

When I first saw a telephone. I didn't know how to use it. When the telephone rang I was frightened. Someone picked the telephone up and said "hello". Then the woman showed me how to use the telephone.

In Cambodia people don't have telephones. They have to walk to someone's house to talk to them even if they live far away. I'm glad that in United States I got a telephone, because it is easy to get in touch with other people, even all over the world. When I came to United State. I didn't have any friends. I felt lonely. When I went to the park I saw a lot of Americans playing. But I didn't understand what they were saying. I wanted to make new friends here in America but I didn't know how to speak English, I felt lonely. When I spoke English better I was happy. And I have made some American friends. I hope I can make more new friends.

in the United States.

When I was in my country I had a lot of friends. I talked and played with my friends a lot. But I was never lonely. In the United States I feel free and very happy.
