CENTRAL UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

Dedication

To the Rev. Frederick William Hinitt, for ten years President of Central University, this volume is respectfully and affectionately dedicated by the Class of Nineteen Fifteen. Well do we remember his kind solicitude, patience, and forbearance; and it is with sincerest and deepest regret that we see him resigned from this college. Truly, he was a Christian gentleman and a profound scholar. Nature might stand up to all the world and say, "This is a man!"

Preface

YES, we suppose this book needs must have a prefatory note, even as the other Annuals that have preceded and perhaps surpassed it. We do not know just what to say — or how to say it; indeed the volume is far from what we would like to have made it; neither is it all it might have been. We have had rather more or less of a thankless job — much work, many worries and troubles. Yet, withal it has had its pleasures as well as regrets. Peruse these pages with charitable eyes; write our virtues in brass, our faults in the sands. Finally we hope we have done our best by our College, the students, and the Class of Nineteen Fifteen.

“Was ever book containing such vile matter
So fairly bound? O, that deceit should dwell
In such a gorgeous palace!”

JOHN JACOB BETHURUM, Φ Δ Θ
Somerset, Ky.

Born at Mt. Vernon, Ky., June 27, 1894; Prepared at Mt. Vernon Collegiate Institute and Somerset High School. Entered Centre College in 1912; President Freshman Class, '12; Winner Freshman Scholarship, '12; Secretary Chamberlain, '12; Vice President Chamberlain, '13; President Chamberlain Literary Society, '15; Freshman and Sophomore Football Teams; Ernst Debate, '14-'15; Member Inter-Collegiate Debating Team, Central vs. Kentucky State, '14; Winner June Oratorical, '14; Captain Track Team, '14; First President Student Publicity Board, '15; Chairman Student Finance Committee, '15; Secretary and Treasurer Inter-Collegiate Debating Association, '14-'15; Ye Rounde Table, '14-'15; Cheer Leader, '14-'15; Secretary and Treasurer Senior Class; Associate Editor The Cento, '15; Editor-in-Chief The Cardinal and Blue; Charter Member Kappa Pi; Class Orator.

"JAKE"

"When those who love are severed, love's tide stronger flows."—PROPERTIUS.

"Jake" is the only man in the class who can afford two canes. Although he has taken the course in three years that some of us take in five, he kept up his weekly travels until the paternal hand and Senior duties became too heavy. He is especially happy when on the track in his negligee, or yelling before the bleachers with his megaphone. Old books and correspondence courses in the art of elongation also attract him.

"I may travel far o'er sea and plain—
But I'll always come back to see my Cain."

SAMUEL DAVIES BOGGS, Σ X
Danville, Ky.

Born September 19, 1892, at Catlettsburg, Ky.; Prepared at Catlettsburg High School; Entered Centre College, '11; Freshman and Sophomore Football Teams; Varsity Tennis Team, '12; Varsity Football Team, '14; Treasurer Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '13-'14; Vice President Y. M. C. A., '14-'15; Secretary of Deinologian, '12-'13; Treasurer of Deinologian, '13-'14; President of Deinologian, '14-'15; Winner of 22nd Oratorical, '14-'15, and Ernst Debate, '14-'15; Inter-Collegiate Oratorical, '14; Inter-Collegiate Debate, '14-'15; Business Manager of Cento, '12-'13; Associate Business Manager of Cardinal and Blue; College Quartette, '13 and '15; German Club, '13-'14; Ye Rounde Table, '14, '14-'15; President of Ye Rounde Table, '14-'15; Glee Club, '15; Assistant Librarian, '14-'15; Kappa Pi, '15; Class Giftorian.

"SAM"

"Say, that she rail, why, then I'll tell her plain
She rings as sweetly as a nightingale."
SHAKESPEARE.

What would a class be without a "beauty"? Here is ours. Not only does he excel in looks, but also in speech and music. If "Percy" ever runs out of something to say, we will get "Sam" to take his place. "Sam" likes all kinds of sports, but particularly a beribboned basket ball game at K. C. W. As an orator, he has carried away many honors.

My leisure moments oft I spend
Beside some ancient friend,
Who, modernized and powdered up,
Gives me the honeyed cup.

JOHN VINCENT COTTON, Phrenocon
Louisville, Ky.

Born August 4, 1891, at Slippery Rock, Pa.; Prepared at Louisville Male High School; Entered Centre College, '11; Varsity Tennis Team, '12; Varsity Football Team, '14; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '12-'13, '13-'14; President of Y. M. C. A., '14-'15; Y. M. C. A. Delegate to Kansas City, '13-'14; Member of German Club, '12-'13, '13-'14; Vice President of German Club, '12-'13; Vice President of Deinologian, '13; Sec'y of Deinologian, '13-'14; Treasurer of Deinologian, '14-'15; Represented Deinologian in Ernst Debate, '15; President of Deinologian, '15; Cento Staff, '12-'13; Ye Rounde Table, '14, '14-'15; Scribe of Ye Rounde Table, '14-'15; Associate Editor of Cardinal and Blue; President of Junior Class, '13-'14; Charter Member of Phrenocon; Charter Member of Kappa Pi; Glee Club; Class Prophet. Expects to study law.

"Cot"

"God bless you, I have nothing to tell, sir."
—CANNING.

Here is the class problem. We have much to say about what the others have or have not done, but we don't dare tell what we know about John.

"He has messed around in this and that,

He has tried to study and tried to write,

He has tried to play and tried to fight,
Yet I can't say much for him even at that."

RICHARD WILLIAM DUNLAP, Σ X
Danville, Ky.

Born September 15, 1896, at Danville, Ky.; Prepared at Centre College Academy; Entered Centre College, '11; Cento Staff, '12-'13, '13-'14; Editor-in-Chief of Cento, '14-'15; German Club, '14-'15; Ye Rounde Table, '14, '14-'15; Chamberlain; Associate Editor of Cardinal and Blue; Freshman Honors; Sophomore Honors; Junior Honors; Sophomore Latin Prize; Carnival Committee, '15; Vice President of Student Publicity Board, '15.

"DICK"

"And still they gazed and still the wonder grew,
That one small head should carry all he knew."
—GOLDSMITH.

(Scene from "The Student")

Dan, holding class in Shakespeare.

Dan—Yaas, Mr. Dunlap, will you please tell us about Shakespeare?

Dick, (Punching neighbor)—T-t-tell about him, I didn't have time to read the lesson today.

Neighbor—I don't know, I didn't read it either.

Dick, (in much haste delivers perfect recitation with most minute details).

Curtain.

I do not study;
I'm too busy for that;
And yet there's nobody
Get's more under their hat.

JAMES MASON DYER, JR., B Θ II
Corsicana, Texas.

Born May 15, 1894, at Morganfield, Ky.; Prepared at Louisville Male High School and Corsicana (Texas) High School; Entered Centre College, '11; Vice President Sophomore Class; Vice President Senior Class; Member Pan-Hellenic Council, '14-'15; Member Triangular Hop Club, '13-'14; Member Sphinx Club; Athletic Editor Cardinal and Blue. Life work undecided.

"JIMMY"

"Hang Sorrow, Care'll kill a cat."

—BEN JOHNSON.

"Jimmy" comes from away down in Texas and he keeps up the reputation of his state by walking slow and sleeping fast. For three years he took life easy and never allowed his studies to "Interfere with his college work." Then the last year he burned the midnight oil and did four years' work in one.

I will not worry,
I will not fret,
You can't make me hurry,
Till I smoke a cigarette.

ROBERT BRADY LASSING, Σ A E

Newport, Ky.

Born at Burlington, Boone County, Kentucky, 1895; Prepared at Newport High School; Entered Centre College, '10; Varsity Baseball, '11-'12; Captain Baseball Team, '13-'14; Varsity Football Team, '11, '13; Varsity Basket Ball, '14; Varsity Track Team, '14; Carnival Committee, '12, '14; College Orchestra; King of Carnival, '14; German Club, '12-'13, '13-'14; Ye Rounde Table, '15; President of Senior Class; Glee Club, '15; College Quartette.

"GUS"

"In that day's feats,
He proved the best man in the field, and
for his meed
Was brow-bound with the oak."

—SHAKESPEARE.

"Gus" is our class president, an athlete, a musician and an all-round good fellow. After he had won baseball victories for "Old Centre" as long as the faculty would let him, he devoted his energies to the Saxophone and to study. At last he has managed to elect enough classes under Dan to get into Ye Rounde Table.

He stood upon the diamond green,
And pitched them over hard and clean;
Or else upon a chair he sat
And proved himself a musical "nat."

THOMAS KIRK LEWIS, Phrenocon
Louisville, Ky.

Born December 30, 1894, at Louisville, Ky.; Prepared at Manual Training High School of Louisville; Entered Centre College, '12; Censor of Chamberlain, '12; Librarian of Chamberlain, '12; Vice President of Chamberlain, '13; President of Chamberlain, '15; Chamberlain Representative in June Oratorical, '13; Carnival Committee, '14; Treasurer of Carnival Committee, '15; President of German Club, '14-'15; Football Squad, '14; Varsity Track Team, '13, '14; Ye Rounde Table, '14-'15; Glee Club, '15; Art Editor of Cardinal and Blue; Class Historian.

Expects to be a chemical engineer.

"TOMMY"

"Turn, turn, my wheel! Turn round and round
Without a pause, without a sound."

—LONGFELLOW.

T. K. has been with us but three years. The first year he spent on tricks, the second on books, and the third on Fourth street. Most of his time has been passed in Young Hall, where he was advanced from sawing wood in the basement to washing bottles in Hick's Lab. "Going up."

With wheels, pulleys, strings and clocks,
He works on other peoples' "blocks";
He also draws and makes with wood
Many things that we wish we could.

WALTER BASIL MAHAN, $\Phi \Delta \Theta$

Denton, Texas.

Born at Duffo, Texas, August 4, 1894; Prepared at the Denton High School; Entered Centre College, '12; Charter Member of Kappa Pi; Freshman and Sophomore Football Teams; Ye Round Table, '14-'15; Assistant Manager of Cardinal and Blue.

"TUBBY"

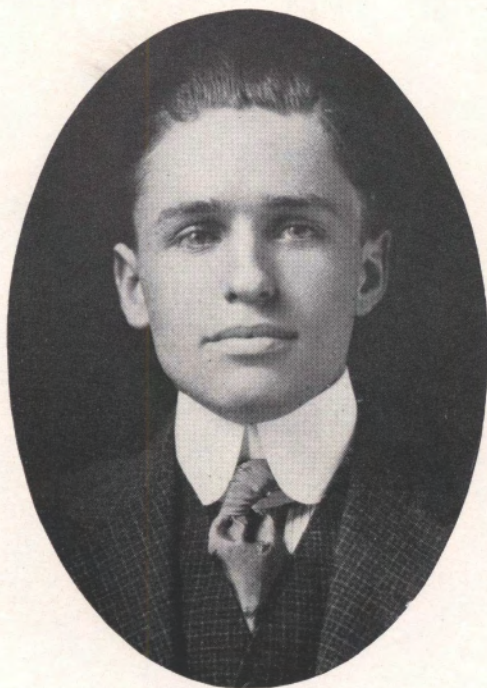

"A man who would make so vile a pun,
would not scruple to pick a pocket."

—JOHN DENNIS.

Most of us have worked until we are thin, but "Tubby" gave up all hopes after last Summer's schooling. His great "stunt" is to entertain the ladies and to keep them awake in church. He also has a serious side, as Jackey Fales can tell you.

"Tubby," that is what the boys call him,
This man from Texas wild;
And no matter what you may dub him,
You can't say he's a child.

CHARLES RICE MCDOWELL, JR., $\Sigma \Delta E$
Danville, Ky.

Born at Danville, Ky., August 25, 1895; Prepared at Centre College Academy and Hogset Military Academy; Entered Centre College, '10; Deinologian Literary Society, '10-'11, '11-'12, '12-'13; Varsity Football Team, '14; Varsity Basket Ball Team, '13, '15; Varsity Track Team; Various and Sundry Class Teams; Member of McDowell Club; Member of Standpipe Club.

"SEED"

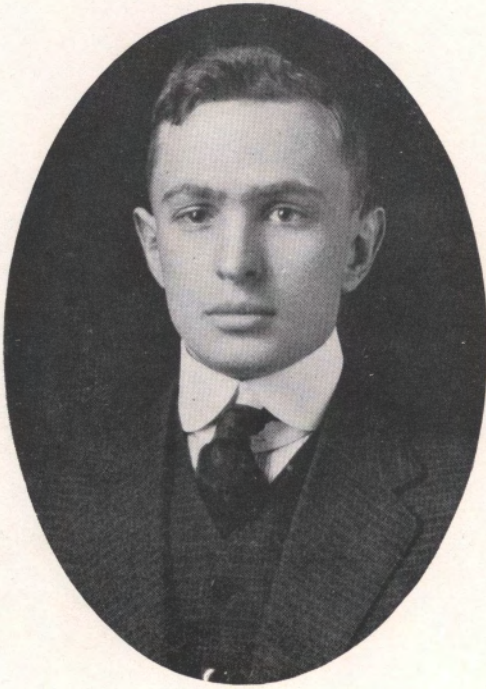

"O, would that deed were good;
For now the devil that told me—I did well—
Says that this deed is chronicled in hell."

—SHAKESPEARE.

"Seed" is a great ladies' man. One afternoon the policemen heard his serenading and they immediately took his gang to court. Still Charlie's spirits are undaunted and it is rumored that he is about to organize another party. It is expected that his old-time accomplice, "Prunes," will be with him in the next performance. "Tickets, please."

There is a great tall standpipe built near a fair girls' school,
Which boys are told they mustn't climb,
'cause 'tis against the rule.
But Charlie up that pipe did climb, and singing ne'er did stop
Till Miss Riker, by the telephone, did
call upon the cop.

MILES SAUNDERS MCDOWELL, Σ A E

Danville, Ky.

Born at Danville, Ky., February 17, 1894; Prepared at Hogset Military Academy and Centre College Academy; Entered Centre College, '10; Deinologian Literary Society, '10-'11, '11-'12, '12-'13; Class Historian, '11-'12; Cardinal and Blue Staff; Class Grumbler.

"MILO"

"I'll be merry and free,
I'll be sad for naebody;
If naebody cares for me,
I'll care for naebody."

—BURNS.

In his own way "Milo" finds out life from those around him. Then he illustrates his thoughts with these pictures. If it were not for his drawings, some of our classes might get monotonous. His only fault is that he studies so long he can't get to classes on time.

Miles, in his droll, deliberate way,
Can tell you where he's chanced to stay,
Whether the people said "ay" or "nay."
And whether or not he cared to stay.

WILLIAM HENRY MILLER, Σ A E

Morganfield, Ky.

Born July, 10, 1894, at Morganfield, Ky.; Prepared at Morganfield High School; Entered Centre College, '11; Cento Staff, '13-'14; Editor-in-Chief of Cento, Spring of '14; Annual Staff; Ye Rounde Table, '15.

"TUFFY"

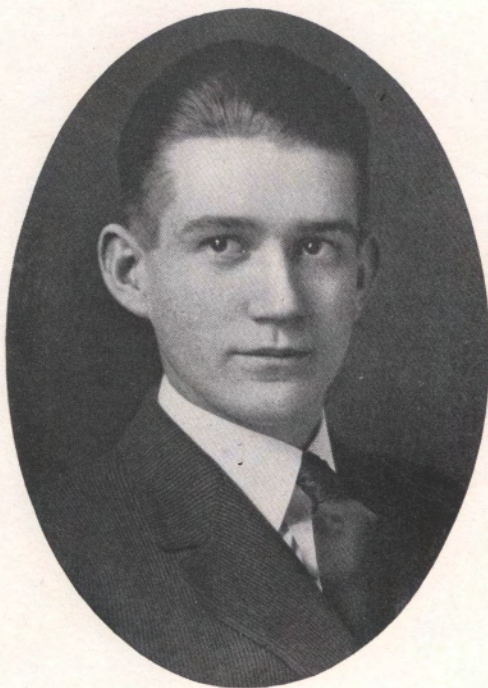

"There was a jolly Miller."

—BICKERSTAFF.

Here is the original pipe dreamer. Like Mary's little lamb, "Tuffy's" pipe is always with him. Once upon a time this man was raised to a position of high honor, even to the place of Editor-in-Chief of the Cento. But, being a peaceful citizen, he preferred to let another fill the place and do the work.

When forth from classes drear
Comes "Tuffy" with good cheer,
He lighteth up his pipe
And clean his chin doth wipe.

JOHN HYNE NEWTON, Phrenocon

Williamstown, Kentucky.

Born at Butler, Ky., June 27, 1893; Prepared at Williamstown High School; Entered Centre College, '11; Crucible Club, '12-'13, '13-'14; Assistant in Biology, '13-'14; Assistant in Chemistry, '14-'15; Charter Member Phrenocon.

"NEWT"

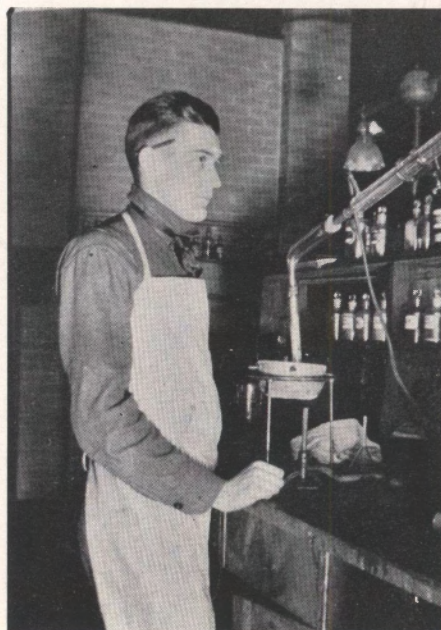

"The starring chemist in his golden views supremely blest."

—POPE.

"Newt." entertains himself with tubes and bottles. Whenever he is able to tear himself away from these pleasures he boards his "special" and goes to Lexington or Williamstown. By the time he gets back he has still more spirit for his work as Nash's chief brewer of chemical smells.

Give him a whiff of odors foul,
Pile up the beakers with more and more
KCl, H₂SO₄,

And you will never see him scowl.

JAMES ISHAM PETERS, Σ A E

Mackville, Ky.

Born at Mackville, Ky., November 18, 1894; Prepared at Centre College Academy; Entered Centre College, '11; Chamberlain Literary Society; Varsity Football Team, '13, '14; Glee Club, '15; College Quartette, '15.

"PETE"

"To live and die is all we have to do."

—ANON.

This is the big man of the class. His favorite occupation is study. However, he leaves his much loved books once in a while and takes part in a football game, a race, or a song. With the assistance of his private coach, Heilmann, he developed into a star on the gridiron. "Pete" is a tackler sure and strong,

Also a singer of some note;
But when it comes to classes long,
You sure have got old Peter's goat.

JOHN THEOBALD PRICE, Σ X

Paris, Ky.

Born June 16, 1894, at Paris, Ky.; Prepared at Paris High School; Entered Centre College, '11; Cento Staff, '12-'13; Class Historian, '11-'12; Class Treasurer, '13-'14; Treasurer of Deinologian, '14; Ernst Debate, '14; Manager of College Orchestra, '12-'13, '13-'14, '14-'15; German Club, '12-'13, '13-'14; Ye Rounde Table, '14-'15; Pan-Hellenic Council, '14-'15; President of Glee Club, '15; Assistant in English, '14-'15.

Life work undecided.

"T."

"Softly her fingers wander o'er
The yielding planks of the ivory floor."

—BENJAMIN F. TAYLOR.

John is one of our most fluent talkers. The less he knows the more he talks. As a "tickler of the ivories," he has become the leader of our college orchestra and has blossomed forth in all his glory. If you care to know all his good points, listen to him talk.

There is a young Senior named Price,
Who thinks he is all very nice,

But to know every wrinkle,
You must watch his head kinkle,
As his tongue rattles on just like rice.

FELIX RENICK, Σ Χ
Winchester, Ky.

Born at Winchester, Ky., October 29, 1897; Prepared at Kentucky Wesleyan Academy; Entered Kentucky Wesleyan College, '11; Entered Junior Class of Centre College, '13; Deinologian Literary Society, '13-'14, '14-'15; Ernst Debate, '14-'15; Ye Rounde Table, '14-'15; Associate Editor of Cardinal and Blue; Class Salutatorian. Expects to study law.

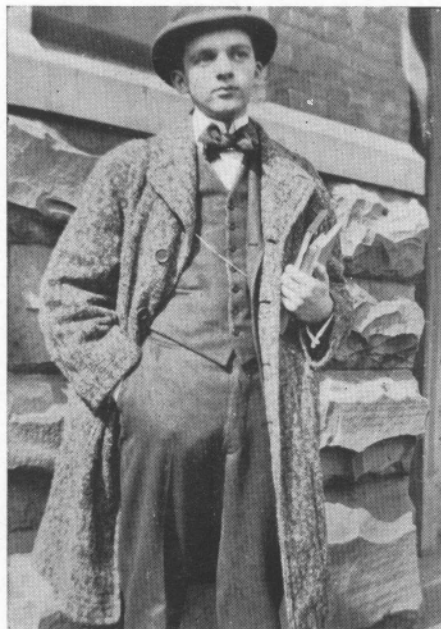

"FELIX"

"Then he will talk—good gods, how he will talk!"
—NATHANIEL LEE.

Although we often yawn while Felix talks about his "deep" schemes, we admire his vociferous "bluff." He has tried to jump every "machine" that has gone through college. But, in spite of it all, he has supported the trains as loyally as anyone.

Now let us tell
What oft befell
A certain man named Renick.

He once did speak
Almost a week,
Did this young Senior, Renick.

WILLIAM McDOWELL SWEETS, Δ K E
Louisville, Ky.

Born November 3, 1895, at Louisville, Ky.; Prepared at Louisville Male High School; Entered Centre College, '12; Class Historian, '12-'13, '13-'14; Class Secretary, '13-'14; Sophomore Football Team, '13; Vice President of Deinologian, '14-'15; Represented Deinologian in 22nd Oratorical, '15; Secretary of Y. M. C. A., '14-'15; President of Publicity Board, '15; German Club, '13-'14; Glee Club, '15; Baseball Squad, '14; Charter Member of Kappa Pi; Business Manager of Cardinal and Blue; Class Poet.

"BILLY"

"The ladies call him sweet."

—SHAKESPEARE.

"Variety is the spice of life" thinks Billy. For that reason he is always picking out the latest debutante in town, playing with the "Greys," writing an oration, managing an annual, or directing a flag rush. Don't think he is slow just because he sits on the back row.

At the back of the Senior row,
Thinking hard and slow
Of classes so and so,
Sits "Billy."

Senior Class History

IT IS with great trepidation that I take down the three huge volumes from the shelf and disclose part of their contents. The experiences related therein, the lights, shadows and little speeches made at various gatherings are all sacred. So I hope that I have a sympathetic group of readers.

With few exceptions we arrived on time (only four of us being one year late, which we still later made up), a most promising group of individuals, in spite of the advice given us to the contrary by the upper classmen.

Of course, when we assembled for the first time in chapel, we no doubt had still a somewhat verdant look, like the young ones in any part of the world who leave the parental thatch for the first time. We entered right away into college life and activities by furnishing amusement to a number of lordly Sophomores, who chose to assist us around the town one evening after dark, clad in a somewhat disreputable garb, through the aid of long and imposing slabs of wood, more properly known as paddles. But woe unto those who had given us such a roaring reception.

Our next act, and, indeed, the habit once formed, it was continued indefinitely through our college career, was to attend the "gabfests" at the female institute, where, as in times gone by, many a brave heart was broken.

The next event worthy of note occurred when we triumphed over the Sophs in a hard fought football game. In the meantime several of our men had made the varsity squad.

Then came the memorable flag rush. Outnumbered two to one, we obtained a hard fought victory from the once lordly Sophs. This event marks the turning point, and, as a whole, our class was now looked upon as one full of opportunity.

As we turn the pages of the second volume, one of the first headings that greets us is "Imparting Knowledge." Indeed it was necessary to initiate the incoming men into the mysteries of Centre. This we did with a zest, having profited well by former experience.

The class of 1915 then settled down to good hard work and made for themselves a reputation of which any class may justly be proud. Fifteen's men lead in all branches of college activity, having a full share of men in social, literary, scholastic and athletic circles. Indeed, when a member of the faculty heard that a man of the Class of Fifteen was working at something, he was sure it would be a success.

The days rolled on, Hallowe'en came and went with its further inoculation of Freshmen with Centre's life. In spite of the brave boasting of our opponents, the issue of the football game with our rivals was decided in our favor on the gridiron. This assisted further to demonstrate our superior knowledge to the lowly Freshmen, who thereafter recognized our claim.

Then came our second flag rush. Though outnumbered again, we knew it was all-important that the flag be ours. So with the utmost secrecy we set about preparing for it. When the fated moment came, overwhelming numbers secured each Freshman separately, and when morning broke only a few were left untied and these were easily disposed of. So our second victorious flag rush had become a matter of history. Thus endeth the second volume.

When we open the third and last complete volume, it is to see our old war-horses sadly depleted in numbers, but otherwise better than ever back again for the third lap of their journey. This time we were lookers-on, merely giving advice. We were able, as it were, to get a grandstand view of two sides of the same question, which we had before separately. It was during this year that we heard with regret of the death of our former president, "Skeet" Wilhelm. This was, though, on the whole, rather an uneventful year. We saw the new gymnasium and library take form and rise up. Everything pointed to a most prosperous graduation year.

When we close this third volume to complete the fourth, we see our class still more sadly depleted, as we enter for the final dash. We were increased somewhat by the addition of the four who started one year late—Bethurum, Mahan, Lewis and Sweets. In all branches of collegiate activity, though, the class of Nineteen Fifteen is playing an important part. We furnished four men of the football team, Boggs, Cotton, Charles McDowell and Peters—Lewis being laid out in the mid-season with a bad knee.

In basket ball we are ably represented by McDowell again, several good second team men also coming from the class. In the oratorical and debating contests, we have had our share of the victors, and, in fact, in every branch of college life we are most ably represented.

But one of the main facts, I believe, that will stand out, concerning the class of Fifteen, is the loyal and untiring devotion to "Old Centre" during her most trying days. It was during our last year that we saw our cherished hopes and ideals go up in smoke, when our new gym burned. It had not yet even been formally opened to the school. And when we arose on that Monday morning and saw only a smouldering mass of ruins, it was '15 that sounded the slogan, "A New Gym By Commencement and One Hundred Men In the Freshman Class In 1915." We had absolutely nothing to gain personally by such action. We would leave by the time our sowing had culminated in fruit ready to be garnered. Yet for the love of "Old Centre" every man became a booster, and by personal subscription $250 was raised for the new gym, in order to show to the others that we were indeed in earnest.

And now "Old Centre" is awake and pushing forward to the goal which was set largely by the efforts of our class. We will go out just in time to miss the enlarging influence which the awakening will mean for our college; nevertheless it will be with the knowledge of having done our best and fought with the best that was in us for the upbuilding of Centre for those who are yet to come.

And now in closing just a word. A history is to relate facts, and since these facts have been concerning us, it was necessary to "toot our own horn" a little. But we beg that the reader will overlook the "ego" lying herein and read only those facts which help to present in a true light the small part the class of Nineteen Hundred and Fifteen played in the rebuilding of "New Centre."

LEWIS, '15.

Our President Leaves Us

FOR the first time in our history Centre College must bid good-bye to her president, who leaves for fields of labor elsewhere.

Dr. Frederick W. Hinitt left Centre College on the first of January, 1915, and at that time became the president of Washington and Jefferson College at Washington, Pennsylvania. At the nineteen-fifteen Commencement of this institution he will be inaugurated as its president to succeed Rev. James D. Moffat, resigned.

The student body of Centre College, the faculty, the people of Danville and the state of Kentucky, all feel Dr. Hinitt's loss more than words can tell. For ten years he has labored for Centre College and for the cause of higher education in the State of Kentucky, and to quote the words of Ex-Governor Willson he has done more for the cause of higher education in this state than any man who has ever lived within its borders.

Frederick W. Hinitt was born in Kidderminster, England, Nov. 21, 1862. He was graduated from Westminster College, Fulton, Missouri, in 1889. He is a graduate of McCormick Theological Seminary and holds a degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Wooster University. He held several pastorates in the States of Missouri and Iowa following his graduation from the Theological Seminary and at the age of thirty-three, was elected President of Parsons College of Iowa. In 1904 he was called to the presidency of Central University of Kentucky.

His career in this capacity is too well known to need comment. Dignified, courteous, popular with students, faculty and with every one with whom he comes in contact, charming conversationalist, delightful speaker, the most entertaining and learned pulpit orator in the State of Kentucky, and withal a Christian gentleman, Dr. Hinitt has made himself so useful, so necessary in the place he has occupied that Centre College will feel the need of him for years to come. His life and work here will leave an imprint with Centre College which will reflect glory upon its already glorious history and be of inestimable value in moulding her future in the consummation of all that is best. We bid Dr. Hinitt good-bye with regret, it is true, but also with the hope, and we feel sure that it is justified, that to Washington and Jefferson College there may accrue all the great and good benefit with him as her president as has fallen to Centre College in the last ten years.

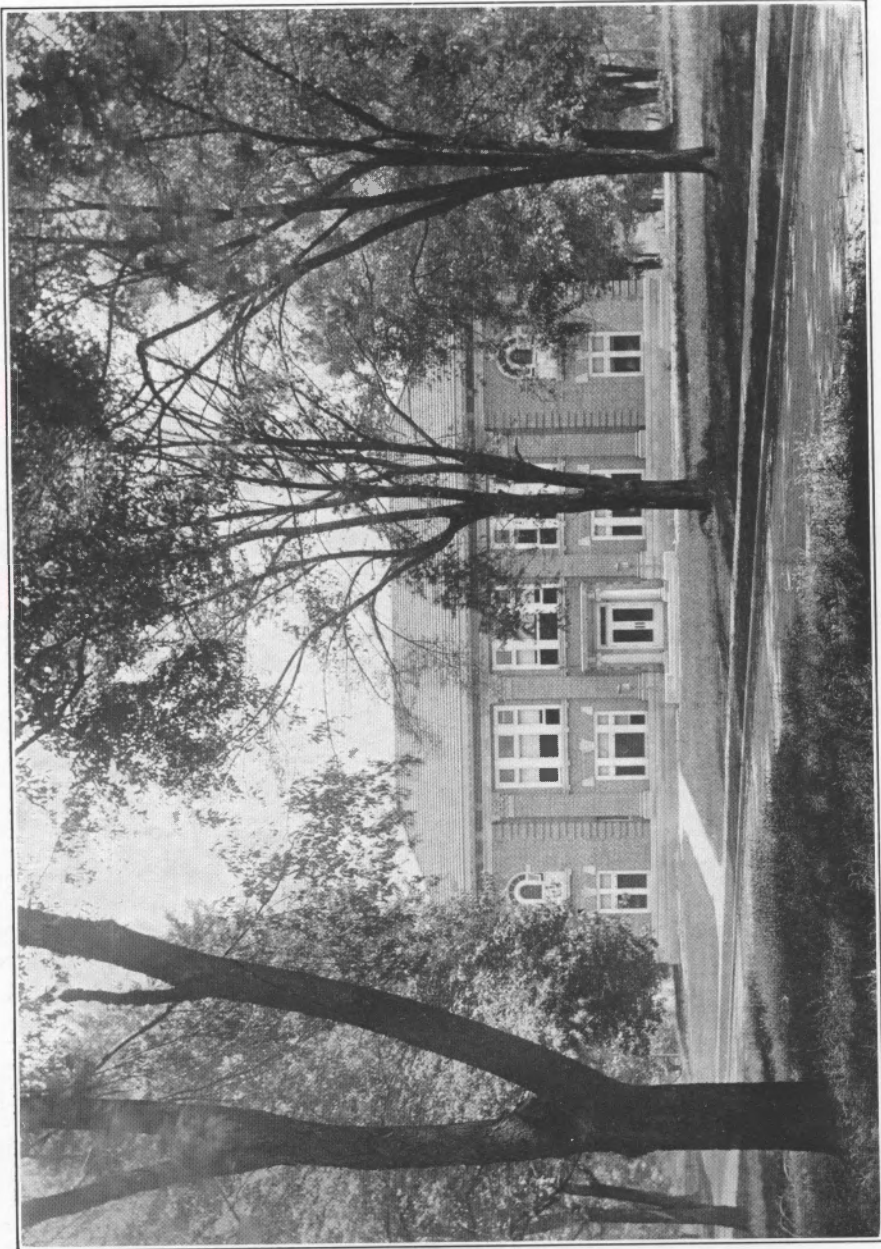

The Kentucky Belle

There's charm in Kentucky's hills and valleys,
In her rugged cliffs bedecked with hollies,
In her lofty mountains, noble streams,
Where Nature weaves poetic dreams.
There's romance in her woods so drear,
Where roams the stalwart mountaineer;
Where wood-nymphs fleet through glens and glades,
And blithely dart through checkered shades;
In her rolling fields of bluish hue,
In her gurgling founts of sparkling dew,
Where the thoroughbred so proudly neighs,
Where poets chant their songs and lays;
In her moon-shine stills, remote, grotesque,
In her cabins unique and picturesque.
But all the beauties flooding mount and dell
Surpass in naught the chick Kentucky belle.
Her charming features, queenly mien,
So noble no other land hath seen.
The grandeur of her figure's grace,
No sculptor's steel could ever trace.
Her mellow glance of starry luster,
Her sunny smile and silvery laughter,
Her ruby lips and cheeks so fair,
Wooed by locks of golden hair,
Celestial charms unhymned in lore,
Angelic strains of love adore.
I've seen the belles of many climes,
Their splendor read in prose and rhymes.
With Hellen's daughters a-mayed galore,
With Lydia's met on Italia's shore.
Abashed I viewed with looks askance
The coquettes gay of knightly France.
I've pressed the hand within whose vein
Proudly coursed the blood of Spain.
In all my wanderings far or near,
To thee, Kentucky Belle, I've found no peer.
Resplendent queen of princely stock uncrowned,
Pride of the Dark and Bloody Ground,
O'er mount and city and streamlet and field
Thy golden sceptre in honor wield.
The loyal sons of Centre obey thy rule divine,
And brave in the fray, defend thy holy shrine.
The Chivalry of Centre for thee is blazing high,
For thee on thousand lances her knights would rush and die.

Junior History

MID the vicissitudes of college life our number has indeed dwindled but with only one lap in the race yet to be covered the spirit of 1916 burns still as bright as ever. The gallant "Spartan Band" has truly held its own and in the struggle for honors the laurel has fallen many times on the brows of our numbers.

As freshmen we learned valuable lessons in strategy from our opponents of 1915, which enabled us to give the freshmen a bitter dose of the same medicine the following year. The "black face act," played by two of our number, will never be forgotten as long as flag rushes are pulled off at C. U.

The class of '16 furnishes the backbone for the athletics of the school. With the captain of the football and baseball teams a Junior, and six men out of eight wearers of the "C," we may well feel that '16 has won its share of honors on the athletic field.

In the brain of a Junior the idea of a Publicity Board was conceived; a movement which we hope will do much to raise both the prestige and numbers of the school.

We who entered college with the ruins of the old gymnasium blackening the campus, and who have seen the splendid new building destroyed by fire, are vitally interested in the erection of a third. It is an ambition cherished in the heart of every member of the class to see the gymnasium rebuilt and in use ere he graduates next year.

This year we have two men on the Carnival Committee and another we hope to see crowned King on Gala night. Others are leaders in the work of the literary societies; several have won victories in public speaking.

As Seniors we will strive to uphold such a reputation and bring the grand little class to a triumphant and glorious finish.

Sophomore Class History

WE RETURNED to college in September twenty-six strong, fourteen of our classmates failing to return, and immediately got busy. Our first meeting was held on September the eighteenth, and Thomas Lockett was elected president, Cook Cromwell vice president, Bob Tyler secretary and treasurer, and Clem Johnston historian.

On the twenty-third of September we gave the 95th annual reception to the Freshman class, and the latter showed their appreciation of our efforts by attending in a body. Together we spent a very pleasant afternoon and evening, things being much enlivened by the excellent music furnished by the Freshman band and the impromptu speeches and dances.

A few weeks later we again gave evidence of our brotherly affection for the Freshmen by drafting a set of rules to guide them in their conduct. Their deportment was improved tremendously by these rules which forbade smoking on the campus, walking on the struggling grass, etc., and their good looks were considerably enhanced by their green caps with yellow trimmings, which they politely doffed to the upper-classmen and members of the Faculty whenever the occasion permitted.

Six of our classmates made the varsity football team, while eight others showed their college spirit by doing service on the second team. For the first time in several years there was no Freshman-Sophomore game, so the Freshmen were saved on that score.

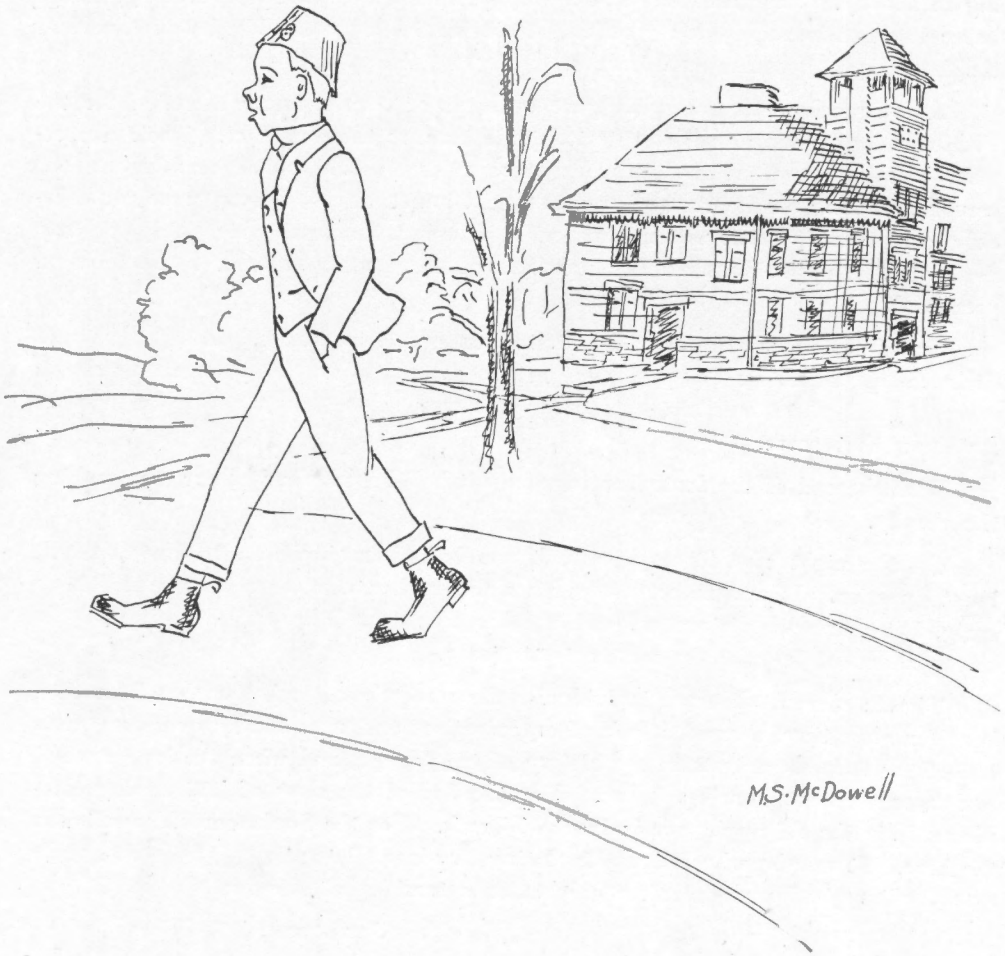

With the end of the football season basket ball began, four of our men making the varsity.

On the night of February 12th, like a bolt from a clear sky, the flag-rush burst upon us. It was rather early for a flag-rush and neither side wanted it so early, but a mutual distrust of one another, augmented by the scheming of the upper-classmen, brought the matter to an issue.

The Freshmen, although individually the scrappiest bunch that has been seen here for some time, showed a lack of organization, and were finally overcome after one of the fiercest contests in the history of the college, and when the long desired sun arose the next morning, it beamed on the flag of the class of '17, waving complacently in the old apple tree in front of Breck. For the Sophomores, Powell was the hero. It was he who followed a fleeing Freshman into the heart of the Freshman territory and was overcome only after a terrific battle against odds.

Freshman Class History

IN SEPTEMBER the sixteenth, when our crowd assembled together for the first time, we caused much talk among the upper classmen, not on account of special promise as men of great intelligence, or on account of any individual makeup, but rather because of our disappointing number, for there were only twenty-nine of us.

One afternoon after we had in most part recuperated from the trials of matriculation, we were invited to meet the Sophomores—those dear fellows—up town. We accepted the kind invitation, of course, and immediately the fun (?) began. The Freshman band, composed of cornetist, harpist and “tubber,” lead the grand march through the principal thoroughfares of the city to fair K. C. W. It was here, before an inspiring audience, that we first had a chance to demonstrate our great versatility. Not until we had completely exhausted our repertoire, which included dancing, singing and acrobatic stunts, were we turned loose for supper. That night, after we attired in night apparel, had rendered an unvolunteered program at the Opera House, we went back to the haunts of the girls, but were quickly dispersed by a heavy musketry fire from the night watchman. A few days later our beloved little green caps arrived and from then on we were the most attractive class in school.

Although none of our men made the Varsity eleven, several did well enough to be assured of regular places next year. Adkins was the only one to make the Varsity basket ball team, but many others gained distinction on the two second teams. We expect to be well represented on the diamond this spring.

The Freshmen have on more than one occasion shown true college spirit and have always expressed their love for Old Centre by actions as well as words. We did all that could be expected of us in forwarding the rebuilding of the gymnasium, which we hope to use to advantage during the remaining years of our college life.

All of us respected and duly honored the class just above us until they started the flag rush two months previous to the set time. They succeeded in tying up a few of our number; the rest of our class, however, banded together and after a prolonged fight, came out victorious. The dauntless spirit shown by our men bids evil to the Freshman class of one hundred men next year.

The class of '18 will go down in history as a class well deserving what honor and reputation it has gained and, from the record made in the past, it is safe to predict that the men will do great things before and after they scatter over the country to take their places in the world of business and professionalism.

Young Men's Christian Association

March, 1914—March, 1915

HE prospects for a good year of service on the part of the Y. M. C. A. were never better than in the autumn of 1914. With the completion of the new gymnasium and College Union, a new era was marked in the history of the association. It was planned to have the Y. M. C. A. headquarters in connection with the College Union located in the gymnasium. This larger work was well under way when the splendid new gymnasium was destroyed by fire. The great loss to the active work of the Y. M. C. A. can only be expressed in terms of sore disappointment to the members of the organization, and a forced abandonment of a wider and more useful sphere of endeavor.

Despite the loss sustained at the beginning of the year, the work has not been without results. Under the leadership of Pres. J. V. Cotton, the Y. M. C. A. has pressed forward in its expression of the religious life of the student body. Special mention is made of the support given by the faculty committee, composed of Prof. Smith, Prof. Crooks, Prof. Flippin, Prof. Meier and Mr. Knapp.

Sweets, '15, represented the association at the summer students' conference held at Blue Ridge, N. C. Dr. Smith conducted a very helpful mission study class. The text used was Dr. Weatherford's book on Negro Progress. Johnston, '16, Garrison, '16, Hanna, '17, Hoss, '17, and Moss, '18, attended the Officers' Training Conference at Lexington, Ky., March 12, 13, 14.

The most pleasant experience of the year was the visit of Dr. Richards, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Auburn, N. Y. For several days he addressed the student body at chapel and again in a voluntary service in the evening. His personal conferences with the students were very beneficial and won for him many lasting friendships.

The annual Y. M. C. A. reception, given to the young ladies of the Kentucky College for Women, was held in the gymnasium early in the fall. The Y. M. C. A. Handbook, presented to the student body at the beginning of the year was a very convenient publication for new students.

Chamberlain History

IN A short memoir of the past portion of our college years it is well to take note of some of Chamberlain's history. To say that the Chamberlain Literary Society was founded here in 1828, and that it is the oldest literary society west of the Allegheny mountains is but to repeat a bit of Centre College's choice history. We all know well enough the sacred connections we boast of with the days of old.

The names of the late Justice John M. Harlan of the Supreme Court and Adlai Stephenson, Vice President of the United States, and other great men who have been members of Chamberlain, are still having their buoyant effect upon the ambitions of our budding literary lights, statesmen and jurists. In all walks of life we find Chamberlain men who have "found the bunch of grapes," to quote one of Chibithes' speeches. Among the recent, as the time honored alumni, we see the factor Chamberlain has supplied.

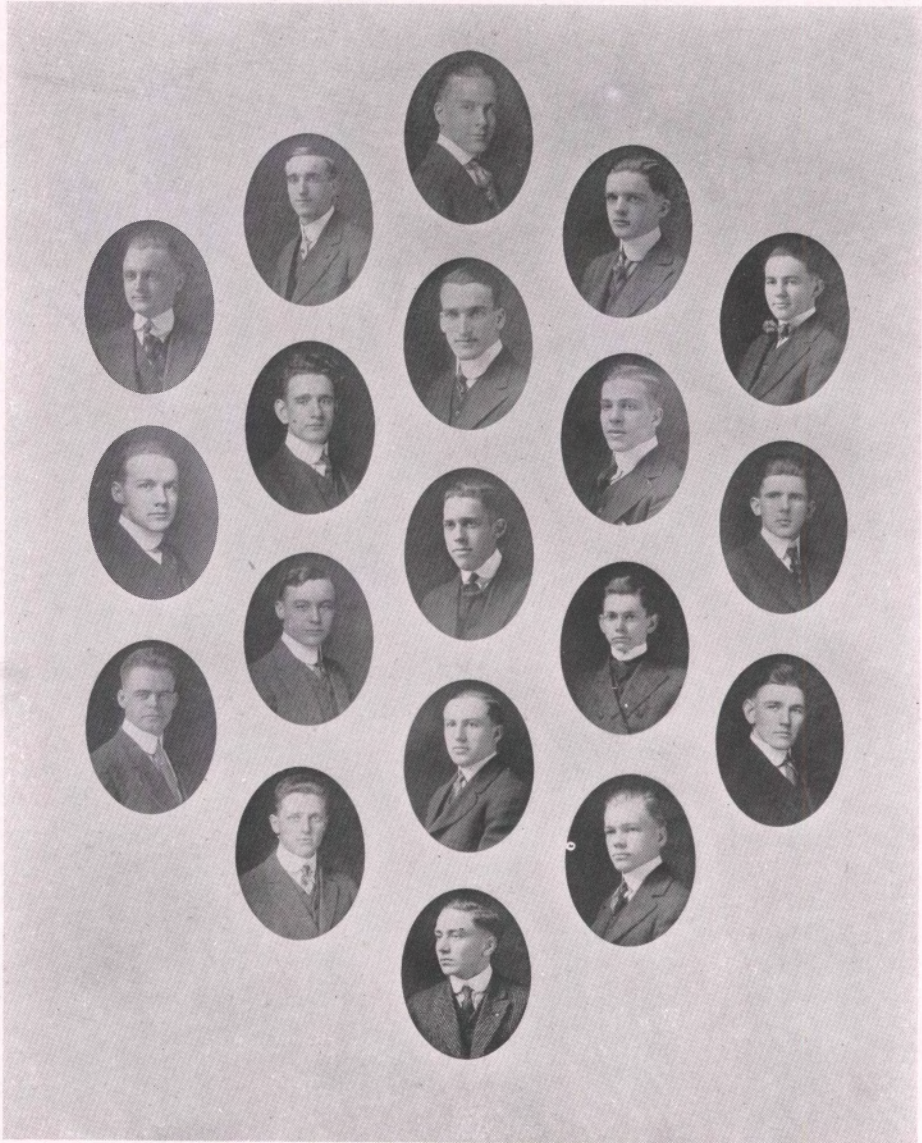

This year our society has a larger roll than for many years before. Effective organization and splendid dispatch of work warrant our success. It will be remembered that Chamberlain was represented in the Ernst Debate by Chibithes, Lockett and Bethurum. Mr. Chibithes and Mr. Lockett both won places and, altho Jake didn't win a place this time, he was right there with the "gusto." Deino-logian won the decision, but Chamberlain has the honor of furnishing two men out of the three for the intercollegiate debate. In the June Oratorical of last year, the Chamberlain representative, Jake Bethurum, was the winner. In the twenty-second oratorical of this year, we were represented by Messrs. Boles and Chibithes. Chibithes won second place, his opponent getting the decision by only one point.

On the whole a better year of good work has not been experienced by Chamberlain. If those who follow us feel the same inspiration, our sacred old hall will ever be the scene of achievement. Let the sons of Chamberlain keep their gaze ever steadfast up toward the hills of promise.

Deinologian History

DEINOLOGIAN LITERARY SOCIETY has started on her eightieth year—for eighty long years has mothered stalwart sons and trained some of the greatest men in our state and nation. Founded upon principles embodying all that is highest and of most worth, she has stood the test of time and, rather than weakened, grown stronger year by year. As a society in a smaller college, from the very beginning she has emphasized training and quality of work more than members. This year, due largely to the scarcity of men in college, her membership has been unusually low, having a total enrollment of but twenty-one.

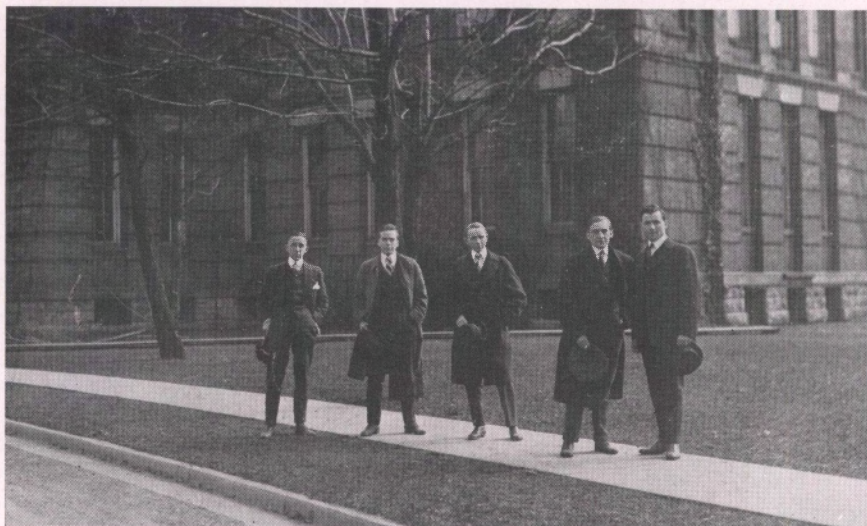

But, in spite of this handicap, Deinologian has not seemed to suffer materially this year. Apparently the men who frequent her halls have realized, in a measure, their responsibilities and tried harder than ever to quit themselves like men and prove worthy of the name of "Sons of the Old Society." As a result of these efforts they have won for her in both the contests that have taken place this year. First in the Ernst Debate, where she was ably represented by Messrs. Cotton, Boggs and Renick, Deinologian won the victory, though but one man made a place on the Intercollegiate team. Then in the 22nd Oratorical, represented by Messrs. Boggs and Sweets, she again came out victorious, first place having been awarded to Mr. Boggs. We are all looking forward to the June contest with the firm belief that we have the men who can and will gain additional honor for "Old Deinologian" and make this a record year for her.

It is with a keen sense of loss, both to our society and to ourselves, and not a little regret, that we shall bid farewell in June to several men who go out with the present Senior Class. They have been supporters of Deinologian throughout their college days and have had her best interests at heart, yet she does not expect less of them in the coming years. May they continue to work for her and see that her movement is ever forward and upward. Next year will mean greater efforts on the part of every old man. But they are capable, willing to do everything that will enhance their society. The membership will be augmented from the incoming class, the process of training and remoulding will go on as before, and another year of victories will be upon us.

Football History

IN 1910 "Old Centre" was indeed in her zenith of glory; all teams that dared to oppose the onward march of the Cardinal and Blue went down in ignominious defeat—Tulane, Tennessee, Transylvania, Georgetown, Kentucky State, University of Cincinnati. And finally by overwhelming the Sewanee Tigers, 19 to 0, Old Centre tied with Vanderbilt for the Championship of the South.

No, we could not always conquer; our season of defeat must some day surely come. Last year found us in the losing column, but our boys accepted the inevitable like true men and sons of Centre—confident that in 1916 we shall again see the light of a grander day; though fallen for the time, we shall rise again.

Great was the disappointment of everyone to find that but three veterans, Turley, Coleman, and Peters of last year's Varsity were present at the opening of the football season for 1914. With these three as a nucleus, Coach Knapp, ably assisted by Professor Nash, began a process of selection and strengthening, having as its ultimate object the production of a winning eleven.

That but few victories were won is no indication of the fault of any one other than that which may be ascribed to bad luck and the inevitable circumstances. In fact the production in one year of a winning team with only three seasoned men on which to build, could be viewed only as one of those rare bits of good fortune which is seldom encountered. Thus our defeats were not altogether unexpected. The team was, at the outset of the season, further crippled by the lamentable injury to Coleman, which he received in the last quarter of the game against Vanderbilt. Now, with Coleman out of the game for the rest of the season, and with several of the men suffering from bruises and sprains as the result of the superior weight of the Vanderbilt eleven, it is not remarkable that victory was denied us in the Georgetown and Transylvania games.

However, these defeats are things of the past, only referred to in recording the history of 1914. All look forward to a successful team in 1915. Nor is this hope an iridescent dream when we consider that we only lose four Varsity men by graduation. With these men filled from the ranks of the 100 men of the class of '18 and with the increased experience of those who made their letters this year, we do not think that we can be accused of utopian prognostications when we say that students, alumni and supporters of Centre College may feel confident that in the season of 1915 Old Centre will be represented on the gridiron by a team that will add fresh laurels to those so gloriously won in the past.

Baseball History

THE present writing the baseball season of 1915 has just opened and prospects are unusually bright. With Turley, Ely, Cromwell and Cloyd of last year's team back and with two new men, Rogers and Adkins, who come to us with splendid reputation as pitchers, we hope to uphold, if not surpass the reputation of last year's championship team. Lassing, last year's captain and All-Kentucky twirler, will take care of the coaching end, being ineligible to play in any games.

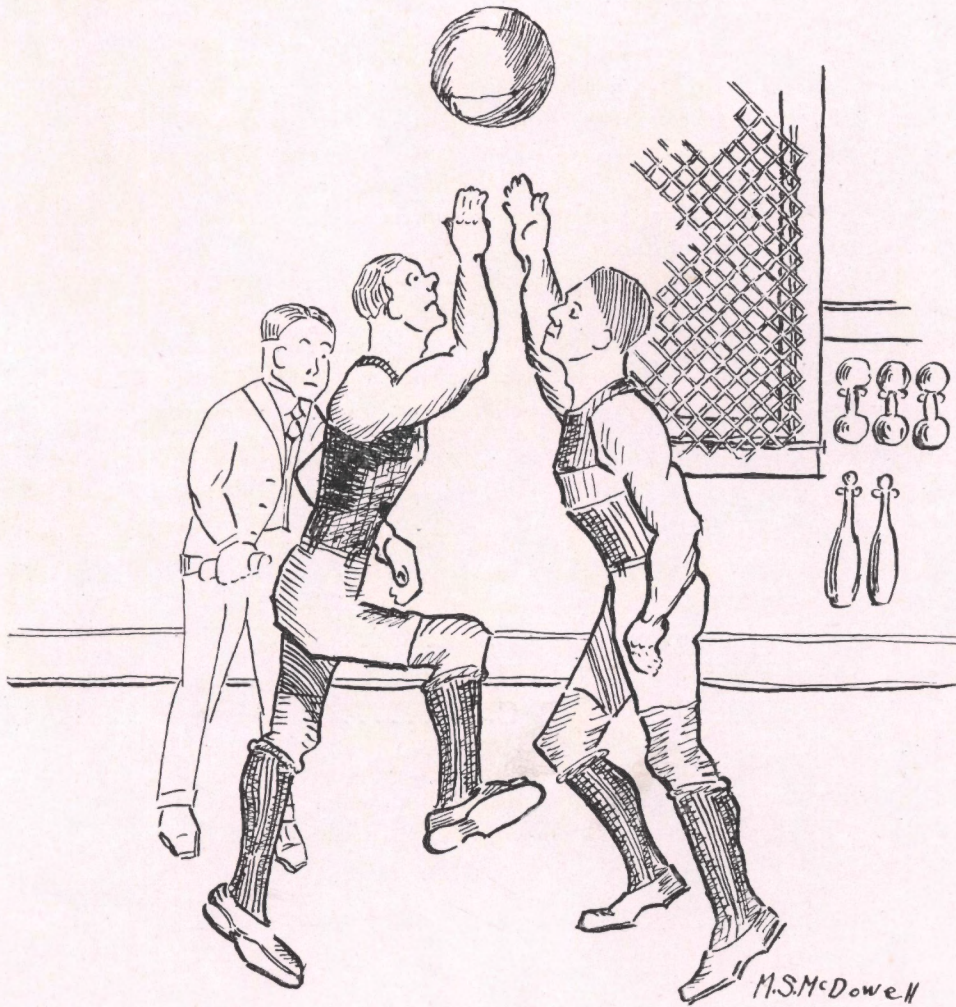

Of the 1914 baseball team Centre College has every reason to be justly proud. With only two old men, Lassing and Turley, back in harness, prospects were anything but bright when candidates were first called out. However, Coach O'Brien, with the assistance of Captain Lassing, soon had the raw material in good shape, and, although Transylvania secured an easy victory over us in the initial game of the season, the team soon hit its winning gait and had a very favorable year, winning the K. I. A. A. championship.

The only regret in connection with the team was the scarcity of games. As the Miami game was called off on account of rain, no intercollegiate games outside of those with colleges in the K. I. A. A. were played. This was due to unfortunate circumstances existing at the time, and we hope for a much better schedule this year, so that the team will have a better chance to show its ability.

TRACK

Track History

UE TO the regrettable lack of a gym for the past few years, track activities especially have been greatly hampered. However, Lyons of last year's team won for us the hundred yard dash and second place in the two-twenty.

With such good track material as Harbeson, Rogers, Garrison and others in the Freshman class, the return of McDowell, and renewed interest on the part of the other track men, we may expect a more hopeful season for this year.

Burning of the Gymnasium

At about five o'clock in the morning of the twenty-third of November, Centre College suffered one of the most destructive fires in her history when the new Boyle-Humphrey Alumni gymnasium was completely gutted by fire. According to the opinion of Coach M. C. Knapp, who was sleeping in the building, the flames apparently originated in the northwest corner of the basement, a room used as a storeroom, and which was later to be made into a swimming pool. To this day, however, no satisfactory explanation has been brought forward to explain the exact origin of the blaze, and this will probably always remain a mystery. The flames had not reached an alarming height when discovered, and in all probability a great part of the building could have been saved had the fire department been prompt in answering the call, and had the water pressure been sufficient to maintain several steady streams to the roof of the building. The pressure was weak on the day of the fire, and this fact in a large measure explains the complete destruction of the structure. With a little strengthening the foundation and a large part of the walls can be made perfectly sound, and they will be used in the replacement of the building, the work of which has already begun. This value of salvage, the insurance money and the liberal and prompt subscriptions on the part of the students and several of the alumni have made possible the beginning of the restoration. Several thousand dollars more is needed to put the building back as it stood when the fire occurred. The old Sayre Library building, which was not being used at the time, was also completely gutted by the fire.

Work of construction on the new gymnasium was begun last fall and the finishing touches were completed and the splendid equipment installed only a month or two before its destruction. In fact, the last work had just been finished and the building would have been thrown open to the students for use the week following the unfortunate blaze. Combining both the best gymnasium floor and equipment of any similar building in the state and very adequate and essential facilities for student meetings, societies and Y. M. C. A. work, the new building had been looked forward to many months by the students, and the burning of it was a keen disappointment to them. Hardly less strong was the personal disappointment of President Hinitt, for the College Union idea which the new building was to foster was essentially his plan, and to it he had given a great deal of time and labor. However, the immediate and thorough reaction from keen disappointment to one of hope and enthusiasm on the part of the students, made up for the loss of the long-hoped-for building. An exhibition of spirit and enthusiasm which has probably never been equalled in Centre College immediately arose, and the spirit still continues, growing in power and usefulness as the days go by. Almost, it could be said that the burning of the gymnasium was of value to the College, for it caused the renaissance of a spirit at Centre College which has already done much that is only the prophecy of still greater achievements in days to come.

RECEPTION

Humorous, Wise and Otherwise

Dr. Meier (in German)—Mr. Browning, what are the Dardanelles?

Browning—They are a tribe of people in Africa.

Montgomery meets one of K. C. W. fair ones (we all know who) at the train; Dunlap joins them at the Shop Perfect and carries the suit case up to the college.

Dr. Meier—"We vill investigate this and convince the gentlemen of the wessel's course."

Prof. Crooks (speaking of his cousin Bracken)—"There is one thing certain, he will leave this college with a brand new brain, for he has never used it any."

Chebithes (in physics)—"Why, Doctor, I am sure this is right."

Dr. Smith—"Mr. Chebithes, he! he! he! only fools are certain."

Chebithes—"Doctor, are you certain of that?"

Dr. Smith—"Yes, yes; quite sure, Mr. Chebithes; quite sure."

Coach, speaking to Chebithes—"You will have to get a little more grease in your bones to play basket ball."

Chebithes—"Why, Coach, I was born in Greece."

Dr. Smith demonstrating to Lassing in advanced physics—"Now I have a piece of pie; cut it in two, how many pieces have I?"

Lassing—"Two pieces." Smith—"Exactly so. Now I cut it in four pieces, how many pieces have I?" Lassing—"Four pieces." Smith—"Precisely so. Yes, yes, the case is analogous. Good morning!"

Dr. Flippin—"Mistu Cotton, when was the first legislatu of Virginia convened?"

Johnny Redd, after the Ernest Debate, goes up to Johnston and congratulates him, saying: "Mr. Renick, you did fine, sah, very fine."

Woody pitches firecracker in Dr. Flippin's room, which same cracker made not a little noise.

Dr. Flippin: "Now, would you say that was a French bomb (hands pointing up), or (hands going down) would you say it resembled more the report of a German 42 cm. gun?"

Tubby Mahan

On one night the inveterate Tubby held four aces two times hand running; Danny was caught bluffing with a pair of Queens each time.

Dr. Thomas (in English): "Ay, gentlemen, 'Ghosts' created at its first performance quite a furor you know. Some said women should never read it; nor, ay, the callow youth. But in this day even children talk about it and yaas, ay, the cats sing it in the streets."

Gus Lassing: "Pater wrote poems at the age of eight."

Burnam: "He must have been something of a prodigal."

Boles to Lowe in the laboratory: "I say, what is the formula for marble, MO?"

Mason at the Shear's House: "Please pass the Simons."

Miller turns on a light with no bulb in it.

Pete: "Tuffy, turn off that light. No use wasting all that electricity."

"I'd urge you to get into the running quickly, gentlemen; drive along; try and keep up with the game. What! not writing back there? Ho! Ho! is that so, is that so—hadn't heard that. Ay, gentlemen, as I said before and now repeat, yaas, for the one hundredth time, I never repeat."

The noblest Roman of them all—

Nicodemus came to Christ by what? by night. Correct. Next gentlemen. The Lord went from house to what? house. Right you are. Next gentlemen. My boy that is a buncome question—

Great was Diana of the Ephesians!

Tyler: "Doctor, here's a dead frog."

Dr. Rainey: "No, I think not; it seems to be moving."

Tyler: "Well, he had his eyes shut."

After Dr. Smith had performed the usual experiment of freezing water at the boiling point, an astounded Freshman remarked: "Say, I believe Dr. Smiley could start an ice factory in hell."

Dr. Smith: "Mr. Renick, will you define horsepower?"

Felix Renick: "Horsepower is the amount of work one horse can do without hurting himself."

Freshman Knapp is doing nicely in the Chemistry class.

John Rogers eats occasionally at Mrs. Hardin's. On one occasion Douthitt was present and noting Rogers' gastronomic abilities remarked: "Wh—, why, Jo—, Jo—, John, you sure e—, e—, eat a whole lot." Upon which Rogers replied that it was complimentary to the hostess to eat a whole lot. Mrs. Hardin answered: "Yes, indeed, John; you are certainly complimentary to the extent of flattery."

Danny bemoans the loss of 75 cents on a book he sold to one of the students. After allowing him to lament the fact for half the English period, Jake speaks up, saying: "Why, Doctor, you haven't lost it yet. I still owe it to you." Perhaps Dan knew whereof he spoke.

Dr. Thomas, addressing the Modern Drama class: "Yaas, yaas, gentlemen, you will please hold Oscar Wilde in obeysance for a while."

Tuffy Miller (sotto voce): "That's a fine place to hold him."

After the great Danville Fire Department had drowned the small blaze in Dr. Thomas' apartments—

Dan: "Ay, ay, yaas, gentlemen, I offer a sprightly apology for not getting here; yaas, I was frightened this morning—ay, I had five negroes working for me getting my books out of the swimming pool I formerly occupied as a study."

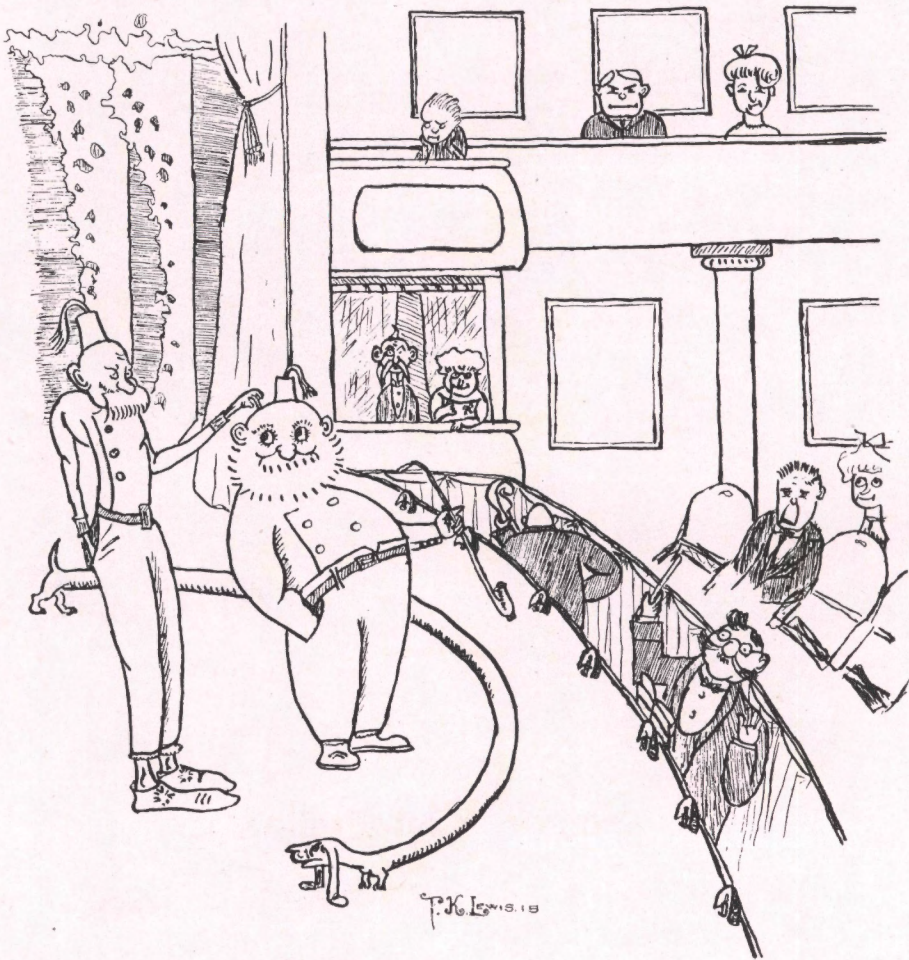

But he's a good old Danny,
And there's a good old Sammy,—
We never can forget Percy Flip;
Tho we surely came to College
All to get some knowledge,
We can't let the Profs be skipt.

Johnny and Smiley and Hank;
Charlie, Clarence, and Doc;
Some day these old boys we will thank;
Farthest be it from us ever them to knock.

QUEEN OF THE 1915 CARNIVAL
MISS MARY RODES

Queen's Float, 1914

Carnival

“A thing of beauty is a joy forever.”—Keats.

AND verily the springtime festivities at Old Centre are beauty itself and their own excuse for being. If Tennyson were a student at Centre College he would have probably written, “In the spring a young man’s fancy lightly turns to thoughts of Carnival.” Beauty is its queen and valor its king, and merry is the court over which they rule. All through the long winter evenings they are planning and dreaming and wishing for the spring time that is to bring the Carnival. Whether it be held in May as in former years or in the second week in June, together with Commencement as the custom now is, is immaterial. The same spirit reigns supreme. Months beforehand preparations are made. From among the young ladies who make Danville the Mecca of the social life of the Bluegrass one is chosen to be the “Queen of Love and Beauty” in as true a sense as ever Rowena ruled as such when Ivanhoe battled for her favor. All through the year the sturdy athletes of Old Centre are battling for the favor of the queen-to-be on the gridiron, track and diamond, and he who is victorious, even as the knight of old was, becomes the king. He it is who has done the most for Centre College in athletics all the year and has, by his prowess, carried the banner of the Cardinal and Blue to victory.

In the beginning comes the play in which the future Bernhardts and Jeffersons strive to make the opening of the festivities as brilliant as the finale always is. Here first the never-ending crowd of visitors from all parts of the state and the country are introduced to the joyous occasion and learn to know of Centre College and her Carnival. In state in their royal box the king and queen surround themselves with their court and give their official recognition to the opening of the festive season. In the mornings and afternoons of the Carnival are tennis tournaments, track meets, baseball games and so forth, and, of course, on one afternoon the great Carnival game, which usually decides the baseball championship of Kentucky. On the second night the campus is to be the scene of joyous revelry, for this is “Gala Night,” and the spirit of Mardi Gras prevails. Confetti flies in the air and happy sounds resound. But before this can start the queen and her court must come from their journey and the ruler must receive her crown and bestow the crown of laurel upon the lawful king who thus is honored for his loyalty to Old Centre. The queen must ride in state and on her ever beautiful float, and is escorted to the "Field of the Cloth of Flowers." The king and his faithful outriders attend her and the company of Youth and Beauty with their flaming torches and their gay costumes give an air to the scene that takes one back to the days when knighthood was in flower.

And now the Carnival is on in full force and the grand and beautiful denouement is to come the next night when, to the soft strains of sweet music and beneath the shaded glow of myriads of lights, the society of the Bluegrass state gives itself up to pleasure and the crowning glory of the year at Centre College is at hand. He does not know Old Centre who has not seen a Carnival dance. Beautiful booths in a gay riot of brilliant colors surround the dance floor and nothing is lacking for a scene of unalloyed pleasure. Not until the first rays of the dawning sun peep down upon the scene does the revelry cease and the revelers disperse to dream of the Carnival that is now past and to vow that not another shall go by without their presence and encouragement.
