41 English Street

English Street, originally called English's lane, was laid out over the land of Philip English and others about 1697. The lot on which this house stands was part of the land owned by Mary English in 1684/5 (appendix A).

On June 25, 1801 John Gray, a Salem mariner, purchased a plot of land on English Street from Capt. Edward Allen for the sum of $400:

(book 168 page 225)

John Gray was born in Salem in 1771 and married Elizabeth Brown on Nov. 3, 1794. The couple, with their children Eliza (b.1795), John (b.1797) and William B. (b. 1799) were living on Barton Ct. when they purchased the lot on English St. Mr. Gray intended to build a home on this lot upon his return from the next voyage. Unfortunately, Mr. Gray died of a fever on March 7, 1802 while in Batavia. The news of his death was not received in Salem until July 31, 1802 (appendix B, also Rev. Bentley's Parish List of Deaths).

An inventory of Mr. Gray's estate (probate #11612) indicates that the value of the English St. lot was $300. The item with the greatest worth was 2881 pounds of coffee, at 18¢ per pound, total value $518.58. This was undoubtedly the money Mr. Gray intended to use to finance his English St. house (appendix C).

On Oct. 4, 1804 Allen Street was accepted by the city as a public way. The John Gray estate was awarded a $10 compensation for a small wedge of land needed for the width of the newly formed street:

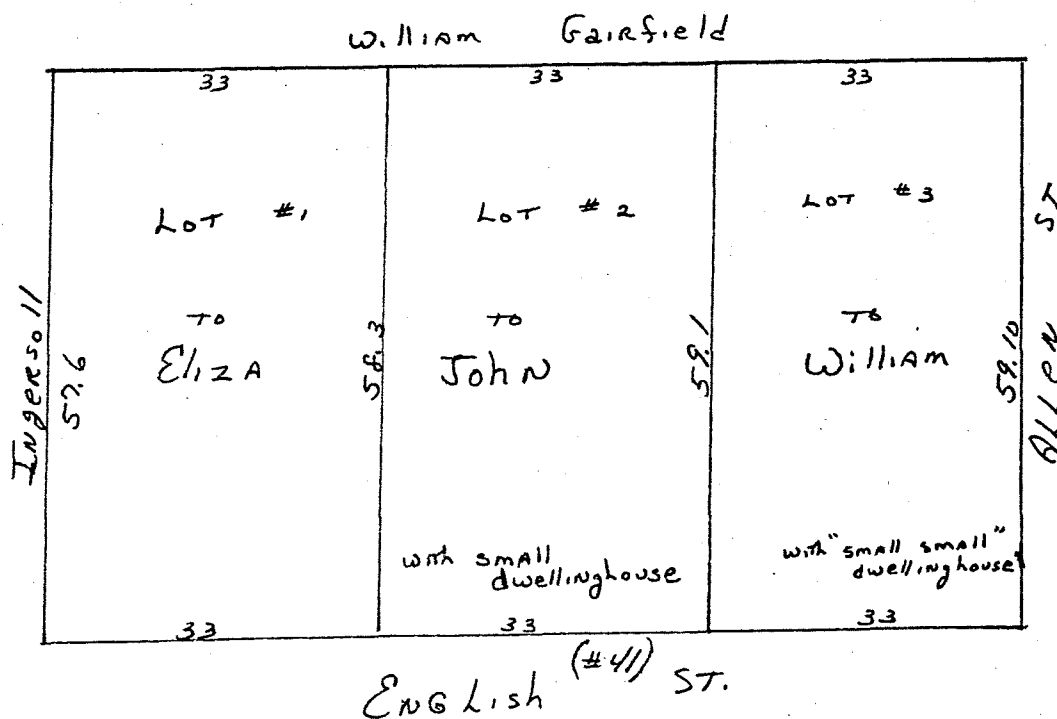

(town records for 1804)

Elizabeth Gray died on May 15, 1806. In his list of Parish Deaths, Rev. William Bentley made note of her death "Elizabeth, widow of John Gray. Fever, 33 years. Husband died in 1802. She was a Browne, married at 21. Left two sons and an infirm daughter. Not long sick. English street."

The first mention of a house on this land appears in the probate (#11598) of Mrs. Elizabeth Gray (appendix D). Along with the property Elizabeth inherited from her father, Benjamin Browne, is "A small house standing on land the estate of John Gray late of Salem dec^d. Situate on English Street Salem". Value $200. By reading the inventory of her estate one is given the impression that Mrs. Gray earned a living as either a tailoress or shopkeeper (appendix D).

Benjamin Browne, brother of Elizabeth, was appointed guardian of the Gray children. On Nov. 1, 1806 Mr. Browne sold the Essex and Becket St. properties, but retained the English St. estate for the benefit of the heirs. It can not be determined who occupied the house during the children's minority. A division of the estate was made on June 23, 1820, 18 days after the youngest child, William, reached his 21st birthday:

The 1831 tax records for English St. show that John Gray Jr., (ropemaker) owned a house with a shop in it valued at $300. William B. Gray also owned a house with a shop in it, plus one swine, total value $200.

On Sept. 18, 1843 John Gray, ropemaker, and his wife Abigail sold for the sum of $800 "To my brother William B., cordwainer, a lot of land on English Street with shop and two story dwelling house, being lots #1 (purchased from Eliza) and #2 in the division made in book 225 page 39." The Salem Street Books for 1844 substantiate this transaction:

The land and buildings were transferred, by Augustus and Margaret Forness, back to William B. Gray on Nov. 14, 1876. "The same premises conveyed to me by William B. Gray on Sept. 18, 1874 in book 912 page 202."

He was 88 years of age and for a number of years kept a grocery store at the corner of English and Allen Streets. He was a man of sterling character and universally respected."

On Sept. 1, 1887 a straw deed was drawn with the sole purpose of correcting the previous deeds in which Honora Lahan was erroneously called Bridget Lahan (book 1204 page 522).

On March 16, 1935 the Naumkeag Trust Co. sold the premises to Leger and Eva Lavoie, husband and wife (book 3028 page 458).

Mary English Feb. 17, 1684-5;* and died in 1690.

The tavern was probably conducted by her grandson Philip English as soon as he became of age (in 1705). Upon the death of his mother, in 1691, the estate descended to him. He lived in and conducted the tavern when he conveyed the land, house, warehouse and wharf for six hundred pounds, to Richard Derby of Salem, mariner, Feb. 24, 1748.† Mr. Derby took the house down about 1759.

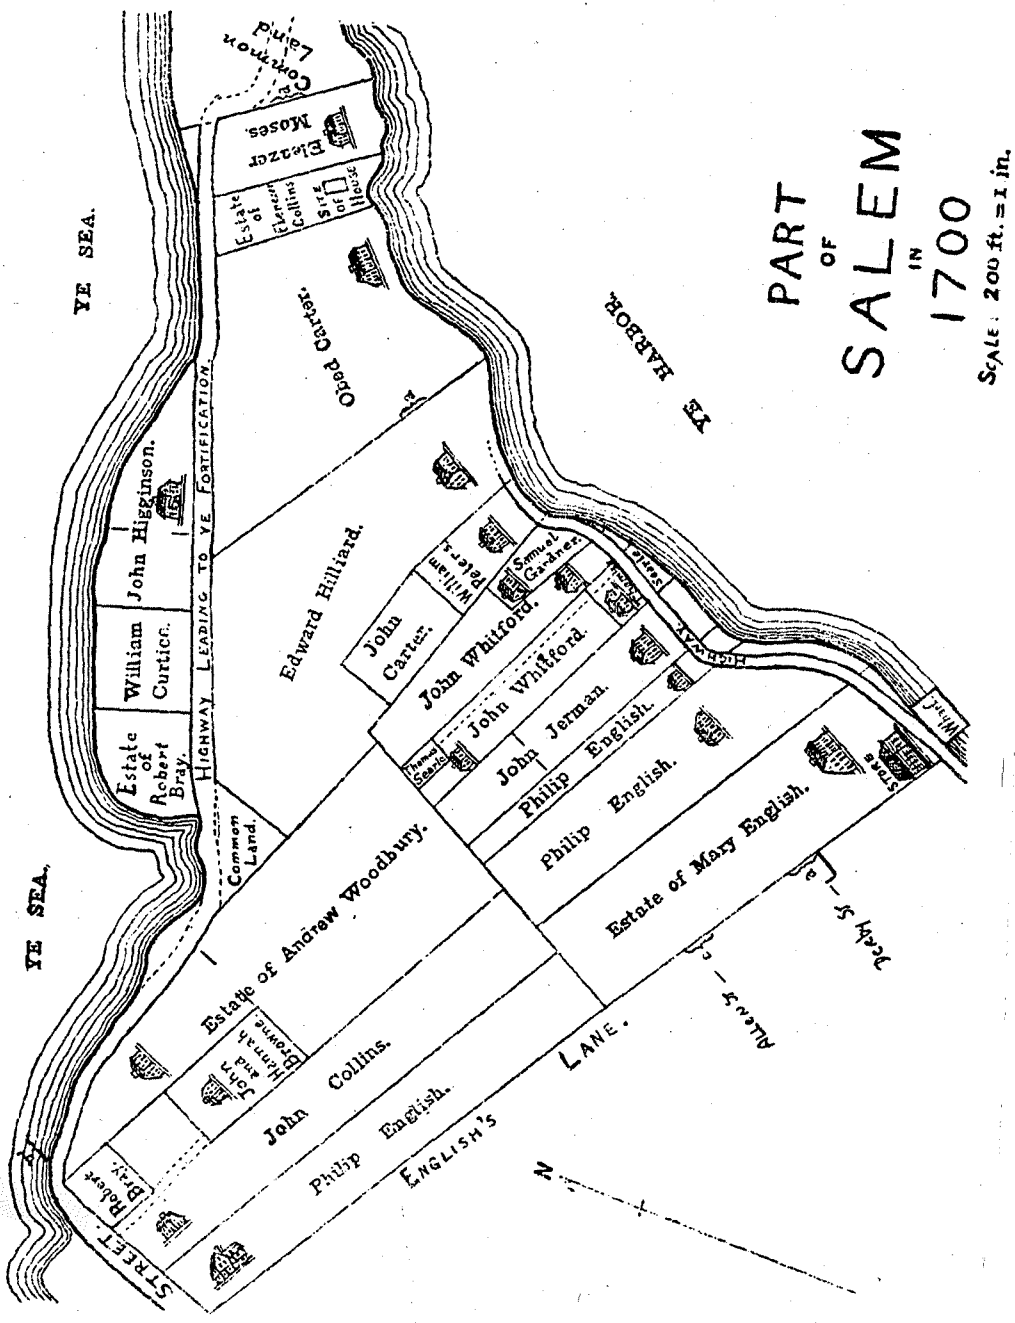

Dr. William Bentley wrote, in 1791, of this house as follows: "At the eastward of English's lane near the water is a store enlarged, but originally built above one hundred years. A few yards above is the large cellar, the stones of which were sold six years since, but the steps remain, over which stood a very large house with peaks as English's below, and which was employed as a tavern by the name of the BLUE ANCHOR. It has been down above forty years and there was a store put over the cellar, which within a few years has been removed into North Fields. Beyond on the shore is to be seen the cellar of a house possessed by Mary Brown, the land being since sold to Capt. Richard Derby. On the west side of English's lane, opposite to the tavern, is a cellar upon which stood a house within the memory of the present generation. Beyond Brown's house and Whitford's, which is a house since built, about twenty years, and now standing, is to be seen the cellar of Webb's house, the land being yet in the family. There were three other houses before we came to the group upon the Point of Rocks, and one cellar is now to be seen upon the plain between the Block house ruins and the present enclosure upon the Point. The Blue Anchor was celebrated for Marblehead Campaigns."

Doctor Bentley continued, in 1793: "Mary English was the only child of William Hollingworth, who married Eleanor Story, from England. The family lived at the Point of Rocks, and Mary, the accused was born at the Blue Anchor, at the head of English's wharf eastward. The house afterwards a public house, and has been taken down about thirty-three years."

Estate of Mary English House (Blue Anchor Tavern). This house and lot were the estate of William Hollingworth before 1661. He mortgaged the estate to Mr. Philip Cromwell of Salem, for two hundred and fifty pounds, June 1, 1672;§ Mr. Hollingworth was lost at sea in 1677; and Mr. Cromwell, who was then a slaughterer, for the amount of the mortgage, conveyed the house and lot to Mr. Hollingworth's widow, Elinor Hollingworth, of Salem. it then being in her possession, March 4, 1681-2.|| Mrs. Hollingworth is said to have established the business of an innkeeper in this house, which became known as The Blue Anchor Tavern. She conveyed the house and land with the wharf and landing place, to her daughter
