(Poetic) Preface

Here is a bingle and jingle of junk which we hope, gentle reader, will do—to bring back to our minds old faces, old times, when we these pages review; for in days far away when our hair's growing gray, we'll turn to the "Cardinal and Blue." Your applause we would ask, if you like our fair book; if not, then just let it be.—But remember ye Junior, ye Sophomore, ye "Fresh," that the task will soon fall upon thee.

The editors wish here to express their deep appreciation for the decorating contributions so cheerfully given by Leonard J. Turly.

BRECKINRIDGE HALL

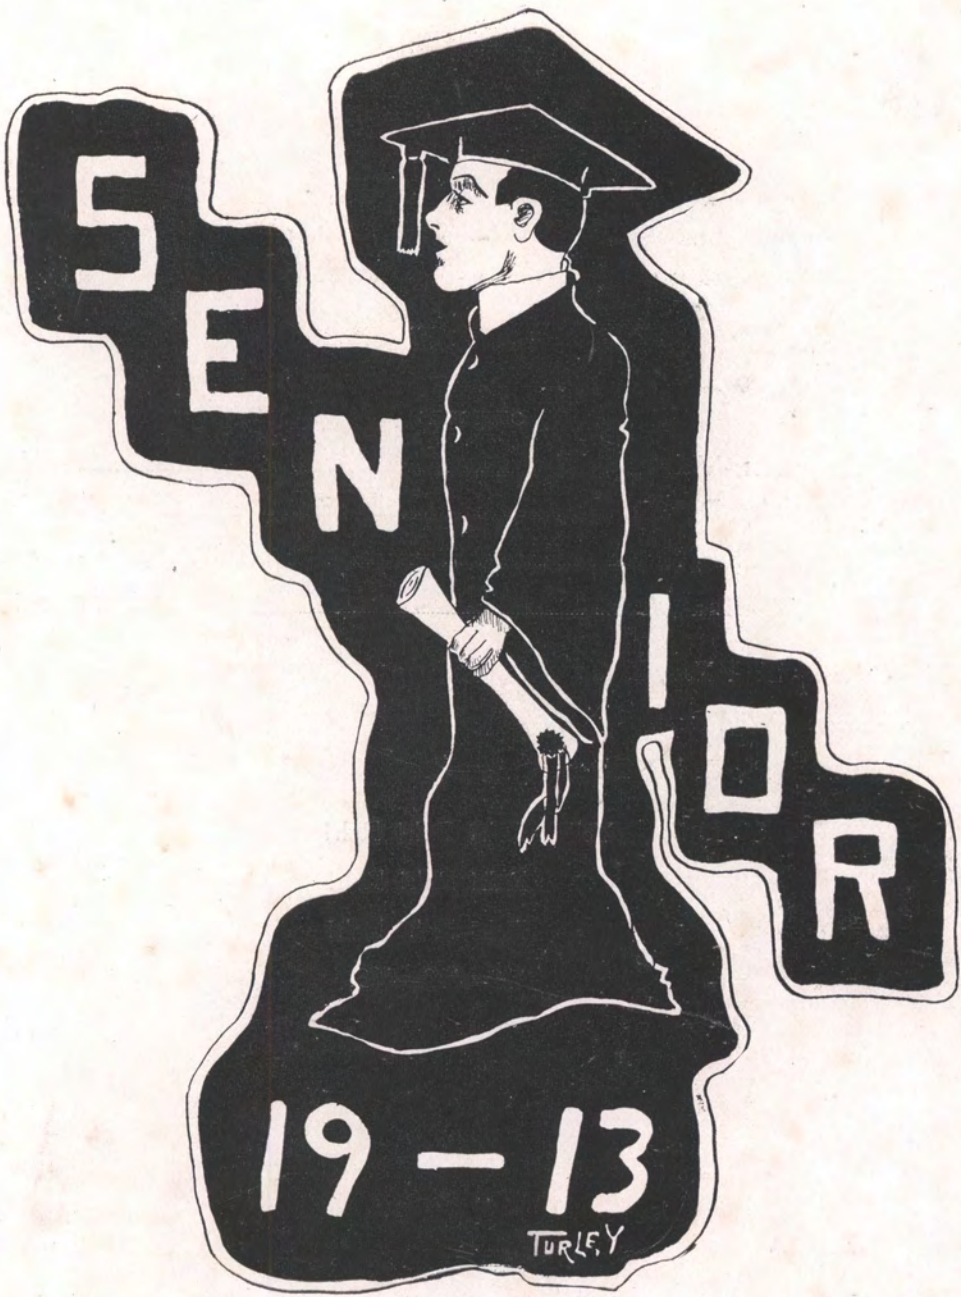

Though the days of our college are over,
And the stars of our youth have declined,
Fond memories of times at Old Central
Will ever be fresh in the mind.

When the hours grow dark and grow gloomy,
When the sorrows of life flood our soul,
Sensations of sweet reminiscence
Will brighten the way toward the goal.

When the victories in business surround us,
And the comforts of wealth we enjoy,
Even then our hearts will re-echo:
"To be once again but a boy!"

Then when happiness crowns all our efforts,
And we sit with a child on our knee,
And tell him of life's greatest blessing,
It will ever be, Central, of thee.

Even now as we pause on the threshold,
Comes the thought that the old saying's true;
That the days of achievement are sadder
Than those with the prospect in view.

LUCIUS LEHMAN CLARK, ΣAE
 Memphis, Tenn.

Born January 24, 1891, at Columbia, Tenn. Preparatory training at Columbia Military Academy; entered Centre College, '09; Varsity Track Team, '10-'11-'12; Varsity Football, '10-'11-'12; Captain Varsity Football, '12; Varsity Baseball, '12; Editor-in-Chief Cardinal and Blue; Fragerica, '12; Ye Rounde Table, '12; Class Salutatorian.

Expects to be a Philanthropist.

"And forthwith came the Rosy-fingered down,"

His hair is red,
 His eyes are blue,
 And books worth a dollar,
 He sells for two.

"Lusch" is the guy that put the "dough" in doughnuts, and all of us have generously contributed to the cause. He can sell more books in five minutes than "Hick" can give zeroes in a week. The only way you can get ahead of him is to find someone with a second-hand book, or to buy one in partnership with someone else. But there is one thing for which he deserves the praise of every loyal Centre man; he is the only one in captivity that ever beat Johnny Redd at his own game.

SAMUEL FRANCIS COX
Trenton, Ky.

Born February 3, 1896, at Trenton, Ky. Preparatory training at Trenton High School. Kentucky Wesleyan College, '10-'11, '11-'12; Entered Senior Class, Centre College, 1912; Secretary, Chamberlain Literary Society, '12, and President, 1913; Represented Chamberlain Literary Society in Oratorical Contest, '13; Secretary, Crucible Club; German Club; "Ye Rounde Table," Assistant in Chemistry; Class Poet; Life work undecided.

"A youth of labor with an age of ease."

This, gentle or rough reader, is our prodigy. Until he entered our midst last fall we all had sort of an idea that we were students. But these ideas soon suffered the fate of Humpty-Dumpty—the one that sat on the wall. He hasn't been here long enough for us to discover all his faults, or probably we could write at some length. As it is, the worst thing we know of him is that he stays out at night and carries matches.

CROMWELL ADAIR DYER, BØII
Corsicana, Texas.

Born February 5, 1892, at Morganfield, Ky. Prepared at Louisville Male High School; President of Chamberlain Literary Society, '12-13; Represented Chamberlain in Oratorical Contest, '12; Ernst Debate, '13; Associate Editor of Cardinal and Blue; "Ye Rounde Table"; Historian Senior Class. Expects to study Law.

"A youth to fortune and to fame unknown."

Our sole representative from the "Lone Star" state, the celebrated "Psyche" from Corsicana. The most astonishing thing about "Cad" is that, as a senior, he's a more frequent and enthusiastic visitor at Caldwell than he was in his freshman days. To tell the real truth about the matter, this is the first time he has actually gone "luny" about the place or any of its fair inhabitants. But pity 'tis, 'tis true now. The turkey trot is his favorite step which he executes in conjunction with the "Texas Tommy," producing a joint movement of feet and ears which no one else here has been able to master.

WILLIAM BARNETT GUERRANT, ΦΔΘ
Danville, Ky.

Born February 2, 1892, at Danville, Ky. Prepared at Centre College Academy; entered Centre College, '09; Winner of Sophomore Latin Watch, '11; President of Deinlogian, '12; Cento Staff, '10-'11-'12; "Ye Rounde Table," '12; Fragerica, '12; Junior Scholarship; President of Y. M. C. A., '12-'13; Vice-President, Senior Class; Football Manager-elect, '13; Class Giftorian.

Expects to study for the ministry.

"What can I do to be forever known,
And make the age to come my own?"

A true lover of the children of men and an adorer of the fair sex. He tried operating College Home until they seized him one dark night and made him eat one of the biscuits he fed 'em, and also convinced him that man couldn't live on bread alone. Tho president of the Y. M. C. A. he frequently horrifies his fellow-classmen by proposing wet banquets and suggesting actions more unbecoming the dignity of the class than are freshman green socks or sophomore dissipations. Oh you Pearl!

ARTHUR ROGERS GINN, KA
Ashland, Ky.

Born December 15, 1889, at Coal Grove, Ohio. Prepared at Ashland High School; Fragerica; "Ye Rounde Table"; Treasurer of Freshman Class; Historian of Junior Class; Chairman of Carnival Committee, '13; Manager of Football Team, '12; Winner of Ernst Debate, '12; Cento Staff, '12-'13; Business Manager of Cardinal and Blue; Class Grumbler.

Expects to study Law.

"Yet a little sleep and a little slumber and a little folding of the hands to sleep."

The football team of 1912 would probably have gained greater glory had they not been overfed while on the trips. Why, the parsimoniousness of this manager made the men often uncomfortable (?). His worst fault, tho, was scheduling games for rainy days and letting trains run late. Along about the ninth hour of the day you can often see him wending his weary way toward college for an 8:15 class. To his adroit and persuasive tongue, our senior vacation—more or less—is due.

GEORGE DUNLAP HOPPER, KA
Stanford, Ky.

Born July 13, 1889 at Stanford, Ky. Prepared at Stanford High School; entered Sophomore Class, '10; Sophomore football team, '10; treasurer Deinologian, '11; President Deinologian, '13; President Athletic Association, '11-'12; College Orchestra and Quartette, '10-'13; winner of 22nd Oratorical Contest and Ernst Debate, '13; Business Manager of Cento, '11-'13; "Ye Rounde Table"; Class Orator; KΔΣ.

Expects to study Law.

"I am monarch of all I survey."

It's the common belief that when "Hop," or "Deacon," was elected president of the Athletic Association a couple of years ago, that he mistook his position and thought it was the presidency of the college to which he had been called. He toots a horn in the orchestra and also toots that of the Cento. His sudden development of those strange powers of speech wrecked the aspirations of state-wide celebrated orators. From the bar he will probably go to the House; but, as the colonel says, there are many kinds of bars and many different houses. A Caldwellite of the first magnitude.

PHILIP PIDGEON, JR., ΔKE
 Memphis, Tennessee.

Born June 4, 1891 at Memphis, Tenn. Prepared at Memphis University School and Phillips Academy (Andover); entered Centre College, '09; President Freshman Class; Varsity football team, '09-'10-'11; Captain Varsity football team, '12 (resigned); Track team, '09-'10-'11; Student Council, '10-'11; Manager Track Team, '13; Assistant Editor-in-Chief Cardinal and Blue; King of Carnival, '13; ΚΔΣ.

Expects to go in business.

"To live and die is all we have to do."

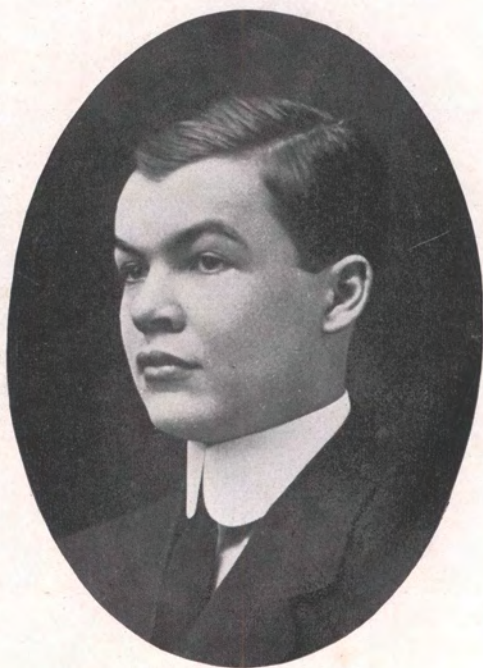

He inspired Uncle Remus to write that tender tale about Br'r Pidgeon and Br'r (Siste') Fox; that story so teeming with pathos, yet tempered with mirth. You know,— where Br'r Pidgeon and Fox met one fair day and together went along a (un)certain, mysterious path in Cupid's realms, all the while an invisible tie linking one to the other; and how after many days that tie loosened and Br'r Pidgeon flew one way while the Fox merrily ambled off another.

"Squab" was a bird on the gridiron, and over the 220 track he seemed to fly. But here our figure stops, for when he sings, alas! "Bird thou never wert!"

THOMAS TAYLOR PRICHARD, KA
Paris, Ky.

Born May 5, 1894 at Huntington, West Virginia; prepared at Threlkeld Select School, Millersburg Military Institute and Asheville Military Academy; entered Centre College, '09; Class Football, '11; Class baseball, '11; Class Basket Ball, '11.

Expects to study Law.

"Then he will talk, ye gods, how he will talk!"

Brother to the notorious "Big Pritch." Rumors as to his resignation from college have been numerous during these four years, but he's still here because—well, because he's here. He can give you more dope on athletics than the sporting editor of a newspaper, and it's pretty good press dope at that—but it doesn't cost the cent. Not exactly a "fusser," although he frequently does escort two or three ladies to a dance or a game. Class pugilist and flag-rush hero.

HARRY NEWTON RAWORTH, ΔKE
Vicksburg, Miss.

Born November 9, 1890 at Vicksburg, Miss. Prepared at Vicksburg High School and Chamberlain Hunt Academy; entered Centre College, '09; Class football team, '10; Class Basket Ball Team, '11; Captain and Manager Class Baseball Team, '11; Secretary Deinologian Literary Society, '11-'12; Varsity Baseball Team, '12; Varsity Track Team, '12; Treasurer Deinologian Literary Society, '13; President of Senior Class; Manager Basket Ball Team, '13; Associate Editor of Cardinal and Blue; ΚΔΣ.

Expects to be a Layman.

"Had I been present at the creation I would have given some useful hints for the better ordering of the universe."

"Ruffs" are hard to find. In this part of the land there's but one. Perhaps others run wild down on the levee in old Mississippi. Yes, he hails from the southern, sun-kissed soil—from "Vicksboirg," the great, grand city of the South—to hear him tell it. As an outfielder his sensational catches often startle the spectators, but hitting "Koives" perplexes him. To the girls he gives little heed; and like the hero of a certain Shakespearean poem, the course of true love always runs "Ruff."

GEORGE WELSH RUE, ΣΧ
Danville, Ky.

Born July 5, 1893 at Danville, Ky. Prepared at Centre College Academy; entered Centre College, '09; Treasurer of Carnival Committee, '13; Secretary-Treasurer of Senior Class, ΚΔΣ.

Expects to study Agriculture.

"On with the dance, let joy be unconfined."

And in the meantime "contribute to the cause" or "rake out the rocks." Yes, "Rax" is the one real permanent promoter of dances, and to him is due the pleasure of many a gay and merry night. He buys the Sunday papers to cut out clippings bearing upon economic problems, or perhaps an article arguing against the theory that fish was the food of the Greek gods.—Thus his diploma. He recommends Bull Durham to all undergraduates.

Senior History

"College Days" are but four short years. As far as the class of '13 is concerned we are about to reach the terminal, and each of us is destined to go forth and seek, after his own method, whatever fortunes life hath in store for him. Yet this brief period of time we have spent happily together at Central and in Danville. As we proceed thru life we may often look back on a full and almost unbroken series of pleasant memories, far greater than can possibly be chronicled here.

In the year 1909 the Class of '13 entered Central as Freshmen, nearly fifty strong. There were among us students, athletes, good fellows, and in fact all those rare combinations of characteristics typical of high school graduates, and in a more highly developed form, typical of the college man. Very naturally, the first events of importance to which we were parties had to do with hazing, to which we were forced to submit to the hands of the lordly Sophomores. According to the time-honored custom we were led in a body to the main corner of Danville, our trousers rolled up to our knees, and our apparel otherwise distorted. Here we "scrambled like eggs," "rose up high like trees," and ran the gauntlet in a way to be expected from so promising a crowd of youngsters. Thence we proceeded to Caldwell where we sang to the ladies love ballads of our own or of borrowed composition, to the accompaniment of hickory paddles and unharmonious commands.

As soon as we realized that we "were and of right ought to be free and independent," we held a class meeting and Phil Pidgeon, of Memphis, Tennessee, became President of the Freshman Class. Following this we rapidly rose into prominence. Bill Seelbach, Pidgeon, Bright, Clark, Jones and Simrall became a bulwark of strength to the football eleven. Four of this number were among those who represented Central in the hard-fought Thanksgiving game against State. Wardle was a member of the champion southern intercollegiate basket ball team, while we were represented on the baseball team by Seelbach, Tolin and Waller. And oh yes, the flag rush.

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

Alas! On that April dawn on which this terrible struggle "tween man and man" seemed destined to take place, a crowd of hungry and tired Sophomores sat quietly in the tower of Breckinridge Hall, their bridges burned behind them, an expression of relief on their faces, relief that they were assured safety from the Freshmen whose superiority they had learned to appreciate. Underneath stood the Freshmen, eager for battle, angry and jealous lest the police and fire department rob them of their just dues.

In the fall of 1910, we returned for our Sophomore year, fewer in numbers, but greater in wisdom and knowledge. The Sophomore class of 1910-11 took the same athletic honors they had taken the previous year as Freshmen. At the beginning of the college year they took upon themselves the duty of establishing the Freshmen in their humble position in college life, of introducing them to the paddle, to high-cultured humor, to whosoever the citizens of Danville could muster the heart to gaze upon them in their plight, and last but not least to the fair inmates of Caldwell. The flag rush we lost. But who shall criticize him who does his best? For three long hours we struggled against the overwhelming odds of numbers, and the end did not come until each Sophomore was so tightly bound that he could participate no further. In both football and baseball we scored victories over the Freshmen. On account of an aptitude for business Clark and Mack were chosen to become the first proprietors of the college book-store. When Mack left us for Princeton, the following year, the entire control fell to Lucius, who has remained in the business during the remainder of his college career.

The Junior year is indeed a pleasant period. With two years of study accomplished the Junior has acquired the distinction of an upper-classman. The toilsome required subjects are for the most part behind him and he is permitted to choose his courses from the wide and varied selections of electives. He views the struggles between the Freshmen and the Sophomores from the sidelines and offers such criticisms as he deems fit. He has formed his friendships and associations in college and in town and now settles down to enjoy these. Do the men who leave college before they arrive at this period ever realize how much they have missed?

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

The class of 1913 as Juniors, thoroughly enjoyed all these privileges. Each member became identified with some line of college activity; tho we were only fourteen in all, many even rose to prominence. The annexation of Hopper had taken place in the Sophomore year. Now Hopper became president of the Athletic Association and business manager of the "Cento." Clark and Pidgeon were among the foremost members of the football eleven, while Ginn became an Ernst Debate winner, Raworth a member of the baseball team and Trimble was a member of the Carnival Committee.

Thus it is that the members of the class of '13 have progressed thru Centre College until they have reached the Senior year, which is even now drawing to its close. We may yearn to hurry forth and participate in the struggles of life. We may look upon these seriously, dubiously. Nevertheless we are all loath to leave Danville and our Alma Mater. As must be invariably the case, only a small minority of the old guard remains to become graduates of the institution. It would be our sincere desire that all could still be with us and receive their diplomas in June. They are our firm friends and have been our classmates. Wherever they may be and in whatever direction they are exerting their efforts, we wish them the greatest success.

As Seniors we have not grown lax. Tate and Hopper have been Editor and Business Manager of the "Cento." Ginn and Rue have exercised supervision over the Carnival. Hopper, Ginn and Guerrant have made their marks as orators and debaters. Raworth has been the President of the Senior class. But what need to continue further, when the events and honors of this year are so familiar to all? The point is reached where the jurisdiction of the historian ceases. If there is anything of the past left unsaid, or wrongly said, let the grumbler tell of it on Class Day. If anything of the future is to be said it is for the prophet to tell us how we shall spend our futures, and how dearly we shall cling to the beloved memories of "College Days" and "Old Centre."

Junior Class

Junior History

In a recent sketch published now some three years ago, there appeared for the first time in print, some brief records of a now famous conclave, known as the class of one thousand nine hundred and fourteen A. D. The sketch here mentioned took as its material a certain document written in Greek, or rather a translation of the same, the original record having been preserved from the pen of one whose surname was Redd, the first name being now erased from the Greek record. However, some interesting facts have come to light thru the study of the writings of his collaborators, and as I take this late sketch as the source of part of my material, it is my hope that in the light of recent discoveries, it may be possible to augment the late work.

The chief items of interest in the document which I take as my basis were that "Tobe" White, "Tubby" Wingo and "Babe" Bruce attained distinction in athletics, besides a few other items of a more general nature. To this list we may add a few names, for it has later been discovered that many other members of the distinguished conclave were athletes of wide reputation and unusual ability. As most prominent among the athletes on this list we may mention, Coleman, Fleming, Swope, Lassing, Ramsey and Newman—they might be mentioned to an infinite number but space prohibits the further enumeration.

Now let us turn from an aspect of more or less military nature to get a slight view of things political. The first brave pilot to take the helm and launch out into the sea of college life was C. W. Lassing, whose presidential term was marked by the favorable outcome of the 1911 flag-rush.

At the expiration of Lassing's term in office, Hunter Coleman was elected to succeed him. In May of the year 1912 Coleman became not only a President but a King, and as such was crowned King of the Carnival in presence of the people.

However, his reign was only for a night, for a republican form of government was promptly re-established, Coleman remaining President until he was succeeded in 1913 by a most able statesman, James T. Norris. As to the conduct of this gentleman in office little has yet come to light.

Throughout the whole history of the class it has always been on the spot promptly. The records give us to understand that among their number were men of the all-round type who combined literary with athletics, and even social ability. In fact there are recorded authentic cases in which men of this class performed feats which gained for them wide reputation as "fussers" and devotees of the parlor, but much to our regret circumstances forbid the reprint of their names.

There can, of a surety, be no doubt that, when the light of historical notice is cast upon this exemplary crowd, an untold store of distinguishing and praiseworthy traits will be brought out from their obscurity in the realms of forgotten lore, and duly placed in the spotlight of popular discussion.

M. S. McDOWELL.

Sophomore Class

Sophomore History

Now in the fall of nineteen hundred and eleven when the vacation days were drawing to their close, and "school-time" was fast approaching, there was great speculation among the upper classmen of Old Centre as to what manner of class the in-coming Freshmen were going to furnish to the college, and owing to the great number in the Freshman Class of the preceding year, it was the general opinion that the incoming Class of Fifteen must either be strong in numbers or in the possession of an extraordinary amount of courage and resourcefulness. Perhaps it was because of the fact that Fifteen did not realize its possession of these characteristics, that its members were somewhat disappointed in the number answering to their first roll-call. However these latent strengths of character appeared when Fifteen passively submitted to the numerous indignities heaped upon them by their oppressors, and calmly awaited their time when their courage and resourcefulness should counterbalance the numbers of the Sophomores.

An opportunity soon arrived and Fifteen immediately took advantage of it by decisively defeating the Class of Fourteen in a well-played football game. As a result of this victory, Fifteen was, as it were, admitted into the fellowship of the classes, and her members were no longer addressed as "Freshmen," but as "Fellows." Fifteen was now well on its way toward gaining a complete recompense for the insults which she had received at the first of the year, and that judgment, which had been one of her chief characteristics from the first, now displayed itself in Fifteen's being ever on the alert, as spring approached, for any move on the part of the Sophomores toward a flag-rush. Nevertheless, we were caught unprepared, though not unsuspecting, and we therefore entered into the flag-rush somewhat handicapped by want of preparation, and by our few numbers. And though success through the many and various vicissitudes of the fortune of that night changed constantly from one side to the other, yet victory was finally established firmly upon the banners of Fifteen, and the flag rush was won.

And indeed, lest you think this history to be a record of the struggles for mastery between the lower classes, I must state that Fifteen, in equally as great proportion as were her sister classes, was represented in every department of student activity. In athletic, social, fraternity, literary, and scholastic circles, Fifteen had at all times her full quota of energetic and capable men.

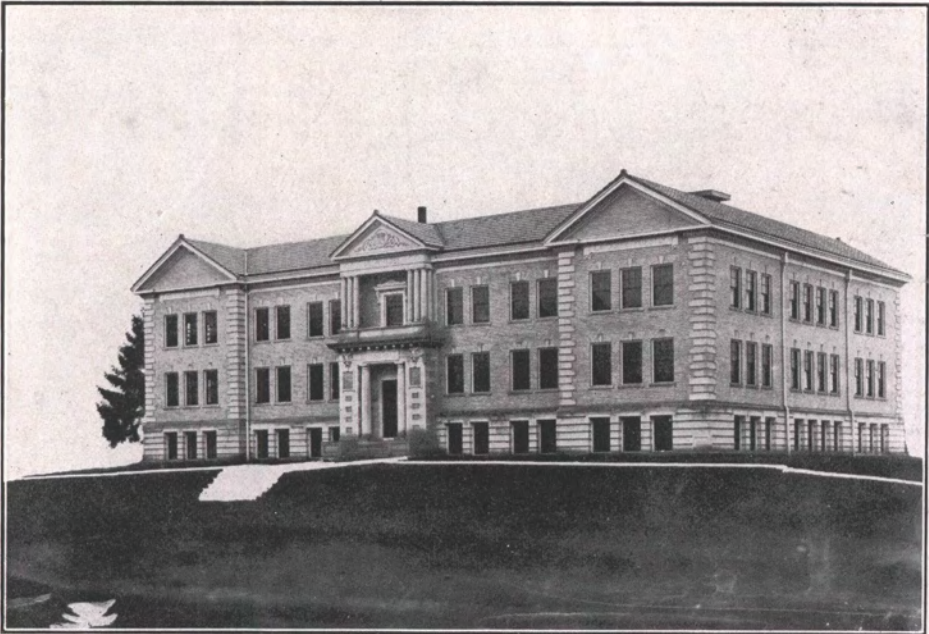

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

Now already some of you are smiling and saying to yourselves, "My, but that must be a terribly egotistical class. One hears of nothing but 'Fifteen,' her glories, her achievements, her honors and her victories." But I think that if you pause to reflect, you will realize that this is but the outpouring of the exuberance and impetuous spirit characteristic of those Freshman days which are not so far behind us, and that this story has so far related the deeds done in that year by a body of fellows far less dignified than the present assembly of Sophomores.

When vacation days were over, Fifteen returned to school, sadly depleted in numbers, it is true, but still with a determination not merely to maintain but to raise that high standard of quality in all branches which she had set the year before. Now early in the year there was an opportunity for Fifteen to display her worth, for there arose in the Freshman Class an element opposition to the time-honored traditions and practices of the first part of the year. This was dealt with judiciously by Fifteen and the upper classmen, and everything was soon put in complete order. Then Fifteen settled herself down quietly to the pursuit of knowledge, and so diligent was her search and so thorough was her undertaking, that it came to pass that smiles of joy appeared upon the faces of the faculty members whenever a member of Fifteen approached, for well did he know that that youth had been diligently pursuing the elusive and mysterious "x," or bringing the writings of one Mr. Cicero down to date in a thorough and satisfactory manner.

Now this peaceful and profitable condition of affairs was rudely broken into by the impetuosity of the Freshmen in wanting a flag-rush in chilly February. Nothing came of this, but about a month later Fifteen, outnumbered two to one, began with the utmost secrecy to make preparations for the rush. The days went slowly by, the appointed night arrived, and the well-laid plans were carried into execution. Everything went off with perfect success, the Freshmen were securely tied the night before the rush began. In the morning there came a few doughty Freshmen, but they were soon vanquished and Fifteen had won her second flag-rush, a record which future classes will find it hard to equal, and one which already redounds greatly to the glory of Fifteen.

Freshman Class

Freshman History

September came to Danville, and with it a hundred or more students eager to enter their college work. About thirty of this bunch were easily distinguished from the rest. They seemed lost and knew not where to go, but thanks to the upperclassmen, they were established in their quarters, and were soon hanging around "Peck's" as though they had always been "Centre" men.

But a meeting of the Sophomores, a notice on the front door of "Breck," and the entire Freshman class turned out in front of Main Building. Old high school sweaters, last summer's trousers, caps of all sorts and sizes, were the latest from Paris. And then the recent high school "grads" lost all their dignity and were humbled in sight of the whole town. It was the same old story with possibly some slight exceptions—the same old songs, with speeches of lovelorn studes to some interested passer-by, and the gauntlet. But this passed by and became history.

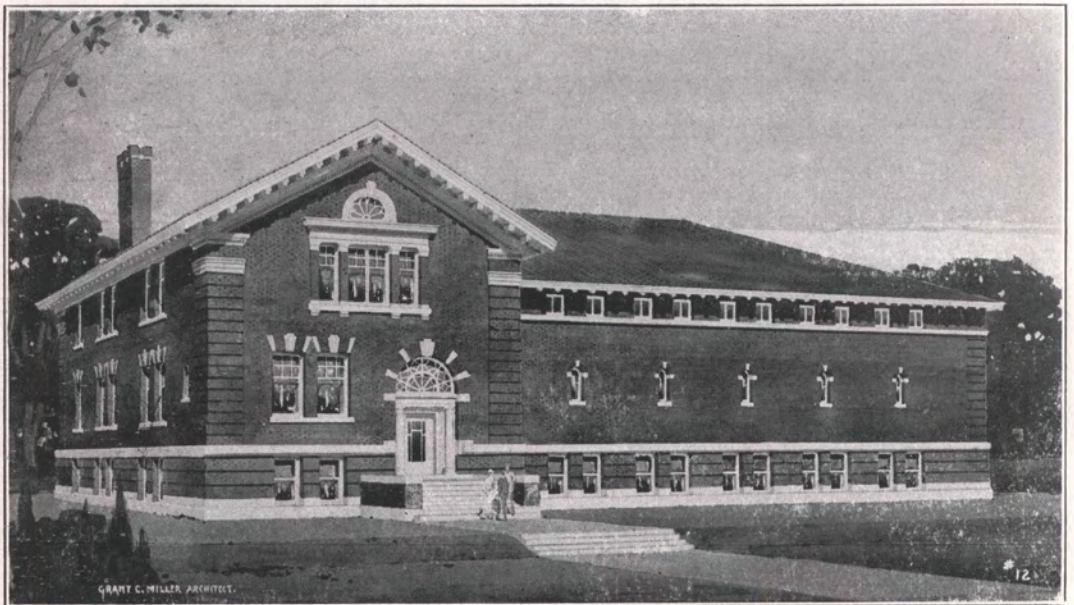

Soon the class was organized and Jake Bethurum, of Somerset, was elected president. Things ran smoothly until Hallowe'en, and then another initiation destroyed all evidence of freshness among the Class of '16.

The football prospects were not of the best and about ten Freshmen turned out for the team, five of whom secured positions on the 'varsity and played stellar roles. Again in basket ball the Freshmen were represented by two men who put up a game well worth the praise of "Centre."

But a quick change of the scene. Time: 2 o'clock, A. M., March 14th. Knocks on their doors brought the Freshmen out of their beds, and before they realized what was taking place they were bound hand and foot. The flag rush was on! and by the well-planned strategy of the Sophomores the Freshmen were stored away, with the exception of five or six, who, though putting up a valiant fight, were defeated by the superior knowledge of the game. At 7 A. M. the flag of '15 hung from the tree.

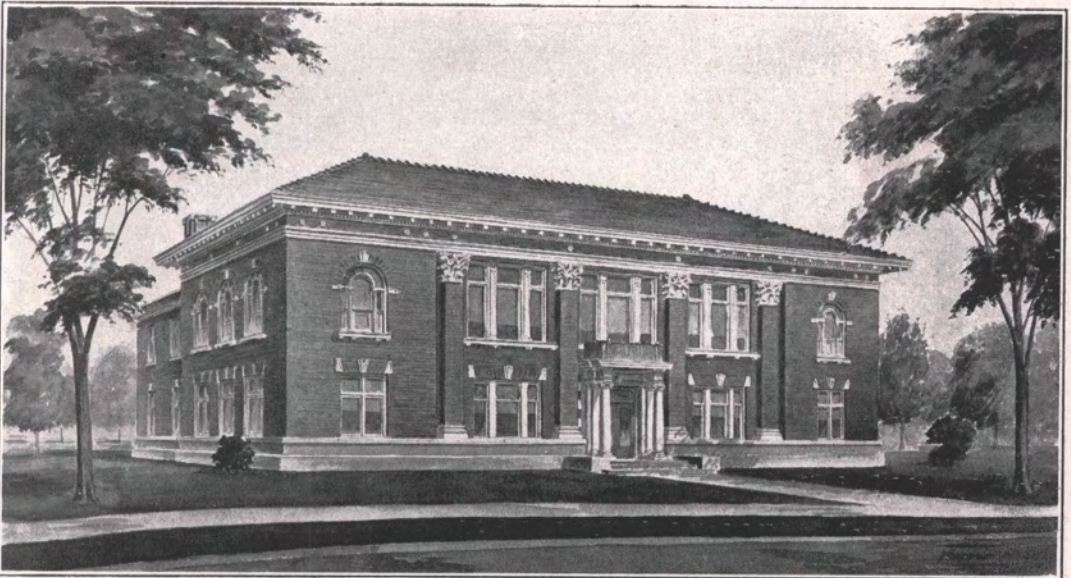

Another election resulted in Leslie Brown, of Evansville, being elected president. Now as we close the pages of our first year of college, let us give three cheers for Brown and Bethurum and for the Class of '16.

Young Men's Christian Association

In 1878 here at Danville was formed one of the earliest student Young Men's Christian Associations in the South. This was followed a few years later by a similar organization at old Central University at Richmond. Splendid work was done by both, until the two were brought together by the consolidation of the two colleges in 1901. Since that time the association has occupied an important place in college activities.

The fall of 1912 showed more interest than usual. About forty students became members, and the chapel period was lengthened fifteen minutes on Wednesdays and was given by the faculty as the time for the weekly meetings. This arrangement has worked admirably as it makes a convenient time for all the students, and a marked increase in attendance has been the result. The programs of these meetings have been varied and interesting. Some of the addresses of a religious nature were: "Y. M. C. A. Secretaryship as a Life Work," by Prof. Acheson, '98; "Some Applications of Physics to Religion," by Dr. Smith; "The Translations of the Bible," by Dr. Thomas; "Purpose," by Dr. Cook; "The David-Absalom Story," by Boggs, '15; "Acknowledge God," by Benika, '16; "The Creation," by Prof. Cheek; "The Old World of Yesterday, The New of To-day," by Rev. Saddler; "Y. M. C. A. in Kentucky," by Mr. Terrill and Dr. Clark. Rev. Cary R. Blaine, of Houstonville, Ky., and Dr. Hamilton, of Lynchburg, Va., also gave excellent addresses. Dr. Hugh T. Kerr, of Chicago, was with us for a few days during February. His private conferences with small groups of students, together with his talks at chapel, were of much benefit to many. Some of the addresses dealing with college activity were: "Why is the Cento," by R. S. Tate, '13; "The Place of the Literary Society in the College," by C. A. Dyer, '13; "Clean Athletics," by Dr. Rainey; "College Spirit," by Norris, '14; "Athletic Teams," by Coach O'Brien. At a number of the meetings the Y. M. C. A. Quartette added much to the program.

The Bible classes in connection with the Sunday Schools have been well attended. The basket ball league organized by them was the cause of much friendly rivalry. Dr. Flippin has had a class in the study of Dr. Weatherford's "Present Forces in Negro Progress."

The prospect is exceptionally bright for the coming year when we expect to have permanent Y. M. C. A. quarters in the new gymnasium.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the Organization is the study of Chemical Science, both theoretical and practical, and aims to increase interest in modern applied chemistry by the study and discussion of available literature. Meetings are held every two weeks.

Biographical sketches and journal reports on topics of current interest constitute a part of the program. Symposiums are held at intervals, at which one important subject is discussed in its different phases by various members. Such topics as the "White Lead Industry," "The Manufacture, Uses and Properties of Chloroform" have been discussed. Lectures, illustrated by stereopticon views, and exhibits furnished by manufacturers, have been presented. The Organization has been unusually successful in its first year's work.

Chamberlain History

"Quality and not Quantity" is our motto and with this carried into effect we have accomplished splendid results during the past year. In making this brief history, let us look back over the eighty-five years of its existence, since its birth in 1828, and see what the Chamberlain Literary Society has accomplished.

Several hundred alumni of Centre College are former members of Chamberlain. These men have elected many different professions, but in every location we may investigate, we find Chamberlain men who have crowned themselves with success. On looking over the society records we find the late Justice John M. Harlan, of the Supreme Court, on a debate. We notice Adlai Stephenson, a former Vice President of the United States, written down for a declamation. Great men have been enthusiastic members of Chamberlain. Chamberlain helped them to become great.

This year the society is well organized and is doing splendid work. Chamberlain was represented in the Ernst Debate by Messrs. Swope, Dyer and Norris. Mr. Swope was one of the winners, and with Messrs. Guerrant and Hopper, of our sister society, compose Centre's debating team. The decision, which was a 2 to 1 decision, went to Deinologian. In the Twenty-second Oratorical of this year, Chamberlain was represented by Messrs. Swope and Cox. The June Oratorical of last year was won by Mr. Swope, the decision being unanimous.

May the future years of its work be as successful and prosperous as the years that have passed.

Deinlogian History

"Still achieving, still pursuing," Deinlogian began the seventy-eighth year of her history last September and while this year has not been set off from the others by any unusual achievements, yet it fits in very well with the three quarters of a century that has preceded it. The total enrollment of the society is about twenty-five, which, when considering the number of students in college, is a very good enrollment.

During the past year of 1912 Deinlogian has got her share of the various contests and in every case has been represented by competent orators and debaters. In the twenty-second contest Mr. Doyle won the medal. In the Ernst Debate the society, represented by Messrs. Ginn, Thompson and Webster won the decision of the judges although Mr. Ginn alone won a place on the intercollegiate team, the other two places being given to Deinlogian's sister society, Chamberlain. The June Oratorical Contest was lost to Chamberlain.

So far this year only one contest has been held. This was the annual 22nd oratorical contest held in February. In this Deinlogian won both first and second place, being represented by Messrs. Hopper, '13, and Ginn, '13. Both of these men will be in the Ernst Debate.

Whatever the future may be, Deinlogian can always boast of the great men who have formed her membership in the past, and although we lay no claims to prophetic gifts, yet we cannot help but believe and also predict that some of her present members will in the future take the places of these illustrious ones with all due honor to themselves and to Deinlogian.

Football

During the summer vacation former Coach M. Beal Banks tendered his resignation which was accepted with regret. The officials of the Athletic Association immediately got busy and were rewarded for their efforts by securing the services of Charles O'Brien, of Bucknell College, and during the year of 1911-12, assistant coach at the Carlisle Indian School.

The football season of 1912 opened rather inauspiciously. Only four men of last year's eleven returned to college, including Captain Pidgeon, who was unable to play on account of an operation sustained during the summer. This condition of affairs rendered the situation serious, but Coach O'Brien, realizing that he was face to face with a problem, after diligent coaching, soon put a fast, aggressive, but light, team in the field.

"Red" Captain, Halfback

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

The first game was a practice game with Kentucky Military Institute, which resulted in an easy victory. The following game was with Morris-Harvey, of West Virginia. Central was defeated, but was outweighed at least ten pounds to the man. In the game with the University of Chattanooga the Cardinal and Blue retrieved themselves with a well-earned victory.

Next in order were three straight trips which resulted unfortunately. The University of Louisville, on a field with mud above the ankle tops and rain pouring in torrents, succeeded in beating us. Tennessee also caused our downfall, but once more O'Brien's proteges were considerably outweighed. Against Vanderbilt, conceded the best team in the entire Southland, the team made a most excellent showing, even tho they were defeated. The boys fought like tigers from the start to the finish and Vanderbilt was forced to exert itself to claim the victory. The Nashville papers highly complimented the team and its coach.

"Colie" Tackle

"Cupid" Halfback

Returning home the warriors were defeated by Georgetown. The Georgetown team was recognized as being a formidable opponent and the result of the game was awaited with interest. A strange Nemesis seemed to have accompanied the team on its journey to Georgetown and remained with it throughout the affray.

The Thanksgiving game, and the last one of the season, was played with Transylvania. The teams were about evenly matched and the struggle was fierce from beginning to end. The result was a victory for old Centre.

"Joe" Tackle

"Tiny" Center

"Bill" Fullback

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

Bob Tate, at center, was a tower of strength and a terror to every center of opposing elevens. He was a conscientious worker and always in the game.

"Red" Bedinger and Sam Ramsey were the guards. Each of them was a powerful man and could be depended upon to make holes in the opponents' lines.

The tackles, Coleman and Lee, were exceedingly aggressive players, good line plungers and sure tacklers. These men were an impregnable defense and any play called thru them was assured of an opening.

Gardner and Blakey, at the ends, were steady, fast and deadly tacklers. Gardner's superb tackling combined with Blakey's speed rendered these men invaluable.

"Loge" End

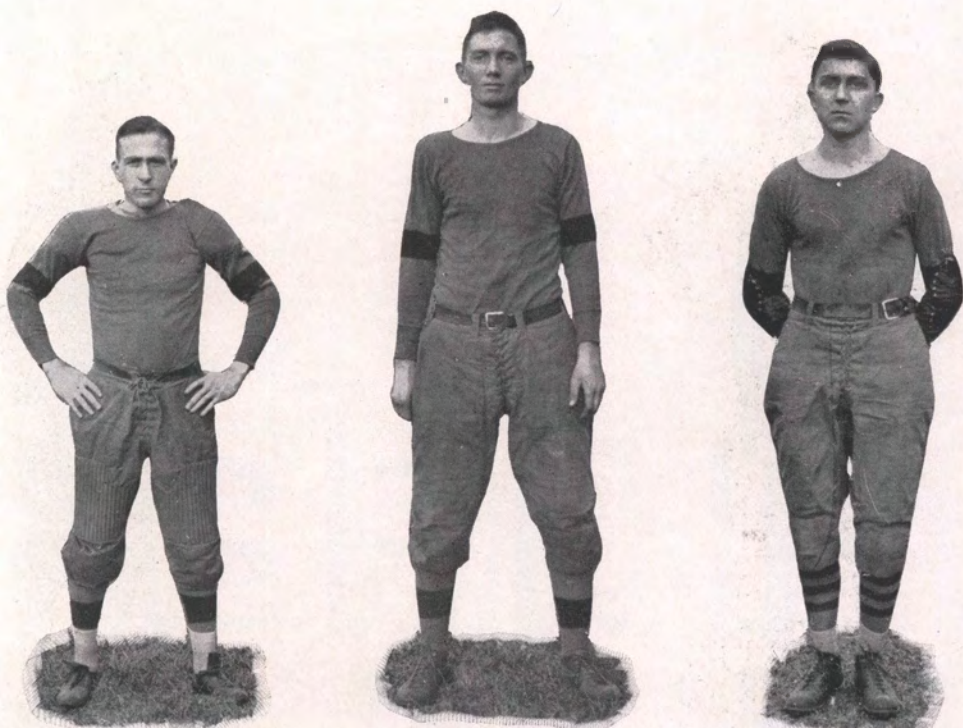

"Pat" End

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

Depending on this strong line were the backs, Clark, Chism, Newman, Polk and "Pat" Ramsey. All of these men were demons at bucking the line, making and breaking interferences. Each was coached and drilled in his position until the back-field was secured. Captain Clark was the mainstay of his team. His running back of punts was wonderful and throughout the season his work was of gilt-edge variety.

At quarter, T. J. Turley played a heady, consistent game. This was his first year in college football, so watch him in years to come.

"Sam" Guard

"Blake" Guard

"Chims" Halfback

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

Eddie Hann, Sam McDowell and Peters deserve credit for the work and services they afforded. Hann played in parts of several games at half. He demonstrated his usefulness and aggressiveness by good line bucking and interference. McDowell and Peters also played in parts of different games. Their work was good and these men should be complimented and praised. All honor and glory to the "Scrubs" who were faithful to the last of the season.

From Captain Hunter Coleman's team of 1913 we expect a string of unbroken victories. With every man returning except Clark and Tate who graduate this June, and with Coach "Pat" O'Brien at the helm, a successful season seems to be assured.

"Bed" Guard

"Turley" Quarter

BASE

BALL

Baseball

Last year the team continued its enviable record and again carried off the laurels as state champions. Only one game was lost to a college team in the state, which is certainly worthy of praise. On the Southern trip three games were lost, but our opponents were among the best college players in the South; and taking this into consideration together with the change of climate and being away from home, the team cannot be criticized for its defeats.

On the All-Kentucky nine Central secured five men, viz.: Coleman, Lassing, Kirk, Low and Tolin. This is indeed a factor which speaks well for the team of 1912.

This year the college was unfortunate, as in football, in not returning many old players. When the first call for practice was issued only one man of the 1912 and one of the 1909 team was on hand. However there was a quantity of good material to be had from the candidates, and prospects, at the time of writing, are favorable for a winning team. The loss of Captain Hunter Coleman, who is unable to play on account of injuries sustained during the football season is keenly felt by the team. "Coly" is infallible in his fielding and a good, dependable hitter.

The men are working valiantly and are rapidly rounding into shape, altho handicapped by cold, rainy weather early in the season. The pitching department is weakened this year by the loss of Bob Low and "Snooze" Tolin, two of the best twirlers in the amateur business, but several promising men are working hard in this department and there is every indication that the mound will be occupied by men of ability.

Here's to the luck of the team of 1913!

WESTERN APPROACH

Track

There is no evading the fact that in the past the proper amount of interest in track work has failed to manifest itself at Central. However, there is every indication that the future will place this branch of athletics on equally as high a plane as baseball or basket ball.

On reviewing the record established by the track team of 1912 it does not impress us as being particularly glorious or brilliant, yet much was accomplished to promote interest in this sport. Two meets were held, one with Berea, the other a five-cornered meet held in Lexington, and participated in by Central, Georgetown, State, Transylvania and Berea. In the former Berea was the victor. In the Lexington meet Central failed to secure second place by only three points, however the team made a very favorable showing.

Fleming, in the half-mile, established the Southern Intercollegiate record, accomplishing the distance in the remarkable time of two minutes and one second.

Carnival

In the closing days of spring, after the chilling winds of the early season have ceased, and before the summer's blistering heat begins to parch the trees; when the flowers of May are spreading their loveliness over all the earth—and in Kentucky particularly—and the gentle breezes are tempered with fragrance and perfumes; when the days are bright and pleasing warm; when the nights are serene and pleasing cool; when jollity and merriment permeate the air, and every thought is teeming with good times—Old Central celebrates her Carnival. Pretty girls are here from everywhere. "Old Fellows" return to enjoy once again a tempting touch of college days, and to cause the cares and routine of daily occupation to fade into forgetfulness—by partaking of that fountain spring of youth—gayety.

Festivities open with a college play, a show of foolishness and fun. First among the causes for offering this performance is to swell the A. A.'s treasury—if "busted" things can be made to swell. Incidentally, theatres are favorable places to get a first glimpse at the visiting ladies, and then, too, the gem and stellar talents of our young amateur actors must not remain buried under the waves of inopportunity or concealed behind the clouds of obscurity.

Now, in the morning of the second day there are tennis tournaments and other things. Afternoon finds the joyous crowds on their way to the field meet where Kentucky's greatest athletes do battle royal and compete for honors. Fair ladies present medals to the conquering heroes, and wreaths of glory crown the victor's brow. It's night and the soft winds gently kiss the moonlit trees. Carriages and autos hurry hither and thither. The golden tongue of music floats out upon the silver night. And in the artistically decorated spacious hall the ball commences as the king and queen, arm in arm, marshal the great grand march. We won't describe the girls and gowns. We can't—nor can description. Until the rosy-fingered dawn shines forth, the dancers whirl on in their joyful rounds.

The third and last day passes on 'till noon with nothing on the programme—save sleep. At 2 P. M. the bugle blasts summon the parade to start. The band strikes up "Old Central marches ever on," and all along the way cheers and applauses resound. Magnificently designed and decorated rigs, pony carts, prancing horses, "honking" autos, and lastly the queen's float pass before the reviewing throng, out across the little city and back to the athletic grounds. And now there's a fast, good game of baseball, which ends, of course, with Central champions, and the Cardinal and Blue waving wildly amid the cheers.

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

At eight there comes a "sound of revelry by night." The illumined campus presents a merry scene, where the confusion of "tickled" tongues and mingling multitudinous mirth drowns out the music of the bands. Confetti, whistles, slappers, horns, etc., are in the air, upon your head and across your face. Young and old exchange blows. Students fight their "Profs." College boys and Caldwell girls pass the love licks 'round and everybody laughs and jokes and fights, then laughs again. But look! The king and queen are being crowned. All eyes are turned toward the float where the royal ceremony is being administered. The laurel wreaths adorn their heads. They descend and then there's shouts and cheers, more fun and noise and joy. The confetti's all sold out, the crowd disperses and "the tumult and the shouting die."

Something New Under the Sun

When Freshmen aren't "green."
 When Sophomores aren't "mean."
 When Juniors aren't glorified.
 When Seniors aren't dignified.
 When our poor old A. A.
 Has no debts to pay.
 When men who make "letters"
 Get those long promised sweaters.
 When our air castles grow dim,
 For behold! The new Gym!
 When "Smiley's" grins cease
 And his long strides decrease.
 When in lecture or talk
 Charley Crooks don't bite chalk.
 When our "Prexy the Great"
 Attends chapel twice straight.
 When Phlippen's phraseology
 Omits its tautology;
 And his gesticulations
 Show some innovations.
 When the time can be named
 That "Sammy's" lectures are changed;
 Or the courses he offers
 Aren't those he taught fathers.
 When "Johnny" says the dish
 Of the Greek gods was fish.

When he doesn't "poke fun"
 At the boy chewing gum.
 When "Deutsch Peter" can make
 The Freshmen stay 'wake.
 When he quits driving "Frankie,"
 His horse long and lanky.
 When a man in "Doc's" class
 That subject don't pass;
 And the same Doctor's jokes
 True laughter provokes.
 When Thomas' puns take.
 When he don't reiterate,
 During tests which come frequently,
 "Race on!" "Saw wood rapidly!"
 When the Prof. we call "Hick"
 Of chemistry grows sick,
 Or gives notification
 That there'll be no recitation.
 When politics in college
 Show discretion and knowledge;
 And the frats all unite
 Their hands, and don't fight.
 When the "Cardinal and Blue"
 Prints a thing that's not true,
 Or means anything bad
 That it's said about you.

ABOUT THE CAMPUS

Before and After

At midnight on his humble couch,
 '16 lay dreaming of that day
 When he should wade thru Sophomore blood,
 And bear their tattered flag away,

He sees them fall beneath his blows,
 The leader in that bloody fight,
 Defending with his life his flag,
 Thru all the perils of the night.

The Sophs subdued beneath his power,
 All lying there securely bound;
 While '16's flag triumphant waves,—
 He sees himself a hero crowned.

In dreams all the rocks in our way disappear,
 And the world wears a smile and there's nowhere a tear.
 The veriest slave in his dream wears a crown,
 And the huts of the serf in fair visions abound,

From the stern path of life we may all turn aside,
 In the fair realms of dreamland a time to abide:
 I charge thee, then Sophomore, thy rudeness forbear.
 I charge thee disturb not my slumbering fair.

But one thing about dreams is—and this is the worst—
 That our visions of glory like bubbles will burst.
 No sooner '16 saw that wreath on his head,
 Than he woke up to find himself strapped to the bed.

While over his body there sat here and there
 A Sophomore—in vain at his hands did he tear.
 And like ice in July (on a hot summer day),
 All his visions of splendor had melted away.

In a wagon they bundled him, tied foot and hand,
 To the "Sig" Hall they went at the Soph's stern command;
 Thru the long hours of night while the cops snored away,
 He lay in his chains till just break of day.

Then his bonds were cast off and once more he was free,
 But the battle (?) was o'er 'round the old flag-rush tree;
 So arrayed in pajamas he wended his way,
 To his room out in Breck where he slept thru the day.

No more at midnight on his couch,
 Does he lay dreaming of that hour,
 When Sophs, their knees in suppliance bent,
 Shall tremble at his power.

Second Stude: "O yes, he's always with Mis-Fortune."

"Well, what's new, you know?"

"Don't ask me. I've been in Danville since Christmas."

"We should worry a heap"——

And build a gym.

Prof.: "Why did Hannibal cross the Alps?"

Dyer: "The same reason the chicken had for crossing the road. You can't fool a fly!"

Dr. Thomas: "Mr. Pritchard, what part of Milton did you enjoy most?"

Pritch: "The part I didn't read."

"And now sah, what did the gods eat?"

"Why, er—er—fish, 'fessor!"

"Well, sah, you may leave the class."

Dr. Thomas: "Are Longfellow's works humorous?"

Peters: "No, sir; 'Brevity is the soul of wit.'"

(Exit, groaning.)

"Well, is C. B. Jones making good at Central?"

"He ought to. He's an all round fellow, any way you look at him."

Tubby Mahan (greenly): "Dr. Smiley, can you tell me where Dr. Hick is at?"

(Hopper appears at orchestra practice without his horn) John Price (excitedly):

"How can you toot a toot-toot when you have no toot-toot to toot?"

"It is interesting to note, to all intents and purposes, that for various and sundry causes, the rank and file of the great common people deem it highly important, as well as necessary and proper, in order to pave the way—that we should familiarize ourselves with the sum and substance of these main points, in view of the fact that these expressions are dove-tailed into one another."

P. S. FLIPPEN.

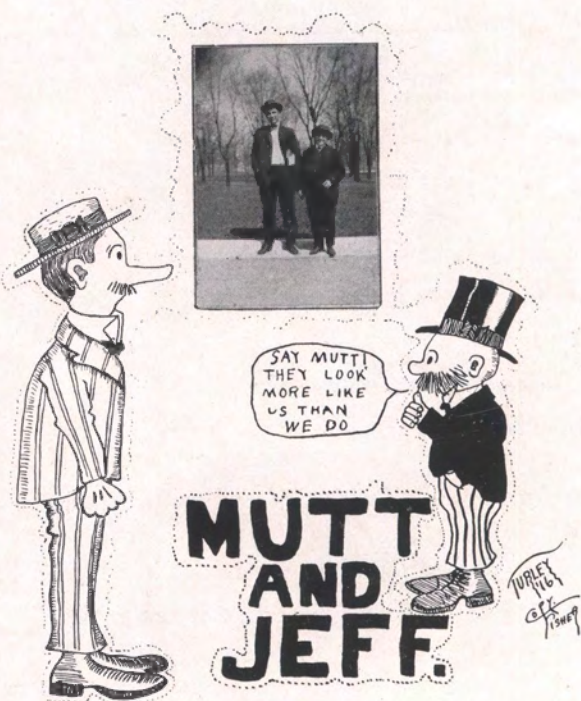

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

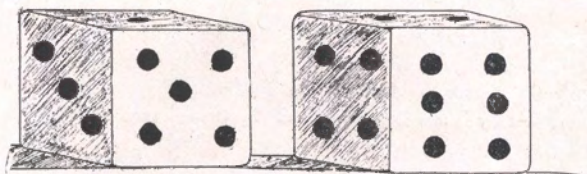

At a Freshman test in French six questions were put on the board, four of which were underscored. "Answer only four of the six," Doctor Claassen instructed the class, "but do not omit any of the underscored ones."

Raworth in Greek "Lit": "Professor, isn't the fact that Ægyptus had fifty sons, and his brother, Daunus, fifty daughters, quite a coincidence?"

Coach O'Brien, talking to Polk between halves: "Please, Cupid, advance into the opposition with just a tiny bit more momentum. Be cautious, tho, and don't injure yourself. And be careful not to let your wrath get away with you."

He was the mildest, mannered man! !

Red Letter Days 1912-13

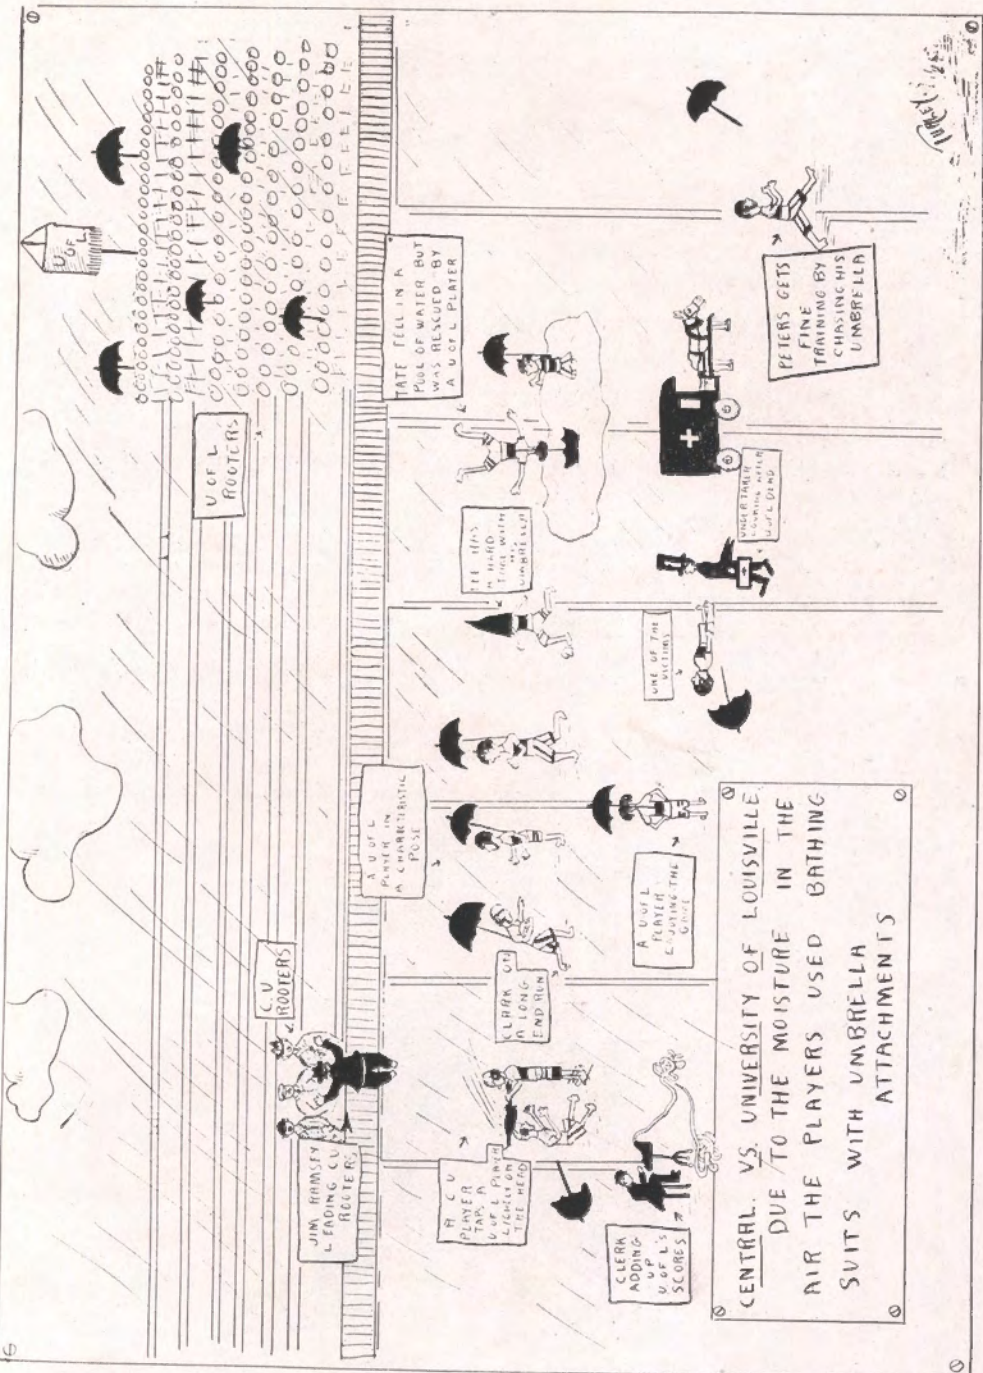

SEPTEMBER

- 11—The creakings of the hinges on the massive Main Building doors formally announced the opening of college. There is absolutely no truth in the report that extra coaches were used by the railroad companies to convey the droves of students to Danville. Where is the new gym?
- 12—Dr. P. A. Claassen, head of the Department of Modern Languages, arrives at Danville depot in a box-car with a Jersey cow, equinal elephant, Berkshire hog, Narragansett turkey gobbler and a guinea pig.
- 13—Dr. Thomas is recognized by a few students. Did the cat get the mustache?
- 14—The Sophomores make lasting impressions on the Freshmen.
Cloyd displays good form at the love-making stunt.
- 15—Everybody goes to church except Joe Hopper and Benika.
- 16—Y. M. C. A. Handbooks distributed among the students. "Central the only non-educational institution in Kentucky." For the benefit of the Freshmen it may be said that "non-coeducational" was intended.
- 17—Fellows who started out for football are able to be up and around again.
- 18—Rivalry for Coach O'Brien has begun among Danville's fair sex. One calls him the "essence of clover." No, Agnes, Mr. O'Brien is not engaged.
- 19—"Rooster" Van Zant discovers that Dr. Hinit is president of the college. He previously thought that Prof. Crooks was the high mogul.
- 20—Y. M. C. A. reception at Caldwell. The belles are given a thorough trial.
- 21—Dance in the Sigma Chi Hall.
- 23—Nothing doing. We should experience disquietude.
- 24—Hot and dusty.
- 25—First meeting of the Y. M. C. A. at Chapel hour. Guerrant led the singing, but otherwise the meeting was a success.
- 26—The Freshman Class, feeling need of organization for self-protection, hold an election of officers.
- 27—First issue of the Cento. Y. W. C. A. reception at Caldwell. It is reported that some of the girls actually talked.
- 30—Sam McDowell gets a shave, shampoo, hair-cut, takes a bath, calls on a girl, and then reads "Love's Labor Lost."
- 31—"Christy Mathewson" Ralston enters college. Say, boy, is there anything you can't do?

OCTOBER.

- 1—Ye Rounde Table, the organization with humanistic and scholarly propensities, holds its first meeting.

19 ♦ CARDINAL AND BLUE ♦ 13

- 2—Coach tells us all about Jim Thorpe at the Y. M. C. A.
- 3—"Tubby" Mahan calls Dr. Clark, "Dr. Hickory Nutt."
- 5—C. U. 12, K. M. I. O. Mr. Lowell, the usual big noise in the grandstand.
- 7—Sam Ramsey chosen cheer leader. You have our most heartfelt sympathy, Sam.
- 9—Bedinger attends Y. M. C. A. Something is going to happen. Maybe the gymnasium will be built after all.
- 10—Gardner and Pat Ramsey report to football practice on time. They must have started dressing before dinner.
- 11—Annual staff is chosen.
- 12—Morris-Harvey 53, C. U. 7. Ouch! As the hare runs from the hound, so runneth Gardner for that touchdown.
- 14—Guerrant and Dyer go to Lexington. Guerrant on his return two days later reports a fine time.
- 15—Teddy Roosevelt shot. Swope has nervous fits. The orchestra gives a dance at the "Pavilion" and realizes thirty cents per man.
- 16—The Seniors finally have a class meeting. They decided for various and sundry reasons to begin studying.
- 17—C. U. 6, University of Louisville 23. Notwithstanding the defeat, the students show the right spirit and give the team a royal reception on its return.
- 18—No football practice as Coach is still sight-seeing in Louisville. Needless to say, everyone was disappointed—not.
- 19—State 19, Cincinnati 13.
- 20—Somebody tried out the water hose at Breck and gives a part of the building a good drenching.
- 21—Sam Ramsey, by virtue of having the biggest voice, is elected president of that Sophomore Class.
- 22—Coach O'Brien plays with the scrubs and makes several touchdowns against the Varsity.
- 23—Mr. C. A. Dyer, of Corsicana, Texas, hands out the weekly dope at the Y. M. C. A.
- 24—Dr. Claassen makes the startling statement that he will put a stop to all future football trips.
- 25—Reception at the First Presbyterian Church. Sweets obtains a bad opinion of the leap-year entertainments. That's all right, Billy, just wait till you get your growth.
- 26—C. U. 7, University of Chattanooga 6. A night-shirt parade is the expression of the students' glee.
- 27—Dyer and Wiseman return from Taft barbecue. Wiseman reports that Republicans have every element of former strength, as everyone seems to have their old capacity for drink.
- 28—Jim Mahan downs a fugitive from the law. Application has been made for a Carnegie medal.
- 29—Board walks torn up from Breck to Science Hall.
- 30—Freshmen profiles are taken for sign-boards by the Sophs.
- 31—Hallowe'en party at S. A. E. House.

NOVEMBER.

- 1—Swope speaks at court house. Large crowd of negroes and McClaskey in attendance.
- 2—C. U. 0, University of Tennessee 66. Oh, physician, apply the paracamph!

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

- 4—"Johnny" pays Peck a visit and makes an inventory of all the students in the house.
- 5—The rooster crows because the people Woodrow Wilson. A trite pun, I dare say. Dr. Claassen leaves for Cincinnati for eye treatment.
- 6—Reports of Richmond Y. M. C. A. Convention. A significant point is that Guerrant and Cotton were stationed at a girls' dormitory.
- 7—C. U. 13, K. S. D. 7. All hail to thee, Victory!
- 8—A false-face and mistaken identity party at Caldwell.
- 9—Harvard 9, Vandy 3. Fine anticipations for next Saturday's game.
- 11—Prof. Alexander Todd teaches the first-year French class. The class enjoys target practice with chalk. Aleck's head is taken for a bull's-eye.
- 13—Jesse invents combination cream separator and onion planter in the Physics Laboratory.
- 14—Cox reported not to have been studying last night as late as one o'clock. But all attempts at verification have proven fruitless.
- 15—College Orchestra gives a dance at the Sigma Chi Hall. The barnyard dances are given serious consideration.
- 16—Vanderbilt 23, Central 0. "Central gained more ground against Vanderbilt than did Harvard."
—Nashville "Banner."
- 17—Prayers for the football team cease.
- 20—Arrangement made amid vociferous uproars of the holiday in honor of the Georgetown game.
- 21—C. U. 13, Georgetown 34. We should worry.
- 22—Pinafore at Caldwell. Boggs, Price, Cheek and Hopper warble. Isn't Hopper the funny kid?
- 23—State kicked out of S. I. A. A.
- 24—And it snowed for the first time.
- 25—The entire college shocked and saddened to hear of the death of our fellow-student, Gabe Walker. Students attend funeral in a body.
- 26—A revolving camera is turned on the student body. Cheek, Norris and C. McDowell think so well of their beauty that they appear at both ends of the picture. Later: Photographer reports shock too great and picture ruined.
- 28—Turkey Day. Cranberries at the bat, plum pudding on deck and black cake in the hole. C. U. 13, T. U. 7.
- Nov. 29 to Dec. 1—Holidays.

Nov. 28TH

DECEMBER.

- 2—Peters tells of his Thanksgiving at home. Anticipation is turkey; realization is hog's head.
- 4—Mr. Blaine speaks at Y. M. C. A.
- 5—Pat Ramsey under the spell of a mental hallucination stumbles into an open grating on the street and inflicts bodily harm. Don't worry, girls, for like a cat, he has nine lives.
- 6—Basket ball practice begins.
- 7—Open house at Breck.
- 9—Dr. Hamilton at Y. M. C. A. A good bunch of jokes, Doc. And don't forget the pianist.

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

- 11—Fire in Science Hall looked threatening for a while, but Cox, Ralston and Norris are the heroic extinguishing agents. The glass door at the entrance felt rather strongly the impact of Ralston's foot.
- 13—Wahps 6, Cherokees 4.
- 14—Football picture taken. Bedinger's absence makes same possible. Coleman elected next year's captain.
- 16—Miss Nielsen, the singer, at Caldwell. Charles McDowell wears combination dress suit and combed head.
- 19—College closes for vacation and the students make tracks for home, sweet home.
- Dec. 19 to Jan 3—All the dear ones are welcomed home with open arms, and affection and gifts are exchanged.

JANUARY

- 3—Six students return to college on time. Hint to Faculty: never begin college on Friday.
- 4—T. J. Turley blows into town and hears some distressing news. Don't you wish you had those three plunks back, T. J.?
- 6—Sigs give another enjoyable dance. Cad Dyer is reported to have danced with his feet.
- 7—Manager Raworth makes a vigorous appeal in chapel for basket ball tickets.
- 8—Dr. Hinitt entertains Ye Rounde Table.
- 9—Dr. Claassen tells a joke with a point.
- 10—Heavy blasting in brick yard back of campus during chapel. Sammy and Prexy, thinking the McNamaras are at work in the cellar of the Main Building, rush frantically to make an investigation.
- 13—Dr. Thomas entertains his Sunday-school class.
- 14—Boom! Caldwell gets $50,000. Hereafter, "Kentucky College for Women," if you please.
- 15—Dr. Claassen comes to chapel.
- 16—Allen tells a reasonable lie.
- 17—C. U. 66, T. U. 14. Blakey couldn't play at all—gnit.
- 18—To all intents and purposes, Dr. Flippin has cultivated a humorous strain and calls forth laugh from Tom Pritchard.
- 19—Ginn goes to Sunday-school.
- 20—Salmon begins studying for the semester examinations.
- 21—Deinologian elections.

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

- 23—Harry Raworth ejected from Greek Literature class by Prof. J. W. Redd. "Get out here, sah."
 24—Louisville Y. M. C. A. 52, C. U. 24. Thanks for the treat after the game. The "Raxy Rue" Hop Club gives dance at Gilcher Hotel.
 25—Greeks 32, Bulgarians 9. Montenegros 18, Servians 16. The Abyssinians and Luxemburgers did not play.
 26—Dr. Hinitz preaches at the Second Church.
 27—Those pesky exams begin. Guerrant, Craig and Pidgeon elected managers of football, baseball and track teams.
 28—More exams. Freshmen get first real taste of college life.
 30—A party at the Eu-Lee house. Very crafty.
 31—Cal Smith closes up. His trade, consisting of Rue, Cheek and Craig, will hereafter give exhibitions at Peck's.

FEBRUARY.

- 1—Montniggers 44, Bulgarians 6, Greeks 31, Servians 8. For translation, see Dr. Thomas.
 2—Temperance meeting at Second Presbyterian Church.
 3—Second semester begins. C. U. 31, T. U. 22. Ganz, the reputed pianist, employed his index fingers for the scheduled numbers and fist for the encores at a recital at K. C. W. Notwithstanding, Gilcher pronounced him a success.
 4—Boyle County Alumni hold banquet at College Home. Ginn presents the trials of the football manager.
 5—C. U. 32, Georgetown 27.
 6—Dr. Kerr speaks at Chapel.
 8—C. U. 43, Alumni 20. The game is delayed every two minutes to allow the old grads to inject a little ozone into their systems.
 9—College Home Hash House makes an assignment. That ravenous appetite of Joe Hopper's forced the concern to the wall.
 10—Seniors order caps and gowns. Raworth inquires if they are to be used for Commencement exercises.
 11—College Thespians seen in the "Doctor" at the Opera House. Rogers' foot comes in close proximity with the ceiling during the kicking performance, while Jimmy Dyer once violated the commands not to sing. This almost broke up the show.
 12—Junior Class holds elections. Oligarchy changes to democracy.

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

- 13—C. U. 49, T. U. 21.
 14—Wahps 6, Cherokees 15.
 15—Norris out of town. Hence the streets are devoid of girls.
 17—C. U. 26, Georgetown 27. Petrified luck.
 18—C. U. 34, University of Tennessee 35. About the limit for misfortune, don't you think?
 19—Cassady fails to take the Freshman Class picture as prearranged. The bird stand which plays the role of attention detractor was broken.
 20—Salmon gives musical concert before chapel. Wiseman makes a futile effort to start the flag-rush.
 21—C. U. 24, Louisville Y. M. C. A. 85. Three scorers kept busy. Big dance at Gilcher Hotel.
 22—Oratorical honors go to Hopper and Ginn.
 23—Cad Dyer found basking in the sun against a water plug on Main street completely in the arms of Morpheus.
 24—Dr. Claassen disputes Dick Wood's claim to citizenship. Exit Richard.
 25—Moose moving picture show opened. College orchestra furnished the melodies.
 26—Turner cuts two classes.
 28—(Rev.) Joe Hopper addresses Y. M. C. A.
 29—Chronologists tell us there ain't no such day this year.

MARCH:

- 1—C. U. 38, Miami 30. Dance in Sig Hall for visiting men.
 2—Just Sunday. Most of the fellows spend the day in peaceful snoozing.
 3—Miss Margaret Hann is unanimously elected Queen of the Carnival. Second Pres. 48, Baptists 21. First Pres. 26, Christians 11.
 4—Various criminative evidence disclosed which is derogatory to the character of Barnett Guerrant. Hereafter the cognomen "Pearl" is applied.
 5—Five new men are put through a grueling initiation at Ye Rounde Table as Tate reads a paper.
 6—College is still running in spite of the change in the National Administration.
 7—Basket ball championship is lost to Georgetown by the score of 33 to 26.
 8—The games in the "Dr. Thomas Basket ball League" were wonderfully and desperately contested.
 9—Dan Jones draws a full house at the Philips'.
 10—Faculty discuss the groanings in the Freshman German class which Dr. Claassen maintains are gastronomical.

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

- 11—Joe Lee hesitates in removing his lid at chapel. The ivories are publicly tickled at K. C. W.
- 12—Baseball practice begins. Kocian propels a wicked bow (plays the violin) at K. C. W.
- 13—Freshmen have class meeting. An evil omen, sah.
- 14—Sophomores say they win the flag-rush. They are quite adept in the use of the rope.
- 15—Prexy and Johnny pry about in the wreck of the gym. Players in the Sunday-school League take a pugilistic attitude. Jim Mahan the recipient of a Hann-made punch.
- 17—Ginn eats breakfast. Incredible, but Hopper is the authority. Also St. Patrick's Day. None like the Irish. Eh, O'Brien?
- 18—The young ladies from our sister institution are down town. There's a reason. Post 'em.
- 19—Ralphanso Gilchah alters the position of the piano in chapel so that the student body might get a better squint at his facial contortions while playing "Holy, Holy, Holy!"
- 20—Quite a conflagration on Broadway. Wahps 12, Cherokees 16.
- 21—Big dance at Peoples' Warehouse. Everybody twines. Joe Lee takes the gas treatment. He denies suicidal intentions.
- 22—The holiday petition is granted.
- 23—Dr. Hinitit preaches at the Methodist Church on "David Livingstone." "Billy" Stout leaves at the expiration of an hour and a half.
- 24—Resolution passed by Athletic Association to give control of athletics over to Faculty. Good.
- 25—Windstorm uproots several of our campus trees. Harry Raworth in all seriousness favors the enactment of a law to prevent the wind from blowing down trees. Dr. Hinitit gives enjoyable party.
- 26—And still it rains. A plan is proposed to immerse "Smiley" in the large lake in front of Science Hall. It is later abandoned because of Tom Pritchard's unwillingness to participate.
- 27—Dr. Rainey conducts chapel. You read a good prayer, Doc.
- 28—Deinlogians win Ernst Debate. Swope, Hopper and Guerrant cop the prizes.
- 29—Sure sign of spring. "Johnny" engaged in spring gardening and ignominiously neglects his classes. C. U. 6, K. S. D. 4. Polk tries to rattle Dummies with incessant chatter.
- 30—All the girls sport their new Easter lids.
- 31—Mutt and Jeff picture taken for Annual.

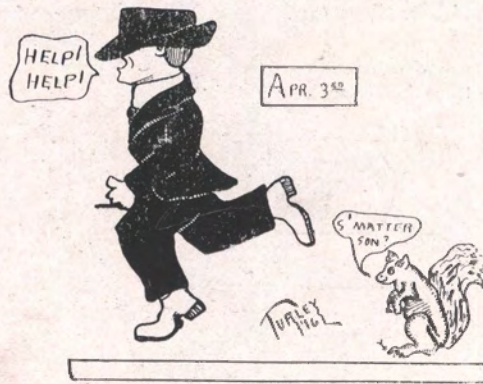

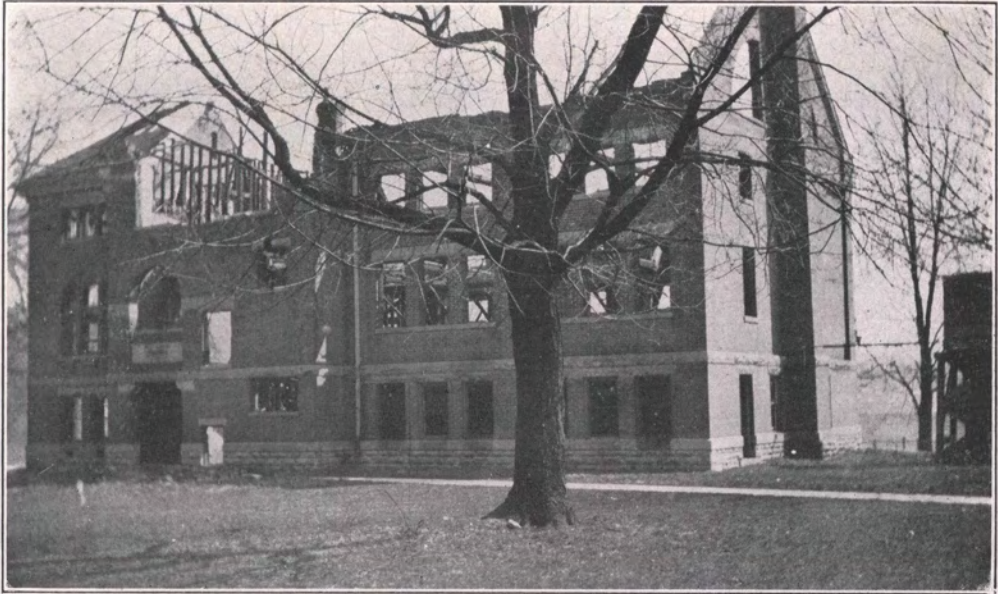

APRIL.

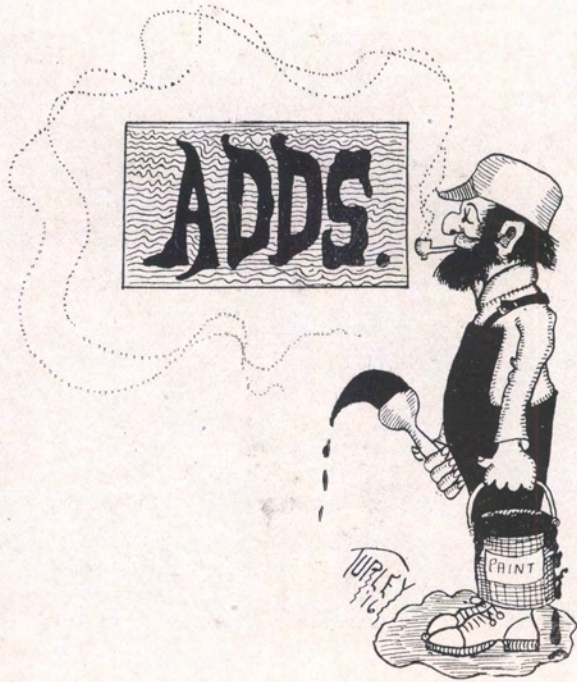

- 1—Johnny and Charley sing a duet with absolutely no outside interferences. All of Dr. Claassen's classes play a joke on him and study their lessons.
- 2—Prexy leaves the city supposedly in quest of money despite J. P. Morgan's death.
- 3—Mad squirrel attacks "Mouse-ear" Todd on the campus. Aleck, why so closely resemble a nut? Peradventure a Quail?
- 4—Dr. Rainey dismisses all his classes.

19 CARDINAL AND BLUE 13

- 5—Spring vacation begins. Pepper says Peck's pool tables are fully as good as those at Paris, and hence he sees no necessity of returning home.
- 6—Brownlow's whisperings on the back seat at church are distinctly heard by "Sargon" in the pulpit. A rebuke elicited.
- 7—Dr. Thomas foots it in from Lebanon to Danville. He reports delightful entertainment over night by the Gravel Switch Commercial Club.
- 9—Back to books again. Daniel Beddoe, the tenor, at K. C. W. Quite a full voice.
- 10—Dr. Claassen holds a musical recitation in French class. Brownlow sings, but no other calamities have been reported.
- 11—C. U. 14, High School 1. A promenading demonstration at the Women's College. Rink opens up. The dust was quite frequent.
- 12—Dr. Flippin shows anger for the first time this year. A few of the history class took the impromptu test.
- 13—The contents of some of the professors' rooms slightly disarranged. A malicious deed.
- 14—"Cycle" Dyer, a member of an automobile trip to Nicholasville. Ardery takes a moonlight drive to Dix River.
- 16—More Sunday-school athletics. First Pres. 14, Second Pres. 4. The winners will probably challenge Kentucky State.
- 17—Pidgeon is forced to fly from the bushy rodent on the campus.
- 18—C. U. 14, T. U. 4. A rather propitious beginning.
- 19—Rax Rue asks Dr. Hinitt if the philosophical term "world-ground" was the same as the ground on Turner's Court.
- 21—All Annual material sent to the printer. The entire Editorial Staff contemplates a two-day sleep for recuperative purposes.
