

Board Hires New Vet Director

Walter D. Murchison was appointed as the new coordinator of Veteran Affairs Tuesday night by the Board of Trustees.

The position has been vacant for the past several weeks. Part of the job is to coordinate paper work to help veterans get their money from the government. There are more than 700 veterans on campus.

The previous director is now employed by Youth Enterprises.

Murchison graduated from American Technological University at Killeen with a Bachelor of Science in Occupational Education. He served 28 years in the United States Air Force. He also has 29 years experience in hospital administration and management. His latest employment was administrator of Hubbard Hospital.

At the meeting the Board made final decisions about bleachers, scoreboard, shot-timer, metal lockers and backstops for the new basketball fieldhouse. The fieldhouse will seat about 2,400 spectators.

The east side of the gym will have telescoping bleachers and the west side will have auditorium style seats. The seats will be made of wood. Jimmy Clayton, director of athletics, said wooden seats will provide better acoustics although more maintenance will be required.

Kirby Building Specialties, Inc. received the bid for the telescopic bleachers at $47,125. In the gym there will be two glass goals and four wood goals. The J. F. Clark Company won the bid for the backstops for $9,542. These backstops will be electrically raised and lowered and suspended from the ceiling.

The board meets the second Tuesday of each month. Members are elected representatives from the county.

SG Plans Painting, Picnicking Activities

By Carol Mitchell

Student Government has planned a picnic and work session to paint the green and gold fire hydrants on campus orange and black. This work session and picnic will be Sunday afternoon at 12:30.

Representatives agreed to meet at the 10 o'clock hour to paint signs for the Student Center concerning trash. A request is also being sent to the maintenance department for more large trash cans to be placed in the center to make it easier for students to clean up after snacks and meals. The representatives decided to request the help of all students so the campus will be more presentable to visitors.

Albert Apel reported on adding lights to the tennis courts. Athletic Director Jimmy Clayton and Bill Strother of Continuing Education seemed very enthusiastic about this idea for several reasons. Lights would be advantageous to students because there are no public lighted courts near the campus. Baylor provides lighted tennis courts for use by its students only. It was also reported that a group of Wacoans is interested in tennis as a night continuing education class. Such classes would mean more money for the college. The committee is still investigating on the pros and cons of this project.

The Student Government has also decided to recommend to the administration that parking lots' faded stripes are causing parking problems and causing students to get parking tickets.

The Halloween Dance was voted down because most of the clubs on campus are just getting their feet on the ground.

Representatives felt that it might be too much for clubs to prepare a booth for this event in such a short time.

Sherri Rhea reported that there is an absence of clocks in many classrooms on campus. Miss Rhea also reported that teachers were eager to see that clocks be installed to end the confusion of not knowing how much time is left in a class. The representatives voted to recommend that clocks be provided in all classrooms.

The Supreme Court members were introduced at Mondays meeting. Serving this year will be Dalbert Thiele, Denise Kuykendall, Barbara Fagg, Vickie Blocker and Beverly

Deaths Delay Waco Flu Shots, May Resume Next Week

Swine Flu clinics over the state have been temporarily postponed. Included is a clinic that was to have been held on campus Sunday.

Action postponing the clinics was taken yesterday after three persons died after taking the vaccine in Pennsylvania. All three were at least 70 years of age.

"We believe these deaths were happenstance, not caused by the vaccine," said Dr. Edgar Cleaver, director of the mass inoculation program in McLennan County.

If the deaths are related to the clinics at all, it is due to the excitement, the crowds and poor health condition of the people involved, Cleaver said. All three had chronic heart problems.

Clinics have been postponed for further study upon advisement of the State Health Department.

Cleaver said people do not have anything to worry about once the clinics are resumed, but that those people with heart disease should be vaccinated by a private physician. A mass clinic is not a good place for someone with threatening health conditions, he said.

Five states have postponed their clinics. New York, which received its vaccine from the same lot as Pennsylvania, has not postponed its clinics.

Training sessions for volunteers for the MCC clinic will be held from 3 to 5 pm Friday in the Highlander Room as originally planned.

"The clinics may be closed until Monday or Tuesday, but we've still got to have these people trained," said Cathy Greene, director of publicity for the swine flu steering committee.

Dr. George Gibson of the University of Texas critiques a recent edition of the Highland Herald. The critique session was part of the Texas Junior College Press Association convention held Sunday and Monday at Texas A&M

The MCC Highland Herald brought home second place in sweepstakes Monday at the Texas Junior College Press Association (TJCPA). The award was judged from last year's newspapers. In the spring, Daniel Bacon was editor, and Marilyn Jones was associate editor. Franci Richings was fall editor and Kathryn Newburey was associate editor.

Attending the conference were editors Donna Richter and Terry Tacker, staffers Marilyn Jones, Jim Munson, Debbie Garrett and Director of Campus Publications Carolyn Dodson.

Last spring the TJCPA judged papers from junior colleges that submitted issues. The Highland Herald won eight places and one honorable mention. The paper won firsts in news writing and general column, second in page make-up, sweepstakes, investigative reporting, sports column and general column, third in advertising and honorable mention in sports column.

Several professionals spoke at the conference: David McHam, SMU professor, spoke on Texas press law, and John Henry Faulk, television personality humorist and storyteller spoke on protecting press freedom. Hugh Aynesworth, a special assignments reporter for The Dallas Times Herald also spoke on investigative reporting.

Debates: Round Two

By Randy Chenot

President Ford and Democratic Presidential nominee Jimmy Carter both called for a strong national defense but disagreed sharply over the approach to foreign affairs before a broadcast audience of 100-million persons in the second nationally broadcast debate.

Carter said at one point that the first priority of the President is the security of the nation. Ford said that security is under the kind of defense budget cuts that Carter advocates.

There was sharp, sometimes harsh disagreement over each man's interpretation of the other's stands.

Carter took the first question and attacked, calling Ford's foreign policy "all style and spectacle and not substance." He also charged it had been carried out in "secrecy and exclusion."

Ford denied the charge, saying he has made more than 10 speeches on foreign policy, that Secretary of State Kissinger has appeared before Congress more than 80 times and Kissinger has given about 50 public speeches.

Ford said his administration's foreign policy has been one of progress and success. He listed accomplishments in Portugal, the Middle East and Africa.

Ford also said there is no Soviet domination of Eastern Europe, and under a Ford administration there never will be.

Carter shot-back and said that he'd like to see the President convince Polish-Americans, Czech-Americans and Romanian-Americans that the Soviet Union does not dominate Eastern Europe.

The debate was held in the Palace of Fine Arts Theater in San Francisco, an appropriate city for a debate on foreign policy since that's where the United Nations' charter was signed 31 years ago.

Jaworski Discusses Book

By Glenn Vrba

Former Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski was in Waco last Tuesday to talk about his new book "The Right and Power."

A press conference was staged in the Baylor Room of the Ramada Inn, and approximately twenty-five reporters were on hand to listen to Jaworski.

"The Right and Power" is the only book on the Watergate proceedings, written by an actual participant in the long, drawn-out court drama. Jaworski said he wrote the book to set the records straight about what occurred at Watergate.

Jaworski fielded questions from various reporters after giving details about his book. When asked whether or not Watergate was good or bad, Jaworski said, "Watergate has been good for our country; it has renewed our young adults' belief in law and justice."

He also added, "Watergate will not happen again in my lifetime because the president will not run the risk of being caught at something illegal."

Jaworski's book is going into its fifth printing by the Gulf Publishing Co. Over 155,000 copies have been printed, and the book is currently No. 4 on the New York Times Best Sellers List. "Reader's Digest" proclaimed the book an instant success.

Jaworski is a native Wacoan and is also a graduate of the Baylor School of Law.

Director of Rape Crisis Center Speaks to Nursing Students

Nancy Paul, director of the Waco Rape Crisis Center, said Monday that a nurse's attitude of kindness and understanding makes the process a rape victim must go through much easier.

Mrs. Paul spoke to the Nursing Club and showed a film entitled "Rape: A Preventive Inquiry."

The Texas criminal code defines rape as a man having sexual intercourse with a woman who is not his wife and who has not given him consent.

Mrs. Paul said that of the 253 rapes that occurred in the Waco area last year only 29 were reported to police. She said that the Rape Crisis Center does not force rape victims to report the crime.

Mrs. Paul and the film stressed the fact that a woman must be aware of her surroundings in order to prevent a rape from occurring. A woman must also remain calm and use her intuition when she is attacked.

The Rape Crisis Center is manned by 20 volunteers who each work at least one night a month. The phone number of the center is 752-1113.

Charles Dickens' "Great Expectations" will be shown tonight at 8 p.m. at the Art Center. Admission is $2.

The film is the first in a series of film evenings. "Great Expectations" was filmed in 1946. Stars of the film are Alec Guinness, John Mills and Valerie Hobson.

Art Center director Paul Harris said, "There is a growing recognition of film as a valid art form. Unfortunately, however, except in very large cities, there is little opportunity to see many of the great films of the past and therefore, more and more museums and art centers are adding film programs to their list of activities. We are very hopeful that Waco's response to the film program will merit making it a permanent feature on our schedule."

Club To Show Movies

The Astronomy Club will present a slide presentation and a science fiction movie at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 20 in the HPE Lecture Hall. Admission is 50 cents.

The slide presentation is entitled "A Childhood's End," and it was made last year by several members of the club. In June the students gave the presentation at NASA.

The science fiction movie is "The Andromeda Strain." The movie is based on the novel of the same name by Michael Crichton.

Morales To Speak

Dr. Gustavo A. Morales, associate professor of geology at Baylor, will speak at 10 a.m. Oct. 20 in the Science Lecture Hall. Morales subject will be "Atlantis: The Lost Continent."

Alpha Sigma Phi, science organization on campus, is sponsoring the lecture.

Meeting For PTK Initiates

Students who have received an invitation to join Phi Theta Kappa and wish to join may pay their dues by Oct. 20 in the Student Activities office. Dues are $18.

Phi Theta Kappa is a national junior college honorary scholastic fraternity.

A meeting for prospective members will be held at 10 a.m. Monday in Liberal Arts 203.

Fall initiation will be Oct. 25.

'A Better You' Meets

People who would like to lose weight can join the A Better You Club. The group will meet at 10 a.m. today in the Liberal Arts 206.

Rewards will be given at the end of each six week interval to the ones who reach their desired weight goal.

Tickets Now Issued For On-Street Parking

By Marilyn Jones

Students have begun receiving courtesy tickets for parking on the street and curbs.

"We started giving tickets Monday because several of the parking lots are not being parked in. Most of the students are parking on the street in front of the building they have a class in," said George Andreason, director of administrative services.

"I think we have enough parking space to accommodate the students, but I don't know because the students are not parking in the parking lots," he said.

The students are going to have to walk some if they park in the parking lots, but it is not as great a distance as it would be if they were going to Baylor, North Texas or the University of Texas for example," said Andreason.

The evening students are also parking in the street and pulling up on sidewalks, he said.

"The parking lots are well lighted, and we have 24 hour police coverage so there is no reason for the students not parking in the parking lots.

"We are trying to get the students out of the street and back into the parking lots because we're afraid the cars may get damaged," said Andreason.

The courtesy ticket is a warning ticket and eventually students parking in the street and on the curb will be given a parking ticket and will have to pay a fee.

Parking on the streets will get you a ticket now, as MCC officials are attempting to "get students out of the street and back in the parking lot."

Cosmetology Students Win In Contest

Evelyn Guest and Diane Hardin display trophies they won in cosmetology competition Sunday

By Donna Richter

Evelyn Guest won first place at a cosmetology contest in San Antonio Sunday. Diane Hardin placed second in the competition.

Diane Stephens modeled Miss Guest's Nova cut, and Kathleen Jansing modeled Miss Hardin's long Nova cut.

The San Antonio contest was the second competition MCC cosmetology students have attended this year, taking first and second place in both contests. MCC cosmetology students have won 19 trophies in the past two years.

"This is the third year in a row that we've placed first and second in the San Antonio and Houston contest," said Jan Blackburn, cosmetology instructor. "We've placed first almost everywhere in Texas."

"Often our students give each other the best competition," she said.

Students were judged not only on their hairstyles, but also on make-up, nails, fashion and overall appearance, said Mrs. Blackburn.

Miss Guest received a trophy and $25. Miss Hardin received a trophy and $15.

The contest is one of the largest in the state. Fourteen cosmetology schools were represented.

Susan Ford, Benny Byrd and Allen Johnson also attended to observe the competition and attend workshops. Mrs. Blackburn served as a judge for professional competition in both day and evening fashions.

Cosmetology students will attend contests in Dallas, Waco, Tyler and Killeen later this year.

For High School Journalists

MCC To Host Workshop

Central Texas high school journalists and their sponsors will invade the campus Thursday as part of MCC's annual Centex Press Day and Yearbook Workshop. Mrs. Carolyn Dodson, director of campus publications, is coordinator of the event.

The Yearbook Workshop begins at 9:30 a.m. in the HPE Lecture Hall with a program directed by Weldon Walker, sales representative of Paragon Press. Paragon publishes the majority of school annuals in the Central Texas area.

Newspaper workshop meetings are open to student and faculty as well as high schoolers.

The program kicks off with an official welcome to all visitors at 9:15 a.m. in the Science Lecture Hall (LH). Following at 9:25 will be one of the keynote speakers of the day, Bill Giles, currently an editor-in-residence at Baylor University. Giles is the founder and former editor of the National Observer which he worked with for nine years.

After Giles' speech, the first session will begin at 10:40. For an hour, various speakers will reflect on four different categories: reporting and writing, photography, advertising and editor's problems.

David McHam, journalism professor at Southern Methodist University, will speak on reporting and writing in the LH. The photography seminar will be run by Mike Hinton, owner of Lake Air Camera, and Kurt Wallace, an ex-MCC student and now a photographer for the Dallas Times-Herald. They will be in Administration classroom (AC) 205. In AC206, Joe Fredrickson, director of promotion and sales with Texas Daily Newspaper Association, and James Tountas, retail advertising manager of the Waco Tribune-Herald, will speak on advertising. On the first floor of the Student Center, Mrs. Carolyn Dodson and Donna Richter, editor of the Highland Herald, will relate their ideas on editor's problems.

Following a lunch break, the second keynote speaker of the day, Max Tooker, will speak. Tooker is news director for KCENT-TV in Temple.

At 1:45 p.m., session II begins with McHam speaking on newspaper layouts in the LH. Hinton and Wallace will speak again on photography in AC206.

Starting at 3:00, awards will be given in the following categories: General Photography, Sports Photography, and Best Newspaper-Division I-(Class 4A and 3A) and Division II (class 2A and lower).

Yearbook awards will be announced at 2:15 p.m. in HPE Lecture Hall. Four awards for books in large school and small school categories will be given.

Marshall Inherits New Role As Team Leader

By Glenn Vrba

One can't help but notice the towering, 6-foot-7 figure of MCC cager Ed Marshall as he strolls around the campus. Marshall, a returning starter for Coach Johnny Carter, should be a major cog in the Highlanders' try for another conference championship.

Marshall came to MCC last year as a highly touted star from Kennard High School in East Texas. He was a three time all-district performer at the small Class A school and averaged 28.6 points a game his senior year.

"I came to MCC for two reasons. One, I liked Coach Carter and his style of basketball. Secondly, I felt I needed to go to a junior college for academic reasons," said Marshall.

Marshall is known around campus as "Easy Ed" or just plain "Ez." He received his nickname from last year's team because of his easygoing attitude both on and off the court.

Sophomore

"Easy" is in the process of rehabilitating an injured knee. He suffered torn cartilage in his right knee while playing in a pickup game this past June. He was operated on in late July to correct the damage, and, as a result, Marshall was inactive for four to six weeks. Since then, Marshall has been lifting weights daily to strengthen his knee and bring himself back to top form.

Marshall was one of MCC's better defensive players last year, and Carter expects Marshall to be a leader this year.

"Ed is a real strong defensive player and is good on the full-court press. He's very quick for his size and adds a soft shooting touch and good range to his defensive talents," said Carter.

Marshall's play this season will depend on how well he has recovered from his knee problem. But, if his nickname is any indication of how he'll come back, then his play on the court should be "easy."

Cooke JC Edges MCC

By Glenn Vrba

The MCC tennis team fell Monday to Cooke County for the second time this fall during dual match play. The final score was CC 7 and MCC 4.

Cooke's Peter Wall edged the Highlander's Tim Roehrick 6-2, 6-2, in men's singles play. In other singles action MCC's Kelly Smith defeated CC's Kevin Hamilton 6-3, 6-2. Also, Craig Nybro (CC) triumphed over MCC's Greg Cary 6-2, 6-2; and Greg Garrison (CC) tripped Rick Perry (MCC) 6-1, 6-1. Stacey Frasier (MCC) inched past Steve Clauson (CC) 6-1, 7-5 in the final match.

Women's singles saw Cooke's Debbie Donley walk past the Highlander Sherry Collazo 6-0, 6-0. Liz White (CC) won over MCC's Denise Norrid 6-1, 6-2; and Arlene Simms (MCC) waltzed past CC's Linda Anderson 6-3, 6-3.

In men's doubles, Cooke's Wall-Nybro swept by MCC's Roehrick-Smith 6-3, 6-2. Also, Cary-Rick Perry (MCC) recorded a win over Hamilton-Garrison 6-3, 6-2.

In the only women's doubles match, Donley-White (CC) squeaked by Simms-Norrid (MCC) 6-4, 2-6, 6-3.

The tennis team was defeated by Navarro 13-2 in match play yesterday at the MCC courts.

Two Sports For Burrows

By Roger Busby

It's not unusual to find athletes in high school who play several sports and are successful. It's very unusual, however, to find even one athlete that will attempt to play two sports in college.

The Highlanders are fortunate to have such an athlete. Burt Burrows, out of Austin Crockett High School where he starred in several sports, is dividing time between basketball and baseball for the second time in two years. To complicate the already complex situation, both sports at MCC have concurrent seasons.

"I don't have any spare time," said Burrows. "Baseball practice for me starts at 1:30, an hour earlier than the rest of the team, on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. I then go to basketball practice at 4 and go until 6 or 6:30."

Burrows indicated that playing two sports isn't hard physically after the first two weeks. However, he said, "My feet are about to come off at the end of the week. On Saturday I practice basketball in the morning and play baseball in the afternoon."

Basketball coach Johnny Carter said, "Tell me how a guy can do all that and maintain a 3.3 grade point average." That is exactly what Burrows did last year.

Burrows played a lot of basketball for Carter last year. While doing so, he gained a reputation as a very good defensive player.

Sophomore
Burt Burrows

"Burt will play a lot for me again, especially when we press, and we'll press quite a bit again this year," said Carter.

Baseball coach Rick Butler said, "He has had an outstanding Fall for me. Last Saturday (against Temple) he showed good defense. He's so quick. He gets a very good jump on the ball. He's a defense oriented player."

Burrows is not only a defense oriented player but he hits .500 and above.

Scoring Points

By Terry Tacker

Dallas defeated New York Sunday to remain the only undefeated squad of the 28-team National Football League. Never have fans seen a quarterback throwing the ball with such accuracy as the Cowboy's Roger Staubach. The man from Navy is scrambling less, making Coach Tom Landry very happy, and running the Dallas offense with perfection. Against the Giants, Staubach completed 14 of 16 passes for 180 yards. Staubach has completed above 70 per cent of his passes through five games placing him first in the NFL in that category. The only question mark on the team lies in the ability of linebackers Lee Roy Jordan, D.D. Lewis and Bob Bruening.....The Houston Astros have been ridiculed because they traded quality performers to other teams. Now, Texas Ranger owners can take some of the ridicule. The managers of the division-winning Kansas City Royals and New York Yankees used to receive their paychecks from the Rangers. The two are Whitey Herzog and Billy Martin.....Thursday and Friday, the MCC golf team is entered in the Sam Houston State University Tournament in Huntsville. Meanwhile, the baseball team takes on Texas Wesleyan at 2 p.m. Friday in Fort Worth. Saturday, the Highlanders play a group of MCC alumni at the MCC field at noon. Coach Carmack Berryman's tennis team participates in the Temple Tournament Friday...Speaking of tennis, two nets were stolen from the MCC courts last weekend.....Houston is at SMU, Texas Tech travels to Houston to take on Rice, and Baylor plays at College Station against the Aggies, in Southwest Conference football action Saturday. We saw the Aggie-Red Raider game that was played in College Station Saturday. Texas Tech won the contest 27-16, giving the Aggies two conference losses. The A&M secondary was badly defeated by Tech receivers all afternoon. Rodney Allison, the Tech quarterback, is a fine passer and should receive much praise and credit. But, the truth is, any college passer could have done well against the Aggies that particular day. The receivers were wide open. The Aggies do have two quality performers in running back Curtis Dickey and linebacker Robert Jackson. The Baylor-A&M game will be the turning point of the season for the Bears. If they win, look out SWC. If they lose, Baylor will have to turn their attention to some bowl besides the Cotton Bowl.....John McLain, ex-editor of the Highland Herald, has accepted a sports reporter job with the Houston Chronicle. McLain will be covering the Houston Aeros hockey team. McLain was sports editor of the Highland Herald in the fall of 1972. Spring 1973, McLain held the editor's position. McLain covered Highlander basketball this past season for the Waco Tribune-Herald. He was with the Waco paper for three years. Tony Pederson, another ex-editor of the Highland Herald, is also writing sports for the Houston Chronicle.

Netters Tie For Second

Cooke County garnered the first place trophy last weekend in the Cooke Invitational Tennis Tourney. Cooke outpointed second place teams MCC and Paris Jr. College. Final point standings in the six-team event went as follows: Cooke-17, MCC and Paris-13, Oscar Rose JC (Oklahoma)-10, Weatherford-5, and Vernon JC-1.

MCC's Kelly Smith, playing some of his finest tennis, won the men's singles final 6-1, 6-4 over CC's Peter Wall, the number one seed. In the women's singles final, Debbie Donley (CC) defeated Pat Bentley (PJC) 6-2, 6-0.

The men's doubles title was captured by Cooke's Craig Nybro-Wall, as they claimed a 6-1, 6-3 triumph over Ruben Martinez-Craig Boyd of Paris JC.

dual interview, agreed that Burrows is truly a gifted athlete.

Butler: "You don't find too many athletes who will work like Burt does."

Carter: "Burt enjoys himself, though. He never complains."

Butler: "If you see a frown on Burt's face, it's because he's confused. He's not confused very often."

"It takes a lot of brain power and endurance to do what Burt is doing," said Carter.

"He's reacting under two different coaching situations," said Butler. "Offensively, we have 10 or 12 situations to learn, and several more than 12 defensive situations to learn."

Carter: "We're learning five plays right now and will add several more." Butler: "A lot of this comes from natural ability. He has a lot of natural ability."

Both coaches undoubtedly rate Burrows very highly.

Burrows concluded, "Every morning I read my Bible. It helps me get through the day. I'm really enjoying myself. I just hope I can help both squads."

The confidence that both coaches have indicated in him seems to point toward just such a conclusion. That is if he doesn't grow old prematurely.
