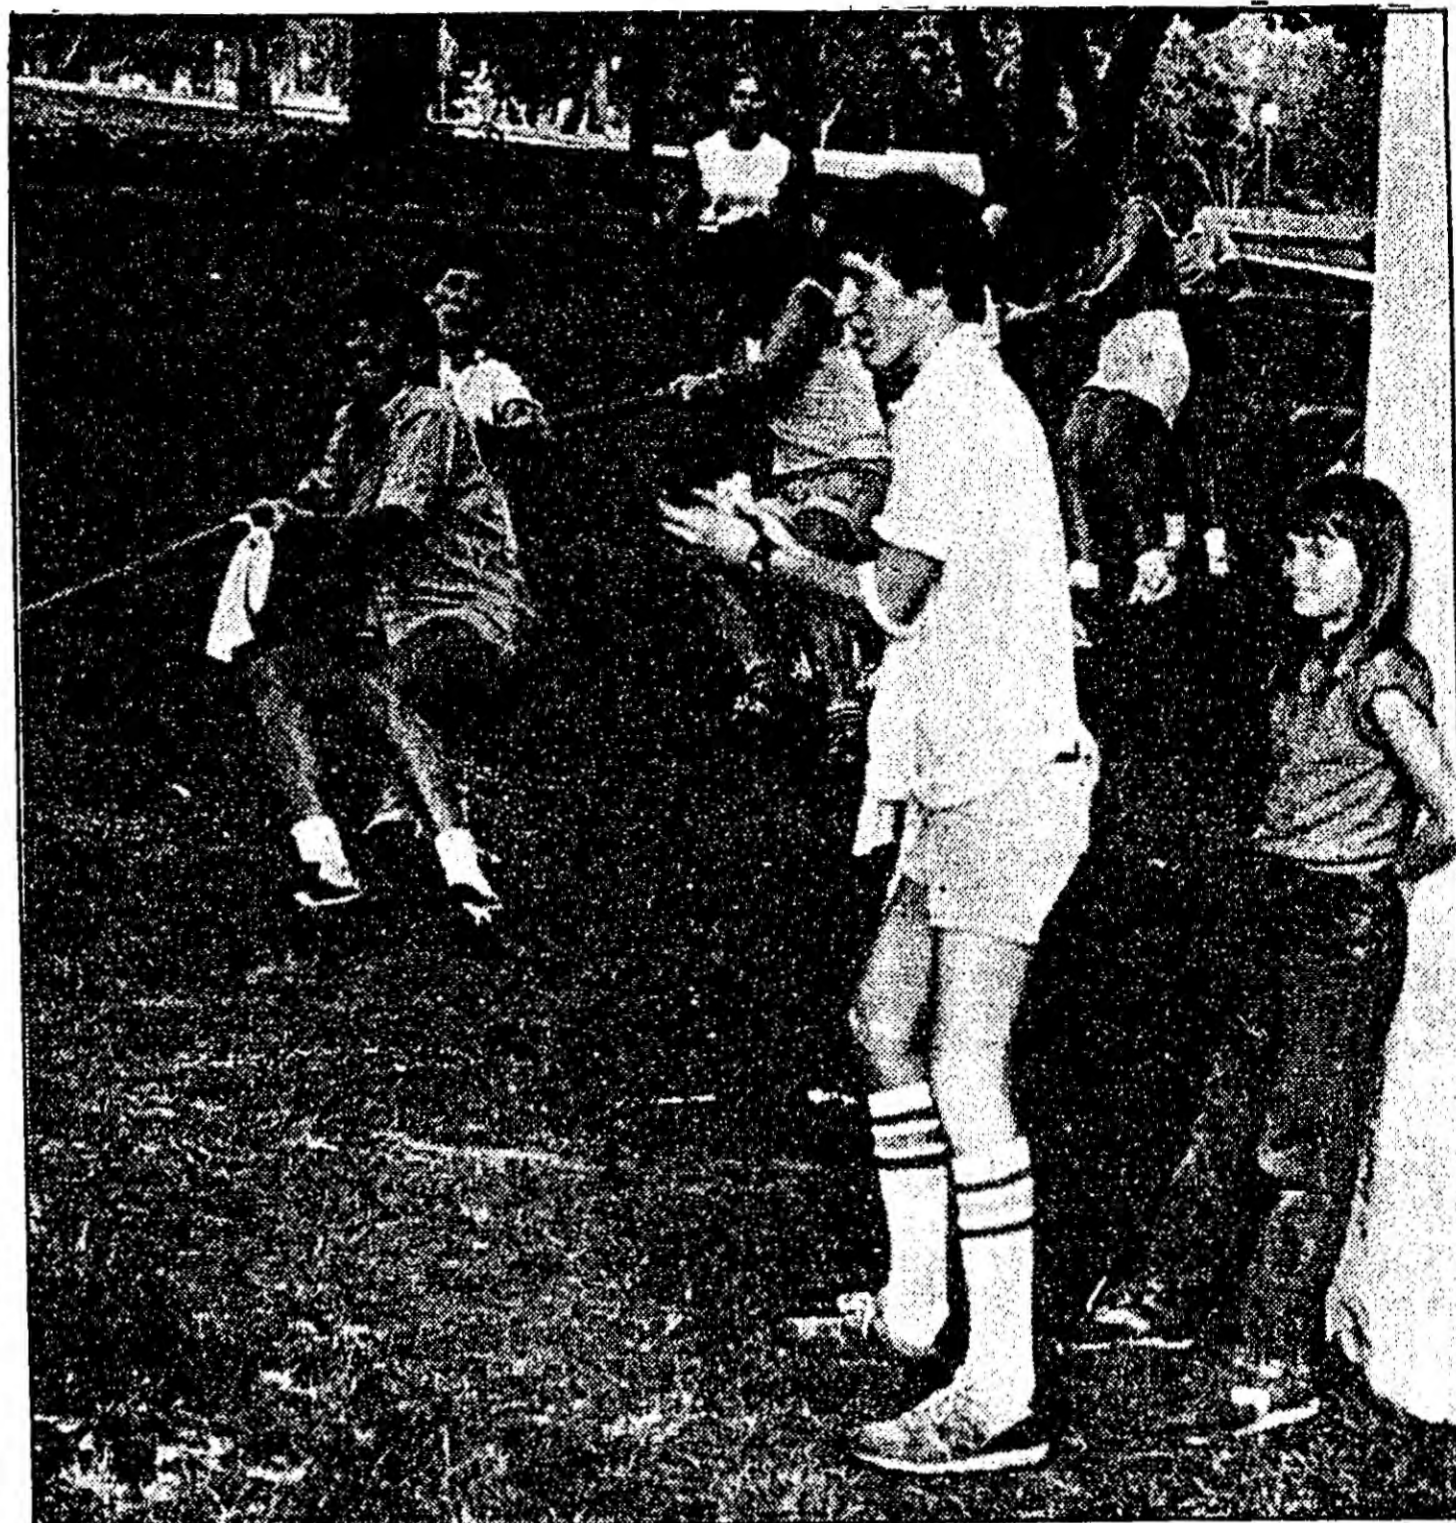

The Student Government also won first place in four events, including Lowell Adkins' triumph in the jalepeno pepper contest, in which he ate 16 peppers in a minute, the pie eating contest, won by Tracy Poe, the stone throw, won by Dean Woodall and the team tug-of-war.

The "Cruzers" took first in two events — team member Aaron Ard won the men's Highland Run and the team members won the earth ball obstacle course together.

The "Megabytes" won first place in the egg swat, and the "Midgets" were the winners in the volleyball competition.

In the traditional tug-of-war between the Highlanders and the Highlassies, the Highlanders won — but not by sheer strength. The Highlanders let go of the rope after the signal was given to begin pulling.

Trustees award contract

By BRENDA LIGHTFOOT

In a unanimous decision, a $102,179.15 contract was awarded to Downing Brothers, Inc., for the construction of streets and a parking lot at the new Performing Arts Center by MCC's Board of Trustees on April 23.

The construction project is set to begin in May and should be completed near the beginning of the 1985 fall semester.

The board also awarded a $44,563.40 contract to Sealco for resurfacing certain streets and parking lots on campus.

This action is justified because the streets are more than 15 years old and little work has been done to them, said Dr. Wilbur Ball, president of MCC.

Trustee C. Ray Perry introduced a discussion of possible ways to differentiate between streets and parking lots at MCC "so you could tell what is a street and what's a parking lot."

Signs, concrete aprons, color identification and arrows were among the solutions suggested by board members, and administrators said they would look into ways to clarify the system.

Trustees unanimously approved a contract with the Westview Nursery and Landscape Co. of Waco which would provide for the purchase of more than $14,000 worth of plants and trees.

The plants will be used for landscaping at the Performing Arts Center and the Student Center, and will be planted by MCC contract labor.

In other business, trustees unanimously approved the purchase of equipment for the secnery construction shop in the Performing Arts Center. The equipment will be purchased from the Gross Yowell Company of Waco for approximately $5,000 and will include tools such as saws and drills.

The board also approved agreements with five businesses and individuals for development and tax abatement, and the members approved authorization and issuance of replacement bonds worth $5,000 apiece.

The board also noted that board Chairman Norma Podot had been presented an award in behalf of MCC at a recent meeting of the Keep Texas Beautiful Committee. MCC was cited for its impact on students and the community through its efforts to beautify and maintain its campus (see related story).

THREE GENERATIONS — Hilary Crow, Fay Ayers and Carolyn Gates have a family gathering several times a week when they meet in the halls between classes. (Photo by Lynda Yezzi)

Three generations attend MCC

By LYNDA YEZZI

"It's a scream. A total blast!" said psychology major Hilary Crow about two of her classmates. Crow's mother, Carolyn Gates and her grandmother Fay Ayers, are students at MCC, and all three generations are taking psychology courses under Dr. Jim Hail.

Crow said that Dr. Hail finds the trio "pretty amusing."

"I like having my mom at school with me," said Crow. "I don't have to worry about gas money or drink money or anything. But don't print that or she will probably cut me off!"

"Grandmother and I also have a wonderful relationship," said Crow. "She doesn't act old and stuffy. Age to her isn't a 'matter of the month' so to speak. She goes out with us and plays pool with me, and she is one hell of a dart player. I taught her the darts and the pool, but there's a lot to learn from her. She's like a great sponge — just soaking up information."

Crow also said that although the trio have one class together, and have taken similar courses in the past, they don't study together because of "lack of time."

"It's going to take me several years to finish my psychology studies, and I need something to support myself with, so right now I'm trying to get my realtor's license," said Crow.

And in this respect, Crow is following in the footsteps of her mother.

Carolyn Gates is an associate with Century 21 realtors where she sold over $1 million dollars in real estate last year, along with holding down 18 semester hours and maintaining a 3.75 GPA.

"My major is mental health," said Gates, "but I hope to specialize in substance abuse among the elderly."

Gates, who graduated from Stephen F. Austin High School in 1958, said she decided to go back to school partly because her daughter was going. "I was not anticipating so many people going that were my age, and that has really helped me a lot. Any time you're around people who are your own age, you feel more comfortable," said Gates, "but it's really hard calling some of my teachers 'Mr.'"

Gates is like a typical student in some ways. She said that if it weren't for Hilary and Fay, she would probably be a "no show" to class on some days.

"I would probably miss days if not for the proding," said Gates. "We keep each other going in more ways than one. We don't really have time to study together, but we give each other moral support. My mother thinks young — that keeps her going, and I hope I always do too."

Fay Ayers is the eldest of the trio. She graduated from Lovelady High School in East Texas in 1937, and after her marriage in 1939, she remained a housewife until the death of her husband last November.

"I really don't have a major," said Ayers. "I'm taking interpersonal relations and psychology. This isn't for a future job like it is for Hilary and Carolyn. I just decided to come back to school." And so far, Ayers is pleased with how everything is working out.

"I've been out of school for 48 years," said Ayers, "but I thought I could at least maintain an F average. Instead I've managed to get a B."

Ayers said her one problem area is tests.

"I'm the type student that when you say 'test' I freeze. I forget everything — name, rank, serial number. If I don't know it's a test I'm fine, otherwise..."

As far as homework goes, Ayers believes "to each his own."

"We don't have time to help each other, we've just been scratching through on our own. But I always get finished first because I don't work," said Ayers.

Crow, Gates and Ayers seem to be adapting to going to school together, despite the 45-year span in their ages.

"With our age difference, it's highly unlikely we would fight over boyfriends," said Ayers, "but teachers do kid us about 'who's the boss'."

Crow said she can only recall two problems with having her mother and grandmother as classmates.

"The first semester we were here, we would hold hands and kiss in the hall. We got some pretty weird looks from the other students, until they figured out what was going on."

And the other problem?

"Well," said Crow. "I really don't like having them right in class with me. I have to act human. I can't sleep or pass notes or anything for fear of getting hit in the head by my mom."

Fashion students to tour New York City

Eighteen fashion merchandising students and their chaperones will be leaving in two weeks for a six-day tour of the clothing industry in New York City.

The MCC group will visit such places as the Gloria Vanderbilt and the Norma Kamali designer showroom and the Allied Department Store buying offices in the city's garment district.

They will tour a number of the major fashion retailers on Fifth Avenue such as Macy's, Bergdorf-Goodman, Henri Bendel, the new Trump Tower which claims to have the world's most expensive retail space, and Jerry Brown's Imported Fabric Studio.

Costume collections at the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Fashion Institute of Technology will also be a highlight on the MCC tour agenda. And in their "spare time" the group will visit such places as the World Trade Center, Wall Street, China Town, and Radio City Music Hall.

This will be the sixth New York fashion tour sponsored by MCC every two years. Students pay for all of their own expenses for the tour, and they can get three hours of credit in FM350 by completing certain course requirements including a special project. Students and their sponsor, Kae Farrell, began holding weekly preparation sessions for the trip last night. They will also meet once after they return on May 26.

Students planning to make the trip include Anthony Hogland, Chris Spencer, Craig Thomas, Julie Bertelsen, Donna Long, Gwen Perry, Sandra Nors, Debbie Knapick, Karen Allsup, Amy Gerik, Elaine Juneck, Kathleen Maguire, Megan Lewis, Laura Minnix, Joy Power, Deborah Jennings, Nancy Churchwell, and Gloria Balderaf.

Also serving as chaperon will be David Eddleman of the Everett Asbury Modeling Agency.

An ambitious summer

Poe travels on Haiti mission trip

By TINA RANKIN

Have you thought of how you will spend your summer? Tracy Poe, MCC student, has. This summer Poe will spend 10 days in Haiti, helping to build a medical clinic.

Like Poe, over 75 volunteers from the First United Methodist Church in Wortham will travel to northern Haiti at their own expense to build a medical clinic near Cap Haitien.

"The Methodist church in Mexia is helping me with the cost," Poe said, "I'm paying for some, and they're giving me some in scholarship form."

Poe said that he decided to volunteer as a builder after he heard Dr. Dean Buchmeyer talk about Haiti's poverty and the lack of medical care.

Rev. Gary Mauldin, pastor of Wortham's Methodist church, accompanied Buchmeyer on a previous trip to Haiti, in which the doctor and his family gave medical attention to needy Haitians.

This trip will be the first mission work for Poe — and construction work — he said.

The people of Haiti live in poverty and lack proper education and medical attention. This need for medical care led the Methodist church in Wortham to purchase six acres of land near Cap Haitien to build a clinic.

The clinic will be a primitive building and made of cement blocks and may have a dirt floor.

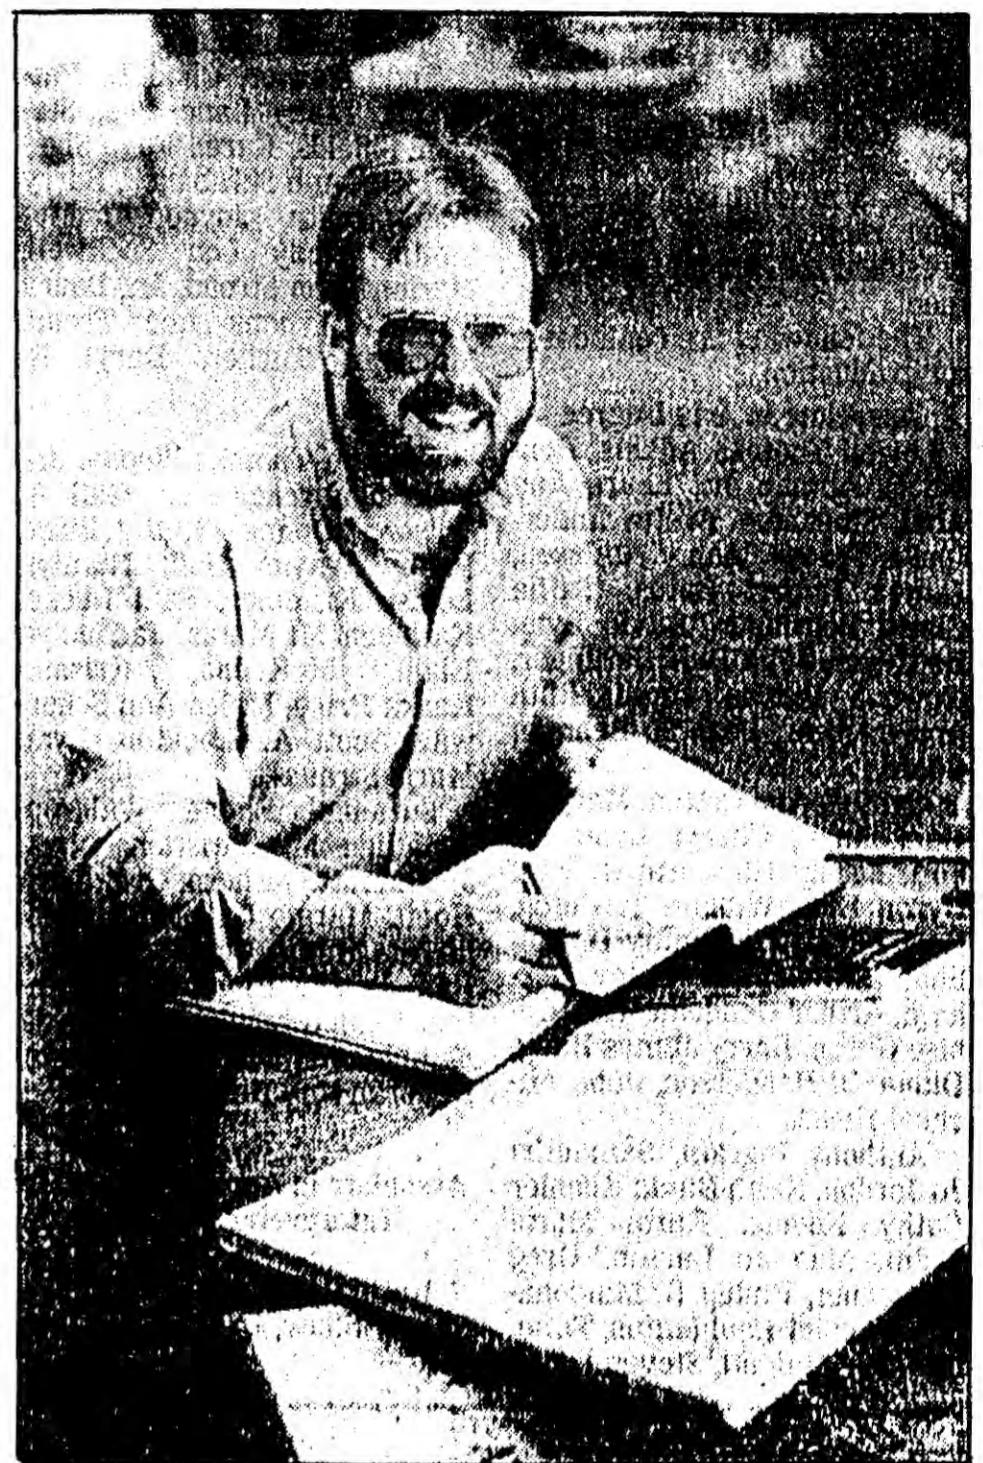

The facility built by the Methodists will be far superior to those in Haiti at this time.

On Buchmeyer's trip in December of last year, he found not only poverty, but also people with diseases.

How will this trip affect Poe?

"You can't go down there (to Haiti) and work with these people who are less fortunate than you and not come back with something," he said, "It's just impossible."

The mission trip is scheduled for June 24 to July 3.

TRACY POE awaits the days of work he will have in Haiti this summer.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir,
I hope you will be able to print this letter of appreciation for the instructors and staff of MCC.

Thirty-five years after graduation from nursing school, I decided to enroll at MCC in order to complete basic requirements towards a bachelor's degree in nursing. I am now ready to transfer to a university program — after sixteen months of hard work.

I want to take this opportunity to thank the administration, faculty, staff and students for your flowers, cards, phone calls, prayers and other expressions of sympathy and help during the time of hospitalization and death of my husband. Your friendship, encouragement and

The instructors and staff at MCC have helped to make, what might have been a stressful period, one of gratifying fulfillment. I wish I could thank each of you personally, including the library staff and Student Center employees. The support and encouragement extended to me will always be appreciated. I hope this letter reaches all of you — I couldn't have done it without you.

Thank you all,

PHILLIP MALDANADO bangs a base hit against Northwood as Jason Bridges looks on from third base. MCC took three wins, 1-0, 9-1, and 8-6.

Highlanders win seventh consecutive Region V title

By GRADY FULBRIGHT

The Highlanders took their seventh Region V title in a row Friday when they finished off Northwood Institute 9-1 and 8-6 to complete regional play with a record of 20-2, their fewest losses ever in league play.

Matt Shifflett played the mound for the Highlanders keeping Northwood to just three singles and MCC slapped 12 hits in the game mostly in two innings to take the opening game, 9-1.

The Highlanders took a 6-0 lead in the second inning after six hits had been made in the first two innings to send in three runs per inning.

In the first inning, Chris Courtright singled, followed by a walk on Chad Patterson. Jason Bridges knocked a triple into right field which scored both Courtright and Patterson. Phillip Maldonado slapped a single sending in Bridges to make the score 3-0.

Tony Baldwin walked in the start of the second inning and was sent home on a double by Bobby Joe Hill. Courtright hit a two-out single to score Hill followed by a line drive by Patterson to score Courtright and make the score 6-0.

The Highlanders scored three more runs in the fourth inning.

In the nightcap, Northwood took a 2-0 lead on a two-run homer.

The Highlanders retaliated in the third inning taking a 4-3 lead on a squeeze bunt by Tim Spehr, but Northwood came back to take a 5-4 edge and stretched it to 6-5 in the fifth inning.

In the fifth inning, behind 6-5, Maldonado made it to first on an error and scored on Yancy Eubanks' single to centerfield. Todd Wilson scored from third on a balk to put the Highlanders ahead for good in the sixth inning and Maldonado's bunt sent in the last run.

In the opener of the series on Thursday, Pitching decided the game for MCC when Daryl Fry threw a seven-hitter working himself out of numerous jams to take his 17th victory of the season with only one defeat as the Highlanders won 1-0.

The Highlanders made only one extra base and it was that which led to the win. Maldonado hit a double to left field followed by a single by Tony Baldwin and both players moved up on a wild pitch. Bridges grounder to shortstop sent Maldonado in for the winning run.

"Daryl wasn't real sharp but we had the key hits to stay in the game and we hadn't played in 12 days and he didn't lose his composure. I knew the second day (Friday) we would have the hits and we did," baseball coach Rick Butler said.

Butler rated his team's performance this season. "You have to think back to last fall and early this spring. We were young, inconsistent and tentative offensively. We felt that our pitching and defense would have to take us and maybe we would score one run more than the other team. We hit better than we felt we would," Butler said.

The Highlanders will play in the Texas Junior College State Championship (District 6 Tournament) on May 15-18 and if they are successful in winning the tournament, they will advance to the National Junior College Athletic Association on May 25-31 in Grand Junction, Colorado, the site where the Highlanders won the 1983 national championship.

"We'll have to take each game in the tournament one at a time. Each game will be nine innings and that's something different. The best team doesn't always win the tournament, the hottest team sometimes wins," Butler added.

Wind, rain and wet fields caused the Highlanders to have four games cancelled including two regional games two weeks ago.

On April 23, the Highlanders' scheduled double-header with Panola College was cancelled after rain, high winds and hail soaked MCC's field.

Rain also cancelled the final two games of a three game series with Howard after the Highlanders won the opening game the previous day.

Howard humbled

The Highlanders used the spark of Chad Patterson's bat when he hit 3-for-4 and knocked two runs in to defeat Howard College, 8-5 on April 26.

MCC also capitalized on eight Howard errors and former MCC player Chris Segrist, who pitched for Howard, who allowed 10 MCC hits.

Daryl Fry pitched for MCC and despite a bad day in which he had five runs scored on him and he allowed six hits, took his 16th victory with only one defeat.

With the score tied at 5-5, the Highlanders scored the winning runs in the top of the seventh inning.

Jason Bridges reached first base on an error, moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Todd Wilson.

Yancy Eubanks doubled to left field which scored pinch-runner Tony Baldwin from first base. The Highlanders added another run in the ninth inning to seal the win.

Intramurals end season

By Bill Yokus

The Swinging Rods surprisingly defeated the Hooters 14-3 to win the MCC Intramural Softball Championship yesterday.

The game scheduled to be played May 3, but bad weather delayed the game. The 6-2 Swinging Rods' only two defeats were to the 8-0 Hooters.

Highlanders' tennis team takes second in Regionals

By GRADY FULBRIGHT

The MCC men's and women's tennis teams faced an uphill battle in the Region V tournament of the National Junior College Athletic Association held on April 26-27 at the Sul Ross Courts in Waco.

The men's team — led by singles victories from Bill Howie, Victor Tesar and Rolando Zamora — pushed the Highlanders to a second place finish in the region and send MCC's squad to the national tournament to be held May 20 at Ocala, Florida.

Howie, MCC's top seed, defeated Brian Frances of New Mexico Military Institute, 6-3, and 7-5 in the opening round and defeated Alex Kukaras of South Plains 7-6, and 6-3 in the semifinals and defeated Sean Strickland of Midland, 1-6, 6-3, and 7-6 to take the singles title in the number one flight.

Tesar, MCC's fifth seed, defeated Max Waibler of South Plains 6-0, 6-4 in the semifinals after drawing a bye in the opening round. He defeated Emil Bijleveld of Midland, 6-7, 7-5, and 6-2 for the title in the fifth flight.

Zamora, MCC's sixth seed, defeated Sterling Abbott of Odessa, 6-4, 6-2 in the semifinals after drawing a bye in the opening round. He defeated Andy Bruner of Midland, 7-6, 3-6 and 6-2 for the title in the sixth flight.

In the men's doubles competition, after drawing byes in the opening round, Mike Fahey and Zamora advanced to the finals of the third flight and were defeated by Bijleveld-Bruner of Midland, 3-6, 7-6 and 7-5.

Final team totals for the tournament placed Midland first with 21 points, MCC second with 15 points, Odessa third with seven points, South Plains fourth with six points and Grayson fifth with five points.

The MCC women's tennis team didn't fair as well with two singles players advancing to the finals with only one victory and all doubles teams were defeated in the semifinals.

The Highlassies did finish in third place in the tournament with 11 points despite their early defeats.

In the opening round of competition in singles, Deanne Laverock, MCC's number one seed, defeated Callie Novosad of Odessa 6-2 and 6-1 before being defeated by Helen LeBel of Midland, 7-5 and 6-1.

Shelly Funkhouser, MCC's number two seed, defeated Phlecia Bursey of Grayson 6-2 and 6-1 before losing to Charissa Prium of Midland, 6-2 and 6-3, in the semifinals.

Melanie Burrows, MCC's number three seed, was defeated by Ure Ann Kealoha of South Plains, 6-3, 6-7 and 6-4 in the opening round.

Samantha Jordan, MCC's fourth seed, defeated Dana Cannon of South Plains, 6-3 and 6-0 before being defeated by Rachel Hostutler of Midland, 6-1 and 6-0 in the semifinals.

Lupe Pantoja defeated Jane Howe of Midland, 5-7, 6-3 and 6-2 in the semifinals after defeating Nichole Morgan of South Plains 6-1 and 6-1 in the quarterfinals and went on to win the singles final in the fifth flight by defeating Ase Anderson of Cooke, 6-1 and 6-2.

Suzie Medrano defeated Odie Morena of Grayson, 6-1 and 6-4 in the quarterfinals and defeated Candy Tiffen of Odessa, 6-4 and 6-2 and advanced to the finals of the sixth flight where she was defeated by Karen Wild of Midland, 6-2 and 6-0.

Despite disappointment in the women's defeats, tennis coach Carmack Berryman was pleased with the women's performance due to injuries.

"We didn't have a single player on the women's team who wasn't injured at one time or another in the season. In most of our tournaments, we didn't have more than four girls on the court. Our defending regional champ, Samantha Jordan was out until April. Suzie Medrano was out and I didn't even find out she could play until the day of the tournament," Berryman said.

"I had hoped for the best, but with that many people having

Golfers win Region V tournament play

By BILL LENART

MCC's golf team rolled to victory in the Region V championship tournament April 25-26 at Squaw Creek Country Club in Weatherford.

The Highlanders finished the 54-hole tournament with a total score of 880 strokes, finishing 11 strokes ahead of runner-up Odessa Junior College. After the first 27 holes of competition, MCC and Odessa JC were tied for the lead, then the Highlanders began to take charge in the tournament, winning the regional crown for the third consecutive year.

Roger Salazar won medalist honors for the tournament with a score of 212, shooting rounds of 70, 73, and 69. Salazar had solid support from Jon Christian (total score, 222 strokes), Gavin Munro (223), Chris Little (224), and Marty Board (230).

By winning the regional championship, MCC automatically qualified for the National Junior College Athletic Association Championship in Fort Meyers, Fla., June 4-7.

The tournament will be played at Mirror Lakes Country Club, the same course on which MCC won last year's national championship.

"That's a course that suits our team perfectly," said coach Bob Ammon. "I couldn't choose a better place for us to play. It's going to be an exciting golf tournament."

Asked about preparation for the trip to Florida, Ammon said the players "will go home for a couple of weeks after finals, then they will all get back together a couple of days before the national tournament. I'm not worried about them staying on top of their games, they're plenty motivated right now."

For three members of the Highlanders, the national tournament will be their last as part of the MCC team. Salazar, Munro, and Christian have all completed their junior college eligibility, and Ammon said that all three will probably transfer to Southwest Conference schools on golf scholarships next fall.

Salazar has signed a scholarship offer to play for the University of Houston, which is always among the top-ranked teams in the country.

Munro has signed a letter-of-intent to attend TCU on an athletic scholarship.

Christian has not yet decided to which school he will transfer, but he is considering three SWC schools— Baylor, Rice, and Texas Tech.

Replacing Salazar, Munro, and Christian for next year's team will not be an easy task, but Ammon has been busy recruiting prospective new players. "We haven't signed anyone yet, because they're all still playing high school golf, but we should have some good players coming in," Ammon said.

Ammon also said he should have seven players returning from this year's team.

PHILLIP MALDANADO slides into home safely to secure another run against Northwood. The Highlanders won their seventh consecutive Region V title Friday.

MCC's student athletes make their mark on campus

By GLENDAY TAYLOR and GRADY FULBRIGHT

The MCC athletes benefit the school in more ways than their athletic achievements. Many players on the athletic teams are also outstanding in the classroom as well as on the playing field and courts.

CHARLIE WILLIAMS
Charlie Williams, 20, a freshman from Riverdale High School in New Orleans, participated in track and basketball during high school and lettered in the sports all four years.

Williams, a part-time guard this season for the Highlanders, was recruited by Tulane University and the University of New Orleans as well as MCC and is currently being recruited by Sam Houston State University and Southwest Texas State University.

Williams was honored in high school by being named "Most Valuable Player" of his athletic district as well as being named to the All-Metro team of New Orleans and honorable-mention all-state.

Williams enjoys shooting pool and "pretty girls" and his major—business, in addition to his sports interests.

SYDNEY JACQUES
Sydney Jacques, 19, a freshman from Houston, graduated from Sterling High School where he participated in basketball and lettered in the sport his junior and senior years.

Jacques was also named the "Most Valuable Player" on the team his senior year as well as being named to the all-district list that year.

Jacques enjoys cooking, playing baseball and basketball and lists "watching girls" as both a hobby and an interest.

Jacques was recruited by several schools out of high school including Cisco Jr. College, Laredo College, TSTI, Texas Southern University and Prairie View A&M University.

Being a freshman, Jacques is not being recruited this year but hopes to attend the University of Houston and become the "next Akeem the Dream."

CHARLOTTE LEWIS
Charlotte Lewis, a 19-year-old freshman from Lorena, attended Robinson High School where she played basketball and volleyball and ran track.

Lewis was recruited by Mary Hardin-Baylor out of high school in addition to MCC and is currently being recruited by the University of Texas at San Antonio.

Lewis received several honors for her participation in sports in high school including making the all-district list her junior year.

Lewis also advanced to the regional track meet all four years and went to state her junior and senior years where she earned two silver medals (second place) and one team event gold medal (first place).

Lewis enjoys dancing, eating, talking, cooking, sewing and making new friends in addition to her sports interests.

Lewis, who is undecided on a major, is currently carrying a 2.93 grade point average.

DARYL FRY
Daryl Fry, 20, a transfer from Lee College in Baytown, graduated from North Shore High School in Houston where he participated in basketball and baseball and lettered in baseball for three years.

Fry, a pitcher for the Highlanders, has a 17-1 won-loss record thus far this season and has completed most games he has started in.

Fry was recruited heavily out of high school by colleges in the Southwest Conference and several junior colleges in Texas. Fry was pursued by TCU, Houston, Sam Houston State, Alvin Community College, MCC, Seminole Junior College, San Jacinto Junior College, McNeese State University, Eastern Oklahoma State College, and Mary Hardin-Baylor and eventually signed with Lee College.

Fry pitched for Lee last season and compiled a 12-2 record with losses only coming to MCC and San Jacinto.

Fry has been heavily recruited again by colleges for his last two seasons of eligibility. Arkansas, Baylor, TCU, Lamar Univ, Arizona State, University of Nevada-Las Vegas, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, Clemson, University of New Orleans, Alabama, McNeese State, and LSU. Fry has signed a letter-of-intent to play for Texas A&M next season.

Fry enjoys hunting, fishing and all outdoor sports when not studying or playing baseball. A business major, Fry is currently holding a 3.0 cumulative grade point average.

MIKE FAHEY

Currently playing third position for MCC's tennis team is Mike Fahey, a player whose improvements are moving him on to bigger and better opportunities.

Eighteen year old Fahey is originally from Duncanville, where he began playing tennis when he was 12 and lettered for four years in high school.

While playing for Dallas in a national city tournament in San Diego in the summer of 1984, Fahey met Coach Carmack Berryman Sr., who encouraged him on his already previous made decision to attend MCC.

When Fahey returned to Duncanville he called MCC's tennis coach Carmack Berryman Jr., and was offered a scholarship that he immediately accepted.

"I wanted to play at a four year college, but I could not get any good scholarship offers. So I took the scholarship from a junior college to prepare myself for a good four year school."

In the 18 and under competition Fahey is currently ranked in the top five in Texas. He has been ranked in the top 20 since he was 14.

This summer he will play the national junior circuit, and then plans to return to MCC in the fall.

After two years at MCC he plans to transfer to a four school on a tennis scholarship and acquire a major in business.

"Going professional depends on how I do my last year of college, but by the end of the summer I want to be ranked in the top 30 nationally in the 18 and under."

MARK BELCHER

Working hard in school to obtain a 3.1 grade point average is not all MCC's Mark Belcher has done. He has also become one of the top players for MCC's tennis team.

Twentytwo year old Belcher is originally from New Plymouth, New Zealand, where he began playing tennis when he was 16.

In New Zealand Belcher met American tennis player Mark Tappan playing the circuit. Belcher played doubles many times with Tappan. When Tappan returned to the United States to San Diego he recommended Belcher to Coach Carmack Berryman Sr.

Berryman, Sr. in return informed his son, MCC's tennis coach Carmack Berryman Jr. and Berryman then called Belcher in New Zealand and offered him a two year scholarship.

"I took the scholarship because I want to play tennis, and I eventually want to go professional."

When Berryman called Belcher in early December, 1983 to offer the scholarship accepting it was the easiest part. The hard part came when he found out he had until Jan. 12 to obtain a Visa and get to MCC.

"I was lucky to have made it, because I did not get my Visa until Jan. 9. If I would not have gotten by then I would have missed my flight."

Belcher plans to transfer to a four year university but is still undecided in a major. He then plans to return to New Zealand and try to go professional. Belcher said he hopes to make the Davis Cup Squad.

"I am looking forward to going home because the country supports their athletes. That is why I am here, so I can go back and make an impression on the team and country."

Berryman was pleased that the men's team will advance to nationals but was disappointed in the men's overall performance this season.

"We had a good season, but we didn't play to our potential. We never really reached a consistency, and I'm not real sure why. We finished ranked in the top ten but we should have been higher," Berryman said.

Dance attracts crowd

By KELLEY MUDRA

Though the skies looked as though they could begin raining at any minute, MCC's Student Government sponsored end-of-school dance went on as planned. Or actually better than planned.

The dance was held at the Suspension Bridge on the Brazos on Friday, April 26. Music was provided by DJ Mark Fricker, who also provided music for MCC's Valentine Dance. According to Greg Clark, director of Student Activities, Fricker played a variety of music, which everyone seemed to enjoy.

Clark was pleased that the dance turned out to be such a success, since Student Government had to go through so many channels to get the event organized.

"It was a big deal to get approval (for the dance)," Clark said.

He went on to say that "everything went off well. There were no problems, and although Student Government hired security people, they were not really needed."

This was the first time MCC has held a dance at the Suspension Bridge. This was just one of the many "firsts" at MCC this year. Student Government also held a dance at the Sherwood Forest Inn, as well as holding a bonfire during homecoming week. Clark said that "all the new things (Student Government) tried to do have been successful."

Newly-elected Student Government President Steven Couch estimated that approximately 200 people attended the dance. He also said that the bridge was swaying from the large number of people.

Student Government representative Laurecia Hill summarized the dance by saying, "I was surprised because I didn't expect so many people to come, especially since the weather was bad."

Newly-elected Parliamentarian Kenda Birdwell stated, "Compared to most of (the dances), there were twice as many people, which made it twice as much fun."

MCC student Wendy Winkler summed up the evening by saying, "It seemed like everyone was having a good time."

Clark said that "Student Government hopes that next year the Student Government get-togethers will be as successful."

Family's 'Focus on Central Texas' offered at Amphitheater

By TINA RANKIN

MCC will sponsor a series of weekly programs this summer with the tentative title of "Focus On Central Texas."

These presentations, geared for the family, will start at 8:30 p.m. on Saturdays from June 8 to Aug. 24 and will take place at MCC's amphitheater.

"We have a resource (the amphitheater) that we're not making use of," said Dr. Chester Hastings, senior vice president of institutional development. "I'm excited about it," he said, in reference to the increased use of the facility. MCC has added such improvements as extra lighting and cement blocks, Hastings said.

The schedule of presentations are tentative and may be subject to change:

- June 8, "Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow." This will be presented by Roger Conger, a local historian, and he will talk about the early settlers in Central Texas. Also, Padgett's will show a multi-screen slide show of its history and how it relates to the history of Waco and Central Texas. The Waco Chamber of Commerce will show a slide show to educate prospective business about Waco.
- June 15, "Family Astronomy no. 1." Don Tatum, MCC physics instructor, will give three presentations of which this is the first. Two or three eight-inch telescopes will be used after dark so that the audience can view the stars and moon up close.

- June 22, "The Variety of Birdlife in Central Texas." Slides, recordings and mounted birds will be shown by June Osborne, past-president of the Central Texas Society. She also leads bird tours in Texas and other states.
- June 29, "Archaeology in Central Texas." Dr. Calvin Smith, director of the Strecker Museum of Baylor University, will give this presentation.
- July 6, "The Geology of Central Texas." Mary Helen Battles, MCC geology instructor, along with her husband, a professor of health and physical education at Baylor, will present this show.
- July 13, "The Animals of Central Texas." Michael Skinner, education coordinator at the Central Texas Zoo, will bring animals from this area to show the audience.

- July 20, "Family Astronomy no. 2." This will be the second presentation by Don Tatum.
- July 27, "Rockhounding and Lapidary Arts in Central Texas." Waco Gem and Mineral Society members will show specimens, slides and talk and demonstrate lapidary arts.
- Aug. 3, "The Texas Rangers." Alva Stem, director of special activities for the city of Waco, will show slides.
- Aug. 10, "A Coon Hunt and Other Wildlife Lore." Nationally-known wildlife expert, Joe Stevens, will present sights and sounds of a real Texas coon hunt.
- Aug. 17, "Wildflowers, Plants, and Trees of Central Texas."

Mrs. Ann Gorday, president of Central Texas Audubon Society, has conducted tours relating to Central Texas wildflowers, and she will present the final show of the series for this summer.

The idea of these presentations originated when Hastings attended a presentation held in Speegleville one night. The director of the show asked for those who traveled from Waco to raise their hands, and out of about 100 people, approximately 80 raised their hands, he said.

Hastings thought that if that many people would travel to Speegleville, then they would probably come to MCC, he said.

Hastings said that the end result should be "bringing the knowledge level about our community up."

He also said that he encourages groups to recruit and plug their organizations while conducting their show.

Hastings suggested in his conversation that these presentations should make the people of Waco proud of where they live and what this city stands for in Central Texas.

The series of shows will be publicized by MCC printing a brochure and by press releases sent to newspapers, television stations and radio stations.

Hastings estimated that this whole project of the series of presentations will cost less than $1,000.

"This might lead to the music of Central Texas next summer," he said.

The amphitheater is located beside MCC's baseball field.

Chorale spring concert ends season

By MYRON KING

The McLennan Community College Chorale, under the direction of Donald Balmos, held its spring concert Tuesday April 30 at the Student Center.

This concert marked the final chorale performance for this semester.

The chorale opened the concert with Mozart's "Regina Coeli," with solos by Belinda Whitehead, soprano; Lisa Lamb, alto; Robert Sowder, tenor; and Robin Smith, bass.

Other songs performed that evening included Schumann's "Zigeunerleben (Gypsy Life)," and "Gloria" by John Ness Beck, with solos by Gina Marek, first soprano; Lori Lofert, second soprano; Beckie Kidd, alto; Darryl Ross, tenor; John Ross, baritone; and Dan Bowling, bass.

The chorale also performed three choral settings from "Alice In Wonderland" which included "The Lobster Quadrille," "Lullaby of the Duchess" with a solo by Stephanie Goodall, and "Father William."

The audience got a real treat when the choir came down off the riser to perform "Forty-second Street Medley," accompanied by Pat Nystrom on drums and MCC's Dick Gimble on string bass.

The chorale performed the Gershwin brothers' "Sing of Spring," Van Heusen's "It Could Happen to You," arranged by MCC's Robert Page, with a solo by Lisa Lamb; Rutter's "Banquet Fugue" and Hanson's "Song of Democracy."

The choir was accompanied by pianist Gail Geary.

'Upward Slope' sculpture goes to state

A sculpture by McLennan Community College art student Rachel Richard was recently accepted in a juried competition sponsored by Mountain View College in Dallas.

The plaster sculpture entitled "Upward Slope" was submitted in the freshman and sophomore division of the "Eleventh Texas College Art Show," the only statewide competition of its kind for college and university art students.

This year's exhibit was pre-judged by Anne Bromberg, chairman of the education department at The Dallas Museum of Art, and Jim Bell, who has been associated with art museums in several cities.

Richard McLean, a photo-realist painter and art professor at San Francisco State College, will be awards juror. The show dates of the exhibit are April 21-May 9.

A review

'Tintypes' performed to perfection

By MARK LUCAS

It's all over for the MCC drama department.

There will be no more plays, operas, or even musicals. All is over and done with, until next fall anyway.

"Tintypes" closed this weekend to relatively full audiences, and it's easy to see why.

In my opinion, the entire production for a college troupe was excellent.

The music and choreography for "Tintypes" was done extremely well, and it looked like a professional job.

Patti Page and Flo Wendorf did an excellent job on the music and choreography.

"Tintypes" is one of the few productions that I have seen that was utterly flawless.

The music was great. All those golden oldies from years past like "Shortnin' Bread", and the patriotic tunes such as "I'm a Yankee Doodle Boy" made it good.

The entire cast should be proud of the performances they gave. They all deserve recognition for making the show an enjoyable one. Everyone did an excellent job in both their singing and their acting.

Sovela Michello gave an excellent performance in her rendition of "Nobody."

Neal Herring was fantastic in the part of an immigrant. The mime he did throughout the production was great—though in my opinion no human being has the right to be that funny, and not say a word.

The performance Jeff Whitt and Glenda Preston gave when singing "What Makes Me Love You" was also great.

The technical aspects of "Tintypes" were also good.

John Cleavelin did an excellent job on the gazabo and park setting.

The costumes were quite good for a college production, and James Henderson did an excellent job in directing "Tintypes."

The music provided by Patti Page and Paul Knier sounded great coming out of the gazabo.

I really enjoyed "Tintypes", and even though opening night wasn't sold out, the audience really liked it.

As I was leaving I heard a comment made by a man in the audience that summed up this reviewer's feeling:

"That was worth seeing again, I'll be back."

PTK presents scholarships

MCC students Cynthia Londonberg and Ceclia Matus each received a scholarship from Phi Theta Kappa.

Each semester Phi Theta Kappa awards two scholarships to current members. This semester 11 members applied for the scholarships.

All Phi Theta Kappa members are urged to pick up their Golden Key, the national Phi Theta Kappa magazine. The magazines are available in the Health Services Office from Carolyn Rodabough, health services director.
