campus life

The students of Centre College benefit from a rich aeademic heritage spanning the course of 183 years.
With strong foundations and a dedication to higher learning and the principle of religious freedom, Centre remains an open minded community

Centre students meet Ted Koppel during a CentreTerm trip with Dr. McCollough's Holocaust class. seeking to instruct young scholars in the art of critical thinking. This committment to excellence has been challenged this year in a manner unfamiliar to this generation of students, but in no way a stranger to Centre College. Since its inception in 1819, the college has seen the affects of seven different wars upon the psyche of our nation. With its roots stretching to the Revolutionary War era, Centre was occupied by both Confederate and Union troops during the Civil War and used as a training ground for American troops during World War II. Now Centre students face uncertain prospects in a chaotic world. For an instant, the Centre bubble burst. As always, when the unpredictable occurs, we seek that familiarity which provides the most comfort...

And we return to our roots.

ARAMARK provides not only our delicious Cowan cuisine, but, occassionally, also refreshments for campus events.

Alpha Delta Pi

In its second year on Centre's campus, the Eta Omega Chapter of Alpha Delta Pi has a strong foundation of leadership, focused towards fraternal excellence. The chapter took 25 new members, for a total membership of 80 . Philanthropic and service work was a crowning achievement this year. Chapter members devoted more then 700 hours to 20 different projects, including raising more than $$ 8,000$ for Ronald McDonald House. Projects were meaningful and fostered a stronger bond of sisterhood. Leadership around campus is also strong, with membership in nearly every campus organization. Many members hold leadership positions.

The chapter is poised to improve its panhellenic commitment in the coming year and to prosper in the strong future that lies ahead.

Beta Theta  $$

Beta Theta Pi

The 2001-2002 year has been filled with triumph for the members of the Epsilon Chapter of Beta Theta Pi. Triumph because through sheer ambition, the chapter achieved goals unrealized for generations of members.

Leadership developed common goals to unify and motivate members to support needed change. The chapter renovated the house to make it a place of respect and preservation for alumni, present, and future members. Membership recruitment was a great success this year, as the chapter took 13 new pledges for a total membership of 35 . This large class of quality men is committed to the continued improvements ahead for the fraternity. The chapter participated in 15 service projects, including its traditional Haunted House and work on restoration projects for the Boyle County Landmark Trust.

In short, the men of Beta Theta Pi are ready for dynamic change. Dedication is high among brothers to reach their full potential and to prove to the campus and community the many benefits of membershíp in Beta Theta Pi.

Delta Delta Delta

Delta Delta Delta has three major chapter goals: overall chapter education, fulfilling the Delta Delta Delta purpose, and increasing member enthusiasm and participation in philanthropy. The chapter is proud of its strong philanthropic commitments, especially this year's successful Mystery Dinner Theatre to benefit St. Jude's. A donation of $3000 toward this TriDelta national philanthropy is proof of success. Additionally, the chapter grade point average reached a ten year record in the fall of 2001. The chapter's academic success is not at the expense of extensive campus involvement.

The chapter attracted 24 new members for a total membership of 80 . The chapter also staged workshops on a variety of topics, including academic excellence, alcohol awareness, community service, stress management, and goal setting and attainment. Further development of member participation goals and personal commitments to service is a major goal for the upcoming year. High standards of Delta Delta Delta serve as a strong foundation for the Beta Phi Chapter's future successful goal attainment.

Kappa Alpha Theta

The 2001-2002 year was focused on rebuilding areas of previous strength for the Epsilon Eta Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta.
Improvements in campus image have paid off, with recognition and publicity for achievements in service and philanthropic endeavors. The chapter pledged 24 new members, resulting in a chapter membership of 87 . Weekly socials within the chapter house fostered increased sisterhood and chapter unity. Kappa Alpha Theta sponsored philanthropic activities such as the 9/11 Concert for a Cause and the St. Jude's Jingle Bell 5K Run. The chapter participated in eight projects, devoting 177 hours and raising nearly $$ 1,600$. These projects led to improvements in member attendance and enthusiasm for membership in Theta. The chapter is becoming stronger and looks forward to continued achievements in the coming year.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

The Zeta Gamma Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma is proud to report its successful goal achievement for the 2001-2002 year. The chapter pledged 24 new members, achieving a total membership of 83 . Exciting new philanthropic projects were often collaborations with other chapters, evoking renewed enthusiasm among members for service. The chapter sponsored or participated in 13 projects, including the March of Dimes Bluejeans for Babies project and the Penny War for Cancer. Organizing a new event participation structure allowed members increased time management and freedom to choose events of greatest interest to them. These events included educational programs in alcohol awareness, alumnae relations, and moral principles and conduct. Increased involvement of faculty and staff have helped to strengthen member education and achievement. Building on the existing talents of members, the chapter is confident in continued achievements that reflect the ideals of Kappa Kappa Gamma and its sisters.

Phi Delta Theta

The past year for KY Alpha-Delta has been a stepping-stone as well as an eye opener. A successful recruitment period provided a solid and quality new member class, committed to campus and chapter leadership. Fourteen men pledged, bringing chapter membership to 47 . The chapter's new Parents' Cookout was a huge success, providing positive interaction between members, parents, and alumni. This year marks the 25th anniversary of the annual "Run to Louisville" to benefit the Cerebral Palsy School of Louisville. The chapter's 2001-2002 donation was just shy of $$ 20,000$. Increases in volunteer activities helped to balance an equally important community service effort. All told, brothers of Phi Delta Theta supported 18 different service projects during the year.

Overall campus involvement by members is increasing and will continue in the coming year to benefit both members and the strength of the collective chapter. With attention to these details, foresight, and a positive attitude, the chapter is committed to reaching and surpassing its goals.

Phi Kappa Tau

While there have been many accomplishments for the Delta Chapter of Phi Kappa Tau this year, the brotherhood and sense of fraternal pride is thought to be the greatest achievement by members. Being recognized as one of the premier chapters within the North American Interfraternity Conference and having received the Phi Kappa Tau Roland P. Maxwell Outstanding Chapter Award is a deeply humbling experience. Despite these and other achievements, the chapter works diligently to foster stronger brotherhood and an improving campus and national reputation. The chapter is especially proud of its increased philanthropic donations to the Phi Kappa Tau national philanthropy, The Hole in the Wall Gang for terminally ill children. The chapter participated in a total of ten service projects during the year. Member recruitment was also a source of pride. The chapter pledged 13 new members, reaching a total chapter membership of 51 . This new member class is steeped in campus involvement ranging from student government to varsity sports and service organizations.

Key areas for further development include alumni relations. The chapter will enter into communication with alumni of all ages in the coming year to determine the most effective alumni relations program possible. On an interfraternal level, Phi Kappa Tau desires to increase member interest and respect of fellow Greek organizations at Centre. Finally, the chapter remains academically strong but desires to develop a structured incentive-based program to individually support scholastic efforts of members. The Delta Chapter of Phi Kappa Tau will continue reaching for new successes in fraternal excellence and an even stronger brotherhood.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Kentucky Kappa of Sigma Alpha Epsilon continues to make great strides in the development of its chapter. Financial management improvements are due to increased member dues collection. This provided the opportunity to expand chapter activities beyond previous abilities. The chapter's annual Homecoming Reception was expanded to further honor alumni in attendance. Additionally, incentive based scholarship programs were implemented to encourage improved individual scholarship. This program was so successful that additional incentives in the form of dues discounts will be implemented in the coming year.

The chapter had a successful recruitment effort, attracting 12 new pledges and reaching 50 total members. SAE also participated in ten service projects, including its long-running sponsorship of Project Winterize and campus blood drives.

sigma $C h_{i}$

Sigma Chi

The Zeta Zeta Chapter of Sigma Chi has advanced by leaps and bounds in this past year. The chapter has since proven itself capable of continued recognition through improvements in facility management, scholarship programming, and risk management policies.

Continued growth is a must for the chapter, especially as leaders seek to review and further define chapter operations as they relate to risk management and member education. The chapter took ten new pledges, for a total of 50 chapter members. The chapter continued to work on developing more philanthropic and service projects. For example, early improvements to Derby Days provided an increased philanthropic donation of $$ 500$ to the Indian Summer Camp, the national philanthropy of Sigma Chi. Chapter leaders are eager to continue the positive improvements made this year

Delta Kappa Epsilon

Delta Kappa Epsilon's Iota chapter found the 2001-2002 year to be a great challenge, but not without success in key areas. The chapter took seven new pledges for a total membership of 33 . Increased community service unified the chapter in unforeseen ways. The chapter devoted more than 300 hours to 18 service projects, including the Jingle Bell 5K Run and the Jennie Rogers Elementary School after-school program Additionally, new furnishings to the chapter basement were purchased to deter damages to the facility. Proper documentation of chapter activities through the Office of Greek Affairs has increased, providing evidence of service commitment and philanthropic donations.

Despite this progress, a great deal of work remains to be done. The creation of an alumni advisory board is key to supporting the chapter and guiding the chapter towards a positive campus identity.
