The Honorable James R. Jones
U. S. House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed is a copy of a letter I have sent to President Nixon in support of him and his programs.

It is my feeling that Congress must regain its sanity at the earliest possible time and get on with the running of our government.

If Mr. Nixon is guilty, he should certainly be punished. If not, however, it is most unfair to our nation for Congress to spend its time making false accusations and losing the much needed momentum. I highly recommend that Watergate be turned completely to the courts and the proper action be taken once a decision has been reached.

Sincerely yours,

Frank E. Cochran

Mr. Richard M. Nixon
The President
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

It appears to me that Congress has lost its sanity. I wholeheartedly support you and your programs for peace, the end of the inflationary spiral, detent with Russia, and the many great programs you have been conducting for the benefit of our great nation. I urge you not to resign under any conditions.

It seems to me it is time for our government to resume handling the problems facing the nation. I have great confidence you have committed no wrongs against the people of the United States and believe that our court system should determine this as early as possible.

My best wishes for a successful administration.

Sincerely yours,

Frank E. Cochran

Dear Mr. Cochran:

Your letter arrived while Congressman Jones is out of the country. As you may know, Mr. Jones was appointed to a special subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee to gather facts about the Middle East with which to report back to the House of Representatives. The Congressman is presently in Egypt and Israel.

I am taking the liberty of acknowledging receipt of your letter, and I will bring your correspondence to Congressman Jones' personal attention immediately upon his return to the United States in late November.

Sincerely yours,

Stephen Kaplan
