

They play a song called "Open Curtain" to let the bride go sit with the groom. It takes about half an hour or one hour before the bride comes out of the room.

Strings are tied on the couple's wrists by the guests and some people splash water on the bride and groom's hands for good luck.

Then a little hair of the bride and groom is cut, it's only a little bit of hair. Some perfume is put on their heads.

The groom leads a parade walking around the block to the bride's house. People carry food behind him walking to the bride's house.

When they finish the ~~party~~ ceremony then they go to a restaurant. Everyone dances in the restaurant and ~~the~~ money by people is donated to them.

Then the bride and groom give their money to the bride's parents, and they help clean up the house when they finish the marriage ceremony.
