JAMES R. JONES, M.C.
WASHINGTON, D.C.

Senator Henry Bellmon
Senator Dewey F. Bartlett
Congressman Jim Jones

Gentlemen:

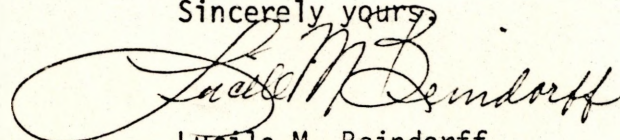

I hope you will use your influence to get our governing bodies in Washington back to governing. This has been neglected while subversive elements in our government are wasting millions in taxpayers money on inconsequential matters such as Watergate, improper tax allowances (maybe), the plumbers, and a bunch of other doings which should never have been allowed to take up more than a week's time in the first place.

It is most unfortunate that the subversives, and good citizens of America who are unable to think for themselves, always have the time and the loudest voices to constantly be heard, while loyal red-white-and blues who have their heads screwed on straight are too busy making a living supporting themselves and the subversives and the waste in government spending on such matters as Watergate and whether Mr. Nixon's tax deductions were correct, to be constantly fighting to preserve our still free country.

Please - ~~let's get off of Mr. Nixon's back.~~ Everyone I know still thinks he is the best qualified man around for running our country.

And on another subject, can anything be done about the un-American murals paid for by American dollars which do not belong anywhere in the United States, and certainly not suitable for our centennial twice removed (I do not know what a 200 year old celebration is called). I have a good suggestion - remove the obnoxious material, and don't pay for the artistic talent involved in making it.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Ms. Beindorff:

Thank you very much for communicating with me concerning your opinions on the question of impeachment.

After several resolutions of impeachment were introduced last year, the House Judiciary Committee was assigned the responsibility of investigating the facts to determine whether there was evidence to personally implicate the President in an impeachable offense.

A staff was assembled in December to begin this study. It is expected that the Judiciary Committee staff investigation will be completed sometime in April. At that time, the evidence will be presented and a vote taken to determine whether impeachment proceedings should begin or be dropped.

Most House Members, including myself, believe that we should keep an open mind and decide on the basis of the legal evidence which is presented later in the spring.

In the meantime, Congress has a full agenda of important business in the areas of energy, the economy, and other domestic legislation which will occupy my work and attention.

I do appreciate your taking the time to share your views with me, and I will keep these in mind at such time as I am called upon to decide on this issue.

With best wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

JAMES R. JONES
Member of Congress
