Old Centre

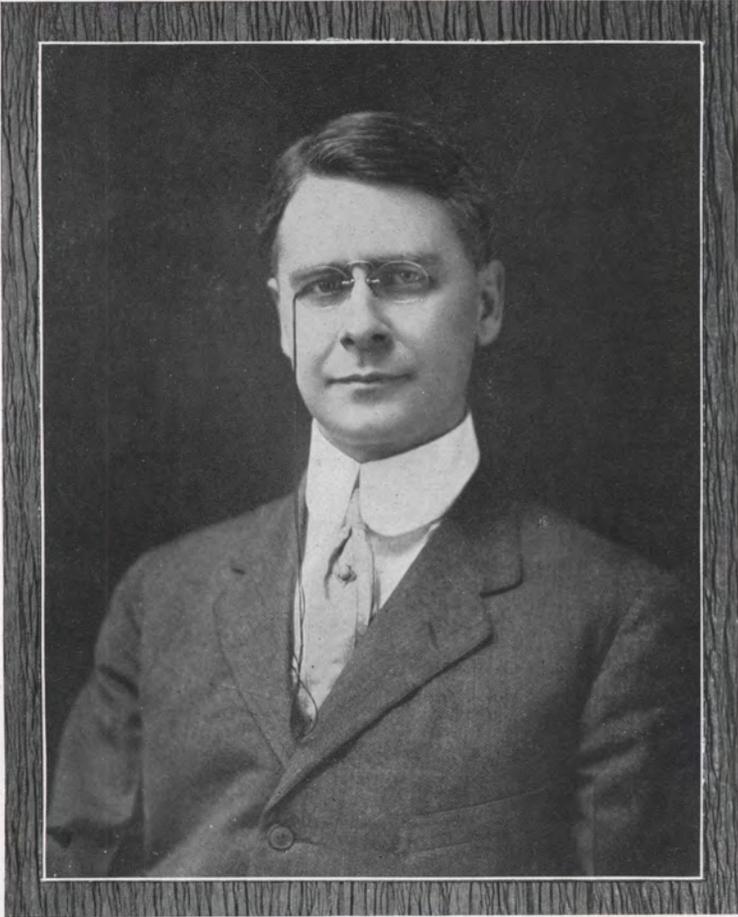

The TENTH VOLUME of the
Cardinal and Blue

1911 - 1912

Published by the Class of 1912 of the College of Liberal Arts of Central University, Danville, Ky.

DEDICATION

TO PROFESSOR FRANK LEWIS RAINEY, WHO, ON ACCOUNT OF HIS ACTIVE INTEREST IN ALL STUDENT ENTERPRISES, HAS ENDEARED HIMSELF NOT ONLY TO THE CLASS OF 1912, BUT TO THE ENTIRE COLLEGE, WE AFFECTIONATELY DEDICATE THIS VOLUME.

FOREWORD

OUR YEARS AT CENTRE HAVE BEEN PLEASANT ONES; —THEY TELL US, THE MOST PLEASANT WE WILL EVER EXPERIENCE. THEY MAY BE RIGHT—WHO KNOWS? BUT BE THAT AS IT MAY, WE HAVE ENJOYED THEM AND WISH TO LOOK BACK UPON THEM IN YEARS TO COME, FORGETTING NOT A SINGLE PLEASANT HAPPENING. THERE ARE MANY AMONG THE STUDENTS AND FACULTY WHO FEEL AS WE DO. FOR THIS REASON THIS BOOK HAS BEEN PUBLISHED. TO THE FACULTY AND ALUMNI WE WOULD SAY, “DEAL KINDLY WITH US IN YOUR CRITICISM;” TO THE UNDERGRADUATES, “JUDGE NOT, THAT (WHEN YOUR TURN COMES) YE BE NOT JUDGED.”

THE CARDINAL AND BLUE

TO CENTRAL UNIVERSITY

In Behalf of the Class of 1912.

Old Central, beloved,
Our Alma Mater dear,
The time is nigh when friends must part,
Who've worked together here.

No more within your revered halls
Our studies we'll pursue,
Full time was spent
On learning bent,
We now must say "adieu."

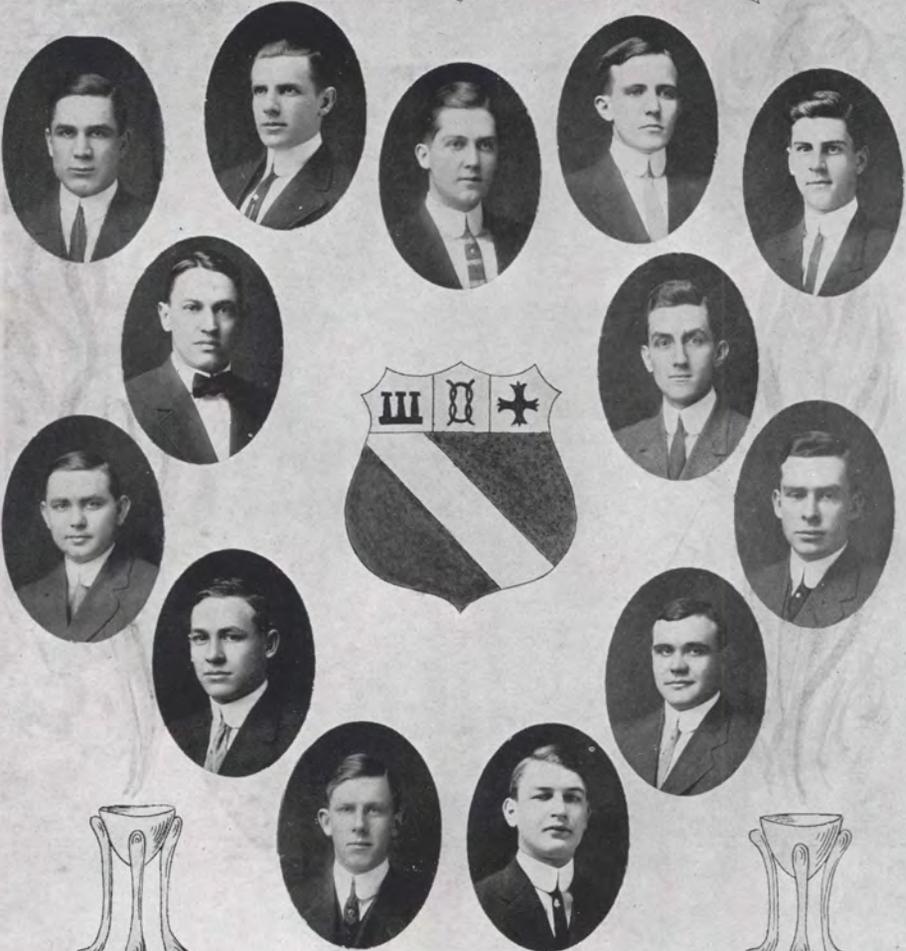

But ere we scatter from your halls,
In life to take our part,
We would to you a tribute give,
An expression of the heart.

Whether duty calls us here to dwell,
Or cross the ocean blue,
We'll ever be
On land or sea,
Unto your precepts true.

The time has come to say good-bye,
In sorrow and in pain;
The saddest words we have to say
Are these—"Auf wiedersehn."

J. CRAIG IRVINE, '12.

Senior Record

BOB

"What's a class without a student?" Just what this class would have been had we not been honored by the presence of Bob and one other later to be spoken of. Bob has also made his name famous upon the gridiron. For three seasons he contributed his weight and experience toward making Central's line the despair of her enemies. As a manager, he proved as faithful as when playing. The "Cento" for the last two terms is proof positive of his ability as an editor. He also teaches the "Preps" that C-A-T spells "cat." Altogether, Bob is the kind of fellow the college misses after graduation.

BATS

"Schneider," as he led his band, was nothing compared to "Bats," as he manfully struggles with the inharmonious harmonies of the College Orchestra. But his perseverance has been rewarded by the fact that if one is quite familiar with the piece being tortured, he can sometimes recognize it. As a business manager, he some pumkins and he is such a cracker-jack physicist that it is rumored that Uncle Sam will soon have him busily engaged in ascertaining the density of march-gas, or doing some other equally instructive work.

"LOGE"

Most folks sleep while the professor is talking, but Loge has reached the point of perfection of going to sleep while himself answering a question. You ought to hear him read "The Lotus Eaters." He must have some latent histrionic talent, else he could not put so much feeling into his rendition of the poem. Loge is a follower of the Goddess of Fortune, but according to all reports, seems to be hounded as persistently by her daughter, Miss-Fortune. He says he is going to be a farmer. We imagine he will "raise" a good "deal" of cain.

"DORS"

(Scene from "Our Other Student.")

Dean Redd discovered presiding over a class in Greek Literature.

D. R. "Oh, Timoney, Timoney, your ignorance is painfully evident, sah. Why do you not study, sah? I hardly believe you could even tell me the author of "Thesmorphoriazusae." You do not read these plays over as many times as you should, seh. Now Dorsey, how many times did you go over the lesson to-day?"

Dors (bashfully): "Well, professor, I'm awfully sorry, but I didn't have time to get over mine, but seven times to-day."

Enter stage hand, from right wing, with shovel, running. (Curtain)

"DICK"

Behold the boy prodigy of the class. The man who with perfect ease and grace is about to graduate in three years. To those of us who have taken five years to ac-compish the same feat, this seems nothing short of miraculous, but it was so easy for Dick that he had to play basketball and baseball to have some way to spend his afternoons. But where Dick really stars is when he umpires the Caldwell basketbail games. Of course he tries to look straight ahead, but it hurts him so much to call a foul that his eyes just naturally fall. Too bad, Richard.

THE CARDINAL AND BLUE 1912

"BISH"

No, Bish is not lazy. Why of course not. You probably saw him one day when he was sleepy. You must'nt slander Bish. He's our only hope of '12 producing a real, live writer. Oh, he shakes a nasty pen (a la Phil Pidgeon). If you don't believe it, just look at the Senior History.

"PUSS"

"A poet is born(e), (if) not (entirely) mad(e)," therefore "PUSS." His devotion to his Muse is unlimited. On the night before the flag-rush he heard her soft voice and, unperceived by his companions, slipped off and ran three miles into the country, where he and Euterpe might commune in peace. He became so interested in the work that he forgot all about the flag-rush. Many of the common herd, void of poetic feeling, thought he had cold feet. Which goes to prove that a poet, like a prophet, is without honor in his own land.

"MISTER WILL"

Who is that handsome young man? Why, don't you know him? He's Johny's pet. Oh, yes, Professor Redd. He must be a good student. Oh, not Johny Redd; Johny Atch. Bill holds the much coveted record of having kept Johny and the night watchman up nine nights straight. That's doing pretty well when you remember that he had three girls to keep going at the same time. Three girls? Why, sure. He's our only real, "sure-nuf" champion when it comes to lady-killing. "Lovely Joe" was an ice-wagon racing with a Packard, compared with him. You can't beat him at the love making stunt. If you don't believe me, ask George Hopper; he's connected with the "Centos," so ought to know.

"NICK"

Nick's a sport. He just can't help it. His little feet and dainty ankles have been the envy of his fellow class mates for lo these many years. He's some rough on those maroon silk socks. His motto is the same as Napoleon's at the battle of Bunker Hill: "Watch the little man." Take it from your Uncle Fuller, Nick's a cut-up from Where-as.

"POGUS"

Here is a personage who has really been in love. He may be now for all we know. But at any rate, he was. When he first came to college he was not the Beau Brummel you see him, just look at the changes wrought by the little boy god. Ask him sometime why he used to be so fond of "Faust." That's all right, Pogus, she's a "queen," anyway, isn't she? Now quit that blushing.

"BIG PRITCH"

Back up fielders, here's a hard hitter at the bat. Yep, this is Central's Ty Cobb. Oh, no, never has knocked more than five home-runs in any one game; likes to leave a little of the ball as a memento of the occasion, you know. He's some football shark, too. He "otter" be, though, there's enough "beef" about him. (Er-ah pahdon the pun. If you will excuse me this time, I will endeavor never to do it again.) I don't know what the Orchestra will do without Pritch and his drums next year. It will be hard to find anyone who can romp on them so thoroughly. How he is managing to get through without either Physics or Chemistry, is more than we can see, but we'll have to give him the grapes for that if for nothing else.

"JIMMY"

"Hail to thee, blithe Spirit! Bird thou never wert."—No, I don't expect you ever were, sure enough. Though they do say you've an awfully sweet voice, Jeems. You needn't stick your chest out so far. We all know you were captain of the 1911 'varsity, all Kentucky full-back and one of the star backs of the South, and beilieve me, Bud, they'll miss you next year. But I guess Welsh and Wiseman won't care so much. They say they're getting mighty tired having you hanging around every evening just at closing time, and they wish to the dickens you'd come on in if you want anything. Oh, you "janitor."

"TIM"

Tim is the one man all of us are pledged to support whenever he sees fit to run for the presidency. We don't doubt for a minute but that he will be elected. He was the choice of the entire college last year to represent the student body as Student Councilman. He has never been defeated in a race for an office, and we hope never will be. Each one of us expects to be vice-president at the same time he is president, so you see none of us are office seekers. Tim used to be quite a rounder, but for the last year or two he has been such a student that his old friends would hardly know him. 'Tis his wit that makes the Advocate such a clever news sheet. That's a big enough bouquet for any one man.

"WEB"

Makes a peach of an editor, don't he? If you don't know, just look at the first few issues of the Cento and this high class volume. But you couldn't expect much better; got frost bitten once or twice while green and hasn't quite gotten over the effects. He's going to try for a fellowship for next year; been here so long, he's kind of got the habit. He's trying to collect the cash from the students for the new gym; nice job. Luck to him.

History of Class of 1912

Time is a tricky old gentleman. Looking forward four years ago it seemed that 1912 was a very distant date. Now that 1912 has been reached, those four years seem but a short period; yet into that short space there has been crowded many things, the narration of which will wear away many a winter night to come. The curses heaped upon the authors of many a classic work and the maledictions poured forth at those professors whose sole object seemed the unreasonable restraint of recreation have either died away, or softened down, have blended forever with the myriad hosts of pleasant recollections of Old Centre and the city of Danville. Such memories are entirely too numerous to set down here; so we will get back to our subject, the history of the Class of 1912.

Before we start telling of the mighty deeds that form the history of this great class we might as well lead out the Spirit of the Class. No, there is no occasion of alarm, we do not intend to rig up anything that will haunt the campus when Twelve is gone. In fact, when the fourteen good men and true, who are in at the finish, separate, the Spirit will be divided into fourteen distinct parts and carried far from the chapel and the bookstore.

In the first place, the Spirit of Twelve has been that of Originality. This Spirit lead Twelve when Fresh to start to haze the Sophs. When Sophs, it lead her forces to take to the Tower instead of the triditional tree. In the Junior year, the irrepressible Spirit got in its work again and formed a "pure democracy." The Spirit is still alive and kicking; but no Spirit could come in contact with traditions, the faculty, the laboratory and spirits of other kinds and classes, without being changed. Four years in the classroom and on the campus have converted that Spirit from a wild one into a strong worker in harness that exerts its forces only with care and direction. This may seem but the old, old story; but a fuller view of the record will show.

It was in September, 1908, that the Class of Nineteen-twelve first took its place on the record books of Centre College. But the fellows that gathered from the four winds to make it up were a class in name only. In those early days they were herded together by the Sophomores and taken on the usual sight-seeing tours. And the quiet of those September nights was broken with paddles and then tramped upon. Finally, however, when the now accustomed summons came for this bunch of men to assemble in order to provide entertainment for the Sophomores, they assembled to the man; bringing with them everything they could find around the house that looked dangerous. The Sophomores did not put in an appearance. The Freshmen then set out on the warpath, shouting defiance to the Sophomores, but the defiance was wasted on the Danville air. After several hours of proclaiming themselves, these Freshmen retired for the night to their beds. Then the Sophomores got busy, fell upon the divided class and again made quite an impression. But they could not undo what had been done; a new class, the Class of 1912 had been born.

About this time, the Sophomores decided to beat the Freshmen in a football game. But the class of 1912 put out a good fresh team whose superior playing defeated the team of haughty Eleven. Disappointed in not winning the football game, the Sophs tried basketball. The class of Twelve again proved its metal by putting out a team which easily took its rival into camp.

The year sped on a while, dragged on a while, but finally drew near a close. Of course, about this time whisperings of the annual flag-rush were heard. This whispering soon developed the fact that Eleven was going to put up her flag. Twelve could not sit by and see her do it, so she gathered together her forces, raised her flag and awaited developments. The Sophomores came, but after marching around the Freshmen flag, went away. The Freshmen got the mats from the Gym, set out pickets and lay down to sleep. About two o'clock in the morning, when least expected, the Sophomores swooped down. The struggle lasted for three hours in a light in which it was difficult to tell friends from foes. Finally, Twelve went down in honorable defeat. In a few days, vacation had scattered her members to their several homes.

When the fall of 1909 arrived, the class of '12 came back and took up her duties. Feeling the responsibility of being Sophomores, the members of this class took up the work of introducing the new Freshmen to college life. And though the ranks had been thinned during the summer, it was no trouble to do this satisfactorily. As the year rolled by, however, there were more that fell by the wayside. When the time for the flag rush drew near, Twelve was living up to her name; she could muster but twelve men. The Freshmen had several times that many, so Twelve wisely departed from tradition by raising her flag in the tower of Breck hall instead of on the historic tree. The Freshmen came, but they did not rush. Then after so long a time the fire department, the county officers of the law, the city police and Professor Redd managed to get Twelve down.

Another vacation broke in about this time and, when it had passed, the members of this class found themselves Juniors. Some were unable to "come back," but their places were taken by others who had not before been numbered among the members of the class of 1912. Soon it was suggested that the class elect a president. But such was not as easy as it sounded. When a ballot was taken, it was found that the presidential timber was exceedingly plentiful. In fact, every member of the class received an equal number of votes. Among some anarchy would have followed such a condition, but this class was made up of such able men that a pure democracy was the result. Throughout the year this system worked to perfection. The class acted as a whole on all matters, and in all disputes the goddess of Chance was the final arbiter. When able men were needed for any service, they were chosen by an appeal to the sacred "bones" of the goddess. This year was so filled with activities that time cantering at a rapid rate brought Twelve swiftly nearer her goal.

In all three years this class has been ably represented in all departments of the college life. Wherever there was anything doing there was sure to be a member of this class lurking in the vicinity. Were we trying to write a catalogue, we would name these men.

We have come to the year nineteen twelve of the Class of Nineteen-twelve and still we find our member in all branches of college activity. In fact, if any member of this class were to write on the subject of "The great men I have known," he would be obliged to include his thirteen classmates in the list. But no history is complete without some record of its great men; so we will cite a few examples of the great among us. For example, there is Ramsey, Captain Ramsey, the star tackle; who has represented his class on the 'varsity football team for four years. On the other hand Irvine has successfully "provoked" the Muse of poetry on several different occasions. Then there is Dorsey, Dorsey the invincible debater. Andrews and Webster have made their mark in journalism. The list might be continued, but you will find elsewhere in this book the record of their deeds.

The Senior year with its many activities is drawing near a close. The time is short that once seemed interminable. Anyone with a poetic imagination can figure in all the tender memories that arise with the separation of the members of this class. Sufficient to say, the times together have been good times.

What lies beyond for the Class of '12, is for the prophet to say. Not being a prophet, we will not plunge into the realms of prophecy. A historian may, however, draw conclusions from the facts as they appear to him. So in light of the four years spent together, we may say, that however far the members of this class may separate; into whatever part of the world they may go; whatever they shall be or do, will be to the glory of Old Centre and the Class of Nineteen Twelve.

Junior History

Should you ask me, whence this history,
Whence this story of achievements,
With its blazing trail of glory,
With a fate to live forever,
With its store of inspiration,
Which shall serve the coming ages,
And assure great successes,
Should one follow it completely
And should heed well all its teachings,
I should answer, I should tell you:
Ere the leaves had turned in color,
In the bright month of September,
Nineteen Hundred Nine was honored,
By a crowd of jolly fellows
Coming to the town of Danville,
To that town where Fame had told us,
Was a college of great merit,
With its boundless store of learning,
And illustrious sons in number.
There were we to stay and labor
Four long years, until our efforts
Were rewarded with a sheepskin,
Mighty proof of faithful hours
Spent in deepest of seclusion,
Closeted alone in study,
'Neath the glare of oil at midnight.
Open arms did then receive us,
Many months bespoke us welcome,
Flattered us and gave the feeling
That we were of great importance,
Took us rides and did us honor,
Until each of us had taken
To himself a crowd of brothers,
To be sworn and loved companions.
Not were we without our trials,
For the Sophomores soon found us,
Visited upon our persons,
Many marks of subjugation,
Forced obedience to their wishes,
Made us objects of their war clubs,
Heaped humiliation on us.
In the realm of all athletics,
Many of our class attempted,

THE CARDINAL AND BLUE
1912

To bedeck themselves with glory,
And their efforts were rewarded,
With full recompense for valor,
And with might they still continue,
To uphold Central's athletics,
Still reflecting signal honors,
For the glory of Old Central.
When the flag rush came in April,
Terrified were all the Sophomores,
And they sought with fear and trembling,
Breck Hall's crenelated tower,
Where no human hands could reach them,
Without death or grave disaster.
There for many hours they huddled,
Until firmly we had promised
Safety to all who surrendered,
With the Chief of Police a witness,
Of the promise we had made them.
When as Sophomores we attempted,
With odds heavily against us,
To overcome the host of Freshmen,
Who were threatening our safety,
One deep plan of ours miscarried,
Our defeat it presaged for us,
But with great determination,
We attacked o'erwhelming numbers,
Struggled till the daylight found us
Bound and lying on the green sward,
But invincible in spirit.
This year finds the Class of Thirteen,
Moving with resistless progress,
Mounting obstacles before it,
Keeping up its great achievements,
Though diminished much in numbers.
Though our class but numbers fourteen,
Some of whom may yet forsake us,
Whom Fate's hand has designated,
Yet their names will be remembered
With those, whom the coming ages
Shall recall with greatest reverence,
As members of the Class of Thirteen,
Which its Alma Mater treasures
As the best of all its offspring,
Whose great deeds are all recorded,
On its history's brightest pages.

Sophomore History

In the fall of nineteen hundred ten there came to that shrine of learning called Central University a band of young men to give ear to the sayings of its cultured preceptors. When the scribe of the institution had numbered the incoming tribe, it was found to be the greatest in many years; therefore, the learned men rejoiced.

Now there dwelt also among the halls of Central three other tribes, the youngest of which was called Sophs. This tribe had not proceeded far in the ways of knowledge, but were wise in the wisdom of college life. They held a great reception for the new tribe of '14, and gave them some wild and realistic impressions of college life, which were more or less feelingly appreciated. Later, these Sophs challenged '14 to engage in a contest of strength called football. Until the last few minutes of the combat, '14 had the advantage, but the snow fell and darkness came over the field enabling the Sophs to make use of strategy and win the contest.

In the long months of winter, when basketball was the prevailing sport, '14 developed from its members a team which was never defeated by that of any other tribe. In this way they gained the distinction of being the inter-class basketball champions of the University.

Now there is at Central an ancient tradition that, when the sun of spring grows warm, the newest tribe and the Sophs fight for the possession of a flag placed in a tradition tree on the campus. The men of '14 were living in peaceful anticipation of this event when late one night, without one word of warning, the Sophs fell upon them in their various wigwams and made many of them captives. This unexpected stroke thoroughly aroused the martial spirit of '14. The men taken by the overconfident Sophs broke from their confines and immediately assembled, and, after some council, met the Sophs in hand-to-hand conflict. The strife was furious and lasted for hours, but the sun rose upon the men of '14 standing worn out but victorious over the fallen and manacled Sophs. Thereafter, there was always peace among all the tribes and the new tribe felt the Great Spirit as they never had before.

When gathered around the sages, the members of '14 hung upon their words with such diligence that practically all were able to reply to the puzzling questions propounded to them in the final tests of knowledge. Therefore, a smile of satisfaction rested upon the faces of the learned ones. In June, the tribe separated with the greatest amity and took the trail of pleasure at rest.

When the doors of Central were opened in September, nineteen hundred eleven, the tribe of '14, obeying the call of the Great Spirit, returned to the classic halls with fewer missing braves than any other, making them again the strongest in numbers. The roll was also lengthened by the entrance of some advanced men from other schools. There came also at this time a new tribe eager to understand the mysteries of college. The class of '14, having stepped into the position and special duties left them by the Sophs, assembled together this new tribe and, with the beating of the tom-toms, conducted them through the traditional initiation given to all Freshmen.

In a few weeks the new comers were challenged by '14 to meet them on the football field. The other tribe, after a long and hard fight, went down to defeat just when victory seemed within their grasp.

There being among their numbers several men of great strength and prowess, '14 has furnished at least two members of every athletic team representing the University. The victories and wonderful deeds of these teams when upon the war-path, have made them the terror of all neighboring foes, and besides, have kept alive the Great Spirit of Central.

For two more years the tribe of '14 will continue to go in and out before the wise men and smoke the pipe of peace that comes with higher education. At the end of that time, '14 should have made a record that will rival the best.

Freshman History

On the morning of September 13, 1911, there assembled on the C. U. campus a crowd of wide-eyed, open-mouthed individuals who had lofty aspirations of becoming Freshmen. Soon there appeared on the scene a wise looking youth, afterward found to be a "Soph," and, before long, we were being favored with the wisdom of sages together with the oratory of a Demosthenes. After being so thoroughly "stuffed," it was remarkable that we ever summoned up enough courage to register. In order to show our class spirit, almost all of us went to the "Gym" reception, and a hot one it proved to be. This time we were given alvice in a different form, mainly by contact with the end of a well shaped paddle. After we had contributed greatly to the amusement of the passers-by on Main Street, we were taken to Caldwell. There we were forced to repeat our "stunts" before a crowd of feminine spectators. There was surely one advantage in the performance, in that some of us gained practice along the line of love songs and comic vaudeville in which the "Sophs" proved very efficient instructors. On Hallowe'en we were again remembered, and received a most liberal share of paint and paddles. Deep down in our hearts we cherished hopes of revenge for those many insults. Indeed, our hopes were not in vain, for when a chance was given in the Fresh-Soph football game, our men sure mopped up with them. Again in the flag-rush with the Sophs outnumbering us by ten men, we were the victors. Despite the fact that the Sophs told us, we would not be "in it" this year, we think that we changed the position of some who were, or rather thought they were really "in it." No longer are they "way out there."

With the victories of the past to encourage us, and a bright future before us, we give three cheers for our loyal class president, "Skeet" Wilhelm.

BRECKENRIDGE HALL

History of the Senior Law Class

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS that the Law Class of 1912 has finished its course and is now to go out from the walls of this time-honored institution into the more exacting school of life. It is difficult for us to realize that the vivid reality of college life is to pass into history, but such is the case each year with the senior class. Each year a band of enthusiastic graduates leave their dear Alma Mater to take their place beside the illustrious alumni who have made Old Centre famous. As a nation great on account of its great men, so is the standard of a college measured by its alumni. Centre College may well be proud of her sons, for we find them in the forefront in every field of activity. They are beacon lights leading each succeeding class on to honorable endeavor and success. May the Class of 1912 prove no exception, but may it be a noble example to all future classes! When in a prophetic mood, I look into the future, I see the men of this class occupying the important positions of State and Nation. Law is our chosen profession, but if at any time we feel that we can best serve our fellowmen in the strenuous field of politics, we will be found ready to answer to duty's call.

Our path will not always be strewn with fragrant flowers. Neither is it best that it should be. A man is more of a man by having faced serious and difficult obstacles and overcoming them or even suffering honorable defeat. We are reminded of the words of the late ex-governor, J. Proctor Knott, first Dean of the College of Law of Central University; "The Law is a jealous mistress, and he who would walk its mountain ranges with a gallant stride, must not tread the 'primrose path of dalliance.'" If we heed this admonition it is not difficult to prophesy our future. Today is the day of reform. It is the time when real things are expected of a man; but it is also a day of glorious opportunity for service. Important issues are daily arising. We will be called upon to take our stand for right and justice. May our motto be: "Justice, Sir, is the great interest of man on earth." High ideals are now before us. Whether we attain them or not, will be a matter for some future historian to chronicle; but if our college career is any criterion, then we may safely say that we will.

It would require volumes in which to record the achievements of the Class of 1912; but our record, we trust, will be left indelible in the minds of our worthy instructors and fellow students. If we were to attempt to record all of our great achievements, the reader would declare that a more egotistical class never graduated from Central University. We are not egotistical, we assure you; but we know that the Class of 1912 is the best that ever graduated from this college. We know this because our instructors have said so. Other classes have been told the same, but that was before our day. We have not only been ready with our daily assignments; but we have been active in every field of college activity. We have had our representatives in the Young Men's Christian Association, in the Literary Societies, and on the athletic field. Low is recognized everywhere as the best college pitcher in the South, while Kirk is no less famous for his slugging and infield work. Tolin is also not far behind the two greater baseball lights. What is troubling us most, is who can take their places next year. We are all good students, but when it comes to selecting the best, it is the unanimous opinion of the class, that "Major" Wood is in the lead. We are all more or less politically inclined, but Tim Arterberry is our boss politician. He knows everything that has been printed in the Courier-Journal within the last twenty years. If he were not a Republican perhaps he would some day be governor of the state. Perhaps he will be, anyway. Things like that have happened. Combs is our married man, but he leaves his wife at home. He spends most of his time in the library looking for a digest to Cyc, trying to find when a "Butter and Surrebutter" will lie. "Rusty" Bright is married also, but unlike Combs, he always has his wife with him. Bright is a hard worker and knowing the minute details of the railroad business as he does, he is sure to become a valuable attorney for the railroads. If anyone should wish to know just how a County Clerk's office is conducted, ask Lee. Some of the fellows say that ten years hence we will find Lee Clerk of Kenton County; but the historian predicts a greater future for him. Bill Lewis says that if Leslie County ever goes democratic that he hopes to be County Attorney. Well, the county will have to change, Bill won't. Fowler was not with us last year, but he is one of us all the same. The least that can be said of him is that he has a mustaché and is a good student like the rest of us. He hopes to complete his study of Cyc within a month or two after he gets out of college, if he is not too busy with his practice. Little Arterberry is a great talker, but in Equity it did not avail. If you ever happen to drop in the court room and hear him on some murder trial, I am sure that you will send your son or brother, as the case may be, to Central University Law School. Our friend, McGehee, entered very late in the year, having spent about two years in Michigan University. We have all been wondering why he left Michigan. No, he did not flunk up there. He is too good a student for that.

Much more could be said about the members of the class, but we trust that these brief remarks will, in the future, recall some of the many things that happened during our college days. We would like to tell about our debaters in the J. Proctor Knott Debating Society and our petitions in the Moot Court, but space will not permit. Suffice it to say that it was there where we obtained our most valuable experience. Especially is this true of Moot Court. It was there that we, by showing ourselves able to take care of our clients' interest, fully convinced our instructors that we are in a position to safely pilot our case through the stormy seas of procedure into the haven of justice:

We can not overestimate the value of a college course, nor can it be measured by the facts that we have learned from books and instructors. Of no less value are the pleasant associations and intimate friendships. There have been no factions in our Class. We are all friends and comrades. It is with no little sadness that we realize that this comradeship is soon to cease, but no matter before what distant court we practice our noble profession, the friendship formed in college will last for ever. May we meet again around some festal board to talk about the dear old college days and to give an account of the way we have invested our talents, is the wish of the historian.

A. FRANK TABB, Historian.

Chamberlain History

"Quality and not quantity" is our motto and, with this carried into effect, we have accomplished splendid work during the past year. There was abundant literary material in this year's Freshman class and Chamberlain received her share. In making this brief history, let us look back over the eighty-four years of its existence, since its birth, in 1828, and see what the Chamberlain Literary Society has accomplished.

Several hundred alumni of Centre College are former members of Chamberlain. These men have elected many different professions, but in every location we can trace up Chamberlain men who have crowned themselves with success.

The Chamberlain Literary Society has for over three-score years admirably qualified men for meeting and starting face to face with other men in the broader walks of life after leaving college. Bacon says "Reading maketh a full man, conference a ready man, and writing an exact man." If this is true, then Chamberlain has rounded off many into perfected manhood. For example, we find assigned on the debate for a certain night Former Justice John M. Harlan of the Supreme Court. At another time we notice Adlai Stephenson, a former Vice-President of the United States, written down on our program for a declamation. Great men have been enthusiastic members of Chamberlain. Chamberlain helped them to become great.

This year the society is well organized and is accomplishing splendid work. The members are brainy and work together as a unit. Chamberlain was represented in the Ernst Debate by Messrs. Swope, Herndon, and Dorsey. Messrs. Swope and Dorsey were winners and, with Mr. Ginn of our sister society, form Centre's Debating Team. In the Oratorical Contest, Mr. C. A. Dyre, one of Chamberlain's most promising members, was awarded second place. May the future years of its work be as successful and prosperous as the previous ones.

S. K. SWOPE, Historian.

Deinologian History

For the past five or six years the cry has gone forth that the interest of the students at Centre has entirely departed from the literary societies. But, for some unknown reason, it has been greatly revived during the past year. The attendance has been so large that it has actually been difficult for the men to make their credits. All during the year Deinologian has had twenty-eight active men attending practically every meeting. Everyone seemed to be deeply interested, and the result was that the programs were always faithfully carried out. As usual, Deinologian won the Ernst Debate. We were represented by Messrs. Webster, Thompson, and Ginn. Although Chamberlain had the choice of sides, our men won a fairly easy victory. The question debated was: "Resolved, that the United States Government should take over and operate all telegraph lines doing an inter-state business within its territory." Deinologian upheld the affirmative. In the Twenty-second Oratorical, our speaker, Mr. Doyle, so far outstripped his advisaries that there was no doubt but that he would win from the very first. He is a wonderful speaker, and Deinologian will be fortunate in having him back next year. The prospects of the society have always been bright, but for next year they seem especially so. We lose but two men by graduation, and, if the interest keeps up, there is no reason why the membership should not be over thirty.

VARSIY 1911 FOOTBALL TEAM

Middle Row—Clark, Walker, Andrews, Newman, G. Ramsey.

FOOTBALL

At the beginning of the nineteen-eleven football season, prospects for Central were anything but bright. With only six of the 1910 regulars to start with, Coach Banks had difficulty in whipping the machine into shape, and it was not until after the middle of the season that the team began to play in its true form. The first two games which were to be played with Wesleyan and Hanover were ignominiously cancelled by those institutions at the last moment, thus placing Central in the embarrassing position of having to play Vanderbilt without having had a single preliminary game. As a result, Central, fighting hard to the finish, was snowed under, but, however, snowed by the strongest football team that ever represented a Southern college.

The team showed great improvement the following Saturday, and won a well-earned victory from Rose-Polytechnic at Louisville. In the Tennessee game, a muddy field prevented either team from scoring.

The ball, however, was in Tennessee's territory three-fourths of the time. Georgetown was disposed of easily and then came the game with Kentucky State in which the Fates were evidently against us. At the end of the first half, the score was tied; it became impossible for either team to materially advance the ball on account of the deep mud. Then Guyn, the State quarterback, and the luckiest man that ever wore a football suit, kicked a thirty yard dropkick out of the mud, which aided by a strong wind, barely went over the goalposts and lost the game for us. Against Transylvania, Central got a chance to redeem herself, and did not overlook the opportunity.

States conquerors, though outweighing Central's team ten pounds to the man, were defeated on their own field, thus leaving Central, Transylvania and State in a three cornered tie for the championship of Kentucky.

Lee played center during the first part of the season and showed promise of becoming an exceptionally strong live man. He had the misfortune, however, of having his leg broken in the Vanderbilt game, and could not play during the rest of the season.

After the Rose-Polytechnic game, Wingo, who had previously played right tackle, was shifted to center. A terror on defense, he stopped countless plays behind the line and deserves to be classed among the best line-men in the South.

The guards, Caldwell and Pritchard, formed with Wingo an almost impregnable defense in the center of the line. Caldwell, for his charging in the line, and Pritchard, for his ability in following the ball, deserve especial mention.

Ramsey, at left tackle, was not only strong on defense, but was also a demon in carrying the ball. As a line-bucker, he cannot be surpassed, and will be greatly missed next fall.

Andrews was, indeed, a good running-mate, for Ramsey had always played a hard and consistent game. He did much, both by precept and example, to inculcate in the members of the team that fighting spirit which has always been characteristic of Central's teams.

Walker and Schultz, at ends, were fast and aggressive. It was rare for either of these men to miss a tackle.

Clark, the lightning quarterback, ran the team well, showing good judgement at all times. He was also strong on carrying the ball.

Pidgeon, at left half, fast and aggressive, was especially good at breaking up the opposing interference, and in making interferences for his own men.

Wilhelm, at right half, bucked the line well, and fought hard from start to finish.

McClure, fullback, was a terror to the opposing line and was reliable in backing up C. U.'s line. He showed up especially well in the Transylvania game.

Coleman, Bruce, G. Ramsey, Newman, Blakie, and Lassing all played during a part of the season. They are exceptionally good men and will be heard from next fall.

A great deal is expected from Captain Pidgeon's 1912 team. Pidgeon, Clark, Wingo, Wilhelm, Lee, Caldwell, McClure, G. Ramsey, Coleman, Bruce, Newman, and Beddinger will probably return, so prospects now are very bright. With Coach Banks in charge, everything points to a glorious season.

The following is the record for 1911.

Oct. 21	C. U.	0	Vanderbilt	45
Oct. 28	C. U.	11	Rose-Polly	5
Nov. 4	C. U.	0	U. of Tenn.	0
Nov. 18	C. U.	27	Georgetown	0
Nov. 23	C. U.	5	Ky. State	8

BASE BALL

1911 BASE BALL TEAM

Top Row (left to right)—Orr, Manager; W. Seelbach, Coleman, Tolin, Wingo, Pritchard, Banks, Coach.
Bottom Row—Low, Wilkinson, Dosker, Vinson, Kirk, Laton, Forworthy, Lassing.

BASEBALL

Baseball prospects for the season of 1912 are good, and Central is going right after the state championship. Coach Banks thinks that he had the speediest bunch of ball tossers that have ever donned Cardinal and Blue uniforms. Coleman, Dosker, Lassing, Kirk, Lowe, and Tollen are back and plenty of new material are on hand to put out a winning team. With plenty of good material on hand, Coach Banks is not going to stand for any loafing this year. Looney, the catcher from Memphis, is delivering the goods behind the bat. His peg to bases is well nigh perfect, and it looks as though he were the man for the place.

The pitching staff is strong again this year. Captain Lowe can always be depended upon to dish up plenty of "foolers" to win his game. He is admirably backed by Tollen, Doyle and Fagan, all pitchers of no mean ability. The infield is one of the best in the state. It is fun to watch the ball as it is whipped from base to base in rapid succession. Coleman, at first, is developing into a star. He has a tremendous reach and a powerful whip. Dosker is playing a consistent game at second. Lassing, at short, is putting up a classy article of ball. He is a natural born ball player and one of the heaviest hitters on the team. Kirk, at third, is quick and scoops them up as though there were nothing to it. You have to go a long way to find a good college third baseman, but you can stop when you come to Kirk, because he is right there when it comes to hardling line drives right hot from the bat.

The outfield is the fastest in years. It is composed of three track men, Pigeon, Raworth and Clark, all eleven second men or better, and if the ball comes anywhere near them you can depend upon them getting there.

We have the making of a championship team and now all that is necessary is good weather for practice, and Coach Banks is of the opinion that he can round out a team that will bring glory to Old Centre. We are going to have a good team and we are very optimistic for a successful season and the championship of Kentucky. The motto of the team this year is, "We came, we saw, we conquered."

BASKETBALL

1912 BASKETBALL TEAM

Top Row—Blakey, Coleman, Ramsey, Irwin, Manager.

BASKETBALL

Basketball, although a comparatively young sport at Centre, has been both popular and successful. Out of the seven times we have produced, two have been Champions of the South and three have been the undisputed Champions of Kentucky. These great teams had such wonderful players as the Seelbach brothers and Hess. The college had come to rely on their prowess to such an extent that but little new material was in readiness to take their places when they left us. But the men who made up this year's team were plucky, fast players and will, no doubt, make up another championship team for next year. All they need is a little more experience.

Bruce and Blakey were up to the standard set in the past in every respect, and great things are expected of them in the future.

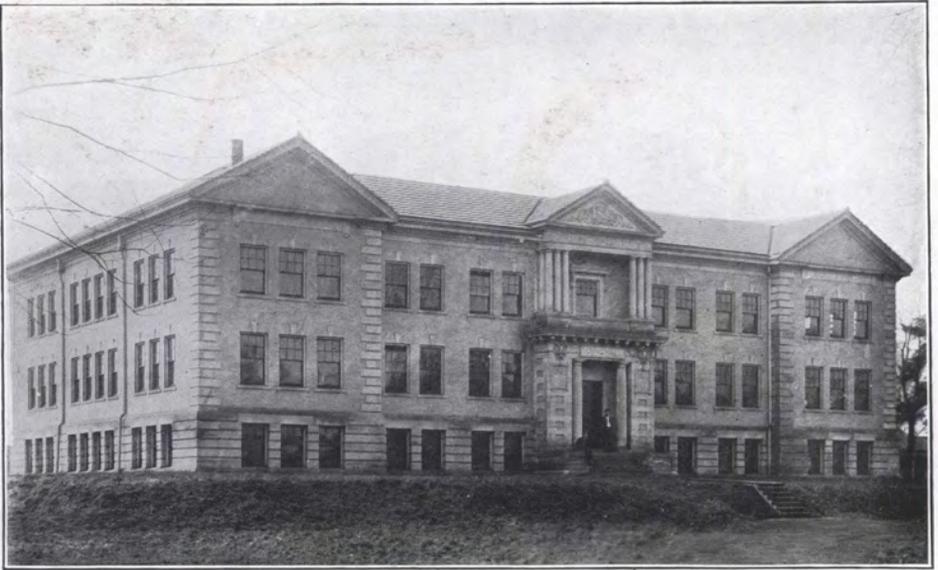

THE GYM

THE CARDINAL AND BLUE 1912

The progress of the team this year was retarded by the fact that the rink could not be procured in which to practice. The floor of the late Boyle-Humphrey Gymnasium was inadequate for the practice required to produce a winning team. The management was very fortunate in getting the Caldwell College Gym. for the last part of the season, and would like to thank Professor Archeson and the Board of Trustees of Caldwell College for their kindness. Although we did not have a championship team this year, we are in no respect disheartened by the showing they made, and look forward to next season with only hope and confidence.

TRACK

Central was well represented in track last season. Although not having a great opportunity of showing what we had, (as we did not take part in but one meet which we easily won), it was gratifying to know that we had the stuff. Transylvania fell easy prey to the fleet foot boys from Central, thus giving C. U. the championship again.

This season opened with the loss of several good men especially in the weight department and field events, in Todd, we lose a man who, no doubt, was the best in the state in the hammer throw, holding the state record by a safe margin, in Louis Seelbach, we lost a good man in the shot put and broad jump, in Anderson, we lost a good sprinter. We still have Walker, who is, without doubt, the best quarter miler in the state and probably in the South. We also have Fleming, a good distance runner, and Clark, whom everybody remembers as the fastest quarterback in the South. This trio thus form a nucleus around which we hope to build another championship team.

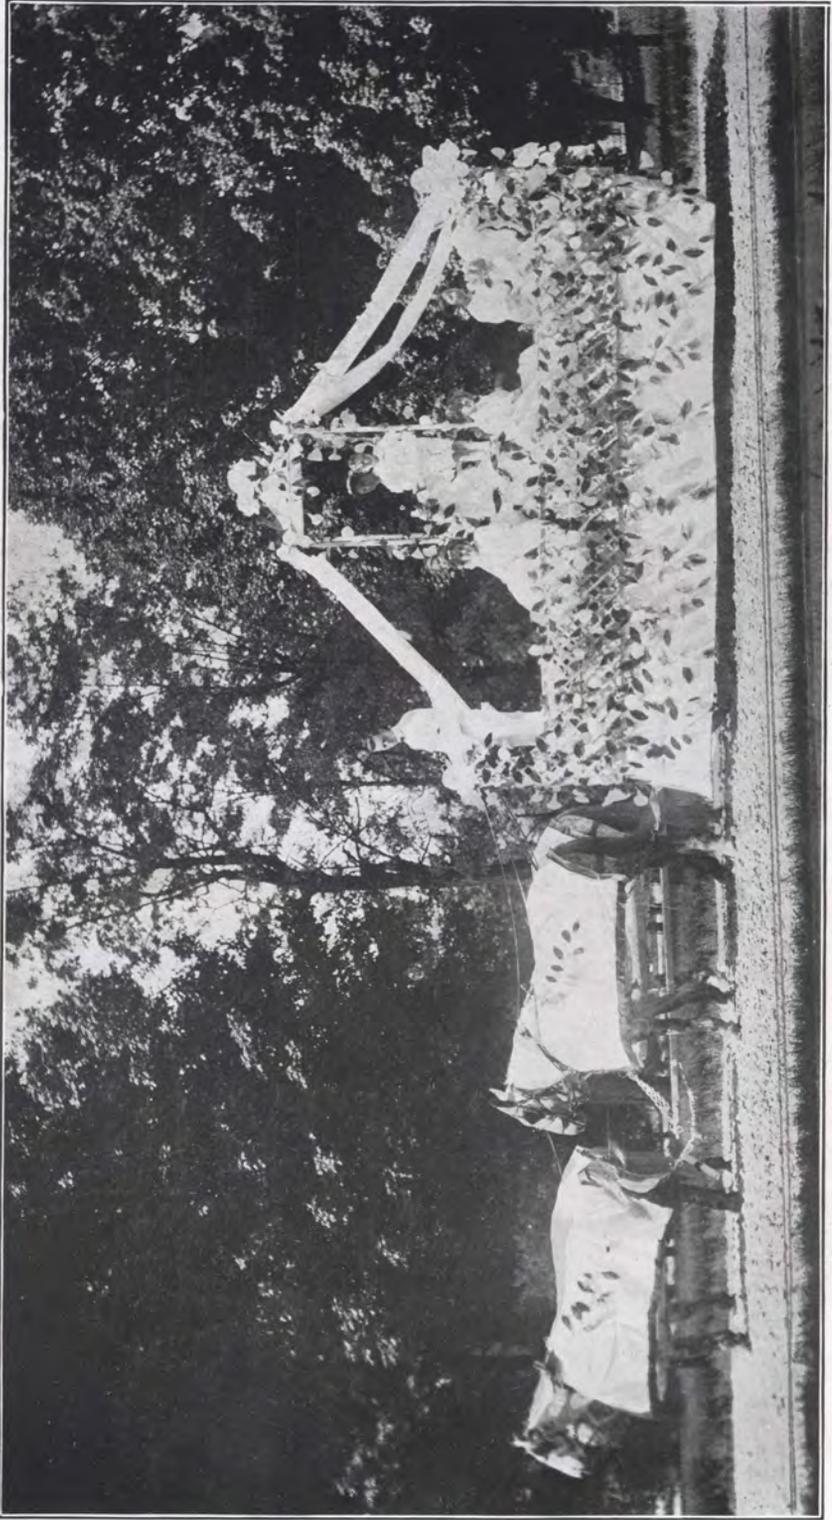

We will have two meets this year, one with Berea and the other the inter-collegiate meet to be held at Lexington in which most of the other Kentucky colleges will take part. If Central wins this meet, and we believe we will win, we may then call this a very successful season.

While this form of sport is yet young in Kentucky, there is no doubt an increase of interest in it, and it is hoped that in the future more enthusiasm may be aroused for this interesting and typical college sport.

Professor R.: "Ah, McClure, that's all right, sah. Don't mention such a trifle."

Dr. Clark (at Rounde Table meeting): "Yes, many wonderful things are being done with glass, to-day. You know, they are even making dresses of it."

Walker: "My, how embarrassing."

CALENDAR

SEPTEMBER

- 11—College opens. Freshmen learn with difficulty the art of registering, but are unable to realize what college life is.
 12—Second day of registration. Upper classmen register on this day.

- 13—Football practice progressing nicely, and the team bids fair to be a championship team.
 14—Announcements made. Freshmen only take notice.
 15—Stag reception. Fresh, as usual, assisted by the Sophs, make all kinds of speeches and, above all things, make love to the Caldwell girls.
 21—First issue of the Cento.
 22—Annual Gym. reception. Caldwell present. Fresh. go greatly to their disappointment. Dance at the rink also attracts a large crowd.
 23—First scrimmage of the year. Coach well pleased with the prospects.
 24—Harry Raworth, by special permission of the faculty, is allowed to change his seat from the Freshman row to the Junior row.
 25—Annual staff partially chosen by the class. Seniors alone decide to get out the Annual.
 26—Campus and smoking tickets still selling at a premium.
 27—Athletic tickets being given away. Politics means success to the athletic association—financially. Hopper chosen president.
 30—Freshmen homesickness wearing off.

OCTOBER

- 1—It is reported that Boggs appeared on the streets without Cotton, but the statement has not been corroborated.
 3—Y. M. C. A. hand books distributed among the students.
 4—J. C. Irvine looms in to prominence as a writer of some note.
 8—Happy Holligan appears in Chapel artistically decorated over an inscription.

THE CARDINAL AND BLUE

1912

- 9—Faculty sings song, assisted by a few Freshmen.
- 11—Party at Phillips'. Freshmen and others present.
- 13—An unlucky day. That is enough to say at present.
- 14—Dean Williams has an unusually quiet class, as Pritchard is absent.
- 16—Dr. Ramsey late to class. Class cuts, but roll is called just the same. Result, 15 minutes for explanation the next day.
- 17—Logan Caldwell goes to sleep in History class. "Now, Logan, do you sleep all the time?"
- 19—Bill McClure actually begins to study. You may think it a joke, but 'tis true.
- 20—Rest of Cardinal and Blue staff elected.
- 21—C. U., 0; Vandy., 45. Great was the calamity. Lee breaks leg. Freshmen, 6; Sophomores, 0.
- 22—Dr. Ramsey reads paper to class in History of Education; everyone enjoyed such peaceful half hour's sleep.
- 24—Gilcher defeats Irvine at chess. John claimed to be champion of Indiana.
- 25—Seniors are supposed to commence studying.
- 26—The Histons and Gummersons attend Chapel in a body. Faculty could not understand.
- 28—C. U., 11; Rose Poly., 5. Louisville taken by students.
- 29—Everyone recuperating.
- 30—Freshmen get coat of paint. Shamberger makes good track record from Caldwell to (?).
- 31—Freshmen defeated by Stanford High School by the small score of 36 to 0.

NOVEMBER

- 1—Team has strenuous practice.
- 2—Work on the annual has begun in earnest.
- 3—Team leaves for Knoxville, crowd sees them off.
- 4—Central, 0; University of Tenn., 0.

SATURDAY NIGHT PHOTO OF MAIN STREET

- 5—Sunday. Team returns and report that Schultz and a fair dame created somewhat of a scene at the dance.
- 6—Team takes long needed rest. Charlie McDowell receives 100 on Physics test.
- 7—Ex-Governor McCreary, '75, re-elected by an overwhelming majority. Several college students placed the cross below the rooster.
- 9—Contract for State game at last signed. Favorable terms were granted.
- 10—Masquerade at Caldwell. Sights are seen by those desirous of a seeing.
- 11—Preps defeat Paris High School, 14 to 11. Prichard, as usual, must "beef."
- 12—Heavy sleet, the thermometer flowing low.
- 13—Dr. Dosker gives instructive talk in student body.
- 15—Everybody cuts (unusual) and go hunting. Several birds scared to death, but none as yet has been reported struck.
- 16—One week only before the State game. Dr. Hinitt makes visit to Chapel.

- 17—Saxophone dance at the rink. The promoters claim (?) that they make nearly enough to pay expenses.
- 18—Central, 27; Georgetown, 0. Ramsay addresses the umpire too familiarly, and the result is that "Little James" is kindly asked to retire from the game. Transylvania calls State to the tune of 12 to 5.

- 19—Cal Smith rearranges the "Dope Sheet," and reports all bets henceforth even.
- 20—"Holy, Holy, Holy" given anterior instead of posterior position.
- 22—Dr. Smith gives surprise party to Elementary Physics class in order that they may enjoy the coming game. Building of Bon-fire attempted by Fresh., but Dr. Hinitt prohibits its completion. A rally in Chapel nevertheless.
- 23—"Hog-wallow" contest held. State's team proves to be better swimmers and defeat Central, 8 to 5. Coach Webb boots Prich with his No. 10.
- 24—Recuperating physically, but not financially.
- 25—Caldwell receives remarkable letter which adds another item to his tale of woe.
- 26—Discussion of Thanksgiving game waxing hot. Odds of 2 to 1 reported, but Bounce Bailey, himself, could not find any such.
- 27—C. A. Gummerson gives prohibition lecture in Chapel. Timoney, Sharp, and Wiseman become the only charter members of the prohibition club.
- 29—No rally or Bon-fire. A decadence of the time honored custom.

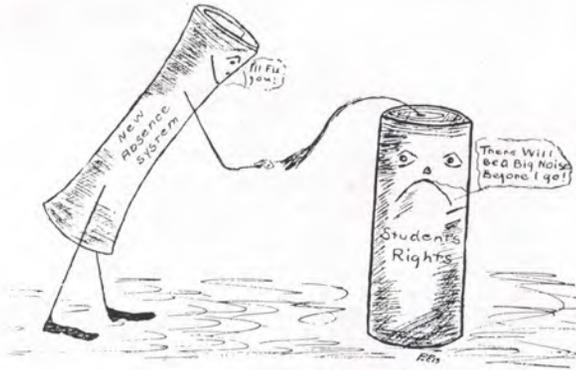

- 30—Thanksgiving, Central, 10; Transylvania, 6. Excitement great. The question, "Who are State Champions?"

DECEMBER

- 1—Logan, while out hunting, fired upon by wild men. Reports are that he barely escaped.
- 2—The fatted turkeys and other grub are devoured with vengeance. (No drinkables.)
- 3—Students return.
- 4—Logan Caldwell leaves his fellow Seniors and occupies a front seat. Logan must dream.
- 5—Gilcher absent from Chapel and the piano gives forth no sweet strains of music. A No. 1 in town also. He has nothing on "Red."
- 6—Sory and Peters break down seats at Opera House in their fight for life when the picture films flare. Excitement subsided, but these gentlemen were not heard of until the next day.
- 7—Hopper fills Gilcher's place at piano beautifully. He plays "Holy, Holy, Holy" without the music, something which Gilcher, with three years' practice, is unable to do. He also sings as he plays.
- 8—Hickes defeat the Wampuses in a very exciting finish, 25 to 24. Of course, this means the Caldwell game.
- 9—Party at Breck Hall. All present report anything but a dry time.
- 10—Dr. Hinitt preaches at the First Presbyterian church. All students (?) attend.
- 11—"Isle of Smiles" receives heavy downpour of juicy lemons. Ouch! Hungry dog nearly breaks up Fragerica. A huge turkey leg cast to him appeases his hunger.
- 12—Sory comes to breakfast. What will happen next?
- 13—Dr. Hinitt announces and explains new method of giving excuses which necessitates a whole week's cut instead of a single day, as has been the custom.

1912

STUDENT'S RIGHTS

14—Last day of recitation before Exams. Lassing and Pritchard enamored with girls in "Bachelor's Honeymoon." Rumors afloat.

15—Japanese Operatta at Caldwell. Oh! you Japanese maids.

16—Art class spend the night in Dr. Blayney's lecture room on extra short examination.

17—Physics exam. Fresh. flunk, but they rejoice because they do not have to continue the course.

21—All exams being fully digested, everyone journeys homeward.

21 to Jan. 3—Xmas holidays being greatly enjoyed at home.

JANUARY

4—Work begins again, but none too willingly.

5—Thermometer drops below 0. No warm spot to be found.

7—J. W. R. escorts Webster from History class. Fire in Sig hall.

7—Snow not quite two feet deep. Many are stranded(?).

8—J. Craig permits Senior class meeting. Dorsey breaks the meeting by announcing that he is going to take a bath. He changes his mind, as it is too cold. This causes much excitement.

10—Spicy edition of the Cento. Centos at Caldwell selling at two bits apiece.

11—Snow reigns supreme.

12—Central, 12; State, 28. State receives a cold reception, as it is 10 degrees below zero.

13—Several Caldwell girls given lice-nse to return home for a few days. Catch 'em. Kid.

14—Sunday—that's enough.

15—Joseph Lhevinne gives recital at Caldwell. Great was the music thereof.

16—Economics class makes merry. Ramsey, by involuntary act, brings laughter to the class. Neighbours moove.

17—Cento edited under new staff.

18—Prof. Williams gives surprise test in Economics. Naughty. Of course, it was greatly appreciated. Central, 15; T. U., 40. Revenge is sweet.

19—Pritchard proceeds to complete dressing in Chapel. Shame on you, Pritch!

20—Eighth wonder of the world—John Craig indulges in a game of pool. Honest, he did.

21—Wheeler sisters still in town.

22—Bugle call announces night-shirt parade from Breck Hall. The party march nine times around it, sound the bugle, and then give nine "Rahs" for "Jherico."

23—The date, the significance.

24—Pidgeon flies to Junction City. What may the attraction be?

25—"Gotch" Raworth places "Hackenschmidt" Caldwell on the mat after three minutes and fifteen seconds strenuous wrestling. Scene took place before the Main Building.

26—Dr. Blayney, a fire hero. Baylam conducts the Chapel services. Woe unto all.

- 27—Central, 18; Georgetown, 42. Another calamity. Lassing and Newman inspect the roof of College Home and long is their visit.
- 28—Sunday and inclement weather.
- 29—Dr. Strother gives short talk in Chapel. A peaceful nap enjoyed.
- 30—Bedinger tried on a charge of lunacy in Chamberlain Hall. He was acquitted only out of the sympathy of the Judge.
- 31—Nichols receives a 99 page letter. What may it mean? Burglers loose on the Campus. Great excitement!

FEBRUARY

- 1—Central, 10; State, 50. Aunt Bettie and daughters leave for the sunny South.
- 2—Groundhog sees his shadow. Six more weeks winter weather. Ernst debate a success.
- 3—Dennison, 34; C. U., 22. Game played in the Caldwell Gym.
- 4—H. H. O. conducts Y. M. C. A.
- 5—Mr. Elliott takes up one-half of period with a very charming little speech.
- 6—C. U., 28; Tennessee, 25. Unexpected at last. The umpire the best player. Coleman engaged in a fistic combat.
- 7—Webster starts into tailoring business. Caps and gowns (not night-gowns) ordered.
- 8—Colors in appearance.
- 9—Waps., 25; Cherokees, 28. Such was the score.
- 10—Big game in progress. Be careful.
- 11—Smiley Smith struck with a snow ball. Hat and glasses both removed by the impact. To every action there is an opposite and equal reaction.
- 12—Bispham gives recital at Caldwell.
- 13—Gilcher returns to his position as pianist after a week's absence.
- 14—Subscriptions for Annuals taken.
- 15—Juniors, Waps., 9; Juniors Cherokee, 3. Doyle and Lassing attended the game.
- 16—More doings at Caldwell. Valentine party quite a success.
- 17—Open session at the dancing school. Hits of several kinds made.
- 19—Pool rooms for once free for all students. Cause—rain.
- 20—Cotillion at the Gilcher. Funny face there to trip the light fantastic toe.
- 21—D. K. E. House quarantined.
- 22—George celebrated by a Holiday.
- 23—Boy Scout meeting. Roseberry and other college children wish to join.
- 25—McDowells relate story of camp life to quite a large audience.
- 26—Bedinger's dog ordered to become a non-resident of Breck Hall.
- 27—Prof. Redd outwits Arterberrv in an Breck Hall affair.
- 28—Fagan purchases Peck's second pool table.
- 29—One day only in every four years.

MARCH

- 1—C. U., 31; Transylvania, 30. Another scramble of players. Triangular Hop Club gives dance. It was way out on that top branch, too.
- 2—Juniors, 16; Seniors, 7 (At Caldwell). Raworth, Looney, and Pidgeon attend (?) the "Spring Maid." Snow.
- 3—Jack Johnson still in town.
- 4—Visiting girls receive a rush.
- 5—Exam. schedule announced.
- 6—Mr. Stick relates of a most bloody battle that was fought in the Russo-Japanese War. Dr. Rainey laughs when he prays for everyone's sweethearts.
- 7—Oratorical contest. Doyle and Dyer winners.
- 8—Song books missing from rostrum. Georgetown, 35; Central, 28. Snow again.

THE CARDINAL AND BLUE

1912

- 9—J. W. R. excuses all his classes. A kind deed.
- 10—Study for exams begin.
- 18—Memorable date to the writer.
- 20—Registration day. Grades being gotten by those in doubt.
- 22—Wap.-Cherokee game. For score, look it up.
- 23—Bedinger arrives from North on his special.
- 24—Caldwell attends church in a body. C. U. students do likewise.
- 25—Baseball practice begins in earnest. Dyer and Brownlow seen on street without girls. Account for yourselves.
- 28—Free train to Louisville. Jim Ramsey was extravagant enough to spend fifteen cents. Just think of it.

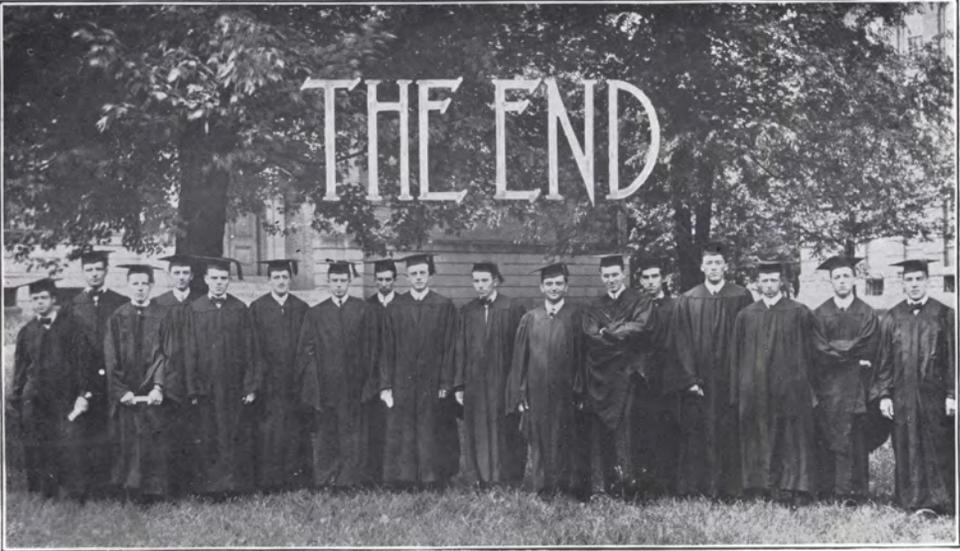

THE DANCE

- 29—Dance at rink. The farewell one. Queen of Carnival chosen. Politics the main issue.
- 30—After effects, as usual.
- 31—Dr. Pence speaks in Chapel. A joker, he is.

APRIL

- 1—Joke or no joke, the Gym. did burn. Fooled or not fooled, were Sory and Hutton? $1.
- 2—Fresh. congregate in D. K. E. Hall, thus causing the Fag Rush to be on.
- 3—Flag Rush. Ruins of Gym. used as a Flag-pole. Salmon makes home run through barbed wire fence.
- 4—Caldwell lets out for Easter. Lassing runs in opposition to Bus.
- 5—Sory goes to all classes—the first time for the year 1912.
- 6—C. U., 8; Dummies, 2—We will win one game, anyhow.
- 8—C. U., 0; Michigan, 14. A track meet.
- 11—Dr. Elliott talked and Mr. Reitz sang (by special request) a solo in Chapel.
- 12—Beer party in Kenney's yard. Who were the culprits? Rain.
- 14—Men's meeting in Courthouse. Doors closed to keep college boys from leaving. Mr. Reitz sings again (by special request).
- 15—Tag day. Prof. Redd tagged by the good looking girls only. Horse Show day, also.
- 16—Lowe gives version of the Titanic disaster to an attentive crowd.
- 17—No game on account of rain.
- 18—Dr. Pearsons addresses the students.
