WASHINGTON, D.C.

Dear Mr. Congressman,

I have a few suggestions. I know you get a lot of them. But I would like to tell my side.

On regard to to impeachment. I don't know if he is guilty or not. Or if he is proving it might be different. I don't think he is telling us all the truth. But stay with him no matter ~~ok~~ how long it takes.

On the ~~Health~~ health bill. Study it close. I think Ted Kennedy's bill sounds the best. But maybe I don't understand it right.

about daylight saving. I think 3 months are enough. That would be during peoples vacations.
Yours truly. Ivan Cornwell

Dear Mr. Cornwall:

Thank you very much for communicating with me concerning your opinions on the question of impeachment.

After several resolutions of impeachment were introduced last year, the House Judiciary Committee was assigned the responsibility of investigating the facts to determine whether there was evidence to personally implicate the President in an impeachable offense.

A staff was assembled in December to begin this study. It is expected that the Judiciary Committee staff investigation will be completed sometime in April. At that time, the evidence will be presented and a vote taken to determine whether impeachment proceedings should begin or be dropped.

Most House Members, including myself, believe that we should keep an open mind and decide on the basis of the legal evidence which is presented later in the spring.

In the meantime, Congress has a full agenda of important business in the areas of energy, the economy, and other domestic legislation which will occupy my work and attention.

I do appreciate your taking the time to share your views with me, and I will keep these in mind at such time as I am called upon to decide on this issue.

With best wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

JAMES R. JONES
