Bands Show Professional Aspect

by Rita Foster

Stage Band I and Stage Band II have composed a program of music to be presented at schools in this area. The program consists of about 20 pieces including rock and jazz numbers.

Schools scheduled for the area tour are University High School, Paul Quinn College, Waco High School, Jefferson-Moore High School, North Junior High School, Reicher Catholic High School, and McGregor High School.

Both stage bands will perform at a formal concert at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 4 in the Student Center cafeteria. Guest soloist will be Jack Fletcher, band director at Reicher High School, performing on saxophone.

The difference between a stage band and an orchestra is basically the type of music played and the instruments used. Stage bands are associated with dance and jazz, utilizing rhythm, trumpet, trombone and saxophone sections. Orchestras utilize more instruments and in a greater number.

The stage band came into existence about 50 years ago, but the stage band courses offered here cover all periods of music with special emphasis on contemporary music.

"We are beginning to see the start of degrees in stage band," said John Bauser, director of the stage bands, who has a bachelors and masters degrees in music theory-composition from the University of Illinois.

"I'm often asked 'What is the justification for music?' and I talked with a friend of mine from North Carolina who is a trombonist who said music must be approached as a form of communication, a language. It has power, it's justified. It has effect on people, it's justified."

Stage band clinics, with guest lecturers and soloists are held each year. Phil Wilson, a nationally-recognized jazz trombonist will conduct a clinic here April 22 and 23.

A concert on April 23 will follow the two-day clinic that includes lectures, rehearsing the bands in Wilson's music, and solos by Wilson with stage band accompaniment.

Wilson's professional experience includes the Dorsey Brothers Orchestra, Woody Herman Orchestra, and Clark Terry and Doc Severinsen groups.

Guest lecturers and soloists who have conducted clinics here are Clark Terry, trumpeter with the Tonight Show Band who was previously with the Duke Ellington and Count Basie Bands; Rich Matteson of the Dukes of Dixieland who plays valve trombone, tuba and piano and Lou Marini, saxophonist and flutist, formerly of the Tonight Show Band and the rock group Blood, Sweat and Tears.

The stage band originated as a course of study on campus in 1968. There was only one band until last year when a second band was formed.

Bauser said that music trends change as people change. "Rock was a spontaneous type of music. Then the promotion of rock started and killed the spontaneous aspect. Groups are breaking up because people are not so much interested in identifying with groups as they are in finding themselves. There are more soloists now as people tend to relate more on a one-to-one basis," he said.

For information on playing in the stage bands during the Spring semester, students may contact John Bauser.

Early Registration Required

Day students who plan to receive a Bachelors Degree by transferring from MCC to a four-year college or university should contact the counseling office beginning Nov. 18 to make an appointment for an advising session. At that time they will receive their registration packet and number. The number will determine how soon one can register.

These sessions will be conducted in the Lecture Hall from 10 to 11 a.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday. On Tuesday and Thursday the sessions will be from 2 to 3 p.m. Nov. 21 through Dec. 12. Evening students will be advised 6 to 7:30 p.m. Dec. 1 through 4.

Students who plan to receive a one-year certificate or Associate in Applied Science Degree in a two-year program to be completed at MCC should contact their program director or make an appointment in the counseling office beginning Nov. 18 to obtain their registration packets and have their Course Advising Form signed.

Sophomores with signed degree plans may make appointments for Nov. 21 and 24. Other sophomores will be scheduled for Nov. 25 and 26. Freshmen with signed degree plans may make appointments for Dec. 1 through 5. Other freshmen will be scheduled for Dec. 8 through 12.

For further information concerning course advising or registration, contact the counseling office at 756-6551, ext. 388. The counseling office is located on the ground floor of the Student Center.

HIGHLANDER Connie Witt slips a basket past TWU's Deninez Moss during a flurry of action in last night's game.

by Terry Tacker

THE HIGHLANDER women's basketball team got behind early and never could catch up, as they were defeated 82-72 by Texas Women's University.

MCC's Janice Wallace scored the first basket of the game. That would be the only time the Highlanders were to lead in the contest. TWU had too much height and experience for the Highlanders to pull an upset.

Both teams used full court pressure in the first half. TWU's bad ballhandling kept MCC in the game as they committed 15 turnovers in the first half. But, poor shooting by MCC both on the field and at the free throw line, enabled TWU to build up a 37-26 halftime lead.

Connie Witt and Marilyn Maxwell, two names fans will hear much about, played the entire game with the kind of desire and hustle that every coach looks for. Both ladies scored over twenty points and caused their share of TWU turnovers.

In the second half, MCC began to find the range as they pulled within seven points with 4:59 left to go in the game. But, TWU's fast break led by Leslye Friedrich build up the lead and the game ended 82-72.

Voters Blamed for Constitution Rebuke

by Marilyn Jones and Kathryn Newburey

Texans were given the opportunity to vote Nov. 4 for a new constitution, yet, they choose to keep a document that is nearly a century old.

The new constitution would have provided Texas with the means to move into the twentieth century politically.

One of the reasons for the defeat of the document was the reluctance of Texans to accept the unknown for the known said Charlie Kennedy, government instructor.

The opposition to the constitution was led by special interest groups. County officers were threatened by the local government provisions. Those who serve in the court system would have been re-evaluated and again special interests did not want to lose their influence.

Texans were also afraid of the higher taxes they felt the constitution would bring.

Economic interest groups spent large amounts of money to discredit the new constitution proposals. The media was used to persuade people to vote down the constitution. The present constitution has been amended over 200 times in the past 100 years, with the approximate cost of $100,000 to the tax payer. This is compared to the U.S. Constitution which has had 26 amendments in the past 200 years.

"Most of the people who supported the constitution realized it was going to be defeated," said Paul Holder, government instructor.

People distrust the legislature and most of the people who came out in open support of this document.

The distrust centered in the uninformed voter who for whatever reason did not care enough to seek information, pro or con, on the constitution. No wonder the voting public is afraid of the unknown. The constitution old and new, explaining the revisions was mailed to the homes of Texas voters, open to the public debates were held in many local areas, resulting only in a poor showing of public interest.

Texas has many fine attributes to its political system, however open mindedness and curiosity is not foremost.

Speech Department Salutes Bicentennial

by Thomas Hughes

Students from the speech department participated in the Flag-raising ceremony last Monday. Jamie Oliver, David Wiley and Dale Hughes presented a historical reading of newspaper articles, headlines, and letters on the founding of MCC. The reading, entitled "Ten Years Ago Today," was adopted and directed by Ann Harrell, director of the speech department, to complement the speech by Chairman of the Steering Committee, Henry Griffin.

Wiley and Hughes have been invited to participate with Trinity University debaters in an exhibition debate at 7 p.m. on Nov. 17 in Trinity. The invitation was issued by George Grice, Trinity's Forensic Director. The debate topic will advocate abolishment of all forms of censorship.

The speech squad will compete in the Midwestern tournament in Wichita Falls on Dec. 5 and 6. The squad will compete in Oratory, Extemporaneous, Poetry Reading and Debate.

Students of the speech department will travel to Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos for the Annual Speech Festival Nov. 14 and 15.

Glenn Whatley, Jamie Oliver, Paul Hill, Donna Richter, Dale Hughes, Brian Gregory, David Wiley, Lynn Hood, Carol Minchu, Cheryl Thomas and Jim Cartwright will be participating in the Speech Festival.

The group will compete in Dramatic Reading, Original Poetry Reading, Extemporaneous Speaking, Poetry Interpretation, Oratory, Discussion and Debating. The teams of Wiley and Hughes; Hood and Gregory will debate.

The Reader's Theatre presentation for the festival is the first segment of the Reader's Theatre Bicentennial Series to be used for competition this year. The Series title is Amerigo Vespucci's Namesakes Celebrate America.

The segment starts with the voyages of Columbus and ends with the Salem witch trials. The segments consist of readings by the speech group of poems of American authors like Washington Irving, Richard Armour and George Pope Morris.

Several speech students attended the Baylor Oral Interpretation Festival last Friday. Donna Richter, Cheryl Thomas, Glenn Whatley and Jamie Oliver participated in the Poetry Hour.

Richter read "Ode to a Toad from the Voice of a Horse" by Nancy Wilson, and Thomas read poems by Ogden Nash.

Whatley and Oliver performed different cuttings from Carl Sandburg's The People, Yes. In the Prose Hour, Wiley read "Fun With Hamlet and His Friends" by Terry Siegel; Oliver presented Edgar Allen Poe's "The Tell-Tale Heart." Whatley read a story entitled "Chris" and Richter performed F. Scott Fitzgerald's "Dearly Beloved."

The MCC Debaters attended two Central Texas Novice Debate Series tournaments held at the University of Texas at Austin and East Texas State University. Wiley was named top debater for winning the first place speaking award. Dale Hughes won tenth in the speaking competition.

The team ranked third in the tournament on the basis of their won-loss record and second on the basis of their speaker point totals.

Hunting Permit Costs Five Bucks

by Steve Aston

Deer season opens Nov. 15 and continues through Jan. 4 in McLennan and all surrounding counties including Bell, Bosque, Falls, Hill, Limestone, and Coryell.

Hunting licenses are on sale now at most sporting goods stores, drive in groceries and any authorized place of business.

A charge of $5.25 is required for a license of any Texas citizen hunting outside of the county of his residence or who hunts deer or turkey, except persons younger than 17 or older than 65 years of age.

Persons hunting on land where they reside are not required to purchase this license, but must have an exempt license to hunt deer or turkey.

Any person, except aliens, who has been a bona fide resident of Texas for more than six months immediately preceding application for a license and members of the armed forces with proof of assignment on active duty at any federal installation within the state for a period of more than 30 days may purchase a resident license.

It is unlawful to attach the bonus antlerless deer tag on the hunting license to any deer except an antlerless deer, or to attach the buck mule deer tag on the hunting license to any deer except a buck mule deer.

The other two deer tags on the hunting license may be used for any other legally taken deer.

All tags and permits, other than those contained as part of the regular hunting license, are issued to landowners by local officials of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

All tags and permits must be attached to animals immediately upon possession and remain attached until the carcass has been finally processed. Recommended procedure is to fasten tags and permits to antlers or forelegs with string or wire.

Any deer or portion of a deer shall be considered as legally tagged if all necessary tags and permits are attached, or if either receipt from a taxidermist for the head is attached or if a legible document signed by the person who killed the deer, stating his name, address, date of kill, hunting license number and name and county of the ranch where the deer was killed is attached.

The antlers from a buck deer or other such proof of legal kill shall remain attached to the deer or part of deer until it arrives at residence of the person who is in possession or at a commercial processing facility. All tags and permits must be filled out completely.

Firearms in taking of game animals and game birds in regulatory counties are limited to rifles, shotguns and other legal firearms and longbows and arrows.

Firearms are further restricted in all counties as follows: it is illegal to use a .22 caliber jet gun or rocket gun or any firearm using rimfire ammunition in taking deer, antelope, elk and desert bighorn sheep.

Deer calls may not be used in hunting deer, but antlers may be rattled. Artificial light of any form may not be used to take game animals.

It is illegal to trespass on enclosed or posted lands without the consent of the owner or the owner's agent. Hunting is prohibited on any public road or road right of way.

There is no hunting on any land of the Lower Colorado River Authority, area designated as a wildlife sanctuary, refuge, nesting or propagation area and in state or federal parks.

Is Dave Smith's job of head football coach at Southern Methodist University in jeopardy? Athletic Director of SMU, Dick Davis says no. But rumors do exist among SMU alumni and followers. After the Mustangs were defeated by Texas 30-22 in the Cotton Bowl, a poll among the players was taken on the situation. Fifty-one players were questioned. Twenty-three said Smith should stay and that he had the program headed in the right direction. Ten said it was time for a change. Eight said they don't care if he's back or not. Eight said it was hard to tell at this time. Not only does he fake with his knees, but he stops two or three times, which is illegal. I hate to say this but I don't know how those guys over there (the American League) could look at that all year and not call it.".....Sparky Anderson, manager of the World Champion Cincinnati Reds, is the toughest manager to work with according to a poll from the National League Umpires. # Ross, Remus Play For Women

by David Williams

Sophomore
Doris Ross

Doris Ross plays the game of basketball with good physical dominance. She is a graduate of Mart High School where she received all-district honors her four years while playing girls' basketball.

Ross can possibly be one of the best rebounders and defenders to be found. She has a lot of authority when it comes to rebounding and with just a little more work she will be hard to beat.

Ross speaks highly of the team when she says, "I hope we can win many games as possible. We just have to learn to know each other better and we will eventually play together."

Ross hopes the year will be successful just as her team mates hope the same. An aggressive style is what Ross and all the women on the team represent and basically that is all that is needed for a successful year.

Freshman
Carol Remus

Last year the Midway High School girls' basketball team won the state title in AAA basketball. One main reason why they won the title was the play of forward Carol Remus.

Remus was all-district last year and will play for MCC women's team this year.

Remus is a control player. She brings the ball down the court setting up plays making everything run smooth. At Midway, Remus was coached with excellence and she shows this style on the court.

Coach Pam Davis said, "Remus has good basketball sense and is an excellent ball handler. Maybe her greatest attribute is that she comes from a winner. We need winners and Remus is definitely one."

With Remus the Highlanders have a winner and all it will take is time for the women to have successful and winning season.

Gym Too Crowded For Games

Plans for expansion of the basketball gymnasium depend largely on the attendance at the basketball games this year.

The plan for expansion consists of knocking out the wall across from the present bleachers, extending it and putting bleachers on that side. This will double the seating capacity.

It is obvious that no changes will be done before the end of the basketball season because of the major work that is involved, said Dr. Wilbur Ball president.

We have done a study and found that the cost of expanding the gym would be in excess of $150,000. We are doing another study to see if it can be done for less, said Dr. Ball.

One of the reasons for the high cost is that the gym would be increased by about 25 per cent and it would have to be air conditioned and heated.

When the gym was first built, hundreds of seats were unfilled at the games but our attendance has increased, said Dr. Ball.

At this moment the project is barely alive because of the cost.

Another possibility would be to have the games in another gym such as the coliseum, which would cost about $700 to $1000 a game for rent.

Cage Trio Ready For Season

by David Williams

Freshman
Kyle
Strickland

A couple of years ago freshman Kyle Strickland thought that his career in sports was over. Strickland had a serious back injury which made physical activity impossible.

After the operation he received for the injury, he decided he would at least try to work back into shape. The next year was spent working out while he attended TSTI.

By the start of the summer he felt his strength returning. He said, "I thought about possibly playing again. I was contacted by Coach Carter and as of now I'm just thankful to Coach Carter for giving me the chance at playing again."

"I am not at top form right now but I plan to be. I would like to regain some of the quickness I lost while not playing for two years. The team is my greatest goal for the year. I think going to nationals is possible if everyone plays together. Everyone contributing is going to help," he said.

Strickland's strong suit is playing defense and physically he has the size to the job. Strickland has amazing strength and he likes to get on the boards. "I like playing defense, but I will do anything to win," he said.

Strickland's desire to play and help the Highlanders win will be an extra plus on the Highlander team this year.

As Strickland says, "I'm just glad to be back playing."

Freshman
Dan
McMullen

Dan McMullen is from South Garland High School where he was a team mate with John Derrick. "We had a very good team that year," said McMullen, "we were orientated around John, and he was fantastic," he said.

"John was a senior that year and when he graduated we had everyone returning. My senior year was a great year. We had a 22-7 record and this team had a great array of balance; everyone chipped in which is why we were successful. McMullen was contacted by Coach Carter after his senior year.

McMullen wanted to go to a school with a winning tradition. "The most important thing that we do this year will depend on if we play together. It will take the effort of the five men on the court and every other player involved," he said.

"Contributing every way possible is what I would like to do and hopefully we will put it all together and go all the way to nationals," he said.

Freshman
Burrows

In college when an athlete plays one sport it can be really demanding, but if a player plays more than one it can almost be impossible. That is the case with freshman Burt Burrows who excels in both basketball and baseball.

Burrows is a graduate of Austin Crockett High School where he starred in both sports. Burrows said, "Right now the only thing that counts is that basketball season is here and that is what I will concentrate on. I want to contribute as best I know and I like the fact that we have a tradition to follow."

"I feel as a team we must play together, and the more we play together the better our team will be. The 27-5 record of a year ago really impressed me and I think it will be something for us to shoot for as a team," he said.

On the court fans will not find a more aggressive player than Burrows. He has quick hands and his shooting style is smooth; he has a quick release shot. When asked if he would continue to play both sports he answered, "As of now I just do not know. I may and I may not; it just really depends on which falls into the right place."
