In the early 1800s, "Northfields" was the common name for the area that North Salem currently occupies. The land was purely fields used for grazing animals and agricultural needs of the time. James Symonds was one of the first buyers of land on the east side of the Northfields area. He purchased about from the North River to present day Orne Street. At the time, there was no bridge over the river. Access was limited by Boston Street into Peabody and then through to Northfields.

148 North Street is situated near the corner of Stodder Place and North Street in Salem, Massachusetts. Before becoming number 148, this home was 100 North Street from around 1850 when it was built until the entirety of North Street was renumbered in 1877. By description of current records, the home is currently a 3 family home set on 0.289 acres of land. There are 13 total rooms, 5 bedrooms, 3 bathrooms, and 3 half bathrooms.

148 North Street was originally built as a single family dwelling house. There is an asphalt shingle roof, wooden clapboard walls and a concrete foundation. The style of the home is a typical Greek revival style commonly seen in Salem. These features include but are not limited to the pedimented gable, a door bracket which is patterned in the Italianate style, as well as the cornice which is a part of the roofline entablature. Greek Revival style architecture reached its peak during the mid-19th century, from about 1825-1860. During this time, there was a global fascination with ancient Greek culture, specifically Greek art which displays staple marbles and ancient temples. This was clearly the reasoning behind the building of 148 North Street. The home was built for the Honeycomb family. Although it cannot be confirmed who built 148 North Street, it can be imagined with some certainty that it was built by carpenter Thomas P. Honeycomb himself. The earliest record of the home is in the Salem City Directory of 1850.

The Honeycomb Family (1850-1897)

Thomas P. Honeycomb (1807-1896) was born April 17, 1807 to mother Celia (Peirson) Honeycomb (1777-1848). Information about his father could not be found. Celia was born in Liskeard, Cornwall, England on January 27, 1777 and died in 1848. She is buried in Harmony Grove Cemetery.<sup>1</sup> Thomas grew up with seven siblings, one of relative importance. His little brother would go on to become Colonel George H. Peirson (1816-1881), an officer in the Massachusetts 5th Militia Regiment who served as a Union soldier in the Civil War.<sup>2</sup>

Thomas made a life as a carpenter. He was a carpenter at H. & Edwards at 8 North Street in Salem.<sup>3</sup> It's possible that that was the reason for his moving to 148 North Street, due to it being in closer proximity to his job.

On May 5, 1833, Thomas married Mary P. (Haskell) Honeycomb (c. 1808-1885) in Salem.<sup>4</sup> Mary P. Haskell was born in 1808 to parents Elijah and Lucy (Collins) Haskell. Her parents were from Gloucester.<sup>5</sup> Mary and Thomas had one son, Thomas P. Honeycomb, Jr. born December 1845 in Salem.<sup>6</sup> Prior to living on North Street, the Honeycomb family lived at 92 Essex Street.<sup>7</sup>

Thomas P. Honeycomb Jr. was a machinist. He was married on June 18, 1873 to Anna Lyons. Anna was born in Sweden to parents John and Catherine Lyon.<sup>8</sup> They immigrated to the United States and settled in Somerville, Massachusetts. This is also where Anna and Thomas built their life after Salem. They had adopted Anna's sister's son, Albert H. Peterson (c. 1871-

Thomas and Anna seemingly lived in the home until his parents' deaths. Mary died January 4, 1885 from congestion of the lungs and Thomas Sr. died August 20, 1896 of diarrhoea (English spelling for diarrhea) and old age.<sup>11</sup>

Thomas Sr. left the property to his son in his 1893 will. It is best assumed that Thomas P. Honeycomb, Jr. kept the home and rented it out until he died in 1920, but documents could not be found or are not available on this assumption. After his death, his will instructed the administrator, Benjamin Nason, to sell the home. The home was then sold to the Kennedy family who had been tenants since 1910.

Hannah Silsbee Haskell Smith (1855-1888)

Hannah S.H. (Silsbee Haskell) Smith (c.1802-1891) was born to Elijah and Lucy (Collins) Haskell. She was married to Charles Smith III of Gloucester on July 2, 1840.<sup>1213</sup> She was Mary P. Haskell's sister.<sup>14</sup> Hannah lived with her sister and brother-in-law for 35 years on North Street. Hannah died on December 31, 1891 at the age of 91 and 5 months. Her death record lists her cause of death as exhaustion.<sup>15</sup> shop with his brother Frank H. Moore. His first marriage was to Margaret J. Turcotte on September 27, 1886 in Boston.<sup>16</sup> No information is available on why they separated. It is possible they got divorced or Margaret passed away. His second marriage was to Nellie Isabel Teele (1862-1937) on October 22, 1896.<sup>17</sup> Nellie was the daughter of William and Esther (Richardson) Teele. She was born in Newburyport on July 24, 1862. She had one brother, William J. Teele (1857-1935).<sup>18</sup>

Nellie and William had one son, Roland B. Moore (1905-1973). Roland was born on March 15, 1905 in Salem. He married Ruth M. Payson (1896-1969) in 1931.<sup>19</sup> Roland and Ruth had one son, Donald Moore (1936-2014) on July 24, 1936.<sup>20</sup> Don went on to be recruited by the Chicago Cubs Baseball team, but Nellie and William did not give him permission because he was too young! (See more about Don in his obituary below.)

After Nellie, William, and Roland moved out of their home on North Street in 1924, they returned to Lathrop Street in Beverly. William died on November 20, 1945 in Danvers, Massachusetts. He is buried in Central Cemetery in Beverly.<sup>21</sup> Nellie died in 1937 and is buried at Walnut Grove Cemetery in Methuen, Massachusetts alongside her parents. Roland died on April 20, 1973 in Quincy, Massachusetts but is buried next to his father in Beverly.<sup>22</sup>

Ireland. William had 4 siblings.<sup>23</sup> Sometime during his childhood, the family moved to Meriden, Connecticut. William worked as a mechanic.<sup>24</sup> William married Carrie Elvira Dunbar (1861-1942) on February 24, 1891 in Ware, Massachusetts.<sup>25</sup> Carrie was born on April 10, 1861 in Ware, Massachusetts to parents Simeon Cummings Dunbar (1814-1880) and Amanda Melvina (Colton) Dunbar (1815-1890). Carrie had six brothers and sisters.<sup>26</sup>

Carrie and William had a daughter, Grace C. Kennedy (1895-1982) in Connecticut on February 20, 1895.<sup>27</sup> She never married. The family moved to 148 North Street from Connecticut in 1901. William was a printer at the United Shoe Machinery Company in Beverly.<sup>28</sup> Grace worked a few different jobs throughout her life. She was a stenographer in Beverly, a clerical at the courthouse in Salem, and worked as a clerk at the Registry of Deeds in Salem.<sup>29</sup> By 1922, the family moved next door to 150 North Street after vacating 148 North Street.<sup>30</sup> Grace owned 148 North from 1938-1942, best assumed that she was renting it out at the time. She assumed the mortgage from her parents and inherited Parcel 1 from Mary Lewis (who also happened to own 150 North Street, which is most likely why Grace was willed Parcel 1 of the 148 North Street property.)

William died in 1932 and is buried in Ware, Massachusetts.<sup>31</sup> Carrie died in 1942.<sup>32</sup> Grace died January 20, 1982 in Marlborough, Massachusetts.<sup>33</sup>

In 1942, Grace sold the property to the Jackowski family.

The Jackowski Family (1942-1975)

John Jackowski (1891-1979) was born February 28, 1891. His World War II Draft Registration Card differs in dates, stating he was born March 10, 1892. It should be assumed this was a mistake, as his gravesite confirms the 1891 date. John was born in Poland to parents Anthony and Antonina (Bartoszewski) Jackowski. He immigrated to the United States aboard the S.S. Pocahontas on April 21, 1920 at the age of 29.<sup>34</sup> Throughout his career as a leatherworker, John was employed at the Morrill Leather Company and the Tremont Leather Company, both in Peabody.<sup>35</sup> Prior to living at 148 North Street, he and his family previously had lived at 22 ½ Becket Street in Salem and 141 North Street in Salem. At the age of 50 (in 1942), he was drafted in World War II.

Frances (Franciska) (Rada) Jackowski (1891-1980) was born March 4, 1891 in Galicia, Krakow, Poland. She arrived in the United States on February 17, 1909 on the ship SS Brandenburg. The ship departed from Bremen, Germany and landed at Ellis Island in New York.<sup>36</sup> Frances was employed by North Shore Cleaning Company as a cleaner.<sup>37</sup>

There is no marriage record available for John and Frances. It seems they were married after they both arrived in the United States. They did not have children, but did adopt their niece, Sophie F. Leskewicz, at a young age. John died on October 29, 1979 and Frances died March 28, 1980 in Salem. They are buried at Saint Mary's Cemetery, also in Salem.<sup>38</sup> parents died when she was a child, which left her uncle and aunt (John and Frances Jackowski) to adopt her. She went to Salem High School, graduating in 1949. Sophie loved to cook so naturally, one of her part time jobs throughout her life was a cook at the Landmark School.

Robert J. Harris (1930-2009) was born April 12, 1930 in Jamaica Plain, Massachusetts to Walter R. and Stella (Ryan) Harris.<sup>39</sup> He had two brothers, Frederick and Walter Harris. Robert graduated from St. Mary's Boys High School in Lynn, Massachusetts. He went on to receive his bachelors and masters degrees in education at Fitchburg State College.<sup>40</sup> Out of college, he became a stockman in Salem. After moving to Haverhill, Robert was a teacher. Eventually, he ended up teaching in Lynn as well.

Robert and Sophie married in 1952 and had five children: David, Michael, Stephen, John, and Catherine. After the couple married, the house was passed down to them from the Jackowski's.

Robert died February 16, 2009.<sup>41</sup> Sophie died August 15, 2015 in Danvers, Massachusetts. They are both buried in Greenlawn Cemetery.<sup>42</sup>

They sold the house to their son, Stephen R. Harris, and his wife, Danigayle, in 1998. Stephen Harris was born on November 29, 1954 in Salem.<sup>43</sup> He went to Salem High School, graduating in 1972.<sup>44</sup> He married Danigayle Harris who was born September 1, 1954.

Donald P. Moore

JULY 24, 1936 – MARCH 7, 2014

IN THE CARE OF

Doane Beal & Ames

Donald P. “Don” Moore died on March 7, 2014. He was born in Beverly Massachusetts on July 24, 1936. When he was 16 he and his family moved to Quincy, Massachusetts.

As a youngster, Don had fond memories of spending summers in Nova Scotia. He was recruited by the Chicago Cubs Baseball team, but was not given permission by his parents who thought he was too young.

Don's first job out of school was a temporary assignment at WHDH radio in Boston as an audio Engineer. WHDH became a permanent job and one of his many assignments was that of camera operator in the Boston Red Sox dugout during the 1967 “Impossible Dream” year. This was a job where Don always mused that he couldn't believe he actually got paid for such an opportunity.

After ten years of trying to obtain a radio license on Cape Cod, Don and his partners were awarded an FM license for Barnstable, MA at 99.9 on the FM dial. Don built the facility and WQRC went on the air in July 1970. Within a few years WQRC rose to become the number one station on Cape Cod. WQRC was recognized with many UPI Tom Phillips awards, many regional awards and a major national radio award, the Armstrong Award, for creativity and producing for the special program about the 75th anniversary of Marconi's trans- Atlantic radio transmission. Don felt the residents of the Cape deserved lots of news, information and most of all, the music of their lives that bring back so many wonderful memories. Don's dedication to giving his listeners the very best was always most important to him and it shone through.

Don always dreamed of starting his own television station. That dream became a reality in 1985 when WCVX-TV Channel 58 went on the air providing local news and live broadcasts for many events around Cape Cod. Several years later Don sold WCVX-TV and started planning his next broadcast project, radio station WOCN-FM "Ocean 104", which he built and put on the air in 1994. True to form, WOCN-FM became extremely popular. He programmed this station with the music from the 1950s, 60s and 70s and Don knew he had just the right mix when he received a phone call from Senator Ted Kennedy, telling him that he and everyone at The Compound were listening and enjoying the great music on "Ocean." Don used radio as an instrument to improve life on Cape Cod. If something needed publicizing or funds raised, he would try to use his stations to help.

Don enjoyed the sites and sounds of Cape Cod, playing golf, achieving two hole in ones, traveling, yard work and listening to music. The Rotary Club of Hyannis was an important part of Don's life, with 39 years of perfect attendance and many lifelong friendships. After retiring, he enjoyed day trips around the Cape and watching the waves crash over the sandbars at Lighthouse Beach in Chatham.

Don is survived by his beloved wife Terry (David). His five children, Mary and her husband Steve Davies of Plymouth, MA, Lori and her husband Bob Curley of Westfield, MA, Jeanine and her husband James Capobianco of San Jose, California, Scott Moore and his wife Mary of Westford, MA and Susan Moore and her friend Taylor Newman of Needham, MA. Don's eleven grandchildren Ryan, Jason and Michael Davies, Kelsey, Colleen and Katie Curley, Nicole and Victoria Capobianco, Amanda, Timmy and Andrew Moore. And one great-grandchild, Madison Turgeon.

A memorial Service will be held on Saturday April 5th, 2014 at 1:30pm at the Federated Church of Hyannis. Burial Services are private. Donations in his memory may be made to the Hyannis Rotary Club Scholarship Fund. PO Box 39 Hyannis MA 02601.

ARCHITECTURAL SIGNIFICANCE (Describe important architectural features and evaluate in terms of other buildings within the community.)

This house is typical of a very popular Greek Revival design in Salem. Oriented with its pedimented gable end to the street, the dwelling has a recessed sidehall entry featuring sidelights and a transom. The heavily bracketed doorhood is a transitional Italianate detail. Other elements are the granite foundation and the slender sill and cornice boards which contrast with the very deep entablature cornice.

HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE (Explain the role owners played in local or state history and how the building relates to the development of the community.)

Directories indicate that this house was standing by 1850, at which time it was owned by carpenter Thomas P. Honeycomb. Because of his occupation it may be that Honeycomb built this house himself for his own use.

Before North Salem began to develop as a residential neighborhood in the 19th century, the area was known as the Northfields. Land was held communally for agricultural purposes. By 1700, the property on the east side of North Street from the North River to Orne Street had been assigned to James Symonds. Until the North Bridge was built in 1744, this area was isolated with access available only by ferry or from Boston Street via present-day Peabody. The bridge made development here more desirable especially along North Street, the main thoroughfare from Salem to Danvers.
